Some say love is blind . And sometimes I guess extreme like the title says. Good luck to you all. I know of a famous couple who got married with a greater age gap and had two healthy children. Tony Randal at the age of seventy or eighty years old married a woman who I think was twenty. They had a healthy girl and boy. Who are just about grown by now. Again good luck and best wishes. I honestly don't see the problem with this. If both people are adults, the age gap is none but their own business. Sure, there will likely be issues caused by the age gap, but come on - no relationship is "perfect".	Age	Age - General	2/41	4.878

I've commented on this video before, but I would just love to restate... I do like older men. I'm 24 and all I want is an older man. I don't know why, but ever since I was a child I knew I liked people that were older than me. I just cannot stand people my age . It's like, I feel like they're children and they haven't grown up or something and any experience I've ever had with someone my age just didnt turn out right or messed me up somehow. If I could find someone who is like 40+yo and had my same interests and loved me the way I should be, then where's the negative?? Everyone in my family knows I like older people so it wouldn't be a suprise. And it's not weird either. I'm not in it for money or whatever other people think a 24 year old girl would want from a 50 year old man... I just want a normal relationship!... with someone older. Is it weird ??? Did this comment get too personal?? Hahahaha oh well. Hit me up, y'all! (Also, no supposed "daddy issues" either. I have a great dad who is alive and well and hard working. So, I don't believe in that thing for me. Just a preference.)	Age, Old, Weird	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	6/216	2.778

I related so much to this video as someone who spent years dating someone 31 years old my senior (I was 22; he was 53).I'm now a few years more mature and reconsidering whether it makes sense to be w someone so much older for some of these same, very practical reasons.It is true that as we (the younger party) may be aging gracefully or even in reverse (depending on your genes!), the older party can look dramatically older in just a few years. And then your actual love is tested – what may have once felt 'hot and experimental' is now...OK this person is clearly aging and they look their age . You, the younger party, could meanwhile be w totally age -appropriate people who don't look like this.And who won't be as complicated to be with (beyond looks – plain life planning), either. Is this what you really want?All fascinating questions.Also, her anxiety around not wanting to hold hands in public or concerned about what it may 'look like' in public = totally understandable. Age is simply a number that states how many years you have been on this earth... What does love have to do with age ?It's a wonderful emotion - a good feeling.. And love is the glue that keeps people together...	Age	Age - General	2/41	4.878
My age 21	Age	Age - General	1/3	33.333
I think this is a beautiful loving relationship. AGE is a number, AGE is nothing but a number, it's about maturity and about the person you are and how well you handle different situations in life. They seem EXTREMELY happy and that is ALL that counts. He treats her like a queen, and she treats him just as well, and there is nothing wrong with that! No one FORCED her to be in this marriage, no one forced him, it was LOVE and I am happy for them. it's better than being in an abusive relationship, or a relationship that fails... as long as they are happy! It's sad to read the negative comments because people are so quick to judge before really looking at this relationship for what it truly is. I think its a beautiful relationship and I wish them nothing but happiness!	Age, Nothing	Age - General, Age - Youngsters	5/145	3.448
Love is a natural emotion. Love is also blind . Numbers, opinions and laws are just thoughts instilled into humans since birth. Basically the majority are just following someone else's ideas regarding existence. Everything is a choice and nobody is right or wrong. Let them live and flourish. If you mind your own business no problems will arise. After all we're all going to die anyway.	Blind, Nobody	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/65	3.077

You do realize she is younger than Larry's own son. Whom he hadn't spoken to until they announced that they wanted a baby. Nobody is saying she's a gold digger, but how would you feel if your father married a woman younger than you? And then mention that they want to have a child together. PLEASE READ!!!! ONLY CHILD OF FATHER 25 YRS. OLDER THAN MY MOTHER.Please do your due diligence before making a firm decision on proceation. Growing up a child born to parents with a large age gap alienates the child. Not only will the child notice that other parents of kids his/her age do not have an age gap, but the child will be incessantly questioned, ridiculed, bullied etc. by peers.Mindy, have you thoroughly brainstormed possible future outcomes?!? Most of my elementary school years were spent in and out of hospitals because of my father's advancing age . (Severe neck injury, pancreatic cancer, and others) Yoy will be young, your child will be younger, Larry will continue to age , lose energy, vitality, and capabilities. My mother ended up parenting amd taking care of her aging husband. Sex became an issue between my parents. My father was not able physically to satisfy my mother sexually decades before she was done enjoying and having sexual gratification in her life.I hope you can make inferences about how all of this will impact the child's quality of life in addition to the afore mentioned.I believe if the two of you are happy, be happy. Think strongly before adding an addition to your happiness.My father moved into a motel before I started high school where he worked the front desk to pay his rent. My mother, in vindictiveness, deprived him of his pension and social security income even though she worked a well paying job. She spent the money selfishly on herself and only herself. My father passed 2 years after I graduated high school. Food for thought.	Age, Sex, Sexual	Age - General, Gender - General	7/275	2.545

Here is a retired cop so if you haven't a clue what police make it's a stunning shock. Police normally start out at $200.000 $300.000 per year then they get a percentage of money from each ticket they write and every court judgment fining someone the cop also gets a part of the fine. The Alaska state Troops many of them buy homes - airplanes - boats - ATV's and vacations on just the kick back money from tickets and court ordered fines that was for the year !Sergeants in Anchorage AK are paid $500.000 per year !Want to know why all U.S law enforcement Cops are so corrupted and evil here, they have the incentive to lie, abuse the public just for personal wealth gain. The when a cop shoots someone they get many months off with pay, a vacation !Cops gets off work with pay, has lets have a happy trigger finger !Just look how law enforcement has attacked are president and used illegal spying on Trump and family, the common cop see this then believes he is about all the laws . Gross and typical. My Grandmother was married to a 64 years old she was 24. Old men have had their way with young girls centuries. Since young men are very immature now maybe you lost hope of meeting a man your age that could resonate with you. Consider it very good that you had a vasectimony. The x had twins with with a young woman . He is exhausted an the children are on the "spectrum" as is common with old sperm. The way you cross your arms over your body says alot about your discomfort.The ride"? Pay attention to your discomfort . Initially you were ashamed of the relationship for a reason. You said he is not wealthy. Well that is relative. It looks like you have a very decent home and a pool. Maybe he's not Hugh Hefner rich but if you ask a someone in some other country or specific areas in your own town , they might call that rich. You definately secured your place in life financially by marrying him. If your feelings were solid without motive you would not of cared what people say or how they look at you.In life what persist in our lives become our "normal". It took you time for your inner voice to turn off. You buried the shame and then normalized it all.You were on the make and he put the make on you using his position of authority and his experience to seduce you. Rather than having a child considering he or she will be fatherless sooner than later, focus on getting an education. My first husband was 27 years older than me. We had two beautiful daughters together. They are now 21 and 22. He had a stroke 3 yrs ago at age 64. I was only 38 when he had his stroke. He was in a nursing home for awhile and now he lives with a friend and we all help take care of him.The down side is they are upset with me for choosing to have them with an older man because they know he will out live me and he already can't enjoy them in their older years. He most likely won't see his grandchildren or walk them down the aisle. They love him, he is an amazing Dad but, they ask me all the time what I was thinking. Honestly I was in love and I didn't think at the time about what our children would go through. The marriage only lasted 12 yrs and we separated amicably. We realized the age difference did catch up with us after awhile. I still love him but, I did remarry a man my age . We go see him a few times a week. We take him out for coffee and stuff. It's hard for his girls to see him so sick. Always keep the kids feelings in mind. They love me but they are upset with me for having them with a much older man. I still wish you both the best of luck and I know my experience doesn't mean yours will be the same.	Age	Age - General	3/255	1.176
He should've been the adult about it and should not go ahead with the relationship from the very beginning. But I guess having a young, beautiful girl for a wife appealed to him of course which I find extremely selfish of him. She probably would've cried for couple of days, moved on and later would find herself a man of more appropriate age without having to deal with these problems. He's the one that should have been sensible about the whole thing because if you love someone you're looking for the well being and happiness of the other person, not just your own. I hooked up with a 20 year old last year at 34.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/12	8.333

My fiancé is 34 and I'm 23 (24 in January). We have been together since I was 20. We didn't discuss our age for quite a long time because it never felt relevant. What is relevant is our love for eachother. Despite my much younger age , it's no vexation for either of us. Our interests and affections align. I don't believe we've ever had a true argument. There's no mendacity, no resentment. He saved my life. Initially I felt scolded by my family for dating an older man, but I've never considered 30-40 old and do tend to be attracted to men that age . I feel exclusively turned on by my fiancé, I won't be all lascivious here or anything-but I love him, I would do absolutely anything for him. If it's the right person, the age shouldn't be an issue BETWEEN the two relevant individuals. It's not perverted, I'm sexually mature despite having a 'baby face' and voice-Our first interactions were text based so he truly felt initial attraction just via communicating so well. I would never want another man but him. If you feel a genuine connection with an older man/younger woman , pursuing it shouldn't be considered it any kind of taboo. Obviously everybody involved should be at an age where they can mentally and legally consent. I just believe some of the scathing glances we've gotten in public are much more vulgar than anything about our life together. Sorry for bloviating and all-I wanted to share my experience! I do love him so dearly! And I admire him.	Age, Old, Woman	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	7/261	2.682

I loved holding his hand in public. Women his age would glare at me because he was extremely handsome and I guess they figured he should be with someone their age . I had a woman at work question my motives for being with a man so much older than me- did I have daddy issues, was I molested, was I hoping he'd support me...etc. None of the mentioned issues but I did report her to HR for saying it. Best the luck to the both of you as love works well beyond the scope of age !Well, just as Mindy said in the video about going onto to YouTube regarding their marriage that people would be judgemental. What I found was even worse than that! These people are slinging snide, cruel remarks and generally being outright rude to them. As usual from what I have seen being posted in the past on other YT channels, the chatter is mostly from the uptight, simple-minded, prudish and arrogant type of Americans who are just sheep that live their entire lives in a bubble.First off, It is none of the commenter's business if there is an age difference between them, that they are married and surely do not need you and your myopic viewpoints for approval. Age is not only a number if you think about it. There is nothing wrong with being 10 years apart from eachother. But 30 years is a little wild. Age determines maturity, actions, years, and how long away you are from death. It's not the fact that they are adults now. It's that fact that this man was already passed his teenage years when this girl was in kindergarden. Think about it. You're a legal adult and eventually marry a kid who hasn't even hit 13 yet. He would've been a BIG time pedophile. Lol,don't hate on me.	Age, Nothing	Age - General, Age - Youngsters	3/98	3.061

You just want attention for marrying an older man, which is nothing special, really because women do this all the time in some countries. If you want kids just get on with producing them and raising them. Men can get women pregnant even in their 80's so what's your problem? He's not that old and you are certainly young enough to belt out a few kids. So get cracking, before he cars it on you and you have to find another one. Honestly, this guy isn't doesn't look bad. He's older, but I can see how his personality, warmth and charm could have won her over. Many men her age can be real jerks. If they are happy, that's all matters. Time will tell, though. A woman , many times doesn't hit her stride until her mid-30's, early 40's - where will he be then? They look cute now, but the consequences will play out 10 - 15 years from now - especially if they have children. About 3 years ago, my ex married a woman about 26 - when he was 65. Granted, he looks way younger (always did), but it's still a fact that now he's 68 and she's not even 30. I didn't get it then, and I don't get it now. I'm biblical times this was accepted. I think a reverse scenario is the Book of Ruth. Which teenagers used to get married, where it was normal. Where he's older, but deal. He probably is more interested in her than hanging out with the boys. She don't have to compete for his attention between her or a football game. Again, they're probably very likely to have a very intimate relationship where they will have quality conversations and interactions. Where he's apt to live a healthier life having a lady that's younger and more positive. If he were to cash in early, pardon the expression, she can be content of having had a quality relationship. Where who can judge them? Look at so many having children and become single parent homes which is hard. Or look at all the people who get married, then they get divorced, only to get remarried again. Still having troubles associated with younger guys. Also, look at the younger guys that run around on their wives, where him being older probably isn't likely to happen. Where I would guess he's more apt to take time and interest in things she's interested in. Of course all of these things are still individual things, it still is more likely to be a quality relationship. As far as what other people think. Well they don't have to live your life. Or the hardships by sticking to societal norms that are man made and conditional to this society. But Joseph was supposedly much older than Mary in the Bible. Which there's many women that live with the frustrations of younger guys, where they want their toys and hang out with the boys. Not to mention that give more attention to ball games than they do their wife. Which they clicked right from the start. Where they could actually relate to each other which is really good for a relationship. He's probably isn't as selfish as a younger guy. He may not have money, but odds are, he's there to be with her. Then she doesn't have to contend with immaturity. Look at Donald Trump. His wife is younger too. Which whether she likes his money, him or both, well that's between them. Again a person themselves have to live with the person they want as a companion! Mom and Daddy, society don't have to live with the consequences of following ideas of society but that person does. When they go to sleep at night, it's just them two. Where it's important those two are content with each other. Which applies to anyone. Again, at different times, this type of arrangement wasn't uncommon. Society changes according to economics and everything else. Which isn't always conducive to quality relationships. Look at all the divorce and remarriage, look at those that are trapped in a marriage they're prefer not to be in which are many. Look at all the spousal abuse or neglect which is widespread and these people think they're qualified to weigh in on what they think is right or good. Not to mention all those that engage in extramarital affairs. Where I'm not judging them, but questioning them judging others who really are happy together. Then there's many other things to consider that I haven't remarked on. Just think about it. They is a formula others came up with, that's half your age plus 7 will give you an age range. Where there's cultural similarities and other things. Yet, it's not absolute. As there's some who still value things of other times. Again, after a certain age, age really isn't a factor. Otherwords, a 16 year old hasn't had life experience to

Nothing wrong with age gaps, love is love; but there is however, something selfish in bringing a child into a situation which will most definitely have a negative life changing impact in their childhood. It's not to say it's right or wrong, but it is selfish. If she is 30, he is 60. When that child turns 10, he will be 70. That's not only stressful to the child, it can also shorten his life expectancy because he will probably opt to do things his body simply struggles to do. Where would they be financially? When my grandfather was in his 60's, all within a 5 year time frame he hurt his back so badly he could no longer work. Disability would not take effect for at least 2 years. His back surgery was incredibly expensive. A year later his hip went out. Hip replaced. Then his knee replaced. Then his back again because the surgery didn't fix it. Not even 70 years old yet, he has out of pocketed hundreds of thousands and that's with disability now, and insurance then. How are you going to choose that priority? Is it fair either way? College savings or hip? A house to live in or sold for money? The child's soccer gear or heart meds? I see nothing wrong with relationships to be as they wish to be, but selfishness is about the child, not the parents. It's instinctive to want a baby for most women. But at what cost? People die young all the time, children grow up with single parents, but statistically the odds are against their future. It sucks. It really does. But it's true. If you come from broken homes you probably hung around other broken homes. What did you see? Where are most of the peers today? Jail? Drugs? Commitment issues? Deadbeat parents? Pregnancy happens accidentally too and that is of course worse odds where as in this case, the people are loving and a home is made. And I realize you can't predict the future. But they need to ready to bare consequences when life plays out. I wish them the best but I think adopting an older child would've been the best choice	Age, Nothing, Old	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters	4/369	1.084

Zarrie Barthelemy There are a bunch of ignoramuses in this country who seem to think that people here in our beautiful Florida are somehow crazier than people in the rest of the world.....or that crazier things happen here more than most. These people are oblivious to (or just ignore) the fact that the main reason why so many crazy stories that end up in the popular media come from our state is because of a law we have that makes all arrest records public knowledge, available to anyone via the web. So any reporter, youtuber, amateur etc looking for a story can (and do) easily sift through all the arrests that happen, including mugshots, full names, and all, find the crazy sounding stories, and bam, there's your next "Florida Man". With that logic you mean a 12 year old can date a 30 year old man and be sexually active with him? Lol yea ok. It's called pedophilia no matter what the ages are of these two. It's only legal cause they're both over 18.	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/45	4.444

Because it stems back to our roots as human for evolution and longevity of our race . Firstly, a 12 year old dating a 30 year old is pedophilia. This case is nothing short of it, it's just legal cause they're both over 18. Secondly, the reason things like this are taboo and considered gross or wrong is because it's apparent that if everyone were to marry with such a large age gap, our race would cease to repopulate. That being said, I feel we need to reduce the world's population anyway, but birth defects are more common with this age gap as well. The reason people are upset over this shouldn't be a debate. In 20 years, he will be 77 and she will still be more able bodied. 100 there will be complications of this relationship as the years go on. Manosij The Tiger I get your point but there's a limit of acting like a kid, like you are sticking out your tongue at randos in the streets for no reason? I never did that in my entire life and I am 15. I talk with girls every single day without dating them, they're my friends. You don't need to only talk with guys, girls can be your friends too. Like Edu said, you need to mature. Either you didn't reach puberty yet due to a medical contition either you refuse to accept the fact that you're growing up. By the way, why would a teenager need to be innocent like a kid? Teenage is completely different from beeing a children, your body as well as your mind grow up so it's normal that you act differently. When you become a teenager, you feel like you need to be in a relationship asap. It's totally normal. It's how the human race managed to survive and breed.	Race	Ethnicity - General	1/166	0.602

I know a couple with the same age difference and a very sad thing happened to the wife in that couple. She never needed to work after marriage, he didn't want any more kids he had kids her age in the previous marriage. So was into growing flowers, listening to opera, cats and art. She actually progressed tromendously in art and even had her own exhibition in a very celebrated place, but... I saw her self portrait and it was that of a very old lady. So she sees herself as a woman the age of her now very old husband, while actually looking like a young attractive woman . It is like all youth has been sucked out of her in this relationship and she feels old prematurely and that is sad.	Age, Old, Woman	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	8/132	6.061

Neither one of them looks very happy, her happiness is fake, because she is fake as all hell. He looks very tired, old and despondent, like hes just going through the motions of being in the relationship with a very selfish overbearing girl that just wants what she wants for her own momentary gains, and even if that means giving birth to his child to do so. The lies being told, the old guy might not be "Bill Gates" rich, but he definitely has money and he is not "poor" by any means. What this just boils down to is a low budget, uneducated bimbo , that was undoubtedly nothing but a Gold digger, and a lonely tired old man that was taken advantage of. Marriages like this were once commonplace. When children began realizing that the reason they became fatherless was because of the age gap, they began closing it in their choice of spouses. Personally, I have no problem with marriages with age gaps, as long as it does not affect children. If Larry is in good health, he could be here till he's 100.	Age	Age - General	2/62	3.226

Reading the comments.. people are so terribly judgmental! I'm 33 and dating a 60 year old and it is the best relationship of my life. Elizabeth Custodio yep I've always looked really young for my age I was Pettie at 17 looked 12 and even yet at almost 30 I look like I'm in highschool older creepy guys have been preying me since then and since I look younger that's even more weird and disgusting. Just legal pedophilia fantasies. I was very depressed because I couldn't get guys my own age . then as I get older and look younger I get all these young guys I didn't get when I was younger but I'm a moral person and even though my youth was ruined I can't take it from someone else. This 19 year old guy actually looks older then me but he's still 19. I have almost no dating options because of looking young. I don't know if the solution is to date someone if I can find someone who looks young like me but is my age or close to it or just dare someone legal but younger because based on how I look they look it isn't pedophilia? therefore not predatory. I hate predators! if that were my daughter I'd be devastated I know my mom would be too. I knew this was a crazy set up nobody would approve of and kids would be impossible or very hard to have and raise, due to many other factors, too. You make a decision about what matters most to you. Breeding or being with someone who loves you as more than a mere baby manufacturing incubator object. Women's priorities and values differ ie how they see the real purpose of womanhood marriage, Men etc. For most it is breed, breed, breed.. Unless they are impregnated they feel worthless as women. A few women are less animalistic or biologically driven. We put having a good relationship based on mutual spiritual type love/friendship etc with a certain male above things like 'babies', which are OK, but not essential for being a happy, worthwhile, fulfilled woman ... True. You don't know what the motive is. I doubt he's a sugar daddy. she could've had a bad relationship that traumatized her. Sometimes insecurity is the reason why she feels better with someone older. She may not feel she has what to offer to a guy her age , so she results to a more mature guy. A 25 and a 55 year normally wouldnt have much in common , but if she wants to watch old movies and partake in his interests, good for her. People below 24 are just finishing developing into adults. The brain development is not done at 18. That's why you will always notice a certain immaturity in people below that age however well experienced in life they may be. I think this factors into when someone is considered a child. Having seen this pattern over and over again throughout my life, I find it very creepy when a middle aged person is attracted to what is practically a child. They just do not have the life experience that the 45 yo has and it's an inherently unbalanced power dynamic preying on the vulnerability that the younger party brings in. It's a lot less creepy when it's someone over 25 hitting on like a 50 year old . By that age you have had the chance to meet lots of people and learn more. You may find an adolescent hot but acting on that thought is an entirely different and extremely creepy thing. It's not about love which is a natural thing its about the huge age gap. When he's over 70, are you prepared to lower your expectations in the bedroom? Are you prepared to change his nappies? Are you prepared to be his walking cane? Are you prepared to turn into his mommy? Look at mother nature the greatest of all teachers; old and young females of mating age will never choose an old mate. Females of the animal kingdom can smell/sense weaknesses in their potential mates, an old lion is as good as a rat.... USELESS. Let us know how it goes when he's retired and you still have energy and aspirations. If he didn't age you already!!! Otherwise, I truly believe that you love him..... Father issues perhaps!! Me as a woman that had my tubes reversed I was going on 39 and I had one the best surgeons in the country that did mine and it worked 3 months after the surgery I was pregnant and the said she was a miracle baby because it doesn't work that fast and for her to be right on the spot she was suppose to be was a blessing they called her little peanut. They told me I would be in his next book, like I told you he was the best surgeons in the USA and I have one of the most beautiful baby girls and for having her at the age of 40 God bless my husband and I but now she this grown up beautiful woman . And I we also have a gorgeous son too he is 10yrs old then her and the Dr was so surprised because it was still with the same husband, because most of the woman and man this is usually their second marriage so they had a little joke with him, so just don't give up because if you find the right Dr. Makes a real difference and my insurance company lead me to the best surgeons in the USA in the pacific NW. So we had to pay for our reverseal too but my insurance paid for my Dr that took care of me and Dr that delivered my beautiful baby. Good luck and I praying for you both on which way you go. I know of a couple of these! Where if it's good for each other, where they're happy, let it happen. Biblically it was normal. Look at Book of Ruth, though the reverse scenario was discussed.I heard a reasonable difference is 1/2 the age of the older, plus 7.But, at her age , where if he passed away by general time frames, she still has plenty of life to have another relationship if she wants. Yet she may be content having already had a relationship.Here again, who can criticize? So many get married, then get divorced. Worse, get married, have children, then divorce.Where I know we're not living in biblical times, but consider reality! Where he's older and probably easier to talk with and have his attention. Again, him being older he's less likely to anger easily.Where again, I know of a couple of other scenarios where the woman actually enjoys having a husband twice her age .So many worry about social norms that were created by man, where it hasn't always been this way. As at one time, it was normal for people to marry in their teens.	Age, Woman	Age - General, Gender - General	4/192	2.083

Seen this before but later in life after couple had been married for 30 years woman was in her 50's man was in his mid 80's and wasn't good she just retired from working wanted to travel he had beginning of dementia. She ended up having an affair with another man when her husband was in his 70's he no longer could have sex due to his health issues. This was an age difference of about 23 years at 30 year difference its even worse. It works better if money is not an issue she can do other things in life and pay for someone to take care of him when he gets older. When a woman has to work entire life then retire to being a care taker for elderly man it's going to be rough. This girl in her 20's has very little life experience to make a decision like that she is wasting her best years on older guy who should find someone closer to his age maybe someone in their 40's at least. Where you live can also affect your ageing appearance. If you're living in a dry, hot place, like oh, IDK, California, you will age faster than a person that lives up north. My sister is younger than me by six years, but looks about 10 years older because of the environment she lives in. My boyfriend would get nervous when we would go out, because I look 20 years younger than I actually am, and a few times people have given him "the business" over it, until I tell them that I'm only 6 years younger than he is. Diane M. Romero I loved the ignition remix and other works of his growing up as much as the next millennial, but just because his career brought a small amount of joy to my past, nostalgia to my present, and he shares the same ethnicity as me, that isn't license for him to do whatever the hell he pleases or to continue to be admired no matter who he has hurt. He is no victim of some grand conspiracy or racist plot against him, he's just a nasty low IQ pervert, plain and simple. Sad that so many continue to be in denial of that. I hacked some of my classmate's social media mostly girls and I looked up through their chat history, yeah it's an invasion of privacy and illegal, but what I've found is the old dude which is 54 years old and has 3 kids is chatting them. The old man is trying hard to get them, it's like fishing and waiting someone to get the bait. Sadly one of them had fall to the trap and that's the one who has a family problem, she has a father issue and the old man wants to be his father substitute but instead sending some chat that you would not hear from your father. There is nothing wrong with men and women dating or married to someone that is younger than you but you should at least marry someone that is in close age range in order to have kids. Obviously this man is to old to have kids with this woman . Personally I don't like old men and I don't like young men either. I like men that are at least 8 or 9 years younger than me. I wonder what she has in common with this older man? I hope it works out for this younger woman and older man. I also believe people should date and marry people that are age appropriate. Nice.....i wish you all luck you ever can have ,and donty worrie about the gap BUT yes there is a little problem with having kids and if there father dosent arround when they need him as best..But in the other hand there is no doubt about that the kids will have the best dad ever ,mature clever and happy for the love only can give parents ,this will give them a good platform and i am sure dad live longer just cos of this. The combo young mother old Father is maby very good for themAnd what ever other people think about the gap ,they are just some idiots (sorry but they are) and very jealous ,in know im also being married whit bigger gap than the most are.The only thing who worried me is that im maby not will see my kids married , but i can promisse you that they have many and much moore mature love than if i was younger and work ,work ,work also for the family but most men dosent think that the kids need hugs all the time ,the most men whom work 100 to support there family think ...if they just give the kids what they need and all they want ,then everything is okey,BUT it isnt and it will never ever have the time back when the kids are young. Most familys with men whom have company will have divorce and all blame the guy and he dosent understand why cos he really are 100 a familydad whom feed he family.....so remember there is a very good balance when the gap is bigger and that the men are older ...and we all know that the girls get mature earlioer than men. Thats the fact Hmm maby not the younger generations whom lost everything ,the girls are as crazy as the boys now aday and it seemes that its a race between the sexes now aday and that the girls dosent seem mature as before. :)But a man whom is older (mature) and have lifexperience is good for the kids.Well talk talk talkgood luck with your life :)	Crazy, Old, Race	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/362	0.829

My neighbors are 30 years apart. Julie is so beautiful and her husband is not at all that great looking like this young woman's husband. Both chose to not have children. He promised to build her a nice home. Both are contractors. Long story short her Aunt died and left them the old trailer that is on their property. He cannot really afford to build the house after all. The man was married once before and the wife got it all. So Julie is trying to fix up the trailer. This guy has provided a nice home and he is retired. In the Bible older men married younger women. Only true love lasts. I think if God blesses you with a child it would be awesome. Why i see that people like their relationship but hate prophet Muhammad that married aisha not for sex . This couple clearly wants to get child. But prophet Muhammad does not married aisha for sex , he married aisha because aisha father request it. And he married aisya because aisya have strong memory to remember holy book so Muhammad married her to teach her holybook and will not get slandering by other people. In ancient times it is normal to married much younger people. In all countries, ancient people married a kid is Normal acts. Prophet Muhammad wasn't a pedophile,because aisha didn't get pregnant at her lifetime. And there's no condom in ancient times. If Muhammad was a pedophile,aisha will surely get pregnant. Muhammad is a good example for those people who married a younger age ,Muhammad also married old widow after married aisha because to help the widowed in terms of financial. Would old people still married old widow if they gets young girls?absolutely not. But prophet Muhammad married them because want to share wealth and knowledge with them. If Muhammad wants to married because of sex ,he surely have kids from other than first wife but he didn't had it at all. Zero kids from after the first wife. All kids are from khadijah first wife and khadijah much older than him. Muhammad even accept to married old khadijah but nobody look on Muhammad side than he also young and married old people as first marriage, it proves that at that time married a younger age wasn't a big problem. In modern time, the problem is kids had sex with other kids n get preggy.	Age, Nobody, Old, Sex, Zero	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	13/273	4.762

My husband and I are 18 years apart. I met him at 36. My husband has salt and pepper hair and I still look like I'm in my late 20's. So I can really relate to this couple. To be fair my hubby's had white hair since his 30's and I always have looked on average 10-15 years younger than my actual age . So the gap looks more exaggerated than it actually is. People think we're 30-35 years apart. There's just no getting around that visually we don't look like a pair. But I love him dearly, and it was love at first sight. Older women give us dirty looks all the time. We get rude comments from people. It's hard being accepted as a couple. It's age discrimination of sorts. I know I will never experience the type of fear or shame that mixed race couples or LGBT community has, but I can relate. It's a choice to be with someone that society says you shouldn't be with. It's shooting for the ideal love relationship with someone who sees me for me and not what they want to pretend to see. We support and grow from being in each other's presence. Love is love is love. You can't put a box around it. The fact they met when she was so young, feels like there is a bit of worry but I just saw on another video she was 20 when they met. That means they both were adults. I don't see any red flags here that make me think one or the other is taking advantage. I see two consulting adults who happen to love each very much. I feel her pain of wanting a kid. I don't want one biologically. I'd like to adopt, but it's tough when your with someone at a different stage in life. And yet, I know if we met sooner, it would have been possible. This is abnormal and incredibly disgusting. IMO, large age gaps like this should be criminalized. She is still a very young woman , who doesn't know what she wants out of life or herself. How on earth could she allow herself to stay with a man who is old enough to be her father? Even an idiot can see why he is with her; any older man would stay with a younger woman . I would like to wish them the best of luck. My husband and I are 22 years apart and have been married for 20 years. We have four kids, two of which are adults now, too; and the other two are nearing adulthood. It isn't something I'd overly recommend because you do face more obstacles than the average couple, but love hits regardless of one's age . And when it does, you tend not to focus on future challenges. All you can think about is the here and now, and how you feel in this moment. They will face hurdles, but hopefully their love is strong enough to last. For those of you thinking it's gross...one day you are going to have wrinkles, saggy skin and who knows what else, maybe you'll face an accident that disfigures your body...what should your spouse do then, turn their nose up at you because of your appearance? Really, that's immaturity talking. Older couples don't sit there thinking of how gross their spouses have become with age . They've moved beyond it because aging is a perfectly normal thing. Despite all of our challenges and differences, I'm still happy to have someone to share my life with.	Age	Age - General	2/201	0.995

What a lovely story and Larry you are a lucky guy Melinda is Beautiful and by the looks of it not only on the outside, Larry you come across as a complete gentleman who idolises her and importantly will always respect, care, be loyal and love her all the important building blocks for a strong long term relationship. Take note you younger ladies us older guys really can be your soul mates and speaking for myself and I believe for the majority of guys my age will treat you as an equal never verbally or physically abuse you and defiantly not cheat on you, you will be loved and be told so every day. I am 55 and sadly have been unlucky in love, I look after myself, hit the gym regularly and can still put a lot of guys in there 40s to shame. I would love to find a younger partner because no offence intended I just don't feel a connection with women my own age . I was married to a man 32 years older than me. I met him at age 18 in 1982. He was 50 at the time. We lived together for 7 years then married. He died 4 years ago (on March 8, 2015) at the age of 83. We had 33 wonderful years together! Don't let what ANYONE else thinks keep you from missing what could be the best thing in your life. My husband had 3 grown kids and had also had a vasectomy. Rather than put him through a reversal, because it had been so long since he had it done, we simply used a surrogate father. I believe a man still makes sperm even if he has had a vasectomy. A fertility doctor can extract it and you can have artificial insemination. If I had known about that at the time...Anyway, I had 3 beautiful daughters. He loved them beyond everything. I am a 54 year old widow now but I wouldn't trade a single year I spent with my beloved. I fully intend to remarry but, at my age now, it will probably be someone close to my own age or younger. If your man is in good shape, help keep him that way by exercising and eating healthy. My husband was a physician and was so busy taking care of other people that he didn't spend enough time on his own health. I knew he had diabetes but I didn't realize how fast things can get out of control. Ignore people who get on here and make negative comments. Clearly, there are a few things they don't know about older men...	Age, Old	Age - General, Age - Over 65s	5/275	1.818
Thank you for sharing your wonderful testimony. My partner is 43 years older than me but that doesn't change how much I love him and how much he means to me! We have a beautiful gorgeous one year old daughter and she adds more love in our lives everyday! Nobody's perfect and no one has the right to judge anybody. Money doesn't have one thing to do with this woman being married to an older man and I sure as hell didn't marry mine for money! You may as well have said that people living in the slums and can't afford to get out don't HAVE THE RIGHT to have children! Rich people are not the only ones who should be allowed to have children, or get married, or anything else. rasmasyean	Woman	Gender - General	1/72	1.389
Atbay8 The way the " age gap" has worked one-way in history, is in light of of womans' diminishing fertility. It does "reverse", but it's much much more rare because the whole point of "marriage" across ALL cultures is to rear a family. You can say it's for "love and companionship", but biology skews the statistic one sided such that love and companionship seems practically an illusion to trick you into mating. lol Add to the fact that an older man often has accumulated resources and/or is established with high skills, it makes him much more attractive than a rich old woman who can't give birth. I'm almost on the same boat as you are my boyfriend is 51 and I'm 28. I'm insanely in love with this German man. He looks nothing like his age and is fit. He runs faster than me and I'm in pretty good shape ex military training still got him. I don't know how else to put it other than I'd rather live with someone I truly love than to be in an "ideal" relationship with a guy and have kids with him just because it what's expected of me. Guys my age are stupid I'm sorry but before I met my boyfriend I was completely fine being single forever cause I had went on so many dates with dudes around my age that were no good nothing never sparked all of them were immature and selfish. Back in my early 20s I was already at a point in my life where I didnt want to play the field anymore I wanted something real that I can grow in and feel positive about and that's not what any guys in their early 20s and oddly enough in their 30s wanted at least with the guys I dated. Then I met my boyfriend at 24, very handsome wise, respectful, funny and smart he is literally everything that I wanted in a man and I didn't even care about the age . It was never a problem for me until the people around me started making it a problem. And I said it is what it is. I'm happy that should be enough for everyone to understand that God put us together for a reason and I'm not complaining about it.	Age, Nothing	Age - General, Age - Youngsters	6/280	2.143

If they're happy. Whatever. I just hope they know what they're doing. If she wants children and other things in the future, she should have taken it into consideration earlier. If the information is correct, then she was fairly young. Sometimes being so young, your ideas may change later on. However, people at any age do not work out to be honest. When I was younger, I liked older guys. Personally, not that much older. I would not see a practical future. Yet she seems to. If she is happy with this guy; geniunely happy, then whatever. Sometimes we think we are happy, but utlimently, we are not. As humans we can also change; especially at a young age throughout adulthood. But, ya know, some people fall in love in mysterious ways. This relationship does not necessarily bother me. I just hope they are in love, and this relationship started with pure intentions (as with all relationships). No one is perfect though and like I said, people can change, or realize what they want Is not possible with current arrangements. This type of relationship will cause them tons of issues, but it may make their love stronger. I dont know. Anyway, some of these comments made me laugh. Why do people respond to the OP like finding someone they think is physically attractive for a relationship is shallow or somehow not conducive to a happy, loving relationship? Physically attractive people can be the whole package- looks, personality, values, soulmate, etc. I personally couldn't be romantically involved with a man that I didn't find physically attractive and it is nothing shallow, it is what feels natural to me. It is way different from a platonic friendship in which looks don't matter. That doesn't mean that I don't think personality and common values aren't important to me because they are- why not include all that you're looking for in a partner? When two people start a relationship they could never possibly know what the future brings anyway , but when the age gap is so big you have to expect some issues . Even if their hearts are saying ”we love each other so there is no problem” , their minds know there is . We like it or not life is brutal and its a battle , unfortunately for this young lady what really happened is that she felt not love but security , perhaps because a guy in Larrys age seems more of a gentleman and he probably is , but now she is really facing the fundamental consequences of her choice and I am afraid they are gonna be bad . For Larry things are well because he wouldn’t even dare to dream that he would be so lucky to have such a beautiful young spouse , but for the girl things are not as fair as they should and she will eventually either divorce him or just keep going and cheat on him . For those ' age is just a number' people.. Do you really believe that a saine, young woman would ever fall in love with a old , ugly man without getting anything in return? Do you think that old man would love her if she was not that young and beautiful? Guys wake up! It's about looks and money!! And if he's not that rich like they're saying, there must be something else that is wrong with her! If age is just a number then why do you almost never see a young man with an older woman ? And if you do, the man usually is from a poor country somewhere in Africa or the Middle East. Also no one talks about that old creep dating a girl that could be his daughter. That just shows how dirty and controlled by their dicks most men are. How many of them leave their wives for a young girl. It's distcusting! ' Age is just a number' must have been invented by older men as an excuse to date young girls. But if you start looking into it, you will see how bias and sick big age gapes actually are. That's not really young girl + old man. 30+ is already way past being "young" in the sense these ppl are trying to say. Well, particularly in Western society, a young woman (teens, early 20s) should be given an opportunity to "experience life" or "train for the future" to know what she wants before committing to major life stage like marriage. Unlike other countries, where it's more common for young (i.e. fertile) women to just go for a rich man (often it means he's much older) because their role is primarily kids and home making while the man's duty encompassing money matters. Ramble tangent...I personally believe it's because of capitalist society has shifted a lot of value from "family" to "profit". So women are expected to also train and earn money to make and buy more stuff we don't really need...but line the pockets of even richer ppl (mostly men) by virtue of advertising. That's not a bad age difference. Are you guys close? Do you know each other well? Maybe talk to the Mom and Dad and tell them how you feel, because they may end up giving you their blessing but may ask you to wait a few years before trying to date her. I mean at this age she's already been a legal adult for some time. But if you're concerned about what others might say, you could always ask some of your own friends what they think. Maybe even ask your mom or dad for their opinion, if you're close enough with them.	Age	Age - General	2/103	1.942
Age is just a number but this is way too much. Think about it, by the time your 40,his old to a point you'll be taking care of him. He'll be dependent on you and your kids(if you have any) and it wouldn't be a problem but you won't be a normal couple for so long and your kids won't have a proper father figure for long. O'right now, girl, would you have dated him (let alone marry him) if he was unemployed and broke? Let's see if you still "love" him when he turns 60 and needs a nurse. You'll probably have an affair with sb your age . What does a 20 year old have in common with a person 3 generations older? No common references, no common past, nothing . It's all about the money. I have actually dated a man 10 years younger than me who was broke but so was I at the time. But he was young. Nobody wants to date someone really old for their age and broke. I am sorry but I don't buy the "love" story when there's a huge age gap and one of them is well-off. The one who will be broken - hearted in the end is the older person who will be left alone and traded in for a younger model. I am talking about HUGE age differences like this one not 5-10 or even 15 years. According to the Bible there's nothing wrong what's that matter of fact a lot of your faithful ones in the Bible had younger wives she's very mature for her age so he looks very healthy it looks like he's going to live probably about a hundred and three maybe a hundred and two years old and then she's thirty years so what she's 70-80 when you're up at that age who cares you guys look good together and to be honest with you the guys at her age are usually in mature and not right so he's mature been around the block he's going to treat her a lot better than somebody at her age he's really going to treat her with respect and that's what she wants and it's hard to find somebody stable now these days anyhow so you go girl	Age, Nothing, Old	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters	6/143	4.196

I mean I think age doesn't matter cause you fall in love with who you fall in love, you can't really choose. But the only concerns I have is if the other one was for example 25 and the other was 50-60 what happens in 20 years? 45 and someone who might not even live that long. Also if you want kids in MY personal opinion it's not fair for the baby when the dad is already so old when the kid is like 10 that if he doesn't age well, the kid may miss out on him doing things and spending time with him. Also you would lose your dad if he wouldn't live long, really early in your life (not that it couldn't happen even if your dad was younger) also, you're in different points of life. But you do you. I'm not alone! I'm 27 and my husband is 51. We have been together for just about 5 years now, got engaged New Years 2018 and married in November of 2018. We are expecting are first child (beautiful baby girl) in May 2019. I felt the same way in the beginning of our relationship, nervous of what others would think but now I could care less and couldn't be more happy. There are some differences in our relationship though...my parents are older than my husband by a little over a decade, my husband can have kids but hadn't had any (until now with me)and my husband doesn't look like my grandpa or anyone else in my family haha. My husband and I have a lot in common just not our age . Love can be very strange but it's best to follow your heart no matter what others think, so glad I did because I found a bestfriend, loving husband, and excellent father to be. OK but there's many people out there who are wondering this. So I will bring it up. (Husband 52, me 29) Our sex life is amazing, we have a lot of passion, he knows what he is doing, I love him and am super attracted to him Everything's is as it should be... I think people like to judge but love is love at that at the end of the day. I know I could easily get someone my age but, yea NO been their done that. That thought just make my stomach turn. I love who I am with and That's all that matters.	Age, Sex	Age - General, Gender - General	2/105	1.905

I am 29 and my husband is 52 years of age. We are 23 years apart I believe. We have been together for more than 7 years. I'm gonna get this in the way really fast I don't have any daddy issues. No I am not a gold digger, ha ha ha but I never really pay attention but I assume that's what a lot of people think sometimes especially when We go on vacation. My Mim take offense at that comment because my parents are actually 12 years apart and my mom is really pretty. I just usually blow it off if it gets brought up or you hear something in the background and take it as a compliment I don't really care anyways. That's actually take him for a little bit more wealth of the family And I personally am successful on my own. I'm a business owner. I grew up in a loving family, I had probably an above average childhood, with a lot of activities, good schools, family trips, stability, etc. My parents are still together and there was very loving, supporting nurturing parents. I'm actually just a tad bit closer to my father than I am my mother, but we still get along very good well. She's just a bit closer to my sister, that's all. I talk to both of them on a daily basis Pay for around 10 to 30 minutes each. My husband also very family oriented and he visits his father on a daily basis also for around the same amount of time. I grew up in a loving upper middle class family. When I met my Paul before anything started I was not looking for relationship and had no interest in getting into one. I had that attitude for over two years. Over that timeframe I really had no attraction to anyone that even stands out or that I could think of, Not even mildly. But I have a feeling when you're not looking for love it makes the right person just stand out like crazy. It was almost like was like love at first sight. It kind of was like every single person around me was in black-and-white and Paul was in color. He stood out like crazy to me and I couldn't get him out of my head and I just wanted to hang out, it's a known better, end it was just like A switch flipped inside of me. I went from being totally on interested in anyone to totally lusting after him. I thought he was super attractive, it's actually in a weird I never really noticed there was an age difference between us I guess it was mentioned a few times but never something that even cross my mind. I never thought he looked older or anything. I get pissed off if he says he is an old man, I just didn't sound right in my head and I don't see him like that and I was 10 if you don't curse of Norman and I tell you youat them any kind of a man likeIn the video She's kind of self-conscious over the whole age gap I honestly. I think my husband is handsome and I don't don't care what other people think we are in our own little world and I think we usually make a scene just because were just so wrapped up in each other any which way. LOL I'm quite lucky that no one thinks he's my father. Due to the fact that he's Hispanic and I'm not. I'll take that back I think it happened once or twice. Usually people just don't exactly know what the relationship is and doesn't wanna be wrong. For example when we Like when we go stay at a hotel they usually assume we went two beds automatically and then look at us in a confuse manner when we say we only want one bed. My husband also says he had to wait x amount of years and he had always dreamed about a women just like me. Believe it or not i'm the one who chased

Maybe this type of marriage isn't for everyone , but you know what, he is respectful, he seems like a good man , and he loves her . People need to be more understanding, not everyone gets to meet their soulmates at a young age . Some people find true love where they least expected, but it's still true love . I am glad she didn't go through a series of failed relationships in her twenties and thirties in order to find her soulmate. When I was 22 I started dating a man who was 34. I was an emotionally mature 22 year old who had lived on her own since 18 and was putting herself through school. I say this now that a decade has passed after that brief relationship.; I was mature for my age , but not grown, and I was not grown enough to recognize the difference. Any person who is significantly older than you and can relate to you in a romantic way for any sort of lasting relationship is emotionally deficient and stunted themselves. And as you grow further into adulthood, you will leave them, emotionally and from a maturation standpoint, behind. You will evolve and they will not. Very rarely does a relationship like this last long. And when it does, it's because one party has money and the other stays like a parasite in order to live a comfortable life. I wish her well, but I honestly hope for her sake this relationship doesn't last and she can enjoy her youth with people her own age and find someone to grow with, not in spite of. There is some line your not suppose to cross. So, when he reaches 75 years. She's will have to babysit him. Luckily this is America and she will have money social benefit, retirement to help with his aging. BUt if they want to have kids, that's fine. Guys can have kids at almost any age . Whereas, the woman after 40 will lose some of her ability to have children and it gets worser for them as they age .In somewhere in or near India, you can marry under age person. as young as 9 or 10 years old . And in some part of the world, you can have multiple wives or husband. MOST of the time is a man with multiple wives. This world is becoming ridiculous, and who knows what we will see next. This man is very smart if you think about it. He convinced a young woman that's she's special. Now he'll always have someone to take care of him and change his diapers but until then he gets to bang a hot girl. He probably promised her having children even though he knows he'll probably be dead before the child hits adulthood. Well at least he gets something out of it. He'll probably be able to mold her so she won't try to leave since she's inexperienced.	Woman	Gender - General	1/86	1.163

The purpose of marriage is to grow together and to gain those experiences together. The only thing that an old man has to offer that a young man does not (sometimes) is financial stability. The fact that she can do her videos, not work and have her 'own' home was appealing and worth it to her. She is not an asset to her marriage but a cultivated and prized dependent. That will get old fast. Men are more than money, and one day she will realize that and feel like she is missing out.	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/94	2.128
Angie Moya I will agree 100 with you I'm 29 and my husband is 52. We have been Together for seven years. I truly love my husband. After I met you was like literally everybody else in the world has been a black and white winter life and when I met him I saw him color for the first time. I found such a strong connection with my husband. We have a really deep bond, I love him both physically and mentally which when you have both it is love like no other. I find him very attractive. It helps that he has a nice body, handsome, The last time I hung out with my dad he snapped a photo of Paul and Eric I meant Paul is a really good looking guy. Very handsome he looks like a Italian model or maybe an Italian mobster. I course my dad had to throw in the joke at the end. It helps that he's naturally fit.can I tell him I don't knowand is really fit. I torture him with healthy eating, vitamins, a little exercise, etc. because I want him to live a long healthy life by my side. But I did pretty good because his dad is 90 years old and still living in his own house and doing pretty good. He looks like he's in his 80s so he's pretty good genetics. We go hiking, fishing, I love to do a lot of physical chores outside but other than that it's just natural. He is like 56 and 160 he has muscle definition etc.the only characteristic that sticks out is that he has salt and pepper hair. Honestly I could never imagine going and being with somebody else let alone someone who's my age . Personally know i see kids I mean oh boys my age as Highly immature and lacking any life experience. I disagree. Age doesn't reflect experience.	Age	Age - General	1/6	16.667
I look at it completely the opposite. If you're such an older 'experienced', mature man, why don't you want a woman who also has experienced all those things as well? You can't be that mature if you want someone who isn't romantically.	Woman	Gender - General	1/42	2.381

riproar11, any many of any age can have that. There are older men who literally have none of those qualities and younger men who do have them. If you're 18 and looking at a 50 year old man compared to a 18 year old man, then yes, they will have more experience. But what does it say about the 50 year old who seeks out a partner who has none of the great qualities that older men supposedly possess? Who is young enough to be their child? If you can relate to someone in a romantic way who is in their early twenties there is seriously something wrong with you.	Age, Old	Age - General, Age - Over 65s	4/110	3.636

I've often fallen for much older guys and it has nothing to do with daddy issues. For me, I have some aspects of maturity which I find is more matching of the older than the younger men. Older men mostly want to settle down. Also the age of the ones I go for are close to my oldest brother's age (there is quite a gap between us two and so our parents are much older too).I currently like a guy who's that much older than I am (about 17 years). I didn't like him at first, but gradually developed feelings for him. Over time I realised we are both very similar, including our personalities and nature and that he can be a really sweet guy. Landhaus Idyll yeah I have to agree. I totally do get the stereotypical 'gold digger' or 'daddy issues' which may usually be the case but not always. We don't know this individual couple well enough to pass judgement. She did mention in one of her personal videos that when she first saw him she thought 'oh he's cute but too old for me'. They connected after keeping in touch about her car accident. So there obviously was a spark that formed after getting to know each other. They've been together for 7 years now and seem super happy which is all that should matter. They are two legal adults and her family accepts him so why does it bother everyone else? Lisa NguyenRegardless of the different experiences in life, level of maturity etc... age matters. The mentality of a very experienced, very mature teenager it's not going to be remotely similar to that of someone in their 50's or 40's. Even if the latter had little experience and it's not very mature, the mentalities won't match, and in general, the younger person would be more easy to take advantage of. At least for me it's not about how big is the age gab, but more where is situated, teens and early 20's make me doubtful about how legit and honest the older person was. if teenagers are not old enough to drink alcohol in some places, maybe they are not old enough to differentiate other good ideas from bad ideas on another scenarios either	Age, Old, alcohol	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Behavioural Addiction - Alcohol	5/132	3.788
Lisa Nguyen Also, on average the girls mature earlier than the boys, but by their late teenage years everything is the same again. Maybe the most mature 12 yo are girls, but at 18 and after there is no much difference. Women may end up with older men more often than the contrary for several reasons, but the existence of more mentallymature women for their age doesn't seem to be true	Age	Age - General	1/71	1.408

Lisa Nguyen I would say there is not more judgment towards couples where the older partner is a man. If something my guess would be that there is less judgment because it's more commonbut because it's more common you'd hear about it more often.Everyone has to live their life, make mistakes and to each their own.... But I cannot blindly apply that logic to everything without having a second thought. Our brains are not fully developed until we are 25 (more or less). That means that when this relationship started, it was between two legal adults(I hope), but only one of them had an adult brain at the time. Between two fully developed adults 30&50 for example I find it less confronting, the possibility of someone being taken advantage off or manipulated is still there, but at least someone was not that much more vulnerable to that kind of situation from the beginning	Common	Social Class - Working class	2/154	1.299

At the time me n my hub had good paying jobs we were far from being rich maybe in the middle of poor n middle class..... jump to yrs later I'm 37yrs old now my hub is 65 n our kids are 12, 10, 8 n 5 n unfortunately I had quit my job due to Ovarian Cancer which as left me very weak n tired!!!! Larry lost his job n the only one he could find is a very hard labor 14hr Days 40+ hrs a week being a great father n hub he jumped at this job but he's so tired now, cranky, jus worn out, he's to tired to play w the kids like he use to b4 this job or spending active time w me everyday my heart breaks for him n I worry he's going to work hisself into a heart attack or stroke but he want slow down bc of his family n our needs!! Larry should b retired right now n enjoying life but instead he's working so hard n even though he says he wouldn't trade his family for anything when I look at him n see how tired he looks I can't help but feel like this is all my fault I'm the one who wanted more kids he never had kids n really at the time didn't want any bc of his age but I did!!!! He loves his kids so much, he's so proud to b a dad n says God had a reason for wanting him to father children latter in life!!!! I also think when our youngest daughter is 18yrs old my hub will be 80yrs old will he b here to walk her down the aisle, will he even b able to walk her down the aisle, will he get to meet his grandchildren? I wish I wouldn't hav been so selfish n thought about these things bc I know he does n it terrifies him thinking he may never see his lil princess bloom into a beautiful young woman !!!!I know ur young n want children but plz consider everything first!!!! Make sure ur financially stable n hav lots saved Incase jobs lost!!!! Oh baby I am not here to judge ,In fact the man i loved the most in my life is 23 years older than me. I was 22 and he was 45 I believe 100 that you really love him and he really loves you, but this is so wrong in so many ways....Imagine your sexual life when you will be at his age , that is scientific approved that 40's are the best years for a woman's sex life .He will be 70 years old OR more. The satisfaction you may have now will be gone. And if you have a baby which I understand the reason you want it with the person you love , he will not be able to do father - daughter father - son stuff. He will be tired ,possible not healthy , and way far away from the kid's mind which is bad for their communication and understanding . I TRULY BELIEVE in miracles and rare things and i hope this is one of them for you. Meaning that you will not mind that the sex will change , that you need to care and treat him , that he will not be able to follow you with same energy at the things you want in your life and last but not least if he dies way much sooner than you . I hope you will not regret it afterwards ... May your dreams come true . Because mine didn't I did put my logic in front of my feelings. But no regrets sis . It's HARD finding MATURE men at 23 years old . I agree with you. I do admire the qualities of older men. They work, have a sense of accomplishment, they are providers, but a lot of young men have issues keeping there pants zipped. An when a baby pop up they evaporate like water. My viewpoint, but I am single though. Older men too like in there 40's listen to real music about loving a woman before all these demeaning terms like thottie and hoe, and b*. I love old school soul, but men at my age they listening to this rap music geared to strippers an one night stands..... I met one guy he was handsome. My lyft driver, he was playing JAZZ. real laid back. I asked him how old he was. We get to talking and guess what HE Was with a woman 15 years older than him. My parents differed 36 years.. how did it end up? Father didn't stay, they seperated. I liked my dad but it was like talking to your grandfather, you can't connect to them and play with them that well if they are so old . I don't think people should do that. A kid needs 2 healthy parents that aren't too old .It might be the mom that will have more burden since the older man is more likely to get sicknesses and less active.	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/83	2.41

I love how so many old MEN are replying how great this is and age is just a number. Sure it is. Hope the love is strong enough to survive when she reaches her 'prime' and he reaches for heart pills to counteract the viagra. She will eventually be swept off her feet by some guy half his age , she will cheat, he will be heartbroken but accept it. If he cared for her, he would've thought about her future. He's so selfish!	Age, Old	Age - General, Age - Over 65s	3/83	3.614
Agreed. This girl is only in her 20s and hasn't even reached the prime of her life yet and here she is married to a guy who is old enough to be her father. What makes it even more awkward is the fact that he is even older than her parents. He actually looks much older than he really is. I would have guessed that he was in his late 60s or early 70s. He definitely looks older than 57. I don't think this marriage will last, sadly.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/88	1.136
How is he selfish? She can make her own decisions. She knew what she was getting herself into. She mentions how she was unsure about the age difference yet she still married him.	Age	Age - General	1/33	3.03
Y S He is selfish because she's an adult in the eyes of the law, but she's really a child, as her brain will continue to mature into her mid 20s! So he's taking advantage of a child. No one can tell me they're the same person they were when they were 20, or have the same opinions they had when they were young and naive! He's already been there and done that. He should've let her enjoy her life before settling down and told her as much. That's about as selfish as one can get. It's apparent she has some daddy issues, whether she admits it or not. Not to mention, she started dating him in her late teens...gross. He robbed her of her best years. And like the lady above wrote, he WILL get possessive and nutty when she starts realizing she made a huge mistake. I'd bet my bottom dollar on it. No one can tell me this is either normal or healthy. What the hell do they talk about?! They're on two different levels and have nothing deep to share. She needs a therapist to unravel why she's settling for Moses and not dating guys more suitable to her age and guys who are in the same place in life. Oh yeah, it's also selfish because he will most certainly die sooner and possibly leave a young child without a father. The list of reasons is just too long to write. My grandpa and grandma had a 34 year age gap too, he even had a daughter older than my grandma. They had 6 kids together though and a lovely marriage, they came to the US together from Argentina in 91' with my mom and her siblings. But ten years ago, when my grandma was 45, my grandpa passed away at 79. It's sad cause she's been single ever since and she's not interested in ever pursuing love again. 45 is young to lose someone who is supposed to be your life partner. He must be really good in the sack because he is no millionaire. All jokes aside, it's a bad idea. Everything's ok now, but like her parents said, things will change when he's 80 and she's 50. She will not only have to take care of him but her elderly parents as well, and God forbid she actually has a child with him. I know people are going to say I'm hating, but it's the truth. She's going to regret this when reality sets in. You can have a fling with a man who is a lot older, but nothing serious like marriage because one has to consider the practical side too. Do you know how creepy it is to have dudes my dads age hit on me? I'm always so grateful for ppl to have normal reactions when I rented a room out of desperation froman acquaintance who I viewed like a dad or uncle. He hit on me. It was traumatic. I had some ptsd to clear. I just had to write on my Facebook intro for dudes my dads age to stop adding me on Facebook. It's creepy. There's probably a bunch of old creepy dudes watching this who are detached from reality and traumatizing my friends and I. That's what I think of this. Ppl aren't being judgements. It's pardophilia. You guys would be surprise about how weird it gets some times with the age gap. When I was 47, I went out with a 20 year old model. I didn't pursue that relationship, she did. Because I was supposed to be the "mature" one, I stop that relationship quickly before it developed into something too strong to be undone. Otherwise, it could have turned into a very serious relationship. Then when I was 51, another model 22 y.o. Same, I didn't pursue that relationship, she did. Same outcome, I had to put on the brakes. I'm only citing 2 cases, but the truth is, during my 40s and early 50s, girls in their early 20s and even younger were totally available for me. Still today I can't believe it. I don't understand what makes a beautiful young girl who can have almost any guy she wants, go for a ridiculously much older man. I think in the back of their minds they know it's temporary and they take it as "a taste of what life will be in the future". This is the only explanation I ever found. junejunejuniejune There is a reason we age and our sex drive declines people. God didnt want grandpas having babies for a variety of reasons. I was born when my dad was 65 I never knew him young. At school i was made fun of because he looked like my grandfather and he almost never played with me he had no energy. Also there are more sinister reasons why this is not a good idea. Dave Rodriguez It makes more sense for a man to have kids older than a women though, although he certainly is too old . Women have a limited amount of time to get pregnant and ensure healthy kids. A man could be his age and still have perfectly fine children with minimal risk of deformations and such. Although those long term effects long term that you mentioned earlier should be considered. Sanna Jo I know the bible don't be silly, pre-flood men lived long lifespans (almost a thousand years) for them having a child at a couple hundred years old wasn't having a child as an old man. God gave them those long lifespans for the purpose of populating the earth, (after the flood for example there were only 4 men alive.) The instances in the Bible where people had children at advanced ages (some of them even while being unable to conceive/sterile) was just God proving a point that nothing was impossible for him, it was done on purpose so people wouldn't take credit for the pregnancy themselves. The proof that God does not intend for people to have children at advanced ages is the fact that women cease to menstruate at an average age of 52 yrs old , and men lose their sex drive gradually hitting a pronounced low after 50. There are anomalies and exceptions to this of course , there are males that are sexually active well in their 70's but from a moral point of view, is it fair for a child to grow up never being able to play with his 70yr old dad or worse to lose his dad before he turns 10? In my opinion the answer is no. Old people should either cease to have sex or use protection to avoid pregnancies. Again it's my opinion you have yours . Very naive comment section, I too think it's somewhat disturbing but at the same you can really see love and it makes you question what life is really about; is it not about finding the right person whatever the cost? You can't even make the case that he's extremely rich or something because it doesn't seem that way. At the end of the day she's a young but mature enough woman so she knows what she wants. Gihan Jerry it's not fair to judge all girls because of the experience you've had with a few. Not every girl on the planet has rejected you, so you can't say all girls are the same.And remember that girls don't OWE you anything. If they want to date you, they will. If they don't want to, they don't have to. If you think girls are bad, why would they date you? If you are nice and treat women with respect , they would be more likely to want to date you. "I Want Kids But My Husband Is Twice My Age " Your point? One does not follow the other. Many times in human history have there been age differences between men and woman and they still had kids, age difference has nothing to do with having children. Husbands and wives being around the same age is actually a relatively resent thing in human history - I think many people would be surprised if they bother to take the time to trace their family history back just a mere couple of hundred years. Most would easily find that they are the descendants of people with just as large of an age gap. This video's title is pure ageism . Age is just a number as far as the relationship is concerned so just ignore the nay sayer's it's none of their business! But do be careful regarding children. Studies show that women trying to have children with men over 40 have a much higher chance of miscarriage. That chance of course rises as the man ages further. Then as the women hits 35 plus her chances of miscarriage rises much faster with a male over 40. Do as you wish but understand the risk. You might seriously consider adoption. miscarriages are not just a matter of losing the child...you can lose your life also. Peace out.....	Age	Age - General	1/107	0.935

Jerome Jerr okay there Devoted Muslim. Let's start off by not calling others a "filthy dog of a human" as if you're going to bring the context of the name of the prophet Muhammad (PBUH) you should be respectful and mindful of his manners as he never even showed such disgusting manners like yours even to his enemies. And also it was the norm at that time to marry young people even in Europe and in all parts of the world. And if you'd follow Islam closely by the scholars Aisha was 18 considering the time line and as that Hadith was not reliable. Also why would you assume such hideous things about another human? Do I need to bring up the sunnah of Muhammad (PBUH) again? He assumed good in everyone and you're clearly here to attack so don't try to start conflicts out of thin air. It's very possible to fall in love with someone twice your age and have many things in common . I wasn't a believer until I met my man. I'm in a similar relationship with my boyfriend, our age gap is the same. So I can believe she loves him because I love my boyfriend. We were friends first and it blossomed into a relationship over time (just like any naturally evolving relationship). He treats me like a queen and I treat him like a king. I was nervous much like her in the beginning to show affection in public because not only do we have a age gap but we are a interracial couple. So we definitely get stares but I quickly got over that. Why should I worry about what others think when I'm with the man I love? I hardly ever blame the younger partner (that goes for you men who marry significantly older women too). The responsibility lies with the older partner. THINK. You've had DECADES to live through your years, learn from your mistakes (hopefully) and get things straightened out. Don't drag somebody down when they are just barely experiencing what it's really like to be an adult! How very, very selfish! At least give it a few years for them to live their lives and then come back around to see if spending their life with you is something they really want or not. Look at the French President and his wife. HUGE age gap. And although their relationship was inappropriate when they first met, he was given a chance (by family members who genuinely cared about his wellbeing) to live and understand the world as an adult for a few years. IF it is REAL LOVE, it can wait.	Age	Age - General	1/155	0.645

Sojoya Marshall It's really scary how many sick predators are out there! These disgusting fcks don't seem to care one way or another that this old fart got involved with this young woman when she was 17! Now, if the other partner was maybe just a few years older than 17, then I might just give them the benefit of a doubt, but this man was already 50 when he first met her! These predators like to hide behind the law. They like this old fart, only care about what they can get out of young naive women. And the real truth is, that's the real reason why they see this man as their "hero." None of these losers are MEN. It takes a REAL MAN to own up to right and wrong. The fact that this old fart in the video says "I hit the jackpot," says a lot about what HE WANTS, not what is best for the young woman (but yet he says he loves her). With the way she described how they interacted before they got involved is classic grooming. Her parents failed her! If that was my child, these sick fucks would meet their end on the back of pointy nails plastered onto a giant wooden oar. This old fart, like the rest of these predatory jackasses know exactly what they are doing, they just don't give two sh!ts about long term consequences towards impressionable young girls/women. Only the pleasure of their d!cks comes first!	Old, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	6/250	2.4

The negative comments are disheartening. Just because a younger woman doesn't want to date an immature boy and goes for an older gentleman doesn't mean she has daddy issues. This man she married is very much a gentleman, and it shows. He is affectionate, attentive and opens doors for her which I admire. He's matured enough to know what works and what doesn't work in a relationship and has learned how to treat a lady right. Unfortunately, when you are young, you don't quite grasp this yet, and in my opinion, this young lady is blessed to have found a man who can treat her well regardless of the age gap between them. Isaac JobentWhat about all the musicians and movie stars? The majority being in their 40's and older, having girlfriends in their early 20's (and preferably models). Such a persistent, ineradicable double standard, especially regarding women and younger men, which continues as:It's A-okay for guys, and especially those with fame & fortune (Hell, it's even expected!), but not for the 'regular mortals' who simply fall in love, and no matter how famous you are, women will always be criticized: Demi, Heidi, etc. and not be taken as seriously long-term partners. Very true! Also, the common stereotype that "ALL younger women who go for older men are just after the money" needs to be put to bed. Larry is not particularly loaded ("He's not rich" 3:47). Those younger women out there who are in it solely for the money (gold-diggers) do not genuinely love their older male partners. Of course, financial stability is definitely a plus point (especially when raising children), but a relationship founded solely on wealth is not true love, and the older man is being cheated. Of course, not all women are gold-diggers, and many younger woman-older man relationships are based on genuine love, as both partners have a lot in common . As you say, our souls stay forever young. He is a very lucky man! I am just a few years younger (55). I am hoping to have a young lady in my life. I am not being nasty, but women my age and older do not appeal to me. Besides, women my age have reached the menopause and can no longer have children. Personally, I'd never have a vasectomy. It is invasive, and it goes against nature, and trying to reverse it at a later stage is not exactly easy. Although, if a vasectomy can't be reversed, there are other options such as TESE. I'd stick to the French Letters for an effective, but non-invasive, contraception. I have 3 kids already, and I think that 5 kids will be it- no more after that! I was tricked into a relationship with a man who told me he was turning 50. That was already a 'scandalous' age difference, but we had great chemistry, he was charismatic... and a sneaky, gaslighting manipulator. Little red flags began to whisper and I didn't ignore them, and each time I investigated one it led me to bigger ones. Some of the things I discovered: he was actually turning 72 (!) years old; he'd been married/divorced 6 (!) times; he had 'children' from different wives (I put quotes around 'children' because all his kids were grown, and older than me - he was a grandpa to 3 teens); despite an average income he was on a website for girls seeking sugar daddies; a very young ex gf of his had been living with him until I came along, whereupon he kicked her out in sociopathic style; and on and on. I learned a lot about detecting deception because I would ask him questions when I already had proof of the true answers. To be clear, I'm not an ageist . I'm just against people who lie and exploit the naivety they find (or expect to find) in others. A woman does not need to give birth or have children to be a woman or a mother. Social norm and pressure have women believing so. You are a perfect being, find happiness within yourself. Children can bring temp happiness. You will be unhappy if they do not turn out or be as you have expect them to be. back in the ancient time people used to worship Devine Mother, but she didnt give birth to any children. Men don't have crashing ages like women do.we can start at new life at 40' 50' 60' no problems and your wife can be around the age of 25 or 35 Women do have at crashing age around 30 to 40 ages after that her look and beauty will go wasted. Advice for my followers men don't get married young,you still immature,you will end up divorce we court feels and child support,build your future first ,know yourself and around it 35 or 40 get married to at young women around it the age of 25 and u sets for life. Before I do comment, I have seen the others and pretty disgusting how others react, as if no humanity. My wife is just 14 years younger and I to have thought, is it going to be a problem but 30 years. I suppose my only concern would be, 10, 15 years later, will the husband still be around? I was blessed to have my first child at age 40 with my wife and even I ask myself the same question. That is my fault being that I have mileage from a once combat sports career, then the drug use from my previous years. You guys seem like a very healthy couple. As long as you consider the reality behind this, then you know the answer but truly, I see the true love between you 2 and you both deserve whatever your hearts desire.	Age	Age - General	1/143	0.699

Glenn Coco No not rude at all, I'm happy to explain :) You're right there is no major character in the series named Marvin(that I know of). Marvin is a stereotypical name for an old American man. This was a joke in which Melinda projected older Harry Potter characters onto potential real life partners, and she chose Larry over his friend Marvin(whom I made up) because Larry is more of a Dumbledore, and Marvin is more like Grindelwald. Melinda loves Harry Potter and this is why she chose to be with older Larry, because he reminds her of Dumbledore, see?It's like when women use Sex and the City characters to describe real people. "Oh my God I'm so happy Melinda chose Larry, he's just like Carrie, and Marvin is such a Samantha"Make sense now?	Old, Sex	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/136	1.471

Not really man. Think about it, he has to pretend to act like a dumb child in order to keep her interested and "in love" with him, he has to sit through hours and hours of Harry Potter movies when he'd rather be reading books and watching his black and white old man movies, he can;t really have a deep intelligent conversation with this girl and once he loses his libido she'll cheat on him with a guy her age , and then if he tries to get a divorce she'll make his life a living hell, or she'll file for a divorce and take half of everything he owns - because there's no way in hell he made her sign a prenup. Everything begins with love and end with love you see when two people love each other to the point no one bring them down and no one break them they have each other's back and no matter what honor each other and respect and be faithful and truthful and yes I pray to God someday I will have a man like that that could cook him a beautiful dinner nice dessert and give him a nice massage put my arms around him and tell him how much I am lucky to have a man like him each and every day love is so much more than just sex some people do look at that but it's wrong we need to take chances in life and if we succeed that's great and if we don't all we can do is learn from it I can't I pray to God for you guys have a wonderful life and for many years to come to give you guys peace joy and happiness for you too and for many people out there that they are truly in love	Sex	Gender - General	1/184	0.543

Whatever rocks your boat.....the old days a much older Man was the norm due to recourses and security will provide.....A Man wasn't expected to be neither Handsome or Young..... Feminism changed everything telling Women what they should and should not like..... Age. gap is no different than someone want to be with a person of a different race or someone of the same sex or someone of different religion etc.....But Media, modern culture and consumerism sold Women the idea that they should have a Boy toy to have fun with not a Husband.....if two people are happy who has the right to tell them if it's the right or wrong thing to do..... With all the criticism I'm unsure why people blame the man instead of the laws or the pastor who married him and also say it would be okay if he were wealthy. They look really happy together. Maybe they just have common interests and open minds. It's difficult to be that happy within many couples. If she's of legal age to marry it's difficult to see the harm. Blaming him is like saying a woman in her twenties has no right to do what they want with themselves. I don't think I'd do this myself but I don't see the harm in them doing it. I hope they are very careful in avoiding divorce as it's potentially more likely for age difference marriages. They should consider marriage counseling at the drop of a pin and not wait until there's any real problems. Not saying it's a problem because same age marriages nowadays have a really high divorce rate compared to marriages a while back so their chances may not really be that different. Not sure why people wouldn't be supportive of them. If it really bothers you don't criticize them try to change the laws. That's actually way more healthy. If I was 60, I would never date a 30year old . I don't want to live a lie, even if it's a beautiful one.If I genuinely love her I would rather be a supportive father figure? Why would one want to be a father at 60? What are the odds that he will be able to completely finish off the duties of a father? It feels like he doesn't give a fudge about the child's life and is just fulfilling his own wish/fantasy. Not having a dad as a kid sucks and this is coming from someone who grew up without one. Even if he lives long, is the role of a frail, weak person in need of special attention what he would want to play in front of his child?I'm just speaking my thoughts here. What makes her attracted to an old man, this is freakin weird . WHY AM I WATCHING THIS	Old, Weird	Age - Over 65s, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/17	11.765

I cannot explain it but I have a few guesses. I do think it may come natural as I like older guys myself. There are many factors. (*These may not apply to the couple in the video or anyone at all. *These are personal perspectives and opinions as to why or how. All assumptions of possibilities. *This is in no way meant to be offensive to anyone at all. *Some of these may come from personal experiences, views and observations. *Try not to judge too soon, please and thank you.) 1. You see most guys your age being try hards, wanting the best looking girls with the "bad"(subjective to different points of views) attitude mostly. So you just lose faith in them and look for someone who actually cares on a personal level. 2. Feeling a bit older than the rest, seeing everyone being childish and feeling a fish out of water till this man appears and gives you hope. 3. Being a rebel against society and/or their beliefs. 4. Fear of being used by same age or younger due to their commonly known maturity levels. 5. Possibly being somewhat lonely and finding good company in this stranger which grows into friendship and then a relationship. (Yes, sometimes becoming friends works better than straight and forward asking someone out.) 6. Having a natural preference for older. 7. Seeing actual effort in the relationship, no matter how innocent it is where as to looking elsewhere doesn't seem to work. 8. Being open minded and maybe even being around more open minded people. 9. Knowing he cannot have kids, meaning ability to do all you want without limitations which is not what younger guys do. Some women even have to go get "funny"(It is actually scary in my opinion but many seem to take it very lightly.) stuff to not get pregnant (some regret it later anyway). - Point: More freedom, more carefree, no young pregnancy risks, ability to enjoy and figure out your life without the bomb 10. Pity, compassion, empathy which evolve in time. 11. A deep connection. I am sorry for this comment being so long, thanks for reading if you made it this far.	Age	Age - General	2/366	0.546
Maybe her father wasn't good to her or he wasn't around much. It tends to revolve around a lack of a male figure beginning of childhood or abuse. Greetings from Vancouver, Canada. I want to congratulate you for being brave to defy prejudices, taboos, and moral bullsh*t from society. What it's important is the love that you feel for each other. My father was 25 years older than my mother. You probably would say "oh, that's not so bad", but my dad was 41 and my mom was only 16 when they started their relationship (Age of consent is 16) and they had an amazing relationship for 44 years until my dad died at 85. If she had married a guy only 4 years older probably she would have divorced him in 5 years, but my dad was a smart man who knew how to play all the roles a man can possibly play for a woman : father, lover, best friend, brother, son, confidant, accomplice, guide, guru. leader, protector, provider, and loyal companion. People will probably think that I'm weird or sick, but I want to replicate in my life the story of my father. His example showed me how happy a relationship can be despite a huge age gap, as long as the man knows how to play all the important roles for his woman . When I was 35 I met a beautiful 16 year old girl who needed love and affection, and we started a beautiful relationship that I hoped it would last forever, but after 1 year of living together her family intervened, and took her away from me, shattering her dreams and my hopes. Now I'm 50 and my hope has not died ...to find a girl who would like a relationship with an older man. I know there are many such girls in the world. Thank you for sharing this video. You have a new subscriber, and friend.	Age, Old, Weird, Woman	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	5/295	1.695

Typical modern woman . Marrying a man only to try andchange him. When you marry someone, you marry theircircumstances as well. This coming from a lady in herlate 40's... A person has a vasectomy/tubal ligation because they don't want children (or anymore children).I'd be very frustrated and angry if someone tried tochange that. Didn't she know when she marry himthat kids would not be on the picture? This sounds somean, but if she wants them [kids] so badly maybeshe should find someone else. Besides, being some-one that knows what she's talking about, there arehigh chances that she'll have to care for him in his oldage while having young kids at home at the same time.Everything's fine now, but she's in for a rude awakeningdown the road. A couple of comments from a 68 yo man, if you don't mind.1.) Please do each other a favor and stay in the Now. As you are sharing in the video, things you were worried about pretty much resolved themselves. Be in the present with each other for what it holds.2.) Be grateful that children are still an option and that its is a welcome gift to both people. Certainly age may present some limits, but you have TWO PEOPLE WHO WANT children and that is a treasure right there. 3.) Continue to accept each other for who you Are and let go of thoughts of who you might become. Time marches on and will march right across your relationship. When it does patience will serve you better than plans. FWIW..	Age	Age - General	1/131	0.763

I will be 59 years old in roughly three months. I appreciate this video on so many levels. I gave my wife to my Chiropractor about 15 years ago. Good luck to them both. I miss the girl I married, but not the woman she chose to become. I have said many times in jest, I do not miss her, but do you realize how hard it is to find an good Chiropractor? In regards to 'Children', I have two. I have kept my 'Pecker' in my pants! Others should follow my example..., just saying! I have learned many things in my short life. One of these is that I am able to 'Love' an child which is not 'My own' as much as I Love them which are! As Parents, we do the best we are able. Sometimes, we should have done better, but we are Humans and we make mistakes. An 'Side-note'..., it it not as though these little creatures are born with 'Instruction Manuals'! I know 'Age' matters so much to so many. I have 'Been there and done that'. Never really bought into it. I suppose I was 'Born Old '. My philosophy is this. I would rather spend one single day with the 'Right One', than an lifetime with the wrong one. (forgive me..., I 'Post' with no 'Edit'	Old, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/223	0.897

I was also married to a wonderful guy, this was 25 yrs ago. Till he pass away because cancer. Which until now I'm having problem in choosing another life partner. Everytime i go for a date i always compare guys to my late husband. We have age gap of 37 yrs. but if you ask me if i will do it again. I will say yes. I never have any problem when i was with my late husband. Yes it is true that i was too spoiled. Nothing extravagant. He gave me the kind of love that we have to respect each. No fights, didnt have any problem even when it comes to financial. The only advice i can give this lady. Do not allow yourself to be spoiled because when the time comes that he will leave you or when he dies. At least you have something to fall into, you need to have alao experience to go work. So you could later support yourself when his gone. Which i did that. I was just lucky that i do have relatives that help during the time when he pass away. Talking about relatives on his side. You have to be aware about inheritance. Since when it comes to money and properties that will be a problem. Even thou my late husband gave all the properties and money. Hated the talks that you will later hear it. Especially when they think your husband have the money.	Age, Nothing	Age - General, Age - Youngsters	2/246	0.813

I'm in a age gap relationship. There are 24 years between us, we met when I was in my early 30s. We love each other. That's it. Its as simple as that. Do I worry about the future? To be honest I do to a degree - but only for our long term health (hes actually healthier than I am as I have a chronic illness!) and happiness. The rest? I am living for the present. I was married for 26 years to a woman older than me by five years. She was a radical feminist and made my life hell. Later I came to know that her hatred for men was because she was sexually molested as a child and was not treated for it. I was the man in front of her every day and she would take out all her anger on me. This in turn brought out the worst in me. After my divorce I vowed never to have a serious relationship let along marry again. But fate has its own way. Today I am Larry's age and am married to a lovely woman who is 20 years younger than me. She is such a wonderful, feminine, homely, caring person and its such a joy to be with her. Really I want to tell young people to not think of age as an issue between two people having a successful relationship. First of all there must be love and a connection, but to have a long term successful marriage, it is all about give and take, compromise. Always rate your issues on a scale of 1 to 10. If its up to a 4, just let it go, if its a 5 to 7 then bring it up in a comedic manner, in a passing manner. But if its an 8 to 10, then you have to sit down with your partner and tell them how the problem is affecting you and come to a proper resolution. abdirahim Ali Karshe they think they can be bought, maybe for a short time and then they'll realize that being happy is much more important than material as they grow older. You can also look at it this way, who the f cares if an older person wants to find someone much older than him/her as long as that person is making them happy? Being with an older person or younger person can benefit each other, since the older one have experience life already while the younger one is still experiencing life itself, both can meet life's advices and support, I don't see whats wrong with that. We can all forget in the 1800's where men has to prove to who ever they like to marry that they can provide for her. Its not about the age or the money at all if you have an open mind. My father, who is 75, has a 4 year old girl with his wife, who is not yet 30. (I am 44, btw).The pregnancy was not natural–it took the couple many months–more than a year–of fertility clinic treatments, and an embryo that ”took” was finally carried to life by my father’s young wife. YOUNG, YOUNG wife. I think that love between such an old man and such a young woman (girl, really), is not ”normal”, is not ”natural”, and is probably messed up. I mean, I am sure that my dad has issues regarding sexuality and gender relations, or else, he would be able to fall in love with women who are, if not his age , at least not from subsequent generations. I think that he cannot love a ”peer”–he needs to care for, protect, and guide a young woman who is not his equal. What drives a young woman like my father’s wife to marry an older man? Economic and emotional stability, for sure, in my dad’s wife’s case. She loves him, now, I know: as her protector, her savior, even, the man who has made her life so much better, hers and her family, for, not being wealthy, my father’s income in the East Asian country where they live is worth three times as much as it is worth anywhere in the US... perhaps some young women are messed up, too, though, and they do not want an equal, a peer, but a father-figure, a man who will protect and guide them... I don’t think that a sexual , romantic relationship should be based on such unequal entry points: a young person protected, guided, lorded over, by an older, wiser person. BUT, then again, so what? Both my dad and his wife know that the girl born into their family will be left fatherless rather soon in life. But my dad’s wife will be young enough to remarry if she wants–and she has the support of parents and siblings, all of whom are MUCH younger than my dad... you dont get it! look past what society says is socially unacceptable ,once you figure out what life is about you understand that we are here to experience all things, age isn't a barrier, its a discrimination created by man, the problems we come up with when someone says their seeing someone older or younger than them selves could easily happen to anyone! and age ! death does not discriminate , you all missed a point, when the young women had her accident it wasn't chance that they stayed close after the event, it was meant to be, it may last ten years! it may last a lifetime, put they came together for a reason !!! It is funny that people who make potentially wrong decisions, keep justifying themselves and at the end they believe that they are definitely ok with their wrong decisions. I used to love dating older men, but when I experienced it, I was like "oh no". Why can I not with a man who is almost my age and I can picture a future with him?I remember calculating my age gap with the guy, how old he would be when our child was 5 or ten...It was so annoying. Y'all don't get it; I was raised without a father so I've always been attracted to older men. It's not daddy issues for me anymore because I understand what I went through when I was younger and I know right from wrong. But my first love; I was 21 and he was going on 51 . I loved him and still love him. He was my everything, through the years I learned what kind of man he was. I moved away from him, kept in touch, but learned who I was as a person. He happened to be controlling and he's a man that doesn't really respect women. You can imagine a man with not much respect for his own mom. Those type of men are damaged. Looking back now at 27; I love him but I know better now. I still like older men and honestly don't even see myself with anyone my age . It just doesn't feel right. I got over those daddy issues because I sought out my own father and got passed those wounds but bottom line I love older men. At 27 my age max is 50. Maybe 52. And of course he's an established man because if I wanted to date someone still trying to get on their feet I'll find someone my age . But they don't come with wisdom and guidance. I totally understand this girls story.	Age	Age - General	3/235	1.277

why is this worth even making a video about? if this was a female we would say good for her and would call her a cougar but because it's a man we assume something's weird with the situation assumption is he must be a dirty old man but I say good for him the only thing to be honest with you I would question her intentions more. I hope you did is get a prenup cuz when she cheats on him like she probably will she's coming for that money.my second piece of advice to him is get a lot of use out of that pussy as you can. pound it every night if you cans she ain't going to be around forever and you probably won't get another one that good. It's all about power. Look at Trump in the late 90s. Heck look at Trump now. And then look at this weak, "woe is me" vibe guy. High age gap relationships are usually based on the fact that such a couple will have a power-couple vibe among friends, family and even society. That is why Trump could pull it off but this guy can't.You put George Clooney's Ocean's 11 (first one) character, or even Brad Pitt's Mr. and Mrs. Smith character or even Tom Cruise's Jack Reacher character or even Harrison Ford's characters in this guy's place and you will see, that such a couple won't look odd.Man older means man must be take charge and manly and only then they can be a power couple. Weak Bill Gates won't cut it.Man younger i.e. say 5 years older than girl means such a couple can be bubbly love based.	Age	Age - General	1/152	0.658

One way to look at it is that there are plenty of relationships between people of the same age and similar background that don't make the five-year mark, even with children. Old guy n young woman is like that since over a thousand years. It's not a big thing. It can definitely work as one party is more leading n the other following. Heck my thing, is sports, so to me it can be as good as sex . If I can ollie on to rails and kick flip, it could be ok. To some people, it's ok. Look at Newton, he lived alone n he was ok. His thing was learning. Some maybe ok, not being that close to someone in that way. Also, u have to realize having a couple relationship can be very hard, u don't necessary have a day off. U working on your relationship when your not working n when your not working, that's when u have to still work on it. The job of being married or on long term relationship may be one of the toughest in the world. I don't consider just because your getting money a job, but also living on earth. Ur working so you can keep on breathing, don't u. So as long as your breathing, your working. It's all your weakness besides your strength comes out eventually, the good, the bad and ugly in marriage or long term relationship. In this way it's a good thing, it's till death or you may wish it. Such kind of relationships are not meant to last forever. Eternity is with the Lord. We all have relationship with the eternal Lord where here or in the after life. The relationship with wife or husband is having a similar relationship with God, but with some that is much less than perfect. No human is, we will show our bad side sometimes as well as your righteous side. It's a balancing act. This constant relationship is good that it is not for eternity but till death. Imagine if a couple went through that forever, they may go nuts. So a marriage is actually a promise to God that you will keep the constant balance act to love each other, till you are free n be directly with the Lord again. When I was 25, I was dating a 50 year old . (That was the oldest I had gone, but I have also dated 16, 23, 12, 7, 6, 3, years older, my age , and 2-3 years younger.) I found him attractive, and we had a lot in common . He was brilliant, and an accomplished academic. He was very passionate about issues that were important to me. We had a lot of fun together, and had really good chemistry. Things didn't work out for a variety of reasons, but we dated for about 3 years. I don't have even the tiniest bit of daddy issues. I have an incredibly healthy, wholesome, close relationship with my dad, parents are still married, and dad was very involved every step of the way. I am now in an extremely healthy, stable relationship with someone 16 years older. I've never noticed an age gap with any of the people I've dated. People are so judgmental. Guess what, you don't have to be with someone twice your age ! But they're in love. Let them be. I'm in a relationship with a man 28 years older than me. We've been together for 6 years and couldn't be happier. No, he's not rich and no, I'm not a 'trophy wife.' We love each other and that's that. I don't want children, so I can't relate to that issue, but as long as they are consenting adults I say good for them.	Age	Age - General	1/87	1.149

Old man should have at the very least a lot of money - if he wants a young woman . Its only fair. She is too young to realize she is trading away her youth. And as an older man, you should know better. We were young once and it is unfair to impose something like this on a younger person. Their decision making is not as mature, due to less life experience. There were no other women in the world closer to his own age ? Her family should be upset and she can not be too bright. Or is not confident she can do much better in men.	Age, Old, Woman	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	3/108	2.778

I don't really see anything wrong with your relationship, not even the age difference. You love and care for each other that's paramount! You may have a younger husband or boyfriend but the person is irresponsible or you're beaten-up most of the time or worse getting murdered then forget having same age bf or husband. You're lucky you have each other and care for each other. Don't worry about the rest of the world. It's so fulfilling to hug, cuddle, take long walks, share a laugh with someone you genuinely love! My husband was 22 years older. We had one child - married , 13 years. He died and left me a widow with a 12 year old girl to take care of. He was more youthful than this man but the difference was obvious to others. If he had lived, I would be taking care of a 95 year old . I'm 72 now. I loved him but I would tell other women, don't do it. There's a price to pay. My daughter had to tell her friends her dad was not her grandpa - I think it was hard for her. (I was widowed at 40). Also. he loved her but he did not have the energy to play with her like a younger dad. If you're going to marry a much older man, my feeling from the experienc is, don't have children. When will people understand the the whole having or not having kids thing isn't a gray area. It's very black or white. Most of the time you don't go from oh I want kids and your partner says I don't and you change your mind and are ok fully with it. Sometimes that works but having kids is a pretty definitive thing to do so people have a definitive answer when they decide one way or the other. This lady is talking reverse the vasectomy and sperm donor and adopting. Now this man is in his 50s. I'm sure he's somewhat old fashioned so even if he did want kids I doubt he'd be ok with sperm donors or adopted kids. But he doesn't even wanna have his own kids why would he want to have someone else's. I'd be very surprised if they had kids those other ways	Black, Old	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - Black	2/149	1.342

Kevin Pham Assuming they had sex in beginning, the age of consent is 16-18 depending on state. Cali is 18, that's why adult filmsters need to be 18, but that 's only there are a couple of other states. It's possible to legally get knocked up by a 46 y/o man when you're 16. Then your parents would let you get married and he supposed to take care of you I guess since you have no skills.	Age, Sex	Age - General, Gender - General	2/77	2.597
Trinity Livingston Well, it balances out. You don't know when someone dies, but assuming 68 is nearer death than 50 something, a 38+ woman should have more skills. A 24+ woman has less skills, but since her husband has more life, it's even. And if the goal is big family, Sasha is prolly the last only child with a 38+ woman , while the 24 can have more...and her husband will be around longer for support...as well as raise the child without just life insurance. Mithun Menezes I think girl can "love" anyone regardless of age , just as it a girl can love another girl. Is it "the norm", maybe not. But it's evolutionary and scientifically true that most girls love someone who can "provide". They talk about it in the Discover channel all the time as well as many anthropology, sociology books. If an old man provides security and high future prospects, esp. for her children, she can certainly feel love (if not lust) for him.	Age, Old	Age - General, Age - Over 65s	2/82	2.439

Dude you need to get your body in order so you wouldn't look your age by the body . I know that all of these people who say its wrong for an older man to be with a younger woman are the same people who claim to believe in the bible knowing that the bible says that this is the most highs way when a woman gets her period she is a woman and can be married but again these so called god fearing people and their pagan religions Christianity Catholicism and Judaism don't do or teach one thing the most high says we are to do to be in his grace and protection and love but let them tell it they are and do what the most high says to do.its like people are under some kind of trans that they don't care what the most highs says to do they are gonna do what they want and they in their twisted minds think that that's what the most high wants them to do even though the bible says that we are not to lean on our own understanding but acknowledge Him in all things and he will guide our path meaning do what he says to do to the letter and he will guide our path but in their minds they don't care what he says the Bible says that a woman should never be a leader in the church and that she should be silent but they have women pastors the Bible says that a woman should cover herself because she can cause a man and a woman to fall to the sins of the flesh but they tell women to come as you are the most high doesn't care he accepts you as you are the Bible says that a woman should keep her head covered because a man is her head but that tell women the most high doesn't care about that he loves you anyway the Bible says that ties and offerings were meant for levite priests and they have nothing to do with money they were full and garment but they are robbing the congregation blind the Bible says that we are to keep the most guys Commandments laws and statutes but they teach that the laws and statutes and Commandments have passed away we don't have to keep those anymore the most High's name is and always has been yahawah but they call him God which is a Latin word short for Godarial which is the name given to the god hence Sunday worship! day worship! the bible says that the only day we are to go to church and worship him in a church setting is on the day of rest which is the Sabbath day which is Friday at sundown to Saturday at sundown but just as it is written they would they have saught to change the Sabbath day from Saturday to Sunday day! they have created this false elohim Jesus and they say that yahawah chose him as his one begotten son and that he will rule on the thrown of David and he shall rule his people Israel who's true name is yahsharal! but the book of psalms says that the most high the elohim of yahsharal chose David as his one begotten son and Jeremiah 30: says uhh e will raise David from the dead and he shall rule his people for a thousand years so if the most high chose David as his one begotten son and he is going to raise David from the dead to rule His People Israel where did Jesus come in at I'll tell you where? in what is called the New Testament!!!! this Jesus is not mentioned in the old testament 1 time not even once do you see the name Jesus in the old testament! and if you look up the name Jesus you will find that Jesus is the name of a Latin and Greek deity!!! and the word Jesus in not even pronounced Jesus its pronounced haysus!!!	Age, Blind, Nothing, Old, Woman	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	12/744	1.613

Call me negative but I don't see this as a smart idea. Yes love sometimes works in weird ways, but if i fell in love with a man 30 years my senior I'd put a break on it. I'd keep it to casual dating but no marriage. In 20 years this dude will be 77, he's gonna need people to care for him and won't be able to be actively in their kids' lives. Not long after that he'll probably pass away, leaving her somewhere mid 40's alone, youth wasted. That couldn't be me. There's roughly 7.5 billion people on the planet, surely I could find someone else. Not trying to be harsh, but that's the reality of it.	Senior, Weird	Age - Over 65s, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/119	1.681
Majority of people at the age of 77 did not require any care and are independent. What makes you think they wouldn't be an active part in their child's life? Many men for many years all over the word have had children beyond 50. It's nothing new. Even in historic times, it wasn't uncommon for older men to Father children. It's really obvious by your comment you have never been in love. Not really. Because if that theoretically happened to you, and it was genuine love, and you gave it up and tried to find someone else, it could be years, decades before you find anyone who measures up as a replacement or perhaps, never. It's just a choice you would have to make to be happy or unhappy.	Age, Nothing	Age - General, Age - Youngsters	2/129	1.55

Sadie Orsler I could acknowledge my feelings if I'd ever fall in love with someone that old and still have the ability to not throw out all common sense and logic. My future is not with them. Literally, time has made that decision. There's so much more that comes with age people just dont want to admit. As people age in general their libido lowers, so goodbye to any kind of exciting sex life, and lets not pretend that on the long run that wont be a real problem. Getting pregnant when ur with an older guy or having kids with an older woman is just not realistic given the objective quality of their reproductive organs. Get ready for family issues, or maybe getting completely shut off. People like to say their life is their life, and more power to them I guess, but having a family behind you to have your back is an important factor in life. Lots of people need that support and security. Then we get to how compatible a couple is mentally. With a 30 year age gap there's barely anything you will have in common. I'm not talking about shallow stuff like "oh yeah we both like sports and healthy food" type of stuff. Im talking about the way you look at life through a whole different lens cause of the experiences or lack thereof one has had.I could go on and on, but im a logical person. In general its just a bad idea and thats a fact, I dont care about all the naïve love talk. And yes, I actually have been in love which is why I can say love makes u do and believe stupid things, just like this. Just keep it at casual sex and keep it moving.	Age, Common, Old, Sex, Woman	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	9/300	3.0

Andi A I think that kind of difference is much more capable of having a working relationship than a 30 years difference. I'd say in general someone around 32 is at the kind of mental maturity they can be in a relationship with someone aged 47. mrvg style What are you talking about? How do you know what her life will be like when she is in her 30s and 40s? Peak? Peak of what? Can she not be at her peak now? Or at her peak when shes 60? I think people are told to have ridiculous expectations of where you 'should' be in life or where you will be or where you will want to be in x amount of years time! It's insane! It's not for you or any of us to put onto a young woman where she is supposed to be. That is yours and societies expectations, but it's HER life! As long as you do what makes you happy, why are people moaning? Isn't it their decision as adults as to whether it's practical or not? How are you ever going to find someone to be happy and in love with if you are holding them to standard, you have to be with them for longer than 50 years? Millions of people never even see a decade of happiness, or 5 years with someone you truly love!	Woman	Gender - General	1/187	0.535

some of yall dont know but when your in love with someone the age doesn't bother you nor does his old wrinkled lips. I was 26 when I met my old man but it was after i got out of a relationship with the love of my life. I drove his limo and BMW and plenty of times he left me at his home by myself and at that time i wasn't thinking about cameras so he may have left me alone just to see if he could trust me. anyways we broke up since I felt like i was only being used for his sexual pleasures and mines. we slept in the same bed and my mother knew about us because he'd come drive over to my mothers house to pick me up in his limo. He spoiled me but it wasn't enough because I felt so empty inside. It was fun when we both were respecting each others feelings but he got too caught up with me and felt like I was cheating on him because I was talking to my best friend that was a dude. He'd always say you dont love me. and right there I stopped playing his games and moved on when I felt tired of the situation. so if anyone wanna ask me any questions on what things to watch out for in an old man just say it. ill ry to reply within 48 hours. He already had two kids and I had my son. My son is one DAY older than his youngest LOL what's the odds of that. Don't mean to ramble... it's just that I'm happy for them. It's not anyone's else's business. Also, men can make babies until they die, even at 100 yrs old lol the odds definitely decrease as they get older. The problem when there is too much of a gap is psychological. When there is such a wide gap or difference the older of the two almost always assumes a position of control or that of a patriarch or matriarch. The couple does not really grow together in experiences because the older one has already been there. So the growth aspect of the relationship lacks. I would say anything greater than 5 years may suffer from that. One has to also wonder why the older one did not find a more contemporary mate. Please don't reply with irrelevant aphorisms. I am talking about real psychological differences, never mind the physical ones because there is no way in hell a 60-year- old man can match himself at 40-years old in sexual performance. As I said "never mind" so sexual and physical conditions are another argument.	Old, Sexual	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	3/143	2.098

no its love pretty sure. I was in my 20's when I felt for an old dude around 55 and the way he approached me was inside a library and he walked up to me asking if I needed help with something and he helped. He had a limo and a 2 story house that he never said anything about and so we connected and his personality was what I liked in a guy. He was gentle always but in the end he played mind tricks on me. He never touched me but wanted to teach me how to love him. I don't know why but I was always the person who got in a relationship with a guy and they always tell me I never listen and always doing what I want to do. Like no man laid their hands on me or called me names. They always either helped me and bought me stuff and was nice to me but there's always something in the relationship that made me fall out of love with the guy. I was no gold digger and only looking for long lasting healthy relationships and they all were not healthy for me. one of them never grew up but moved in with me when i was 23 we were not married and he was my first love. Then the second one I met a man age 56 we both attended church and was having sex out of marriage as well but he started using the mental abuse method slowly but im glad i left soon before I found out how worse it could get. Then there was a man I dated age 43 for 2 years and had a baby by and left him due to the bad smoking habits got worse over time. I always thought he was the only man in the world I could trust and I looked up to him so much. (he was the first white guy I dated). And thats pretty much all the men I dated between 23-32 years old . I have pondered this concept... older men can still have children, older women can not, I have always wanted a large family just took time to get my life in order like most men no one starts out wealthy. I suppose if I was in my mid 40s I could do this, but in my 50s maybe not because I would miss out on grandkids and I would just be far to old for her and my family. I also suppose I could give her financial freedom and a nice home and stability right out of the gate. Still its a big age gap and she wouldn't understand some of the things I am into because often it's things 80s and 90s kids were into. I would also feel weird because I know I would have much more life experience so I would constantly being teaching her things... it would feel more like teacher - student relationship. Still who am I to judge, you love who you love in the end.	Age, Old, Weird	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/171	1.754

II Unknown II, why do people always automatically assume that older guys who are into younger girls are pervs? That's such a stupid prejudice thing to say. It's predatory, they are only interested in your age cause they aren't able to handle women their own age , they are losers and no different than gold diggers, money and youth is replaceable that's why it's artifical, as long as these old men cling to old traditional age gaps they are gonna always be losers	Age, Old	Age - General, Age - Over 65s	5/55	9.091
Diana that's exactly why young girls fall for older men, security and he knows, by that age , what a woman needs. I've seen men get a young girl and try to 'raise her' to his specifications. In other countries this age gap is not so unusual..just in America. I've been in her shoes, 30 yrs ago but didn't stay there. The younger person 'loses' so much. I hope she gets the child that she wants and the one he may never, sadly, see grow up.	Age, Woman	Age - General, Gender - General	3/85	3.529

MSR If you can't understand why a Woman who wants children would go for an older established man, you don't understand Women. Women are way more strategic when it comes to choosong a partner for reproduction, they can't afford not to be, their children will literally pay for a Mother's poor choice of mate. If he is established that means he has life insurance, retirement accounts and probably investments, she gets all (or his children, but basically her) that in the event he dies.	Woman	Gender - General	1/84	1.19
Donna Gran de Valeur so basically, you're saying she's after his money, that's a bit shallow isn't it? I thought having kids was about love, and how her children will look? I still can't get my head around a beautiful young women wanting to get into bed with an old man, I mean let's be real here, he's 57 but he looks more like 67, and it gount to get worse. Also he can't have children, I know they're trying to reverse that, but I don't know, I think it's very selfish of him, if he truly loved her I think he should have turned her away for her own good.....but no, he wants to do a beautiful young girl every night! This ain't love.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/125	0.8

Not really understanding why people are weirded out by this couple. These are two consenting adults. And I am currently in my second long term relationship with an older man. The first was 16 years my senior , and the current 19 years. Amanda Lewis You welcome :) let them freak out, jump of the cliff, do or say what's please them. So, don't let ignorance people effect your relationship, think of it they are jealous of both of you. And if they have a chance to be with older men, take my world they will do it. You are right, not only they want sex , they don't know what women want if they have financial problem or any problem, quickly they run to live under their parents roof or asking for money or advise. I heard you, women want someone to treat them right like a lady, respect them as a woman , guide them, take care of them (20+ men they are barely can take care of themselves if not at all). So, what ever you heard you don't like, just let it go from one ear and exit from the other ear. And if you need any advise or talk about anything, I'm here for you. Interesting story... between me and my husband there is also a similar age gap of 26 years. We met when I was 19, and people have been always looking at me as a gold digger because he used to have a nice car, because I seemed to be young and stupid. They were just judging all the time...and doing stupid useless questions- oh well, what will you do in 20 years when he will get old ...or when he will die. Some people can't imagine themselves in certain situations and that is why they believe them impossible. People the life is NOW, and the life is here. I want to live every second. It's been beautiful 13 years now..people in the meantime got bored talking about us. They stopped looking at me as a gold digger as I got a nice job, did career and have been financially completely independent over years. I could not wish for a better man in every aspect. Eri B, I must say that I find that very harsh. If you would like sell your body, doing meth and marry a serial killer, I could kinda understand if your brother would have a difficult time talking to you, but all you did was marry the man you love. How is that wrong? Really, tell me what is the 'acceptable' age gap between couples? I am 72 but when I tell the people that I meet they don't believe me. But I have been asked by the ladies on different site to hook up with them and say age didn't matter but it does to me. I am not looking for a 20 or 30 year old Lady. I am past the age of wanting to have a child. Cause lets face it if the baby is a girl and when she finds her match and wants to be married to the guy will I be able to walk her down the isle like all young ladies wants their father to do for them? So lets face it for this discussion she is 20 that would make me 92 if I would still be alive or if so would I have my memory at to what I was doing that day? Age difference is such a western concern, here Asia) it is common for young girls to marry much older men. Many western men 65 years and older marry women as much as 40 years younger and have kids. I do not agree with having kids in this situation since the child may not have a father to see them graduate from high school, let alone get married; not financial concern as much as lack of parental guidance and care. Exactly. Look at it this way: because of social programming/brainwashing/conditioning, people don't publicly criticise homosexual couples and same sex couples being allowed to raise adopted children. Go get a man with functioning sperm. Even over 40 men have defects in their sperm, low volume or motility. Most fertility issues are actually the man's problem if hes over 45 and she's not. Also this is an age fetish on both sides. Most mentally stable people especially a woman would want someone thier own age to grow with. I don't see a problem with the age difference at all. If they are happy with each other and love each other who are we to judge them? It's nobody's business! I was with a man who was 36.5 years older then me and we were together for 11.5 years. I was 18 years old when I met him and he was 54 years old . He served in the Canadian Armed Forces for 34 from 1952 to 1996. He retired from the military at 49. He passed away in 2012 from prostate cancer at the age of 66. But I had the most beautiful 11.5 years of my life with him! He was my hero and the Love of my Life! Our love for each other got stronger and stronger every second of everyday! I miss him every day of my life. I still love him deeply and he was the best thing to have ever happen to me. I wish he was still here with me. I know he is now in a better place now that is free from any pain. "R.I.P Butchie!. I love you when you were alive. We have been brought up in an era, where it is frowned upon for the elder man/ woman to be with the younger person. At the end of the day, she is of age , he is also. I'm not saying it is right, because yes in our minds it is wrong, how can it not look wrong or be wrong? But like I said, when we reach a certain age , we are responsible for ourselves and let's be absolutely honest, it is rife with cougars and men who prefer the younger woman , along with younger women and men alike who prefer the elder .Moral of my opinion: If it isn't illegal and it makes you happy, do it, because no matter what, people will always have an opinion about you whether it's good or bad. "Oh my god, I'm getting married. This is what I'm "supposed" to do. Raise a family." - - What the hell says you HAVE to have kids when you get married? Ugh. You don't NEED to have kids. Also, there are so many unwanted kids who are up for adoption! Adopt, dammit! Don't make your husband get a reverse vasectomy because of what you suddenly want, despite being supposedly "okay" with it in the beginning. Or get implanted. There are options! What is it with women who think their dreams of having kids ENDS with the news that their hubby/boyfriend is shooting blanks?! $6,000 is NOT worth it! I didn't know it costs $2k for implantation. That's ridiculous. I just did a bit of research on the cost of adoption, which is also crazy expensive, but can be done for free or low cost through foster care. So, yes, totally doable on a budget. While I do understand her parents' concerns, I wish they weren't so fixated on them being "alone" if they don't have kids. They have each other, a cat, friends, and family. They're not alone. That's like saying my fiance and I are gonna be miserable and alone because we're choosing to not procreate. >.> Yeah... and our fun, lighthearted conversations about our future furbabies is totally covering for the fact that we're both dying on the inside about our lonely, bleak years ahead of us. ;;; I admit they do look like a fun couple. He's a silly, goofy guy and she's got a dorky side. I can see why they get along. Age doesn't matter when it's between two consenting adults. These two are in completely different stages of life. She wants kids and a family he wants a hot young girl to take care of him and spend his days with. I love people like this. From the time we're born, people say to live the life you want, you only get one chance, look back and be able to say "No regrets, I did it my way." And so few of us actually live that way. It takes a lot of courage, not just once, but day after day. This woman seems very smart and level-headed and doesn't give the impression that she's a dingbat or gold digger. Her whole family seems pretty smart and cool as well. And even if they do have a kid, it will be college-aged when the dad starts to slow down. Not the end of the world. So for everyone judging and condemning this choice and pretending they know what's best for someone else's life: you don't know. None of us know. We're all doing life for the very first time ever, so no one is the expert. Have as much fun with it as you can, because it'll be gone before you know it.	Woman	Gender - General	1/171	0.585

You can't control who you fall in love with. I'm 33 and dating a 19 year old . I've logically thought about this for months but in the end we make eachother happy. Both our families support us and honestly life is too short to worry about what other people think.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/50	2.0

We my bride and myself could and may write a book on this phantom. Its very unique. The big issue is the obvious. 30plus years ago difference. For one she is older than my own daughter's. Well my daughter's are very supportive and understanding. 2 it's the obvious fact I will not live long enough to finish the journey with her. 3 a question everyone is thinking about. Money. Is she in it for the money. But of course she is. This is what the term sugar daddy baby relationships is about. Men looking to be with most beautiful women and those women want to be with men whom can afford to spoil them.This all said it is possible and has happened that the relationship can be a real love affair. Love is unconditional. Love Is not only sex . Its many things combined. With all this I will wait for all the negative comments. Lol we are use to it	Sex	Gender - General	1/161	0.621

They are such a cute couple..My husband and I have friends with that type of age difference..They are not the normal gold digger type girls like I thought they would be. I think it is kind of like their brain is more mature than it should be for their age . When we would get invited to affairs I was the one that was always worried that they just might stick their noses up at me. I am a little younger than my husband but not to that extreme. I am on my final marriage. I already had all my children and they are all grown and he never wanted any which is exactly what I preferred and I have no ex wife to deal with. My previous husband was in my own age bracket, slim trim and the active type, soft ball Dad type. This one now is completely a different type. He is a musician and song writer. He weighs twice as much as I do. He treats me like a Queen. I am serious. I have never had someone care for me as much as he does or treat me as good as he does. I had to hang up my Nursing cap because I fell and broke some vertebrae and ended up having surgery. He stayed over night at the hospital with me..When I came home he took complete care of me..I say if this man treats you good then you better hang on tight .	Age	Age - General	3/249	1.205

One of my great loves was 19 years older than I am. We met when I was 26 (but I looked much longer than that) and he was 45. We were together for 6 years and it did not work out. It boils down to him not being comfortable with our age difference but there had to be more to it. We are still friends to this day (over 20 years later) and I even thought we may get back together. However, he really hasn't changed much and so I am keeping our relationship in the past where it belongs. It can be a complicated thing. But I am really glad to see these two making it work. One thing to realize with that age difference is that you will eventually become his nurse at the prime of your life: The body starts to deteriorate. You'll be in your prime. You may want to take trips through the cobblestones of Europe or the peaks of the Himalayas. But his knees will not be able to hold out. He'll have arthritis. Many ailments. Benni hop my fiance is 21 years older than me but he still looks like 5 years older than me. He used to tell me When I was 8, he was cheated on and got broken by his gf for 7 years. We met since 2012 and started only as friends in the same faith. I probably fell inlove at first sight with his name and character as a man of God, then i remember I just prayed to God about the same man to be with for the rest of my life through his message box and then deleted it right away to avoid from being sent. But what an amazing God HE HAS HEARD/READ my prayer message in 2012 and made us together this year.We got to know each other better in August 2018 and still going strong. Now I can say that GOD IS REALLY THE GREAT MATCH MAKER. Age doesnt matter... wealth, money, materials dont matter. Old men deserve genuine young loving women to be their wives to love longer. Idk what I'm doing Why do I hear the same weak argument? Age and maturity should be completely separate things. I know some people that are 20 and act 13, and some that are 13 and act 20. The legal age of an adult is 18. 17,16,15 etc.. you are still considered a minor within the Charter of Rights and Freedom. This isn't about how mature you are at whatever age , yes you can be 25 but may act like you are 13 but you are still considered an adult. This is all a part of legal matter, not how developed you are. Everyone develops physically and mentally at different rates and ways.	Age	Age - General	2/75	2.667

"marry an old man so you will have a wonderful life" uh uh! I dont think so. If youre young and free, choose your perfect match. I prefer to grow and work hard with my partner to achieve our goals together. It doesnt look nice to marry someone older than your father. But I thought that she might felt that he is the perfect one, so we dont have the right to judge.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/73	1.37

The way I see it, 30 years isn't really that much when you're 85 and you've had the joy of spending the last 30 years with the love of your life. Youd only wish you had another 30... but who doesn't? For whatever reason, almost all the women I date are about 26 years younger than me. I don't go looking for it and I always tell them that I am probably their parents age , sometimes older lol. But when your personalities truly click it's not about age anymore. A good relationship is all about two people that can be best friends, that view life the same way and are compatible emotionally, mentally and sexually. If you have those things, then you can find happiness. Could one die before the other, yes, but in life there no guarantees so you can't get all caught up with what the future may bring (within reason).Some individuals will show disdain for a couple that is mixed race , which obviously is ridiculous, so I just figure that I may as well add the whole age thing cause you will never make everyone happy anyways. ;0)I am happy that this couple was able to get past what others thought and find what they were looking for	Age, Race	Age - General, Ethnicity - General	4/172	2.326

Honestly. Love is Love. & I'm sorry but, it is completely relatable that any Intelligent, Moral bound and kind heart would fall for someone with the same heart. I'm in my twenties and I have NEVER had honest relations w someone my age even my first boyfriend was 4 almost 5 years older than me. I cannot seem to click with males my age on majority of my views, goals, culture views even political views. One person generally settles bc they believe it's their best option out of who they've crossed paths with. Idk I can't even imagine finding someone who Agrees with even the basics of my make up bc I have never came across anyone who has. I definitely can see the foundation of their relationship. I think the reason this appears so weird is because it is rare, people also probably hide it, therefore you see this age gap less and now that the internet is a thing media has made the entire world more judgemental. Kris 82 You're right, bud. I was blinded by how much I loved her, but she never really cared about me at all. She just drained me. We were friends for about 6 months, then we started dating. I loved the facade she portrayed as a caring, honest, gentle person. I proposed to her 9 months later, and we were married a year after that day. 6 weeks into the marriage sure turned into a total narcissist. She became very secretive, started flirting with everybody, and stopped wanting to be intimate. I caught her one night getting way too close to one of my friends, and confronted her about it. She suddenly got out of control. That was the moment I knew she was a narcissist, and she was hiding who she was the entire time, up until the marriage. She told me after she left that she was just using me for sex , and to get popular, and that she had been sleeping with three other men the whole time we knew each other. So yeah, I'm still pretty messed up. It's gonna take somebody really special for me to trust again. But I definitely learned how to spot a narcissist now, and how to be much more careful. By the way, do you know what a narcissist is? Just wondering, because most people don't really know what one is.	Sex	Gender - General	1/231	0.433

Yes I know what it is. It's a person so into themselves and their beauty that all they care about is themselves, with women you can see their narcissistic side when they check themselves out constantly in mirrors, windows, etc. I've come to realize over the years there is a constant fight between white (love) and black (ego, evil) energy in this world. Very many people have split personalities, where sometimes their good side manifests themselves other times the bad egotistical side takes over. Whenever you expose the evil deeds to a very egotistical person and confront them you're always faced with hostility. You're a good person and this was an attack on you by the evil meant to break you down. I've gone through plenty of those, although with women I've always been cautious as my parents were fighting with eachother viciously when I was younger. That led me to be very careful and analytical of women out of fear of getting my potential children through a disfunctional family experience. I went out with plenty of them throughout the years but I always noticed these small cues that something was wrong, often times I saw them flirting with others or looking at them when with me. It always led me to give up on them and move on as I'd rather not take the risk of going through what you and so many others went through. There are good women out there but they're more behind the scenes. I hope you find your other half that will refill your cup. It's always a fight though, nothing comes easy when you don't go by the mainstream rules of materialism, sex and quick rewards. All the best to you my friend. Never lose hope.	Black, Nothing, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	3/293	1.024

Most (not all) young women would be much happier with men around twice their age , no question. But in these times, older men really can't and should not even approach young women. There is too much risk, and on several levels. So I don't know how these match-ups happen, but there should probably be a lot more of them.	Age	Age - General	1/59	1.695

I'm guessing economic stability? I really don't see any other reason why any woman my age would get with a man who could easily look like their grandpa (he looks so much older than 50). I'm slightly older than the woman in this video and her partner does genuinely look older than my grandfather who still doesn't even have that much grey hair and hasn't gone bald , so I'd put economic stability as the main factor. After some time spent with him, i noticed that he's my Mr. Right. I was told that he has feelings towards me too. But because of his age , I kept holding back my feelings and kept trying to avoid him. I admitted I prefer older man but absolutely not as old as him! There were times i quarrelled with him (I did that on purpose everytime as I wanted him to keep distance from me just because of my childish act) But ,my heart can't let go, I felt very bad ,lastly I texted him and apologised. Look, see past what you see on the surface, what their bodies look like. The man is not elderly and she's not a teenager, these are two adults. They are capable of living life together and could raise a family if they wanted. It's well known that women mature a bit faster than men, and with maturity comes different expectations out of life. Don't we all want to obtain the goals we want out of life? Whatever that is. To find a loving partner and experience real love, to have fulfillment in the work you do, to feel you have a purpose or to have children and create a family. What is wrong with someone pursuing what they want if it's not harming another person...even more so if what you are pursuing brings joy to another human being. Don't you think the world would be a better place if MORE people found personal happiness like these two have? The world would improve if more and more people would and could find happiness, joy and love. These two have found that. I'm not a woman , but I can understand that she most likely finds a maturity and a level-headedness in this man she's met, that she most likely wouldn't find in a 20-something year old man. For you men out there, think about what you were like in your mid 20's, even into your 30's. You were probably impulsive, irresponsible with things in your life, valued personal satisfaction and fun over more important things, didn't have your career objectives quite sorted out yet, most likely had the "fire" of your youth in regard to being jealous, a bit insecure about yourself. Sometimes and rightfully so, this is not something women want to deal with. They don't want to take on the burden of the issues of your youth. A solution for some women can be to find a well established older man to partner with and avoid the drama of youth. Does anyone agree or am I completely off base here?I know a lot of the toxic comments are most likely from very young men who see this purely from a sexual standpoint. These two have been together for 7 years now, so at this point, you most likely know this is for real. This is the real deal that has staying power and has produced a deeper love. That passionate early relationship sex thing wears off after a while in a long term relationship. You'll have passionate moments, but they won't be as frequent as they were in a brand new relationship. It becomes something deeper and more meaningful with time. Think about this for a minute. Then think about these two people in the video and how you might be judging them.	Elderly, Old, Sex, Sexual, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	5/464	1.078

Two consenting adults have every right to live however they choose. He actually isn't that old in my opinion, however, me being her age , her opinions and mindset are still changing. I hope he realizes that how she is now, she may not be in a few years. I'm a VERY different person than I was even a year ago. Her personality, her mindset, wants and needs are still not done developing. She may be attracted and infatuated with him now, but she very well may feel differently a year from now. She's an adult, and can decide what she wants. I've always had somewhat of an attraction to older men. There is just something about them. Maybe not as old as him, but there's definitely something much sexier about an older man to young women and A LOT of women feel that way. It definitely is surprising to see her attracted to a man THAT much older, but to each their own. I wish them nothing but happiness, and as of now they do seem truly happy. I am also that type of person who is into older men. They are more mature, wiser, and smarter which are the reasons why i fell for a guy 9 years older than me. I met him last summer. He had more experience in life than me and he taught me a lot. I was just a 16 year old girl trying to find meaning in life next to a man who followed his bliss. I wanted to runaway with him so bad. Depression and anxiety have nothing to do with crying and being sad. Its the constant feeling of being numb, scared and tired at the same time. When he first came into my life, I actually felt something for the first time in a while. As we got closer, things felt so different. The feeling was something beyond. I was blissful.I have never been myself ever next to someone but him. I told him I wanted to runaway with him and that was the time when we lost in touch. I was going crazy about running away and maybe that's why he left. Soon I realized he was a good man. He did only what was good for me even though he wanted to runaway with me. I remember him saying that he wanted to runaway with me but he couldn't. He loved me and did what was best for me. We were never into any sexual relationship.People say you never miss the person, you miss the feeling. But I miss the feeling and him both so much because he was a man unlike any other. I guess he was a star that would appear in my life and disappear. totes magoats You probably have money, because every time I see somebody that has a house that nice, I automatically think they have at least a little bit of money. Not saying they're rich, but he's middle class. Plus, cops make 6 figures where I live. Even rookie cops start out at $55,000 per year, here. I used to make about $65,000 annually, as an independent contractor, and that was quite a bit of money. Had I been more responsible with it, I would have had my mortgage paid off, and wouldn't have lost my house. In the end, I was seriously injured in a car accident, and was never able to work again. Now I'm disabled , and barely draw $1,200 a month. So think next time you say people don't have money, because I really don't have money. I barely live. My parents were 25 years apart when they married. Overall, I see nothing wrong with any of this. They are two consenting adults who love each other, seem to be in a healthy marriage, and support each other greatly from the looks of it. Hell, I rather marry someone who is 20+ years apart who loves, supports, and makes me happy than marry someone the around the same age who potentially may not be the right one. Yes, I know marriage isn't something you rush into either, so no need to mention this. Overall, if they're happy and not hurting anyone then let them be :) <3. People may judge them...YES. We also got the judging when I and my fiance first reveal our relationship to the public. I am currently 22years old and he is 42 years old . Yes you can see a definite age gap but it didn't matter because we both do things the same way, live the things the same way. We understand each other as much as possible. He is the ideal man I have dreamt of that will not just be a boyfriend for a couple of years but for a lifetime. Its easy to judge them because you only look in the outside and you all dont know them but the truth, they love each other so much, the case is just he found his other half 3 decades later and she found her other half in the person of a matured guy. I totally support the couple and the future they have. They gave more inspiration to keep my relationship and to start our life as married couple soon Congratulations to them that they made it for 7 years. More years to come for them. The fact that the doctor doesn't mention that the child might grow up with health complications is sorta concerning? It's been shown that babies born to an older father, 45+ years, tend to have more medical issues than those born to a younger father. This could include premature birth, lower birth weight and being admitted to neonatal intensive care (14 of babies studied who have been born from an older father).Studies have also shown that 18 of the babies studied, based on researchers at Stanford University, have a higher chance of getting seizures and score very low on the Apgar health test, not to mention that the mother had developed gestational diabetes, or at least the risk was higher, when conceiving with an older partner. Michael Eisenburg, a senior author on this report, has come out and said, that couples should take into consideration not just the father's, but also the mother's age when family planning. 'This is something else to take into consideration,' he said. 'There are potential risks with waiting. Men should not think that they have an unlimited runway.' Eisenburg has also stated, however, that these complications aren't very significant, with the babies being only about 20g lighter or are born on average, less than a day premature. But WHY in the name of God would you want to take the risk?So, all the comments on here supporting their decision on having child and going on about how it's better to have a father who cares about their child instead of her being a single mother, think about the health complications that child may face because of this man. Also consider the fact that he hasn't even produced any semen in the last 25 years! Unless they adopt or she gets an artificial insemination from a donor who is younger than good ol' Larry over here, the fact that he is quite old and could possibly bring a child into this world who isn't able to perform to his/her peak, overrules all of that. Samara K Hun , the fact that you're 13 may be the reason why you didn't read properly what I wrote. I did not say that "every single person born of an older father has medical conditions". Just like not every single person born from an older mother has a medical condition, but that does NOT mean that there aren't kids that have problems. What I did say was that children born from an older father TEND to be more prone to these things. I'm happy for you that you are a very healthy person and I also hope that you live a very long life, but just because you don't have any complications, does not mean someone else in the same situation doesn't. And I didn't say that YOU have a medical problem. Please read these things correctly before getting butt hurt over it. But then again, you are a child, so I understand that you might not have fully comprehended what I wrote.	Hun	Nationality - German	1/164	0.61
That guys only 50?!Wow. His looks became aged quickly. ive seen good looking 50 yr olds. This guy aint one of them. He must have made her feel precious, special and, thats all she wanted. You know, rather than "just another girl". Hes more experienced. He probably gets very excited by her And verbalises his desire for her while hes going at it. This would make any women feel like they are an object of desire. Which is something society promotes. Im not suprised by this. My ex boyfriend was 16 years older than me. At 24 when I met him, he was 40, well established, had a home, a car, a career...and I was just out of college and had met him when I was out of work. No, money is not why I started to date him...to this day, I'm honestly not sure why I did it other than not wanting to be alone. He waited on me hand and foot, took care of me financially (which I think ended up hurting me in the end more than helping me, it made me lazy and I think I lost my direction and motivation to be independent). I was also in the grip of active drug addiction (still, I swear, money was not my motivation behind starting to date him, but it started to become why I stayed). He knew I was a user, had seen me use, had given me money so I wouldn't be dope sick, had used other drugs with me (never used heroin with me but we smoked weed), I'm maybe getting too in depth here. I'm starting to just describe a very unhealthy relationship, mainly because of me. However, my ex seemed to find purpose in taking care of me, in picking me up when I fell, and he ultimately became my biggest enabler.I went to rehab and the second that I got clean I realized that I had to leave. I knew how to manipulate him with ease and was self aware enough to worry that I would relapse if I went back to him, knowing I could get drugs easily, knowing that I knew exactly what to say. He had become more like a father, and I more like his child...and I realized that I had to be high to have sex with him. I realize that this is completely different than the couple featured here. I realize that I was largely the problem...but I have known other females who dated much older men and it ended up in the same fashion, more of a dad and a daughter. It's gross to think about .I am happy that this couple has found love. They are FAR healthier than me and my ex were, very obviously. However there was still something that felt parental. Maybe it's just my past manipulating what I see, but I don't know.It was hard to not think that if we had kids, when they graduated college their dad might be in a nursing home (dramatic, but you know what I mean...) I thought about it all the time. The drugs kept me there.I cringe looking back, and I'm sorry this was long and maybe irrelevant because we were not healthy and this couple seems to be, and my blessings are with them (not that they matter), but I would say (drug addict or not lol): be cautious. Look at what you want your life to be 5, 10, 25+ years down the road. Consider if you want children, even if you don't want them right now.I have been clean now for a year and a half and am in a healthy, loving, amazing relationship with the love of my life, who is only 5 years older than me. We relate to each other more, we enjoy the same things, we understand each other much more easily, we see eye to eye. If she can feel that way with a man twice her age, wonderful. But I could not, and I think drugs or no drugs—we would never have fit right. I already have one dad, I don't need another (and I certainly don't want to feel like I'm dating my parental figure).That was a gross period of my life. New chapter now.	Age, Drug addict, Sex	Age - General, Behavioural Addiction - Drugs, Gender - General	3/634	0.473

I don't buy that these things could be real love. I mean what old man or woman wouldn't love to be with someone in their 20s or 30s? They're not in the same stage of life though and if they do have kids they'll have to grow up without a father because he'll die much sooner than her. It's not nice to criticize someone for having their own opinion and especially when you don't know the statistics behind their financial situation. Everyone values different things a little more than others is all. And may I also point out that the video only shows a fragment of their debate? Logically, and biologically, yes, it wouldn't be their child. Plain and simple.But nothing about their relationship displayed in the video indicates they aren't capable of loving any child as is. Strange. What ever floats their boat. Me I was really shallow in dating never would date someone shorter then me always had to be tall. Never dated anyone not even a year younger felt weird . Now I see people dating with 5 years and up gap. I couldn't do it. Just didn't feel right. If she is happy it's her that's going to have to take care of him in his older age . She seems to not mind. When my husband was 25 I was born.There's a 25 year gap between us.Don't judge and don't be rude.He's excellent we got together when I was 23 and he was 48.We have 3 little girls together and I have 4 from a previous marriage and he's excellent with all of our beautiful children.When we had our 1st daughter together she's now 6,when she was born she had to go straight into the Newborn Intensive Care Unit "NICU".When he wheeled me into the NICU the nurse that was taking care of our daughter said "Oh this must be Grandpa" we just both laughed and said no this is my husband.Let me just tell you she was so embarrassed her faced turned bright red and she kept apologizing,It was really hilarious and we still talk about to this day.My husband was married for almost 30 years to his late wife.He was a widower when we met.He was actually my dad best friend.I had never met him before that one night back on January 13,2012.His late wife couldn't have kids and he always wanted them so I had 4 children already so he said "this could be fun".Well about 2 months later we found out I was pregnant with his 1st child.His parents are pushing 80 years old and his dad owns his own Sandblasting company and gets up and paints and sandblast everyday until it's dark out.His mom worked for Olan Mills and retired from there.He said if he would've had kids in his 20's and 30's that he would've been too selfish because he loves his cars and has plenty of them.He used to street race and work on cars for fun.Now that he has children he doesn't race anymore he used to not have a care in the world but said his children has changed all of that and he knows he has to stay alive for them. I don't see anything wrong with this two persons being together.. it's not like the young lady in under age and is in school.. she old enough to be with what ever guy she desire... Being with someone the same age as yourself.. those not mean you will be happy... I see a lot of people who age difference is not far from each other.. and the relationship most of the time sucks.... Listen if a woman or man is older then someone nothing is wrong main thing is that you both are happy... Just things you can do with a young person. You may not be able to many with a older one... I am believe people like her suffer from the Oedipus complex, but more likely for her it is the Electra complex. Since she cannot have her father, a man his age or older will be her way of fulfilling this. I mean a few years, even maybe 10, is common but when you are going into the spectrum where the significant other could be a father or grandfather to her, there is underlying issues. That being said, she has to realize that there will be many complications. It is their life so no one can tell them how to live it if it is in the bounds of the law, but it just doesn't seem mentally healthy. To each their own. This is overall ok. Nothing in the bible actually stops this. Because she is not a child. I completely support this. I just hope she doesn't completely break down when he dies.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/32	3.125
I would choose an extremely older man, twice my age (even thrice). As long s he loves me, I love him. We connect. We are happy. I mean what is the point of having a young guy who treats you like crap, he doesn't care about you. You don't love each other. Just because your age is "acceptable/recommended"?? Just to keep the world happy? What about your own happiness? It should come first. And if that means you found it in an older partner, so be it! I simply don't care about age ! Am happy for them. They seem to honestly care about each other	Age	Age - General	3/104	2.885
So if your son is 10 would you let him date a 2 year old and if your daughter is 13 you would let her date a 72 year old ????!!	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/30	6.667
+Gabriell Williams Your example is ridiculous. The discussion has nothing to do with underage kids.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/15	6.667
Tim Ritter The girl was underage when dating the older guy so what do you mean? And the example is PERFECT in reference to years with age difference	Age	Age - General	1/28	3.571
Age does matter. Guy is a pervert to pick on such a young woman . Or maybe she's using him as her sugar daddy.	Age, Woman	Age - General, Gender - General	2/23	8.696
Great example you all are setting for your kids"Honey you are 12, but it is okay to date that 15 year old "WHAT??!?!!!	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/24	4.167
Gabriell Williams who say that? a stupid person like you only , brain damage when you give an stupid opinion like yours, and I'm a guy you idiot, but I understand that love doesn't came in ages, when you old enough to decide, but stupidity will stay with you 4ever.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/50	2.0
Gabriell Williams oooo!!!! Hahaha my bad , you'll find a good old man that will love you	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/18	5.556
Gabriell Williams if not I'll just wait when you get to 85 years old	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/15	6.667
+shaunette williams "Creepy" is the catch word that people have been using for about a decade to hate on men. Misandry . It became socially acceptable, but is still man-hating, and is as unacceptable as misogyny . Older men being attracted to very young women is natural and has been since about a billion eons ago. As is young women being attracted to much older men.	Misandry, Misogyny	Gender - General	2/64	3.125
