Black hybrids like aliens police don't care!Latest answerBlack, black second generation, black bastard must all get out of China! With the reform and opening up, the overall progress of the country, black people who want to make money and have a place of stability come to our country. These black people have never returned to their hometown to serve their hometown, build their own country, and build the concept of Africa. They only know that they go to places that are easy to live in, seek personal interests in stable places, reside in other ethnic groups. China has the fastest development, China is open, China and Africa are friendly, Chinese women are beautiful and free, etc. Let these black people stay away from their hometown and try every means to seek to settle in China! In Guangzhou alone, the number of African blacks, whether legally or illegally, is at least 300,000, of which more than 20,000 are legal immigrants and the rest are all illegal immigrants or visa expired. Black males account for more than 90 and are increasing at a rate of 30-40 every year like viruses. Even now they are living in China. One in ten Guangzhou people is black. This is a tragic phenomenon. It is a certainty that black people will become the 57th ethnic group of the Chinese nation. Black people flock to bars and karaoke bars at night and harass women indiscriminately on the campus streets. Unmarried or married, basically, at least 60 of Guangzhou's women have been harassed by black people. Guangzhou's mixed-race population has increased significantly. There have been many conflicts between yellow and black mixed-race blacks on campus. The parasitic surname race is a current liability of any country. Former US President Nixon also used words similar to Despairs to describe black people. They are African-Americans, have no great civilization, have no great scientists, and the crime rate is 7-8 times higher than that of white people. They will only use their super-strong ability to mix with local women to obtain the right of abode or their nationality to parasitic with this nation. Maybe they can play basketball, sing and rap and then play with your women at ease. Eating your family's food is not the same for our family. Especially those black people who are active in our media need to be banned! However, in China, there should never be a large number of black people. If the ethnic origin of the Han people is really polluted by chimpanzees, the Qin and Han masters cry to death, the Tang and Song gifted scholars cry to death, the three great generals cry to death, the four great beauties cry to death, Zhuge Liang cry to death, the Pan An Song Yu cry to death, the Tang and Song eight people cry to death, the Qin Huai eight Yan cry to death, the Ran Min cry to death, the low quality of the black people. Look at the national race * * in France and England, it is because some countries in Western Europe ignored the restrictions on foreign immigration and the punishment for smuggling, and are now quickly occupied by the rapidly reproducing black people and Arabs. Now Britain and France regret it too late! And blacks are recognized as the race with the worst quality. In many countries, the crime rate in black communities is the highest and most chaotic. Half of the prisons in Guangzhou and Dongguan are black. Black people occupied France, and former	African, Age, Black, Ethnic, Nation, Nationality, Race, Yellow	Age - General, Ethnicity - Asian (East-China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam), Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General, Nationality - Chinese, Nationality - General, Nationality - Japanese	40/775	5.161

Interviewer is very annoying. France and most other European countries have vastly different socio-cultural make-ups to America. You can't just come here with that "black/white devision" mentality, it's seen as offensive. At worst a "black" person in Europe would be called on their country of origin, but you can't lump "black" people here as one group since they have background from different places in Africa.Also how is the interviewer black???? He looks clearly mixed. Hello i'm a french guy and i ated to talk about this topic. So for us most part of black people in frace are either from africa straight from their parents or from the indies like guadeloupe, martinique etc.Do we look like black americans?: In general i'd say no but some of us look straight like depending on the country. I mean dont think black ppl are all the same like all asians aren't the same either! Their origins are also different because in africa, they're a lot of ppl claiming their origins from the middle east . I think that black people in america share dna with the so called black hebrew of afria aka the bantu people.Because let me tell you for sure, you dont look like certain ethnies like soninke, bambara, peulh etc. Let's seek knowledge people. My message is not to divide but just to inform. Hope it's been helpfull, peace and love.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	5/158	3.165

Well, as for the "immigration problem" of black people from African or other black former colonies, keep in mind that "those people" are still French nationals. It just takes loads of paperwork if you are "born in a former French colony" or born to a parent born in a former French colony, to get your "papers" of French nationality . It takes like 8 months (even though it's automatic) and everything backlogs in Nantes. These so called "unwanted immigrants" are not, NOT-FRENCH. Now if you're talking about the ones from, I don't know, Mars, or the former ENGLISH colonies, then that's different....I mean, people are all up in arms about France getting full of, say, Syrian immigrants - well Syria was part of the French Empire until about 1941. There'd still be loads of people born in Syria since then who had a parent born there when it was still "French." That's not an "illegal immigrant ," it's a French person, if they had all their papers sorted in the aforementioned manner either before coming or soon after. I think this would be a wonderful opportunity to pause for a moment and give thanks for the great contributions that the Black community has made to society. Their peaceful and generous nature make them ideal neighbors, lending testimony to their exceptional family values and parenting skills unrivaled by any other culture. Their commitment to academic excellence enriches our schools and serves as an example to all who hope to achieve prominence as a people. Real estate values are fueled by the mix of African Americans into an area due to their caring and respectful nature for these communities, an example of all they have achieved through their enthusiasm for self- improvement by hard work and a self-reliant can-do culture of integrity and honor. it seems as if your trying to bring your own social issues from the united states to France. France is not large on racism , so you should not be trying to disease the country with the idea that their culture is racist . America is torn in half by this, so it is not nice that you are trying to add this paranoia, and flame that will burn and destroy, to this peaceful and beautiful country. I understand you want to defend your race and background, but please keep the issues that are happening in America, in America. I don't mean to be rude, and I know that you likely weren't trying to do this, but it almost seems that you were trying to make it seem as if the French were racist . which again, you probably weren't purposefully doing that. If there's more than 3...then I won't be a wise black man once said. Regardless of what color you are it's absolute fact wherever groups of black people are, the odds of violence occurring to you goes through the roof. That's not racism ...it's reality. They will continue blaming whites rather than accepting personal responsibility. Funny thing is that the violence occurs like clockwork whether any whites are there or not. In fact if any whites are there it's likely that they will be the first ones to experience the violence from the black mob. This won't change until black culture addresses the real issue of blacks abandoning their children. It happens in all cultures to vastly different degrees. A 70 fatherless rate among blacks is what's driving this insanity. The mothers are equally to blame as they are making these poor choices for their kids and ensuring the black crime cycle will continue to grow. It's not complicated and it's certainly not the fault of white people who face the same issues when making the same poor choices. SJW PC culture only adds to the issue. I don't think these interviews were carried out properly the questions were not consistent or objective. He spoke from point of view as an american without understanding French society. It seems to me that the French place a lot on who you are culturally. When the first black man said he was born in France so he identifies as french is an example of this , he is culturally French and French by nationality . Now when he interviews the white French man he asks how do they treat African immigrants he answered the french are racists, now immigrants would be different culturally and would come up against prejudice (btw this happens in multiple countries regardless of race , heck people can be of the same race and treat immigrants to their country with discrimination). It was very sad when the creator of this video tried to imposed the American obsession with race on French people. In France it is not proper to identify people by color of skin. It looks like he was trying to mix ironic comedy and ask a serious question. There are a lot of issues regarding race in America. What is wrong with seeing if other countries are dealing with the same issues or have found a better way to deal with those issues. There are not a lot of images in the American media of lives of blacks in European countries. So people are curious about access to jobs, housing, education and if it is better in Europe.Many African Americans have great jobs, education, and nice homes in America but that is not the image that is put out in the media. Why does he want to know if French are racist ? I mean, yes of course racism exists in France like in others country, and yes it's getting worse (and that's really not a good thing) but it doesn't mean every single French or white people are racist ! French history is not the same as American history so, in France, a black doesn't identify like a black does in USA. Maybe I didn't understand this video but sometimes it's seems like he is looking for people who will tell him : "Yes French are really racist !". That's sad but I think there will always be racists somewhere in the world, but don't let their intolerant speeches have an importance, and I'm not sure that saying "It's so much better to be black " is a solution, how would you react if you heard someone saying "It's so much better to be white !", yes, it would be unbelievably racist ( racism doesn't mean only white against black , it can be the contrary, or against Asians, Arabias etc). I just want to add that a white person who has only one black friend doesn't mean that this person is using this friend as an alibi. Yes you're black , yes I'm white, yes he/she is Asian, yes he/she is Arabian, yes we speak different languages, yes we are from different countries with different histories and cultures, so what ?! We are humans right ?! And yes, humanity is infiltrated by the stupidity of the fear and the hate of the unknown and the difference, but it can be defeated and that starts when we identify ourselves not just as an origin but beyond that. Clearly, I can't comment on what it's like to be a person of color either in the states or in France, but having lived in both countries, I definitely see that Americans are more open and hateful with their prejudices. The shame that many French people openly express about their history of colonialization results in a much healthier dialogue, whereas here in the states, there is this sick need for whites to deny their privilege and say that the black community is a detriment to itself (which is INCREDIBLY FALSE). The race issue in France surely exists, but they are able to think about it in a mature way because they consider French citizens as French before considering skintones. As a french black person, I have to disagree. I feel that racism just express itself differently. In France, we assume that all black french are africans and not african descents. It creates that feeling that black =foreigners, allowing them to ignore the political issue that race is. There has been black people on the French territory for 300 years (eventhough that territory greatly diminished). You would conceed that after 300 hundread years, we're not really foreigners.In France, talking about race is being racist ; irony: we can't talk about race issues. It has become taboo. Instead of that, we talk about "immigrants" and "the ghetto youth". Ignoring at the same time that the poorest part of the population is black and arabe, that most of our convicted are black and arabe, that by being black or arabe you will be less pay, have a harder time finding a job and etc and etc.And because we are a less violent country than the USA (certainly because of gun control and our police control), our cops are just not as violent as yours. That doesn't stop them from harassing black mens(ID controls is all that they can do, thank god!).Finally, the way we're dealing with Islam is racist . But this point is just too long and complex. Some french feminist are talking about it, you should check them out; by being muslim women, they are more entitled to it. Yawn: France is a beautiful country with a long history and it has produced art and science that has been emulated all over the world. It gave the western world the concept of enlightenment and formed many of our concepts of human rights amongst other things. Yes it also had a history of colonisation and imperialism. What country didn't? Doesn't this guy realise that most of the African Kingdoms also built empires which were built on enslaving their own people; until they were finally brought down by European countries including France. These young French people thrashing their own country in order to try to signal that they are so right-on and politically correct, need to realise how lucky they are to have been brought up in France.They also need to understand that the mass Muslim immigration that is happening now in a fresh wave, will destroy everything that France and other European countries have protected and developed for centuries. You say that African or Arab is better? Really? Why are Africans and Arabs making so much effort to get into Europe? Why are Africans stuffing themselves into leaky boats and risking their lives to cross the sea just for a chance to live in France? Does anyone see Europeans going in the other direction?They do it because Europe is a better place to live. Sorry to burst you virtue signalling bubbles, but the lands of bad old Mr Whitey have built the most open, most free, most tolerant and most advanced societies in the history of human civilisation. kingofpendragon Sorry to burst your bubble, but I'm not French. If you knew a little about world cultures then my name might have been a clue. But those people fleeing Africa in those leaky boats are doing so because other Africans are running around with machetes and guns killing people for being of other ethnic groups or other religions. They are not running away from the French. They are running to France for protection and security; because it is the French and other Europeans who are willing to help them, not other African countries. There are many Africans who want to go to France or other European countries because they want their kids to grow up in civilised countries where they do not have to be afraid all the time. They want their kids to have a stable home and a good education. They know they can find that in France. That is why Africans migrate to France and French people do not migrate to Africa. And if the cult of Islamic savages you seem to admire were to prevail over Europe, then Africans would no longer have any safe harbour to seek refuge. But it won't. Because it is already reaching a tipping point white European countries beginning to close their borders. And when they do that, your cult of semi-literate stone-age, inbreds will be powerless. If ISIS does manage to begin the all out holy war it says it wants with Europe. Then that war will end with the Middle East in flames, Muslims being deported en-masse from Europe and Africa once again isolated. ISIS are not a military force in any way comparable to France or Britain or Germany. They are good at terrorising and murdering innocent people. But they already fell apart within days when confronted with Russian forces. Putin has already proved what a paper tiger ISIS is. He just doesn't care that much because Islamic murder squads are not active in Russia right now. Hollande or Merkel or May could likewise wipe out ISIS with one signature. None of them will do it because they don't have the political will; but Merkel will be gone next year and Hollande the following one. kingofpendragon This is what Mali King Gezo of Dahomey said to French emissaries pushing for the abolition of slavery.”Slavery is the wealth and power of our Kingdom. We will never abandon it.”The French colonised nearly all of his empire anyway. They brought the rule of law, modern technologies of all kinds, and principles of French enlightenment and they banned slavery outright. A little further North, the British were doing the same. That is why so many smaller tribes along the so called slave coasts of west Africa supported the Europeans when they arrived.And yes the Moors made great advances in some areas, particularly mathematics. So too did the Egyptians. They were great empires in their own times. The Moors conquered much of Southern Europe at one point, stealing that which did not belong to them. The Zulus of Southern Africa also built an empire on the bones of their own people and slaughtered and enslaved all around them.But you see conquest by definition the business of empire. It has nothing to do with race . In the end the Europeans were just better at it.Maybe you should actually read some history.Do you even know when the mass conquest of Africa began? Here is a clue. Long after Europeans has already abolished slavery. Do you know which people were the first to abolish slavery? Another clue. It wasn’t Africans. Do you know which people were the last to abolish slavery? ..... Africans; and they only did it because the Europeans forced them to. But lets get back you your planet: Yes the French Impressionist masterpieces were all stolen from Africans. The Moors invented the auto-mobile. kingofpendragon Most of your post is incoherent and historically inaccurate gibberish. But I will clear up some of the bizarre claims you made anyway just in case anyone else in the thread is interested.The Haiti revolt was much more complicated than your simplistic white versus black analysis. Whites and blacks fought on both sides. The war was a combination of various conflicts. On the side of the slaves, there were huge numbers of Spanish imperialists and French Royalists. Against them there were slave owners and traders, both black and white; along with French Republicans and Spanish troops. The British later also got involved supporting the independence movement. The war also contained several sub-conflicts including a brief civil war between blacks and mulattos. To cast this mess as a simple slave versus owner, or black versus white struggle says more about how your mind works than it does about the Haiti war. You simply see only what you want to see. You then claim that the main beneficiaries of the Mali slave trade were the French! Really? If that were true do you really think the French would have abolished it? Actually the main beneficiaries of the Mali slave empire were the Mali elites. The French by that time did not own slaves and did not trade in slaves. They did not benefit from the African slave trade in any way. The African slave trade had been booming long before any Europeans arrived in Africa and long before the Industrial Revolution. Most of the African Kingdoms sold slaves to other African kingdoms or to Arab traders further north. Europeans did not own slaves. Rich Europeans had paid servants instead and those servants were usually other Europeans. It was not British slave traders who first hooked into this trade and took it across the Atlantic as you claimed; it was Portuguese traders followed by Dutch. The British came much later. Just so you know. Even at the height of the Trans-Atlantic slave trade, there were far more African slaves owned by other Africans and even more owned by Arabs, than there ever were in the Americas. By the early 1800s, slavery, though never really a feature of European societies anyway, had been abolished by every European country. The United States followed in 1865. From 1865, no European or American power allowed slavery in any of its possessions. But slavery still boomed across Africa and millions of people were still being sold into slavery by African slave kingdoms. The so called 'scramble for Africa' began in 1881, long after slavery had already been abolished across the white world, and as European powers quickly divided up the continent they began to abolish slavery and slave trading wherever they found it. The African Kingdoms fought hard against this but they were no match for superior European military force. In Mali for example, millions of slaves were freed as the French colonies expanded inland and the slave centres all along the Niger River were shut down. The British did the same in what is now Nigeria and on the Gold coast. The vast majority of North-West Africa, where most American slaves had come from, had been cleared of slavery by the turn of the twentieth century, by the French. Of course the Europeans were not in Africa to help. They were there with the same aims of any empire in history, including the African ones, to plunder resources. kingofpendragon Paid servants are not slaves. They sign a contract. They get paid a wage. They have rights, including the right to seek employment elsewhere and to leave. The Romans did not call their saves servants because in Ancient Rome, they were not servants, they were slaves. If I hire someone to clean my house or build fix my garden or whatever, that is a business deal. I do not own that person and I am obliged to pay them what I owe them for their work.Sorry if you are too stupid to understand the difference. Africans did invade each other and they did build slave empires. That is historical fact. The Zulus for example slaughtered and enslaved other peoples right across southern Africa. The African empires never extended into Europe or the Middle East only because both Europeans and Arabs had more military capability which no African nation could match. Most of the most vicious and barbarous slave empires existed in Africa, the Middle East and South America. Nothing to do with white people.Like I said. Lana Voreskova Life in France is uncomparable to life in any african country because of the culture and yes some countries are behind according to western countries' standards but that isnt in any case making them worse to live in. And I said that it was ignorant because there are so many more facts explaining why africans risk everything to go to France, the majority is being told lies, that life in France is always wonderful and as soon as you walk in the country you'll become rich although I know of so many ppl in the country Im from who live a life that is so close to luxury and so far from the life many immigrants live here (Im from the middle class and to me they are like royalty) They believe we are rich and always ask us to send them items from very expensive brands. France is also to many a passage way to another country or just a momentary home because many ppl come to study. So before saying anything you could also check your facts.You are right I should have been more precise, by "they" I meant the society, the government trhough media. They keep on pitting us against each other by focusing on the traits or stereotypes instead of having unbiased news, movies etc. They play on the racist card so much that they create racism. All of that is supposed to be subtle but only if you dont really look, for example the only things where minorities are "acclaimed" are the ones where we are depicted with the same stereotypes and traits, like we are all the same, like we all behave like drug selling delinquants beasts. Nothing that tries to be out of that box is ever recognised by the high instances of artistry. Its exactly what is happening in the US execept minorities actually do something serious about it and created their own institutions which is still a work in progress here.I never said that all white french ppl are racist because I know that it isnt the case, but something Im sure is that a lot of them are ignorant about the ppl whom they share a country with which is not normal and as someone said in the video should be taken care of through education at the youngest age because France is a country that will never cease to have immigration because of its colonisation history and most importantly because they have overseas territories with a mainly black population.Im not sad and chocked that you are disagreeeing with me, Im sad that you think you can talk about my country like that and especially on an experience that you will never understand which is being a visible minority as we say here. Dont talk so boldly about things that you dont get.Yes to me that is being ignorant.	African, Age, Black, Nothing, Racism, Racist	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	7/484	1.446

Peace4Leisure91 'Life in France is incomparable to life in any African country because of the culture'Well it's not just culture: It is also infrastructure, education, security, standard of living and many other things. There is also far less ethnic trouble and religious bigotry in France than there is in many parts of Africa.'And yes some countries are behind according to western countries' standards'Yes most are behind by French standards and millions of Africans see it that way too. 'But that isnt in any case making them worse to live in.'Yes it is. It is the very definition of making them worse to live in – obviously.'And I said that it was ignorant because there are so many more facts explaining why Africans risk everything to go to France, the majority is being told lies, that life in France is always wonderful and as soon as you walk in the country you'll become rich'Nonsense: Which 'lies' specifically? Nobody in Africa believes that France is perfect or that you will become automatically rich when you arrive in France. I do not believe Africans are stupid enough to believe that. Many just know that they will have a better opportunity to build a better life in France if they set their minds to it and struggle to make it. That is not a lie.'France is also to many a passage way to another country or just a momentary home because many ppl come to study. So before saying anything you could also check your facts.'Yes I know people also go to France temporarily. But many more go to remain. I also know that for some it is part of a journey to Britain or elsewhere, but never to Africa. So I am not quite sure what your point is there. 'Where minorities are "acclaimed" are the ones where we are depicted with the same stereotypes and traits, like we are all the same, like we all behave like drug selling delinquents beasts.'No: Nobody thinks that Africans all talk the same or that they all sell drugs. Everybody knows that Africa contains a vast array of different languages and cultures just like Europe. It is not about race. I have far more in common culturally with a black European than with a white South African. I have more in common with a black Russian than with a white Irish person. I have several African colleagues who all have different accents and come from completely different cultures. And no: Nobody thinks they sell drugs. They came to Ireland and made good lives for themselves. It wasn't easy and they are not rich. But they did it. Probably because they were not expecting a red carpet and they were not demanding that Irish people understand their culture and adapt to accommodate it. They understood that you do not turn up in someone else's house and demand the right to re-arrange the furniture. I understood that too. 'Nothing that tries to be out of that box is ever recognised by the high instances of artistry.'Hmm: A quick Google search will bring you up endless lists of black French artists, musicians, sports people, designers and developers, scientists and leaders in every field. All highly acclaimed and recognised in France. 'Its exactly what is happening in the US except minorities actually do something serious about it and created their own institutions which is still a work in progress here.'If you are talking about Black Lives Matter and their affiliate organisations; then you are way off the mark. Lana Voreskova Once again what you say is proving that you are ignorant, I know of this situation first hand yet you refuse to understand a true fact. There is not less ethnic trouble in france, the only difference is that ppl, here are not delivered with an incredible amount of weapons from other western countries to kill each other. And no, not every african country is living a civil war, living there can be even better than living in France because the mentalities are different, a sense of fraternity that make these countries better to live in. Western countries' standards are said to be the reference but they are not a insurance of a better life. What you say really shows you've never been in any african country.They might not be stupid but you might be surprised by their beliefs on France, try to speak with some africans and you'll see, what I said is a true fact.My point was exactly what I said, yes some are leaving France for GB but a lot go back to their countries right after graduating. One of the reasons why many dont go back is because they often cant afford the trip back so yes they build a life in the country.Im not saying everyone thinks like that I was clearly talking about the society that keeps on perpetuating these stereotypes. Black ppl are rarely seen in the media or movies if not in the constant role of poor ghetto ppl, I dont know about your country but Im telling about what is true in mine. The problem is that we are already part of the room but we are never looked at .Ok give me names. Because indeed black ppl in the french artistry are everywhere but I never really see them, they are rarely promoted, odd.I wasnt talking about BLM, but on that I think you are wrong, maybe some ppl have been violent and aggressive but the intention behind that was for black ppl to not be treated like less than from the american society. BLM has never been about hating on white ppl but on bringing up black ppl. They never called to kill police officers, deranged people did that by themselves, young people rioting is not caused by BLM but by the police killing black people so there your point is invalid. Comparing BLM to KKK is outrageous and quite offensive honestly.When I said they created institutions I was refering to the black movies industry or BET.You just made my point once again! You disagreeing with does not make you ignorant but you saying false facts does! I get that you are a minority but re read what I said, being white can trully help you blend in, here in France so many ppl come from immigration, spanish, german, italian,portuguese etc and Im not saying they are not targeted as minorities but they blend in, ppl dont pay that much attention because they are white, but again as I said, as visible minority, which means, ppl "of colour" we have a completely different experience! One you obviously cant understand. I never said that we dont adapt to french culture, we have , it's been generations now, yet somehow all the things I said above are still going on. I get that as an immigrant yourself you sort of relate but Im just telling you, our experiences are really different and Im not even an immigrant myself although my parents were Im just a born and raised black french girl.	African, Black, Ethnic, Immigrant	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General, Nationality - General	12/598	2.007

Wow!,what a beautiful picture you’ve painted about France.This picture you’ve painted comes from your eyes which is ok, but what about the picture that’s painted from those who endured the ugliness of French colonisation of Africa along with other European countries? France and other European countries are not there because they care about the advancement of the blackAfrican people, they are there to still, manipulate, destabilize, undermine, SABOTAGE, and so on for the advancement of EUROPE !! It’s so unfortunate that we’ve inherited this battle. None of this had to happen if all countries respect the rights of others, but here we are.	African, Black	Ethnicity - Black	2/104	1.923
Kay Smile Africans were colonised long before any Europeans turned up. They were just colonised by other Africans, and the slave kingdoms of pre-European Africa were often even more oppressive and barbaric than the European colonisers who came later. I don’t deny that Europeans exploited Africa for their own benefit. I am simply pointing out that every country or kingdom that has become powerful enough, usually represses and exploits its weaker neighbours. Africans, Asians, American Indians and every other culture in the world. They all did it.What was the first thing Europeans did when they began the race to colonise Africa in 1880? They abolished slavery. The African kingdoms fought to keep slavery. They were after all built upon it. The Europeans abolished it anyway just as they had already abolished it across the western world. Stop throwing stones in glass houses and read some history.	African, Race	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	2/147	1.361
Kay Smile ”Now you may want write it off as insignificant or something like that is up to you. Maybe if France and countries like it had never done the evils that they’ve done we wouldn’t be having this conversation.”I do not ”write it off as being insignificant.” That is the point. I was simply replying to your comments about France being ”ugly on the inside.” That is relative and it is to a large extent based on opinion and individual circumstance. My contention was simple. France was a coloniser. It is very difficult to find any culture that was not a coloniser. I do not know which country your people came from before they lived in France; but if they came from Africa then they probably lived under slave empires that had nothing to do with France. The point is simple. Yes France did bad things. So did everybody else. So why do you keep picking France?And as I also said: What France did to her colonies and their people was exploitative and repressive; it was for the most part not quite as bad as what their previous colonisers had done. Lana Voreskova It's obvious that you've come to this comment thread UNARMED, if your only rebuttal to the VERBAL ASSAULTS YOU'RE UNDER HERE, BECAUSE OF FRANCE'S BARBARIC, SORDID PAST IS TO CONTINUE CLAIMING THAT "OTHER COLONIZERS DID BAD THINGS TOO". Kay Smile If you read Machiavelli's 'THE PRINCE', & also read up a little on Sigmund Freud thesis and journals, you'll gain some insight into the DEMONIC EUROPEAN MIND. Kay Smile So you would prefer if Europeans had not abolished slavery. You would prefer Africa to be as it was before 1880; perpetual war, mass slavery, primitive living conditions and constant tribal atrocities? Would you prefer if the Europeans had never gone to South America. They might have been able to preserve their culture of festivals of mass human sacrifice and their blood sports if the Spanish had not arrived.As for the East. You correctly condemn French actions in Indochina; but you do not seem to have a problem with Pol Pot for example; or any of the other monsters that came out of East Asia. Of course France committed crimes as did everybody else. But you seem to have an obsessive need to hate the country that you live in. So why do you live there? Probably because it beats anywhere in Africa by a long shot.Like I said. Try reading some history instead of just cherry picking for reasons to hate white Europeans. That is what most people call racism . You should stop doing it.	Racism	Ethnicity - General	1/180	0.556
Kay Smile Nobody is trying to make excuses for Europeans. Europeans did terrible things just like everybody else. But you demand that current generation Europeans should pay for the crimes their ancestors committed? So you believe in the fascist concept of collective punishment? Do you want the French government to trace the family tree of every French citizen to see whether each French person is descended from someone who committed crimes or someone who didn't?Do you think I should be made to pay for the crimes committed by Stalin? If you really do believe that, then should you not also pay for the crimes of African rulers? Your people committed horrific crimes too. Why must the French pay, but not Africans. Should the people of Guatemal and Southern Mexico be made to compensate the other peoples of South America for the awful barbarity inflicted upon them by the Maya and Aztec? Or do they get a free pass because that are not white. So really all this is about is that you have an inexplicable and completely illogical hatred of white people. The people coming to France now are mostly Muslims. Islam enslaved more people then the rest of the world together. Should Muslims be made to pay.Or does everyone get a free pass except the French? Kay Smile You still refused to answer the question. You hide from it because your hatred blinds you to the reality of history. Do you also want Africans, Asians and Arabs to pay for the terrible crimes their ancestors committed?From the middle ages to the modern day; Arabs enslaved more people than anyone else. Africans come second. Asians come third and Europeans come in at number four. I once again suggest you actually study some of the history of Africa, something you obviously know nothing about. Bela T.T France gives 9.23 billion in aid; almost all of it to its former colonies to help them develop their education systems, medical services and infrastructure: France is also the second largest contributor to EU structural aid, the bulk of which goes to African countries. The development and modernisation in places like Senegal for example, are mostly paid for by France.It was the French after all who abolished slavery across West Africa, as the African Kingdoms fought to preserve it. It was the French who also abolished the caste system and the traditions of human sacrifice. It was the French who brought the rule of law, the principles of enlightenment and the concept of human rights; none of which had previously existed in the horrifically brutal African kingdoms. The French were not there as an act of charity. Like any other empire, they were there for conquest and resources; just like the even more brutal and exploitative African empires before them. But the French left most of those territories in far better shape than they found them, and they still support them with massive amounts of funding, industry and jobs.Of course all empires are exploitative and the French one was no exception. It is often air-brushed from history that Africans had always been colonised, just like Europeans. Before the rapid colonisation of Africa by Europeans in the late 1800s; Africans had been colonised by other Africans and Europeans by other Europeans. The fact remains though; that the average West African was probably better off under a French governor than they had been under a Mali king. Maybe you should educate yourself a little on the history behind the subjects you want to talk about instead of just cherry picking the bad things that one county did and ignoring everything else. The reality is that if it were not for the French; West Africans would probably still be living in mud huts and enslaving each other in the millions.	African	Ethnicity - Black	5/331	1.511

Bela T.T France was strong before it started colonizing otherwise it wouldn't be capable of conquering half of Africa and the Industrial Revolutions made France and Europe strong, not fucking useless gold Africa has still the richest lands of the world by far yet is still poor and weak, why? Because there is no infrastructure, no leading force, not enough engineers , too many warlords and too much greed and corruption now if you want Africa to work first step is accepting the real problems instead of being jealous little shits pretending that what France did to some African countries is different then what Arabs, Mongols, Zulu, Aztecs did to their conquered people	Engineers	Nationality - General	1/112	0.893
Lana Voreskova you see this all persons like you opinion and i don't blame you. What we are talking about is the present France and how it runs its economy. I know you are one sided person that's why i put what the former France president speech at the beginning of my previous comment. If you are able to learn and let go your ego try to listen his speech then get back to me. You and millions of ignorant whites think Africa survive with the mercy and aid of western aid while the truth is vice versa. Europe need Africa. The aid distribution is not fair the money goes back in double to their own banks you can read how the so called aid benefits the countries who give for other countries. There are books and videos which provide with some good evidences you can take look how it works. You are trying to prove nothing . You can take look the present day Libya why it is destroyed by NATO and USA. Africa always wanted to be unstable and war zone so western countries continue what they have been doing. I have enough knowledge on the issue i am talking but you and persons who support you here don't know nothing about France. Before you claim i am wrong or how France gave aid for its colony just try to google how much France actually gets trillion in every year from its 14 African colonies till present day using so called colonial aid benefits as excuse. Then you can tell me why i need to educate myself instead of yourself. Africans did NOT ask European invasion. They were all fine with their Arts, Culture, Religion and Civilization. So don't bring Mali civilization to cover up your ancestors barbaric deeds. The Malians never asked British or French to rape them, killed them or enslaved them but they did that to them so how can they like colonialism once again. All their king's gold which estimated in billions taken to England still person like you here try to defend what the colonial countries shame history. try to feel good. There will come time where karma take over. Maybe one day you will understand how those people suffer by the name of so called civilization. Europe seems start paying its debt. Bela T.T 'You and millions of ignorant whites think Africa survive with the mercy and aid of westerns aid'I never said that. I said that many former colonial powers spend massive amounts on foreign aid. The European ones at least: I never said that any country depended on French aid; just that it helps a lot of them.You projected your own narrow prejudice onto what you believe I think, and you make it clear that you make that judgement based on the colour of my skin. And while you talk about 'ignorant white people,' you have the blind arrogance to imply that I am some kind of racist. I was not talking about any race like that. I was not stereotyping any race at all. You were. I suggest you read your own words, look in the mirror and ask yourself which of us is the racist.'The aid distribution is not fair the money goes back in double to their own banks you can read how the so called aid benefits the countries who give for other countries. There are books and videos which provide with some good evidences you can take look how it works.'I do know how it works. I also know about corrupt banks and corrupt companies and corrupt politicians: These are not exclusively the preserve of white people you know. Are you really suggesting that governments in Africa are not corrupt? The message from you is very clear: That white people did bad things in the past and now they owe a debt to their former colonies. I outlined some of the complicated history behind your naive claim in order to point out that black people were just as guilty of doing bad things. You do not seem to believe that black people have the same responsibility to accept responsibility: Better by far to just blame an entire race. My point was very clear: That colonialism, slavery, corruption and exploitation are human issues: They are perpetrated by people of all colours and people of all colours have also been the victims of them at different times. You just want to blame white people for everything. But you're not a racist???You then start banging on about NATO and its attack on Libya: I am not sure why. I despise NATO and I would not support any attack on Libya. Once again you make assumptions about what I believe because of my skin colour – because you're not a racist ..... or something. You demand that I not bring up the crimes of the Mali empire to cover 'my ancestors barbaric deeds.' Once again you miss the point. My ancestors had no colonies in Africa. But that doesn't seem to matter to you. All that matters to you is the colour of someone's skin. Because you're not a racist..... Or something. 'Then you can tell me why i need to educate my self instead of yourself .Africans did NOT ask european invasion.'No: Nobody ever asks for an invasion. But then millions of Africans also did not ask to be conquered and sold into slavery by the Mali kingdoms either. It is very simple really. Colonialism and slavery etc are about power and wealth and greed. They are not, and have never been about skin colour. Secondly if my ancestors did colonise Africa; which they did not; then would that make me somehow guilty by association? My country was also invaded and millions of people killed and enslaved. Bela T.T You are not giving historical facts. You are looking at African cultures through rose tinted glasses and ignoring any fact that do not fit your 'black man good – white man bad' narrative. That is not how to do history. "What i have said abt mali gold or west African cilization and the consequence of civilization is all recorded."Recorded where? Citation please! I have been studying and lecturing about this period of history for 15 years. I know of no instance where the French took a Mali King's gold and gave it to the British. The French and British were rivals in Africa. You do know that don't you? I am well aware that European conquerors stole any valuables they could find anywhere they conquered. I also know that African conquerors did the same, so I am not sure what your point is. 'You are trying to play smart by putting abolishment of slavery to justify of colonization.'I am writing this as clearly as possible because you insist once again in misreading what I said. I did not make any attempt to justify colonisation. Colonisation was a crime. I simply pointed out that it was not something that was the preserve of any one race: Africans did it too. I added that while Europeans did indeed to bad things they also did some very good things. I used the abolition of slavery as one example. Don't you agree that that was a European campaign that brought freedom and hope to millions of people, most of them Africans, and do you not agree that it is something that Europeans have the right to be proud of? You do realise that Frenchmen fought against slavery while African kingdoms fought for it. And large numbers of Africans supported those Frenchmen too. 'If that country were left without your countries colonization they would have do the same as Ethiopia did without the help of white man'Well I already told you; my country did not colonise anywhere in Africa; but Really? So now you've got a historical crystal ball. Sorry but it is a fact that when the French arrived in West Africa; the barbaric Mali kingdoms ruled over most of it. Those kingdoms were built on slavery and exploitation of their subject peoples and had been for centuries.The French stole much in the way of resources; but they also abolished slavery, human sacrifice and the caste system. They overthrew the African kings who subjugated the African people. Yet you glorify those brutal African kings and don't seem to care about the African people who were tortured and enslaved by them. It is impossible to say how those territories would have developed had the French not colonised them. But we do know what they were like in 1880, just before the French expansion. They were backward, barbaric and ruled over by bloodthirsty tyrants who cared nothing about the humanity of their own people.You favour the oppressor over the oppressed; except of course when the oppressor happens to be white. 'White man inited themselves their to take what did not belong to them'Yes. So did black men. Everybody did it. That was precisely my point. But you only have a problem with it when white men do it. You make everything about race and that makes you a bigot. 'What would jew person feel if you tell him nazi germany was so great for them?'Well I cannot imagine anyone saying that to a Jew and if someone did say that then that Jewish person would probably think that the person who said that	African, Black, Ethnic, Nazi, Nothing, Race, Racist	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	28/1008	2.778

Bela T.T if you knew anything about Africa you would know that Africa wasn't in a good shape when Europeans started to conquer Africa was weak and divided that's why it was such an easy target at the time and Europe has less gold and diamonds than Africa that's was another motive to invade and conquer Africa.... Zulu tried to conquer as well until the Brits stopped them hell Shaka Zulu was slaughtered by his own brothers don't pretend that Africa was a paradise before it was knowledge and technology that makes a country powerful, Chinese, Indians, Arabs Persians, Egypt, Maya, West Europe were all dominant because they had better technology and knowledge and infrastructure that's what makes a people rich, not fucking minerals having rich grounds isn't an achievement, being able to do something with it is and that's the difference between some poor parts of Africa and the rest of the world... they don't use their minerals and that's the big cause of the troubles, not some white dudes invading 100 years ago and murdering that happened constantly all over the world that's why conquering is bad in the first place hell conquest happened all the time North Africans invading Spain, Portugal and France, Arabs invading North Africa Spain Persia India,... Mongols invading almost the whole of Eurasia, India invading China, Aztecs offering whole tribes to their gods,..... yet India is rich, China rich, Brazil rich... why is Africa not rich? As I said not enough engineers, no leadership no real people having a similar goal...now stop blaming everything on shit that happened 100 years ago that's just pathetic and stop demonizing others would you?	Engineers	Nationality - General	1/277	0.361
I hate how self-righteous Africans are about history and slavery. White people have been slaves too, even in the USA. Search "Barbary slave trade" You will quickly realize that France had to conquer the northern Nations of Africa to stop them from taking Europeans slaves, not to mention African slaves. This was also a fight against Islam, which like the crusades was a good thing as like this situation the crusades were defensive wars in order to take back European lands conquered by Muslim invaders and not just in Spain, but also the eastern part of Europe where the Muslims made powerful inroads due to Europeans being far too peaceful.	African	Ethnicity - Black	1/112	0.893

Chronometer Yes: The history of the crusades has also been re-written to fit in with political correctness – brown man good –white man bad.But the crusades were a response to Islamic expansion into Europe, not the other way around. Much of Spain, Italy and the Balkans had already been conquered by Islam before the first crusade was even a twinkle in Pope Urban’s eye. It was a case of European kings finally deciding to put aside their differences and tackle a dangerous enemy that was a threat to all of their kingdoms. Taking the Holy Land back from the Moors was a good motive to appeal to European Christians, but the real purpose was to drive Islam out of Europe, smash the power of Islam in the near east and secure Europe for the building of western civilisation. Europeans have been successfully keeping Islam at bay ever since. Attempts by centuries of Moors, Saracens and Turks have tried to conquer Europe. They all failed. But now Europe is being betrayed by its own quisling classes, personified by traitors like Ankela Merkel and Francois Hollonde. Their predecessors have for generations spilled their own blood to protect Europe from Islam and to preserve the European way of life. Now these traitors throw open the gates and invite Islam in. But the wind of change is bowing through Europe again and it is refreshing. Merkel is the most unpopular German leader of the last forty years. Hollonde is also facing a massive backlash in France with Marine Le Pen topping the polls. They will both be gone next year. The Brits have already made their feelings clear. Poland and Hungary have closed their borders and told the EU to butt out. The Russian president has openly declared that ‘Russia is not a ‘multicultural society, Russia is a Russian society.’ So that old European tradition of protecting the borders and their way of life is being re-born. Despite all the limp wristed ‘progressivists’ we see on our TV screens, there seems to be plenty of Europeans left who still have a little of the blood of those medieval knights running in their veins. In America too things are looking up. The American people, also the heirs of those medieval knights, have said ‘NO’ to Hillary Clinton’s multicultural, gender-bending, hedonistic, anything goes mindset. They have sent a clear message. ‘No we don’t hate other people, but this is America. We also have our history and or way of life and we are tired of our own so called leaders telling us we should be ashamed of it. So go ahead and build that wall Mr Trump. Protect your borders. You are not a racist. You are just doing your job, putting your own people first. That is what you are elected to do. Maybe if you get a chance you could visit Europe and point that out to Merkel and co. Europe and North America have built the most successful and most advanced civilisations in human history. They share a rich tradition that reaches back 2500 years. They have given the world Greek Philosophy, French enlightenment, the concept of democracy and human rights, the rule of law, modern medicine, the most magnificent art, literature and architecture; and far too many inventions, discoveries and innovations to mention.If that is not a culture superior to the backward barbaric alternative that Islam offers then I don’t know what is.

Bela T.T Bela, how many times do you need to get schooled on history before you actually decide to learn something. Do you enjoy displaying your ignorance and racism ?You are out of your depth. Ivana Davids Ehm: No they didn't. They went to Africa in large ships and they did not steal your children. You were already busy selling your children to each other and to the Arabs. Nobody did slavery more prolifically than the African kingdoms. Europeans of course finally stamped out slavery. No gratitude necessary.As for Africans building Europe: Don't make me laugh. Europeans built Europe long before they went to Africa. If you come from an African country that is one of the world's major gold producers then you come from South Africa. The other top ten gold producers are all outside of Africa.Seems to me South Africa needs a new government. I hate to burst you bubble; but Africans are in charge in that country. If your African government is squandering your country's resources and not using it to create wealth for its own people; then I have a hard time figuring out how you can blame that on Europeans.And yes Europeans had empires and they had slavery and they did bad stuff; just like everybody else; take it up with the Zulu or the Mali: You don't think Africans did that stuff too. Grow up and stop trying to blame all of your country's problems on ancient history. If you want to come to Europe there is no need to pretend to yourself that Europe owes you anything. It doesn't. You are coming to Europe because it is a more attractive place to live. Be honest with yourself because you are not kidding anyone else. You are lucky to be allowed to come to Europe and to pursue your life in peace. You would not be able to do that in most African countries. Another thing for Europe to be proud of I guess.But if you harbour such hostility to Europe and its people then I suggest you go somewhere else. See how long you would last with an attitude like that in a country where you are not surrounded by those open-minded, tolerant Europeans. You can leave your African Soil in Africa though. Europeans have plenty of soil. They have after all been feeding half your continent for the last forty years.	African, Nobody	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black	6/368	1.63

Lana Voreskova fantastic, then please tell your European governments to pack up their mining equipment and ship it back home if you firmly believe that Africans are not currently exploited to further your existing societies.And yes, Europe is gorgeous!Beautiful place. With all the African resources being pumped into Europe, I'd be disappointed if it weren't that beautiful. I am from both African and European descent but was born in Africa. I have no hostility towards Europe, but a spade is a spade . Europe and America exploits Africa and that's what it is. It's not my opinion. It is what it is. I will acknowledge the faults of BOTH Africans and Europeans.I suggest you do the same.	African, Spade	Ethnicity - Black	4/118	3.39
Ivana Davids 'Please tell your European governments to pack up their mining equipment and ship it back home'I cannot do that. European governments do not own the mining equipment. Private companies do. Anyway I am not a South African citizen. Only your government can tell those mining companies what to do. That's kind of how it works; and your government is not European, so blaming its actions on Europeans is a bit stupid to say the least. But if you want your government to tell foreign mining companies to get out of your country; first you should be careful what you wish for. How will the departure of those European companies impact on employment rates and revenue in South Africa? Of course the best thing for South Africans would be to develop their own mining companies and replace the European ones little by little; but like I said; if they don't want to do that, then blaming Europeans is a bit pointless. Large corporations do not operate to make anyone's life better anyway. They operate to make profit. It doesn't matter whether they are European or African . Gazprom is a major Russian company. I am a Russian citizen. Do you think Gazprom cares about me or acts in my interests? I do acknowledge the faults of Europe and they are many. The difference is that I blame them on Europeans, not on other people who have no control over them. If you have a problem with what happens in South Africa; then you need to take it up with the South African government. Whining about other people on a different continent is just silly. Just a comment about the African lady who said that Africans assimilate in the United States better than African Americans. This is ridiculous. African Americans are totally assimilated in the U.S.. Look at how many African Americans are known around the world. Look at the number of politicians we have. You can't look at American tv unless you see an African American, rather they be in commercials, tv judges, news casters, actors, community leaders or just in the streets. African Americans have made many American inventions and we are the only black people that have been in outter space. Freddie Jones Yup. Whether the racists and radicals want to admit it or not, we are completely intertwined culturally. Think about how different America would be without all of the influences from African Americans. And many of those influences bled into all our other ethnicities to become just...American. So they "assimilated" with us but we also assimilated with them. And try as I might. I still can't find another Western country that has as many famous black people, a black president, movie stars, a black female billionaire, international pop stars, etc. I think it's impressive what black people have accomplished (and created) in this country. The real difference between European people with African decent and African Americans is that African Americans are brainwashed early in life to take on a certain personality. We aren't allowed to speak proper English or else that's considered talking white! We apparently are biologically predisposed to certain foods even though our African ancestors wouldn't have had a clue about half of the foods that are associated with being African . We can't find our own individual personalities because all black people should act alike. And black in America further push these stereotypes on us, by saying shit like oh you like hiking? That's for white people. Or white people barbeques are different from blacks. Or why you talkin like a white girl? In Europe everyone is different and no one is label by race the same. It's not weird to like certain things based on race there. And it's expected that everyone speaks proper. Jasmine Pearls I think youre taking it too personally and thats a common thing these days. Something ive found being an adult is when Im talking to someone and am attempting to describe a black person i would try hard not to mention by skin but literally its the best descriptor and without it noone knows who the heck your talking about or it takes too long. How do we describe others? but hair skin and height. She is really pale or sometimes really white. Dont take it personally, and also you dont need to mention your race when applying for a job... they ask but you can usually select other or just straight up chose a different one if you'd like(tbh its probably in your benefit to chose black or african american which doesn't make sense anymore). While choosing white is a disadvantage these days depending how competitive the position is.Next if you are speaking of tulsa... hell if there is anyone alive who ordered that or experienced it id be suprised. Just because my irish/scottish ancestors where slaves i dont hate other people who may have had ancestors that had them for it, im just trying to live the one life i was given, and love as much as I can. Midhir Did you know our American gov, has had a eugenics program since the 1900s? In 1990, the U.S. government funded Planned Parenthood went to black schools and told girls they wanted to give them birth control and they sterilized these teen black girls. You know in 1991, the gov. offerered low income housing to black families that had high levels of lead in order to study the effects of high lead levels in the body? Did you also know that black communities in the U.S. are more likely to be poisoned. They switched over a good water supply to dirty water with old pipes with high lead levels without treating the water and tons of people got sick. The children in Flint are now mentally retarded because lead is a brain toxin and causes violent behavior. You know the 13th Amendment in the U.S. says slavery is abolished except as punishment for a crime? So after 1865, the prison population went from 90 white to 90 black. The government created Black Codes that were only for black people where they would arrest blacks for not having a job, being homeless, leaving their wife or husband, spitting, not being skilled for a job or not having an id card. Railroad companies and coal companies paid prisons to get them workers so prisons had a need to keep them full in order for them to get paid. Although, convict leasing slowed down in 1931 due to the need for soldiers for World War II it still exist today. Big companies pay industrial prisons to keep prisons full, Whole Foods is one of them. Black people on crack were given the harshes sentences but whites on cocaine were given more lenient sentences and treatment. Crack is cheaper so more blacks could afford it and crack was put in black communities by our very gov. to fund the War in Nicaragua. It's funny how you can tell a people who are constantly targeted due to our race and ethnicity not to see race or racism, when we are the most affected by it. Blacks whose families have been in the U.S. for 300 years have experienced never ending racism but somehow we should ignore it? We are harassed by the police at random remember the Stop and Frisk law which said that the police could just pat down a random black male on the street? The 3 Strikes law which also affected black men heavily. Now there is a law where they can search your car and house if they want without a warrant and if you protest you go to jail. America is nothing but racism. You know the U.S. news oversaturates the news with black crime so that white citizens believe that they are justified to abuse our rights because they believe all blacks are criminals? Everyday white Americans go around calling the police on black people for just being in their neighborhood, taking pics in a park, selling lemonade, being in their own college library. I love this series but I was kinda embarrassed by the reporter... I get that ur American but its so clear that Americans think that the racial issues that face America are relevant throughout the whole world... In Europe there are no "original black people" , so if a person is black or darker complected its illogical to call them " black ". We usually go by nationality . Either a person is Nigerian, Colombian, Kenyan, Somali, Iraqi etc.. and if a person is obviously mixed race the person is simply labeled "mixed", and then maybe further explains their heritage. Im Norwegian and Kenyan, born and raised in Norway. Not once in my life have I ever looked at myself as black or even been called black . Once I moved to America I was suddenly labeled " black " and "light skinned".. It really is quite strange, because so often black Americans get offended if a biracial person says they're not " black ", but mixed.. which is absolute rubbish.. U cant have one white parent and one black parent and simply pretend to only be one race ..AND YES, YOU'RE COMPLEXION IS IRRELEVANT. I think you are one of the few sane people here. I agree. Problem is in the US, unlike the rest of the Americas, the Black /White relationship took a very bad turn during a time when the rest of the Western Hemisphere came together to further develop a new culture (i.e. Puerto Ricans, Dominicans, Cubans, Brazilians in their dance/music etc.) Black & White people mixed in more ways than one. These blacks in Europe and other foreign white countries should be ashamed of themselves, for the lack of self respect they show for themselves and their black race . They allow other races to mistreat them, and never feel the need to defend their race . Here in the states, we don't play that shit, fuck around get your jaw broken for calling someone the 'N' word , but I bet these blacks in Europe just ignore it and go about their day , as if it's not a issue. Hell they even carry themselves as if they were white, dress white, talk white, act white , I mean damn , no one said carrying yourself like a civilized human being was wrong, but acting the same as another is wrong and shows that you aren't proud to be what you are smh	Black, Race	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	3/141	2.128
What do you define as talk white or dress white? People don't dress like a certain ethnicity i mean , you don't know on how african who live in Europe act! So for you, there is a specific way to talk, dress, etc according to your race !? And if a Black person does what YOU consider to be a white thing, they're basically denying their supposed true identity ? Racism exists also because of some black people like you who think race and identity are totally related ! Reyhan Ziad I'm sorry, but what you said is not true. Racism is Prejudice, discrimination, or antagonism against a race different than one's own. Last time I checked, "White" is a racial classification. You can be racist to anyone, be it Black , White, Hispanic, Asian.. There can also be sexism against men. It's in the name. Sex = Male or Female. Sexism is Prejudice, stereotyping or discrimination based on one's gender or sex . While it mainly happens to females, it can also happen to males.	Black, Gender, Race, Racism, Racist, Sex, Sexism	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	9/85	10.588
Except there's a major difference between SYSTEMIC racism , in which you discriminate further against a minority which is already being oppressed by society (for instance, any minority that has less access to jobs, housing or security because of how they look), and discriminating against someone in general based on any given superficial characteristic. So, no, " racism against white people" is NOT the same as systemic racism against black people.Telling a little black kid that he will end up doing drugs or a little girl that she sucks at sports just because of what they look like is not the same as telling a white boy either of those things, because in the first two cases the message is almost inevitably going to get repeated over and over again in lots of little ways throughout their lives, until they end up believing it. The north is more German because of Franks invasion etc. In the south, maybe that people have not necessarily blue eyes or blond hair, but their color skin is white for the majority of them. Italy and Spain used to be great Europeans countries in the past and they took part in the occidental history. They are occidental and caucasian countries . In fact, as a French, i think that you, Americans, have a strange way to establish skin colors. In France, for example, Obama is considered as a "métis" or a "mulâtre", but not as a black guy. +sylkyj with all do respect racism is relevant everywhere and in regards to the US. This title of being black despite only having one black parent, stems from the current situation in America as well as a history. To an extent like Europe you are more tolerated when you are mix, but in America - there are two version of it and it is and America for white (regardless of being affluent or not, and being black - or of African descent ) We find this same similarity in the video above. In America, I even notice more of a tolerance for blacks who are immigrants. Its not a matter of just social behavior, but laws, education and life. Also there is a down fall in dismissing African descent in mix race people - see the history of Haiti. My mom who is mix receives the same treatment as me here in America. While Europeans like to pride themselves as being less racist . I've heard the sentiments of pan-Africans experiences, in comparison of African American or the Blacks from the Antilles (West Indies, Spanish or smaller islands) are life-altering different. I was startled when a European friend spoke with such disdain towards (pan) Africans and looked at me for confirmation. However, he said that he liked the mixed because they were much more attractive. I replied to him, well thank god for the Congolese, for without them, their would be no diamonds, chocolate, or amputees - your neighbors in Belgium would only have waffles and the rest of Europe to depend on. He seemed uncomfortable!In regards to mixed, with migration - even though the Irish or more red head and the Italian and Greeks are more brunettes - you are all European or White. Unless in Europe where their is nationality , you can travel the world and you are not sub-categorized like blacks. - but please keep the conversation going, I like this. +sylkyj I don't know if "mixed race " people is really a good example to say Europe is not obsessed by race . It's okay if all you want to say is one of your parent is white and the other black . But when you say it as if mixed race was a colour, it's completely stupid.For instance, when I was at school, at the begining of the year, teachers tried to guess if they had your older sister or brother in their class before. They looked at your last name and they named all the people who had the same name. There was a few families with the same last name as mine, so teachers always failes when they played this game with me. When I was a child I didn't understand why (I never thought about it in fact), but now I know why : my brother had a black skin and I don't, so the teachers always say the name of white child when they tried to guess who is my brother. If mixed race was a colour, we wouldn't have this "problem".So say "mixed race " instead of using the actual colour is stupid, and maybe more racist than to say " black ". I'm seeing a lot of hate in this thread. I find it funny because if you're black in America, you're an American; especially since half of us run around talking about our baby hairs come from our Native American ancestry, saying your hair is wavy because of Indian blood, or you have high cheek bones because of an Indian ancestor when in reality, those high cheek bones could have come from Africa as well. So if we have Native American blood mixed, born in this country, that make us part American right? Don't give me a bull shit side answer, be fucking direct. On average most of us in the states are part European, mostly African, if I'm correct, our African blood falls between 60-90, those on the 60 side, usually are the people who come out with different features, or African features but lighter skin, different eye, or hair color. I know my history, I wish slavery didn't happen but it did. I can't deny that. I'm not going to deny most of us have mixed ancestry because of rape or some of it might've been because of love; I also wonder if white Americans acknowledge they might be part black? All these black people in America running around with green/hazel/grey/blue eyes (Not contacts) or different shades of hair (not dyed) obviously have a heavy European back ground, however I see white people sometimes who everything about them looks black except there hair and skin tone but, "oh, the features in Europe have a wide range" yeah okay, I can get with that, because there are some African tribes with red hair or very rare some with blue eyes but lets be honest, if you're family has been here for some time and your white, those hips or tight soft hair you got, I'm sure it comes from an African ancestor. I highly doubt that racism is eradicated in France, but the French have managed to do something that the general white (and a few from other races) American public doesn't: they try to understand what the problem is and how to address it. In the US if race is mentioned, you're labeled a race baiter, the problem is minimalized (it isn't about race cuz this happens to white people too) or the issue is completely denied altogether. The white French show a true interest in UNDERSTANDING which is the ultimate goal that black Americans are trying to achieve. We just want a little acknowledgement and empathy. Then, maybe we could let go of some of the resentment and fear that's been handed down for generations. This gives me hope. I don't think we're racist in France (might be a few, but what can we do ?). We believe in integration, meaning that the people coming to live here will be French and slowly merge into our culture and society (while if they want remaining aware of where they're from, and proud if they want to).There is maybe a limit to that : French don't like people that are French on paper, live in France, are born in France but don't feel French. That's the signal that integration didn't work. It's not racism ... It's us seeing that integration didn't work.That's also why some Muslims cause issues : they don't want to share our culture and our ideas. A society can only survive if its people share the same interests and ideas (guess why the Roman Empire fell?).France is not like the USA : we don't want to have minorities all over the place, living among themselves. Sadly it happens, because we underestimate the difficulties it is for people to integrate. Turns out education in school is not enough, and especially in banlieues people don't see a lot of French (feeling French) so they can't integrate. The more the reject French cultures and ideas and the more they'll have a hard time with French I guess. It's a complicated issue here, because we want people to feel French while they don't want to integrate (some even start to hate France). Like I said : complex, different from the USA : welcome to Europe.(and now you understand why Germany will have difficulties if they bring 1M Syrians in their country).I'll even say this : far right in France is not racist . They just want the French culture not to take anything from other cultures, and they want all the people in France to be as French as possible. There is no racism . But they are too stringent on their definition of French, and are home to a lot of racists.If you think about culture and not " race " (fuck I don't like to use this word because it make no sense, THERE IS NO RACE , WAKE UP AMERICA) you'll understand why did you see a black woman from the USA that does not share the Afro-American culture. I think the word we use (culture VS race ) tells us a lot about our countries ;)And gosh we're bad in English x x	Black, Race, Racism, Racist, Woman	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	9/404	2.228

You can't find any "french-african" in France as we don't say it. We just say "french". We don't call people "immigrants" too. Racist people makes this kind of distinctions here ; others don't and it's very bad considered to call someone a "french-african" or such things instead of a french here. Please consider us as all french, nothing else.And please when you visit us, you could at least learn how to say "bonjour, excusez-moi, parlez-vous anglais ?" (hello, excuse me, do you speak english ?) before starting the conversation. It would take like 2 minuts to learn and would be more respectful.By the way, the drawings on the store means :Hollande : "together for a new world"Obama : "Ok brother"the Maya : "the change is now !"It is both an obvious joke about the "end of the world" theories and a joke about our president campaign. His main sentence while the presidential campaign was "le changement c'est maintenant" (the change is now). It was his favorite sentence, like "yes we can" for your president. It is just a joke about politics and the antic mayan calendar theories. There is absolutely not racism at all in it, even for your very special victimhood and ethnocentric standards. You see a picture with a black on it, while a normal person wouldn't care about the color of the skin of the protagonists, you are searching for racism, trying to see if there is black people in the store, etc. What's wrong with you ? Your attitude toward this simple picture is very representative of your obsession (because this is what it seems to be : an obsession). You can do more than "being a black man". You can just be a man, travel and enjoy the meetings and the culture. Here, the color of your skin is as important and interesting as the color of your eyes, your hair and your shoes. It would be ridiculous to define yourself by the color of your hair or your shoes, right ? As a french, when I see a man, whatever is color is, obsessed by it and asking about it people on the street, the only thing I think is : how ridiculous. The aim of a white man is to deprive a black man from his true identity by imposing his name, his racial identity to a black man as if black people cant have those by themselves and finally strip black man away from his people. It is easy to do this because most of blacks are ashamed of their ancestral identity and they would rather a white man's identity a white man's name etc. By accepting those however doesn't make them any more acceptable to a white community. They still remain outcast and excluded. Do you know other races who call themselves African when they immigrate to Africa? None. The Indians, Arabs, Europeans etc who live in Africa retain their ancestral identities and their names and even their language. They never get deprived of their identities even if they stay for for thousands of years. Have you asked why the Boers speak Afrikaans(a dutch version) instead of Xhosa, Zulu or whatever native language? Have you heard their names? They dont call themselves Bhekithemba,Butholezwe or Bambanani. And by the way they dont call themselves African , even if they dont call themselves British or Dutch but they have their own identity not African . And they are just proud of it. Furry StalkerHe will, but not ethnically, and to be honest I doubt that any first generation migrant can be considered fully integrated. Anyways, it would all be fine and dandy, bigger problem not that these people come to France/Europe but in what numbers they came and what are ethnic European birth rates. At least sub Saharans often are Christian, though they still often are unfit for western society, but think of Muslims, if they keep moving in, living in ghettos and native population shrinks, you will not have "working" towards being French or whatever, you will have demographic displacement. Nicol Bolas I don't believe limiting immigration is a solution, because it just reinforces xenophobia .I agree that it would be easier to give every imigrant a decent job, place to live and education if they came at a slower rate.But we chose to have them come massivey in the 60s as cheap labor, and now they flee conflicts that we are involved in.We cannot just stop them from coming. As awful as it is, it is better that tey come here in tough conditions, rather than them dying in their country.Now we must think about how we integrate them.Also, most delinquants in the immigrant population are second or third generation, who feel like their are unwanted, and don't have a fair chance, and just do what's easier in their situation: be involved in petty crime.So no: first generation immigrant can adapt prettty well. AnneARcTiCa Simple thing is. White people only claim the famous black people. I'm white myself and I've noticed this. Example. Anthony Joshua from the UK. His parents are from Nigeria. But he was born and raised in the UK and all he ever knew was the UK. So he decided to represent the UK. So because he is a really good boxer. The white British people call him English and argue against any Nigerian that tries to say their Nigerian. The same with Giannis Antetokounmpo. Parents are from Nigeria and migrated to Greece. He was born in Greece and raised there. All he ever knew was Greece. So because of that he represented Greece. Greek people in general are racist towards blacks. But because he is an amazing athlete the Greeks argue against any Nigerian that tries to claim the he is not Greek. Whereas if it was an unknown black person claiming they were from Greece or the Uk. They would most likely say no. Your parents immigrated here so you're still Nigerian. To all of you idiots. If we moved Anthony Joshua and Antetokounmpo back to Nigeria. Would they know the culture, or the type of society or the law. NO! Because they were not brought up there. Freeway Penguin I think the problem is that a LOT of people don't even know where they come from and the story of their own country.My parents came from Congo/Africa to France and i'm very worried about what's happening right now.France is, since the WW1 (even before) a melting pot of european ethnicities (spanish, italian, portuguese, polish, and romanian mostly).Every wave of immigration in France have suffered through racism and discrimination.When the spanish came, the government created spanish camps to make they work with a lil (a very lil) pay.A lot of Polish that came here before WW2 changed their last name to not be recognized.Portuguese were seen as illetrate people without brains.Romanians, well, seen as dirty.As time passed, those people were considered french when new "enemies" arrived to entertain the xenophobes (real phobia).At the same Africans also came in Europe but not at the same rate (more in the 70's).[Historicaly, France already seen black people (Toussain Louverture, Alexandre Dumas and his father ect...)].The main problem for some people is that, a spanish, an italian ect... will not be noticed as "stranger".A black person (just like asians who will seen as "chinese"), cannot change his skin colour, so will be easily seen by racists (people who believe in races hierarchy) as "stranger", "invader".Manuel Valls (Prime minister during François Hollande presidency), who was 16 when he came to France from Spain, with his parents.The guy was considered more FRENCH than me, who was born here and never put a foot to Africa.And now with the migrant crisis, people fight over who is french or not!!!Try to create some pride about historical events they didn't take part in, or ashamed about historical events they didn't take part in."We CREATED CIVILIZATTTTIONNN!!!"You've KILLED THE NATIVES AND UNSLAVED the CHOCOLATE PEOPLE!!!"The FUCK IS THAT ???The only thing i'm certain of, is that, WE WON THAT FUCKIN WORLD CUP!!! Jee Blow We were promised a better life in our home countries, where we were told that privatising water and electricity will make things run more efficientlyInstead the quality remained almost the same and the price was increased until it became an unaffordable luxurySome corporations are more efficient than government, but their motivation is not the health or the well being of the people, it's only about profit, everything else, their image, their human resources, their public relations, only exist to protect the reality behind itOnce upon a time, we were told that nationalisation would prevent growthy by limiting competition, that our countries were nothing without the companies that invested in us and so they privatised everything, everything in our country was owned by people that had no connection to our culture, by those who never had our interests at heart, they didn't care about our survival or well being, they just wanted to turn a profit by raping our land, by exploiting our people, our industry and our resourcesThey took everything we built and made it theirs, first by creating racism to justfiy slavery, building the capital for capitalism and then when they gave us what they call liberty, everything we had was still owned by them, our governments told us that socialism was the real enemy and that we would have freedom, but the foreign powers and corporations were the ones with real freedomThe freedom to take all the wealth generated by our work and our land and give us only a small percentage of the scraps from the tableTheir lust for power and their greed drove them to betray not only us but themselves and the word of their own GodU think we like it? Jee Blow For one, that would depend on where you get your information. Many media outlets would have you believe these areas are much worse than they really are. Secondly, the places you listed have very high levels of impoverished blacks. How could they make the world better with money they don't have? No matter the race of the population impoverished areas will have their fair share of troubles. As far as Africa and Haiti, you again have to realize that a lot of what you see represented in media is very one sided. Many countries in Africa are still suffering recovering from the effects of colonization. Several of the governments have only recently been controlled by native africans and the European run governments were just as cruel and corrupt if not more. Other places in Africa are very modern and wealthy, but that's the part people don't want you to see.	Race	Ethnicity - General	1/152	0.658
Jee Blow i'm not going to stoop to racism but you have to understand the programming blacks receive in America and in some other countries. Is racism really that bad here in America? Or is it bad now that our president has instigated and congratulated the behavior set by protest groups? If a black president comes out and basically says he understands why they are rioting means he sympathizes with the rioters. He isnt telling anyone to stop. This is all wrong. HIs party ruined black communities all over the country. Right now I live in a small midwestern town, and I dont see a lot of racism, especially among the younger people. Everyone loves hip hop, there is lots of interracial relationships here, and I see white and black dudes hanging out as "thugs" together all the time...and even the non thug types...I mean, I thought small town America was the pinnacle of racism? I don't see the evidence here. But it has been resurfaced by the media, and people are too damn blind to see it. Now you have groups of young blacks who maybe were not too racist before suddenly calling for black equality, etc. For those who live in big cities like Chicago, it is much more segregated and you may go years without seeing people of another race if you live in certain neighborhoods. Those people dont interact with other races enough to know if they are really a racist or not. It is just assumed that "their people should stick together"...seems that these big city groups are more likely the black people who think the man has got them down. Oh, how it makes me laugh to hear that "French people are open minded and against racism " or how they do not keep track of people coming from different nations. I am from Turkey and I wanted to study in France as an exchange student for a limited time... Even though the Embassy was provided with all the necessary files, I wasn't given the visa, so I had to go to Istanbul once again, to see what was wrong. Obviously, there were some missing files which WERE NOT MENTIONED on their website. Oh and as I was going to study at a French university for a while as a person coming from a non-European country, I had to pay 150 lira (around 50 euro) to CampusFrance, just to get my "files validated"! And I had to go to Istanbul for that again! Oh but no it's not over, they said that for healthcheck I had to go to Istanbul again, that goddamn OFII thingie. Then after all that hassle finally I got my visa and came to France, but no, the ordeal was not over yet. He is saying: "The change is now"Of course, it's kind of cynical. Historically speaking, Europeans thought of tribal Africans as savages, lesser humans, and treated them as children. That's probably why they decided to use a man who is dressed like that. Maybe there's this idea that Obama isn't suited for the task. There seems to be a fear hidden throughout everything that has happened. It's the same with the natives and Canada, and Australia, USA, etc. Just thinking about that reminds me of a few things. Yes, I think he probably thought the blacks were holding back. They were more conservative about over voicing any concerns. The US, it's so divided that we feel it more and it's more in your face. People are angry and to a point deserve to be. People in Europe can discuss these issues without feeling as though they are attacking anyone. I have European friends and American friends. There is racism everywhere. Some advertisements like what we saw in the video are shocking and I will never understand them. But, France has always been an open and accepting country. I think people are barking at the wrong tree...There is two France : one racist and the other more open minded.First, most of the racism came from people that don't know black or arab people. They saw on tv black and arab hoodlum on tv and think that this is all there is to them... While this type of thing only happens in suburbs (the us ghetto equivalent here) and is more link to poverty in those areas than a question of race .The other part, the open one, is made up of a younger generation which had grew up and went to school with them (diversity in school exists in france because the private school system is so underdeveloped). They know they are not criminal in the making and accept them.Back in high school I remember a girl my age who was in love with a black guy and was afraid to introduce him to her parents because they were racist . She must have won them over in the end or decided that love was more important since I heard years later that they were married.I chose this story to show how much the problem of racism in France is a generation problem. Are you seriously trying to sit here and tell me that slavery did not happen to black people and that it was black people that took whites from their home? lol wow.. Many Africans were misled and deceived into thinking they were going to go to a better place. What about the ones that we're not sold into slavery by other africans? are you just forgetting about them, or are you just not mentioning them because it makes your argument sound better? while true, SOME africans sold themselves into slavery, the africans that were sold by other africans were the prisoners of the tribes. They only sold the people that they had captured from other tribes from wars they fought amongst themselves. And the criminals. That would clearly not have been enough for millions of the slaves that were transported, so you know what happened? The Europeans came back and stole people and killed whomever got in their way. Once you think about it, if you were the chief of a tribe, and someone wanted to take your people away from their home, would you send yourself, and the rest of the good tribal members, or the prisoners that no one wanted to associate with? Because as I said before, it wasn't like white people nicely asked them to get into slavery, they had guns. Where did you get "only 3 owned slaves in the USA"? That's not true, also of white Americans back then owned black people. There were a lot of slaves and black people had no rights. But it's funny how you say "Only 3 went to the USA" and "Only 3 owned slaves in the USA " caught you in a lie! If only 3 then where did all of these African Americans come from? The families of most African Americans today have been living in the U.S for years and do you see how they don't know where they descend from in Africa? They can't tell you any of that because it was stripped away from them. Here is an article that can help you out [LINK] Please read and do your research before you speak foolishness.	African, Black	Ethnicity - Black	7/388	1.804 abrey lewi No I think most blacks are wonderful people but cannot tolerate Afrocentrics. I wonder why I was asked by several black teens to help them with their stuck truck in the woods yesterday. Why they tried to drive their truck there is a wonder but crazy teens. No blacks are good and many are my good friends. Lol you say about slavery? are you so ignorant? I never said slavery did not happen; it was in every race. Wait let me re read. Nope I never said that so I guess comprehension is your problem to twist things to fit your agenda. Many mis lead to go to a better place? By blacks if any. I suppose after some 200 years and seeing blacks raid the villages and chaining people and raping others to the ports to be sold just never occurred that it was not a nice place. Are you serious? Not hardly could they had been so ignorant. Wow, lol? you truly are selective in your research but then a very creative people but logic and reasoning not. I suppose you have knowledge that only blacks were enslaved and NEVER whites. Slavery only in the America's right? Slavery continues today and legally in parts of Africa child. I fought on the dark continent freeing blacks oppressed by blacks in ways your small mind could not dream. Yes, we freed them in Angola. Why do you skip in your replies? Only criminals and they whites with guns who never left the ports took them to they were deceived to thinking they were going to a better place? Get your story straight as you sound so wishy washy. No whites left to find free blacks from the ports. Blacks brought plenty to SELL. Slavery was the way of the times. Was it good? Of course not but you were blessed by it. The whites, or Moors delt in slvery. A slave in the USA was worth more than a new car today. Yes only 3 to include black owners had slaves in the USA and slavery was outlawed within 80 years. 97 did not own them . You said for me to do my research before speaking? Hey you should try as it is an easy look up. America for the most treated them well as far as slaves were treated. Did horrible things happen? Yes they did but to burn a new car was not the normal. After the Civil War was the horrible and it certainly was I agree. Blacks did have their choice to return to Africa and few did as most saw it a death sentence. Those that did to Liberia started plantations and slaves to work their farms. Whites had guns again ? They did not need guns fool as the slaves were brought to them chained and bound by other blacks! Whites did not go into the jungles for free blacks. Blacks did it for profit. I guess you are blind to the truth that your ancestors were sold by their own. I would be bothered by it as well.. Caught me in a lie about the 3 to the USA? No, caught you in ignorance you are too proud to research. 95 went to the Caribbean and most to Brazil. Must I repeat myself another time. I did not make it up fool. You lol? Only makes you the joke. The USA went to war to free slaves and that is a fact which many whites died. NO slaves would had escaped without white help. Try ancestry.com if your lost. It is sad about the past but no tears for the many whites enslaved by blacks? Blacks raided the European coast for some hundreds of years enslaved woman and boys for sex and men to the galley or certain death. Please read the facts and research as you truly sound so ignorant. They were criminals! No they were fooled to believe! No, white man went into the jungles to

abrey lewi OK I read your article. Maybe wars did make slaves but what were those wars about? Blacks in Africa or whites in Europe made wars for gain to which they so profit. The black tribes preyed on others to profit for their sale and material gains. Yes your black brothers sold blacks as the black pimps sell woman on the streets to made profit. Most are not so horrible but it does not take a majority to make a horror. Slavery was a huge profit all the way to where they were going. I noticed the writer is from Ghana. Do your research and type in where does slavery exist. Slaves was not new to Africa and it still thrives. Of the 3 races it has be outlawed only in whites which were also the last to embrace it. Blacks had used slavery power and pleasure from the start and to the present. Sometimes they cover it with the term "indentured service" , Sudan and several west coast African nations still embrace it. The USA was the second to outlaw it in the west after Canada which my Family is from and where many blacks sought haven. My heritage had nothing to do with slavery at any time but so what as it happened. Try with your efforts to blame whites for the suffering of which you never suffered and neither did your generations six times before you yet you cry as if you did!! Maybe put your BS to blame whites for something that ended 150 years by a 3 which counts the first slave owner in the USA who was a black man!! Try looking at the slavery in the home of your ancestors that continues today. When did you go to a Civil War Memorial to thank the thousands of whites that sacrificed their lives for the freedom of men? If you look around do you see anyone that can claim a slave owners heritage? Certainly not me! My family first saw a black in the 1930's. Let me help you; look in the mirror and scream!! Your article is totally subjective as is obvious to any reader except you! Never would be allowed if referenced as a proper source. Joe leblanc Joe thewhite, you are certainly not going to teach me MY history. I know where I come from. Racist people like you always do that. They do projection. For God knows what reason, they will never admit that they are the ones who started the slavery buisness.They will never take the blame for it and would rather lie about it and accuse black people of it. They caused all the trouble but will laways blame it on the black people because they cowards and are way too menally weak to take the huge responsibility for a horrible crime they know they have committed. They want black people to feel bad about themselves and to accuse themselves because they want to stay out of the picture, They complain each time they see we are getting informed about our history. They complain because this scare the hell out of them and because they know that knowing the truth about our history will set us compleately free. and will reveal to us our true identity. A person that knows his identity knows how she or he wants to be treated by other people . When you know who you are, you revendicate, you stand up to stop racist piece of crap like you and this scare you to death because you know that now there is a possibility that we can turn things around and make you turn into a slave. So if you don't have something better to say, be nice, stay quiet and leave black people alone, drink poison or hang yourself to a tree. Joe leblanc It is not your fault..... and I guess that I might give you a pass for that. You should be ashamed to write the bullcrap you are writting here on youtube so everybody can see how retarded you are. You don't have a brain and it is sad looking at you trying hard to defend yourself like that. Keep trying though, but already know that you failed don't you? You are a shame for the white nation and for your own family. I really hope that you could do black and white people a favor and suicide yourself really soon. You are so obsseed with black people and I still can't understand why. Stop lying to yourself and don't be so sensitive about things you cleary have no control over. You know that you have no power and you know that you a very limited human being. You know that white people are the ones who started it all. You know it, so stop torturing yourself like that and stop blaming others for a crime that you know your forefathers have committed. I told you already that I know my identity, I know who I am and where I come from so stop wasting your time trying to define me and tell me who I am. There is no use to it. How can you come here and have the audacity to define people and tell them who they are when you can't even look at yourself in the mirror to admire the failed man, the coward, the liar and the corpse that you are. The truth is that you are a mentally dead man and I don't think that there's anything that you could do to change that. It is a shame that you are being proud of something you actually think you are.... and it seems that that's what's keeping you alive. Joe leblanc You are just confirming everything I said about you. Racist people always do projection and become enraged when they see that we are getting informed about our history. It pisses them off so much because they don't like the fact that we become aware of the THRUTH so we can stop blaming ourselves for somethig that they are liable of and made us believe that we are responsible of. Joe leblanc Black people come in all types of shades and color and light skinned people are simply beautiful. You know you are the one in denial and you should stop being in denial about it. Your people first started slavery with the natives and when they saw that they were dying because they were not strong enough, they decided to go kidnap Africans in Africa to enslaved them. The Natives and Africans nations were fonctionning very well, they had a gouvernement, their society was well structured and everything, but you came and destroyed all of it because you think that you are the ones who should rule the world. This is how white people are. Couch potatoes and lazy asses who are always taking advantage of other people to do their dirty job and then have the nerve to claim out loud that they own and build everything.They caused all the pain, the suffering, the trouble and damages in this world and then blame the victims for a situation they put them in. The whole world is upside down because of you. You have to learn to hear these things more often so you can internize it to finally blame yourself for it. You have ripped us of everthing that we once were in Africa; our languanges, or african names, our culture, our heritage. You have distroyed our identity in order to control us better because when you don't know who you are, you are not in position to revendicate. You have raped us (men, women and children), sell us to other slave owners which lead to the separation of families living on the plantations, whipped us and then put salt or hot pepper (carribean) in our wounds, tie slaves women to trees and wipped them and then put salt or hot pepper in their wounds, cut our foot when we tried to escape, beat us naked flat on the floor, almost starve us to death and then expect us to be strong enough to go pick up cotton or sugar canes in the fields, give us food in a animal feeder because you considered us as animals but treated them better than us, .....the list is very long I swear, but I am going to stop there. And then, when the slavery has been abolished, you have started to hang black men who are the head of the family to trees, you created segregation, prevent black people to have rights that any white citizen would have, make laws that are not in our favor as subventionning schools that are in the suburbs, wrongly arresting, killing and emprisoning black people and so on..the list is very long. In short, you hate the black free man and woman and since the slavery has been abolished you have done everything that was in your power in order to oppress them and preventing them to evolve as as society. You did everything to keep us at the hacker social ladder. It is a war of power, because if you give black people too much power, they might be in control of a white dominant society and this you don't want it to happen. Now that we are free, we have became a threat for you. If one day black people find themselves as the ones in control of your society, you know that the US might become like another South Africa. And educated person like you should understand that and this is making you sweating bullets. Baybeeka16 I am in denial? It is you that is or ignorant to facts. First whites were the last to have slaves and the first to outlaw it. Blacks had it from the beginning of time and still practice it. Whites never kidnapped any blacks fool. Blacks captured blacks and sold them to the whites at the ports. Blacks hundreds of years prior captured free whites from Europe and made sex slaves out of the woman and boys and to the galley for the men which was a short lived term. Whites lazy!! There are 196 nations in the world, 54 are in Africa, name which are technologically in the top 150 without any white support. Answer it or shut up. That should be easy to do.You are listening to trash and false thoughts. Africa has more slaves than the world combined today. Slavery was less than 80 years in the USA and less than 2 owned slaves. The average slave in the US was valued more than a new car today and you think they were hanging them? Free blacks in the USA; 1 in 4 owned a slave. the first slaves in the Americas were whites and the first black slave owners were blacks. The freed blacks that returned to Africa started slave worked farms. Most whites did not want slavery and the war to free them cost some 800,000 white lives. It reversed and blacks were the owners do you thing they would had do the same? NO!! 400 years of slavery my people put you through Are you so stupid . First again slavery lasted 77 years in the USA and not 400! Hell not so smart as you are the USA is only231 years old now so how did we have slavery 400 years? My people? My people actually saw their first black in the 1930's and slavery was long over. I think you will be a lonely person if you think they will attack and rape the white suburbs. Most blacks just do not agree with you child. White dominate society? Blacks are 13 of the population and we have a black president, black attorney general and had a black woman sec of state. Major cities are black mayors. I agree they are fucking everything up but still they did not get there on black votes fool. Hey educate yourselves if you wish to be stupid and the such and it makes you happy then go for it. Joe leblanc Encore une fois, tu répètes tout ce que que jei dit et tu es encore incapable de te défendre parce que tu reprends tout les mots que je dis et les reformules en d'autres phrases. Je ne perdrai certainement pas mon temps à répondre à des statistiques mensongères qui ont été faites par des blancs de ton espèce. Baybeeka16 First I do not use google translation and if this is your idea of trying to up yourself then sorry it is not. Acadian or Quebec French is the 17 th century French before the slang and butchery of the language but then you being African immigration would not know that. To be honest I was not aware google did a translation; interesting. I already told you (Of course your comprehension is weak so I understand) , my family did not see their first black till the 30's. They are from Northern New Brunswick and East Quebec. No blacks there! The Duguay came to Canada in 1590 and Le Blanc in 1618 as explorers of France. I would not expect you would had heard of Rene Duguay from St Milo and one of France's great Admirals. My other side is to Field Marshal Rene Ney as in the "Bravest of the Brave", to Napoleon. No I am not French American but first born USA. I see facts upset you. I understand as if my roots were from Africa I would had left as well. As said regardless I seriously doubt your blood is French except by transport. Black jealousy and so sad . It would be good if blacks would stop blaming whites for their social problems and start taking responsibility for their own actions. I noticed you still cannot answer the questions; it is okay as to do so would admit fault as so I understand. A population that outnumbers whites 4 to 1 and still brought blacks of their own to sell. A race that ruled the world! A race without ships and ports but ruled the world and still could not rescue the blacks they sold. Too funny. I am older than you for sure child and I still remember the Boko Haram killing their own and raping them and even ate some. When they saw us moving in they ran as we killed many and the saved people loved us for it. Wonderful folks the Boko Haram were!! I cannot laugh at it as it was a horror beyond dreams the way they slaughtered children and innocent people. I suppose you should had moved to the Congo or Angola or maybe Uganda to speak to them!! Joe leblanc hey guy, i agree with alot that you have said but i have to interject on the 800,000 that i think you are referring to the civil war to free so called blacks. the problem here is that the real civil war actually started in 1861 and it was fought to free white slaves not the blacks. some euros in the north wanted to free all euros and bring them under one umbrella. the south wasn't having that because they had both black and white slaves. the south instituted the fugitive slave act to retrieve both black and whites-whether slave or not -without any documentation that were in the free states. +znieszka Unfortunately, America still has institutionalized racism , especially against Blacks. Being born, growing up & living in that atmosphere rubs off on you. You can't escape the overt/covert racism because it's an everyday thing, so one becomes super sensitized to it! It's like being on guard all the time, wherever you go, even in your own community! In their own communities, many times if a group of young black men are just standing on the corner, they could just be laughing over a joke, they can still be profiled & harassed by police! Going into a store to purchase something can't even be an carefree experience, & I've experienced that many times! Whitney Pyant I noticed this when I was in France. A good number of American Blacks have stated that they felt freer of the burden of racism than in the USA. Richard Wright once wrote that "there is more freedom in ONE BLOCK of Paris than in the whole of the United States."That's partly because it's not directed against us. Orkideh M I don't know whether or not the French are the worst—I hear it's far worse in Eastern Europe. But racism is clearly present in France. And I don't think they have anti-racist movements like the SOS group that they had in the 1980s.	Racism	Ethnicity - General	1/45	2.222

Saving/me If he's from the USA, and Black, then he might very well have been treated better in France than in his own country. A number of Black Americans (including an older relative of mine who fought at Normandy) have testified to this over many decades. I try to point out to fellow Black Americans that the situation might be different if they were North Africans, or even francophone Blacks from Mali or the Antilles. Once on my return from France in the lat 1980s I tried to publish an article on the situation of peoples of color in France with a Black American women's magazine known as ESSENCE. They rejected that article and (I later learned) a similar article by a Black American. But then they published another article talking about how grand life in France was for Black people. But I noticed that all those prosperous Black people interviewed who found life so rewarding in France were Black Americans. This prompted me and another brother I'd met over there to pen now angry letters to ESSENCE to set the record straight (as best we could considering we weren't French people of color), and to criticize the magazine for failing in its responsibilities. I had been reading up on SOS, the National Front, the situation of North Africans and blacks beforehand. And while in France I took some time to talk to Francophone Blacks and North Africans, as well as talking to SOS people, and at least one philosopher connected at that time with LES TEMPS MODERNES. I also visited and spoke with persons connected with PRESENCE AFRICAINES. So while I was not (and am not) an expert on these matters, I took some effort to try to inform myself rather than simply drawing conclusions based on my personal "experience" as some naively do. One thing that stuck in my memory was that Francophone Blacks and Arabs seems to react to French police (and police to them) which was eerily like what I've seen here in the USA. But as for my own experiences in France they were quite benign. Hell, I enjoyed myself! I did feel like the weight of race was off my shoulders in ways unimaginable in the USA. I could see why an older relative who had fought at Normandy said he was tempted to stay in France and never return to Jim Crow America. Except for Frenchmen who dislike Americans, they were generally friendly. I can see how a Black American can get an overly benign picture of France. No, France does have its problems with racism. And from what I hear about the popularity of the National Front it could be worse than many imagine. But I've no evidence that France is WORST than others. In both France and the USA, the question is whether the democratic ideals of our two societies will prevail over racism, or whether we shall enter into an era of fascist oppression, barbarism and misery.	Black, Crow, Jim Crow, Race, Racism	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	14/497	2.817

Wild Wolf Well I know that American police kill more American citizens—even white ones—than do most other countries in the world. But from what I hear from Francophone Blacks and North Africans, both those I met in France and those I meet here in the USA, indicates there is a real problem with racism and even police brutality in France, though not on the scale of the USA. If SOS is no longer active, I wonder why. They certainly made their presence felt when I used to visit your country in the 1980s. By the way, the health care and education system you do have in France and in much of Europe is one thing we do not have here. bruno Mesu You don't have to BE better than others to be treated better than others. In America, Africans are sometimes treated better than Black Americans. While in France, I noticed that some French people who were cordial enough with me and other Black Americans were often quite open in their disdain for Africans. A French policeman who stopped me in the Metro and demanded my "carte d'identite" suddenly became red with embarrassment when he saw my American passport. To this day in the US, Africans (and sometimes other non-US Blacks are often treated better than Black Americans). And some Africans let this go to their heads, or at least find it hard to see what substance our objections about injustice and racism can really have today. Some of them are only brought up to speed about American realities when they have a run in with one of our fascistic cops who noticed the Africans were Black before noticing that they were Africans. In the Jim Crow era, some educated Black Americans even tried to pretend to be Africans simply to get white folks off their backs. I've read and heard stories of how some American Blacks in Baltimore would wear African clothes and use fake African accents to get around the coercive restrictions of segregation. Yet amidst all this madness I can not for the life of me find good reasons to believe that American Blacks are better than Black Africans, or that Black Africans are better than us. ezyccn30 I get your point, but you have to understand that American (blacks, whites, natives, and latinos) have experienced Jim Crow laws, and it's still affecting them. The reason why mixed people ( black and white) tend to classify themselves as black because of those laws. For instance, the "One Drop rule" stipulates that as soon as you have 25 percent of "non-white" blood, you are automatically not white. Hence, mixed kids from black and white parents are called black , those from asian and white are called asian, when in fact they actually carry 50 of each parents and should be because mixed like they are called mulato, metisse, or person of color in around the world. Now our race is different according to anthropology there are 5 different races, Caucasoid, Congoloid, Capoid, Australoid, and Mongoloid and all humans belong to these groups. I think you mean to say the stereotypical black person not typical black person because the black people that i know do not act ghetto or rude to people they come in contact with and i'm sure that vast majority don't either. And you're right she does being that Spain Portugal and France mainly occupied the Carribean. So she does most likely have spanish lineage but that doesn't make her spanish(nationality) Africa is a continent with over 50 sovereign nations so which ever country you come from that's your nationality but above all else they are African. If you take an apple seed from africa and plant in north american soil you're not going to call it a north american apple you're going to call it an apple. It's still going to be the same color apple as the original taken from africa. She said she is Dominican which means she identifies as a Dominican woman her parents are probably from the DR and so she holds tight to her roots and there isn't anything wrong with that. This prioritizing of authenticity of how black you are is more of seeing are you one of us or are you one of them which is the same thing Americans in general do to others. Brazilians do the same thing to me and they call me a gringo despite me speaking Portuguese. They don't consider me to be one of them. So you can't limit that to black Americans. For so long black Amreicans were segregated and forced to live in communities with primarily black people and when they would live where it would be primarily white people they would be outcasts and not excepted what you're talking about is a learned behavior because of racism. African American is a term that is so often misused. It's a cultural moniker which has little connection to the people it so often describes. White Americans can accurately be called European-Americans because they are cultural descendants of European culture. Even then it's not common . As for the majority of Black people particularly the decedents of Slave their African culture was utterly destroyed and they are far more European than they are African . I would also agree with the Nigerian woman when she said "does it make it any better when a Black person says it?" My ancestors have been in the U.S. for over 400 years. I would never label myself as an " African ."	African, Race	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	3/57	5.263

Summer Sunshine The term " African American" was not created by your government at all. It was created by your Black leader Jesse Jackson in the late 80's. Your government only implemented it into the Census because it is what your leader wanted and ultimately what you yourselves accepted so everyone else started calling you what you wanted to call yourselves, African American.	African, Black	Ethnicity - Black	3/62	4.839
No it wasn't. It was created during the Reconstruction period. A council was put together to determine what to call these newly freed persons. Jessie Jackson did not create the term. Its curious to me that no matter where a white person resides in the world they are still considered white. Yet when a black person is any place but africa in the world somehow said person magically becomes something other than black . Please understand first and foremost African meant black ...not Arab, not white ..as these persons are invaders not indigenous to Africa. You can remove a black person by time and space from Africa ...they are still black and Africa. Does a chinese person whose family has been in the US for 200 years consider themselves not chinese ...of course not because it would be ridiculous to do so. Summer Sunshine I agree that you're not Africans and you said it correctly, because Africans on the continent do have the same culture as you do. I don't call Black Americans African Americans because that term just sound really stupid to refer to yourselves as an entire continent, the second to largest continent. African, Black	Ethnicity - Black	2/82	2.439

maylin peterson Jesse Jackson did coin that term African American first. He really did in 1989 to be exact. I am sure there had to be some council to decide on whether or not they'd use that new term, but Jesse Jackson was indeed the one who came up with it. Within the next 35 years, you will be a new ethnic group. Tai CooleyYou are incorrect when you state that white Americans do not obsess over skin color. Skin color and race are very salient in the U.S., because more often than not, skin color determines one's overall social status/standing.I also think your view of black Americans is very limited. There's certainly a sizable number of low income blacks in the U.S., but most black Americans are either working class or middle class (like most Americans in general).If you want to know more about black upper income Americans –read Lawrence Otis Graham's best selling book entitled "Our Kind of People."——"Debutante cotillions, Million-dollar homes, Summers in Martha's Vineyard. Membership in the Links, Jack &amp; Jill, Deltas, Boule, and AKAs. An obsession with the right schools, families, social clubs, and skin complexion. This is the world of the black American upper class and the focus of the first book written about the black elite by a member of this hard-to-penetrate group.Author and TV commentator Lawrence Otis Graham, one of the nation's most prominent spokesmen on race and class, spent six years interviewing the wealthiest black families in America. He includes historical photos of a people that made their first millions in the 1870s. Graham tells who's in and who's not in the group today with separate chapters on the elite in New York, Los Angeles, Washington, Chicago, Detroit, Memphis, Atlanta, Philadelphia, Nashville, and New Orleans."——Honestly, this will give you the best glimpse into how the black aristocracy in the U.S. think. In truth, the majority of black Americans who are upper income routinely point out that black Americans are mixed and not merely of African ancestry. My family is definitely a mixture of all races, like many black American families; therefore, I agree that it is a complete misnomer to label black Americans "African."	African, Black, Race	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	15/308	4.87

Summer Sunshine I never thought that there weren't any middle class black Americans. I know that black Americans have the highest GDP compared to other blacks around the world. I do know that black Americans are far behind in the economic pool than other races are in America too though. Asian immigrants have surpassed black Americans in only recent years when they started emigrating there and some others. Whites do not obsess over skin colour like black Americans do. They never once brought up race with me when I visited. It was many black Americans who brought up racial topics with me when I sparked conversation with some. I have a strong accent and they ask where I am from so I tell them East Africa but live in France. So they automatically ask how do the whites treat me here. I thought to myself "why would you ask me that? You can be asking me so many other or important questions." Black Americans are definitely colour struck too. I'm not light skinned as you can see but my hair is pretty fine textured. They ask me if I am mixed race and which parent is white and black. Tai Cooley That’s interesting since there were middle class Black Americans even in the 1700s &amp; 1800s. However the black middle classes at least doubled or tripled since the 1960s. But I wonder where you are from if you didn’t know that there were middle class Black Americans. Even as a black American schoolboy I knew there were middle class blacks in the West Indies and Africa. I sometimes read West Indian and African thinkers like CLR James, George Padmore, Eric Williams, Kwame Nkrumah, Amilcar Cabral, Camara Laye, Frantz Fanon, Chinua Achebe, Nelson Mandela and others. In short, I wanted to KNOW and to understand. Hence I inquired, and developed numerous friends among Africans and Caribbean people living in the USA. I can only be curious as to why you’re not familiar with some of our thinkers and writers; persons like W.E.B. Du Bois, Anna Julia Cooper, Alain Locke, Richard Wright, Joy James, James Baldwin, Paul Robeson, Langston Hughes, Angela Y. Davis, Michelle Alexander, Manning Marable, bell hooks, Cornel West and others I could suggest. For if you were so informed it would have been hard for you to have been unaware of the existence of an American Black middle class. And you’d probably also know how racial caste in America works such that ”whiteness” is hegemonic; so much so that in the USA whiteness is taken (prereflectively) as being virtually the norm of all that is right, good, beautiful and even human. Those who are identified with the norm often don’t speak it,but rather simply assume it without even thinking about it. Those not identified with the norm, or even deemed the opposite of the norm do not have that privilege. Most American black people know (or at least sense) that they are the anti-thesis of the norm (even though some of us try even today to assimilate to it). This is largely why the struggle for black empowerment and liberation in America has been for more than just certain economic improvements, but rather has been from the very beginning a struggle for our humanity. I don’t expect you to understand this from day one. But if you choose to speak on it, it would be well if you took some time and effort to inquire and seek to understand.	African, Black, Indian	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - Native- American	9/381	2.362
SagesseNoir I think it’s actually fairly easy for African immigrants to assume that most black Americans are poor, because more often than not, African immigrants are not wealthy, and are therefore relegated to the worst communities in America, upon arriving. This means that much of their early socialization is with the black underclass. Very rarely would an African immigrant move to rural parts of America (therefore, they are not really exposed to the white underclass). And those without money are certainly not exposed to the black middle class, because it takes money to afford to purchase a home in a good/middle class community.	African, Black, Immigrant	Ethnicity - Black, Nationality - General	7/103	6.796

Summer Sunshine If Africans come here as common laborers, then they may be exposed mainly to the Black poor. However, many come here as students; and regardless of whether they attend an HBCU or a predominantly white university, they're bound to meet middle class African Americans. Also, come Africans are so ensconced in white communities as to have little contact with American Blacks. But if there are American Blacks in those almost lily white communities they are probably middle class people themselves. The Africans who attended this private mostly white university in which I did graduate work would have met mostly whites, but the blacks whom they et were nearly completely middle class. Those who attended my HBCU undergraduate school would have met a mixture of middle class and poorer American Blacks. (Needless to say, al their professors would be middle class people). A lot does depend on where you live, work and go to school. But I do recall that while growing up in the inner city of Baltimore I rarely met Africans. I began to meet significant numbers of Africans only once I was at the university, an institution which is geared toward studies which help to either maintain one's middle class status if you have it, or if you don't (as in my case) to enable you to attain the middle class condition. While I don't have scientific data on this as of yet, it appears to me that in America, unlike Europe where so many Africans live as common laborers, Africans tend to come with at least a modicum to middle class background when they arrive in the USA. James Cooper Your ignorance both saddens and baffles me, please go to the library pick up a history book and read. They are historically part of it, don't you know that blacks were taken out of their country to be slaves. Some if not most of the black people in Europe consider themselves Europeans because that is where their ancestors were born and raised and they have been mixed. Secondly, dude today everybody migrates to different countries for different purposes not just blacks, haven't you heard of white Africans. I am half Asian half black but because i have lived in Asia all my life I don't consider myself black , there is nothing black about me except of course my color and I have white Asian friends too who consider themselves Asians for the same reason. Have I answered your questions?	Black, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black	5/141	3.546
"don't you know that blacks were taken out of their country to be slaves." Of course I know that. They were taken out of their homeland, which is AFRICA. Nonetheless, this has nothing to do with my original question. "Some if not most of the black people in Europe consider themselves Europeans because that is where their ancestors were born and raised and they have been mixed." Total bullshit. Europeans then were all WHITE, there was not a single BLACK European back then. Most of the black people's ancestors were living in Europe? Lol, what are you high on? Africa is where blacks truly belong. "Have I answered your questions?" As you can see, not at all. Hope you can answer me next time!	Black, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black	4/124	3.226

Oh my gosh, just calm down for one minute and open mindedly look at the matter. I not only answered your question but explained it in detail. Let me just do this as simple as possible.....1. Why dont black people live in africa anyway?Most of the black population live in africa but there are many factors why some are in europe, here are a few-They were FORCED out of their country many years ago againts their will and they have finally settled in europe.-Because now everybody has the right to migrate for whatever reason they want to wherever.2. Why should they be all over the whites countries in the world?-Look at the answer in question one coz it basically answers it too.-whites were the one who forced them out and brought them to their own countries.-And dont flatter yourself they not only go to white countries but to any country they want to be because as i have said everybody has the right to migrate.(When you replied to my first comment you asked)3. tell me the reason why blacks have to mix into white countries and act like they are historically one of them calling themselves german, english, french?-Once again the answer in question one pretty much answers this.Extra explanation:The original "mixing" happened when they were forced out of their country brought to yours and married to the whites, now their children are biracial. what determines what race they will be in 1. Where they are born2. Where they live for the rest of their life.If their child lives in france and adopts everything french plus the fact that he is half french then he is a frenchman, nothing in him is black except his physical appearance, this applies even to those who are not biracial but was born and raised in france.I hope i have answered it now. Im sorry if i insulted you, i should have used nicer words. I reread what i wrote and i know i was rude. Your not ignorant, you are just asking, i get it.	Black, Nothing, Race	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	5/358	1.397
"-Because now everybody has the right to migrate for whatever reason they want to wherever." Absolutely, but not to the point where the host countries' original identities are significantly affected by them. "-The original "mixing" happened when they were forced out of their country brought to yours and married to the whites, now their children are biracial "-4whites were the one who forced them out and brought them to their own countries." But what does that have to do with the black people's mass immigration to the white countries in the late 20th and 21st century?	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/96	1.042

Why would there be black representation in European media and TV? They are all like 2 of the population in each country, and in the US they are under 10. Yet oddly enough have more representation in every facet of American TV than Mexican people do, who are 3x the population of black Americans. If you were to go hmm, let's say Ireland, where African immigrants are barely 2 of the population, yet advertisements, billboards, diapers in stores, you name is it is about 30 representation, I'm giving a low estimate too. Why does this make it ok with you, I'm curious to know.What percentage is enough for France to not sweep them under the rug? Mexicans ARE represented in the United States. George Lopez (two shows), Modern Family, Jane the Virgin, plus even more in the media and music like Jessica Alba and Jennifer Lopez. The same with Asians, both Daniel Dae Kim and Yunjin Kim for television plus Sung Kang and Ming-Na Wen are big names in our films.The US actually does represent all ethnic groups not just blacks and not just whites no matter how little the demographic. We even have people from India and Polynesia making it successfully on tv programs.Face it, France has completely white washed their media. Hispanics and Asians are also in the media but do not share the same history as whites and blacks in the United States. Not only that but Blacks are expected to surpass Whites by 2050, so get used to it.Most of Europe is just afraid of change. PanamericanistaM0R3Na Pffft you are funny. Fun fact, Anglophone African countries (Nigeria,Kenya,Ghana etc.) are doing much better than francophone countries (Mali, Senegal, Congo etc.). I don't want to write a paragraph to tell you why, but it has to do with the English educatiing the Africans during colonialism while the French kind of just swooped in for resources. I am not saying that the English were not wrong to colonize, but they did better things than the French that's for sure. I know this because I am Congolese myself and the French/Belgians fucked our country so bad. At the end of colonialism only like 10 people had University education of the 10s of million Congolese. Compare that to Ghana and Nigeria where the British actually sent thousands of them to study at British universities during colonialism. I am not trying to be mean but it seems like African Americans are always commenting on vids they know nothing about. Dude don't compare humans to animals. There are many animals in a barn and each animal is part of a family. Not all African people are poor but many are. It is well known for a fact that Africa is the poorest continent of the world. Actually, most diseases in Africa are those that can be prevented for less than $5 vaccine or with drugs that sell for less than $10.Sexually Transmitted Diseases are a very big cause of death in Africa. With no proper sexual education of responsible sexual behavior and general access to condoms the African are plagued by them. well, many french people from south and center of France look just like north African Muslims, there's black people, and a lot of mixed race people that look basically like north Africans ( that makes sense, north Africans are themselves a sort of a mixed race ) a sort of a common Mediterranean face.. plus in Paris there's a lot of colored people, from overseas departments and territories, they're nice and educated, but there's also some new coming immigrants, that have no manners, speak loud, harass everyone around, it's not a white nation ! every country are racist or got people who are ignorant. in france racism is more over the north african community , the ex colony of france which is algeria, morrocco and tunisia. those community never mixed well with france. one reason is they really get rejected by french but also the community never try to mixed and is quite sector,,but that can t explain all as other community are on their own and don t make any trouble, but arabs, or magrébins have prove to be more trouble makers than any other groups, and it s a fact that today if there s a crime, most of the time it will come from magreb kids. but one reason also is that if you live in france and your name is youssouf or mohammed your chances to get a job is thinner than if you name is josé, pierre or sebastien. it s a sad reality that push those youth to take the crime way and sometime the terrorist way ( and that don t make any thing better for others)also racist which is a synonym of ignorant are also racist against all foreigner which include african black and asiatic.asiatic racism is a sort of a joke that everyone seems to accept and i think even the asiatic seem not to care but it s still racism and it piss me off when i see friend on fb that can recognise one asian friend from another or call them chinese when they are vietnamese etc	African, Black, Racism, Racist, Terrorist	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General, Religious Identity - Muslim	10/254	3.937
Jee Blow First of all, I am a MAN (unlike Jee Blow) and so the use of the feminine "her" does not apply. I guess I could apologize as an American that an ignorant bigot like Jee who, though American, cannot write intelligibly in the English language, was given a passport. But though I am a citizen of the USA, I don't decide who gets a passport and who does not. Unlike Jee, I don't wish that most of my compatriots be shot. I do wish that America was more given to honest self-examination. But as Afro-American writer James Baldwin once observed, most American will resort to almost anything to avoid self-examination. I wish that America would develop more of an historical consciousness, an historicist sensibility, and outgrow the immature condition of being what one American writer calls "The United States of Amnesia." But since Jee regrets that his countrymen (presumably whites) didn't pick their own cotton rather than importing my African ancestors, perhaps he should also express regrets that they nearly exterminated the aboriginal people (misnamed "Indians") in order to seize the land on upon which the Africans would then be compelled to labor. For the original sin of American racism began with wars of racial genocide against the indigenous people, and racial enslavement–racialized capitalist exploitation–of the African.	African, Racism	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	3/219	1.37

But I can say this for you: At least you're OPEN with your racism....maybe because you lack the sophistication to conceal it. You openly say "You Blacks are worthless" or "Your women are ugly". And your claim that we don't want to be "more American." Unless you're Cherokee, Sioux or some other indigenous person, then you are probably LESS American than we are. Or if you are more American, it is only in the WORST ways—racist, arrogant, anti-intellectual, rigid, intolerant, and imperialistic.. But, of course, you do equate Americanism with whiteness—which is an attitude commonplace among the most backward elements of white American society. petion2013 think again my friend, since all those century who do you think is pure from your country? my country is called France, it always have been a crossroad for multiculture, France don t really exist, there s many groups of people from different countries and it s been built from different ethnies, britannia, corsica, basque, etc we have group from africa, asia, we had immigration from italia, poland, Portugal, that were not accepted at the time, there is no pure race or pure country, mixing is the best way to get better person, you have to reckon that mixing people are generally more beautiful, often brighter etc,concerning integration it s a problem , sometimes it s a reaction to rejection, sometime the state should give some laws or some direction to integration. don t forget your ancestors used to be foreigner before they settled	Race	Ethnicity - General	1/145	0.69

Remi P In the beginning cotton fed the manufacturing industries of both England and the northern American states. True, once those industries matured and grew beyond a certain point, conflicts developed between the industrial sector (which was initially fed by cotton) and the agrarian interests of the slaveholding South. And in the westward expansion the conflict between the two sectors of the nation , and the two economies, became explosive. But for some time previously the South was the richest part of the nation ,supplier of a disproportionate part of the nation political leaders.	Nation	Nationality - General	3/92	3.261

poolidoor My point of view is that the northern industries had no need to keep slavery and sought for more protectionism.(Protectionism is a policy that consists for the government to raise custom taxes in order to protect a new-born industry or a weak industry (hence the name): Making the imported goods more expensive allows the local economy to grow because it wouldn't undergo concurrencyOn the other hand we have the south that benefited from the slaves: Since, the workforce cost was lower in comparison to the other countries (hence the fact they wanted to keep slavery), it enabled them to cut prices, become more competititive and sell their products at low cost.That's why they didn't need protectionism but on the contrary: free-trade (They had a comparative advantage so their best interest was to have no obstacles for selling)To sum up we have the industrialised north that wants to abolish slavery because its unhuman and useless to them,And after that we have the agricultural south wants to keep slavery (Which is good for their economy) and free-trade.My point of view is when a young nation has got two different economic interests and the thrive of one region would lead to the ruin of the other, those regions naturally split.PS: I'm not a native English either so excuse my repetition and my lack of specific vocabulary)	Nation	Nationality - General	1/231	0.433

Remi P Je faisais juste référence au double sens en anglais de "free", particulièrement malheureux dans ton commentaire. En anglais, free signifie gratuit et libre. La force de travail des esclaves était peut-être gratuite mais n'avait rien de libre. Et encore, loger et nourrir les travailleurs s'est avéré, au XIXe siècle, plus cher que de leur payer un salaire de misère, comme c'était le cas dans le secteur industriel. Ce facteur pris en compte, la force de travail des esclaves n'a rien de gratuit... Sinon historiquement ce que tu dis est vrai, même si ça ne veut pas dire que les Wasps n'ont pas de dette envers les Noirs Américains descendants d'esclaves)...My comment was just highlighting the double meaning of the English word "free", which made your sentence particularly awkward, not to say awful. In English, free means "obtainable without any payment" but also "not imprisoned or enslaved." This workforce may have been free, but slaves could be everything but free. Also note that providing slaves with dwelling and food eventually became more expensive than just paying them a ridiculous salary, like industrial employers did at the time. Given this, the workforce was not economically free... Otherwise what you say is historically accurate, even if it does not mean that Wasp American have no debt to African American slave descendants...	African	Ethnicity - Black	1/221	0.452

I will speak only about France here, each country in Europe has different issues. It's very complicated explaining you what is going on in France if you don't know its background and culture but I will try to be succinct.Those attitudes you are talking about, the pro-nazism, is not growing. They are nonetheless very weak and are not even tolerated on the public place. It is simply reemerging to the surface in period of deep political crisis.The two stronger french political parties are lost in internal turmoils and confused in regards to the rapid changes provoked by globalization and new technologies, the country needs to change and nobody likes it.It is very hard to predict a country's future in the actual international atmosphere, people lifestyle has changed a lot and will change a lot too. From this you can understand the political challenge our leader are confronted to.There is one party in France which has been created several decades ago for pure political manipulation game. The party was used to fraction the right wing electorate, and it worked, the left won the election during this time. This party had a clear racist ideology and used to be a mere political business for a family and its acolytes to sell pants and hatcheries to a very dumb crowd (less than 0.5 of vote for a very long time).Their speech always ran on demagogic ideas like anti-immigration. Now that our fourth republic is weaken, and that the European project is making angry people (change always make people angry) they adapt their speech with anti-european, anti-globalization speech. they try to hide their racist roots but nobody gets fool.A lot of people voted for them during the last election not because they are racist but in sign of protestation against the main right wings and left wing parties.At the core they are not Nazis, but you can find some Nazis in it. Nobody in France could walk 1 meter showing a nazi cross, those people are very few but we cannot ignore them. If you have 1 nazi for 100.000 people our society will focus on those roaches. It doesn't mean they are growing. kroooassant I fear that if Fascism ever takes hold in France it may be through the manipulation of public fears by a handful of extremists. Frankly, I doubt that Nazis were a majority even in Germany during the 1930s. But the extreme Right was able to take advantage of a national crisis and the fears of the people to advance their monstrous schemes. Had Franklin Delano Roosevelt not been able to offer an alternative during the Great Depression of the 1930s, the USA might have turned Fascist. From my reading of Fanon and others I get the impression that "colorism" is more deeply entrenched in some Francophone Black cultures than in the USA. This may have something to do with the French policy of "assimilationism".	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/38	2.632
Have you read Fanon's " Black Skins, White Masks"? It appears that the "light skin/dark skin" issues are commonplace wherever Europeans colonialism and slavery has been imposed. Elizabeth Gonzalez The problem of racism in France is REAL. I hear Francopone Blacks here in the USA talk about it all the time. French speaking Black writers from the time of Cesaire and Fanon have been examining and making critiques of French racism . Black people whom I met in France during the late 1980s & early 90s talked to me about this problem. So did North Africans. Angela Y. Davis, who hailed from Bull Connor’s Birmingham, AL, describes her own experiences of this while she was a student in Paris. I PERSONALLY SAW police harassing North Africans and Blacks while there. Now I think the young Black American ought to be less comic in his approach, more ”professional” in his inquiries regarding French racism . But to dismiss his inquiries as stupid would be itself a stupid dismissal. Have you guys even heard about the NATIONAL FRONT and their record of racist violence? This is REAL. And what has the speaker’s light complexion has to do with this? Would it make any difference if he were the complexion of Michelle Obama? MSMikado8 That has been an issue in my country (USA) since the time of slavery. The light skin/dark skin divide was actually created by the white slaveholders, and continued for at least a century after slavery by certain practices of discrimination. My mother, a light skinned woman from the Jim Crow South, noted even after moving North that often the few ”better” jobs available to Blacks were often advertised specifically for LIGHT SKINNED ”colored” person (”colored” and ”Negro” being more common names for American blacks in the 1950s & early 60s). In a book called the COLOR COMPLEX, it was noticed that given the small privileges afforded to lighter skinned American Blacks it was generally the case that most better educated and well off Black were light skinned. That is less true today than decades ago, but has not completely disappeared. What’s harmful to Blacks is the extent to which Blacks–light , dark and in-between–have internalized the psychology of this ”colorism” (as it’s sometimes called in the USA). It is emotionally harmful even if it doesn’t divide politically the American Black population as it has the South African Blacks from the ”coloreds”. Basically, the light skin/dark skinned divide–whereby value and beauty are increased the closer one is to white, and diminished the further one is from whiteness (or closer to blackness)–is really an internalization within the Black psyche of white racism and Eurocentric aesthetics and values. This sickness was diminished but not ended by the Black consciousness movement during the 1960s in the USA. Peacewithchildren What I'm talking about may be more common among Francophone Blacks from the West Indies. The experience of Blacks from Martinique, to take one example, is in a sense similar to that of Blacks of the USA. They, like we, are descendants of Africans deported during the slave trade. And what we sometimes call "colorism" in the USA, began in the French Caribbean (like in the USA) during slavery. That divide was imposed by the whites. However, while the French (at least after slavery) offered the carrot of assimilation, in the USA segregation was the standard policy—and remains a FACT (no longer the law) even today in the USA. Colorism may have been intensified in the French territories because the ideology of assimilation promised you could gain equality, escape racial inferiority by assimilating French values, language, etc. In short, by becoming white. The mentally colonized Black American often also wanted to be assimilated, to become white, but was made to know in no uncertain terms that he was not welcome—not even with a Harvard U Ph.D. and mastery of the King's English and a dozen other European languages. Largely for this reason a Black person as "color struck" as martinique's Mayotte Capecia (as is evident in her work "Je suis Martiniquaise) would be unusual in the USA. The very bluntness of American racism compared to a more nuanced and subtle French racism would likely jolt an American Black back into consciousness. Perhaps that's why our Harlem Renaissance preceded Francophone Negritude. In Africa, I'm not as sure. French colonialism did seduce Africans with the policy and ideology of assimilationism, But unlike both the Martiniquais and Les Americains Noires, the African is not uprooted from his/her land and culture. Mental colonialism (of which colorism is one feature) may not be as deeply rooted in as many people as in the French Caribbean. But I'm pretty sure that it existed because I've read African writers who talk about it. But it may have affected mainly the African elites, and less so the masses. And the condition may not run as deep. SagesseNoir The problem is here in USA black have many contradictions such as they are told not to be American or act white by being educated or speaking with out a southern voice using words that not many would understand apart from being in the deep south. apart from that they are told in their own circles that America is a country that hates them so they make a point to hate them back in a very loud voice problem is this cycle continues with their children so you get a group of people uneducated who have babies then leave said babies because they can not support them the media make a point to show non 2 family homes and you've just added more the problem. I've said it before all these problems would end if the so called elite would be forced to live with all they bring into the states Money as well in Europe is the great divide and if we all stop that force all places to be integrated we the people take our country back this whole idea of brining people up rooting simply to achieve division with in a country would end today	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/199	0.503
SagesseNoir You're right this set of mind is more common for people from the West Indies. Even the way you presented Assimilationism is kind of the Caribbean caricatural/simplified version. In France we don't really have this light skin VS dark skin thing you have in English countries, only Caribbean think like this in my own experience. Some Congolese and Senegalese do light skinning tho but they generally grew up in Africa and are uneducated. I also think your vision of France is too politicized and too cliché, like the fact to see racism everywhere. Don't forget that the late 80's were very unique and kind of shitty for immigrants because of the political context (Mass immigration and massive regularization of illegals, one of the first to happen in Europe). Your Black French friends don't represent all Black French, and don't forget also that culturally we complain much more in France than in other Western countries. Even when things are good we'll find a critic or some negativity...Finally, the Front National is not as racist as you think it is. It's first a nationalist party, anti immigration and anti Islam. They don't have a racialist speech like some Neo Nazi further East... It's politically one of the softest far right party in Europe, and it's much less extreme than many of your Republicans, I don't even mention the Tea Party. Human kind is not racist . Racism is based on culture. Racism started with Europeans discovering that their are other humans on this planet. They were extremely angry at what they saw. People who don't look like them knew more than them and had more than them. At first they were curious they saw people running around assuming they were animals. It made them happy but when they discover what these people had (piles of gold, diamonds, intelligence creativity, very friendly and generous to a point that they would give some of their riches). they started being jealous. To empower themselves they created society based on racism and started spreading it all around the world. Even if that’s so, the marginal skinhead type doesn’t drop out of the sky, but emerges from a milieu which is a part of the society. Here in the USA, where OVERT racism in ”respectable” society was effectively discredited by the Movements of the 1960s & 70s,there is a tendency to pretend that skin heads, Christian Aryans, Aryan brotherhood and white militia types, are not REALLY representative of something deeply etched in American culture. Yet all sorts of reactionary policies, racist as classist, are promoted by our right wing which are more damaging than the primitive racisms of the overtly racist . But our white militiamen (whom one often see at Tea Party rallies) didn’t just drop out of the sky. They are a part of American history and culture. Hi there blackmaxpayne. Yeah, it seems the "journalist" was trying very hard to make it look like a flagrant statement of typical French racism . Now that painting on the pub window was merely depicting both the French and American presidents putting aside their countries' mistrust towards each other (ref. to Gulf Wars and stuff) and joining forces for a better world, unknowing of the fact that the world was supposed to come to its end on 12/21/2012 (the little devil getting ready to explode the world is supposed to represent a Mayan devil). It's not so common today as it used to be, but many pub/cafés/restaurant/brasseries owners like to decor their windows on special occasions, like Xmas/NYEve, summer holidays, intn'l foot/rugby competitions, even Halloween and Paddy's Day; and usually do it with a comic or merely "merrying" rendering. That was clearly the case with that particular restaurant; and it pisses me off when someone takes it as an excuse to yell " Racism! " when there's none. He was the racist here (ex., his racists comments about a graffiti depicting Maurice Chevalier [a white French singer from WW2 era, clearly unknown to the journalist] and pretending it was an insult towards black people). Trust me on this: Blacks over there are aware of racism . So are the North Africans. but you don't have a history of racialized slavery and Jim Crow segregation as we have in the USA. Stop compare USA to France. But if you want to do it I give u the key to understand. First, white people are not white americans : they are native, their ancestors live in that country since centuries. In Europe white people are like Indians in America or black people in Africa, they are not settlers. Second, black people are like mexicans in USA. They arrive since a very short time, often in irregular situation. But Mexicans arrive in New Mexico a land stolen by an unfair war wanted by the slavers. I am impressed to see that most people were quick to say that there was no racism in France in the video or that Americans (the US) are more racist , in most comments, that is not true, I think those two place do experience racism in different ways, none is better then the other. In both cases you will meet with open-minded individuals and openly- racist or hypocritical- racist individuals. Although I do think that it is way easier for black people to be successful in North America then it is in Europe where there is almost no social mobility.Also, for that " African American" thing, only native- black people from the US that were there for many many generations, descents from slave ancestors and have no direct parents from Africa, should be called Afro-Americans. For me, it should be the only place in the world where black people are called like that because of their history and their background. For the rest of us "none-american" black people who live in the of the rest of the world I don't see the point of being called (something...)- african like if Africa was a country. I've never been to France but I do plan to visit. I feel like black people and Africans are shown racism because of the world's view of Africa. Especially America and some European countries. Africa, which is a CONTINENT NOT A COUNTRY, is always seen as the poorest "country" in the world. Yes, they some very poor places in Africa, just like there are very poor places in every country/continent in the world. They are also middle class and rich places in Africa. Aside from that, In the olden daysAmerica and many European countries enslaved African countries and basically destroyed those countries foundation. Thats why Africa is seen as "behind" in their development as a continent. Fast forward to present day, those Europeans and Americans look down on Africans and their descendents resulting in racism . I hate racism no matter if its directed to Africans, Asians, Caucasians, or whatever. It's wrong. Keep in mind though that I'm not saying EVERY American or European is racist or that America and Europe are terrible places.That would be rude and incorrect. I'm just saying that that's most likely one of the reason why there is racism in those countries. Jocelyne Alexandra I must admit that my own impressions may be dated because I've not been back to France Since the 1990s. I enjoyed my stay there. But I was concerned when I heard Blacks and North Africans complaining about racism . In the 1980s when I was a student, Blacks here in the States had become aroused by the fight against apartheid in South Africa, and then word had gotten back to some of us about the National Front. Some Black American newspapers and magazines asked me to inquire to see what I might find. I must admit that I felt the burden of race far less in France than in the USA. And I had elder relatives who fought in WWII, one at Normandy, and who thought that France was almost paradise compared to our KKK-ridden and segregation bound society. (Richard Wright once said that there was more freedom in one block of Paris than in the whole of the USA). But talking to Tunisians, Malians, Martiniquais and others gave me a different and more sobering picture. I couldn't help noticing that many white French who were friendly to me were quite unfriendly and even hostile to francophone Blacks. Yet I didn't see the marks of segregation so commonplace in the USA that we Americans have ceased noticing it here. I also saw a degree of social mingling between Blacks and whites in Paris that exceeded even what one would find at that time in the largest and most liberal of American cities. And then there was the anti-racist group called SOS and their inscriptions "touche pas mon copain." That, at least, was encouraging. As I was telling a friend recently visiting from Paris "At least your country doesn't have an INGRAINED tradition of racial caste and segregation that we have in the USA, and which even the Movements of the 1960s couldn't fully dislodge. If you are determined to end racism in France you may find it much easier than we will in the USA." There's a lot of racism in France of course, but it's not like in the US, cause black people don't isolate themselves from the white. Besides, like the African guy said at the beginning , he feels more French than African because when he goes to Africa, he is not consider as a REAL African , cause the way he acts and speaks is different. The big issue in France is the way they deal with the racism , we don't talk about it. People ignore it and pretend it does not exist (like some white French said in the video)But the fact is that France has a difficult story with Africa because they colonized most of the countries in Africa. If you go to Africa , most of the people speak French and there's also a lot of French there, that's why France cannot say anything about the black population in France. besides, I iust wanna remind you that there is some French territories in the Caribbean and those people are French even though they are black . I think the difference between north America (especially the USA) and Europe is that in north America we are born into a multicultural multiracial society and we learn that this isn't a country for a specific race , it's more like a country for every race , so people tend to categories people into groups. Americans need to realize that "black and white" is an tragic phenomenon that only occurs in countries where occupation occurred. I lived in Costa Rica, and I never saw racism expressed against people I love like before I left, or like since I returned. America is one of the worst countries in the world. People (French, Cuban, Brazilian, etc) don't even bother "labeling" themselves until they get here and are forced to choose sides. Just like Asians. They're not white, but they assimilate whatever they think will make them "more white" - hating black people, getting plastic surgery, playing sports, etc. People are real until they get here, then they turn into fake ass posers, and honestly my white cousins are the biggest assholes. What do you think is happening in Africa?! Its the same mess different day. In many ways colonialism was just as worse as the after effects of slavery. Don't get fooled into thinking any different. Look at the state of Africa now. Colonialism was able to plant a seed of corruption that's so deeply embedded there that it has prevented the growth of many African countries. Before the Europeans depart, they find the most corrupt African , put them in power, then the vicious cycle begins again.	African	Ethnicity - Black	2/86	2.326

What exactly does that mean that the US is far more racist than France?Does it mean that French whites are more prone to take a politically active role in insuring that social justice & economic development for its citizens of color is made a national priority?Does it mean that there's a far greater presence of people of color in French political life than in the US?Or does it simply mean that French whites are more socially tolerant(which most people of color could care less about)? ITA the rest of Europe is honestly worst. I've been in places where frankly you'd better not be too "brown". They won't even let you be. And it has gotten worst with the economic crisis. In Russia, they are stabbing black fellows in the streets. In Greece people are literally chasing and assaulting immigrants. In Italy, Spain and Portugal they are starting to do the same. In Germany it depends on where you are but it can get quite hostile sometimes. Haven't try the North yet so I won't judge.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/89	1.124
French are not more racist . One thing is true though they are much more verbal and loud about it. They won't hesitate to tell it right to your face or make you feel uncomfortable with some crazy statements. They are not afraid of it because we have no laws, no effective legal package like those you could find in most anglo saxon countries. Lool "talking white" is a shaming tactic used by black people to bring other blacks trying to do something for themselves down to the unproductive level. There is no such thing as "talking white" when one is speaking proper English not slang.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/42	2.381
asians dont like blacks, muslims dont like blacks, jews dont like blacks, just like puerto ricans dont like blacks, domanicans, mexicans etc. to say racism exists because of capitalism is ignorant racism was around before capitalism lol	Racism	Ethnicity - General	2/37	5.405

omg youtube is deleting my comment to Chris I;m too ignorant to reda about sociological studies B. to the black guy that did this thanks but you have to understanding other countries have different histories than in the U.S. but they still have prejudices like throwing bananas at African descent soccer players( idk about france but def in Spain)	African, Black	Ethnicity - Black	2/59	3.39
I honestly think this is interesting in understanding the concept of identity but you have to remember the life of black people in other countries is different because in some ways the depictions of us were different then in America. However, they are prejudice to in their own ways. I really don't get you making those stupid is black insecurity jokes please ( GOOD HAIR HELLO) makes u look like an ass	Black	Ethnicity - Black	2/72	2.778
please be quiet first of all poverty and lack of good representation puts alot of b people in jail for sometimes bull shit reason. why cant u read a book by a sociologist .YES THE MEDIA DOES b people only make up 15 of pop blamed about welfare and you know what more white ppl are on it , they used a black single mom to rep. in the 1960's when that wasn't the case. I think we have created a marginalization if your poor in America heard about the microscope chic on oprah?	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/94	1.064
i honestly can't tell, but i feel from watching the london and the french one, is that many of the white people don't see or feel their is racism in their country. and that its quite sad that they don't. and i'm not trying to be rude, i'm actually more confused because i am hearing completely opposite things from the colored people compared to the whites. and it makes me question if there is or is not any there. and i want to actually take the colored people side in believing that there is.	Colored, Racism	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	3/94	3.191
How ignorant of you. Racism exist because of capitalism. Propaganda and media criminlaize Blacks to reinforce racism . However, seeing that you were ignorant enough to post what you did, I don't expect you to understand what I am saying.	Racism	Ethnicity - General	2/39	5.128
LIES, FAIRY TALES AND FALLCIES THERE IS RACISM IN FRANCE THESE PEOPLE ARE LYING THERE IS RACISM EVERYWHERE IT'S WORSE OUT SIDE THE U.S. PLUS LISTEN TO THE NEWS ABOUT HOW FRANCE TREAT BLACK PEOPLE THERE!!!! BAD!!!!!!	Black, Racism	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	3/37	8.108

You basicly dismissed the point of the video and made it about something dealing wi your personal preference, and wtf, if you were racist and I called you racist that would in me becoming racist ...omg white people logic	Racist	Ethnicity - General	3/38	7.895

" Racism will never end" is correct. You try organizing collective effort from multiple parties and get back with me. Try removing the stereotypes instilled within many minds due to the media and society. I like your mindset. I do not abhor it at all. However, saying "stopping racism can be done on both minor and major scales" is just outlandish and absurd. There will always be the unwilling.	Racism	Ethnicity - General	2/68	2.941
Who's competing? I dig French women over American. It is what it is. Call me racist if you will but you calling me a racist makes you a racist calling me a racist calling you a racist calling me a racist .	Racist	Ethnicity - General	6/41	14.634
I really agree with your last point. There's a reason why race issues are always so heated in the U.S., because issues that affect one race more than another are constantly being trivialized and people's feelings amount to nothing more than "playing the race card".	Nothing, Race	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - General	4/45	8.889
First. I think this video is misstated. It should be Immigration in France or somethingLastly, people saying that blacks are stupid because we talk too much about race is silly. Ignoring the fact that racism/prejudice still exists because it doesn't effect YOU or acting like it doesn't exist is being willfully ignorant. We still talk about it because, if we didn't, people would say and do whatever they wanted w/out realizing that they sound asinine.	Race	Ethnicity - General	1/76	1.316
haha i agree Muslims can be silly sometimes, but hey we all are humans and we all have crazy people within our borders..	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/23	4.348
You are right on many points. But as a French African I got a lot of discrimination from the black American. Most of you hate to be called African American.	African, Black	Ethnicity - Black	3/30	10.0
This guy is fucking racist himself. I love vice but look how this guy talks all condescending and tries to 'trap' the white people into a racist statement. Get rid of this guy vice and find someone with real equal values and ethics. This guy is still caught up in the categorisation of people. Such a shame	Racist	Ethnicity - General	2/57	3.509
No, the only stupid one in this situation is you, as you're using tired and laughably stupid generalizations to make a point. You don't & will never know every black American & how they feel and react to racial issues, so all you've done is display how stupid you are for making such a comment. I'm sick of idiotic people like you bringing up 'the race card' & pretending that racism magically disappeared when Obama was elected, when racism is a tenet of Western Society. Grow up & face reality.	Black, Race, Racism	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	4/90	4.444

Black Americans are stupid. There I said it. They always think every other black person in the world thinks like them, always ready to bring the race card in everything	Black, Race	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	3/30	10.0
Its funny seeing this American trying to establish that American institutionalized racism exists all over the world. America is a racist nation . Imagine, here we are, hundreds of years after slavery has been abolished, still labeling people as subsets. I can't self-identify as American, I have to accept being marginalized as Black , or African-American. Its demanded everywhere. Any application, every form of ID. I am comfortable with who I am but I still see this as a separation of people.	Black, Nation, Racism, Racist	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General, Nationality - General	4/80	5.0
Its amazing how people are so clueless to the globalization of racism . It does exist and the only way to contend with it is through open dialogue. Thank you for for sharing such an unbiased experience.	Racism	Ethnicity - General	1/36	2.778

hahah this is the WORST interview/documentary ever! hahaha xDnot entertaining, not structured, not engaging, not analytical.... it quite simply has nothing ... loook at VICE, look at other people creating content on youtube...	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/33	3.03
"you talk white", "you have good hair"...the interviewer needs to work out his own internalized racism before he ask others about racism .	Racism	Ethnicity - General	2/22	9.091

This guy needs to move forward, i mean really. Racism is slowly dying out and it isn't a big issue in France nor is it a big issue in other countries as well. Some people like to play the victim card and use it. He came to France because it is the post card destination. Like all others do.	Racism	Ethnicity - General	1/59	1.695
