Yes. I tell my children to work hard to achieve what they want in life, to sometimes sacrifice fun today in order to improve their lives tomorrow. Now I have to tell them that no matter how much they accomplish, someone else, an Aboriginal will get into the course on lower marks, get the job just because of their race /ethnicity/skin colour (eg ticking the Are you Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander is not simply for statistical purposes) and even have a job created specifically for them eg Aboriginal Liaison Officer etc simply because of race . My children will lose out to someone with lower marks, less/lower/perhaps no qualifications, less dedication, less individual intelligence. That is not a good thing both for the individual and for society as a whole. I will always fight for my children and in the future for my grandchildren. If they miss out because someone better pipped them, fair enough. Try again, work harder. If they lose simply because of their race and racist policies, then that is clearly unfair, wrong and indeed racist .	Race, Racist	Ethnicity - General	4/178	2.247

Chan yy Chan Not today Chan. It might interest you to know that the Chinese were treated very, very badly in Australia in the old days. They were the "yellow peril" and despised. Unlike today when China is doing well, being Chinese in the old days was a negative and actually detrimental to your success. What did the Chinese do? Did they lie down and die? Did they beg for extra rights and benefits? No. The Chinese got on with progressing and earning their way around the obstacles put in their path. They worked harder and taught their children to succeed. They educated them to fit into mainstream society. There is nothing to stop any Aboriginal from succeeding like other races here today. Please don't buy into the hype and political correctness. Giving one race more rights means setting up an apartheid type state. Between Aboriginals on the one side and Caucasians on the other, other races, Chinese, Vietnamese, Indians etc will have even less. Treat all races in Australia equally and may the best person thrive and prosper on the basis of merit, intelligence and hard work. Laziness, apathy and "experts" telling them that they deserve everything they see other people worked for simply by demanding. So stop complaining and join the wider Australian community. People of ALL ethnicities/races of all colours make up the fabric of Australian society. Many in past generations from non English speaking backgrounds often with a very poor or even no command of English moved to this wonderful land. They worked 16 hours a day, thrived despite racism and then went on to educate their children and grandchildren. Look at the Indians today. You see them delivering bread, food etc at 0400hrs in the morning, manning the 7/11 stores and cleaning shops etc Aboriginals can certainly do the same. Xzyel About 8000 b.c.e. the first grinding stone, called a quern, was invented in Egypt, and the first grain was crushed. The modern Indian chapatis, made from unleavened whole wheat flour, and Mexican tortillas, made from corn, resemble the breads produced at that time. Between 5000 and 3700 b.c.e. Egypt began organized grain production along the Nile River Valley. At this time bread became a staple food that often was used in trade and barter, and it began to migrate to other cultures.About 3000 b.c.e., also in Egypt, varieties of wheat that were tougher, that is, more tolerant of weather and environment, were developed. It is widely thought that, owing to the Egyptian skill with brewing beer and the warm climate, wild yeasts attracted to the flour mixtures created the first sourdough. Recognizing the fermentation process, bakers began to experiment and developed the first purposefully leavened breads. By about 2500 b.c.e. the first true sourdoughs were in regular production in the Middle East and Mediterranean regions.In about 2300 b.c.e. the cultivation of grain began in India along the Indus Valley. Around 1500 b.c.e. horses took over the task of plowing and the first iron plowshares were introduced. In about 1000 b.c.e. yeasted breads became popular in Rome. The circular quern, the basis for milling until the Industrial Revolution and the basis for so-called stone-ground flours in the twenty-first century, was developed by about 500 b.c.e. The water mill was invented in Greece around 450 b.c.e. Consequently culinary historians credit the Greeks with ushering in bread baking as an art form.In Rome the first bakers guilds were formed as a means of unifying the craftspeople around 150 b.c.e. Well-to-do Romans insisted on the more exclusive and expensive white breads. Darker whole wheat and bran breads were for the masses, an attitude that persisted well into the twentieth century in Europe and North America. By about 100 c.e. Mexican natives made the first stone-ground corn tortillas. By 300 c.e. the Greeks had developed more than seventy different types of bread, showing their penchant for furthering the bread baking craft. Around 600 c.e. the Persians developed a windmill prototype that changed the face of bread production.	Indian	Ethnicity - Native-American	1/366	0.273

Ray Aboriginals made their own type of bread which they made out of flour from a type of stopped grain that only grew in the Australian climate, recent archaeology findings found a grinding stone in Warrnambool, Arnhem Land that dates back 80 thousand years and in fact there are a lot of grindstones found around Australia dating back 65 thousand years. In Western NSW another finding of bread that was 65 thousand years old . Just because it was made somewhere else doesn't mean aboriginals or anyone else couldn't have made it themselves. All of this has been happening for tens thousand of years unnoticed by the rest of the world, a lot of people think Aboriginal were nomadic too which is incorrect.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/121	0.826
Ray Yes there is written documents from the first European explorers stating that there was vast areas of farm lands such as tubers and grain that the aboriginal would grow in straight fields for efficient harvesting and would store and trade with other tribes. The recipes is very basic in that the grain would be smashed in to flour and cooking on the fire, this was also copied by Europeans who travelled inland. Aboriginals still to this very day make the bread and it's really common because how easy and much you can make of it, in Australia we call it 'Damper' and Aboriginals actually use a special type of wood called 'red wood' that they use to cook. In 2017 archaeologist found a axe head grindstone in Kakadu national park that carbon dates back to 65,000 years. The location of Australia and the dreamtime really played a big part on the advancement of Aboriginals.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/155	0.645

Xzyel Yes but despite the evidence of the existence of some villages in certain areas, much of Aboriginal society was still hunter gatherer. "Aboriginal Australianwere limited to the range of foods occurring naturally in their area, but they knew exactly when, where and how to find everything edible. Anthropologists and nutrition experts who have studied the tribal diet in Arnhem Land found it to be well-balanced, with most of the nutrients modern dietitians recommend. But food was not obtained without effort. In some areas both men and women had to spend from half to two-thirds of each day hunting or foraging for food. Each day, the women of the group went into successive parts of one countryside with wooden digging sticks and plaited dilly bags or wooden coolamons. Larger animals and birds, such as kangaroos and emus, were speared or disabled with a thrown club, boomerang, or stone. Many Indigenous hunting devices were used to get within striking distance of prey. The men were excellent trackers and stalkers, approaching their prey running where there was cover, or 'freezing' and crawling when in the open. They were careful to stay downwind and sometimes covered themselves with mud to disguise their smell. " They were comparable to Neolithic societies elsewhere.In some areas mainland Aboriginal Australians also lived in semi-permanent villages, most usually in less arid areas where fishing could provide for a more settled existence. Most Indigenous communities were semi-nomadic, moving in a regular cycle over a defined territory, following seasonal food sources and returning to the same places at the same time each year. From the examination of middens, archaeologists have shown that some localities were visited annually by Indigenous communities for thousands of years. In the more arid areas Aboriginal Australians were nomadic, ranging over wide areas in search of scarce food resources. There is evidence of substantial change in indigenous culture over time.Also, the written evidence was from European settlers. Aborigines in Australia failed to develop a written language and progress	Disabled	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/334	0.299

Ray Your outdated thoughts and beliefs remind me of the Australia of old that covers this historical and scientific information up wanted people to believe in the lies that Aboriginals were 'savages or primitive' but contrary to these outdated images Aboriginals weren't nomadic and aren't savages, just because they didn't build cities made of stone and iron doesn't mean they didn't lived a permeant habitation throughout Australia. How are cave paintings not art? They are older than any European art and even have spiritual meaning and valuable insight to the ancient world, you think just because it's not in a frame there for it's not art is very ignorant, I never claim Aboriginal Australia was an Empire it was actually a bunch of Nations. Their existence isn't as basic as you would like to believe buddy but even with firsthand accounts and archaeology and scientific evidence to back it up to you just rather believe in that ignorant outdated preconceived notions about Aboriginals. Xzyel Well guess what? No matter how hard you wish a donkey was a race horse, it is still a donkey. A donkey definitely is valued and has its uses but it will never win races. Fiction ain't fact. Cave art is certainly "art" but like I said, even Neanderthal and Cro Magnon man had cave art so a Mona Lisa it ain't. Great civilizations had written languages and a means of transferring their thoughts, beliefs and practices to the next generation and beyond. Aboriginals lacked that. Furthermore your "bunch of Nations" then lost the war. To the victor the spoils. Worse still, after having lost, they weren't able to bounce back and learn from their deficiencies. Throughout time, nations were conquered, and conquered others but they recovered, learned and rose again. Like I pointed out, what you described happened to a certain extent but they weren't able to build on that . The never developed into a civilization with potential to spread around the world and/or protect itself. Others walked in and took over. Your attempt at rewriting history is like the Rambo movie series about American involvement in Vietnam.	Race	Ethnicity - General	1/191	0.524

Ray It's not fiction it's fact but you ignore the facts itself, doesn't matter if it's not in some big museum in France it's still historical valued art that's why there protected by the government. Thoughts beliefs and practices and stories were all pasted down through word of mouth and dances and songs. The European Australians aren't victors their just thief's and immigrants and Aborigines legally own 40 of the land in modern day Australia and they number will just increase with time, It's hard to bounce back in a country that for most of its modern history didn't want them to and stopped them at every turn and even actively tried to destroy them but destroying their culture and languages and bloodline. And as I said before the dreamtime had a VERY big importance to Aborigines this is why they didn't build big cities and destroy the land like the Europeans did it's not in our culture and beliefs to do that but yet you just act as if that wasn't a factor at all, I'm not rewriting history but merely telling the true history that the racist government of Australia tried to destroy and keep hidden, like a kid you get fed the lies and you love eating it, I would love to see how Islamic Europe will be in 20 years' time. What goes around comes around.	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/230	0.435
Xzyel Very creative fiction but still fiction. So what has come out of all that diatribe? Nothing except that EVERY other Australian of ALL ethnicities have to pay for Aborigines who can't/won't stand up tall themselves. 3 billion each year. Wow. Throwing good money after bad. ALL other Australians of ALL ethnicities have to pay more in taxes and get less back. Apart from working to feed our families, we have to support and pay for an Aboriginal. So much for Aboriginal pride. We are proud of this, proud of that but just keeping paying for us to insult you. Lol. All that talk, oh remember ATSIC, all voted in by Aborigines and running their own affairs? Remember Geoff Clarke? Wonderful Aboriginal. Well done. You're great indeed. The war cry of Aborigines? Blame everyone and take NO responsibility for our own actions. Keep up the great work.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/147	0.68

Ray Yeah alright buddy you can ignore the truth and facts all you want but I guess whatever helps you sleep at night. In June 2013, there were 5.1 million people receiving income support payments, of whom nearly half (2.4 million) were receiving Age Pensions or Veterans Affairs Pensions. A further 821,000 were on Disability Support Pension, 660,000 were receiving Newstart, and the balance receiving other payments such as Parenting Payments, Carers Payment or Youth Allowance. The Australian Government and state and territory governments spent an estimated $157 billion on welfare. Hmm it's almost like Aboriginals aren't the only ones on welfare, there are most white Australians and other races living off tax payer's money would you believe that because I would, so much for 'hard working Australians' lol, I don't think you are from Australia because if you were you would know for yourself the culture of the white Australians, I know first hand. But don't worry in time the white population will get smaller and smaller in just statistics.

kris guntner Well they are more original then the whites because they were the first and lived there for way longer that makes it their land same thing with any other natives from any country, That's not a historical fact that's obviously not true because on arrival they wouldn't of have the same technology Aboriginals invented more things and built more throughout the duration of their habitation in Australia. Yes white people did invent a lot in the modern ages and not all whites are bad just the ones who push the imperialist narrative 'ItS OuR lAnD NoW', I guess white people should be thanking Indians for Hindu Arabic numbers that they took from them or gun power which they also took from the Chinese or even paper that you write another great invention by the Chinese. Ray Oh so your boomer, no one you think so backwards your still living in that ear of racism get with the times little buddy you don't pay for every Aboriginal sorry to burst your little bubble but Aboriginals do have jobs, i know a lot Aboriginals who have jobs and i myself have one. A lot of this money is pay back money for what the Australian government did to the Aboriginals and I think it fairly justified, just like how Germany pays back all the countries it went to war with, Australia pays Aboriginals for all the destruction it caused. Abstudy is trying to educate more and more Aboriginals and rise the education level of Australia as a whole and being more educated increases the chance of getting a job, What do you hate about that? Here is a true fact for you there are more white people living on tax payer's money than Aboriginals. Australia has a highly targeted social security system with support based on family and individual circumstances. The Productivity Commission estimates that 68.5 of the gap between Indigenous and non-Indigenous expenditure is 'because of greater need, and because of the younger age profile of the population.' Most people below the poverty line in Australia (53) rely on social security as their main source of income, but most major income support payments sit well below the poverty line.The Commonwealth, state and territory governments spent almost $160 billion on welfare in 2015-16, according to a new report. kris guntner Your comparing apples and oranges, Europe was in a much better area and situation than Aborigines, Europe is a lush green fertile land and its close to other continents making trading easy which made technology discovery quicker just like all the stuff they took from Arabs and Asians but I think the most funniest part is you still thinks Europeans are in front hahaha no mate it's the age of the Asians now, their countries are on average smarter than Europeans and their industries are far better than Europe's. Xzyel Don't accuse people who want equality of racism. Aboriginals like you are the racists. You demand MORE for one race than ALL the other races in Australia. You work but your children still get MORE than everyone else and yes me, my children and my grandchildren are forced to PAY through our taxes for YOU. That is racism. I and mine have to work harder and get less because of it so don't claim to have a wonderful culture when you are a beggar. Aboriginal unemployment stands at 20.6. Lazy sods. This is way above the 5.6 national unemployment. Getting employment means MORE than just waiting for others to come knocking at your door. It means getting qualified (without special treatment) like everyone else. It means waking up every morning to crawl to work. It means actually working productively. That's right. Some Aboriginals work BUT many are a burden. Now, instead of helping ALL Australians, of every ethnicity who fail to make the grade to reach that entry bar into choice courses in higher learning, they instead lowered the entry standards for Aboriginals. This means that a less capable, less hard working, perhaps less intelligent person got into a course instead of the very best. That is not a good thing. We could have Aboriginal doctors/nurses who are less than the very best providing a crucial service. Furthermore, many enrol in Indigenous studies/Aboriginal studies. Will multi national companies want to employ people who are good in oh say dot painting or learning to speak a language/dialect which has no international commercial use instead of accountants, commerce/business, engineering, mining, mathematics graduates? No. So tax payer money is once again thrown at Aboriginals creating imaginary jobs for them. ONLY Aboriginals can be employed as Aboriginal Liaison Officers. What about Scottish, Indian, Chinese liaison officers? In Australia, there is also a phrase "Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders are encouraged to apply". It often means that entry requirements are lowered to get Aboriginals into employment. The best person should get the job irrespective of ethnicity, race or sex. That is not a good thing. Life is hard and getting harder. We should ALL be treated EQUALLY irrespective of ethnicity/race/skin colour and may the BEST man or woman win. Don't let my life chances and the life chances of my children be limited by my skin colour. RjayGI have no trouble moving forward together. However benefits and rights for one race sucks big time. My struggle and my children’s struggles are just as important as yours. I tell my children to work hard to achieve what they want in life, to sometimes sacrifice fun today in order to improve their lives tomorrow. Now I have to tell them that no matter how much they accomplish, someone else, an Aboriginal will get into the course on lower marks, get the job just because of their race /ethnicity/skin colour (eg ticking the Are you Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander is not simply for statistical purposes) and even have a job created specifically for them eg Aboriginal Liaison Officer, Westpac and Woolworth Indigenous employment programmes etc simply because of race . My children will lose out to someone with lower marks, less/lower/perhaps no qualifications, less dedication, less individual intelligence. That is not a good thing both for the individual and for society as a whole. I will always fight for my children and in the future for my grandchildren. If they miss out because someone better pipped them, fair enough. Try again, work harder. If they lose simply because of their race and racist policies, then that is clearly unfair, wrong and indeed racist .	Race, Racist	Ethnicity - General	5/212	2.358
RjayGI like what you said that everyone should have every right. The problem is working out which Aboriginal got in on their own merits. How do you expect me to respect any Aboriginal when I KNOW that many got in because they ticked the ”Are you Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander” box? I can’t except perhaps you. When I saw the Westpac Aboriginals on television, I KNEW they got the job because they were Aboriginals. The job was created just for them and better qualified, cleverer and harder working other races couldn’t even apply. WTF. I can’t respect that. I mean some Indians are darker than Aboriginals, the Chinese were forever the ” yellow peril” and you know what they went through. The Vietnamese came here at the tail end of the white Australia policy. They were the enemy, even the South Vietnamese and were called Viet Cong, VC. They looked different, had a different culture, went through years of war, death and suffering and saw family members murdered and didn’t speak English. Yet they opened small shops, worked 16 hours a day to make ends meet, had their shop windows smashed but still educated their children to fit into mainstream Australia. Aboriginals can do no less. Men seeking fortune and power probably saw this as an easy way of getting that. Mankind has always wanted to explore the world, or the unknown. Russ Pearson. Here we see the true Aboriginal spirit, demanding MORE than ALL other Australians of ALL ethnicities without working. Gimme, gimme, gimme but don't want to work or pay for what you want. Instead of proudly saying, I will work and pay my way in life, you personify Aboriginality as it stands today, a culture of demanding and begging for what others work hard for. Australians of non English speaking backgrounds of all races work 16 hours a day to make ends meet. They then scrimp and save to educate their children to join mainstream Australia and contribute to society. You on the other hand threaten hard working people, want what they work hard for but refuse to pay your way. You are a professional victim. In 50 years, we will still be having this conversation and everybody else will still have to pay for you. A racist is someone who demands MORE on the basis of his race/ethnicity/skin colour. Bill Bagbins You watch a film, you're moved and you're an expert. I loved "The Avengers" but I don't think they're real. Crime is a significant social issue in Alice Springs. Alice Springs has the highest crime rate of any Australian city, with raw crime numbers higher than Darwin, a city with three times the population and a record of high crime. Violent crime in the town in 2010 was at unprecedented levels and "out of control". Alice Springs is the nation's murder capital and one of the most dangerous towns in Australia The level of crime has had a major impact on the town's tourist industry with tourists from several countries being warned to avoid the town or take extra precautions. Most violent crime in Alice Springs is between Aboriginal people too. Now no doubt you've heard of ATSIC, the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Commission. They voted their leaders in, ran programs paid for by Australian tax payers and then ran it into the ground with a good dose of gang rapes, fraud and embezzlement thrown in until it was dismantled. In 2016, Indigenous Australians were still nearly 13 times more likely to be unemployed (at a rate of 33.3) than non-Indigenous Australians (2.6). Time to treat Aboriginals as EQUALS, time to encourage them to actually join the mainstream community which is BTW a myriad of people of ALL cultures, ethnicities and races, all of whom are working side by side with one another. Time for people like yourself to stop looking down on Aboriginals and expecting them to fail When I see an Aboriginal, I see a man or a woman who can compete with me on EQUAL terms. Life is not easy. Imogen Aborigines demand MORE for one race than ALL the other races in Australia. You work but your children still get MORE than everyone else and yes me, my children and my grandchildren are forced to PAY through our taxes for YOU. That is racism. I and mine have to work harder and get less because of it so don't claim to have a wonderful culture when you are a beggar. Aboriginal unemployment stands at 20.6. Lazy sods. This is way above the 5.6 national unemployment. Getting employment means MORE than just waiting for others to come knocking at your door. It means getting qualified (without special treatment) like everyone else. It means waking up every morning to crawl to work. It means actually working productively. That's right. Some Aborigines work BUT many are a burden. Now, instead of helping ALL Australians, of every ethnicity who fail to make the grade to reach that entry bar into choice courses in higher learning, they instead lowered the entry standards for Aborigines. This means that a less capable, less hard working, perhaps less intelligent person got into a course instead of the very best. That is not a good thing. We could have Aboriginal doctors/nurses who are less than the very best providing a crucial service. Furthermore, many enrol in Indigenous studies/Aboriginal studies. Will multi national companies want to employ people who are good in oh say dot painting or learning to speak a language/dialect which has no international commercial use instead of accountants, commerce/business, engineering, mining, mathematics graduates? No. So tax payer money is once again thrown at Aborigines creating imaginary jobs for them. ONLY Aborigines can be employed as Aboriginal Liaison Officers. What about Scottish, Indian, Chinese liaison officers? In Australia, there is also a phrase "Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders are encouraged to apply". It often means that entry requirements are lowered to get Aborigines into employment. The best person should get the job irrespective of ethnicity, race or sex. That is not a good thing. Life is hard and getting harder. We should ALL be treated EQUALLY irrespective of ethnicity/race/skin colour and may the BEST man or woman win. In Australia, if anyone wants something, they work for it. There is nothing to stop Aboriginals from doing the same. For example many Indians are darker than Aboriginals. You see them manning the 7/11 stores, delivering bread and cleaning shops in the early hours of the morning to make ends meet AND then go on to educate their children to fit into mainstream society. I used to tell my children that if they wanted something to work hard for it because perseverance, dedication and individual intelligence counted and would get them what they wanted. Perhaps now we should tell our children that even if they really, truly wanted to get a position, (educational or work), don’t bother because an Aboriginal will get it because of their ethnicity/skin colour/race even if we or our children worked our hearts out to achieve. My children will lose out to someone with lower marks, less/lower/perhaps no qualifications, less dedication, less individual intelligence. Jacky Phantom Actually, the Aborigines moved there too, just earlier apparently. We all came from Africa or so I'm told. Apart from that, perhaps we should prejudice whatever ethnic group you're from. You seem to think treating one ethnic group/race different from another is perfectly alright so that certainly sounds like a plan. Well, I don't. Treat all the citizens of a country equally irrespective of race/ ethnicity /skin colour. Now the difference between Australia and the scenario you painted in the UK is that a country has no obligation to accept people who are not citizens of that country irrespective of ethnicity . Countries protect their citizens and citizens have rights and obligations otherwise I could go to America, Australia, the UK, Canada, Saudi Arabia, etc tomorrow and live, work and enjoy equal rights with the citizens there. Citizens have more rights than non citizens and all citizens of a particular country should be treated EQUALLY.	Ethnic, Ethnicity	Ethnicity - General	3/154	1.948

Kieran Carr Yes, a culture of begging. Aboriginals who get into courses on lower marks, get into jobs on lower qualifications and have jobs actually created for them do you a disservice. I tell my children to work hard to achieve what they want in life, to sometimes sacrifice fun today in order to improve their lives tomorrow. Now I have to tell them that no matter how much they accomplish, someone else, an Aboriginal will get into the course on lower marks, get the job just because of their race/ethnicity/skin colour (eg ticking the Are you Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander is not simply for statistical purposes) and even have a job created specifically for them eg Aboriginal Liaison Officer, Westpac/Woolworths Indigegenous Employment Program etc simply because of race. My children will lose out to someone with lower marks, less/lower/perhaps no qualifications, less dedication, less individual intelligence. That is not a good thing both for the individual and for society as a whole. Aboriginals also get way more in terms of Austudy (for all Australians) v Abstudy (ONLY for Aboriginals). Much of what Aboriginals get in Abstudy are in the form of grants which do not have to be paid back. Furthermore, Abstudy also funds Aboriginals for their masters and doctrate degrees. The struggles of my children in life are just as important as any Aboriginals struggle. I will always fight for my children and in the future for my grandchildren. Kieran Carr Awesome. I have no doubt you'll do great. Thing is there are schemes whereby Aboriginals do "cheat" their way in. Other examples are Aboriginal Liaison Officers in government departments (there are no Scottish Liaison officer, no Indian Liaison officers, no Chinese Liaison Officers etc. These are "created" jobs just for Aboriginals. Another example is the Aboriginal Rangers. One race ? seriously? It should be open to all races and the person with the best qualification should get the job. Apart from all that, these schemes do a great amount of damage to people like you. Australians don't know if Aboriginals got their jobs through the back door or like you fair and square. Sienna Sticher ... I have done some research for you. Scientific and historical factsThe first Homo sapiens who lived in Australia walked from the north about 50,000 years ago - because there was land to walk on. The first human migration to Australia was achieved when this landmass formed part of the Sahul continent, connected to the island of New Guinea via a land bridge. Over time these land bridges were covered by ocean due to normal tectonic plate movement and rising sea levels. Hence the Homo sapiens who inhabited the continent of Australia about 40,000-50,000 years ago (the ancestors of current Australian aborigines) became cut off from the Homo sapiens on the other parts of the planet. After they were cut-off, the human tribes in Australia fought each other and many tribes slaughtered the males of other tribes. The Australian aboriginals were particularly bloodthirsty and cruel. The normal process of inter-tribal fighting means that males are usually killed while females are kept alive to bear the children of the victorious tribe.The humans who occupied the rest of the planet had similar inter-tribal warfare but there was a much greater variety of humans who were competing with each other. On the large continents, humans evolved and changed due to a great deal of natural competition. Stronger more intelligent human groups resulted. Over many thousands of years the successful groups dominated and incorporated their genes with other stronger groups. This is a simplification of course but it explains observations.Humans across the planet (except for those in Australia and other inaccessible locations), they developed agriculture and better tools and instruments. This caused them to flourish. As their numbers increased, diseases evolved which killed many of these humans. The survivors had more active immune systems as well as better skills in cognitive thought. Humans became better at living co-operatively. * * *If Australia had NOT been cut off by the ocean, stronger, more intelligent humans would have dominated and killed the males of the Australian tribes. They would have assimilated some of the genes from the females many thousands of years ago. The overall result is that mainstream humans with a higher intelligence and stronger immune systems spread across the planet, except for places which were inaccessible, such as Australia. The humans in Australia remained stone-age tribes who had not yet invented the wheel. On a scale where the average European human has an IQ of 100, the natives of Australia have an IQ of about 64. By the modern Australian standard, the majority of pure aboriginals are well below the medically defined level for mental retardation, thus they qualify for special medical benefits the same as other handicapped people. Recognising that the natives had little organisation and had developed only simple stone tools, the British colonists saw Australia as unoccupied. When the British arrived to colonise Australia in 1788 they carried with them diseases which the stone-age Australian aboriginal immune system was not adapted to. The settlers would have been unaware of this. Viruses and bacteria were not known about at that time. Human hosts would have been completely unaware they were carrying diseases dangerous to Australian natives. The British settlers were soon followed by others from Europe and

Well I hope you believe in equality because if you're in school, you are only on the first rung of a lifelong struggle to succeed in life. Don't get me wrong, life is a wonderful thing but I hope you agree that your struggles and the things you do are important and in no way, shape of form any less than anybody else's. So, if you run a race , you would expect that race to be fair. For example, you wouldn't expect your competitor to have a shorter distance to run or win if his/her time was worse than yours in the same sprint distance. Now that is what is happening with regard to Aboriginals today. Aboriginals get into university on lower marks, get a job with lower/less qualifications than you and if all else fails , the government will create special well paying jobs ONLY for Aboriginals eg Aboriginal Liaison Officer, Indigenous Rangers etc. All of us, irrespective of race /ethnicity deserve EQUAL treatment. Any awards, jobs, courses selections should be solely on the basis of merit, not race . Fight for your equality and to be treated fairly please. You are important too. Sorensenator86 glad yu didnt take it personally. Many do . I read some of the comments on subjects such as this on youtube. I am amazed that the origins of man can be such a divisive subject , based on sheer ignorance and racial discrimination. Aboriginal people are much maligned even in our own country. The conditions many of our (remote) people live in is absolutely deplorable, and an outsider is easily mislead looking at face value. Even though i am a product of the welfare era , notorious for the forced removal of children, (the stolen generation), I am proud to be a descendant of the oldest most complex people to have ever walked this planet . We have full totally fucked the whole biblical narrative, with our longevity in aust, currently believed to be in the vacinity of 60 000+ years,cause we miraculously survived the biblical flood, several ice ages and have proven many an expert anthropologist wrong with the complexity of our seemingly primative culture. I have tried to educate myself about the condition of my people , and our cultural heritage. I might add that i often remark to these racist arseholes who like to spread ignorance , hate and make vitriolic comments about us , to take a hike out to the great australian desert, in his undies with a bottle of water and a spear , see how long he lasts out there. 50° heat, no water , no shade, no one but animals like dingoes, goanna's , snakes , ants eagles, all ready and waitin to feast on yor carcass as yu die. Or yu can read up on the early aussie explorers, and see how they fared without local aboriginal knowledge of the land. They were a stone age race of tribal nomads. They had no written history nor any concept of land ownership or sovereignty.They occupied less then 1 of the Australian continent. They were a primitive race .Their culture was violent... Those that broke tribal rules were tortured and left to die... women were abused & raped as a form of punishment, and children were sexualised. In 40,000 years of isolation their greatest achievement was to rub 2 sticks together to make a fire and to blow into a hollow log to produce sound.Australia was ripe for settlement by the rest of the world. I Love Minecraft An Australian town is in the grip of a paedophile epidemic with 90 per cent of school-age children suffering abuse, police have warned. Thirty-six men have been charged with more than 300 offences against 184 children after an investigation uncovered a "staggering" rate of abuse in Roebourne, Western Australia.The state's child protection minister said the scale of the epidemic was so vast that child sex abuse had become "normal" in the remote former gold rush town, which has a largely Aboriginal population of about 1,410. The confirmed victims amount to about 90 per cent of the town's school-age population, according to The Australian, and police say they expect more to come forward.Simon McGurk, West Australian Child Protection Minister, said abuse had become normalised through an "intergenerational" cycle. Russ Pearson So long as every Australian, irrespective of ethnicity is treated equally, sure. I have no problem with that. I actually think working for one's living is a good thing. BTW, If you were following the conversation with Gimel, he was arguing for your mob to get back to nature, to the simpler way of life ie. give up your houses, your cars and your mobiles and go hunt with boomerangs. Lol Of course, both of us know you can't and won't do that, will you? Heck, you won't even live on the dole like other Australians. You are always asking for MORE handouts than the rest. Hang your head in shame. Remember how you begged for more in your stories please. Tell your children how even today you simply can't compete with EVERY other Australian. Thank you. RayI can't see that ray, yu really are a shit aussie prick aren't yu ray Yor massive stupidity is surpassed only by yor huge ignorance. Yu haven't got a friggen clue ray. Why don't yu as a white fella, go back to yor neanderthal roots and live like then ray . If yu had any real knowledge of indigenous people yu would be aware that thousands of us live on our tribal lands and live preety much as they did before yu pricks turned up and carried on like hard cunts to us. The only real difference is that we got mota car, gun , tinnie, waterbottle and shoes now , but that makes us no less traditional. The fact is ray yu are a putrid racist , so why don't yu fuck off with yor shit attitude and don't come back till yu got something to offer. Go live out the desert like a blackfella ray, yu might loose that poor bugger me whitefella attitude. Or perhaps we should give yu a gun , so yu can tame it on yorself to murder all those dole bludgin useless blackfella's that piss off millions of these tightarsed Australian tax payers. Fuck it's a shitload of money yu would save the govt aye ray. Tell yu what ray , yu real clever cunt, yu take that blackfella sit down money away from hundreds of towns around australia, all these towns will die a very very quick and painful death.
