[LINK] 1984 interview with a former KGB agent and Soviet diplomat, Yuri Bezmenov.Reminds me of the many reports regarding American and Canadian daughters of a bitches in America and Canada which is an overboard political correctness cultural marxism country which we Russians created to destroy the American and Canadian family. destroy the family then you destroy the brick of society, destroy many bricks then the entire building goes down. That building is the American and Canadian nation and we of the former KGB now known as the FSB are very proud of what we just did and you Canadians and Americans think you won the cold war? No! We russians won the cold war for we have destroyed the western family! Destroy the family then society collapses, when society collapses then the economy collapses, when the economy that supports the military collapses then all U.S and Canadian militaries collapses.We Russians won the Cold War for look at your societies, over 50 divorce rares, out of control insane feminism, indiscrimination against the while caucasian male gender in all walks of life, the feminization of education in order to destroy the intellectual and mental potentials of boys and men by deliberately ignoring their educational and intellectual needs by ignoring the difference of thinking pattern between male and female, open and outright indiscrimination against male co-workers in the work place and places of learning, etc.Political correctness is TYRANNY WITH A SMILE. PC particularly serves mediocre politicians and the bureaucrats they appoint. It is used to hold on to jobs, silencing critics and threatening anyone who questions their abilities. If the offended party can strike back with accusation of racism, discrimination, prejudice, and hatred, then PC has done its job. PC is a way of covering up incompetence and corruption. I think it's good that young women realise that feminism isn't equality. Equality would be for everyone to get treated just as good or bad as the other gender . Human is human and the way you get treated should be depending on the way you act and not what gender you are. Young man and women should work together to create real equality and to give neither women nor man a better treatment.	Gender	Gender - General	2/73	2.74
I glance at this out of curiosity, and saw a sign saying we haven't needed feminism since 1920. Well I'm ignorant of the importance of the dates so I did a little self education. 1920 is when most western countries gave women the vote. Two years earlier they gave women over [30]? The vote. So I was thinking what changed to give women the vote. Well what changed is that after sacrificing millions of common men's lives in ww1 the nobility and land owners who were the only ones that could vote (surprisingly true for women land owners too) had no leg to stand on to deny these men the vote, after all it was the common man's sacrifice that enabled these countries to still have the lands and titles they enjoy. So after the common man got to vote those same men who toiled endlessly in conjunction with their wives to feed, cloth and educate their children, well they went to the grindstone and bolstered the suffrage movement and 2 years later men had the vote so did women. So I was perplexed, why the big stink on not getting the vote for women when essentially they got the right a very short time after all men. Now I know it's not the same for all countries that were allies in ww1 but in general women got the vote because of male sacrifice of lives elevated all common people. Kinda sucked the wind from the sails of feminist outrage when looked at this way.	Common	Social Class - Working class	4/256	1.562
feminism is like a box which feminists try to put people in and control them, and send them to war against white straight men. Let women live outside that box, outside any war with the other gender and let them solve their problems outside that box and that war, they can help each other without causing problems to other people. There's nothing bad about wanting to be a housewife and raising children. For example I want chicken nuggets & it's my business. Problem is when you don't have a choice.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/30	3.333
As a woman , I believe in gender equality and all that stuff; but when feminists talk about how all men are evil and being girly is a bad thing or whatever, it makes me not want to be lumped into that group. So that's why I'm not a feminist.	Gender, Woman	Gender - General	2/49	4.082
The old feminism movement was great and actually empowering. Modern feminism is pretty much all about hating men and that's why I don't wanna call myself one.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/27	3.704

Feminism has become man hating, so really it's sexism . The very thing it is supposed to be stopping.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/18	5.556
smh there is a difference inbetween feminisism and being such a feminist your taking away rights from men but most feminists seem to lean more on the guys are trash compared to us side all of your arguments are just putting down guys who can have work, and emotional problems too and alot of things you fight for would just to make yourselves more comfortable or you just use it as a reason to get what you want by saying oh are you not giving me better pay cuz im a girl because ill sue you instead of being reasonable and realising maybe its because i dont actually work at work im a girl and ive NEVER been put down for my gender in fact most guys im around are naturally timid around me because they think im going to some feminist with a bunch of reasons to hate them calm down ladies this is a fight you won a long time ago now your just causing problems	Gender	Gender - General	1/168	0.595
I think it is harder as a woman to report abuse from women in the workplace.	Woman	Gender - General	1/16	6.25
Yasmin Salerno by media do you mean CNN, MSNBC, HuffPost, BuzzFeed, NowThis, feminist frequency, america today, or MTV? because the only media outlet i see EVER biasly addressing feminism is fox news. other than that leftists control the media. fox news is really the only common media outlet for right wingers. so... no the media isnt biased against feminism. infact collectively they are enabling their tyranny and monopoly over media, schools ect.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/72	1.389
Yasmin Salerno and to further address your statement, if ANYONE needs help with proper representation its men, white men in particular, considering men are constantly being generalized as "sexist, homophobic , xenophobic, toxic masculine rapists" with little to no backlash. in fact because of feminist college students and feminist professors certain colleges in america specifically dont let WHITE MEN onto their campus or to take their classes.	Homophobic	Sexual Identity - General	1/66	1.515

I meant right wing media in particular and fox is extremely biased and one sided just like CNN. They blow situations out of proportion in order to downplay entire movements. And no... White men are no where near under represented. You make up most of our own government. And take the lead in tech and engineering jobs (the jobs of the future) in America. In fact can you please list ways in which white men are underrepresented in society? And can I get a source on the classes thing because discrimination on college courses based on race or gender are illegal so. Also nobody claims all white men are misogynistic, racist , xenophobic, or etc. And if some are then they are not feminists and are falsely representing the movement. Many like to use the "few bad apples" saying to diffuse police brutality so I'm using the same. Simply because some think that way does not define the entire movement. And though not every white man is those things, there definitely are some that are as well as other demographics that are. And what's worse is that some people are those things and don't realize it so when somebody calls them out, they think that they've done nothing wrong and they're behavior is fine. This leads them to just start blindly blaming movements such as these without realizing what they even stand for.	Gender, Nobody, Nothing, Race, Racist	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	5/232	2.155
And please let me know what superiorities I get as a woman cuz I'd really like to know. And even though it's wrong to generalize all white men as rapists and I agree, they make up almost 70 of rapists. Not that it's right to assume that everyone is I just wanted to make sure you knew that it's not like many aren't doing it.	Woman	Gender - General	1/65	1.538
If there's one thing I've learned from the SJW and anti-SJW insanity on YouTube over the years, it's that feminism doesn't mean anything anymore. It's almost a totally subjective label that people use to describe any number of gender -related ideas, both wonderful ideas and abhorrent ideas. I support social justice and gender equality, and any label that someone uses who wants to accomplish that is fine with me, whether it's feminist, anti-feminist, MRA, egalitarian, etc. Some labels have a better track record than others but I've found it's much better to actually talk to individual people rather than vilify an entire label, since these labels in particular contain vastly different ideas within them.	Gender	Gender - General	1/113	0.885

Some thoughts from a male, aged in his fifties, who was alive when feminism’s Second Wave was coming to be, in the late 1960s and early 1970s. I saw that time period, first-hand, so I can say this with absolute certainty: the idea that’s going around, today, that feminism has, all of a sudden, stopped being something ”good” and is now suddenly ”toxic,” is wrong-headed. That is a very misguided, anti-rational, anti-facts concept. It is inconsistent with provable history. That idea is, at best, a belated admission that feminism has been toxic, since the 1960s 1970s – but without actually admitting that, yes, some feminist leaders were always 100 BatSh*t.Take the incredibly insane words and thoughts of feminist leader writer, Caroline Hennessey, as just one example. She wrote two books, that initially were highly praised and were widely accepted by women, all over. She not only advocated violence against men, but advocated for Guerilla Warfare against corporations; cutting men’s body parts off; etc., etc., etc. And she did all that in 1970 (with her first book) and 1971 (with her second book). See my online reviews over on Amazon dot com, to see what men have been facing for the past five decades or so. Note that I have made most of my points not through my stated opinions, but through page scans of the completely insane, male-hating, massively-entitled crap that author shoveled:Proof of insane 1970s hatred, by women, against men:Amazon book reviews of Caroline Hennessey’s ”I, B.I.T.C.H.” book: [LINK] Amazon book reviews of her book, ”The Strategy of Sexual Struggle”: [LINK] And for bonus points:Proof of insane 2018 hatred, by women, against men: [LINK] There you go – now, you can educate any portion of feminism that can be educated. Simply show them the facts, above (or, better yet, ladies, write your own reviews of such horrible books; making your displeasure with the craziest feminists crystal clear, for all to see) ... which will more than likely bring out the aforementioned craziest feminists, for your future ”talks” with the insane and toxic people we men have tried, without success, to reason with for ages.Personally, I think that holding up ”we don’t like feminism” signs won’t cure the problem. Filling up jet airliners with known feminist leaders, and shipping them to Saudi Arabia, against their will, so they can live in a real ”Patriarchy,” might begin to actually resolve some problems that feminist leaders won’t even acknowledge exist; let alone, that they have caused for humanity.As this individual sees things: as long as crazy leaders remain in the same powerful positions they have been in, for decades, many of us men will happily remain ”MGTOW For Life”. We’re not going to share our homes; our beds; our resources. We’re going to intentionally segregate ourselves from the harmful narcissists, all around us, and call it a male ”awakening” and/or a male ”emancipation” – or just call it ”well deserved peace and quiet, after decades of abuse”.Many men are going to remain ”No Contact” as regards women – for the rest of our lives. Five decades of horrific abuses, and the Complex-PTSD women caused men to have, tends to do that. Many men are fed up. Many Men are abandoning women to their fates. ”Thank feminism” in whatever way you women deem appropriate: but realize that some things, once broken, are never going to go back to being what they	Crazy, Dot, Patriarchy, Sexual	Ethnicity - Asian (South-India, Pakistan, Bangladesh), Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	4/635	0.63

It is sexist. You're condemning all women to the same fate we gave you. It's not survival. It's weakness. Instead of facing your problems, you're taking revenge. Good for you! Instead of fighting for a solution, you're taking the cowards way out. I've been through abuse. Real abuse. I stand up for what I believe in, I'm not gonna run! Your way of thinking is negative. Hardships in life happen. PTSD is a disability, just like my depression. Fight it! Be strong! Be yourself! Be a man! In so sorry about all you and other men have been through. Its sad and unfair, but in the end, people like me can't help being born a woman just like you can't help that you're a man. Discriminating against us just makes you exactly like a feminist, except more like a masculinist. It's hypocritical, weak, and hateful. Where will it get you in life? I'm reading the comments and I don't know if I should either cry or laugh cause daaamn man let me say things straight, FEMINISM MEANS EQUALITY FOR ALL, IF YOU DON'T WANT FEMINISM YOU DON'T WANT EQUALITY. I'm sorry if you don't like the word but if its called Feminism is because women invented this movement for equal rights. Being feminist doesn't mean I believe all man are rapists, NO, i jus want equality and if someone told you Feminism was about bringing man down they are not right, It's really sad that people still don't understand the word. Also, you can't say I'm not feminist but respect my opinion, why? Cause if you arr not feminist means you don't want equality and if you don't want equality you are disrespecting the other gender , wich means you can't ask for respect when your opinion is about not respecting. nobody needs to tell us, modern feminism's actions speak loudly on their own. boy scouts turned into 'co-scouts', they started the trend of endfathersday, they continue to unjustly police video games targeted at a male audience, they continue to lie about the wage gap, they harass every man that looks at them or breathes air within a mile radius of them, they continue to mislead and brainwash our children at schools(which has gotten so bad i actually had yo take my son to a different school because his teacher wanted to give a 'privilage test' and "TEACH" about how men are evil, nasty rapists and even told my son to write an apology letter to her to shame him for being a white boy.) need i say more? I'm a woman and I hate feminism ! I think most of the feminists in western countries nowadays are hypocrites, they fight for equality while against it at the same time .They want to be special instead of equal , they just want the advantages and perks of being a man ,they don't want the hardship that comes with it .They love playing victims and gernralizing and villainizing men ,creating distractions for our society while ignoring real issues. Men and women are supposed to be different ,and we are supposed to understand each other ! Equal but not the same .	Woman	Gender - General	1/101	0.99
There is no such thing as an anti feminist woman . The divorce and family courts are skewed against men in favor of women. Bbc is fake news. It's time to take women's privileges away for good. They don't die in war, they take more money than they pay in taxes. Men pay 200 more in taxes than women. Each women costs an average of 150,000 per women. So men as a group are paying for women as a group... on top of taking car of wives, alimony, child support.... women can sperm jack(aka rape) men, get pregnant and force him to pay child support. Female teachers have had sex with underage boys, then when the boys turned 18, made them pay child support.	Sex	Gender - General	1/100	1.0
WomenAgainstFeminism You have reached a point of privilege that billions all over the world can still only dream of.Yet there you sit disregarding the fight that so many have fought for you, ignoring those still suffering, and insulting and invalidating a movement that simply strives for equality for all genders.You're enjoying the benefit of hundreds of years of this movement. The only reason you're in your position and not in the position of other girl that's being treated like a possession, an object or someone of lesser intelligence, is because of this fight that we as feminists are still a part of. How dare you throw that back in our faces? You may no longer feel the need for feminism personally, but that is only because you're thinkink of what the movement can do for you, and not what it hopes to achieve for everyone.You have the advantage of living in a world shaped by people who have made it better for you, do not turn around and decide that if you're no longer affected by the issue then the issue has resolved itself. That the problema is gone. You're using a position of privilege to choose to be ignorant.You're saying, in effect, that because you feel feminism cannot do any more for you as an individual, that the push for change is no longer needed. You're living without gender constraints, so why should you care what happens to anyone else?Fine, you no longer need feminism. That doesn't, however, mean that the world no longer nerds feminist.	Gender	Gender - General	1/262	0.382
So not believing it from his I'm automatically makes you a negative person? That's real logic right there women don't need this victim complex to be successful in this world real men hate feminism because they recognize how toxic it is to the male and female dynamic women are strong in this nation is always been strong in this nation not because they pretended to be victims but because they recognized how important their role is in society and real men have recognized them and their importance feminism is toxic victimization that helps nobody and is driving our country into a progressive Stone age type thinking of a society. I'm a feminist and I think that people have misunderstood and shamed what it means to be a feminist. All we stand for is equal rights amongst all genders. It's a common misconception that we hate men or think we are superior to them when in fact we just want to be equal. It is fair saying we don't need feminism anymore as we are all equal yet for me as a girl I don't feel equal to men in the slightest. There are still issues of the gender pay gap that is trying to be tackled by the British government here in the UK and I have talked with my MP Hillary Ben about the steps towards equal pay. I believe there are times where both genders aren't treated equally and women suffer abuse and discrimination for their gender and/or ethnicity . However, I do respect these women against feminism as people can have their own opinions and I support free speech in every way but personally I believe we have the right to choose whether we are a feminist or not and shouldn't be shamed for it. The majority of people in these comments are one sided and for one or the other yet I think our upbringing and experiences lead us to what we believe. If a woman grows up without being discriminated, it isn't hard to see why they would be against feminism however for someone like me who suffers social injustice everyday due to my gender and is friends with people who experience the same, I stand by feminism all the way as it makes me feel empowered and helps to conquer the inequality I face. MGTOW Lithuania/Lietuva You're a mgtow, how are you into traditionalism? Unless you're a woman , you don't know what makes us happy. If you are, you know what makes you happy. Men aren't always around. They may die, cheat or leave us. Then want? I, as well as most women I'd assume, would like having more money to see the world and pay for hobbies we love. When we're at the mercy of men, they decide what we get to do and what we don't. Financial burden shouldn't be placed on men alone. I'd never do that to my fiance, he couldn't handle it. Feminism has NEVER been about advocating for women. Feminism is about using women as a weapon against society. Feminism's stated goal is to destroy "the patriarchy ". What does that mean? It means to destroy western society and replace it with Marxism. All feminists are left-wing socialists. Since feminism has become mainstream back in the early 1970s, women's level of happiness has continued to decline. Women are way less happy than they were 40 years ago. Feminism is the reason. I think if feminists want to protest for women's rights and equal opportunity why don't they go to Saudia Arabia and do it where it's actually needed? There are countries out there that could use their support but to sit on their fat arses acting like they're oppressed in the USA or Australia is a bit of a joke! There's a reason why more men are seeking wives outside of their country and feminism is a part of it. Telling us what we can and can't say and don't defend yourself or you're "Mansplaining" we can't sit with our legs open despite having a penis and testicles because we're "Manspreading" challenging us at every opportunity like we're a burden on society simply for being men. I can tell you on behalf of most men of the west we'd rather look beyond our own borders to find a woman who can appreciate and validate us that's why it's more popular than ever before. Mark my words this is only the beginning but feminism is destroying relationships for women in western countries which leaves the door wide open for a lot of single ladies out there from foreign land and perhaps they will inherit the earth in the end. To me a feminist just want to be able to get off on men being weaker than a woman ...it comes from the deepest part of being insecure about yourself...like if all midgets started protesting against tall things..or fat people who rather eat start wanting all workout gyms shut down...this behavior comes from feeling weak...if you feel weak you do not need to be in charge of anything that stands for strength.. people do not need to come down to your self-esteem or lower who they are and what they are because you can't reach their level..what you should do is find your own lane and be as strong as you want there. My question is why are feminists in western countries like the states doing this they already have so many more rights than women in third world countries.its like your trying to go back to the 1950s but in reverse and this time much worse. FEMINISM IS NECESSARY BECAUSE:1. the global south &amp; north experience systematic oppression for being female or queer2. the oppression includes: - sexual violence against female and queer bodies. - lack of female/queer representation in media or political status. - lower paying jobs or lacking access to authoritative positions in the work place.- policing the bodies of females/queers. restricting our sexual expression.- not recognising the INTERSECTIONAL oppression of people. our differences create different experiences.- restricting our choices: abortion; sexual expression; motherhood; marriage; gender identity etcnow some of these subjugations are overt and others are covert but WE STILL EXPERIENCE THEM NO MATTER THEIR VISIBILITY.we should ALL BE FEMINISTS. or any other variant, such as womanists or gender activists.antagonising feminism is you invalidating our problems.fellow women who hate feminism – you are frankly the most disappointing.you don't have to be a feminist, i guess, but hating feminism is you being complicit of patriarchy that affects you and others alike.	Gender, Patriarchy, Queer, Sexual	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	10/167	5.988

Michael Jarrett I was talking about the women of the video. True feminism is absolutely needed. It means equality. The feminazi we see today are not feminists. They hate men. What bothers me the most is that instead of attacking the women who wrongly apply feminism they attack the very concept of feminism. So they include in the same bag the crazy women who think they are superior than men and the real feminists who truly believe in equality. In fact when I read their comments I noticed that some of these women REALLY DON’T believe in equality (maybe for religious reasons). So my point is these women should not be using the word feminist in the video because their message will produce hate towards those who are truly feminists because people will think that they are feminazi while they are not	Crazy, Feminazi	Gender - Female intelligence, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/142	2.113

If you're talking about Feminism in general then do you mean the ISIS ass kicking Kurdish feminists, and other women in the middle east standing up against the oppression they face? or if you're referring to western feminism are you talking about old school feminists like Christina Hoff Sommers? Michael Jarrett true feminism is the equality of men AND women. It's a movement that fights for the rights of men AND women. It's a movement that fights against DISCRIMINATION of men over women AND discrimination of women over men. It's the will of equality of genders. No gender discrimination WETHER YOU ARE MALE OR FEMALE. True feminism doesn't deny THAT EVEN IF MEN AND WOMEN ARE EQUAL, THEY ARE STILL DIFFERENT. For example feminism will allow a woman WHO HAVE ALL THE ABILITIES (strength, resistance...) to work as a blue collar worker on a building construction but will never force a woman who can't do a "man's job" to do so. The same goes with men. This is what I believe being true feminism. I want to know your opinion too. If I'm wrong please correct me	Gender, Woman	Gender - General	3/138	2.174

What you described to me there sounds more like Egalitarianism/Equalitarianism. Even if you type feminism into Google the first result is the definition "the advocacy of women's rights on the ground of the equality of the sexes." Women have equal if not more rights than men do. In the U.K, America, Canada and Australia Women are the freest and most liberated in the world. What more honestly is there to be done? All I hear feminists moan about is the pay gap (which has been proven wrong time and time again but they still don't listen) and more trivial things like mansplaining and manspreading (Which someone was actually arrested for) I know I'm going into the extreme third wave " Feminazi " feminism for examples but for a word that means different things to different people I'd rather just stick with the word that means what it means. Egalitarianism: "the doctrine that all people are equal and deserve equal rights and opportunities" I'm not tarring all feminists with the same brush, My Ex girlfriend was a feminist and she was lovely. As I say There are feminists that I like as per mentioned Christina Hoff sommers and also, this is annoying me I have her face in my head but I cannot for the life of me think of her name, by the time I send this I'll remember and edit the comment with her name ;]No one is stopping women from working Blue collar jobs, And you know what I totally encourage that, I've seen female plumbers and electricians. The suffragettes never faced death for their right to vote. The BBC is selling you a lie here. It is the Suffragettes who threaten violence towards others and not the other way around. In fact the majority of the state was supportive of their cause. The The Women's Social and Political Union (WSPU) or The Suffragettes as they are more widely known were a group of mostly upper-class wealthy and aristocratic women, all of them white, most of them racists who had the support of the majority of the British government at the time they were protesting for their "right to vote". They resorted to violence and terrorism and attacking the police as part of their campaign. In response to this violence and terrorism (they bombed places and burned houses down) the police arrested some of them before quickly realising them. Two years into their campaign the WSPU was disbanded by its leaders after having been bribed with a substantial amount of money to do so by Stanely Baldwin's Conservative government. They quickly proceeded to turn the WSPU into an agency for the government for recruiting men into the first world war. They lead the white feather campaign where members were encouraged to go around sticking white feathers on young boys and men on the streets of the UK to brand them as cowards for not enlisting in the war....as a result of this campaign tens of thousands of men were pressured into war and death.Feminism is an ideology built by liars on an ocean of lies. Karim Halawa That isn't the same thing what so ever. The Republicans abolishing slavery was more to do with the people pushing back against and realizing how inhumane and awful it was, the people who deserve the praise are the people who fought and at times died for are rights as humans. Sure the Republicans made the rules, but the people fought for them. Same thing goes for feminists, they didn't make laws, but they changed peoples perspectives on right and wrong and fought for justice and fair treatment among the sex's. To stomp on that would be disrespectful. A better comparison would be if you were a black person and said 'I'm anti black , because I like the police'. That isn't a thing, so why is anti-feminism in females a thing? P.S. For those who don't get it, you can disagree with some of what a movement stands for and still not be against it. Being anti and impartial are two different things.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	2/164	1.22
But we should be focusing on what's happening in the present; it doesn't matter what feminism was doing in the past, it matters what it's doing right now. I can agree that feminism was doing good when women were unequal to men under the law. That doesn't mean I also have to agree with what the movement is doing now, and it certainly doesn't mean that disagreeing with what the movement is doing now in any way disrespects what that movement was previously doing. I'm actually not an anti-feminist or a feminist, but I have no issue with people who do consider themselves anti-feminists.Also you're analogy isn't very accurate. It would be more like saying your against BLM. Not because you don't think racism against black people is a bad thing, just because you disagree with the things the movement has been doing to achieve those goals. Anti-feminists isn't synonymous with anti-women; it means your against the methods of the movement, not it's intentions.	Black, Racism	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	2/165	1.212

Albert Balbastre-Morte First of all in what world are women telling people how to think and what to wear, we are literally fighting for the exact opposite. Second of all, just in case you didn't realize this being female is also a physical unalterable characteristic (unless you gets lots and lots of a plastic surgery). Feminism is a movement that was created and upheld majority by women to fight for equality among the sex's and there have been multiple movements among the black community over the years (no name that has stuck for years and years as did feminism, so it isn't a completely clear comparison it was just a rough example though), that was the comparison I was making. Not between feminism and black people. A clear cut comparison would be like saying "I am black and I am anti black lives matter' to a women saying 'I am anti-feminism'. Thirdly you actually CANNOT by definition be pro equality and be anti feminist. As the definition of feminism is the fight for equality among the sex's so if you are anti feminism you are literally saying you are anti equality. You do not have to agree with every single message a group puts out, but if you agree with it's core message (in this case equality) you cannot be anti that group.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	4/223	1.794
Michelle Kristin dictionary fallacy. Current feminists don't fight for equality. They just say they do because the dictionary says so, but their actions show otherwise. Communism has a great dictionary definition, but communist regimes murder their own citizens. Similarly, feminism sounds great on paper, but the current movement tells people what to think, how to behave and what to wear. If you haven't encountered that feminism yet, I'm really happy for you, but I have encountered it in my social and professional circles, in the two different countries I live in, in politics and in the Internet. Albert Balbastre-Morte I find it funny how people kept saying that my comparison of the various movements in the black community that have happened over the years and comparing it to feminism was a horrible comparison. But you just compared communism and feminism. I have a lot of knowledge on feminism and what you described IS NOT a feminist or what feminism stands for. The loud ones get heard the most, and that makes people think that that is what we stand for. When in reality it is just a select few who create a bad representation of the rest of us. You are right in that dictionary definitions are no always what the movement is for, but the main message and purpose behind feminism is equality that is what we are fighting for and I know a lot of feminist and got to a very female driven school so I know this for a fact. You may have an idea of what a feminist because someone had what you saw as negative characteristic traits and labeled themselves a feminist, but that isn't all or even the majority of feminist. I have encountered people who were more on the extreme side of feminism where is was pretty much anti men and I do not agree with that, I think men have different but just as valid struggles as women. That is no what I, or most people I know, believe in and I'm sorry you know so many people who are like that.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/253	0.395
Sadly, there are feminists telling women what to wear and how to think. These are called sex negative feminists and they condemn women who choose of their own free will to express their sexuality through revealing clothing and prostitution/stripping because they view those women as just conforming to men's standards even though they are making these choices themselves.To make what I was saying in my last comment more clear, I really don't care what label people associate themselves with, I just care about their beliefs. I don't care if you label yourself as anti-feminist or feminist, I just care that you believe the sexes should be equal and have a similar definition of equality (equality of opportunity and choice rather than equality of outcome). Most people I have seen who identify as anti-feminist do believe in these things and so in my eyes, it's not a harmful movement or identity.	Sex	Gender - General	1/151	0.662

No, they're basing it off of what feminism HAS BECOME. They aren't judging feminism by its dictionary definition - equality of the sexes. Nearly 100 of people believe in that. But they read the definition of feminism, and then they look at the ACTIONS of feminists today. BIG difference. They see that the actions of feminism aren't actions of equality, but are more of man-hating, victimization, rape culture, patriarchy , false propaganda, etc. and they see through the lies. If feminism was still about equality, like its definition implies, everyone would be a feminist. crypter27 I read these articles and these are the studies that showed some difference in male and female brains which probably resulted from biological difference ( such as sex hormones) and long-term evolutionary social factors. These should be expected and this is the reason why we should not expect men and women to be the same. This does not mean that women should have fewer rights. Women are better than men in certain tasks and so are men. IMO, bickering about who is better is just a waste of time and it is more about power grasp than anything else. Women have fewer representations in politics and other institutions e.g. only 20 of senators and congress representatives are women when women comprise of 50 or more in population. Does not mean that you should vote for someone because of their gender , it just shows that women are not in control of major political and governmental policies anywhere. Just do the search if men are being oppressed. I don't have the capacity to answer your questions as I am not in the position to do anything about it. Check this out. "The very notion of systemic oppression is a gross oversimplification and, in my view, looks at the world from literally the wrong perspective. Rather than see how the myriad choices, decisions and actions that millions of people take second-by-second push against each other constantly to 'produce' society as we know it, it takes rather crude and arbitrary classifications - white, homosexual , male, female etc. - and insists that all social phenomena can be explained using these. The reasons for injustice and inequality are profoundly complex and to suggest that it comes down to something as simple as one class oppressing another is an absurdity that is as unproven as it is unfalsifiable. Analysing and discussing the premises on which a question is based (e.g. How are group X oppressed by society?) is a staple of critical thinking about an issue - as noted above, the fact that so many course leaders within the social sciences, arts and humanities refuse to accept such questioning in their classes is an absolute travesty." I wonder if they mean suffragettes like Emmaline & Christabel Pankhurst? During this acknowledged first wave of feminism in the UK, they did deal with the government of the day to support WWI in return for getting the vote. This led to the very famous white feather campaign in which they insisted men & boys are publicly harrassed & badgered young men & boys into their sordid deaths on the front. These same men and boys, some as young as 14, did not have the right to vote either. Yes, these women of privilege with servants won the vote for property owning women over 30 with the blood of men & boys. I wonder if they will cover that in the suffragette film? Such myths as 1 in 5 women will be raped or sexually assaulted by men & the many times debunked wage gap are still rolled out as absolute truths in the same way some dead man rose from the dead 2000 years ago. The point of an insult is to give offense, and so they will insult you based on anything they believe will offend you. Men are insulted according to their gender as well, however, they do it differently. Men are told they are not manly enough as an insult, called faggots, girly boys, basement dwellers, virgins, so on and so forth. This was also the way in which women were insulted before, being called unladylike however, largely due to Feminism, this is no longer an effective insult and so the gender specific insults have devolved into what they are now. "to have equal pay" You have it, and if you don't and can prove it, you have an open and shut lawsuit which is as good as a blank check."Equal opportunities" You have them and more, there are countless special interest programs promoting women into more lucrative fields. Melanie Schneider First wave were open female supremacists, and were after 'liberation' (from men and their role in the family), not equality- in which they started the war on families and men through combination of the tender years doctrine (used to make it so women got custody by default in divorce) and efforts to make divorce much easier, advocated husband beating, wanted what had been a privilege- voting- which was previously constrained to those who owned property (which included some women) and those who fought in wars (which did not include all men)- to be made available to them (and only them, as upper class white women), but without the responsibility of going to war or owning property, so they wouldn't lose out on their social standing when black men who risked death to protect their homes and families got to vote, when they- living on the property their husbands owned- could not, committed acts of terrorism, and campaigned to shame men into fighting and dying for their sake in the white feather campaign. Second wave crystallized their ideology and ingrained it in academia- taking over and revising history to blur out the seemlier aspects of their own movement and claim victories of fair minded people in the name of their hate group, and started the concerted efforts to create and disseminate propagandized studies and falsehoods that are directly and purposefully responsible for third wave's beliefs in order to relegate men to second class status.This on top of such things as redirecting funding from welfare programs from men coming home from war to women who didn't need it in the name of 'equality', committed torture and murder, created the Duluth model and pushed for primary aggressor laws in order to ensure all domestic violence was made out to be the fault of men and men alone, and had targeted campaigns of harassment and terrorism against those who tried to bring to light the reality of the reciprocal nature of abuse, redefined and created new standards for judgments of harassment, sexual crimes, etc., all designed in such a way as to purposefully exaggerate male perpetrators, exclude male victims, and hide female perpetrators, etc. Feminism has always been cancer. Don't buy into the indoctrination they created to make it seem as if previous waves were somehow more reasonable or noble- they were exactly the same. In that, at times, in their pursuit of female supremacy, they have sometimes incidentally struck upon issues of fairness- but supremacy has always been their end goal.	Black, Sexual	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	2/420	0.476

+John Mitchem	"that is all just a redirect from women expecting benefits without responsibilities all at the expense of men." This is totally not true, when men went to war who picked up the tasks that men do. Women went to work during the war. Women raised their children alone when men went to war and you think women did not do anything? Don't play the Nazi card. Do you know who support Hitler?	Nazi	Ideological and Political Identity - General	1/74	1.351

Nalini Jensen No, both parties being held too the exact same standard is not unequal. However if women don't have to live up to men's standards but men still do, THAT is unequal. Especially if the benefits of meeting those standards are just given to women regardless but not allocated in the same way for men. However, democracy has nothing to do with any of that. Democracy has to do with the allocation of government power and law by the masses rather than a select few elites, and has ABSOLUTELY NOTHING to do the labors necessary to provide for a society without it collapsing without food, water, defense, or even a basic infrastructure. We can't just vote to not do what's necessary for survival and still live. Being a man means doing what has to be done. If women can't live up to that standard, women aren't living up to men's standards. I don't care how much this might offend you delicate sensibilities nor hurt your 'feels', its just reality. Yes, it is true. If you ignore the unequal balances of benefits to responsibilities based around gender by focusing on a separate topic, you're using a redirect. Further, I doubt women were just lining up to man the trenches given then they passed on the right to vote in order to avoid the draft. Also, raising children and doing basic labor while the men are gone is not the same as going off to get shot, burned, bombed, gased, etc... in war.As to the Nazis, I don't see why I shouldn't play that card since it fits. However, you could really insert just about any violent group of militant expansionists in their stead if it would make you feel more comfortable. I do not know to whom you might be referring, but I do know many feminist authors of the time supported Hitler. However, in the end I don't care since whoever it was that you meant, it wouldn't invalidate my point that evil must be stopped by force or it will use force to destroy any other form of opposition, making war a necessary evil in the face of human inhumanity.	Gender, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/363	0.826
Tenereus well, I think feminism just needs to completely die out, but great post nonetheless. Its not just military and police, though. Its everywhere. Women get everything men get AND MORE ( gender specific affirmative action programs for education and employment, special legal protection, one sided rape laws, government funding of women's shelters but not men's shelters, protection from hate speech, lighter sentencing, abortion rights, etc...), yet don't have men's same responsibilities (child support, alimony, the draft, etc...). Abortion is a good example. Women get 'my body, my choice' (all the rights) but don't get stuck with 'my financial responsibility' (no responsibilities). That goes to men, who get zero say in their child's life (no rights), but are still expected to foot the bill for the woman (all the responsibilities). Women get rights, men get responsibilities, and feminists call this equality.	Gender, Woman, Zero	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/140	2.143

Nalini Jensen when I say standard, I mean the minimum set for men, not by men, up to which men must live if society is to function and survive. Female soldiers are a rarity, but that's still beside the point. The point that I'm "complaining about" is that women don't have the same obligations and responsibilities as men, yet still demand to be treated as though they do WHILE SHIRKING THOSE FEW RESPONSIBILITIES THEY HAVE LEFT OFF ONTO MEN!!! You're right that this conversation is going nowhere, though. You're a woman and a modern feminist. You don't get it, and you won't get it. Ever. John Mitchem I do know about the reproductive rights and the massive amount of general protection they receive, I was just referring to the comment regarding women, the draft, the army and used police as an extra example for the point about physicality. Gender	Gender - General	1/80	1.25
+Tenereus I have already said that most women are physically weaker than most men. This is by the design of nature and there are real good reasons for it too, otherwise how can humanity populate? To demand that women would have to use the same standard as men (in term of strength) is lacking common sense and reflecting only on very few jobs that most women don't care to compete for. There are thousands of occupations that do not require physical strength so to emphasize the discussion on "men's standard" is only discuss about 5 of the situations. If we are going to focus on the women's ability to giving birth to children then it will show a very different picture.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/121	0.826
Nalini Jensen men making up 93 of workplace fatalities and 99.9 of combat deaths reflects a lot more than an imaginary "5" strength requirement that you just made up out of thin air, and it fails to account for being in charge of that for which you are directly responsible, much less commiserate compensation for ones efforts and risks. Women can and do vote to send men to die with impunity since they are secure in the knowledge that they will never be drafted and made to defend the consequences of their decisions, a luxury which men lack...	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/98	1.02
Nalini Jensen also, how is demanding that those that wish to be the equals of men at least be equal to men lacking common sense? Nalini Jensen well, no, not really on all accounts. The US labor force is actually about 155,400,000. Arbitrarily taking 5 of that, though, is still meaningless. Where did you even come with that figure? Also, WTF is your point with the female government officials? Writing them does nothing to solve feminist hypocrisy and the lopsided privilege/responsibility balances they created.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/59	1.695
Tenereus very true. Women's "rights" have already gone far beyond equality and secured an inordinate amount of privilege for women beyond the inordinate level men already gave them. Hello Hello Or you are wrong. Maybe being forced into wars in the millions IS kinda bad. Especially since women seem very happy about that whole agreement (see Emmeline Pankhurst on conscription for example). Maybe women and men very treated fairly yet not equal. Men forced into danger through huge obligations to the nation or society and women forced into safety and with freedoms removed. It forms a pretty obvious pattern of population optimization that quite clearly effect both sexes mutually. So focusing on women isn't inherently bad but should not be seen as more important hence it clearly isn't. Calm those tits and grab some perspective. Modern feminism is an amazing movement which benefits everyone, it is simply the fight and avocation for the equal treatment, and rights socially, economically and politically for ALL genders. It promotes the CHOICE to be whatever kind of person you want to be, and does not discriminate against any specific gender or behaviour-unless that behaviour is morally corrupt and wrong- for instance feminists do not hate all men, but they do hate rape; feminists acknowledge that someone of any gender can be the victim or the offender of sexual assaults, and it is the perpetrator who is to blame, feminists do not negatively generalize and do not marginalize men, but are they are aware of the statistical fact that 9 of every 10 rape victims were female in 2003 (RAINN   Rape, Abuse and Incest National Network) and that 99 of rape perpetrators are male (US Bureau of Justice Statistics). Feminists want to end domestic violence and gendercide in countries like Guatemala and China. Feminists want to stop the outrageous amount of sexual assault people of all genders face while serving in the military. Feminism fights against damaging gender roles like the way the media sexualizes and objectifies people and glamourizes violence and unhealthy portrayals of men and women. Feminists want to stop daily acts of sexism like cat calling, rape jokes, homophobia , and "slut-shaming". Feminists advocate for LGBTQ+ awareness. Feminism fights or the equal distribution of HUMAN RIGHTS and aims to eliminate the marginalization of minority groups. Feminism works to end patriarchy . It is the ignorant stereotypes and stigma which surround feminism that gives the movement a bad wrap but none of the negative rumours are true. Feminists do NOT hate all men. Feminists DO respect stay-at-home-mothers, and fathers. Feminists are NOT all a bunch of hairy, whiney, lesbians (and if you are a hairy, whiney, lesbian , that's cool too, because who you are and how you act is YOU'RE choice and no one else's). Feminism is a GOOD thing, and really does benefit everyone, of all genders positively. I am proud to call myself a feminist, and if you aren't maybe you should take some time and investigate why exactly you are choosing not to embrace something which will benefit you and society positively in so many ways. It is so important to educate yourself before determining your values. Wrong again. Modern Feminism has transformed into a hate-filled movement that seeks to undermine men and make the women who follow their cult the superior ones. The wage gap is simply the average earnings of men and women, it has nothing to do with discrimination. The " Patriarchy " is non-existent in places like the US/Europe. Feminism advocates Fat -Acceptance which is essentially a death sentence since you're basically telling fat people that it's "okay" to be fat and unhealthy. Suffragettes faced death? lol.One died (Emily Davison). She threw herself in front of a horse during a horse race (whether by accident or design it's hard to say from watching the footage of her idiotically running in front of horses running at full speed).To say the suffragettes faced death is a bit like saying Gomer Pyle -USMC was a great wartime documentary. The Justicar Emily Davison had previously thrown herself in front of a moving tram, which managed to stop on time. She also once threw herself down steps at a train station in London. Davison was not someone who was going to live to old age. But nobody pushed her. Emilline Pankhurst considered Davison to be unstable and tried to maintain their distance from her for the most part. Pankhurst was a hypocrite and a bigot, but she was no fool. Suffragettes did not suffer any kind of risk of death or injury. Even when they were jailed for crimes of vandalism during their "smashing glass" campaigns, they were treated with better conditions than other prisoners. The "cat and mouse act" was introduced by the British government precisely to insure that no suffragettes died or became ill in prison. Suffragettes also learned early on, that they could get away with most things without consequence, even on occasion assaulting the police. Police in Britain were at first, very reluctant to use their batons on women. When the Police finally did begin to respond to attacks, the reaction amongst British women was mostly disgust at the way the suffragettes had behaved. The suffragettes, they felt, had forced the police to do the previously unthinkable; to use physical violence against women. This, many women felt, was setting a dangerous precedent. There was nothing remotely dangerous about being a suffragette.	Age, Nobody, Nothing, Old	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters	4/235	1.702

It is 100 unlawful for someone to pay an employee less based on gender, race, or any other discriminative factor. Gender pay gap statistics do not account for the fact that the majority of part time employees are women, and that women, even full time, on average, work less hours than men. Shall we correct this statistical error and then address the pay gap issue? FYI, the top female CEOs outperform males in their category...how does that factor into your claim of victimhood?How many shelters exist for men who are victims of domestic abuse and sexual abuse? How many male victims of rape have ANY resources, let alone little? Feminism is not only unnecessary, it is the biggest thing holding women back. The comments on here aren't proof of anything other than that some people make dickhead comments. Melanie Schneider The following is from a new report by Scientific American:"The results were surprising. For example, the CDC's nationally representative data revealed that over one year, men and women were equally likely to experience nonconsensual sex, and most male victims reported female perpetrators. Over their lifetime, 79 percent of men who were 'made to penetrate' someone else (a form of rape, in the view of most researchers) reported female perpetrators. Likewise, most men who experienced sexual coercion and unwanted sexual contact had female perpetrators." [LINK] This is why feminism needs to go. Maria And Gianni’s Channel”We do not see things as they are, we see them as we are.” Anais NinConsider the following stories.I read an interview of a former professional hockey player, about his experience being the only gay athlete. He was ashamed of admitting he was gay, because of the attitude and persona in the locker rooms. So, he went through high school, on the NHL draft scout list, dating girls, and partying and drinking every night, even though he didn’t really like the lifestyle. It wound up costing him his spot in the draft, as his performance slipped, and he lost the spotlight. Having missed the NHL draft, he signed on to play in European leagues, in Norway. There, he continued the charade of dating women and hiding who he was, always feeling depressed and alone. He said that the constant attitudes, and anti-homosexual remarks in the locker rooms led him to attempt suicide on several occassions. He now is sharing his story, because of how destructive those locker rooms were to him.He had a friend who knew he was gay. His name was Brendan Burke, the son of NHL Hall of Famer, and Toronto Maple Leafs General Manager Brian Burke. Brendan too was a shoe in for the NHL Draft. The Maple Leafs loved him, and he was a welcome guest in their locker room any time. Brendan was a star in the eyes of the league he was destined to play in, and was even the subject featured on TSN discussions routinely. He was a proud ambassador of the sport, and all sports really, inspiring kids all over. They lived radically different lives. Shortly before Brendan’s tragic death in a car accident, he told his friend on the phone, ”I can’t wait for the day you can come out and be as accepted by your family as I am with mine”. Yes, that’s right. Brendan Burke was expected to be the first openly gay player drafted into the NHL. His campaigns to show that being gay didn’t mean you couldn’t be an athlete, and couldn’t be welcomed in the locker room were summed up in his notorious catch phrase ”If you can play, you can play”. Those TSN discussions, were about how this would change the NHL, having it’s first openly gay hockey player. Not because people weren’t ready...but because people knew there are already likely players who are. As over 70 of the NHL Players Association is from Canada, we will go ahead and use Canadian stats on it. As of 2012, 5.3 openly identified as gay in a survey. So, 5 out of every 100 are gay. The NHL had 30 teams at that time, all with rosters of 20-23 players. That means there were 600 to 700 players in the NHL at any given time (Double that if you include the entire AHL farm team roster). So, statistically speaking, there should be, roughly 30-35 players in the NHL who are gay, and another 35 or more in the AHL. Brendan Burke didn’t ignite a firestorm of backlash. He didn’t live a life of depression and anxiety, or victimhood because of the chauvenistic nature of professional sports. He was openly welcomed by the entire community. The news of his death shook the league. NHL teams lowered their flags, and played in honour of him for what he had accomplished for the league, despite not even being old enough to play in it. The Toronto Maple Leafs started the campagin ”You can Play”, taping their sticks in rainbow coloured tape and saying that their lockerroom is, and always will be a welcome place for everyone, regardless of their	African, Gay, Old, Sexual, Woman, coloured	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	28/1076	2.602

CodeMonkey So you asked to name one difference there is between men and women from Italy, and here I am to answer you with actual facts. First of all I think many are mistaken about feminism because it's not always about the right it's about stereotypes but whatever. So, I live in Italy and there is a law that obliges men and women to have equal payments related to the same job... The thing is that even tho it is a law it's not therefore respected: my law teacher told us that she earns less than her husband but they both are teachers and they even teach the exact same subject... That's an obvious difference. Then when women have a job and then they get pregnant they get fired because the companies won't pay you unless you are working so basically here in Italy if you are a woman you cannot get pregnant or else you will get fired. Btw thank you for being respectful towards everyone who has replied to you so far it's nice to have a civil conversation from time to time. And sorry for my bad English	Woman	Gender - General	1/191	0.524
Just because someone has rights, doesn't mean they aren't infringed. Like law. Murder is illegal, but people kill everyday. Feminism is used to change the way people think about women so our rights are recognized by everyone. Here's a few things a lot of men think of us, and some reasons why I still believe we need feminism. [LINK] [LINK] [LINK] This one's a lie, btw. The most common degree women earn is for business, nursing, biology or psychology. Not "women's studies". [LINK] Then there are incels who say things like we aren't human, should be caged, and suggest other's should start throwing acid in pretty girl's faces so we sleep with them. This is why we still need it. Not because of the good men, because of the bad ones.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/131	0.763 black style and nightmares taking the last name of a girl is much more difficult, men make more money because they're less likely to take off sick, work overtime, work more dangerous jobs, etc. the fact that men are usually the aggressors doesn't change the fact that in rape a woman can rape a man steal his semen and then if she gets pregnant she can sue for birth control. (it takes 10 months for youtube to send me a notification? my lord i bearily remember commenting this! stupid youtube.) anyway this would be a good point if feminist say they are only about women but like i said before the key word is equality. every time someone says feminist only care about women and not men feminist will point them to the definition. not to say that feminist is about women, but to say feminism trying to help both men and women. and to try and say as long as you claim to want gender equality you are a feminist. so that would mean they should care. but don't worry, i know they don't actually mean they care about mens issues. this is just one of the many lies and contradictions that make me wander if feminism is fighting for the right things and even makes me dare i say makes me think women aren't as oppressed today as they say. now, 10 months has changed my mind in a few small ways (stupid youtube) and i think feminism isn't entirely unnecessary in the world at least, but that creates a problem for what i mean when i say feminism. by that i mean the type of feminism that gets the most attention. the type that's in lots of mainstream media. also for that "men are mostly the prepirtrators of rape" thing, the mostly young boys who have to deal with it are just excused? and you wander why men are always messed up. i mean i know you want men to make the shelters themselves but making an organisation to do that would take a long time and there are many young boys suffering from it at this moment. but of corse that won't work even you don't care about them. also it is much harder for a woman to rape a man to get past physical strength they'd have to rape a much younger male. plus they'd have a lesser chance of wanting to due to not having as much of a sex -drive so of corse women don't rape as much. its funny how you think telling men they're evil monsters will help them stop being ones. and of corse the same sex that made our society are the ones who made its problems. look i want equality just as much as you do but i don't think it's that simple 30 years ago people couldn't fathom the technological advancements we have today there are a lot of problems with feminism that make me doubt that their doing the right thing. it's just my opinion. Deborah 1995LeFerWhere did I claim that war doesn't impact women? Did I say women are not impacted by war. No, I didn't.I am well aware war- especially today has a very negative impact on civilian populations. Two examples are the DRC and Bosnia. But as you are well aware male suffering is trivialised by the media. If there is a terrorist attack in a warzone and 30 people are killed how many times do we hear the expression 'including women' - the insinuation is that male civilians are expendable!Regarding men forcing other men to fight, that's true. And I acknowledge early feminists- to their credit, often spoke out against that but so did pacifist men. But it is quite obvious that modern third wave feminists don't give a damn about issues that disproportionately impact men. Ever hear the sarcastic feminist attitude smugly looking down on 'male tears' when men do raise these issues? I was challenging the feminist claim that men as a sex are automatically 'privileged' which is something feminists like you perversely believe and continue to lie about. This is part of third wave feminism's hateful agenda to distort history to present all men as one and the same. Western women are arguably the most privileged people on the planet.Military conscription is one issue, the fact that far more men are homeless is another.But then again, as a feminist I don't expect you to be objective.Whereas I care about HUMAN suffering, as a feminist all you care about is women. You are either with the orthodoxy or you are a heretic.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/86	1.163

I think the problem is ideas people have about what feminism is, ideas that have mainly been created by people who want to subjugate women by making them look like crazy , aggressive lunatics if they don't quietly serve men's needs in the background and stay silent and diminutive. There is still plenty of inequality in the world, even in Western society which likes to think it's enlightened and modern. Like it or not, your sex life is a political issue if you want contraception and protection to be available, if you don't want to be sacked from your job for having sex outside marriage or for getting pregnant, if you don't want to be refused an abortion, if you want to be protected from rape as far as possible and treated like a victim and not the responsible party if it does happen to you and if you want to be treated like an intelligent, respected equal participant in any sexual relationship you have. Politics isn't about point scoring between members of government trying to show off and look bigger than everyone else, even though that kind of behaviour does happen within government in every country and involves many different individual and emotive subjects. Politics itself is about ensuring people are treated properly and fairly in every aspect of their lives and sex and gender cover such a wide range of issues from health to employment that they are very much a political subject and it's important that government does give them proper and fair consideration. I will agree that perhaps women are underrepresented in the workforce. But I think that applies to other situations as well. E.g. if I was applying for a job employers wouldn't hire me over a man because I'm a woman but perhaps because I have gages, piercings, and tattoos. They would be looking at my physical appearance instead of evaluating me to see if I had the aptitude to do the job. I plan on getting gages, piercings, and tattoos but I'm also an aspiring doctor. Why the big deal about the word "feminist" all of a sudden. LOL I haven't heard that word in years. You young ladies must have not been working in the 70's, 80's and some not even in the 90's. Even if you don't want to be labeled a feminist, you need to remain vigilant in the pursuit of equal rights for women. The differences between working in the 70's when I started and working in 2014 are MAJOR!!! That's really not all that long ago. LOL I've never considered myself a feminist, but there are a lot of areas that we are not treated as equals. Now I don't believe men and women are equal in everything. Men are obviously stronger than women and it's very nice to be on the arm of an Alfa male, but you should learn to stand on your own two feet. Don't look to a man to support you. With the divorce rate as high as it is you need to be able to work and support your kids. Men don't always stay and they don't always pay the child support. Look at all the men in Congress and the Senate, then look at how many women there are. Look at salaries for men vs women doing the same jobs. Look at how women are treated in the middle east. Some die for just speaking their mind. Women in the USA and UK are some of the luckiest women EVER. You get to enjoy the spoils of the women before you. You don't have to be a feminist - just be proud to be an independent woman that has the freedom to choose what you want to do with your life. Much Luv!!	Woman	Gender - General	1/289	0.346

Feminism is a man-hating movement that is outright in favor of women having superior rights (privileges) while men still have to strictly follow their gender role as net providers. Now feminists are accusing their own gender , whose starting to wake up and smell the coffee, as "uneducated", these ignorant bastards are soon going to be exposed for the hypocritical tyrants they really are!It's nice that women are starting the realize the hypocrisy of Feminism but I still don't trust some of them because chances are they're probably traditionalists who want things to go back to the way they were where men were looked at to burden most of the responsibilities and Chivalry was all the rage since "Female superiority" is another name for traditionalism. What a wrong idea of feminism this people have. As the last speaker said, feminism is nothing to do with being against staying at home and taking care of your kids. Until today we live in a society full of sexist attitudes. As men need to prove that are not violent and can be sensible, women need to prove that they can be taken serious in the corporate environment without abdicate from being feminine. This is a one off post. I don't want to get into a debate with a bunch of angry young people. a) There are many types of present-day feminism (that have built on the strengths and overcome many of the limitations of the first and second waves of feminism), they may differ in beliefs on how to achieve equality, but they all still share the same goal of equality. I am a man who self-defines as feminist using the same definition as bell hooks.b) Not accepting the definition of feminism a person identifies them self by, especially when you also shout at them and demand that they accept your definition of feminism, does little to help in the fight for equality.c) When a feminist suggests you read some feminist literature to get a better understanding of feminism, it does not mean that they think you are dumb, just that they think your may not have had access to much education on the subject. Education is not intelligence. There are many structural barriers in today's society preventing intelligent people from having equal access to education which feminists, who share a goal of a wish for equality, are trying to address.d) The professions I work in, social work and psychotherapy, have benefited greatly from the peer-reviewed research and overall literature of feminism. In particular, structural/anti-oppressive social work was influenced by feminist writings identifying prejudice ingrained within language and when we looked at the language of risk assessment we saw ingrained prejudice there which contributed to discriminatory practices towards Aboriginal people and by association, the infamous 'Aboriginal 60's Scoop' which traumatized so many Aboriginal families. This helped social workers learn to change the language and format of risk assessment tools and to start using less judgmental language and practices in their daily work which, in turn, led to more successful outcomes protecting children and empowering marginalized families. Dr. Laura Brown's feminist research helped identify gender bias within the language and assessment tools of traditional psychotherapy, which influenced changes in such areas, and we can now see even the DSM5 using less biased language as a result. The influence of feminism has brought about greater success rates in therapy, especially among clients from marginalized groups. There is obviously, much more work to be done in addressing such structural prejudice and I suspect feminist literature will continue to be a guiding force in helping us to do so.	Dumb, Gender	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/406	0.493
Men lead women, and leaders provide the path. Women are followers. That is the order of things, and that's the way it's always been till the feminism came about flipping everything upside down. Jeremy Davis Thanks, a lot of these guys I believe are afraid of going back to the way things were. They think somehow women are magically equal to them when they're not. All men are horrible!" Listen I do not support feminist or men rights I'm more of a humanist. Your saying women aren't equal to men yet there are some men and women who have done wonderful things for society. I respect myself, I respect my elders and I respect all ladies and gentlemen. And I have two working parents my dad works from home and my mom drives to work every morning. Yet I'm just fine, to me it all depends on how much effort BOTH parents put in teaching their kids and the environment they are raised in.I want equal rights for everyone no matter your race, gender or sexuality I see you as a human being not a man not a woman a human being! ThreeTailed FoxGirl It is the role for men to lead women. Every time I've seen a woman in charge of the relationship the man is constantly put down and he usually just sits on the sidelines letting her go on about whatever subject she is on. That is a weak emasculated man, and one reason why divorce is so high is cause deep down women want a man who takes charge. Women want to be dominated, this why most women have a rape fantasy. That's good that you respect people but many others don't. If you believe in equal rights and you live in the U.S. just know that we're living under a joke. The U.S. Constitution already guarantees equal rights for everyone. When a woman turns her back on feminism, that's HER choice and her freedom to do so. Feminism does NOT agree that women have a right to choose to reject the feminist agenda. That shows right there that feminists are more interested in a dictatorship and slavery of women for political gain much more than looking out for the best interest of women. Feminism is modern day Nazi-ism and focuses mainly on hatred, money and misandry . Valerie Solanas already set the tone for feminism from day one.	Misandry, Woman	Gender - General	2/87	2.299

I've always hated how femininsts portrayed women and men of the past. Only focussing on the negatives, of women's lives, and never looking at the positives, or even bother to compare their situations with the equally shitty lives of men in those days to get an objective view of life in the past. Let's face it. Life was shit for everyone unless you were one of the few lucky to be born wealthy. And frankly, it's that same one-sided and extremely selective way of looking at things that is what annoys people most about feminism. It's become an ideology that needs to turn éverything into the next big gender (meaning women's) issue to be able to desperately cling on to the victim role. Thankfully with a core belief like that of patriarchy theory (I love how adding 'theory' makes it sound legit) you can keep blaming men for any injustice and ignore everything else. And that's the problem. Feminism sees itself as an infallible authority on justice and equality, but it's blind to it's own bias and innate misandry. The claim that feminists are about equality in itself is hilarious as soon as you start listening to the mány different interpretations of what equality might be. The main problem being that if you believe in patriarchy and seem men as innately bad, equality won't mean genuine equality. Equality will mean equality... for women. That's a fundamental flaw, and one that at this point has caused a dangerous imbalance. I'm glad to see people (including myself) are recognizing that. It's only after the whole Eliot Roger case that feminists really showed their ugly side and the media bias became hard to ignore. Especially when you start to realize how derailed, and dangerously powerful politicized feminism has become, and how many men's issues are being ignored because of that core feminist ideology that fails to allow men as victims. The only reason feminists are finally starting to make some offensively small allowances towards men, is because they are realizing people are waking up and that if they don't, they'll lose everything. Noone will believe a movement that claims to be about equality yet fails to live up to those bold statements. But it's already too late. Feminism is already on the way out, and good riddance. I'll admit it's done some good, but nothing that wouldn't have come about by itself in time, and it's done far more harm in the long run. So I've got nothing but praise for women against feminism	Blind, Gender, Misandry, Nothing, Patriarchy	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	7/419	1.671

Christopher Oxley If it's the fight for equal rights why not just merge with the MRA (I wouldn't want to be part of a movement that has a gender specification) and call it an egalitarianism movement? Maybe it would be okay to have a group advocating women, because women are just as capable of taking on any role that men do and should be represented that way in society. Men also have to deal with different problems and not having certain rights that women may. And what exactly has modern feminism accomplished? The movement is inept to solving any actual problems, like those in third world countries that actually need feminism. Most of the developed countries in the world are past the feminism stage. Not sure if you are a man or a woman , but either way, please note that rights, is in " " in my original comment. "Feminism has offered nothing " . I agree in a way, however I would add "of value". They have added plenty to our society, for example, Feminism has facilitated the destruction of the family. Some ways they have done this, tell young ladies they can have it all, career, wife, mother. This has caused many young ladies to focus on their careers through their 20s, then ask where all the good men have gone in their 30s. Single mothers have become idolized, while fathers have no control whatsoever over reproductive rights (other than abstinence of course) and are labeled dead beat dads. Granted, some certainly are, on the other hand some had their children stolen from them by corrupt family courts, empowered and encouraged by feminism. No fault divorce, pushed for by feminists, means that many men that have not cheated on, or abused their wives, can be divorced for literally trivial "offenses". Over 70% of divorces are filed by women. With few exceptions, fathers are relegated to seeing their children every other weekend, but are still responsible to support them. Pushing false narratives such as the wage gap, rape culture, manspreading, mansplaining, etc. have driven a wedge between the sexes based on blatant lies. Not to mention women didn't even have to pay for their right to vote with their blood like that of millions of men. Frankly Honest :P But that's the thing. We have a completely skewed interpretation of history nowadays. Men and women were treated shitty since the dawn of mankind, and if you really compare the two, men had the worst deal. I'm pretty sure life was far worse for men than it was for women, and yet we are now told that women have been oppressed and men had it great. No. Everyone had shitty little lives, aside from that small minority of wealthy individuals at the top of the ladder, that consisted of both men and women. All the rest was lucky enough to have a meal at the end of the day. It's easy to judge from your comfy little 21st century life. And people look at the right to vote like it was really such a big deal. Humans didn't have the right to vote for the majority of their existence, man or woman . Eventually men got the right to vote after dying by the millions in nasty trench warfare. Women weren't "fighting" for their rights to go to the battlefield, were they? Ofcourse not, because it was hell. What consisted of "fighting for the vote" was basically a bunch of women standing around with picket signs annoying people untill men just gave it to them, because that's what men do. Quit pretending you're a victim. If anything, we've always lived in a matriarchy, with women controlling men since the dawn of time to sacrifice themselves for their wives. Konrad Dobson Soooo does that mean women doesn't deserve the same amount of equality as men? Because today women don't work now, they do not fight now, they didn't create shit as well &so on.. At the time women had to stay home with the children while men was force to fight but that now has change... HUMANS deserve human rights. Men&Women.. Women&Men. nobody is playing fucking victim, I'm playing fair!	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/71	1.408
Frankly Honest :P You're not even using equality proper. Maybe this is strange to you but we aren't an A-sexual species. Men and women often like to treat one another differently. Should either party agree to that dynamic then what fucking business is it of yours to arrogantly assume YOUR and every other like minded person has the best and only way of things?Not everything has to be equal. Besides women aren't playing catch up in western society. If anything they have more rights and often less responsibilities than that of men. If you want this to be about human rights then start off with that premise and actually educate yourself. When you do you'll know that gender politics doesn't play out like a seesaw.	Gender	Gender - General	1/126	0.794

Thermic Light So tell me what don't have to be equal? Soo, it's okay for a person to make more money than another just because of their gender instead of their skill and experience? It's okay for a guy to get pick on because he's a little too "feminine"? etc etc. I can fight for equality if I want to because I live in America and according to the 14th amendment, we as humans have our rights. And I'm not Asexual, I have the ability to be sexually and romatically attracted to another human being..	Gender	Gender - General	1/95	1.053
Frankly Honest :P What part of "NOT EVERYTHING" has to be equal do you not understand? Moreover cut the pay gap crap. Do you know how capitalism works? Do you know what a meritocracy is? If you did then you would have to necessarily concede that men and women get paid differently based on market forces. Unless you think its fair to cripple people because you don't like sexual dimorphism. Similarly like one would have to cripple talent to make sure his/shes ordinary. You can't have it every way without any trade offs "facepalm"But again men and women often like to treat one another differently. Have you dated before or at least seen other couples? Typically the dynamic between the two is anything but equal. Somethings are while others aren't and that's up to each person. But defiantly not up to arrogant people like yourself who think they know better and have the "inclusive" and "perfect" system.Incidentally who said anything about picking on a guy for having some feminine characteristics? And why would you put feminine in quotation marks as if its even taboo? You seriously going to pretend that men and women don't have typical characteristics related to their sex ?Of course you're not A- sexual it was a rhetorical...ffs	Cripple, Sex, Sexual	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	4/212	1.887

Result analysis:

- Taking into account the words that were detected, we can reach the conclusion these comments are associated with : : Gender - General;Age - Youngsters;Age - Over 65s;Ethnicity - General;Nationality - General;Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments;Social Class - Working class;Sexual Identity - General;Ethnicity - Asian (South- India, Pakistan, Bangladesh);Ethnicity - Black;Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality;Age - General;Nationality - German;Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality;Physical Identity - Physical Features;Gender - Female intelligence;Religious Identity - Muslim;Ethnicity - Native-American; Ideological and Political Identity - General;Nationality - European or anti-Europeans;Behavioural Addiction - Alcohol;Ethnicity - Asian (East- China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam);Gender - Female age and physical appearance;Gender - Female sexuality;Nationality - Southern European;Nationality - Chinese;
- The percentage of hate speech related words is 1.1079.
- Considering that the variable Gender - General has the most occurrences in the post, we can interpret that this is the predominant hate speech.
- Overall there were 737/1721 occurrences of hate speech related comments.
