

In youtube_extraction_english_27.json :

Title: DRESS CODE SEXISM

- Table 1: Summary of the results per comment;
- Table 2: Summary of the results per sociolinguistic variable;

Table 1: Summary of the results per comment

Comment	KeyWords	Sociolinguistic variables (Hiper - Hipo)	Hate Speech Frequency	Hate Speech Fre- quency(%)
These codes are RIDICULOUS. I once got busted during gym class for wearing a shirt without sleeves. I WAS 9 YEARS OLD!!! wtf!	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/23	4.348
Anybody who is upset about all of the stupid misogyny in the world (especially in the school environment) I recommend the book Moxie. I haven't finished it yet but so far I love it.	Misogyny	Gender - General	1/34	2.941
At my school, NOBODY can wear shorts, tank tops, ripped jeans, etc. It's not specific to just one gender . The dress code rules apply to all the students.	Gender, Nobody	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/28	7.143
Sexism is as valid as the mercy rule in sports:You cant take it just because you are losing badly and getting hammered.....so we invent a new rule that protects the sore losers....	Sexism	Gender - General	1/32	3.125
This would never happen in my country. I could wear whatever I wanted to school and nobody said anything.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/19	5.263
I believe that girls should be able to wear whatever they want, but the boys should too! Equality!I believe that the saddest thing here is that it's not even boys being distracted... It's people who think that boys are distracted...I mean sure some are, but not all...I mean let's not generalize here...Also, even if there was NO dress code, which girl would have the confidence to wear underwear to school in this day and age ?This is just my opinion, and I'm open for discusion about the topic	Age	Age - General	1/92	1.087
Oh my god. THAT'S A SEXUAL ORGAN. shoulders, knees, thighs, and bra straps are not.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/16	6.25

Lol, there can be homosexual women, and women aren't the only victims. (Isn't that shocking?) It shows that boys can't wear jewellery or have painted nails. But, either way, school dress codes are sexist and kinda stupid.	Homosexual	Sexual Identity - General	1/37	2.703
So the dress code at my sisters high school (we just moved so this is new) is horrible. Her old highschool didnt have one and it was the best highschool in the state. This is the new oneStudent and staff dress reflects the quality and atmosphere of the school. We take pride in the appearance of the mem- bers of our educational community. Dress should be neat, clean, and appropriate for classes and school activities. Examples of in- appropriate dress include, but are not limited to, the following:1. Clothing, jewelry, accessories, or tattoos that make reference to alcohol or drug use, sexual activity, gangs or secret soci- eties, violence, or vulgarity;2. Tears, shreds, or holes in clothing;3. Large chains or spikes;4. Sleepwear (Lingerie or pajamas worn as outer-garments);5. Non-prescription sunglasses;6. Shorts or skirts that are more than four inches above the top of the knee;7. Body-con skirts are not allowed.8. Garments that allow bare midriffs or undergarments to show*. (The front of the shirt or blouse should be no lower than two inches from the student's collarbone or nape of the neck); *Shirts must cover the student's torso and shoulders. Hal-ter tops, sleeveless shirts, garments with spaghetti straps, and tank tops are not allowed;9. Garments that are sheer enough to see through;10. Clothing with writing in inappropriate places;11. Any headgear (including hats, hoods, bandanas, etc.) will not be worn in any academic classrooms or the library.Final determination of appropriate dress will rest with the principal or his/her designee. Students wearing inappropriate clothing will be asked to change. Students may be sent home to change and are subject to disciplinary action.Consequences for violation of the dress code:First Offense: Warning Third Offense: Friday ISS Second Offense: Administrative Detention Subsequent Offenses: Friday ISS	Old, Sexual, alcohol	Age - Over 65s, Behavioural Addiction - Alcohol, Gender - General	3/306	0.98
Things not aloud among girls (to wear) ShortsSpaghetti StrapsSkirtsTank tops Crop tops Tube tops Shirts that show collar bones Boys dress code: Nothing	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/26	3.846

I go to a private school where once every two weeks we have a dress up day or a sweats day and every Friday we have a jeans day. We also have to wear a uniform every non special dress day. School colors are yellow , white and navy. we can wear those colors in shorts, pants, skirts and collared shirts! Our collared shirts and sweatshirts can't have designs or logos on normal days and must be of school colors. Our shorts and skirt have to be of school color and to our knees because they are distracting if they aren't! We also can't dye our hair crazy colors or get excessive piercings (I broke both those rules because they aren't in the handbook, they might be adding them in because of me). Also on dress out days we can't show our shoulders and shorts just be to our knees. If you have any rips in your pants you will be sent home immediately. My teacher once told me that it looks trashy and our school is trying to keep a classy image!	Crazy, Yellow	Ethnicity - Asian (East-China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam), Nationality - Chinese, Nationality - Japanese, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	4/182	2.198
Seeing a woman's cleavage or a woman/man's thighs (esp. upper), is not the end of the world, but neither is witnessing a burglary, experiencing verbal abuse (without threats of physical violence) or twisting your foot thrice in the same day - but I would not advise anyone to pursue these things or to call them good/neutral when they are clearly not. On the other hand burglary and verbal abuse is clearly evil, twisting your foot painful. As such pimping yourself as a harlot (visually) is disgraceful and walking .ornography hence evil. I detest such people that justify this vile thing. If you can justify .orn you can justify skimpy dressing (for either gender ). If you cannot justify .orn you are foolish to think you can justify skimpy dressing. This is nothing about distraction alone (while it plays a part) but about being lustful (keep that in your private property, the world is not your bathroom or house for that matter). You are being an attention-seeker by dressing this way. Everyone needs to grow up one day - you are not a baby forever. Sorry not sorry - civilisation - rules are necessary in one.	Gender, Harlot, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Gender - Female sexuality, Gender - General	3/194	1.546
Laci is Thot Nobility. We must destroy her before its too late	THOT	Gender - Female sexuality	1/12	8.333

Being completely fair, all human bodies are inherently sexual . It is how we reproduce. So yes, girls are sexual , but yes, so is everyone else, and balancing what is or is not a healthy response to that sexuality can't really take place if the central tenant is anathema. You kinda touched on that, but I feel like that's a big point that needs making. This same mechanic goes into the "debate" around public breastfeeding. There are lots of women outraged over the "sexualization of breasts" but part of what's cool about boobs is that they're both sexual and nourishing. They feed babies and titillate partners. That's cool, and not something that should be diminished or ignored when we talk about breasts. Our responses need to rise to meet the biological truth, and at all possible turns, we should be operating based on biological truth.	Sexual	Gender - General	3/144	2.083
I'm convinced that naturism would do the world a lot of good, and that schools, being authoritarian and tax-funded instead of voluntary institutions, come with all the problems associated with those characteristics. Some of the comments made to girls mentioned in this video are distasteful even by authoritarian standards in "free" societies. That said, something has puzzled me about the "dress code is sexist" controversy.I used to be a substitute teacher. The dress code was the same for men and women with PERHAPS (I'd need to go back and look) low necklines if the woman is buxom. Before I became more freedom-conscious I enforced dress codes on both sexes. The fact that women choose to break the dress code more often than men doesn't mean that the school is targeting women. There is a weird difference in standards when it comes to breasts, though: even though technically against dress code, it seems breasts are often given a pass when if a male or female has gluteal cleavage showing, that's prohibited. I remember seeing another teacher at a grade school once showing a ton of cleavage. While I don't care about nudity—in fact it might actually be healthy for children to see a variety of bodies at different stages of development so they know what's normal, etc.—I do care about consistency.It was a bit uncomfortable for me to talk to females about the dress code.I think women's greater desire to show skin may be a subconscious evolutionary urge for women to use their body in order to attract a mate.	Weird, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/262	0.763
My school dress code:BOYS:-No tank tops-shoes must be white or black -no colorful socksGIRLS:-Shorts and skirts/shorts must be two inches above knees-No high tops or heels-must wear socks-socks must be two inches above ankles-no colorful socks-no tight shirts-no "spaghetti straps" or tank tops-no ripped jeans, leggings, jeggings, or skinny jeans-no exposed midriff, shoulders, chest, back, or thighs-no dangling earrings-no makeup-nails must be French tip, white, or clear (if painted)	Black, Skinny	Ethnicity - Black, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/85	2.353

Come and join me with the femengers, we fight all feminist and bs in this world and protect the sane. If you or anyone you know hate feminist as i do plz jojn us. You dont need powers just common sense and rational thinking call 1-800-femhate to join	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/48	2.083
These rules protect women why don't you understand that? I'm sure a sex offender will wait outside a school and look for girls who are exposing themselves	Sex	Gender - General	1/27	3.704
'Sexist dress code' What. Dress codes were made for appropriateness, not ' Sexism ' and just because boys wear short pants and girls wear skirts doesn't mean sexism . It (according to the opinion of the wearer) is just what they would enjoy.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/40	2.5
While I do see the overall points here, and the examples that were shown of the discrimination in the dress codes were definitely unfair occurrences, you do have to remember that men biologically are more visually driven, so overall we are more distracting to them than they are to us. I still don't think we should have those double standards in the dress codes though. I also don't think that anyone has ever been denying that women have sexual urges as well. I am also curious about the details on the example of girls getting in trouble for wearing shorts in the summer. It seems highly unlikely that the school would actually ban girls ever wearing shorts, so I'm assuming that it had to do with the length, and sometimes I see teenage girls wearing shorts with their butts hanging out and it makes me sad and scared for them. So that dress code policy sounds like it might actually make sense.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/162	0.617
It's true that most dress code rules are aimed at policing female fashions, even if gender neutral language is used. The effect of this is that girls wind up getting dress coded far more often than boys, and this proves the rules are biased against girls. This bias is a form of sexual discrimination that denies the girls an equal opportunity to education, which was supposedly banned by Title IX.	Gender, Sexual	Gender - General	2/70	2.857
I'm a teen they can't get rid of yoga pants what else am I going to stare at in the stupid lesson on gender disforia	Gender	Gender - General	1/25	4.0
I'm so lucky, my school does have a very light dress code and don't actually endorce it. However my school is very gender , sexuality, race and all forms of Human equality and fight against again the homophobia racism and sexism	Gender, Homophobia, Race, Racism, Sexism	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General	5/39	12.821
they kinda are offensive to everyone saying girls are sexual objects and guys can't control themselves	Sexual	Gender - General	1/16	6.25

And some boys arent even attracted to certain girls. Like weird girls, fat girls, etc. And the tall ones always get dresscoded. The long fingers are terrible!	Fat, Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/27	7.407
A feminazi that cares?? Am I dead.Edit: oh I was wrong A Nazi ...	Feminazi, Nazi	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Gender - Female intelligence	2/14	14.286
Forget school shootings, molestation, abuse , bullying, drug abuse , alcohol abuse. But some people not liking being told to stop being hoes. It's a tragedy	alcohol	Behavioural Addiction - Alcohol	1/26	3.846
When I'm at school I'm in 8th grade we wear uniform and there boys stare at girls private parts so uniform isnt really doing anything because the super skinny girls where the super little collared shirts and they also wear the little skirts that don't even reach were its supposed to and on a non uniform day they wear stuff grown women would wear I really don't understand my school tho because I know they can wear whatever they want but I'm in 8th grade those girls wear push up bra's that's just leading bad stuff if you know what I mean.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/102	0.98
I am in elementary school and this happens to me. It's so unfair it's not my fault that I feel confident and boys wanna be insecure. Of coarse if a girl looks or hits on a boy we get sent to detention. Come on I came here to learn not get criticized about my choice to wear comfortable shorts on a hot summer day. It is telling me A YOUNG PERSON that I should be ashamed of my body and that if a boy is out of control it's all my fault. I completely agree with you.	Coarse	Social Class - Working class	1/97	1.031

Schools are truly sexist, why should woman have to cover up? It's sexist for them to think that way, it's sexist for teachers to believe boys are always attracted a yoga pants. Jesus christ, like wow.Also kids are divided in elementary school by "Boy, girl" because apparently boys and girls don't talk to eachother, uh, sexist alert! Other forms."Go sit next to a quiet girl!" "The girls are always quiet!" "Boys, i congratulate your for singing about your heart; and feelings."We need to stop this!StopSexism!	Woman	Gender - General	1/89	1.124
Lol I'm pretty sure schools dont have problems about gay dudes jizzing in the locker rooms	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/16	12.5
the only reason women have to where revealing outfits is so boys don't get boners and have to deal with embarrassment empathize try empathizing with someone other than a lesbian or tranny .	Lesbian, Tranny	Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality, Sexual Identity - Transexuality	2/32	6.25
Once in third grade I changed schools so I could live with my dad. I was told no leggings. We chose a new school. Leggings are all I really have and I feel best with them, they feel amazing!If a boy is distracted he should be yelled at, not me. I wear leggings boy gets distracted by leggings I get yelled at. Doesn't seem right? Does it?. There isn't really crazy rules for boys,so when you prevent men from wearing leggings and tank tops and tight shirts then we'll talk.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/92	1.087
Yeah I agree with Laci here. Anybody should be able to wear what they want no matter what gender they are	Gender	Gender - General	1/21	4.762
At my school they make us put on old , dirty clothes someone else wore if they find 'distaste' with our dress. And what's even worse is a boy in my class thinks that it's okay because girls are inappropriate. What in the name of mashed potatoes is going on here? Things like this cannot be legal	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/56	1.786
Why do boys like big lumps of fat on my chest?	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/11	9.091

Girls should be allowed to wear whatever they want.The problem is society sexualising them which leads to these dumb dress codes,like no shorts in the summer when it's boiling hot come on!!!!	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/32	3.125
Dress code isnt sexist. This is the most bullshit I have ever seen. As a guy, I cant wear a sleeveless shirt. As a girl, you cant wear a spaghetti strap. Problem? I dont see one anywhere. And about the shorts and the skirts, if guys wore shorts that comes up to like an inch away from their waist, we would be dress coded too. And all this stuff about girls not being able to show cleavage? I cant have the tip of my dick hanging out of my pants either. Theres no sexism here, just a bunch of whining idiots with feeling they dont want challenged or hurt.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/109	0.917
When i have a son, I am going to teach him that he can be friends with women, and that women are not sexual objects!	Sexual	Gender - General	1/25	4.0
Saying everyone is distracted at that age is one of the most common sense thing I've heard. It doesn't matter what guys or girls wear, chances are someone is distracted by someone! There was a guy in one of my classes, I thought he was hella cute. He showed up fully clothed every day. Didn't stop my mind from wandering cause he was there!Dress codes are obscenely stupid.	Age, Common	Age - General, Social Class - Working class	2/69	2.899
Because the bare shoulders of a female middle schooler shouldn't cause young boys to be unable to keep it in their pants. Because the bra straps of a preteen shouldn't cause a 40 year old married man with two daughters to feel uncomfortable. Because a boy's education is more important than a girl's. Because one square inch of skin means that boys are unable to learn due to extreme sexual urges. Because taking a girl out of school to change tells her that a boy has more of a right to an education than her.	Old, Sexual	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/95	2.105
You have some hypotheses, like how these dress codes cause boys to see women in a purely and unconditionally sexual way, but do you have any evidence to support it? This is a legitimate question, is there any known correlation between exposure to dress codes and views of other people?	Sexual	Gender - General	1/50	2.0
I dont find that girls' clothes distract males in school, but rather outside in a less safe environment. They could be raped or whatever because dumb thirsty guys. This is what you guys may call rape culture. I really think that the dress code should be applied for other reasons. Such as creating a professional look.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/56	1.786

The only rules at my school is if you wear a tank top, it needs to be at least as thick as two of your fingers. There is also a rule where shorts must be as long or longer as your finger tips but nobody really does that and we wear shorts the size of underwear anyway.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/57	1.754
I'm lesbian , and I have to strip in the changing room with other girls...cute, other girls.....I can control myself. Why can't others!!!	Lesbian	Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	1/22	4.545
Yeah, you're right. Nobody should tell women what to wear. Yoga leggings highlights your cheeks and toe. I always wach feminist Titty Parade, before that I had to take women to dinner, now it's there in plain sight. Please feminst go Full Nude Parade! If all women were feminist we would close the strip bars and ho houses!	Ho, Nobody	Age - Youngsters, Gender - Female sexuality	2/58	3.448
maybe it's because I'm a single father of a young girl but I'll be handling her dress code myself thank you very much. the school has nothing to worry about	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/30	3.333
If I, a man, were to wear short shorts in school, I would get in just as much, if not more trouble than a woman .	Woman	Gender - General	1/25	4.0
Men can run around with their shirts off, why can't females do the same ? That's woman hating.	Woman	Gender - General	1/18	5.556
They target girls because girls are usually the one wearing tight pants and short shorts not sexism	Sexism	Gender - General	1/17	5.882
I'm thinking a lot of people that agree with the dress codes and get defensive just don't want to know the truth about it.They would rather pretend it's for other reasons because well it's kinda screwed up.Especially when you think about elementary school.The boys arn't at that age yet so who's being "distracted"?	Age	Age - General	1/53	1.887
Im high-functioning autistic with sensory disposition/sensory issues that were properly diagnosed in my senior year of High school (florida medical system SUCKS).I never understood why they would send me home simply because my shorts are too short. Having short shorts is LESS distracting then an me having an Autistic meltdown because of Sensory issues. Especially when you take into consideration that back then an Austictic meltdown for me included A.)crawling under tables and chairs to 'escape' B.) screaming, yelling, animal noises C.)erratic, panicked/jerky and movements D.)Stimming; as well as a variety of other things because I had no other coping methods.	Senior	Age - Over 65s	1/102	0.98
It distracting to the boys you know who are at that age .	Age	Age - General	1/12	8.333

U r gay	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/3	66.667
For everybody, I am a man and I say dress codes are a imbecility in it's highest level. Your appearance means nothing to the world, your action is what matters. "Modesty" is another word for conformism or sexism . Islam preaches "modesty" in dress, and look what they do... And about jobs, what if they work on the beach, or in a very informal ambient? All these rules, for nothing . Riot, rebel, crash the system till one day they will look at you with surprise mixed with anger, seeing all what they believe as "moral" was just a waste of time	Nothing, Sexism	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/100	3.0
In my school they separate the boys an the girls the boys get lectured about women aren't sex objects and how to treat a woman with respect get and lectured about the dress code but it doesn't really important in my school well it is but u know .....	Sex, Woman	Gender - General	2/49	4.082
i hope people know guys have dress codes as well with no skinny jeans, muscle tees and no tank tops. now distraction is a real thing yago pants show off ur butt a main reason y some women i know wear them.and showing cleavage is equally as distracting, if u combine those in high school where maturity leclers are basically nonexistent in young teenage boys you will find out they wont focus on whats being taught if theres a girl with alot of cleavage and a big butt wearing yoga pants. But same goes for young teen females with a musclur guy in a tight tanktop and skinny jeans showing off his penis. its a two way street	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/118	1.695
I don't think people understand. Yes, students should not be able to wear whatever they want, but they also shouldn't be restricted because they might be a "distraction". At my school, you get dress coded if your bra straps are shown. Then, if you're not wearing a bra, you get sent home for inappropriate behavior. Why is it such a big deal for people to know that you wear a bra? My best friend is a guy, and he's gay . He wears crop tops to school, and he doesn't get dress coded. Instead of over sexualizing students, people should learn to except that all bodies are natural. Clothing is NOT an excuse for harassment by anyone.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/116	1.724
OF COURSE WOMEN BODIES ARE MORE SEXUAL THAN MEN'S!Do you even think?Female bodies look waaaaay better than male bodies.Dude....what is this video? I wasted 5:30 mins of my life.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/32	3.125

Only straight men and gay females think female bodies look better, but straight women and gay men prefer men's bodies	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	4/20	20.0
That's why we should have all students from pre-school to 12th grade, wear school uniforms. Wear the same clothes. That way you can't condemn one sex over the other. Have everyone wear pants with the colors of:white, khaki, or black . Everyone wears the same kind of shirt with color schemes of: white, gray, or black . Students can not wear white shirt with white pants or black shirt with black pants. No skirts. Shorts are allowed as long as it is within certain length to the knees. You're at school to learn, not look sexy, not pick up boys or girls. You want to look sexy, do that on your own time at home or outside of school. This not solves the problems of dress code violations, but also makes everyone even and equal. No one can judge others for the way they look as it is evident that females primarily do that to other females or males. Males are guilty of it too but it's found that females are the main problem with judging others for what they wear or look. Why should people conform to dress codes? Because in the work force, some companies actually have you wear uniforms or suits. So wearing uniforms in schools prepares kids for this as well. You're welcome	Black, Sex	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	5/215	2.326
Lol because there is no such thing as gender ... right?	Gender	Gender - General	1/10	10.0
Catcalling is a sexual comment. Yes a compliment is said by a mature person. But, that shouldn't go against school code. If one guy does do catcalling, don't blame the entire school . .	Sexual	Gender - General	1/33	3.03
So I'm against unnecessary dress codes and have nothing but unfounded anecdotes, how can I turn this into a feminist issue?Oh right now I remember: just wave that victim card and blindly assert sexism . Meteor Hits Earth, Women Most Affected.	Nothing, Sexism	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/41	4.878
But uniforms are orderly, they show moral as well, but I do agree that wearing what you want (specific to your gender ) is good.	Gender	Gender - General	1/24	4.167
Men can wear shorts. Nobody said anything about that	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/9	11.111

This comment is stupid. Boys also wear shorts in hot weather. It has nothing to do with gender , only how much heat tolerance the individual has.	Gender, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/26	7.692
Did you just assume my gender !!!!	Gender	Gender - General	1/6	16.667
Yeah right. Girls just break the dress code more often. How often do guys walk around with their dicks hanging out? Compare that to how many times you see a woman with her boobs hanging out.	Woman	Gender - General	1/36	2.778
Guys in the comments assuming that 10 and 11 year old girls are explicitly wearing shorts for their attention is why this topic needs to be talked about more. I was dress coded in SK for wearing a dress that went past my knees because it had spaghetti straps. I was 4! Do you think my four year old self was just trying to get attention from boys? I have big breasts, and at my school we have uniforms, so we don't have to have crazy dress code standards, and still girls are targeted by teachers and vice principals even when the uniform has not been altered in any way despite the fact that boys sag their pants super low yet they don't get dress coded. You say dress codes are in place to prepare you for the workforce, but is sagging your pants mid-thigh workplace attire?	Crazy, Old	Age - Over 65s, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/147	2.041
Wait I have one more thing to add the reason why schools have dress codes is so when young people grow up between the ages 12-21 release hormones which attract the opposite sex which can be triggered more if there is revealing clothing i.e yoga pant and "shorts" that are 2 inches down the waist. Triggered xD	Sex	Gender - General	1/57	1.754
I grew up with a school uniform and agree with that. But surely the onus (blame) can't be all put on girls. Girls should be able to show collarbones and shoulders and boys and girls should be allowed to dress exactly the same. It's CRAZY how schools and our culture mixes all these things up!	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/55	1.818
I love this woman .	Woman	Gender - General	1/4	25.0
Administrators are giving girls dress inspections! That is creepy. At my old school the teachers would physically lift up are skirts to check we had on the mandatory green underwear.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/30	3.333

I was forced to change because my pants were too tight. I don't understand the schools hatred towards skinny jeans	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/20	5.0
what a spastic poo jabber! Keep blubbering on, luckily feminism is it in its last legs. And you're to thank. Cheers bab.	Spastic	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/22	4.545
You're either lying or 80 years old , and even then you're probably still lying.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/14	7.143
Just like how people claim that it's racist to arrest black criminals.....	Black, Racist	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	2/12	16.667
Cue the terrible soundtrack, now, spew sanctimonious fem jargon from your crazy brain.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/13	7.692
dear people..laci green does NOT blame or hate men....She talks about the problems that women go through and how the world is being sexist towards women. And sometimes, men have to face sexism too. She believes in equality. I doubt that you paid attention to what was she saying in her video	Sexism	Gender - General	1/52	1.923
lmao, but I thought revealing clothes objectified women? so it's empowering when women do it, but when a fictional woman (like in video games) it's objectification?	Woman	Gender - General	1/26	3.846
I got sent home once for wearing a dress over leggings. The dress was too short, so that's why I put black leggings under it. You could not see anything, everything was covered, and there is nothing specifically stated in the dress code saying I couldn't wearing leggings under dresses. My principal told me a classmate of mine complained that my leggings were too tight, and told my teacher, so she sent me to the principal. Then, the principal told me that if I put pants under the dress, it would be fine. Okay, SO WHAT THE HELL IS THE DIFFERENCE? I couldn't call my parents because they were both at work, so no one could come and bring me clothes to change, so my principal sent me home. Must humiliating thing that ever happened to me, and I thank my lucky stars every day that I'm not in high school anymore.	Black, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black	2/152	1.316

She's right. Our schools are so sexist. I was wearing my MCR shirt with pair of shorts and I was dress coded even though my apparel met all dress code guidelines. Then here comes a guy, pants hanging to his knees, skimpy muscle shirt, nothing is said. So I'm making signs to explain that girls' bodies aren't so sexual in my next YouTube video. Make sure to check it out.	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/69	2.899
emma, in the " old days" men said that about a woman's ankles, because that is all they were allowed to see! And in some Arab countries, women are still not allowed to show ankles under any circumstances at all. Much less their face, head, shoulders, body, nothing . That's why they are imprisoned in "burkas." It's absolutely insane.	Nothing, Old	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters	2/57	3.509
omg me and my friend did the same thing. He walked up to me and said damn girl thats a fine ass shoulder u got there mind if i see the other one. Hes gay so it was so much funnier.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/41	4.878
when i was a freshman i was on my way back during the break between a lunch and be lunch (high school total student body of 2-3k kids at the time, my first year there they added on d lunch). two boys walked up to me, herded me out of the sight of cameras, and assaulted me. i managed to get away and tell my boyfriend at the time before he went to JEL, and when i told my parents they called the school and demanded a conference with a dean. the first thing the dean asked was "what were you wearing?" i was wearing pj's. PAJAMAS. sweats, a baggy shirt, a sports bra, and a jacket. i was on my period and sick because of it, and i was assaulted at the age of fifteen. i'm thankfully online schooled now. i don't know what would be happening to me in that school right now if i was still there.	Age	Age - General	1/159	0.629
I thinks guys Adam Apple is REALLY SEXY! They must cover that up right.	Apple	Ethnicity - Native-American	1/14	7.143
or how about your ass doesn't show out of your pants. there are shorts that ARENT 4 inches down from the waist. it's not sexism , it's self respect.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/28	3.571
The Idea that all men are sex crazed lunatics and can't control themselves. Gee, who started that notion?	Sex	Gender - General	1/18	5.556

im a guy, but not the type that stares. I think its kinda dumb to do it. she said that boys only stare. i dont know where she went to school, but at mine all the girls stare at the guys. if we both do it, whats the problem?	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/49	2.041
this chick needs to check her white privilege	Chick	Gender - General	1/8	12.5
one of the major 'side effects' of yoga pants in camel toe. r u saying that it OK for underage girls to have their bits and pieces hanging out? if a guy or girl is 18 or older and want to show off their goods they are adults and that choose is theirs. but children doing that is a bit on the creepy side. recently I saw a girl who probly 12 or 13 wearing yoga pants and sitting with her legs open which left nothing to the imagination about what her privates looked like. she was also smiling at all the guys walking by no matter there age . are the guys walking by to blame for this or is she? this is one of the many reasons that dress codes for young girls exist. there are laws against child porn so why can't there be rules about children exposing themselves?	Age, Nothing	Age - General, Age - Youngsters	2/151	1.325
Sooo what you're saying is girls at the age of 11-14 should dress up as prostitutes and might be attacked by pedophiles? Great idea!	Age	Age - General	1/24	4.167
Honestly, coming from a male, the dress code can be so unfair. There's guys that wear shirts with no sleeves and the arm home things go alllll the way down to their probably belly button, and then some girl wears a shirt only just kinda showing her belly GETS SENT HOME! School dress code rules is so dumb .	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/58	1.724
Nobody wants to see your nasty ass armpits, wear a fucking shirt	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/12	8.333
I'm getting sick of this supposed yoga-pants sexism . I think I will get some yoga pants and leggings to convince you that men would not be allowed to wear them either.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/31	3.226
Ok laci I apologize for having the male sex organ. there you go, you happy?	Sex	Gender - General	1/15	6.667
If anything, school is there for you to learn about other things, not just specific subjects. This includes learning that there are places that you will have to follow a dress code. You can't wear inappropriate clothing to school, weddings, funerals etc. Nothing sexist about it. Juat common curticy.p.s. sorry for any bad spelling, english is not my first language	Common, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Social Class - Working class	2/62	3.226

So, systemic sexism ? Here we go again with another term that expresses the existence of something that cannot be proven due to its definition.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/24	4.167
our school put a new dress code into place and within 3 days revoked it because of a petition that was started and outrage was spread all over social media. our school is know for being liberal and accepting but our administration is so fake. They put the old dress code back in place just to shut us up (we are still going ahead with the petition) because the old dress code is basically the same thing just more summed up instead of specific (like saying that ladies had to wear undergarments) 80 of the dress code was and still is directed at women. We are not backing down. our schools doesn't get to pride itself on being liberal and accepting when it is all an act!	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/127	1.575
Hun	Hun	Nationality - German	1/2	50.0
Yeah but men also have strict dress codes. men at work places, like schools, are ALWAYS expected to wear suits. women can wear anything as long as it covers shoulders and toes (for some weird reason)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/36	2.778
at my middle school the 8th graders and we have a dress code.So one day all the 8th grade girls wore short shorts and tank tops,and the boys being the dumb stacks of flesh that they are tried to act like them so the boys rolled up there shirts sleeves and as soon as yhey got in the cafeteria they were draged out by there collers and were sent to the office so i f anything guys have it worse	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/80	1.25
My school's dress code didn't gender the rules, i'm gonna go out on a limb and say that most schools don't	Gender	Gender - General	1/21	4.762
Don't you realize that Boys have sexual hormones so they can't help with certain behaviors?	Sexual	Gender - General	1/15	6.667
Well girls have sexual desires as well and you don't see them saying "oh I can't control myself because of my hormones" if anything women have more hormones because of menstruation	Sexual	Gender - General	1/31	3.226
One thing she didn't say that should be mentioned is that in most schools boys can show all of their underwear and NOTHING IS DONE but the SECOND a girls shirt slips or moves (sometimes by guys unwantedly touching them) and a shoulder or bra strap is shown the GIRL is dress coded	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/53	1.887

Musa Maka Well at my school, nobody can wear sleeveless shirts with straps less than an inch, and girls can wear leggings so long as they wear shorts or a skirt over them. Also, they allow short shorts if your hands don't go below the pant legs.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/47	2.128
i honestly think youre lying to feed your agenda. frankly, at my school, more boys get in trouble for low-riding. girls get in trouble too, but boys do too. if we cant show our underwear then girls shouldnt get to wear fuckin booty shorts, which is not that far from underwear. and ive never met a teacher who said specifically "you'll distract the boys". i heard, "you'll distract someone." many girls like the woman body, if you pull a girl out of class for looking risqué, thats so NOBODY will be distracted, not just boys. low-riding for boys is a big distraction too, i agree with the dresscode for that. it distracts everyone, not just girls. we're at school to learn, not to express ourselves. thats for college, hun . and in life, you have to dress like youre sophisticated and serious about your job. the uniforms men have to wear to work are way more uncomfortable than what a woman wears, if you work an office job or anything of that nature.	Hun, Nobody, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Nationality - German	4/172	2.326
Lkwnineteen XD dude, unless that person had a weird birth defect, you wouldn't be able to see boobs through a skirt lol	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/22	4.545
she's a copy/paste regressive, and she wants to see us living back in the bronze age or a 1984 esque society :p not much to see here	Age	Age - General	1/27	3.704
If a girls body isnt sexual , If i grabbed a random girls boobs or thighs what would it be? Sexual harrassement? Are they only sexual when its most convenient?	Sexual	Gender - General	3/29	10.345
Dress codes are there for a reason and without them; we would have a lot of skin and other body parts showing. I agree with that. However, boys also have to deal with sexist dress code. If a boys shows up in a skirts and girly top; how long do you think he will be sent home or be suspended? There's even a school in Montreal who states that girls can not wear pants (I am not talking about school with uniforms; some of them let the choice for girls to have pants). So boys have it just as hard as girls in that department; they also have to wear clothes in a strict manner: no shirts with logos on it or must wear black proper shoes and no sneakers. However, rules are rules and when you break them, you have to pay the punishment.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/145	0.69

care to give some examples of professional sports that women cant play? they can take part in MMA, football/soccer, olympics, tennis, swimming, womens rugby, womens basketballas for men and women getting paid differently, if a man and woman do the same job they get paid the same and if they arent because of laws that are in place they can do something about it to make sure they get the correct pay, meaning if a woman is getting less pay it means her job is paid less than the job the man does meaning her job is different MMA [LINK] footballers [LINK] rugby [LINK] equal pay act [LINK] but if you think im wrong feel free to do some research and back up your claims	Woman	Gender - General	2/126	1.587
Bucky these issues has nothing to do with how we do things in the west..	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/15	6.667
Disabler well said, they're feminists cause they project their terrible decisions and blame men cause they have nothing worthwhile to contribute to society	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/23	4.348
the wage gap doesn't exist anymore, it has been debunked so many times. It is the average earnings of EVERY man and EVERY woman .google it	Woman	Gender - General	1/26	3.846
Laci, nobody wants to see girls bellies, booties,or boobs. Its not right. They have rules for a reason	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/18	5.556
your obviously confused, EVERYONE wants to see those parts (except for straight females or gay men)	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/16	12.5
Nicole Valero Because girls have more wardrobe options, and a lot of those options show more skinThere is no sexism m8	Sexism	Gender - General	1/22	4.545
sexualization of men and woman are perfectly healthy and natural . Hell it we wouldn't be alive if we didn't.	Woman	Gender - General	1/20	5.0
so boys finding woman sexy and there natural sexual desires is disrespect?	Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	2/12	16.667
P.S when is Laci going to re-name her channel Sex Negative. As that more accurately describes what she pushes.	Sex	Gender - General	1/19	5.263
That's so weird	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/3	33.333

..... No school wants their students image to be sloppy and ghetto. This is nothing sexual , it's the school thinking about their image....	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/23	8.696
I'm transgender ( girl born boy) and I went to school with makeup (eye makeup bc my fam doesn't know) and I got sent home bc I had that on	Transgender	Sexual Identity - Transexuality	1/30	3.333
What makes you think you are a girl and not just a gay fabulous boy?	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/15	13.333
Sam Moore Girls can't be trapped in a mans body. You are either super gay , super lesbian , or just straight.	Gay, Lesbian	Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	3/20	15.0
Joshua Labrada so now ripped jeans are "ghetto"? next thing is young thug being gay because he wears dresses	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/19	10.526
Sarahnewks "boys aren't held to the same standard" and neither are girls, hence you can scream sexism when you're given a dress code. What do guys have to wear again? Oh right, pants and shirts. Some of the things a lot of girls wear, even underrage, will have them accused of being creeps if it were switched.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/57	1.754

My friend wore a males shirt and she got dress coded since and this is what our principal said, "it's inappropriate to wear a man's shirt. Plus they don't even have shorts that are long enough in stores but at our school we're not allowed to wear the opposite gender . Guys aren't even allowed to wear pink.	Gender	Gender - General	1/57	1.754
See, the dress code is especially tricky because girls have different body types, you know?Bigger breasts or butts or curves or whatever can make it harder to find things to wear that we feel comfortable in.Meanwhile the skinny peeps and the short peeps that haven't developed in those ways can virtually get away with a lot of violations since there isn't a "figure/distraction" there to be sexualized.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/69	1.449
not as butthurt as woman	Woman	Gender - General	1/5	20.0
ConnerLuckz if your a feminist and your a man its similar to being a black person in the KKK	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/19	5.263
ConnerLuckz I agree but feminism is more rights for woman than men	Woman	Gender - General	1/12	8.333
ConnerLuckz Because I have been, and have seen other men be assaulted by members of the public for defending themselves from a woman because "men shouldnt hit women"	Woman	Gender - General	1/28	3.571
ConnerLuckz so why do feminists go on about the patriarchy and solely womens rights and then claim to be about helping both genders when they dont do a single thing to help men?	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/33	3.03
+xXSolar xBladexX9 there is nothing wrong with being feminist You believe in equality and you want both genders to be respected. Anti feminist and femanzi are the problem	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/28	3.571
Lauryn Hendry Answer me this, does feminism teach to focus on womens problems, and that men are the cause of these problems, eg. patriarchy	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/24	4.167
It's the old women that are butt hurt or jealous of the perky young girls.Schools are run by 80 women but though Laci's sexist mind she finds a way to blames men anyway.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/34	2.941
Info believe the older teachers in the school are pretty sexist but the dress code is as wellThey're pretty much tell young girls their just sexual objects	Sexual	Gender - General	1/28	3.571
I can come up with a list too but would that change anything? I don't even see it so much as how can we help this gender . It's more like how can we make this situation better for everyone. I see it as helping people in general.	Gender	Gender - General	1/47	2.128

Because more women do the rallies and men don't come no ones stopping anyone to come it's a movement for anyone to join and if your a feminist guy for equality you can do rallies to for your gender and all your gender out to and try to change things to feel more equal and not restricted	Gender	Gender - General	2/57	3.509
Why don't you consider it equality women are trying to fix problems women have which is being treated like weak fucks or looked at as some sexual object and their bodies. It's equality to be seen as the same not as some toy to use. If men wanna join and write a poster with men problems they then do it feminist rallies are for everyone	Sexual	Gender - General	1/65	1.538
I'm saying for everyone to be equal you help both genders out even if you aren that gender Equalitarian and feminism is the same thing for me and many others. But it seems the only ones to actually start rallies are those who identify as feminist as the equality one.	Gender	Gender - General	1/50	2.0
Joshua Labrada you punched someone in the face of course you're gonna get in trouble either way has nothing to do with sexism	Nothing, Sexism	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/23	8.696
I didn't say it was sexism that I got in trouble for breaking the rules, like the girls saying sexism because they got punished for breaking the rules.	Sexism	Gender - General	2/28	7.143
Lauryn Hendry Men have one too. It's not sexism .	Sexism	Gender - General	1/9	11.111
So if I murdered someone, is that not breaking the law at all? What in the world of all insanity!?!?! It's not sexist. I'm pretty sure a school does not want their image of students to be dressed like a slave, use excessive make up where you look like you are a 30 year old , ripped up clothing, half naked girls. They want their students to be moderate and bathed correctly. The dress code is not directly towards any sex , it applies to EVERYONE in or out on campus! A mans sexual parts are on their lower body, not on the top. People have a tit fetish.	Old, Sex, Sexual	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	3/107	2.804
Is it transphobic to kick a peeping tom out of a woman's restroom? Is it racist to arrest a black criminal that committed such horrible crimes? NO its not. It's not sexist to punish girls for breaking the rules that they specifically tell in a dress code. This is not because they think girls are sexual objects ( woman brought that ideal onto themselves) it's because they care about the image of their school.	Black, Racist, Sexual, Woman	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	4/73	5.479
This is a matter of money, and other things that a school find importance in! not anything to deal with gender or sexuality.	Gender	Gender - General	1/23	4.348

Joshua Labrada dude you just don't get it. You don't understand being restricted more and society looking down on you because of showing skin or being too confident with your body or not at all. The struggles a lot of girls have with dresses codes are really stressing. Not only is it a waste of money to get clothes you don't like but it's pretty sad to know that I can't wear shorts or show some shoulder even on a hot day because the law says it's distracting. It's really sexist because guys can do that and it isn't looked at so sexual or they aren't looked at as objects as much. Dress code isn't a law you don't have to follow it but the teachers will call you out if they don't like the clothing even if it's covering every inch or they are following the code. A girl had to change into shorts because they didn't want her wearing ripped jeans when so many guys do it and it's allowed. School dress codes is one of the main reasons why girls are so self conscious of their bodies and the clothes they wear	Sexual	Gender - General	1/195	0.513
Joshua Labrada maybe you should watch the video again because those people that have showed her photos of clothes and were told to not show off they're curves or called skanks is really common	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/34	2.941
xXSolar xBladexX9 Feminism is equality wait how old are you?	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/10	10.0
Rise upnow that's not my problem and it sucks yeah but more guys do not have to register. If a women doesn't comply that's on her. That's how your school is you haven't witnessed what over schools are capable of and the sexism that comes to be with the rules. Some school make guys cut their hair to a certain length. I know no guy that has been forced to register for service but chose to and guess what women also chose to many of them.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/85	1.176
wow so many judgemental butthurt fucks replying, all you said was wear what you want and its enough to trigger them . they are so insecure they get hurt with the idea of women(qnd even kids ) dressing comfortably for themselves . how can she not see that she's a sexual object? we have to tell her	Sexual	Gender - General	1/57	1.754
A girl in a public school should not be over sexualized for wearing comfortable attire. Like shorts on a hot day, or sweatpants. By telling a girl to go change her clothes, you are teaching her that showing her body is taboo and covering up is more important than her education. And it shouldn't be her fault if it is distracting a male. Teach the males not to over sexualize a woman 's body, and not that the woman is at fault for having that body type and being comfortable as she minds her own business getting educated.	Woman	Gender - General	1/97	1.031
so men should suppress there sexuality but woman should embrues there?	Woman	Gender - General	1/11	9.091

Wait, are you saying that my body showing, makes me a stripper, that my eleven year old shoulders and knees make me a stripper, ok	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/25	4.0
some people think because men and women are different and they are taught differently that, that is sexism	Sexism	Gender - General	1/18	5.556
+Unicorn Puppy You should talk to your friends,and tell your parents about it.Come in like that shirt and tell theachers why.Tell them about dress code sexism .	Sexism	Gender - General	1/26	3.846
That's not sexism it's just your school is corrupt like mine in our district there was a girl with autism who wore a tank top that was to small for her and then there was a girl who wore a skirt and got sent home. Also it's messed up because she broke my brothers glasses and he shoved her and she started crying so I walked up to her after school and punched her in the face	Sexism	Gender - General	1/77	1.299
Just gay and I'm making fun of someone's last name at the same time.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/14	14.286
Joshua Labrada "we will laugh at you" oh please boy you've got nothing better to do other than to sit all day forming part of the problemI'll laugh at you	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/31	3.226
Forming part of the problem? I'm actually am here to put logic into these woman supremacists groups. Which is in fact trying to do something about the problem (well if they were not so closed minded of course)	Woman	Gender - General	1/38	2.632
Marina And The Illuminati Feminism is a movement for equal rights. How is it sexualisation to tell people not to dress a certain way for their school to be a thing? It's the schools self image we are talking about. You woman brought this onto your selves! Girls going out sexualizing themselves, making the older people not want children to wear such inappropriate clothing that women have turned it into.	Woman	Gender - General	1/70	1.429
Feminism is not woman supremacy, this woman supremacy movement is nothing of feminism.	Nothing, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/13	23.077

Jacob Grafstrom gay men exist. And have some self control	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/10	20.0
Joseph LeForte then why be against girls showing breasts?They're not really sexual organs.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/14	7.143
Joseph LeForte most likely because bigger breasts are a sign of high estrogen levels and the woman is more likely to become pregnant.However, men have something called "CONTROL" so they don't get boners in public.	Woman	Gender - General	1/36	2.778
This has to be a joke... One is a school setting, the other is a "get naked and have sex " setting. That has to be the biggest example of straw man argument I've ever seen.	Sex	Gender - General	1/35	2.857
Can't wait for all dress codes for woman to be removed. Then I can call girls in for a 5 hour detention for a false reason, if ya know what I mean..... ==>) >—	Woman	Gender - General	1/34	2.941
Joshua Labrada Weirdo	Weirdo	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/3	33.333
Joshua Labrada I'm just saying...That was a weird thing to say...	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/11	9.091
Its true, girls are so oppressed. I had a raging boner at school one day and it was really uncomfortable to keep in my pants so I just whipped it out. Nobody said anything because I'm a boy. That same day at school a girls burqa fell off and she was executed on the spot. True story	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/57	1.754
Giordan Diodato Actually, big boobs is a sign of sexual maturity soooo	Sexual	Gender - General	1/12	8.333
Excuse me did you assume my gender im a non binary. XD jk im a male but why you assume I'm butthurt.	Gender	Gender - General	1/22	4.545

My school is like that because in 7th grade I got asked by a boy in my class why me and a friend I will call Emily why we don't wear short shorts and that we should cuz we have long legs and should show them off! Like, WTF?!?! Ur 13 years old ! And my schools uniforms for girls literally look like those sexy girl uniforms u see in movies so why can I wear only wear shorts that go down to my knees. We also need to wear big shirts if we wear leggings because our butts are distracting!!!! 10-14 year old girls butts are distracting?! WOW!!!!	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/108	1.852
My best friend was on her period and it leaked through her pants and she needed some tights to put under her pants I grabbed the wrong ones the were high cut so when I got there my friend asked for my pants I gave them to her and wore the tights I got lunch detention and after school detention and my principal said that "the boys would of looked at me wrong and want to have sex with me" I'm in 6th grade not one boy has looked at me wrong and in the winter I wear tights that show my butt more then those ever did and I told the teachers and the principal what happened and they said "that is her problem and should of went to the health teacher" then again my health teacher is a boy so yeah of course she would want to go there. My parents got so mad that they took me out of that school and the officer there who had to get me school grounds said he wouldn't and that they were over exaggerating.	Sex	Gender - General	1/184	0.543
Sexual objectification: Bad.Consensual sexual dressing: Okay.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/7	28.571
Yes, that is the sole purpose of these clothing items! It must be that they want to be attractive. Yes, yes.It has nothing at all to do with the weather tho. Uh uh. Nor does it have to do with the fact that they have HOOMAN bodies with HOOMAN fabric things that gives them HOOMAN comfort.Nah. It's just to look great mmhmmThat's what all girls want you knowI mean of course YOU know especially, being a girl and all, right?:DDDD k	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/86	1.163
Victoria J I understand that you are pissed off, but nothing in the world was ever solved with anger.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/19	5.263
As a 17 year old white male (not rapist), I CALL BULLSHIT!	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/12	8.333

You know, at my work place its basically school uniforms but it applies to both. White buttoned up shirt, tucked in with black belt, Tie of your choice as long as its appropriate, black dress pants and black dress shoes. Someone get me a feminist i need to figure out what logic they use to say this is sexist? Also the whole personal choice thing, guys dont get that. Most schools allow you to have a skirt or not, and most schools ive been to (MS-College) have people leave class for things that are distracting, and not just girls (guy came in with a banana suit). Seriously dress codes have been around for along time, why is now the time to argue about it? Because equality is what they want right? apparently not if they already get a choice before most guys do when it comes to the uniform (they usually allow a skirt or pants, while guys its pants only). Enough with the double standard if you want equality make it for both. Or rather, just make it Fing gender neutral, like my first example. Military does it, no one complains about it, except for maybe the morons who dont know it applies to both. *sigh modern feminism remember when it was equal rights for equal responsibility? where did that go?	Banana, Black, Gender	Ethnicity - Asian (East-China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam), Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	5/222	2.252
Boys get sent home for wearing trainers and their trousers too low. Maybe look at different perspectives before screaming sexism at anytime rules are applied to women.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/27	3.704
Hwy when you see those hotties it makes you want to womanise and just cut them down like the front lawn sex spree.Males are predictors and females are pray sexually speaking if you don't want to be torn keep the goodies covered or you'll get tricked and used.	Sex	Gender - General	1/49	2.041
Well, I'm 11, so a man wanting to have sex with me is a perverted pedophile.	Sex	Gender - General	1/16	6.25
Fiona McCann your right about that little miss.Take the advice of someone who cares, the time will come when you will become visually magnetic to boys and some men who are incapable of getting a grown woman .Dress in a respectable manner and you will be respected by most male you will be seen as more than someone to sleep with.And most importantly let me be the last strainger you communicate with on social media, cant trust anyone these days.You seem verybright kinda spunky.How you dress shows your character if you dress like everyone els your a follower and a drone if you dress skimpily your seen as easy and loose and not as being worth being taken seriously all they see is a b to use.I look at womens clothing hear shose how clean and neet they are if they are orderly etc.	Woman	Gender - General	1/149	0.671
this whole video was hearsay; i am really disappointed in you especially since you claim to be an educated woman . i tried to look up the instances you referred to and could not find anything online to substantiate ANYTHING you said.	Woman	Gender - General	1/41	2.439

Things is, girls mature sooner then boys and Ill bet you anything, most first sexual encounters for boys have been initiated by curious young ladies. Though this is anecdotal, I was constantly encouraged to touch and be physically playful and almost every male friend Ive had share similar experiences. Young girls become aware of their sexual appeal and the way boys are at an early age , so they use this to their advantage. Its basically training wheels for future encounters with men. Girls love being pursued and male attention, especially at a younger age when they are still extremely naive. Uniforms will not change that but will provide less tension between girls and boys. If it was acceptable for boys to wear revealing clothes, that too would be met with discipline. Which brings up the question, why would girls want to wear revealing clothing while boys dont? Its simple, girls love the dynamic and sexual appeal. Men are far more easily manipulated that way.	Age, Sexual	Age - General, Gender - General	5/164	3.049
another dumb fem talking out of her ass to make guys look bad.You realize that what you say is bullshit	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/20	5.0
I don't know if u know this laci but BOYS GOING THROUGH PUBERTY HAVE HORMONES and with those hormones boys are unlikely to control themselves girls have less hormones, but u wouldn't know because your a woman	Woman	Gender - General	1/37	2.703
+Bambi N now your assuming that I assume what a girl thinks, no I don't I know many girls who have said to me why are guys attracted to legs none of us girls are that's just weird . And I said if I was a girl I would think it wouldn't be dignifying to wear skimpy clothes. And why don't boys wear a one piece? Are u fucking with me? Boys don't wear one pieces because they aren't made for boys, when we are growing up boys are taught some things are girly and some things are manly one pieces are not manly.	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/103	0.971
+IlluminatiConfirmed I agree sexual harassment is messed up and hormones is no excuse, I'm talking mostly about staring which makes most girls uncomfortable and distracted.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/25	8.0
+Lauryn Hendry No testes, no opinion on testosterone causing sexual frustration.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/11	9.091
Omg, girls going to puberty too, why does nobody see that	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/11	9.091

Girls have sexual feelings too, sorry hun	Hun, Sexual	Gender - General, Nationality - German	2/7	28.571
That One Glabella sorry hun , we went over this in the first page of the comments...	Hun	Nationality - German	2/16	12.5
This is a legitimate and serious comment to which I'd appreciate a genuine response. In regard to high school girls in short skirts distracting the boys, you added the charge that "perhaps even male faculty" are distracted by the scantily dressed girls as well. Setting aside the power dynamic for a moment, while some high school girls are of legal age to date, the vast majority aren't. The idea that male teachers can't control themselves around teenage girls (and of course female teachers have no issue around male students to say nothing of male and female gay teachers) is massively offensive and contributes to the low percentage of teachers being male. Those of us who want to teach very young children are viewed as pedophiles and when we teach older grades we're just perverts who prey on female students. It isn't much better at the seventh grade level at which I teach. All I see when I look at female high school students are children. I'm pushing forty with a teenage daughter and the thought that I would desire girls her age is nauseating. High school girls are children and I'm amazed that you don't see anything wrong with accusing male teachers of being unable to control themselves around children. Children! That's incredibly wrong and makes it that much more difficult for us male teachers.	Age, Gay, Nothing	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	5/225	2.222
I've once went to school wearing a 4 finger width shirt in 90 degree weather and I was told to put on a hoodie. Because apparently shoulders are completely sexual . smh.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/31	3.226
»> So Laci if a girl any age went to school in a micro bikini that would be okay with you ? This means boys should be able to go to school in speedo ? Hell why not just send them to school nude ? Yet shaming men for man spreading is fine in your eyes ... I'm done with you , because you are just to stupid.	Age	Age - General	1/68	1.471

dress code for boys aren't even better boys hell in my school are not allowed to wear compression shirts or shorts, we can't wear any neck jewelry, certain kinds of hats are not allowed we're not allowed to be shirtless during PE(even if the class in all male) were not allowed to wear designer belts, no teeth jewelry, we are required to wear shirts under jerseys(allowed to be compression), if we have not belts we'll be give string to hold our pants up, no mid thigh shorts, we're not allowed to wear compression leggings(football leggings), no skinny jeans, not clothing items that are deemed to bizarre, excessive, or flashy. hell at my school the only reason that the girls get called out more is because they don't listen, the guys at my school we work to find a way around the rules to try and look a little fly.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/149	0.671
I would give solid arguments as to why your videos are bullshit and based off of nothing but wild feminazi assumptions, but then I realized you don't use good argumentations yourself. Instead, I'll go for the following comment:You're cancer. Feminism is cancer. Die in a fire.	Feminazi, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Gender - Female intelligence	2/47	4.255
Okay, so to clear a few things up, I AM A FEMINIST. and I WILL USE THE CAPS LOCK IF I WANT TO I believe women deserve to be equal with men. And we are slowly getting more and more rights. Hell, I bet soon all women by age 18 will need to be signed in to the draft!We can now get hired to different positions in the military, there is equal opportunity employment, etc.Now all you people who seem to think that feminists are bad, or pointless: even though we are BEGINNING to get more and more rights, we still aren't equal.Now, this video is on DRESS CODES. I understand thst decency is important, but schools are shaming women for wearing clothing that "doesnt suit their body type" and clothing that "makes their boobs look to big." and YOGA PANTS are NOT indecent. They show off your body shape, showing that you are confident with your body. And you must also take into account what clothing stores make. When you walk into a store, you see spaghetti strap tank tops, short shorts, etc. .. because thats whats "in" and its hard to find clothing thats "school appropriate" For men, you walk into the store, and practically everyrhing is school appropriate!!Society is SEXIST. Its the cold truth.And women are trying to fight for their rights that men already have!We are trying for equality.The people who are trying to keep us from equality are pretty damn heartless.	Age	Age - General	1/254	0.394
It's the patriarchy !!!! :P	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/4	25.0

wow how stupid can you be if someone is breaking the dress code no matter their sex they are sent home faces quit taking things that are contact list because you want someone to be sexist.	Sex	Gender - General	1/36	2.778
I wouldn't take anything she says seriously. Everything she says is either bullshit, feminist propaganda, or dumb shit she says to get people to watch her pathetic channel. I mean she says all this stuff without giving us any proff. The pictures she showed us could be from places with different dress codes or places that aren't even at a school at all. And all her examples of people having a problem could just be stuff she made up herself.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/80	1.25
U don't understand how difficult it is to go to a school where men disrespect u and tell u that u r a while for wearing shorts, or ur bra strap happens to be sticking out. Woman are special, and vital in this world, and it is rude and disrespectful for u to say that. Fuck off and go do something with your life.	Woman	Gender - General	1/64	1.562
Well it's true that nobody is special, but everybody IS unique, right?	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/12	8.333
+Anj1124 how difficult it is to go TO a school where men disrespect youDid you even read your own comment before commenting? I can't tell if your that dumb or that triggered	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/33	3.03
Libra Eevee Nothing is sad about this, it's just a nice reality check for plenty of people out there I hope. Can still be positive and stay optimistic despite the truth.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/31	3.226
Anj1124 u don't know how it is being called a rapist BC of ur gender . IF IT WERE NOT FOR MEN AND WOMEN, NONE OF US WOULD BE ON THIS PLANET. Please don't be a snowflake .	Gender, Snowflake	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Gender - General	2/36	5.556
Women are suppose to attract men. Little girls are suppose to dress modestly for a reason . A little girl has no place dressing like a woman . That's why in most religions women and little girls are required to dress a certain way. Plus it looks way more respectable	Woman	Gender - General	1/49	2.041
Not racist at all.	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/4	25.0

It was just that the dress codes were inherently sexist to one gender . That didn't mean she wanted to throw it out the window.	Gender	Gender - General	1/24	4.167
Nobody looks at a girls shoulder and pops a boner	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/10	10.0
"Male this... Male that..."I've worked in public schools for over 10 years and I've seen about a dozen cases of staff stopping and telling a girl to change her clothes or put on a shirt/sweater because it's revealing. And they've all been from female staff. Sure, maybe they were pawn of the patriarchy , but like slutshaming, this shit often if not moreso come from women.	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/66	1.515
U dumb hitches choose to dress like this	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/8	12.5
This is hypocritical. Feminists say that females shouldn't look like sex objects. You saying that it okay for girls to wear revealing clothing and blame boys and men for it just shows that 1st world feminists make a problem by calling something that not a problem "sexist" and blame it on boys and men	Sex	Gender - General	1/54	1.852
The thing I have a problem with the dress code us that they say we can't wear it because of the male gender is going to get horny. What the actual fuck? how are my arms going to make the male gender ejaculate? My school even made this one girl on her birthday change her dress because it was over the knee by a little bit.	Gender	Gender - General	2/66	3.03
Would you appreciate it if a Gay dude gawks at your junk? Probably not so don't do it to others.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/20	10.0

+ Emma Frost if i was dressed in such a way that my junk was showing or was wearing something that was designed to bring attention to my junk, just like low cut tops do for breasts and short skirts do for legs, then i wouldn't care if gay guys looked at me because even though i chose those clothes because i am comfortable in them they are still designed to show off that part of my body and as such i should expect people to look, basically, if you don't want to be looked at, don't wear clothes that bring attention to you. if someone wore a brightly coloured costume in public and complained that people were looking at them, you would think they were being stupid because of how the costume draws attention, well its the same with your clothes	Gay, coloured	Ethnicity - Black, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	3/142	2.113
We can wear short things without wanting attention. People should not be looking at our bodies no matter how revealed it is, it's ours. If we want to wear crop tops and shorts well heck let's do it. If someone wears a bright colored costume, let them be, they are doing whatever they want with it. We shouldn't expect looks because everybody should know by now that you don't have a say in what people are wearing.	Colored	Ethnicity - Black	1/77	1.299
woteveruk1 most women's clothes are designed to be overly sexual , sometimes its hard to find modest clothing. I, for one, can't seem to find shorts that aren't "short shorts"	Sexual	Gender - General	1/29	3.448
IlluminatiConfirmed that's precisely my point though, womens clothing is designed to draw a mans attention, so someone saying the woman bears no blame when she has chosen to wear those clothes is just dumb ,because there are other clothes you could wear that cover your body up rather than show it off, i've seen girls who are self conscious about their bodies do exactly thatand yeah i get it might be hard to find modest clothing but even so if you have chosen to wear something that is designed to draw a mans attention to you then you should accept that you are partly to blame for him looking and not try and put all of the blame on the manthat's reasonable isnt it?	Dumb, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/126	1.587
woteveruk1 its fine for men to look (so long as they don't make it obvious or creepy) all of us do it, its just life. When we find someone attractive, we look. But its when a man (or a women) crosses a line and does something inappropriate or illegal, such as harassment or sexual assault. You can't blame a women and what she is wearing for being a victim of assault. besides, even women who cover up are harassed and assaulted, (for example) I was wearing a sleeveless turtleneck and jeans one day, and a group of men decided they had the right to comment on my body, get in my personal space, and touch my hair without my permission (Kinda creepy, but not that big of a deal). Its never a victims fault for being a victim. and instead of yelling at girls for "not being modest", yell at the clothing designers.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/153	0.654

IlluminatiConfirmed i agree, its fine to look i also think its fine to approach a man or woman to ask them out,or even jsut to compliment them aslong as you accept the rejection and leave them alone if told to	Woman	Gender - General	1/40	2.5
IlluminatiConfirmed i agree it can sometimes come off as catcalling, and can freak men out as well as women, but in those cases i would say both parties are to blame,the catcaller is to blame for doing the catcall/and the person being catcalled is to blame for taking to so serious instead of just laughing it off as a compliment and ignoring it because if all it is is a catcall as you walk by and nothing more than that then there really is no harm to it and should just be laughed off	Freak, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/96	2.083
woteveruk1 egalitarianism is about everyone, its not about gender and we shouldn't make it about gender , is what I am saying. It would be unfair to everyone if feminists took it over considering that egalitarianism is not just about gender , but its also about equality of race , religion, sexualities, identities, and more. I feel like it would be unfair to make egalitarianism into a group about gender equality when its really for everyone who needs equality. Its not just about gender and I don't want to make it into that.	Gender, Race	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	6/90	6.667
+IlluminatiConfirmed i wasnt suggesting it was only about gender or that it should be only about gender and i also wasnt suggesting that you should take it over, in fact it amazes me that taking it over was a thought you hadwhat iu was suggesting first of all wasthat you move over to egalitarianism instead of being feminist to distance yourself from a cancerous groupand second, that with egalitarianism being about equality for ALL including gender equalitywhy do we need a group that cares ONLY about gender equality? why is a group focused solely only gender equality necessary when we have one that cares about equality for everyone INCLUDING the genders?	Gender	Gender - General	5/115	4.348
+LimboTraveler Because age determines intelligence? I'm 11, and I get most of this. (prepares spells)	Age	Age - General	1/15	6.667
Its called fucking puberty you know the thing when hormones cause the body to be more urged toward sex so yea it would be distracting for a 14 yr old in the middle of puberty to see a girl walking around in tight pants.	Old, Sex	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/44	4.545

whoa whoa whoalook I don't mind dress codes im not allowed to wear skinny jeans at school. also! not everyone is raised the same so in one home the boy/girl may think that they should be mean to the other or just give them full control. life is not equal you may try and i dont mind you can try and talk. to you want to see my dick through my jeans? cause I don't want to see yo was through your pants. If you wear clothing that reveals too much and you get flirty with a guy he may not take it so well and get kinda angry. not saying it's a woman's fault not saying it's a guys fault but life is life and guess what! this train of life don't stop for nobody	Nobody, Skinny	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/137	1.46
I'm not a feminist but I think there should be dress codes depending on the area and races of people at the school. It should also be applied for the TWO GENDERS of people that go to the school. I'm 16 and I'm in the middle of puberty and I can't control how my body works when I see someone at my school who may be exposing themselves. I'm pretty sure there are some Woman who feel the same, but I don't believe these regulations are sexist. If you don't like the policy's talk to someone at the school that you can trust or that could make suggestions to the superintendents. At this point I'm not sure anything I have written makes since but all I'm trying to say is that it's ok for both genders to have dress codes, and it is not sexist to the people affected. Also a little hippo reticle for you to show off your chest in half of your thumbnails if you think it's wrong. There are only 2 genders	Woman	Gender - General	1/176	0.568

I'd be inclined to believe that dress codes are sexist, if you could show me if a guy wore a short skirt with his ass(or other things) hanging out that he wouldn't be sent home as well. Both boys and girls are held to the same standards. Girls just cross those standards more often. And when boys do cross those standards, we don't talk about it because it doesn't fit the feminist narrative. I was sent home in high school for wearing a tank top. Girls wore tank tops all the time. But I was a tall and muscular guy, and it was seen as "distracting" when I did it. Where is my pulpit to cry sexism ? So yeah, I take it back. Girls and boys aren't held to the same standard. Girls are allowed MORE leniency than guys on average. Girls can typically wear spaghetti straps or tank tops to school, where as guys cannot. Yet a guy will still get punished for wearing short shorts, skirts, etc if he decides to dress like a girl. I work in an office now, and women wear sleeveless shirts and skirts as well as open toe shoes all the time. If I wore shorts, or a sleeveless shirt, I would be reprimanded for not dressing professional. THAT is sexist, as it can actually be shown to be differential treatment. Sending a girl home from school because she has a short skirt is not technically sexism , because it cannot be shown that there is differential treatment, because a boy wearing a short skirt or tight short shorts would be just as likely to be sent home. You can call the dress code stupid, but in most of these examples, they are not sexist.	Sexism	Gender - General	2/291	0.687
You're nothing more than a distraction. Please leave	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/8	12.5
It's my body I believe I should get to wear what I want. And if you personally don't like what I'm wearing then don't put it on your body... You shouldn't be able to make me wear something else, how can that honestly affect people so much that you can see my shoulders? It's not like I have nazi symbols tattooed on my shoulders	Nazi	Ideological and Political Identity - General	1/64	1.562
Lazy, I completely agree with you. Teaching kids how to dress properly isn't the teachers' job, it's the parent's. Teachers shouldn't tell children to dress differently, but just call the girl's PARENTS, order them to come pick up their underage hooker , and tell those parents their child is only welcome at school when it has learned how to dress properly.	Hooker	Gender - Female sexuality	1/60	1.667
SEXISM IS RAMPANT, THE RULES ARE SEXIST!!!!!!!!!!	Sexism	Gender - General	1/7	14.286
OH GOD IT MUST BE THE PATRIARCHY !!!!!!!!!!	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/7	14.286

thank you for making this video, i go to a middle school in a suburb of Cleveland Ohio. now my high school's dress code consists of a single simple rule. Which basically means at the high school we could wear whatever we want as long as we don't wear a shirt with swear words or that has drugs on it. but at the middle school, the dress code is over a page long with a good 90 of the list targeting just girls. out of all of the kids at my school, they only dress coded a boy 1 that I know of. he was a friend of mine, and this friend happened to have a hole in his jeans (on his knee) about a centimeter wide. and he got dress coded because he FELL on the CONCRETE where he ripped a VERY small hole in his jeans and this 12 year old boy got dress coded. and i'm not allowed to wear leggings, shorts that are deemed "too short, tank tops, and etc. which targets me more than boys. i'm just glad i've got my skinny jeans. and if boys (or girls) want to look at me, they'll find a way	Old, Skinny	Age - Over 65s, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/202	0.99
Well I'm really proud to be french ! Those dress codes are so stupid ! People need to learn to control themselves, not to blame girls saying that they are showing to much skin. And what's to much ?! In France, everybody can be topless at the beach and nobody cares and they see people with naked boobs. Everybody wears whatever they want at school as long as it's clothes and not just underwears or bikinis.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/76	1.316
In my school we have a strict dress code for girlsIt's funny cuz the idea behind it is the same idea behind why schools shouldn't have these double standers- it's that were more than a sexual image. We have a dress code because our teachers tell us we are more than a body, our body is something God gave us, and not to show off all of it to the world. Our sexuality should only be shared with important people. And when you are fully clothed, people don't look at your body, but raher at who you are as a person. I think it's so true.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/107	0.935
Your body is only for your partner and no one else, no cheating, no nothing , stay faithful and maybe our future could be pushed to the right direction.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/28	3.571
Local Defender but in the fact of 13 year old girls who shouldn't be having sex and im speaking of i want to wear shorts and a tank top today and not be sexualized becuae thats creepy to sexualize a child and i cant wear leggings to school becuse my body is sexual so i cant wear comfortable pants	Old, Sex, Sexual	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	3/59	5.085
Victoria J Regardless if you don't believe in another world, don't you think there is a point to life more than being sexy? Why does this world run around sex ?	Sex	Gender - General	1/30	3.333

JewishGirlRox Are you okay in the brain? Of course I don't think life is about being sexy. I'm not trying to be rude but are you insecure about yourself, super religious or both? When humans attract mates, sexualization influences their choice. It's perfectly natural. I don't think people should be ashamed of being sexy and confident (and yes, you can be confident without wearing revealing clothes but it makes some women feel confident without as much clothing. There's nothing wrong with that and if you truly think that, Pakistan or whatever place wears hijabs and burkas may be the place for you)	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/102	0.98
Your pretty much telling girls there gonna be looked at as sexual objects for wearing what they want	Sexual	Gender - General	1/18	5.556
Cut this bullshit dress codes are here for a reason fool. Dress codes should stay the same. They dont target women idiot women are more sexual then men obviously and its women who go around in short shorts and tank tops.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/41	2.439
Short shorts objectify woman . Pants that cover the ass oppress women.	Woman	Gender - General	1/11	9.091
Gylium the Crusader It exactly happened you can even ask my mother plus we couldn't take them to court due to 1 money because my family was barely able to eat let alone pay rent so we couldn't even afford to get the courtroom to even listen to us and 2 even if we could get the court system involved nothing would have happened to them except for harsher treatment to me and a smile on their faces because they had the money to bribe the judge just so the case could be dropped. last of all I knew no one would ever believe me because no one believed my mom when she went into a homeless shelter to get away from her first husband since the person who worked there called him and told him to pick up my mother then he hit her until she got knocked out and had blood gushing from her face and hands then drove me and my mom home just to keep me in a room with only a T shirt where I was sexually assaulted by him and other men who had a fetish for 2-3 year old girls he didn't go to jail because he ran from Fargo ND to somewhere in Oklahoma before he could be caught. Fuck off and don't reply to this because you don't understand.	Nothing, Old	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters	2/228	0.877
+Gylium the Crusader what is so unprofessional about a tank top and shorts but not sweatpants or skinny jeans. School is obviously not meant to be a professional environment and since we are forced here by law, I think students need to be treated with respect. With girls able to wear tank tops and shorts, and guys not being looked at as sex hungry animals.	Sex, Skinny	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/65	3.077

So you think a kindergartener wearing a skort is told it's inapriotrate by an adult male isn't the slightest bit perverted? A 5 year old has nothing to show. Maybe guys should learn to control themselves	Nothing, Old	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters	2/36	5.556
lovely brokengirl No, it's not perverted in the slightest. There is literally nothing perverted by telling somebody, male or female, that their clothing's inappropriate. In an age where sexual harassment's in the public eye more, people are gonna be more carefulYou say guys, but I think you mean rapists, sex offenders, pedos. Those sorts of people. The average guy can control himself until he gets horny; same with women. 1: Not all of them are men. 2: They know perfectly well that what they're doing is wrong. But a rapist will still rape, and a pedo will still go after a child. You can blame every man in the world, try and tell as many people as you can you shouldn't rape, but they'll still do it. To put it simply, they go "Fuck the law. I don't give a shit". Sorry, but that's the way it isEDIT: If you think I'm excusing their behaviour, that's the last thing I'm doing. I think they should all be shot, or thrown in lava, to be perfectly honest. I'm just saying that that's the reality of the situation	Age, Nothing, Sex, Sexual	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	4/188	2.128
fangirlxx The vast majority of men can handle themselves just fine. They may have inappropriate thoughts, but in terms of their actions, they know perfectly well what they should and shouldn't doI'm aware people sometimes tell somebody to cover up so they're not a distraction. But that's an individual situation, and probably isn't the sole reason a dress code exists. Maybe for some schools, but not all of them. I've been talking about the main reasons why schools have themQuestion: Do you agree with Laci, and think that telling people to cover up cos they might be a distraction is a bad thing? If so, why? You stop people from being a distraction if they're shouting across the classroom, and you tell a student to not do something cos you can tell they're going being distracting. So what makes this situation any different? Bloody common sense to tell somebody to cover up if you think they're going to be/they are being a distraction, in my opinion	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/168	0.595
fangirlxx Well, men can't always wear what they want, more so with feminine gay men. Maybe for different reasons, but if a guy wears something skimpy or revealing, somebody'll probably tell him to changeI repeat, what makes that any different from somebody shouting, or going to shout, across the classroom? They're both distractionsIt shouldn't be a distraction, but we're sexual creatures constantly covered up. We're attracted to the naked, or near-naked body, and the more skin that's showing, the more we're gonna notice. Basic human biology	Gay, Sexual	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	3/88	3.409

Kauan Raphael Mayworm Klein well im sorry that Laci's defending her gender and making a point	Gender	Gender - General	1/16	6.25
fangirlxxdefending from what??? Can 't you see how stupid the point she's making is? Feminists like to say "I dress for me, not for you, don't objectify me". Ok. But let's review all history of all human species, without any bias, and lets try to get a grip on why humans adorned themselves with clothings and acessories. Before answering that, let's take a look at other animals. Most of them can't rely on fashion to attract a mate, (still some do) yet they have those distinctive characteristis that are supposed to make them look like suitable for mating. Still, let's refrain from answering my initial question a little longer and analyze simpler tribal societie who happen to have maintained some form of cultural integrity. The adorn themselves to appear more attractive to the oposite sex (or scarier to the enemy, depending on the occasion). Now, let's finally take a look at human history and pre history as a whole. do you really, sincerely, without any bias, think people all this time have been dressing "for themselves"?Addendum: I don't like to wear clothes. I've been told it's maybe because of how I was raised or maybe there's something lacking in my brain, but my nudity in front of others does not cause me an inch of embarassment. If I would "dress for myself", I wouldn't dress at all. I will literally go to school naked if I could. But there's a universal code of dressing that I have to obbey, and so I do. I dress for everybody else except me. And I'm fine with that. I live in a society, and therefore I shall abide by the rules of that society. If I was to walk around naked around Laci Green, she would probably think I'm nuts and that I should cover myself immediately.Conclusion: She is making a point. Is it worth making it though? Think about it.	Sex	Gender - General	1/321	0.312

fangirlxx I really hope it was so simple. But no, it isn't. Laci Green is part of the voice of a very harmful movement to Western society, a cancer known as 3rd wave feminism,Such movement deliberately chose an opponent unworthy of fighting anymore, because women are most priviledged than men in modern Western cultures, so they oppress our society with guilt-based rules and make up problems such as "the way men sit, with their legs apart is unfair because it wastes space" (I am not making this up, feminists call it manspreading.)It's an extremely sexist movement based on these 2 conflicting assumptions:1.) Biology doesn't matter, and women are just as good (some will say better) as men on all aspects.2.) women are oppressed victims, therefore need special laws to protect them from every minute immaginary form of oppression, from the afore mentioned manspreading, to the fictional wage gap. to the use of any word ended with the "-man" suffix as a form of generalization (if you generalize a group of police officers and call them policemen, a feminist somewhere cries a tear of bile).True feminists, the respectable ladies of the past generations, responsible for all the current rights women have, are even more appalled at seeing their movement hijacked and turn into the travesty it is today.So yes, while her opinion deserves to be expressed (even if nowadays she just repeats the same stupidities. At least it had some novelty in it a while ago, and we could all marvel at all the extraordinary ways her reality differs from the objective one, it was as observing a schizophrenics interpretation of reality), even as well deserving of a right to be expressed as any other opinion (a right feminism doesn't grant to opinions that oppose theirs or to evidence that falsify their claims), it's an opinion worth fighting against, because she's one of the spokeswomen of this crazy cult that is modern 3rd wave feminisn, that seems to attract a particular kind of people that encopasses ugly hags, bitter divorced housewives, LGBTQ++© people, etc, who all have a certain set of things in common: they are biased against men, they believe in oppression of ideas and behaviours common to males as soon as they manifest in a child, they still, somehow, believe they are victims, they have no hard evidence to back up any of their absurd claims, and they have a mentality of "us against them" where everything that contradicts their particular narration of reality (no matter how logical and factual) is explained out in a conspiracy theory style. And they are all stupid.	Common, Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Social Class - Working class	2/440	0.455
Emma FrostYour school is weird, but I would love to study there. Mine is a Catholic school, so you can try to guess how oppressive is the dress code. Along with anything else.	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/34	2.941

Emma Frost Then the best thing to do is complain to a member of staff that's nearby if you see guys with their boxers or arse crack exposed. They may or may not do something, but it's better than nothing , tbh	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/41	2.439
WTH studios Great response. After you've left school, you might very well look back at what you said, and think "Was I really that dumb ?"victoria rankin Yeah, kids may get confused, but I think it's especially important for dress codes and stuff to be placed upon them. They're the most vulnerable, and teaching them to dress appropriately is always a good idea. Makes them less of a target, and that's for both boys and girls. As to your both gender point, men do have rules placed upon what they can and can't wear. The amount of times I've seen people complain about when guys have their jeans or whatever really low is insane. To your other point, how are you gonna get women to point it out more? You can't really control who they will and won't tell off, especially when it's about clothing. Sorry, but that's completely a non issue I'm not even gonna bother talking about any more	Dumb, Gender	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/161	1.242
Condemned Timpa If we allow men and women to dress how they want all the time, the amount of vulgar stuff both genders wear will be insane. Also, people could very well give off the wrong impression with what they wear and stuff. Why do you think we have professional clothing? Why do you think we don't walk around in pyjamas all the time?Unless you're exposing yourself in a way you don't want to, or people are chastising you for no real reason, how the fuck does not wearing what you want make you feel uncomfortable or mentally unstable? That's the biggest load of bullshit I've heard all day lol When I do work, I don't even think of my clothing. I could be wearing a suit, and I'll feel exactly the same than if I wore my everyday clothing. Every British person, like myself, managed to get through 11 years of school wearing clothes they didn't want to, as wellMostly, I don't give a shit what people wear. Their style is their style; could be goth, semi-professional, or casual. However, I will feel uncomfortable if people, of either gender , wear really inappropriate clothing. If I was in a professional setting, it would bother me if somebody wasn't wearing something professional, unless they were, say, a photographer. I imagine most people would give you similar answers. Also, in schools, your clothing could very easily distract people. Whether it be a guy wearing thuggish clothing, or a woman with half her chest exposed	Gender, Woman	Gender - General	2/254	0.787

Condemned TimpaIt's not like that. Women complain because they have to wear sober outfits for work and school. Still they intentionally submit themselves to the torture of wearing high heels and lots of other uncomfortable stuff.Men have to wear suits (one of the most uncomfortable outfits possible) and shoes to work and they don't complain about it. If they could wear sneakers, and T shirts instead I bet they would.In my school, girls complain their skirt have to go bellow their knees, and they feel like those are old ladies clothes. It's a Catholic school, so I don't see the nuns that run it agreeing to change the dress code anytime soon. But they have this silly campaign to be able to wear sluttier outfits.We boys can't take off our shirts not even when practicing sports, and we would love to do it. We have no silly campaign advocating for that right.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/156	0.641
Sarah Price Well, for a start, most of that didn't make any sense, and that was incredibly US-centric, which isn't the right way to go. Not everywhere outside America is some oppressive shithole, and there are places with just as much freedom. The 4 countries of the UK, where, yes, I live, Ireland, France, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Germany, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, Russia, even, despite their laws concreting gays. So pretty much everywhere outside Africa and the Middle EastA womAn (Please learn how to spell) is most commonly a biological female, typically having breasts larger than a male, a vagina, and a womb to carry a baby in, as they are the sex that gives birth. Many women also have slimmer shoulders, arms, and legs, softer facial features, and wider hips. A woman can also be a biological male, or otherwise, if that's what they identify as. The term " woman " is also most often applied to adults. That's my definition of a woman , cos it's based on reality. What's your definition of a man?Also, why on earth did you ask all that just cos I said dress codes are dumb ?	Dumb, Sex, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	6/196	3.061
Because women can't be sexual predators! Riiiiight?	Sexual	Gender - General	1/7	14.286
+Kauan Raphael Mayworm Klein dude, you sound like someone from the 1920's; "keep the wife busy and she won't disobey you", "keep your daughter locked up in a room so she won't have sex " dude, it's 2016	Sex	Gender - General	1/37	2.703
Bambi N Well, unfortunately, humans are sexual creatures. We have been since the dawn of time, and the majority of us wouldn't be here if it wasn't for sex . So in cases like this, it is difficult to not victimise anyone	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	2/41	4.878

+Trinity Snow Well, I'm tired, so I'll just make a quick reply -1. Leggings aren't particularly inappropriate, I agree, but they can be quite...revealing. If a guy put them on, you'd definitely see an outline. Ripped jeans can be if they're quite close to the crotch, but thankfully, for the most part, they're not2. Not everybody can wear what they want all the time, and no level of protest's gonna change that. Both boys and girls are gonna be told off if they were inappropriate clothing. Also, if you don't wear clothing that people sexualise, then you're not gonna be sexualised. Common sense	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/105	0.952
Gylium the Crusader that isn't really the issue in itself even though I don't agree with you, it's that schools and school faculty harass girls teaching them that they are sexual objects and it is a major blow to your self esteem to be taught that you are not a person, you are an object.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/55	1.818
Sebbystan 123 What's so objectifying about teaching girls a bit of modesty? Telling someone off for wearing clothing that's not appropriate isn't harassment, either. Also, guys would be told to cover up if they were exposing themselves inappropriately, so it's not even a gender issueAlso, I've been objectified by many gay guys, my boyfriend included, and that hasn't done any damage to my self-esteem. I always laugh when somebody claims that, tbh	Gay, Gender	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	3/73	4.11
Right, I'm disabling replies cos this has been going on for months (almost a year, in fact), and I'm sick of arguing with people. Call me a pussy or whatever if you want, but there's a point where you just become a broken record, and it ends up being slightly soul crushing	pussy	Nationality - Chinese	1/52	1.923
It sucks because since I'm super tall for my age (5'11) and I can't wear any dresses, shorts, or skirts no matter how hot it is outside (I live in Florida so it's usually 90 degrees outside) anything looks "too short" on me and I hate it because shorter girls can get away with it but I can't.	Age	Age - General	1/58	1.724

Decency is the whole reason these dress codes exist. You're a bigger idiot than I thought. My school district has dress codes just as strict for the guys as for the girls. "Distraction" is not relevant. Saying that girls can't wear Yoga "Pants" (and I put pants in quotes because yoga pants/leggings are not pants) is completely reasonable. Many a time have guys gotten in trouble for dressing indecently and so have girls. Over sexuality of teenagers, both male and female, is disgusting and needs to meet its end NOW. But it will still happen because radical feminists and other militant anti authoritarian groups keep putting out cancerous protests, videos, articles, documentaries even, saying the stupidest stuff like dress codes are sexist, YouTube is sexist, the government is sexist, everything is sexist to people like you! Well you know what else is sexist? Rape. If a woman cries rape, falsely or not, her side will be taken immediately.	Woman	Gender - General	1/158	0.633
If a man accused a woman of rape he would be publicly humiliated, made into a laughing stock. Men back in the 60's got drafted against their will into a war that nobody wanted to be in. They would be shipped away from their families, some never to be seen again. But who was left out of the horrors of being sent to war and having your life essentially depend on a lottery ticket? Women. Feminists try to say that their lives are so hard and that they aren't equal to men and bring up things like the wage gap. The wage gap by the way, has been debunked many times over and the only way you can come up with it is if you take the total income of all working men in America and subtract the total income of all working women in America completely ignoring hours worked, experience level, position and other variables. So feminist's claim that the get paid less for the same work is completely false. All radical feminists should be sent to Iran for a while and come back and see how good they have it.	Nobody, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/192	1.042
"how are leggings and yoga pants not decent"lol, oh my. If you could only be inside the head of a guy just for a bit. Yoga pants are much more sexually revealing than even the shortest of skirts/shorts. Ladies should be able to wear yoga pants if they want, but you will never stop guys from looking at you in those pants and having certain thoughts. What they decide to do with those thoughts is their own responsibility, but yes guys are thinking of you in a sexual manner if you wear yoga pants.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/95	1.053

Bambi N "But if a guy decides to sexualize yoga pants, how is it the girls fault? How about if she wants that attention?"It's not her fault. Neither is it the guy's fault. It is biology. Yoga pants hug every nook and cranny and leave nothing to the imagination. It's going to get the boys going. There are a lot of outfits that are practical for the gym that are far less sexual , but women like the way they look...and there isn't really anything wrong with that. And society sexualizes women, so it is not surprise that men wear more practical clothing at the gym while women wear more sexualized clothing. "Are there some limitations to what girls and guys should wear? Absolutely. But yoga pants do meet most school dress code regulations."Mostly because school dress code regulations were created before yoga pants were a thing. Yoga pants are more revealing than any shorts. If you could only be in the mind of a guy for one day and see what goes through his mind.... you would be shocked.	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/181	1.105
Sarahnewks no they are not. Only shorts that of certain length. Do your research before arguing something you really know nothing about. Sources: I'm in High School and have read our rules.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/32	3.125
Gaming Empire 520 lmao "if a woman cries rape her side will be taken immediately" LIES, a girl got raped and the guy bribed the police and court to let him go and a few months after, she committed suicide and he's still free.	Woman	Gender - General	1/44	2.273
"Over sexuality of teenagers is disgusting" Well I mean other than the fact that you're probably a boy, 'decency' is not the same thing as ' I'm totally sexualizing you because you're showing shoulders'. A teacher once told my class that the dress code IS COMPLETELY aimed at girls because the truth is they ARE objectified and sexualized and boys can't control themselves because society tells them they don't have to ( boys will be boys is the saying) and there is nothing indecent about wearing a tank top when it is hot out, or wearing mid-thigh shorts because there is no air conditioning. Please try to see the issue from a wider perspective instead of confining yourself to a narrow mindset. The human race IS sexist no matter how much people like to deny it.	Nothing, Race	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - General	2/136	1.471
the only reason girls have strict dress code is because they want to decrease sexual activity in the youth. Girls tend to want to look very sexy and when they do that it makes guys horny and so on and so on.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/42	2.381
Adopted Assassin Your argument is invalid because sexy clothing or a Hijab wouldn't change anything. Predators look for easy targets it has nothing to do with clothing.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/27	3.704

Adopted Assassin You are just looking for excuses . A predator doesn't get provoked by revealing clothing. Rape is a act of hate and lust for having power over someone else it doesn't matter how you are dressed. Boys get raped too but nobody tells them they provoked their rapists by wearing shorts.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/53	1.887
Emma Frost (crisply snaps finger) You're not perfect, I'm not perfect, and societies not perfect which is something i have gotten used to. The only reason you're arguing is because you don't want to look out for yourself, and you want other people to do it for you. Yea there are rapists, yea there are killers, and yea there are bats hit crazy people out there. Why not protect YOURSELF from them?	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/72	1.389
Not being able to wear yoga pants or leggings is stupid! I'm not even kidding you when I say this, EVERY GIRL IN MY SCHOOL WEARS LEGGINGS OR SKINNY JEANS! ITS STUPID!	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/32	3.125
Laci Green is the embodiment of feminist stupidity, hypocrisy and entitlement. She has absolutely no grasp of reality or the truth and is spoiled little girl who throws tantrums about nothing .	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/31	3.226
I'm a female, and I think that you have to be respectful in your wardrobe. You can't get mad at the guys all the time. Nothing's wrong with shorts, until you're showing your behind. There's nothing wrong with a tank top, unless your ta-tas are hanging out. It's a respect on both sides.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/53	1.887
the dress codes makes sense when the girls try to be sexual towards the "watchers".	Sexual	Gender - General	1/15	6.667
I've noticed that most of these comments disagreeing with feminist are men who have no freaking idea what they are talking about! You don't get paid less! You don't get misunderstood and judged everyday because of your gender ! You don't get sexual creeps jumping at you constantly! In other countries it's even what it's like! Heard of Malala? In her country women are pretty much just there to be silent and mistreated! Who the frick do you think you are?!?!?	Gender, Sexual	Gender - General	2/80	2.5
Yes you do get misjudged and harassed because of your female gender because of feminism itself, girls are looked down even more because of their unethical opinions. For example, some feminists say men should be tortured. No one can do anything for those women that get harassed like Malala, at the moment. Even more unfortunate, some feminists go around half topless, further traumatizing children into becoming more like sex robots. This proves that feminists are working to something they never wanted.	Gender, Sex	Gender - General	2/81	2.469

The problem is, that males (like me) are pretty much forced to look on certain regions on the female body (except when they are gay). The more there is to see, the more difficult it becomes, not to look, or gaze. If girls want to dress like they want, they can do so. But please do not complain about boys gazing at them (or making dumb comments, you know, what I mean). (HOWEVER: This does NOT mean, woman are responseable for being raped, just because they dress up sexually appealing. Men have to controll themselves.)”Men can just stop gazing” - NO. At least for me. And I think it is the same for most males. Gazing most often starts automatically. Without a conscius decision. As soon as I realize, I am gazing, I look somewhere else. But realizing it is difficult, since male brains just shut off, when seeing boobs.But in most cases, just telling them, not to stare, or even just snipping with the fingers in front of their eyes is enough to wake them up. Guys who CONTINUE to stare are a whole different story. Sincerely yours A 18 year old born male, who wore a dress on the inofficial part of his school leaving ball.P. S.: What is so distracting on male bodys? I am not doubting, there are things that can distract girls, I just want to know.	Dumb, Gay, Old, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	5/235	2.128
Ceragon Okay but it’s not fair to act like you can’t be offended when men make perverted comments. If a gay dude hit on you then you wouldn’t appreciate that but nobody will tell you It’s your fault for wearing shorts.	Gay, Nobody	Age - Youngsters, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	3/41	7.317
Why this whole video is BS: guys also have the SAME FUCKING RESTRICTIONS. Guys don’t wear the revealing clothes that girls do, and guys are more open about sexuality. This isn’t sexism, it’s biology	Sexism	Gender - General	1/34	2.941
+Vånity most schools have the same restrictions. Actually every school has the same restrictions. It’s illegal already not to. They just apply more often to girls because they are more promiscuous	Promiscuous	Gender - Female sexuality	1/31	3.226
Well I don’t know where you learnt that but it’s not true Schools have individual dress codes unique to each school. And girls are actually not more promiscuous at all. It’s actually boys because thwure more sexual beings during their teenage years but who is more sexual doesn’t even matter here.	Promiscuous, Sexual	Gender - Female sexuality, Gender - General	3/52	5.769

Honestly she needs a miracle to get a date lol. And while it is possible this is all sexist, unfortunately for you it's us guys who get the final say. Sorry feminazi .	Feminazi	Gender - Female intelligence	1/32	3.125
Ok, ms Green, there's something you should understand, YOU ARE NOT A MALE!!!! YOU CANT UNDERSTAND HOW MALE BRAINS WORK!!!! And neither can they understand YOURS. Female and male brains are wired almost COMPLETELY DIFFERENT. Once you understand and ACCEPT this, you can follow to the next step. Yes, those teachers had their ideas a little confused, their reasons for why this girls shouldn't be wearing this weren't completely accurate but they ware right in ONE VERY IMPORTANT THING that you mentioned several times. DISTRACTING. No, this is not "ridiculous", as you put it, but completely true. Male sexuality is different than that of Females. Males get aroused way more easily than women, this has been proven time over time over time and it can be OBSERVED. Males are more affected by visual stimulation than women, it is not that men are TAUGHT that females are sexual objects. Gay men are just as aroused by other men.	Gay, Sexual	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	3/157	1.911
Zombie Survival so we females have to suffer from your problems. Then does it make it ok to see females as sexual objects? Is it out fault that boys get distracted. Why can't we wear what we want	Sexual	Gender - General	1/38	2.632
I call bullshit. In my school, guys sagging their pants get a zip tie on their waist. On top of that, we also aren't allowed to wear hats, sandals, shorts that aren't arm length, etc. Dress code targets both genders.	Zip	Ethnicity - Asian (East-China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam)	1/40	2.5

so tell me why that women and especially feminists especially erode the rules of dress code to a point that it becomes a double standard, women can show all they want, men still have to wear a tie. The irony here is that women confirm the fact that their body is all about sexualization just BECAUSE they demand standards where women skin is shown as much as possible and nobody can't tell something about it , because that is "oppressive", but a man who doesn't want to wear a tie, is that oppressive ?Feminists tell everyone how women are sexualized because of their skin, but at the same time, they say nobody is allowed to watch and "dress for themself", is a big huge disengeneous turd of a thought, because the center of the problem is the revealing stuff, to a point where it becomes a STATEMENT of oppression that when girls are asked to not wear a skirt or shorts that almost show her royal parts. Whereas men still have to wear long trousers.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	2/176	1.136
I'm a lesbian , and if I can control myself around girls in short shorts/skirts and cleavage showing tops, then I don't see why people think straight guys can't. My guy friends aren't going to lose their shit because they can see some random girl's shoulder or thighs	Lesbian	Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	1/47	2.128
Straight guys can control themselves, but that's not why we have dress codes. Dress codes are put in place to protect a person's modesty, and keep students from wearing whatever the hell they want. School districts here put certain guidelines in place to keep schools civilized, and fully lay out what's considered "proper attire" It really has nothing to do with "distracting the boys"... I've never heard any of my teachers say that when sending someone home for violating the dress code. Also, I haven't heard of any school that has a specific dress code for girls and a specific one for boys. What I do know is that women can get away with showing skin more than boys.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/119	0.84
Well im a feminist, and I don't think that. I think the idea that men are mindless sex monsters is sexist bullshit	Sex	Gender - General	1/22	4.545
Hayley Sweets Why is it called feminism when they want both genders to be equal? Shouldn't it just be " Gender Equality"? "Boys don't understand what it is like to be a girl". I think you mean it the other way around. Society will almost always choose the girl's side. For example, if a girl were to hit a guy and the guy were to hit back for the sake of gender equality, society will see that man as a " woman beater". I should be the one saying GIRLS don't understand what it is like to be a BOY.	Gender, Woman	Gender - General	3/98	3.061

the problem is not every girl thinks that way, if all of you females thought that then it would quickly become common place, and just so you know we guys hear fucked up shit about us as well, and if both genders were equal then they would be "equal", so females would be forced into the draft [when ever it comes back around] and on a shinking ship men and women would get off at the same time, not females frist	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/81	1.235
BOYS, gay or straight, are wired differently (and respond to different composition of hormones) than girls, gay or straight. easier for girls, gay or straight, to control themselves sexually and not succumb to distraction by their surroundings.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	6/37	16.216
+Bewaretheshoe H I was speaking about the differences in males in general... not ALL males are like that obviously, but generally speaking, males have a harder time with temptation which isn't to say they will necessarily do anything about it. sometimes even males get erections for no reason. also EVERYONE falls within a spectrum when it comes to sexual desires, hormones, etc...	Sexual	Gender - General	1/62	1.613
Too bad you didn't die with the other fifty gays. You're one person who likes girls out of like a trillion people. So fucking ignorant.Just because you're a special snowflake doesn't mean everyone else is too. Btw most guys aren't turned on by them. Just feminists think they can claim looks are rape.	Snowflake	Ideological and Political Identity - General	1/54	1.852
Btw, dress codes are for people to not look like fucking trash. Not because guys get turned on. Woman and men used to respect their bodies and save them for special people. Now everyone hoes around.	Woman	Gender - General	1/36	2.778

everybody (well not counting the insane) is able to control themselves around hot people dressed slutty. I'm not here to correct that. Just to point out an important fact to you. You're a lesbian , not a man. Those are totally different things. being a lesbian speaks only about your sexual orientation, and maybe some genetics and also maybe some abnormal hormonal rates. Being a man, on the other hand, means being a member of the male gender of the human species, which, like with most species, differs fisiologically in s great degree from the female version of a human. what you can or can't do, or what you want or don't want, your goals, your view of the world and your view of yourself in it, the food you crave, all that stuff stems from biology, like a book from its author. And male and female biology is different. biological drives get polished, repressed, flourished, projected, sublimated, expressed as transcendent art or unleashed as bestial murder, but in the end, biology is the root of all we are, and it's against biology that feminism fights. it's a lost battle., because it's a battle against the most fundamental part of the self. The only possible outcome of the battle is defeat and misery.	Gender, Lesbian, Sexual	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	4/212	1.887
Bewaretheshoe H being a lesbian and being a man are not equal.	Lesbian	Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	1/12	8.333
Also, guys have a sexual drive that's many times larger than girls. It's not sexist, we literally have more testostorone then you have estrogen	Sexual	Gender - General	1/24	4.167
Memo Supremo wow so it's okay to rose because you were distracted by her shoulders? That's a problem you need to fix and take responsibility for. Sexual drive has nothing to do with staring at a little girls chest	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/39	5.128
Theman A 13 year old IS a child!!!!	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/8	12.5
Theman a pedophile is a pedophile that comes after kids and guess what a 13 year old child is a child/kid. Last time I check they weren't called adults. No adult is sexually attracted to a little girl unless they are a pedophile	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/43	2.326
Theman is 12 a child to you? Are you sexually attracted to 12 year old children? A teen is a kid and then after teen is adult. I'm guessing you're a 50 year old man who comes after little children	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/40	5.0

Theman don't have kids you'd probably tape your child or be sexually attracted to him or her and think it's natural. So you would think it's okay for your 30 year old friend to be sexually attracted to your 13 year old little girl and list after her? That is not wrong for you for an adult to lust after a child that's only been on this planet for less than 16 years.	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/73	2.74
Buddy, you said that all men are attracted to 13 year old girls. *13 and under.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/16	6.25
Bewaretheshoe H maybe they have a higher sex drive	Sex	Gender - General	1/9	11.111
That happened to my best friend. When she received detention all I could think was: WOW! Fabric! so distracting... »insert sarcasm here« I'm just saying,insert you've got a little cleavage and your over the age of 12 it's pretty obvious that you're wearing a bra of some sort. So if a little bit peeps out of your shirt shouldn't it be like: Meh, I already knew it was there sooo... The common sense is just overflowing out of these people...	Age, Common	Age - General, Social Class - Working class	2/80	2.5
This video is about sexism , not whatever the hell it is you're arguing about. And business suits can be extremely sexy for men, go watch some porn, you'll figure that out quickly. Your argument is invalid. What's viewed as slutty is an opinion anyway. Stop looking at women and seeing something sexual , and we'll stop being sexual , easy as that.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	3/60	5.0
Yep. Be the fucking brat you are. Take no defeat without a tantrum, be proud you can just do whatever you want without any consequences. Go you, you special snowflake .	Brat, Snowflake	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Age - Youngsters	2/30	6.667
I was so mad at school the other day. Two girls in my 2nd period got dress coded for wearing dresses mid-thigh length, while a boy was told by my teacher his shorts were too short, but when he went to the office, they told him to just "pull them down". This shit is ridiculous, the fact that I can't even wear a cute t-shirt dress that shows absolutely nothing , but guys can and do walk around in chubbies.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/79	1.266
Well, a male student got suspended for who wore a booty short to school, yet a lot of girls wear them ? Sexism against man not woman	Sexism, Woman	Gender - General	2/27	7.407

This is why women should NOT vote, they can only talk about shoes, dresses, lotions, nails and other equal crap. A woman can have everything that she will still not satisfied. So, what's the point? This is cheap talk, if women want to make themselves empower they need to talk about something else, politics, science or culture. Women today only care about shoes and lotions, that's their world. I wonder what they know to even VOTE in this person or in that one, probably by how he/she looks or dresses, and that's not a supposition that's the reality. I can tell you the ONLY thing empowers women in a positive way: having children. Anything else is just that little world of lotions and nails. Feminism is bad for women and also bad for men, but it makes us (men) more relaxed in our responsibilities, women have jobs, they go to the army, they can be violent, so they don't need us to provide them anything, no security or stability, so we just don't care anymore and in fact that's a good thing because now we can enjoy more our life with less responsibility and have more fun. Go Feminism.	Woman	Gender - General	1/199	0.503
nope...because men are taught to cover up as much of their body as possible..if any guy wears short shorts he's considered gay and rediculed alot of the time	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/28	7.143
Fish Are Friends Not Food Feminism is and was always a movement for women's rights. Look up the definition of it. A sane, intelligent, logical and moral person wouldn't want to be a feminist because the Tumblr feminazis corrupted feminism. Plus feminism is not needed anyway since women have equal rights and there is no patriarchy or societal sexism.	Patriarchy, Sexism	Gender - General	2/59	3.39
Fish Are Friends Not Food Women aren't allowed to show their nipples they have a secondary sexual organ on their chests. If women should be allowed to have their bare tits out in public should men be allowed to have their bare cocks out in public? No.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/47	2.128
Fish Are Friends Not Food The wage gap doesn't take in important variables such as work quality, employee job background or education, customer satisfaction, or work effort. All of those can greatly impact one's earnings. If a man and a women worked in a company. The man worked his ass off for the company, he has a degree, the customers love him and provides quality work for the company but the woman doesn't do anything. Tell me. Who gets the bigger paycheck? The man who works hard and does great things for that company.	Woman	Gender - General	1/94	1.064

Fish Are Friends Not Food Explain this to me. How does a fucking program full of code ((video games)) with some sexual stuff in it be violence against women? ((I find people who complain over things containing violence incredibly stupid. There's violence in everything. Human history, Stories, Movies, Shows, Old myths, Folk tales, Games, and Nature itself all can be pretty violent)) It's a work of fiction anyway, so while you're calling the developer sexist for putting sexualized women in a game why not go accuse a novel writer of murder for killing off a character while you're at it?	Old, Sexual	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/100	2.0
I don't see how you are so ignorant that you cannot understand this: Dress codes are not meant to separate genders. It is supposed to teach girls about modesty. Modesty is still a virtue, but these days, girls don't care. I agree that tank tops are okay, but short shorts? No. Nobody wants to see that. In most schools, when a girl wears short shorts, it is either to show off their body because they think that their appearance is what matters, or they are trying to attract boys. And the boys they are trying to attract are not the kind of boyfriend you want to have. Do you really want a boyfriend that only "loves" you for your body? I know I don't. Besides, it is kinda disturbing to see someone in clothing tighter and shorter than underwear. Seriously! In my school, the faculty are AWFUL and keeping the dress code rules enforced, so the only safe place to look is the ceiling, unless you are blind . I envy people who live in colder climates. For one, I love the cold. And also, you aren't forced to look at a classmate that is wearing revealing clothing. I understand that sometimes it gets hot outside, but I don't think crop-tops and short-shorts really help. For most people, that is just an excuse.	Blind, Nobody	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/222	0.901
+Goastly Productions the prick blames everything on sexism	Sexism	Gender - General	1/8	12.5
" Nobody wants to see that " That's body shaming What, nobody can stand paying attention in class instead of creepily staring at a girls LEGS? Are you hearing yourself? Girls should be able to wear whatever they want so long as their chest and butt are covered, in fact everyone should be able to.	Body Shaming, Nobody	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - General	3/55	5.455

+AFOBGREENDAYBVBP!ATDPHANFAN when I was in secondary school, I used to go in an only girls school and we had to wear uniforms. We had multiple restrictions like not wearing any makeup, not having any nail polish, no skirts above the knee, socks must be blue, hair must be tied up, jerseys can't be taken off etc. It wasn't for the pure reason of not distracting boys, I mean, we were only girls after all. It was just to teach use the simple concept of having a dress code, it wasn't a big deal.In high school, I didn't have a uniform and in my school there were both males and females, only thinks restricted were skirts, shorts (for both genders), spaghetti straps, or things that overly show your cleavage. I live in a hot climate and girls generally broke the rules (especially in spring) yet nobody ever scolded them. I've never seen a single guy break the dress code rules. Girls have a higher tendency of dressing in a skimpier way and schools are obliged to stop this. School isn't an ordinary place where you can go dressed however you want. It has its rules. Would you go to work wearing skimpy clothing? Probably not.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/205	0.488
---	--------	---------------------	-------	-------

My personal "Men are pimps women are sluts" paradox. No documented evidence just a thought on the subject.Since sex is an apparent part of life, both men and women want to have sex. Women get called sluts by men because most men are jealous that it's so much easier for a woman to have sex than men(no idea how many would admit that)So out of emotional response they call them that. So that's the men reason. Why do women do it? Probably because they are jealous and because they want that attention themselves.(Could be wrong as I'm not a woman but I've read a lot on the female mind and feel comfortable saying this) Men are still jealous of the males that get the women but men don't call them that. Women do not do that. They feel threatened by other women. So they call them sluts. So how does one remove jealousy from the mind of child? You can't except through life experiences, which include societal expectations and while overall education helps won't solve the problem of jealousy.While some of the feminist arguments have some validity,some are based of difference in sexuality of men and women, some are nonsensical and some look to shift the power towards women. They all basically funnel into one concept of total equality. With the current system we have it will not get fixed.So what do we do? I feel there is only one option. We have to educate our children from the start that EVERYONE(not just men and women) are different (Don't call it equality because the natural differences of people show we aren't equal). Some people,look different, act different but that's just life.You may not like agree or whatever about but we are equal in a sense of given opportunity. That's not the hard part though. The hard part is getting all of society to agree and teach their children these fundamental principles or they will continue to grow up with these societal norms in place. So without public acceptance of equality and under the current system it will never happen or will but just take a very very very long time. With the current system we just rotate temporary privileges for one,race,class,gender,sexual orientation etc.. at a time (white men having most advantage but they do have disadvantages believe me) Thus creating a self fulfilling prophecy. "Feminism" is not the correct answer. Total Equality is.	Gender, Race, Sex, Sexual, Woman	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	8/406	1.97
Do you know how stupid you really are? Oh, yes, those dime store glasses do nothing for you, ugly is ugly with or without.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/24	4.167

If a guy showed up to school without a shirt on he'd get sent home. It's not about sexism, it's about dressing APPROPRIATELY. You can't show up at work wearing booty shorts and a crop top, so why should you be allowed to dress like that at school? Wear them to the beach or mall for all I care, but not school. Now I can understand debates on what exactly draws the line like how short shorts can be, but dress codes are NOT sexist. Newsflash, men's fashion doesn't usually show as much skin as women's does. Blame fashion, not dress codes.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/102	0.98
one thing that i personally despise about dress codes is the fact that, A girls are blamed because guys cant keep their eyes on the work and B, girls can were a sleeveless shirt if the straps are wide enough and no bra is showing. guys? keep your shorts long enough and oh yeah, no muscle shirts. i really annoys me that because of this girls can be showing part of their bra that is NEON coloured and get away with it because administration doesn't want to be called sexist. I'm sorry but a neon coloured bra, not just the strap showing, just draws my eyes toward it because its so damn bright. if we could just take actually distracting things like a complete showing bra that is unprofessional and not necessary and make that against dress code not showing shoulders or thighs that would make it so much easier. also, BEING FUCKING TOO HOT IN A SCHOOL IS MORE DISTRACTING THAN SOME SKIN.	coloured	Ethnicity - Black	2/164	1.22
I have a question. Why do we think that the female dresscode is meant to help boys? like i never thought of this that way. its just some rules about what to wear. nothing more.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/35	2.857
solution to all the so called problems she listed - DONT LIVE IN AMERICA :D where im from nothing like this ever happened girls can wear whatever the fuck they want... and i was never taught to shame girls who wear skin exposing clothes... nd i also never said anything sexual to a girl dressed like that, you see most men are not the pigs you describe in your videos, if i see a provocatively dressed girl, i check her out, and move on with my life... if she has a problem with me checking her out, maybe she should start wearing more turtlenecks	Nothing, PIGS, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Nationality - Southern European	3/104	2.885
2:15 "Telling them that their bodies are inherently sexual" I would disagree on this, on the basis of that males aren't allowed to wear tight clothes either. See, I think the real reason is that schools want to unsexualize themselves. Men already don't choose to wear tight cloths, so its not really a problem. If they did, then i'm sure they would probably be greatly discriminated against	Sexual	Gender - General	1/67	1.493

"guidelines" aren't enforceable rules. unless it's necessary for a group outing, team, to show you're a worker, or for health or safety, dress codes as rules are a problem. they're inherently sexist, cissexist, binarist, racist , and classist.	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/37	2.703
Rubbish! & there is the male gaze! Looooo!Walking round in leggings and skintight clothing teaches boys that all girls are objects. This is a result of young men (boys) being in the genetic stage of becoming men, the increased level of hormones make them horny even if they don't know that's what it is yet. Woman are keen to walk round in skintight clothing relieving every curve & trying to look sexy! So girls are making them selves objects? Or as boys can I walk round in leggings with a cut to shape pocket of my cock and balls on the front & claim woman are doing the womangaze on me & that I am feeling oppressed!? I should be able to wear what I want right !?After how could my choice in cock pocket legging be causing woman /girls to be distracted, it's only my genital for gods sake.	Woman	Gender - General	2/151	1.325
Guys can get dress coded too you dumb sexist bitch	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/10	10.0
+Isabella Svensen, She didn't say that boys don't have dress codes. She pointed out the unfair ones, and how they should be teaching boys to respect girls, rather than teach girls they are sexual objects that must be completely covered for the benefit of boys. I have a friend in CO, whose school says that shorts must go past the girls fingertips. She has longer arms, so even if she could find longer shorts, she could still be dress coded. And it's hard enough to find long shorts. She is currently wearing jeans in torrid weather so some 13-14 year old boys don't get distracted by her knees.	Old, Sexual	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/108	1.852
My friend says boys don't get as much attention as girls do with regards to the dress code. And she kinda does have monkey arms .	Monkey	Ethnicity - Black	1/26	3.846
I am tired, my brothers birthday party was today, and my mom and I had a stressful time trying to entertain 10 first graders. My friend told this to me over the phone, so it might have been exaggerated a little(or a lot), due to her frustration (And monkey arms), I am done. Call yourself a winner if you like, and for the last time, have a good summer	Monkey	Ethnicity - Black	1/69	1.449
"My friend says boys don't get as much attention as girls do with regards to the dress code. And she kinda does have monkey arms ."If they were wearing short shorts/skirts, they would be receiving just as much attention if not more.	Monkey	Ethnicity - Black	1/43	2.326

Rebel 008 ””The point is that women need to stop getting objectified.”That will never happen. For men, their sexuality is directly wired to their visual senses. All men objectify to some degree or another. Even gay men, they just objectify other men. We’re all wired the same, it’s biology. Just because we look at a person sexually, doesn’t mean we don’t see them as a person. But we still look, and we still think sexual thoughts when we look. Blame evolution. There is nothing the women’s movement can do to change this. That doesn’t mean that you shouldn’t wear sexually revealing outfits if you want. That is your right. But men are going to look at you in a sexual manner. No amount of women’s lib or self awareness(on the man’s part) can stop it. We try to not do it, but we all fail at it from time to time. If we weren’t making an effort to not look at women sexually, you would all be getting stared at 24/7. Instead, most of us consciously make the effort to look away as much as possible, but we all fail to some degree or another.	Gay, Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	5/197	2.538
I’m a sixth grader, who was told in the beginning of summer when I wore a dress that I ”shouldn’t wear it again because my big tush pulled it up in the back”, and living in North Carolina, on my very last day of school on this state, I’m gonna wear some things that make me feel beautiful and comfortable. A black crop top and shorts. My principal can go to hell.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/72	1.389
These dress codes are also pretty sexist to boys. Honestly as a flamingly heterosexual boy, the misaligned floor tiles at my school are more distracting than some random girl’s shoulder. Also, it’s not like all boys are just mindless sex robots who can’t control themselves and stare at some girl’s revealed foot and think about rape instead of paying attention to the lesson. I also agree that it’s sexist to girls, too.	Sex	Gender - General	1/72	1.389
+qwerty asdf if it’s racist towards white and black people is it really racist ? (I don’t believe in reverse racism but whatever)	Black, Racism, Racist	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	4/22	18.182
I’m sorry but there is 0 reason for a 14 year old girl to show up to my class like she is going to a club. You are coming to school to learn not attract boys (which from what she talks about thats what she is going for). Guys have a dress code as well. The difference is that guys clothes generally cover up most of the body other than arms, neck, head, and the knee below. Whereas girls clothes usually consist of showing: as high up on the leg as possible, show a lot of cleavage, and mid drifts. If you want to attack anyone it should be the people who design these clothes.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/115	0.87

O believe that there should be some guidlin like no SUPER short skirts or shirts that like go to like the bottum of your bra,but,HOW.ARE.SHOULDERS.OR.YOGA.PANTS. SEXUAL .	Sexual	Gender - General	1/25	4.0
It's the same reason you dress nice for a job interview. it's called being prifessional. Just because in some schools boys get it off easy is no excuse. That should change. Neither gender should be able to just dress however they want.	Gender	Gender - General	1/42	2.381
+Simply Belle In my school guys are suspended for sagging their pants, and girls are allowed to wear short that past the finger test, while guys will get at least a two day detention for the same thing. Do you see the problem with antidotal evidence? I'm presenting experiences from my personal life as evidence to prove my point on sexism in schools. I, as a single person, is in no way a representative of an entire school system. And you aren't either, stop presenting events from your personal life as evidence. This is a prime case of an antidotal logical fallacy.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/102	0.98
+María F. no shes a dumb bitch who contradicts herself with every sentence	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/13	7.692
+The Phantasm&39;s mask As wel as the tender your's doctrine, the Duluth model and everything els that's often blamed on the imaginary patriarchy .	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/23	4.348
+The Phantasm&39;s mask If anything, feminism strives to remove this stigma of men and wants to let the school boards know that it is okay for women to dress the way as they choose to and that men won't react "negatively". Please don't go around making false accusations about feminism causing anything like this, when it is addressing the problem and saying that girls are sexual creatures just as guys and that guys AREN'T perverts 3:50.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/76	1.316
1. Guys have dress codes too, you misandrist.2. Dress codes are in place not BECAUSE the clothes are distracting FOR EVERYONE, it is because dress codes lower sexual tension in schools, which lowers the amount of rape, pregnancy, and transfer of STDs in schools. So shut up, you misandrist	Sexual	Gender - General	1/50	2.0

You did give some extreme examples, esp with the 5 year old, but...being half naked is fucking ridiculous. Its like walking in Walmart and seeing people in Bikini's even though they are in a fucking store and not the beach/pool/tanning area. You can't fucking say "weather! its hot! I gotta strip naked!!!" One time I went to the bank, this mother with 2 young children was bending over the counter and you could see her fucking pussy lips.Women do not wear clothes like that cause "its hot", they wear that shit to say "Hey! I'm hot! Look at me!" You can't deny that. Its done on purpose. Now you have 12 year olds idolizing the Kardashians...what the fuck do you thinks gonna happen. And don't say "teenage boys shouldn't look!"...a teenagers primary focus is sex, the hormonal imbalance from the on set of puberty hasn't balanced out yet. And finaly, unless you're gay, women check out men all the time.	Gay, Old, Sex, pussy	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General, Nationality - Chinese, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	5/161	3.106
The world is being stomped into dog shit and its cunts like this sexist, racist cow that are doing the stomping!!	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/21	4.762
You're deliberately framing the distracting elements of dress codes into your context, while hypocritically ignoring your philosophies on sexualizing minors. You're ideology is inconsistent. Had you performed your due diligence and asked any school administrator what is distracting about certain aspects of dress code violations, you would quickly find its manifold reasons. 1) there is the creepy notion of sexualizing minors with revealing attire. Don't ignore the fact that school is a professional institution with the duty given to it by the parents of the children in attendance, to prepare them to enter the work force as professionals capable of taking themselves, and their employment seriously. 2) distracting elements of dress codes are also meant to prevent some children from being singled out, which can encourage bullying, including forms of bullying associated with sexual harassment. 3) peer pressure. A child's immature emotional processing is highly vulnerable to feelings of inadequacy, often brought on by not being as pretty as the next girl, or as muscular and toned as the star athlete. Or if poor children can't afford the current style of clothing, shoes, purses and back packs ect... As a former student, parent, and former faculty member...I know that you are taking out of your ass. And your audience needs to know that you are talking out of your ass, because your inane ramblings of empowered freedom of expression actually hurt children, by pandering to their underdeveloped sense of morality by confusing into thinking they have rights in places where they don't. Do you think that faculty members want to where stifling leggings, collared shirts, slacks and ties while working in the unairconditioned wing of the school?	Sexual	Gender - General	1/277	0.361

I went to a private, Catholic school from kindergarten to eighth grade. We had these kinds of rules talked about all the time. Skirts were not to be rolled, nor were the gym shorts. When free dress was allowed, shorts were not to be too short and clothes not too tight. School dances forbade dresses under a certain length and spaghetti straps. Basically, the dress code was really strict and even when one was allowed to dress in something other than the plaid skirts and polos, they were still subject to strict guidelines. Now, guys also had ur own rules. Our polos always had to be tucked in, socks had to be white, shorts were not to sag, etc. However, as a boy, I never felt that the girls were somehow sexual objects. Every time we were told that the girls were not to wear short, tight, revealing clothing, I just reasoned that the school was being prim. That they had a certain level of presentability that must be always be upheld. You were not to dress in a way, which was objectionable or risque. You were to look as a pure and innocent Catholic school child. It wasn't that girls were sexualized and distracting, it was that we had a specific image to uphold. It didn't stop us boys from finding the girls attractive. It just furthered the idea that we were in a school with a totalitarian regime and specific agenda. I do not think that dress codes or increased amount of regulation on girls mean that the system is sexist. Girls were always the ones rolling their skirts. Guys often had untucked shirts, but they were never the ones who caused issue about being too revealing. If guys had shown up in booty shorts, they would have received the same treatment. If chubbies had become a trend, then they would have been outlawed. But, it was always the girls, who pushed the boundaries on 'revealing'. Guys pushed boundaries on 'uniformity'. Unkempt hair, untucked shirts, socks too short, no belts.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/342	0.292
---	--------	------------------	-------	-------

+MyLifeAsLexi02 this video is about imposed codes up on girls.and it says its unfair.well, let me ask you something.when do you see boys in school, in pants that reveal the shape and size of the balls and dick ?no, as it would be just plain silly.but do you see girls, in revealing outfits ?yes you do.and the dresscode was a necessity to ensure equality between the genders. guys don't wear stuff that can distract attentio, so its quite obvious girls should do the same. in case we talk about equality.now most of her videos are not about equality between genders.but bashing males apart, accusing everyone as being inheritively and unchangeably wrong and bad just becaouse they where born male.this is nothing more than a form of hate speech.if someone would want real equality, then that someone would want both genders to wear the absolute identical unisex outfit.but, if you consider, just for a moment that there is a reason for having 2 genders, then it may become quite a suitable idea, that both have theyr own strength and weakness, and therfore the 2 are uncompareable to eatch toher, not to mention you can not enforce an equality sign between them.its just wrong. allso assuming the superiority of one over the other.they are different, apples and oranges.same deal.both grow on trees, both of them are round, and may even have simular color, but an apple will never equal an orange.what this channel promotes is simply putting both genders out of balance, enforcing that males are guilty. just becaouse they are born guilty, and will stay guilty. and woman are allways victims.and there is no way you can put an end to it.you see, when it comes to dress codes, there is a difference when someone is allowed to wear anything, knowing they will not wear anything that is not appropiate, therefore regulation is not required.on the otherhand, wearing stuff that is really inappropriate on purpose , will get some regulation imposed.it simply portrays a world where males are not subjected to any sortha regulation, while the reality is quite not like that.and if we speak of dressing...if a guy is dressing up like an asshole, surprisingly he is going to be treated like that. if a guy is dressing like clown, he is going to be treated as a clown.same with acting. if a guy acts like an idiot, dresses like an idiot, he should have no comlains about being adressed as one, treated as one.and if a girl is dressing to attract sexual desires, i see no surprise when she gets it. and a school is no place for that.this is not anti-feminism, this is common sense.and this girl in the video , well.. i would not say at any point she has a clue of common sense.but, i have to admit she is devilishly smart.riding the feminist wave for a bit of fame and flash.an opportunist, who is just taking advantage and is RAPING the situation to selfishly gain some attention.and its really bad, the messenge is really really bad.its discriminating, and induces hatered in people.	Apple, Common, Nothing, Sexual, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Native- American, Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	6/549	1.093
--	--	---	--------------	--------------

+Nagy Andras how is a pair of shorts or a tank top dressing to "attract sexual desires"	Sexual	Gender -	1/51	1.961
? you make it sound like all girls are walking around naked, it's boys and girls to keep their desires in check. not just the girls job to make sure the boys are ok.		General

Laura Grahamwell, legs are seyuually attractive to males. unlike the common misbelief, we don't just look at boobs and asses.its a misconception.we look at shoulders, legs, hips, and so on.now, its not a fault of girls that they are sexualy desire for us males (what a world would it be if that was a fault, right? both of us where designed this way).so, with just a weee tiny bit of common sense, one can with ease derive the simple solution.if you are going to school, you might consider discretion, and since you are far more than perfectly aware that your body will attract attention if shown, be it you legs in shorts, or your half ass exposed, then you sortha try to be a bit more sensitive and select cloths that are conservative and appropriate for school. that is so you don't accidently, unintentionally distract your fellow male and lesbian or bisexual students from the class.you can do that after school.and thats it.surely sat least someone will aruge that girls supposed to wear some kind of muslim outfit just to go to school ?nope. that would be the other worng end of the scale.and extreems are never good.just choose correct cloths, like proper shorts that don't reveal too mutch.you won't loose anything, but it would be a pretty respectable choice. not to mention, it makes perfect sense. afterall, you are there to study, not to show off.yess girls are more likely to dress better than males, but you see, there is a limit when a nice piece of cloth gets to be.. simply inapproiate.and many girls sortha think they are entitled to go past the line because why the hell not.so, some places that are conservative for goo reasons that make sense, and not the extremes impose rules.but this does not happen to offend girls, or protect males.it happens to defend what we call simply nobility.some girls don't really get that being pretty is not the eqivalent to being sexy.the strange thing is, they are the ones who think males don't look for more than sexuality.never oocured to them, if sexuality is all you show, you will attract those who seek no more.you would be quite offended if say.. a male student or teacher would show up in shorts that allmost have the tip of they'r dick exposed, or just wear tight enough jeans to outline the balls and dick.ain't that different to girls who go to school in shorts that give them cameltoes.the strange thing, both ways its taken as offense towards females.both if the males would dress aggressively, or if the girls are not allowed to reveal too mutch.and that is the simple fact of things.if you can not dress on your own whitin reasonable limits, then don't be surprised you are going to get rules forced upon to.it won't make you less of a girl.in fact, generally speaking males who look for more than sexuality tend to like girls who can dress with common sense in mind better.joga pants have joga pants as a name for some reason.the hint is, its perfectly suited for joga, but not math class. far too short shorts are bit harder to get as the name is not that obvious, but you really do know it may not be the most fitting and apropiate piece of cloth to wear in a class.you see these rules are in place as a form of seeking help from girls.we have an inheritent tendency to better be focused to sexy things than a boring class.but you can help, by dressing in a way that it does not distract males.and i think it makes quite a lot of sense.males by nature usually don't wear the mentioned tight jeans or stuff like that, and if they would,	Common, Lesbian, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality, Social Class - Working class	6/700	0.857
---	--------------------------	---	-------	-------

Laura Grahamthat would not be a solution at all, not to mention equality between genders.the solution is for both genders to dress properly.this would be the feminist solution.the solution of "i do whatever the fuck i want as i em entitled to do so, and if it bothers you its your problem, solve it" is not a feminist solution, its hate speech, makes no sense, and verry selfish.its plain simple, going to school?dress properly. regardless of your gender .and if you are not willing to on your own, then be prepared for school uniform rules.and welcome to reality.this is happening at a lot of schools here.and the dresscode applies to both genders.this is a proper solution.	Gender	Gender - General	1/126	0.794
Amen. Her facts and statistics are fraud and reckless. She might have a mental disability. She has a twitch in her face when she speaks.	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/25	4.0
+Nagy Andras Never!!!! Where..... - sorry, let me first shut up the sound in the above video - .... right then.... Where would all the debunkers get their low hanging fruit .... errr..... I mean, material from when they want to have an early night and are looking for something absurdly easy to debunk?	Fruit	Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	1/53	1.887
Nagy Andras but do you basically have to wear jeans and a sweatshirt in the summer because if you wear shorts you'll get sent home no. What's more distracting sitting in class and seeing a guy wearing a wide armed tank top and you can see his man nipples and his fat ass stomach hanging out. Or a girl wear a cold shoulder tee and here shoulders are showing.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/69	1.449
Nagy Andras a lot of the time females can only seem to find shorts that let her ass hang out because the female body is still overly sexualised. And shirts are just as difficult to find because gdi i live in texas and it gets hot af. But im not allowed to wear a tank top because shoulders are sexual . Im not saying that the guys dont have dress codes too, because they do, but ANY time ove seen a guy out of dress code, he is far less likely to get called out for it or sent home for it. There was a girl who wore some black jeggings, knee-high boots, a shirt that covered her butt, AND a long flowy type jacket that went down to her knees in the back. She was sent home for that because they were jeggings. She was SENT HOME. For wearing something that would have been acceptable in most workplaces. The ONLY skin that was showing was her face, her neck, and her hands and wrists. So dont say because it was too revealing. You couldnt even see her ass either because both the shirt and the jacket covered it.	Black, Sexual	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	2/198	1.01

"Women are equal so they need special treatment for the dress code!"Really? There are SO many things she says that need citation. Boys have to follow these dress codes as well. Also, WHY in the HELL do these girls think it's okay to wear a skirt that shows their ass anyways?!?! "PC/SJW" types complain about guys "sexualizing females" which is a NATURAL HUMAN REACTION (that females do as well), but then it's fine when someone is gay, etc. You can't have it both ways. You can't expect that you can "dress like a slut" and NOT have to put up with what people are going to say about you. No one is special. This is just insanity!!	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/118	1.695
+John T. Campbell Sexualizing women's knee caps is not a "NATURAL HUMAN REACTION", it is the product of a society that has been taught that every part of a woman's body is for the use of a man. There is nothing sexy about knee caps, why should ANYONE be forced to cover them when it is hot? Girls aren't asking for special treatment, they are asking to be treated like human beings that matter in this world.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/77	1.299
We can criticize or mock a guy for what he's wearing, and have him follow a limited dress code, but the moment you do it to a woman it becomes sexism.	Sexism, Woman	Gender - General	2/31	6.452
Im glad that this sexist bigot Laci used this opportunity to bash men yet again ! Cause ya know were all rapist and have sex on the brain 24-7.	Sex	Gender - General	1/29	3.448
She loves pink pussy passes and misandry.	Misandry, pussy	Gender - General, Nationality - Chinese	2/7	28.571
It is not only guys against girls in dress code. Many girls who are more attractive or skinnier will be allowed to break dress code, however girls that are just slightly bigger will wear something out of dress code and will get sent home. In many cases involving shorts, skinny girls will be allowed to wear shorts that barely reach the middle of their thigh but girls that wear short above the knee will be warned about dress code even if they technically did not break the rules.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/88	1.136
Never in my life have I seen a woman not dress like a complete fucking hobo. Seriously, that shit you wear makes you look like a female version of Carl from ATHF. Clearly, women are taught not to respect dress codes and have no self respect or they might dress like adults.Women think that they can just break all the fucking rules because the dress code isn't cute enough. PC bosses seem to agree. Last thing we need to do his hurt a woman's feelings telling her she has to dress like a normal person instead of a hooker.	Hooker, Woman	Gender - Female sexuality, Gender - General	2/100	2.0

so if girls go to the sports field to watch boys do sports. by your definition they to objectify boys ia sexual manner with a female gaze. you are a hypocrite. boy like girls and girls like boys it's a none issue. dress code in schools is there to make all students feel equal. but you ture it into sex . kind makes me wonder where your head at	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	2/68	2.941
I get dress coded all the time for my fucking leggings or my shirt is too tight. Even though I am obeying the dress code, me along with about 20 other girls in my grade wear our shirts past our butts (which is the dress code) and we get dress coded. One day I asked why and they said "You girls have bigger boobs and butts, it doesn't matter if you're obeying the dress code. You're built like a distraction." So they handed me fucking PE shorts and made me where them over my leggings. The worst part is not only is it sexist it's racist . All of my minority friends will practically wear nothing but a bra to school and the deans won't say anything. ONE OF THE FUCKING FEMALE DEANS ARE BLACK ! It's so funny that they target all of they blessed white girls at my school when there's some guys that wear shorts so tight you can see their balls	Black, Nothing, Racist	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	3/163	1.84
What is wrong with wearing tights or skinny jean like so now u want girls to wear baggy jeans and oversized shirts. Wht is wrong with the world	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/28	3.571
+Craftastic What is wrong with wearing tights? How about looking like a fucking hobo? What is wrong with skinny jeans? How about every guy in the class staring at a girl's ass instead of paying attention to their teacher? You should dress with respect to your teachers and peers. Otherwise you are showing blatant lack of respect. I won't show up to the office in sweat pants, flip-flops, and a wife beater and women can not show up wearing yoga pants and a bikini top.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/85	1.176
I want to make a point but I feel it is just easier to tell you Laci that you know you are beingwillfully ignorant in this video, RULES ARE RULES and since fashion and the times change so do the rules. I also realize you have to make something out of nothing to keep this feministtrain rolling making every little thing into some sort of oppression in hopes you don't fall out of the public consciousness and are promptly forgotten about and have to go check out groceries at the local market while Anita bags for you because that is all you are now qualified to do.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/109	0.917

Let's be honest here for a moment. This video is not about the dress code. School dress codes have been around for decades so they're really not anything new and we're your attending a public or private school, it's come sense to know that there's gonna be a dress code, so there should be no big deal.What this video really is about is some dumb feminist trying to pull the wool over your eyes and trying to make women feel more oppressed that which this isn't at all what's going on in these schools. News Flash: You're not a victim of anything because a school that you're having to attend is telling you to cover up! The least you could do is say okay and comply, i mean after all they are there only to try and make sure you get educated properly so you can go out into the world and be something other then a stupid youtube girl that doesn't know any better.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/166	0.602
STORY TIME!!!!I got dress coded by female faculty once for wearing a pair of black tights with a shirt that covered my behind but not my "lower area," yet a group of preppy, rich girls walked by with shorts that showed their bum cheeks and almost their underwear, if they bent over an inch, and even shirts that would show their entire stomachs if they lifted their arms... Does anyone else see my problem???	Black, Bum	Ethnicity - Black, Social Class - Destitute	2/75	2.667
Lol this woman is fucking dumb	Dumb, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/6	33.333
Laci dress codes are put in place so students don't wear inappropriate clothes to school, these rules apply to both girls and boy. I will admit some of these rules r bullshit, however if one chooses to attend school they most abide by the rules or face consequences. This idea the dress code takes the side of one sex over the other is simply not true.	Sex	Gender - General	1/66	1.515
In my school we have uniforms and if we want to wear trousers they can't be skinny , how come boys are walking around with skinny trousers and not being punished and when girls where them we get a detention?	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/39	5.128

School Board officials are prioritizing male education over female, can't we agree to give both the same edu. I show my shoulders, AAHHHH, Immediately I am supposedly showing inappropriate clothing, i feel comfy so I don't understand why they say, "It is to distracting to the boys". Yet boys are allowed to wear shirts with nude ladies on them. Yet I get yellow carded for shorts that aren't to wear my knees are. I don't understand. And they treat different body types horribly. I have a friend who is larger than some, so the teachers make her uncomfortable. Before she was confident in what she wanted to wear. That is not fair. Sexism is still a problem and it NEEDS to end. O /- OEndSexism DressCodesAreSexist StopBodyShaming	Sexism, Yellow	Ethnicity - Asian (East-China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam), Gender - General, Nationality - Chinese, Nationality - Japanese	4/128	3.125
Do you even look at what your posting you say your a feminist which is kinda to do thing sexism but your saying that all boys cause everything but I hate to be a hater it just pisses me off when all men and women do this bye	Sexism	Gender - General	1/48	2.083
I have a joke: what do you call a white woman in the kitchen.....Any thing as long as she stays in the kitchen	Woman	Gender - General	1/23	4.348
My female pe teacher said that "girls who wear short skirts look slutty" this was just after she told me off for having my ankles on show, WHAT EVEN DOES SLUTTY MEAN! HOW CAN A SHORT SKIRT MAKE IT LOOK LIKE SHES HAD SEX MULTIPLE TIMES?!! AND EVEN IF SHE HAS WHY DOES IT MATTER!!!!!!	Sex	Gender - General	1/55	1.818
It's called "private school" I mean Catholic schools....they have something called school uniforms.....lets see....horny 15 year old boys, and skimpy dressed girls, sluts....	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/23	4.348
+dhhpickle7 fat	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/2	50.0
asaenvolk I agree. Feminists say it's about equality but 1) the name is obviously feminine and is supporting the female gender 2) you will NEVER see a feminist defend men in the situations that woman actually have it BETTERThere are over 100,000 prison raping. Why don't feminists get mad over that? Woman almost always win custody of children.Why don't feminists get mad over that?Feminism isn't equality.	Gender, Woman	Gender - General	3/68	4.412

This happened to me at my school!! The teachers pulled us out of class and told us not to wear anything to tight, which I can agree with, but to always wear a thick skirt so people don't see our legs. And she (the principal) said that boys will stare at us and also the male teachers. I actually got my butt pinched and my tits groped and guess what the school did nothing !	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/74	1.351
At my school in the winter time last year, I know boys who were annoyed with underdressed girls because they were complaining about the cold while wearing little to nothing .	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/30	3.333
And how exactly would you know? Have you ever been humiliated for dressing a certain way? Pulled out of valuable education time to be discriminated against? Put a uniform in if you want those things to you know- WORK! Instead of being a sexist person who has no knowledge about what its like to be a woman in the 21st century. Scratch that- a woman at all. Before you tramps in here acting like you know things you in reality have no clue about, do some research about the disgusting shaming going on all around the world towards women's bodies.	Woman	Gender - General	2/100	2.0
xxMeghanxx How do you know I've never had to deal with anything like that? Also how exactly am I a sexist person for laying out the actual reasons for dress code, which involve training for a professional work environment, protecting students by enforcing a zero tolerance policy, and promoting a distraction free learning environment? School is a place to learn, it isn't a playground for girls (or anyone) to show off and be obnoxious. Plus don't all student have to sign a student contract that states they will follow the rules laid out in the student handbook anyways? So basically you claim its shaming to have girls follow basic guidelines (that they already agreed to follow) guidelines that also apply to male student and help foster a distraction free learning environment? Perhaps all students should just be required to wear full-body, unisex, jumpsuit type uniforms? Then we wouldn't have to worry about a handful of entitled teenagers complaining about not getting their way.	Zero	Age - Youngsters	1/163	0.613
See right there, sexist. Once again, shaming women and saying that they should not be, "showing off" theirs bodies. Sorry women have boobs, sorry we have shoulders, sorry we have butts, we can't change that. But we can change the sexism going on in public schools. Women have body parts, do not shame them for that.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/56	1.786

xxMeghanxx no one should be "showing off" anything in school except for their grades.....I don't give a damn if you are male, or female its a distraction. If you want to claim its "shaming" then go ahead, If anything schools should all make all students wear unisex uniforms. Like I said not even nice ones, I mean the ones that look like prison jumpsuits. Then no one can cry sexism , throw a tantrum, and get offended at being asked to follow basic rules that they already agreed (in writing) to follow. (as I stated above)	Sexism	Gender - General	1/95	1.053
supertechwoman11 Trolling? How about trying to fix this corrupt world of sexist pigs like yourself.	PIGS	Nationality - Southern European	1/15	6.667
isn't sexual objectification is when males treat females as sex objects. by wearing more makes female's personalities more noticed and appreciated therefore it prevents this objectification. is she really a feminist? i think she is not and she thinks she is. Doesn't feminist despise provocative females because they feel bad when a female is appreciated as a " sex object".	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	3/59	5.085
This woman is literally cancer.	Woman	Gender - General	1/5	20.0
Right Angle of Death Yes, she is a fat tumor with glasses and spreads bullsh!t to others	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/17	5.882
Beanieboostudio its normal for your mom to call you that, ignore that fanny thot	THOT	Gender - Female sexuality	1/14	7.143
Anyone else think that shes wearing blue colored contacts?	Colored	Ethnicity - Black	1/9	11.111
Ok Laci, first you say women are too sexualized, the you say they shouldn't cover up their skin. MAKE UP YOURE MIND WOMAN !!!!!!!	Woman	Gender - General	1/23	4.348
I went to numerous schools. only one seemed one sided. I, as a male, was in trouble for dress code multiple times. It is well made and many girls are still choosing to dress poorly and draw attention to themselves. I refuse to believe that so many girls are too stupid to realize that it is mainly the fact that they seem to believe that the rules don't apply to them that draws attention. or that clothing that was made to be used as underwear is okay in public as a top layer just because dancers wear it in sexual dances. Females can't be that inept.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/106	0.943

Freak you homosexual	Freak, Homosexual	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Sexual Identity - General	2/3	66.667
Male Student: wears sexual themed clothingMale Student: isn't expelledFemale Student: wears a loose sweater which shows forearmsFemale Student: gets expelled	Sexual	Gender - General	1/23	4.348
Are u serious. Girls at my school wear super short shorts and leggings that are super tight. And super small shirts.They wear so much sexual stuff. And when a boy wears a tank top-"WOAH MAN TOO FAR MIGHT AS WELL GET NAKED BRO"Heh okey	Sexual	Gender - General	1/45	2.222
Laci, no. I have male and female friends who are teachers, and I've had this discussion with them. All of them said pretty much the same thing; enforcing a dress code serves both to prepare students for a workplace environment and to protect faculty against spurious sexual harassment claims. I don't know you're aware of this or not, but most schools in the United States have a zero tolerance policy for sexual harassment (as they should). This means that if Two-Face Tammy gets a hair across her ass and decides to tell a school official that Professor Poosbury looked at her the wrong way or gave her an inappropriate compliment, Professor Poosbury has a good chance of losing his job, and since most schools have the same zero tolerance policy, he's going to have a real hard time finding a place to teach even if he is 100 innocent. Having and enforcing a decent dress code protects faculty from these types of false accusations.	Sexual, Zero	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	4/164	2.439
Yoga pants and legging are skin tight and so thin it make an ass look so good and it will make boys distracted	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/23	4.348
What am trien to say is that why cant a man talk shit to a female without being called a pussy ,why cnat we both have the same bathroom why cant we touch girls before being called a rapist,why cant men be prostitute WHY	pussy	Nationality - Chinese	1/43	2.326
Women are cool domt get me wrong am a gentleman but when theres bitches like laci you gotta beat the shit outta them and what you go to jail cuz they weak well think about that laci why doe we go to jail.Fuq for real why in school do teacher say girls are always smarter than boys hu gosh u bitch az nigga better stfu	Nigga	Ethnicity - Black	1/65	1.538

dress codes are in place to guide young people into dressing appropriately. if guys were to wear the same clothes as some girls do they would also get in trouble. I know for a fact because a guy at my school tried to wear yoga pants with nothing on overtop, and he got a detention and was forced to wear the "shame sweatpants". yes dress codes target women more because women have a much more diverse wardrobe option. for guys, we have shirts, pants or shorts. that is really it. girls have shirts, blouses, tube tops, belly shirts, dresses, pants, shorts, skirts and probably a hundred other things that I cant think of.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/113	0.885
Now has any guy tried to wear dress, at one of these school? A teen aged boy has been ejected for growing his long so he could get his cancer ridden sister a wig. Cause they have the same hair color. Could it not be a deviation from the norm, that cause these problems? And the staff made up the sex part to cover their fascism?	Sex	Gender - General	1/66	1.515
dumb	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/1	100.0
Dress code is also saying all men are sexual predators.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/10	20.0
Oh my GAWD. This is not due to sexism . It is simply inappropriate to wear fucking shorts that short at age 12. And guys don't get told to wear more appropriate clothes because guys are more likely to wear appropriate clothes. And when some dipshit is wearing a shirt that has hemp leaves on it, he's told to change shirts, and when an equally dipshit kid is sagging his pants, he's told to pull them up. It's all about wearing something appropriate, not about sexism or body shaming	Age, Body Shaming, Sexism	Age - General, Gender - General, Physical Identity - General	4/88	4.545
Susan Reese If what girls normally where is inappropriate, then no, they shouldn't be allowed to wear it. Boys are allowed to wear what they normally wear because it's appropriate. But women tend to wear more revealing clothes, and therefor they require more attention to make sure they wear appropriate clothes. I'm all for wearing whatever you want, but not at school and not at work. If you want to wear your short shorts, do it when it's appropriate. It's like wearing a dress to a drug deal. Nothing wrong with what they are wearing, just not appropriate for the situation	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/101	0.99
Girls at my old school couldn't wear tights, shorts, or skirts. No tank tops, no dresses and no make up. Ok so I guess we have to look ugly and dress like boys. Boys didn't even have to go to the dress code talk	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/44	2.273

At school, I got in trouble for wearing a tank top, and I was told to put something on to cover up in the sweltering hot weather. That same year, a boy came to school almost every day with super skinny jeans that he couldn't even get on his butt. He was allowed to walk around with his boxers clearly showing. My school isn't as bad as others, but it is still a problem, even in one of the most "liberal" states (Colorado). The main issue is not that this is not an unheard of double standard, but that schools aren't doing anything about it.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/105	0.952
This is not true. Females are supposed to dress like proper ladies and not bare skin. The fact that they do means that they are going straight to hell. We Jamaicans, believe that that this is true, which is why our women and clothes from head to foot. At Spanish Town High school where I work as a teacher, our girls are not allowed to wear shorts or tights as this will attract the older men to have sex on the school compound in quickie style. This is the type of sexism that i'm afraid of; independent women that dress too sexy. Men are men, so we can do men stuff. it's that simple.	Sex, Sexism	Gender - General	2/114	1.754
listen I have a dress code at my school I have to wear plain one color polos and I get suspended for sagging (I don't really care about sagging though it's douchy) and girls can wear pretty much whatever there's a short short thing that no one follows and guess what guys get distracted and it's puberty. if we can get boners at nothing at all what do you think it's like having asses all around you	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/76	1.316
A job interview, I also wouldn't wear it to school without something covering me up. You're dignity shouldn't come from your clothes it should come from you as a person. School has rules ok, we can't be on our phones in class, we have to dress appropriately, and we can't be late everyday. You still are a person, you just have to follow a few guidelines in exchange for the education. Nothing is wrong with your shoulders, it's just not appropriate for that setting	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/84	1.19
+O Holvey Inappropriate does not mean sexy. It means not suitable for that circumstance. School is a non profit organization for you. Its free education, do you understand how lucky we are to have it? How lucky we are to even have the option to wear shorts and tank tops? School isn't your home, it's a learning environment catered to the students. To keep order of hundreds of kids/teenagers there has to be rules. If one of those rules is to cover your shoulders, then follow it. Until you graduate and become an adult you follow their rules. Tbh I don't even see the problem with this. There are SOOO many clothes to wear, all within dress code. Girls have WAY more style options than guys yet I never hear boys complain about their shoulders. School is to learn, just follow dress code and your life will be so much simpler. It's not common sense.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/155	0.645

+Aaliyah Lucas Perhaps, but we are forced to go to school. I just think that it's a little unreasonable for them to sexualize young girls bodies. They are telling us that we have to cover up and forcing these habits on us. Not only is it from. very early age teaching girls that their bodies are mere sex objects for boys, it's telling guys that if a girl isn't covered up, it's their fault for what ever happens after. If school is there to teach us, it should also teach us life lessons like how to be okay with shoulders and not classify it as sexy or inappropriate.	Age, Sex	Age - General, Gender - General	2/108	1.852
+O Holvey Well you're only forced to go to school until your 16. And ok listen I get thats what Laci and other feminist say, that dress code "teaches boys our bodies are sex objects" and all that jazz. But the reality is nobody thinks that. In most cases when a girl gets dress coded the class will probably focus on that for a minute or two and move on. (Unless the teacher makes a big scene or something like that) I've never heard anyone, boy or girl, call a girls body a sex object except for feminist. Boys do not care if you are dress coded. Neither do girls. Feminist implant this type of thinking into peoples head looking for something to whine about when in reality, its nothing . If a girl is dress coded, they broke a rule. No internalized misogyny or anything like that, a rule was broken and thats all that anyone cares about. Boys aren't taught anything except maybe not to wear a tank top to school. Girls aren't sex objects and the most people in the general population know this	Misogyny, Nobody, Nothing, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	6/186	3.226
man this chick is sexy, i would bang her	Chick	Gender - General	1/9	11.111
Jeff The Turtle this is exactly why we shouldn't listen to men, they're mindless sex bots lmfao	Sex	Gender - General	1/15	6.667
+Puja Bose except this notion is only being perpetuated by feminist men and women.....the truth is that dress code is in place to promote a professional atmosphere for students and reduce distraction of any kind (this applies to everyone). On top of that schools typically have zero tolerance polices on sexual harassment/bullying so dress codes helps schools moderate what students wear to prevent offenses or incidents from happening. If boys should take offense to anything it should be the condescending tone and intellectual dishonesty used by these types of feminists.	Sexual, Zero	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/90	2.222

I'm confused on why your mad with these things here? Your talking about how women are specifically being taught to treat their bodies as something sexual and how they shouldn't. I agree totally but this is also the same for guys. I think you're tackling this at the wrong angle and not realising that protesting against not being aloud to wear things that are not worn for convince but for attractiveness isn't the best solution when you realise, THEY DONT WEAR YOGA PANTS TO LOOK "PRETTY" THEY WEAR IT TO LOOK "HOT" or sexual . So when schools ban females wearing sexual types of clothing that definitely are made to attract others, then it's a no brainier that that is and inappropriate thing and should be banned. Just because guys don't wear as sexually defining stuff as teen girls and older women do, doesn't mean that they should not be punished on the same level when they do.	Sexual	Gender - General	3/157	1.911
Why are we assumed to be sex hungry beings with no self control.	Sex	Gender - General	1/13	7.692
i wouldn't call American schools... GREAT per say. and yes... women's body's are technically more sexual than guys as men's FUCKING BRAINS are DESIGNED to... well... arouse them from almost anything visual. women are physiologically less attracted to the clothed mans body than men are to a womans. its science. but aside from some bullshit you spout here and there i agree! i want women to be able to wear short shorts and yoga pants at my school! freedom of expression or something like that... yeah... P.S. im a heterosexual male	Sexual	Gender - General	1/91	1.099
Laci I don't think you really understand. There are several reasons as to why there are dress codes in schools.The first reason is that there are dress codes everywhere you go that must comply to or face consequences i.e. getting fired, being detained, etc. It's training women AND men for the real world. You can't just go around showing your tits everywhere and it be okay.The second is that it's not just a distraction for the boys, but it puts the male faculty's jobs in jeopardy. "Well they shouldn't be teaching!", you might say. Well here's the thing. All mean, regardless of age , are extremely visual creatures. As a self proclaimed 'sexpert' you should know this. Of course you aren't and know nothing about sexuality but I digress. I read a note from a woman who's husband works maintenance at a high school. He has to look down or at the ceiling during passing periods because if he makes eye contact with ONE girl who's showing too much off he could be fired and sued. The third is that science has proven that girls actually feel more confident when guys notice them and they're modest. People never think about that but it's true. So yeah, there are no reasons or standards that don't affect men as well as women, and there is nothing sexist about them.	Age, Nothing, Woman	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	4/228	1.754

I wore a tighter school uniform shirt when I went to school. (It was a polo shirt and khaki pants, and the shirt wasn't THAT tight) One boy grabbed my breasts without me wanting him to, so I went tell the principle and he simply said "well you shouldn't be wearing such a tight shirt" and that was it. He did nothing .	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/62	1.613
I'm glad my sexual assault amuses you so.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/8	12.5
+Sarah Taylor Lol, in my country if a guy did that he will be ostracised from the society even if he is a juvenile. But generally both guys and girls in Asia are quite modest so it never happens. Neither girls nor guys dress like sex workers unless they really are.	Sex	Gender - General	1/51	1.961
Lol, we had uniforms. So it was just a tight polo shirt and looser khaki pants. Nothing extreme. I just developed early and wasn't good at hiding it at the time.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/31	3.226
And to the removed spam comments... Maybe there's this many similar stories because it happens often to young women? Why would that be hard to imagine? Young teenage boys going through puberty around young teenage girls developing breasts and what not. The problem is nothing was done about it by an adult. Kids do dumb things... But I expected the adult to make an example of the young man in some way. To act as if such behavior would not be accepted.	Dumb, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/82	2.439
I remember that this guy had on red contacts, a red & black Chicago Bulls shirt, and black sweat pants. The teacher told him that he couldn't wear them because they were "distracting". I told the teacher that all middle school kids are distracted because of puberty and whatnot and your mad about red contacts. She got mad at me and sent him to the office. He had to take out the contacts and change his shirt because of "gang affiliation" Which is weird because we live in Illinois. Tell me what you think about this.	Black, Red, Weird	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - Native- American, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	9/96	9.375

My school doesn't care too much about dress code as long as there are no spaghetti straps and your shorts are a decent length, but what I hate is the fact that almost my whole school faculty is completely and utterly racist . Like if a "white" girl wears yoga pants and you can visibly see her thong and whole backside, but when an "Asian" girl shows just a tiny bit of belly button because her shirt accidentally rose too high at the wrong time, she gets sent to detention :(	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/90	1.111
This subject pisses me off so much. Feminists constantly use problems in third world countries as justification for their movement, but they choose to spend their time complaining about bullshit like this. There are women out there who are being attacked with acid and you're literally complaining that you can't wear shorts to school. Come on.And also, dress codes are mostly in place to protect the staff of the school from ridiculous sexual harassment accusations, as well as to protect the students. Please grow up.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/86	1.163
+Esnes Nommoc It's called prioritization. Your bullshit complaints against a dress code isn't as important as the homeless crisis, mental illness or suicide. It's just not. Thinking it's somehow super important that you wear whatever you feel like in school just shows how sheltered you are from real life. You have first world problems and no one but other entitled middle class whiners with no real issues would complain about it with a straight face.	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/75	1.333
xXJiggyKittehXxWhen campaigns like free the nipple are given more priority than male suicides then I am well within my rights to criticize feminists for their warped prioritization. Or do you think that nipples on display are more important than other people's mental and physical health?	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/46	2.174

xXJiggyKittexX Yeah I hate when that happens to me. So frustrating when you accidentally click off the screen and you're forced to rewrite the whole thing.I'm not trying to attack you or anything. I'm not opposed to local, small scale activism if it's possible it may improve someone's life. Even it's something like increasing lunch times or physical activity. As long as there's some sort of sense involved and people don't expect someone else to do all the heavy lifting.However as to dress code, there's usually reasons for it. It reduces problematic attention to females and males from their peers, may reduce bullying based on wardrobe and may help with developing a standard of personal grooming which helps build up discipline for workplaces that require even more stringent and more tedious attention to dress code.My original issue was feminism claiming to care about something in the third world like FGM and doing nothing about that and instead focusing on random stuff that's probably not particularly helpful to anyone like a dictionary example.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/175	0.571
+wayne de olival you know that feminism is about FEMALES, right? Also, alot of feminism as about fighting mental health issues that are caused by body standards	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/27	3.704
+ohmsbeliever I am glad you seem so concerned about us, women of the third world. Jokes aside, I have an issue to raise. It's a personal narrative, but it impacted all the girls in my class at the time.So, I live in south India, and on my 11th grade field trip we went on a safari in Rajasthan. We were staying in a small hotel, with a tiny pond like pool in the centre where out teachers gave us an afternoon off after a morning hike . Everyone was sweaty and it was super hot (Rajasthan is near a desert area) so naturally we thought it would be nice to jump in the pool. All the girls went to change in their swimsuits (not bikinis, this is India remember) but modest one pieces while the boys just took off their clothes and wore basically speedos.Yet not one girl was able to get in the pool in her swimsuit. Out teachers were scandalised and quickly told us to get back in our rooms and told us we could only go in the pool with our clothes on.No one protested, and in the end only a few	Hike	Nationality - Italian	1/197	0.508

+ohmsbeliever girls got in with the boys (me included, I was really really hot)Just because we live in the third world, it doesn't mean we don't need women in the first world to fight for equality too. In some situations, it's very absurd and quite frustrating to be told that the only problems you have when you're a woman in the third world is that "ooh acid is thrown at you."There are more rapes in the USA than in India, just to put that there.Men in our countries are not more or less "sexist" than in yours, it's just a matter of education. It's fair for a woman to not want her body to be sexualised, especially in a school context.	Woman	Gender - General	2/124	1.613
Shannon Ryan THE DRESS CODE IS NOT SEXIST. It astonishes me how unbelievably privileged you are! The dress code is there to promote a professional environment in schools AND to protect staff from flimsy sexual harassment charges. I'm sorry, but you will probably not be able to wear whatever you want in your future job.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/55	1.818
ohmsbelieverSexism-"Prejudice, stereotyping, OR DISCRIMINATION, typically against women, on the basis of sex ."-Oxford DictionaryDiscrimination-"The UNJUST or prejudicial TREATMENT of different categories OF PEOPLE or things, especially ON the GROUNDS OF race , age , or SEX "-Oxford DictionaryUnjust-"NOT based on or behaving according to what is morally right and FAIR:"-Oxford DictionaryUnfair-"NOT BASED ON or behaving according to the principles of EQUALITY and justice:"-Oxford DictionaryEquality-"The state of BEING EQUAL, especially in status, rights, and opportunities:"-Oxford DictionaryEqual-"Being the SAME IN quantity, size, DEGREE, or value:"-Oxford DictionaryDegree-"The AMOUNT, LEVEL, or EXTENT to which SOMETHING HAPPENS OR is PRESENT:"-Oxford DictionaryTherefore, school dress codes which tend to in degree be more strict, focused on and implemented on females than males are sexist.	Age, Race, Sex	Age - General, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	4/121	3.306

wayne de olival (Prepare for a long series of rhetorical questions)Yes, I realize sexes are different and equality is impossible. However, even if equality and fairness is impossible does this mean we shouldn't still fight for them? And, just because society believes something doesn't make it fair or right. Do you think Germany under Hitler was fair and right to kill Jews and others because the society thought so? You cannot judge me for such an extreme example when you used communism as one. Also, yes I'm aware that communism in theory is wonderful but horrible in application.However, if schools allowed girls more freedom to wear what they want would it really have such a negative effect? The boys, as schools so often highlight the effect on them, somehow can still learn in college even though girls are much more likely and able to wear outfits banned in high school.Regardless, should a female student be responsible for another person's response to her appearance? Should a female student be forced to not wear clothing she finds comfortable just to be less sexual to other students and teachers? Should a female student's comfort matter less than her perceived sexuality to others? Should this be fair and just simply because society says it is so? Or is it unfair and unjust for a female's comfort in society to matter less than her perceived sexuality to others? Should a female not be allowed the choice to decide her dress and possibility of wardrobe malfunction simply because of the possibility? What matters more the possibility or her choice? Should we force people to confirm simply because we don't want them to be ridiculed?P.S-If you want me to address anything more specifically just ask and I'll do my best. I simply thought the post was getting way too long. Also, although I may disagree with you I respect your insight. I enjoy debates. On another note, I'll add this here because it didn't flow with my comment, I have good reason for using dictionary definitions. She was saying dress codes could not be defined as sexist. What better way to show her this is untrue than by showing her the definition? Obviously, reality and sexism is much more complex than the definitions. However, I was merely trying to prove that the word sexist certainly applied, regardless how complex the matter. Last one, I keep saying comfort at the end as female students often say they want to wear banned outfits because they find them more comfortable.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	2/424	0.472
---	----------------	------------------	-------	-------

Shannon Ryan This could take a while...Also spacing between paragraphs makes text a lot less painful to read.If a goal is impossible, then it's probably better to refocus attention on something with a higher chance of success. If you're going to break Godwin's law then let's go full on stupid. Nazis scapegoated the Jews as a way of gaining political influence over the poor masses. The members of German society who actually agreed with the 'final solution' were probably in the minority. The minority intimidated and othered the Jews with hateful stereotypes. As feminists do to men by calling men rapists and inherently violent and having toxic masculinity. They propagate this message in universities and society with consent classes for men only, the VAWA and Duluth model that ignores female perpetrators of violence and feminists that excuse false rape accusations as being irrelevant eg mattress girl.As for schools allowing more freedom in dress codes, it may not have negative impacts... however it's quite likely to have negative impacts on the student populace. As mentioned before it can draw unwanted attention to female students. Considering the amount of idiots that count stare rape as a thing and the prevalence of sexual harassment being based on the feelings of the 'victim'. Schools are safer in avoiding potential litigation. There's a huge difference between males of 13 and those who've hit 18 years of age. Comparing high school and college aged students is ridiculous. Males hit puberty in high school and are dealing with massive influxes of testosterone and emotional turbulence. College freshmen have for the most part finished puberty and have become accustomed to the testosterone in their bodies. An 18 year old male is mentally far more developed than a 13 year old. Typically a 16 year old female will be more emotionally and intellectually mature than her male counterpart due to differing physical, psychological and sexual development.As for comfort... Well life sucks and males are also forced to conform to stringent social standards as to dress codes. For example the 9 to 5 world is rife with the expectation that you (males anyway) have to wear a suit and tie to a job interview. A tie is essentially a cloth noose around the neck that indicates a male's willingness to conform to an uncomfortable standard. Whereas women have far greater options as to 'professional dress' where it's usually just something clean and not showing too much skin. If a female is willing to accept the consequences of her decision then sure she can wear whatever she wants. However most feminists don't actually want to accept consequences for actions. They want the world to allow them to wear and say anything they want while not reacting. Which is bloody unrealistic. However maybe one day female students if they're willing to take the chances with their wardrobes will simply sign a waiver absolving the school for any responsibilities caused by a student's wardrobe.	Age, Old, Sexual	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	6/495	1.212
--	------------------	---	-------	-------

Shannon Ryan I didn't compare the dress code to communism. My point was that dictionaries are inadequate to address larger social contexts because they are simplistic tools to convey basic meanings not a be all and end all of understanding. Which was in response to you providing text book definitions of unfair, discrimination, sexism , unjust, equality and equal as if that meant anything.A tangential point not related to dress codes but disputing your use of the logical fallacy appeal to definition. [LINK] This logical fallacy is laughed at when used to excuse feminism based on its definition because in the real world people base their reactions on the actual actions rather than theoretical beliefs of subscribers.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/117	0.855
Hazy Willow Dress codes are not sexist. They're in place to promote a professional environment and to protect staff from bogus sexual harassment allegations. And don't you dare try to tell me that not being able to wear shorts is just as bad as having acid thrown on your face or being married off at a young age .	Age, Sexual	Age - General, Gender - General	2/58	3.448
In my school we wear uniform. White shirt, gray skirt, red tie, red sweater, and black shoes, What's sucks is we can't dye our hair, wear make, or wear nail polish because the principal says we need to be pure.ALEAST LET ME PAINT MY NAILS!	Black, Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - Native-American	5/46	10.87
Just so you know guys will get shit for walking around in a muscle shirt and short shorts. They will be told to change or given detention.If they are overweight and doing that, sent home lol. Boys already find female bodies sexual , no one is taught this	Sexual	Gender - General	1/47	2.128
My school, been afew years, was the same for most uk schools.boys and girls had to wear the same white shirt,tucked in. black trousers, tie and blazer as the boys did. P.E shorts to our knees. Top button done up, with the tie at least 4 buttons long. Sometimes in summer girls were aloud to wear a certain skirt down to there knee's, no one was bullied for what they wore, boys and girls were equal. We were there to learn, expressing ourselves in our chosen subjects. Nowadays its all this "everyone's unique and special" lets judge each other on who's mummy or daddy can buy them the nicest things. I would argue that wearing short skirts and a low-cut top wouldn't be a school id send any daughter of mine too. Called me sexist but I want her looking professional.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/141	0.709

at least you can go to fucking school. you cant wear a tank top? so fucking what?? girls in third world countries cant attend school at all. i bet theyd love to take your education, since obviously its done nothing good for you.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/43	2.326
Okay, this is where your bullshit hits the line. Just because one gender is different from the other in terms of WHAT THEY WEAR, doesn't mean its sexist. Would you want to see a boy in a tank-top with a skirt that barely goes down to his knees? I wouldn't, but hey that means I'm sexist, because I am fine with a girl wearing a skirt and tank-top, but not a boy. No pedo stuff in this comment. I'm not that type of person.	Gender	Gender - General	1/84	1.19
I'm done with dating. All you women say to girls is "You can like as many guys as you want" so when we decide hey I like that girl she already likes 20 other guys. Let's not forget that every one of my friends likes personality over looks. I like a girl who seems to always ignore me and it pisses me off. You literally teach girls to do something that completely kills our self esteem, that is ignoring us. Don't go complain about dress codes when you need to teach girls why we freak out when they do certain things. News flash: not every guy is going to college. some of us need girlfriends before we get out of high school. That's what the military does	Freak	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/127	0.787
Everyone don't you think that some of the clothes that women where are ment to be sexual	Sexual	Gender - General	1/17	5.882
I don't agree with what you are saying here. First of all, I do not believe it is just against girls. I'm pretty sure if a guy wore tight enough or short enough to display his genital area, he'd be accused of being distracting, too because you know it is super normal to get aroused when there are ladies with yoga pants in puberty as well as a girl getting aroused by a guy, please no offence to gay people I'm just trying to make my point here.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/88	2.273
well i mean this generationstarting at 13 years old dress with short stuff and tight stuff i'm pretty sure there's a problem in that as well! little girls should dress like they are going to the club when going to SCHOOL! oh well..	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/43	2.326

Okay, since nobody said this at all apparently I'M going to have to be the one to say it: Dress codes are WAY more sexist towards men. Really, if a man wears a skirt or a dress to school he would immediately be expelled or suspended. Would that happen for a woman? No. Women are complaining that they can't wear dresses that reveal too much shoulder? Well they're lucky they can wear dresses at all. I would never wear a dress or a skirt to school, but that's just me. I'm speaking for all the men who are too afraid to do so just because society and the dress code tells them not to. It's really sad, and I'm surprised that this video only addressed sexism towards women, when really, the dress code case is A LOT more sexist towards men. Women actually have it better. If a man wears a tank top or short shorts at all, he would still be suspended or expelled. If a woman does that, she's just asked to change. That's it. Men can really only wear pants and a shirt. Women can wear ALL KINDS of things, and they complain just about shoulder exposure? Really, it's sad that people think that the dress code is more sexist toward women when REALLY, it's WAY more sexist towards men. And many men are TOO AFRAID to address this issue because they are expected to be as masculine as humanly possible; and even TALKING ABOUT IT would result in them being called a sissy, pussy or a faggot or whatever. I didn't want to be the one to say this, and it REALLY IS embarrassing to even say this at all, but HOLY FUCK does this make me mad. I also forgot to mention, there are actually some school that won't allow men to wear SHORTS! That's right, you heard me! SHORTS! When women can wear shorts, short dresses, short skirts, and men are stuck with hot, sweaty pants. This video also addressed that women can't wear leggings, and she's fucking complaining, but MEN NEVER COULD AT ALL! Really, nobody has complained because they are too afraid to. I HATE to be the guy who has to say this, but it HAS to be me since nobody else is saying it. Women can wear whatever they want, when men are stuck with trousers. In fact, I would WANT to protest this, but the school, society and my friends would ALL tell me that what I'm doing is wrong JUST BECAUSE I'M A MALE! And you call dress codes sexist just because of fucking TANK TOPS? This video disgusts me.	Faggot, Nobody, Sexism, Sissy, Woman, pussy	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Nationality - Chinese, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	9/442	2.036
---	--	--	--------------	--------------

Girls for the most part are encouraged to wear what they please (in my country I can't speak for yours) if it complys with the dress code of the school, men for the most part are told to wear, shirt (white) trousers ( black ) blazer ( black + logo) shoes ( black ) men are NOT allowed to deviate from this, men are not allowed to express their sex , they have to be nutral ( black and white) a man is not allowed to wear what is concidered female clothing (even if they identify as female) and you still think it's a female only issue, woman are allowed to wear shirts or trousers, yet boys can't wear skirts if they want to, don't tell me it's only woman that experience this because men also experience this	Black, Sex, Woman	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	7/131	5.344
Girls do suffer with body shaming , they are told to "be skinny " "be blond" "wear makeup" but for guys it's the same "be lean and or muscular" "have a cute fringe" "be clean shaven", if both genders experience body shaming it's not a point of contention to argue your point, it's a gender nutral issue	Body Shaming, Gender, Skinny	Gender - General, Physical Identity - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	4/55	7.273
"set the stage for harassment" etr, you say men are sexist, you just stated that all men (or in your words boys) are sexual deviants that only care for sex , pooling an entire gender for a stereotype is sexist...	Gender, Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	3/39	7.692
self objectification is gender nutral, guys and girls alike dress, scrutinise and make themselves look a certain way to attract the opposite (or same) sex , stop acting as if it's a female only issue, many woman say "I wonder if I should cut my hair so guys would like me more" and many men say "I wonder if I should cut my hair so girls would like me more"	Gender, Sex, Woman	Gender - General	3/69	4.348
I'm almost 100 sure if a guy came to school waring a skirt that was short and a belly showing tank top, he will be A) told to change by a teacher and or told him he's wearing girl clothing B) told he's gay for wearing "Girls clothes C) bullied D) rejected by his friends E) Excluded from school for breaking uniform codes and so on, guys are prohibited from wearing certain things just like girls yet a gender nutral issue has yet again been stolen by the feminist ideology	Gay, Gender	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	3/90	3.333

Guys have stronger sexual feelings then female's it is proven science, I am for equal rights of both sex's, but when a girl wears a tank top are guys suppose to ignore all the feelings going on in there heads and ignore there psychology, to a extent they do have control over it but at the same time they don't so it can be distracting	Sexual	Gender - General	1/65	1.538
Boys are! I'm a boy all be it a lot older now. If I was a young lad again & saw how girls act & dress, I could not get any work done!Girls like to feel pretty. So the dress in what makes them feel pretty as a result they act flirtatious due to developing hormones & growing up, you mix that with "sexy" clothes like you said "he's making me feel uncomfortable" attitude you have the pre programming of devas! Boys being boy like to look at bum nicely shrunk wrapped by leggings! Or the cheeky glimpse of underwear from under the short skirt. Suddenly school work is boring & the girl is not. I definitely agree with using it as an excuse to get life there own way! As its a woman's word we live in now. & med are made to feel inadequate due to social programming that starts at a young age . I mean I have seen dads kicking off cos some dude is looking at his daughter "who is 14 but looks 19" Yet the Parents are the one letting the poor girl go out in clothes that show way to much skin!	Age, Bum	Age - General, Social Class - Destitute	2/199	1.005
:D that is absolutely not true. If boy showed up wearing tight yoga pants showing his balls penis butt and everything it will be considered distracting and not acetable. But they dont cos they dont want to present they " sexual parts"(mostly even some of them show half of their butt in some pants - whitch is also considered not appropriate). And lots of time girls do dress like that to explicitly provoke sexual attention - and if it is shown by boys they feel harassed. That is kind of sili. And primary goal of school is to educate -> so you need attention -> so you don't want distractions sexual or others	Sexual	Gender - General	3/112	2.679
She looks like she drools while having multiple orgasms during sex .	Sex	Gender - General	1/11	9.091

The whole premise of this video is outdated and incorrect. Firstly, there are dress codes for boys as well as girls, so exactly how are girls singled out? They are not. Secondly the idea that preventing girls showing too much skin objectifies them and hyper sexualises them is pure parody. Don't you get it? One of the purposes of a dress code is to PREVENT the sexualisation of girls, because dressing provocatively sexualises and attracts attention. Girls can dress however they want, but there is a time and a place for everything. You wouldn't dress in a bikini at a church, so why should you at a school? You wear a bikini at the pool or at the beach. Any kid, male or female who dresses in revealing clothing is going to distract other kids in school. Hormones are raging at that age, and both genders have them equally. Is it really so terrible to understand that someone showing flaunting themselves will distract others from their work, male or female? No one is saying wear a burka or get attacked. They are not saying boys can't control themselves. They are saying do all things in moderation and have consideration for others. But I guess that's beyond modern day feminists who are grasping for something to complain about. I've never heard so many silly buzzwords and hipster terms in one video. And it's all pathetic. A lot of talk but you're saying nothing. It's kind of scary that young women today have nothing but this rubbish on their mind. Are you all going to grow up into a pain the ass that society has no use for? Grow the hell up. Concentrate on your schoolwork not whiny trash.	Age, Nothing	Age - General, Age - Youngsters	3/287	1.045
Most schools are so stupid. I had a choir concert one morning for the school board so I wore a nice black dress that I had worn the day before with heels and my hair at the time being long to cover my shoulders. It was about 75 that morning but it was also spring. I didn't want to change afterwards so that I could get to my 2cd honors class of the day on time. During lunch that day an assistant principal who is an older woman came followed me down the hall as I was going back to class with my friends and said I had to change. I was sent to the office and forced to wear an over large white tee shirt for the remaining 4 hours of the day. This is not the first time something has happened. Me and many girls get in trouble for wear tank tops during spring and summer or joggers, leggings and yoga pants. (In KY summer can get up to 95+) These are clothes that I would wear to work in a high end retail store and have before. I often get compliments on my style from clients. I	Black, Woman	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	2/200	1.0

Dont wear tight revealing clothing, and act professional because school is not the red carpet. follow these rules and you wont be dress coded.	Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American	2/24	8.333
Last semester I had to change out of my short because they were "3 inches above the bend of my knee" and because I'm so thin they had to give me a belt along with the pants they gave me. These are the longest shorts I own and when I went shopping for new ones, the ones that fit were practically underwear so I had to wear pants in the summer. :/	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/72	1.389
I'm not entirely sure what this lady is advocating here, but I agree that boys should be subject to the same kinds of dress code restrictions as girls (no sleeveless, short shorts, yoga pants etc). As for the rest of this nonsense I am not sure I agree. Dress codes aren't designed to be sexist. They exist to help keep the focus on education because despite what your feminist pea brain might think clothing a massive distraction regardless of gender . While revealing clothing is a major distraction for guys especially youngsters its alot more complicated than that. Adolescents spend way too much time worrying about what to wear to class, what their peers are wearing and whats in style. Also not all students come from the same socioeconomic class leaving many poorer students feeling inadequate to the richer students with their overinflated wardrobes. An explicit, well defined dress code restricts the amount of choice thus reducing the amount of time wasted on fashion bullshit as well as levels the playing field for the more impoverished. Common sense restrictions on revealing (or sexy?) lessens distractions for guys and girls. Also safety-related reasons. We are trying to prepare kids for the workplace so we should dress more professional and less provocative. Self expression is great as are other freedoms but these are children. So long pants, closed toe shoes, socks, shirts, minimal jewlery and sleeves. No cleavage, no tight fitting items, no sagging pants, no shorts (exception PE, sports etc), no exposed midriff. I'm from south Texas and I know its never soo hot that tank tops and booty shorts have been necessary... Dress codes assist with education (American schools really need all the help they can get) they arent deliberately oppressive to little girls.	Common, Gender	Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	4/293	1.365

i like that she brought up the body shaming aspect of it, because i feel like that isn't talked about nearly often enough. i'm a curvy latina girl. i have thick thighs and defined hips. there have been MANY instances, from when i was 12 up until junior year when i finally just started wearing jeans almost exclusively, where i was told by administrators and my parents that my shorts or my skirts were too inappropriate because of aspects of my bodythat i can't change and that definitely aren't inherently sexual . even worse, my little sister who has a thinner build and an overall more straight frame was allowed by my mother, who had several times made me change what i was wearing for being "distracting", to wear short shorts or skirts that i wasn't permitted to wear. i am not an object and i think what's really inappropriate here is that i was sexualized at a very young age because of my body.	Age, Body Shaming, Sexual	Age - General, Gender - General, Physical Identity - General	3/164	1.829
your going to school ,if your going to school you are going to to get and education, not to go with almost no clothes in your body to get attention (to clarify you know that wearing that short shorts will get attention but because you wanna wear it any way you go)and to clarify laci keeps claiming that she is a feminist and keeps on saying feminism is fighting for equality and so on , but from a feminist I have never seen equal representation of both genders problems, as a boy in my old school that we weren't good enough teachers always said that if boys will get talked to by principals and so on because they are boys, and just because of that the principal targets the boys to the point of extreme, I was once sat down to talk to my principal. because I didn't have a zipper in my pants and girls complained about it and whenever a girl got in trouble for something she did she would always start to "cry" and play the victim, also I was in a crowded hallway once and a couple of girls were trying to get past and every one is trying to go and accidentally touched her butt I got a suspension and almost got called the police on because of her fake victim act like I did something worse.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/233	0.429
And if a lesbian does what men do? Everything is fine and dandy huh. Gosh can't stand all these liberals	Lesbian	Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	1/20	5.0
In response to some of the posters saying im 15 you are the problem if you are sexualizing me the posters make it sound like 30 year old guys are the ones sexualizing them when in fact its other 15 year old boys and if boys wore clothes that tightly wrapped their package for everyone to see like girls do with their asses then those boys would be sexualized too	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/70	2.857

Dumb femenist fails to argue anything properly at all. Love how she's supporting young girls to sexualize themselves.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/18	5.556
+supertechman11 Idk about that but your right it's not a damn fashion runway it's school. Now we can all act stupid and all but girls do use their looks to get boys attention and boys do get distracted by it. I should know cuz I'm a hormonal teen boy down to get some any time. These dress code rules should be follow and the parents should make sure of it before their kids head off to school. The only price they ask of you is to fucking cover up! This isn't an equality issue it's not sexualizing our young girls but I guess she's all for 13 year old girls to wear yoga pants and booty shorts. Fails to talk about male issues all the time and acts like boys don't have to follow the dress code either.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/138	0.725
All this chick needs is a big dick	Chick	Gender - General	1/8	12.5
+Darren Williams How are "Natural born rapists" and feminism related? Being a feminist only means you believe women have the same rights as their male counterparts do. If you're not a feminist then you're misogynist , or ignorant.	Misogynist	Gender - General	1/37	2.703
David bonilla So is my Wife a misogynist because she repudiates the anti-male hatred and bigotry of feminism? And Btw 'David', I seriously doubt that you're actually a male. I've seen it many times before, when vicious man-hating lesbian feminist BIGOTS like yourself pose as men on social media....	Lesbian, Misogynist	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	2/49	4.082
She is either misinformed or is brainwashed by your absurd views. Simply answer this question. Do you think women have the same rights as men? If your answer is yes, you're also a feminist. I'm not sure where you've gotten all of this other stuff from but please stop misinforming other people when you know nothing about the subject. & if you think I'd take the time to make a YouTube channel and have subbed to over 200+ channels just so I can fake my gender then go ahead.	Gender, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/89	2.247
You didn't answer my question. Stop avoiding the obvious, you're either a feminist in denial or you're misogynist .	Misogynist	Gender - General	1/18	5.556
+David bonilla "if you're not a feminist then you're misogynist , or ignorant" just because I'm not a part of a bullshit cause doesn't make me a fucking misogynist .	Misogynist	Gender - General	2/28	7.143

David Ross lmfao! No shit!! But FYI, her REAL name isn't 'David'. I've seen this a few times before on Social Media. Sometimes Vicious Man-hating Lesbian Feminist Bigots like her will use a male name, because she thinks that it will give her opinion more credibility. This is how phony and pathetic she is. The sad thing is, that what I say is very true. -The blood of a THOUSAND beheaded little girls can run in the streets overseas, and putrid hypocrites like 'David' couldn't care less, because she's too busy sucking on her little soother, and pissing her little panties, over such infantile, Mickey-Mouse shit like 'Manspreading'. -It just doesn't get anymore pathological and repulsive, then phony cunts like her.....	Lesbian	Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	1/120	0.833
LMFAO!!! We just found out who you truly are 'David'. Your REAL name is 'Cathy' and apparently you have a face that's so UGLY that it could knock a fucking maggot off a deal cow! LOL!!! Is it any WONDER why you're such a Man-hating Lesbian Feminist filthy fucking BIGOT! -Good luck with the rest of your sorry-ass lonely life, dog-shit face...	Lesbian	Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	1/62	1.613
I agree that yoga pants and shorts are fine but honestly, slut shaming (both men and women) along with fat shaming aren't bad. They're unhealthy behaviors. If you don't want to be called a slut don't be one. If you don't want to be made fun of for being fat don't eat as much and go to the gym.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/59	3.39
Is it just me or have she put on a bit of weight as of late? Look at her, she is getting quite fat isn't she?	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/26	3.846
AlpaQ Yeah, sure, but still quite fat ! a fatty is a fatty !	Fat, Fatty	Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/12	25.0
If you want to see a real fat person, go to Walmart or look up fat people on google.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/19	10.526
dress codes are perfectly fair. for spaghetti straps, when boys look at the spaghetti straps they think of spaghetti, and nothing can get between a boy and his pasta	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/29	3.448

The only problem with dress code in my school is that my shorts can't be any shorter than my knee, but yet this guy had a nearly naked in a thong and bra posing on a bed while wearing a headdress (and it wasn't even a native american woman which made it worse). Like lmao my shoulders and knees are distracting boys but his porno shirt isn't like tf	Woman	Gender - General	1/69	1.449
You see, that woman voluntarily went into that line of work, I.e. Modeling. She gets paid for it, and she is well aware of what's going on with those pictures and she has given full consent, I do not see the problem with that shirt.	Woman	Gender - General	1/45	2.222
You do know men have to go by the same dress code right? Or the fact that it's not really meant for sexism it's because a 10-17 shouldn't be allowed to wear clothing that shows to much because of common decency, and most people who against dress code are just trying to get attention.	Common, Sexism	Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	2/54	3.704
the dress code if for boys. So they don't get charged for sexual anything. Because the law hates boys and men. girls and women have all the rights.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/28	3.571
Second video and I agree moreso with this one than the first one (mostly poor representation). I can agree that women should be a bit more free. However, the distraction thing is mostly a myth in my opinion (not saying its a fact). Still, though. Your body is your temple, and you should show it the way you want. One thing, though...excessively short shorts (we'll give it a good rounding of shorter than the finger tips), or anything that is obviously very sexual in nature (for both men and women) should be sanctioned merely because that is a public place. Spaghetti straps are cool, leggings are cool, shorts are cool, but what isn't cool is when a girl walks in wearing nothing but nipple covers. Or maybe a swathe of cloth that loosely resembles a shirt. The majority of men's fashion don't try to accentuate their man parts...for the most part. More than willing to talk about it in the comments so long as you're level headed and willing to listen.	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/171	1.17
Ok, first of all, yes. Yes. This is all sexual . Thighs? Yes. It connects to the butt, which is sexual . "It doesn't have to be," some feminists might say. Well, it's NATURAL HUMAN NATURE for boys to like butts. It's naturally sexual . The feeling is there because it's our body making us want to reproduce, which is required for the human race to survive. Boobs? Yes. Again. Natural. Vagina? WELL ARE YOU AN IDIOT? The only one I really get you wining about is shoulders and back, nothing is sexual about those. My message to feminists are, "Stop wining, your not being raped when someone looks at you, and, not everything is sexual harassment and rape. Thank you, and stop being idiots."	Nothing, Race, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	7/122	5.738

I feel uncomfortable wearing literally anything at my school except for sweatpants and a hoodie because of this fucking creepy ass teacher who has gotten tons of reports for being creepy and sexual harassment yet he's still teaching classes. Someone help me.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/42	2.381
If you can, hire an old guy to dress up in a thong and dance in front of your teacher, asking, "Do you think this is hit? Do you? Do you?" Lol jk, please don't do that.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/37	2.703
I did it once... May or may not have gotten suspended for a week. No, I didn't dress in a thong and... I got some old guy to do it on the condition of five bucks. Jk, I didn't but I was sure thinking of doing it.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/47	2.128
Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/13	7.692
oh yeah I don't want to be an object but I want to wear tights , show boobs and lots of skin. no common sense at all	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/27	3.704
omg, girls like sex too!!!!	Sex	Gender - General	1/5	20.0
+Ryan Kahlie Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/15	6.667
Ikr!!! Who knew women have sexual urges!! Shocker!!	Sexual	Gender - General	1/9	11.111
+Ryan Kahlie No they don't. I'm 6'1.5 barefoot (taller than 90) and muscular/athletic (stronger than 98 of men) and I can't get girls easy. Women don't like sex that much, they like what sex gets them, money. If (19+) They won't have sex with guys unless they have a lot of money or are a pushover (beta provider- do lots of favors,overly nice etc.) , bad boy or have a model face.. MGTOW	Sex	Gender - General	3/73	4.11

+Jonah Larson facepalm Thats COMPLETELY irrational,not all women will have sex for money or for pushovers, woman are NOT that greedy!Have you heard of mothers?You know,some women immigrate so she can be with a man she loves,and most likely have sex with them afterwards;maybe even have a child.But I see your point,some women will have sex for money or pushovers,but some,maybe most do it because of love (ik thats sappy af but still) all women are different,so they can also have sex for different reasons	Sex, Woman	Gender - General	5/84	5.952
Arthur Kirkland The Scone Majesty Most women are gold diggers. If a guy was to lose all his money and work at mcdonalds his gf probably wouldn't be with him anymore. Ya, I have a mom and I heard her say in 1 moment of time when I was a kid that I need to get a good job and go to college and that women don't like men who work at mcdonalds. She knows how women are. That is proof to me that women nowadays are generally gold diggers and I have many other reasons. Its not some, its most for sure. Women don't love men, they LOVE what men can do for them, utility, what men have etc. Women love the government. Women like men for dumb reasons, men actually like women herself. Women don't like men the same way men like women, that's a huge hollywood lie. When I said pushover, I meant women nowadays want full control of the relationship where the man has to accept all there bad behaviors and if he doesn't she dumps him and finds a new bf that will (another pushover).Accepting bad behavior encourages more bad behavior in the future and will weaken the relationship. About 90+ women are like this, women are very feminist nowadays. A man can't even critique a women or else it's sexist. I was making a point saying that women aren't attracted to the male body,height and men are very attracted to women's bodies (if thin ). I don't want friends who like me for money, and I also don't want a gf that likes me for money. MGTOW	Dumb, Thin	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/271	0.738
+Jonah Larson You have no idea what love is do you?Firstly;Iapologize but just because ONE WOMAN says women won't like a man at McDonald's,doesn't mean it's true.second;your mom may have meant women like men that are hard working and if they work at McDonald's they may think the man is lazy.	Woman	Gender - General	1/51	1.961
Arthur Kirkland The Scone Majesty I was just answering your questions. I was just listing the reasons girls want sex .	Sex	Gender - General	1/19	5.263

+Sol Caballero slap him right in his fuckin dumb face, preferably in front of many people the next time he says some sleazy shit to you... honestly you should have done that long ago not let him do that for 3 years	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/42	2.381
Absolute HORSESHIT. Boys have to follow dress codes too, idiot. They often get "targeted" as you put it, to pull up their pants, (if they appear to have the 'gangsta pants' thing going on) not wear 'wife beaters' tanks, exposing biceps, tattoos, piercings, rippling muscles if they're built, materials with pot leaves or profanity, etc. because it can be considered racy, or inappropriate for class, because dress codes prepare youth for dressing for work environments, and help them to prepare for professionalism as an adult. Kids can wear whatever the fuck they want when they're not in school. (depending on what their parents approve of and discipline, age , etc.)It has NOTHING to do with boys oppressing girls, or teaching boys to "man-gaze" at them, because they're brainless drooling rapists who are taught "dangerous lessons" by these rules. The only person here teaching DANGEROUS lessons here, is you, Laci.	Age, Nothing	Age - General, Age - Youngsters	2/149	1.342
At my middle school girls only have a dress code, as on the other hand guys can wear pretty much anything they want. I find it horribly inaccurate because us girls can't wear leggings, shorts that are above our knees, crop tops, jeans that have distressing above our knees, jeggings, anything with spike studs on it, tank tops, skirts above our knees, dresses that are again above our knees, etc. It really is ridiculous that girls at my school are against wearing so many things, (yes some of those things apply to guys too) and are dress coded for being a "distraction to guys" or "showing their butt off too much". I have never once seen a guy at my school get dress coded for what they wear. If a girl is dress coded then we have to change into our gym clothes.	Spike	Religious Identity - Protestant	1/143	0.699
Yay because who doesnt want dumb hoes showing cameltoes and 100 of their ass to everyone in yoga pants, you can even see their disgusting cellulite.How come man cant just go around and flash their bulge but females can flash cameltoes panty lines etc..If we were equal then i could wear yoga pants and show 100 of my dick being squeezed to everyone :Didiots -.-	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/68	1.471
The dress codes benefit woman as they have far more freedom.Also in a learning environment there is no need to wear revealing clothing that is often less practical or comfortable because many of these pieces of clothing are designed to be attractive.	Woman	Gender - General	1/43	2.326

+Faith Adams Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/15	6.667
Black well if the guy has a nice ass and the girl is a fucking whale... also that could be a reason but i think its just suppose to maintain a professional atmosphere but its school so who gives a fuck	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/41	2.439
Black I'm not familiar with that slang	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/7	14.286
Black I just assumed he was talking about some school in america, but yea uniforms are a different story	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/19	5.263
+ Black wtf we shouldnt have to be protected from our teachers	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/11	9.091
+ Black I'm js, if male teachers get attracted to 12 year olds they shouldn't be teachers ffs	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/17	5.882
Black anyone under the age of 18/16 then (depending on where U live) jfc	Age	Age - General	1/14	7.143
Black Its pointless to talk to this condescending bitch	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/9	11.111
+ Black Nice	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/2	50.0
+Faith Adams Are you retarded? My school bans tank tops, sagging, wallet chains, and ripped jeans for men. Men don't have nearly as many sexually revealing clothes that can be distracting to the opposite sex , or the same, depending. Women have many options for dress. Plus, at my school, even though everyone is constantly complaining about it, nobody ever gets in trouble for violating the dress code.	Nobody, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/67	2.985
Yes, nobody wants to see a hairy asscrack	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/8	12.5
Nobody wants to see a male asscrack, it isn't sexy at all what the fuck!?!?!?	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/15	6.667

+ Black Oh my gosh. Okay look, I know you posted this a long time ago, but I had to say something. I am assuming your male based on your profile picture, so I am going to say this as if you were male. You cannot just say "Just do what they say in the first place" because you don't know the half of it. Dress codes for girls are extremely bias and pressuring. A young girls mind is all about trying to impress others and be socially excepted, its nature. So the pressure is on to try to find a "cute" outfit and stay in dress code. And as the video says, officials are targeting girls and telling them that if a boy harasses them it there fault, they were showing skin.This can be very hard on an adolescent, and can add stress to a child already going through the challenges of making good grades in school. So if your going to make a statement like that, do your research. Thank you	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/172	0.581
boobs aren't sex organs. We use them to feed babies, not fuck. and boys and children get raped. were THEIR tits distracting? and no boy has ever got a boner from a bra strap or legs.	Sex	Gender - General	1/36	2.778
I feel like these "Double Standards" are a way for feminists to rant on about a certain subject but object others. If I went to school in booty shorts, a thin shirt, and a fucking bra, I would believe people would get distracted. Maybe if girls wear booty shorts and we find them attractive we might just pop one. Double standards are not always the problem Laci. Yet again I fail to see these "Double Standards" in dress codes. You know maybe we should make everybody wear a fucking uniform. Let the girls get skirts, and boys jeans. Maybe someone who is a guy can request a squirt, maybe a girl can request jeans. I really don't give into "Double Standards".	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/121	0.826
+Daniel Neo Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/15	6.667
More people need to see this! I go to a uniform school, but I was taken out of lunch because my headband was blue not black , other people get in trouble for merely their shoes. And I'm only in 7th grade.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/41	2.439
"DRESS CODES ARE SEXIST WOMEN ARE NOT OBJECTS I AM A WOMAN HEAR ME ROOAR ITS ONLY SEXIST WHEN ITS AGAINST WOMEN AND I REFUSE TO ACKNOWLEDGE THAT MEN HAVE DRESS CODE RULES TOO!!!"	Woman	Gender - General	1/34	2.941

+CatsAndCoffee17 yeah but what about that 15 year old boy looking at the 15 year old girl? He can't do anything like that. Dress code is for both genders. You're an idiot if you think that a bunch Of teenagers going through puberty shouldn't have restrictions on what's showing.	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/49	4.082
Logan armer Awh, you pitying yourself? Awieeee poor 15 year old boys can't get the correct education because a girl's knee is showing.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/23	4.348
Stupid feminists. I'm more worried about the pervs who WANT to support middle school and highschool girls wearing revealing clothing, than the poor guys who just want some modesty. And nobody reprimands guys for showing bras straps or short shorts because... they don't dress that way.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/46	2.174
I am so in love with this channel! Even though women are discriminated vs. to the man, I think it's important to show people who yet don't understand feminism that we are not misandrist, nor prefer men... I think that if feminists also put a lot of attention to target the sexism men experience and gender roles/stereotypes, it will show that feminism is true equality. But, at the same time women face more discrimination, and we must empower our sisters to work to have a social, political, and economical equality for women. Peacefully, aggressively, through videos, through books, it doesn't matter. We need to get the message across and I thank-you so much for it.	Gender, Sexism	Gender - General	2/115	1.739
If it's not a distraction why are they doing it? I mean they wouldn't just pick on girls because right? Maybe some but 99.9 percent of the around the world? Lol this is just a stupid argument in general sexism is stupid because it's not gonna stop and people do it for a reason, because all girls are annoying hypocrites that can never be wrong.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/65	1.538
Argentarii Homini the definition of a feminist is someone, not of of a particular sex , fighting for equal rights of each gender .A Feminazi on the other hand, is a woman who thinks she's a feminist, but takes it too far, hating on men and saying women are the superior	Feminazi, Gender, Sex, Woman	Gender - Female intelligence, Gender - General	4/50	8.0
models are women, aren't they? Also, who runs these sexualising industries, gay men and women. Believe it or not it's women who force you to show skin. That's why there is uniform. A strict set of rules. Have you seen men, Not all of us have six packs.Women believe that they must.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/52	3.846

There was a girl in one of the schools in my district and her shorts were a few inches above her thighs. So the principle SENT HER HOME. They thought that it would "distract boys" yes that is totally correct, 3 inches of thighs will give a male human (or any gender attracted to females) will give them a boner- - it's was ridiculous. My district is saying that it's our fault that a boy will get attracted to our bra strap. BUT THEY DON'T. AND SO YES WE HAVE BREAST OUR BODIES ARE FUNCTIONING SO THAT IF WE DECIDE TO POPULATE OUR WORLD WE CAN FEED THEM AND KEEP THEM HEALTHY!	Gender	Gender - General	1/111	0.901
I'm really late but I agree completely. I've been told to wear a sweater over a tank top I had which I used an bra or undershirt, my mom and I really couldn't control if something showed on accident. And I've gotten a warning when my shirt just barely sagged down and showed the side of my bra. I get that people at school are trying to help, but can you guys say something like "Hey, this and that is showing, if you wear this again, can you wear a spaghetti strap tank top underneath next time?" Instead of "Oh, you can't wear this." It's hard for us girls who a. Might not be the stick girl you see or b. Can't afford your "high end" clothing. When I went to a store (Particularly old navy, I don't like shopping) I HATED how my size suggested my shorts had to be really big and cover my thighs while smaller sizes, any girl, big or small, could have their underwear showing. What I mean is, women's clothes are made to give the appearance of we want to look "sexy" when we're just trying to find something not revealing but we like too. Also, school administrators should understand the struggle. If I get a warning one more time or have to change, I will blatantly say "Can you guys learn that girls are TRYING to find clothes not revealing in a society where most stores show 80 of skin?"	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/247	0.405
I absolutely think that students should be able to express themselves and be comfortable in what they wear. However, and I'm saying this both as an expression-loving woman and educator, there are lines and boundaries. School is not the time to wear your shortest shorts or a bralette, not because of "distraction" but because of being in a certain setting. I don't think a girl should be shamed for wearing shorts, but I also don't necessarily think it's appropriate to wear anything that exposes any part of the butt cheek. Also, guys should also be held to an appropriate standard and shouldn't be allowed to wear something promoting anything vulgar or revealing the entire torso. It's about respect and appropriate attire for certain settings. It should not be about shaming, blaming, or "distraction."	Woman	Gender - General	1/133	0.752

+ Becky Olfert Exactly. Dress code promotes equality too as both rich and poor wear the same clothes. Also it teaches kids not to be materialistic and helps them focusing on studies.	Becky	Gender - Female intelligence	1/31	3.226
Also boys get body shamed, how many fat boys want to have muscles, abs and all that good stuff? Like 99 of boys want to	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/25	4.0
+Gabriel That's misandrist, not feminist at all and that should be stopped. Misandrists are very uncommon, but they are still in society and their beliefs should not be respected because they prefer women, realizing it or not, and will most likely choose the side of the woman . Boys should also be allowed to wear skirts,dresses,jewelry,etc.	Woman	Gender - General	1/55	1.818
+Gabriel Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/14	7.143
+Gabriel you're school is fucking weird . If you want to wear shorts do it.	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/14	7.143
+Gabriel lmao everyone in the comments have such strict dress codes, this dude at my school walked around shirtless half the day and nobody said anything lol	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/27	3.704
+Gabriel So because your school's dress code is sexist towards men that somehow invalidates this video?Also do you even understand the concept of body shaming ?	Body Shaming	Physical Identity - General	1/26	3.846
But society is putting pressure on females to look good and basically be sex objects. I know as a female myself there is tons of pressure to wear makeup, heels, and dress up fancy	Sex	Gender - General	1/34	2.941
Blueis Acolor You are overthinking everything. I did not mention power. The ability to launch a nuclear warhead from your country has no relation to the power of the country where the warhead is going.The analogy is fine your adding complexities to it. Why are you saying "US does not have any more power over Australia than Australia has over the US" that has nothing to do with anything I said.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/72	1.389

Chris -0 how in the world does your analogy fit my original comment you replied to? If anything you are over thinking and making things more complex than they were... I am just simply stating how your analogy doesn't make since in this situation. The original topic was people complaining about what should be worn in school. My point was that they do not own the school, and if they don't like the rules of the school they should leave the school. Then out of no where you try to compare bombing an entirely different country to something that is absolutely nothing like bombing.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/104	0.962
Chris -0 that still has nothing to do with what was being said lmfao nor the point I was making smh... I know what you were saying, that particular analogy doesn't apply to what I said to begin with smh no matter how you say it. The fact of the matter is, the gov controls the US, so regardless of people think is "right or wrong"... they have no control over what's right and wrong in this country. You are simply not understanding your analogy just does not work in this particular situation no matter how you look at it smh	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/101	0.99
Chris -0 yes, and you do realize no where in my previous comment did I say that was the analogy... right? SmhI was just bringing up that comment as an example to let you know that nothing you previously said in that first comment you made or the analogy you were trying to make would work because... like I said this is the US it is owned by the US government... they control everything, everyone that does not own the US is irrelevant. What the US gov can do is anything they want in their country, they say what is right and wrong here and everyone else is irrelevant. Comparing this situation to bombing another country doesn't work... why? Because the government can do whatever it wants in it's country. It can't do whatever it wants in other countries, because it has no control, it doesn't make the rules in other countries. Saying what the US gov can do in the US, comparing it to what it can do in other countries is a bad comparison, because what the US gov can do in the US is anything it wants... and no matter what it chooses, it will always be right because this is their country. What the gov can do in other countries is limited, because they do not own those other countries.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/225	0.444

Aww are you going to cry raging on your mom’s keyboard? Calm your nipples... when you are wrong you are wrong, and clearly can’t read. Who said you said ”the USA can bomb Australia and Australia says it allowed to do so” again? Smh I don’t know if you can’t just accept your own ignorance or if you actually believe what you said has anything to do with what was previously said lmfao... clearly you need help, but that is alright, this is what I’m here for... so I’ll dumb this down one more time, and I’ll do it with emojis to keep you entertained, sound fun christy? Alright sport let’s get started, so once again you said ”just because the government CAN do that they 100 shouldn’t it’s just disgusting. Thats like saying the government CAN bomb Australia so they should be allowed to do what they want...” smh dó you even understand your own words? That in no way was a good analogy at all... if the government wants to do something YOU find ”disgusting” in ITS own country then it CAN, AND IT IS NOT WRONG FOR DOING SO That is no where like saying ”the government CAN bomb Australia so they should be allowed to do what they want” because bombing Australia would be wrong, but choosing to do ”sexist” things in its own country is NOT ... because the US government decides what is right or wrong in the USA. Hey, don’t get butthurt from me pointing out your ignorance,... you specifically said the stuff I put in quotes, and I have explained each thing you said, because I know how mentally unstabled people can sometimes confuse themselves. You can’t try to change the meaning of what YOU said after you already said it lol smh you have yet to prove me wrong... yet you are catching a sissy fit.At the end of the day, your analogy was horrible.8== =D Chris -0	Dumb, Sissy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/329	0.608
--	-------------	---	-------	-------

+ElevnthDegree BlackMan I understand people don't want girls to show up in clothes that leave nothing to the imagination, because that is distracting to everyone, not just the boys. But the extreme that is being shown here is ridiculous. Collar bones and knees aren't going to distract boys, the majority of the time. In my opinion, girls should be allowed to wear whatever they want as long as their shorts or skirts go to about mid thigh length, or fingertips, so they can bend over without showing their underwear. As long as their shirts cover the majority of their chest and stomach, it should be fine. Tank tops and sundresses should be allowed as long as the girls can bend over or lean forward without their boobs falling out or being exposed. I don't think girls should be sent home for dress code violations, an after school detention or a call to parents would be more appropriate, so the girl can stay in class and learn. I am a teacher and, in my opinion, the only reason a child should be sent home is for violence, if they physically harmed another person. Calls to parents and after school detentions are much better. The parent needs to be involved.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/208	0.481
TheSheepLover nothing ha it's just they have more of an option of what to wear	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/16	6.25
As a proud male who likes Laci's content as a whole, I don't understand how this point can even be considered valid. "Dress code sexism " say that that when you are restricted to either a polo or dress shirt for upper clothing and dress trousers or maybe even jeans if your lucky. If a 15 year old boy was to walk around in skin tight shorts he would get exactly the same treatment. It is not acceptable to dress inappropriately because you want to "express your femininity" and because "It makes me feel good". Its ridiculous.	Old, Sexism	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/96	2.083
Why has no one addressed the issue that these men are objectifying UNDERAGE GIRLS. These girls that are being commented on are being commented on by men and women twice, thrice, four times their own age . Yes certain items should not be worn, but seriously why has no one brought up the subject of pedophilia. They should not be looking at those girls like that at all.	Age	Age - General	1/67	1.493

Thank you for this, I have been pulled out of class for my shoulders, bra straps, my back, and thighs showing. Many times during tests. I have wanted to stand up for myself, but was too embarrassed at the situation, and my classmates judging me to do so. I cried during this video, because of how angry I am at society. I feel helpless. This year, my English teacher, who happened to be my favorite teacher, told me my shoulders were "not okay.". It was my last period of the day, and I had not been asked by any of my other 5 teachers, to hide my shoulders. So I am pretty sure my shoulders were, "okay.". I lost respect for my teacher, and my school. She told my friend Ella that her bra straps were distracting the next day. I was disgusted greatly, and want to stand up for my wrongfully, harassed friend. I regretfully did nothing . Just as I was somehow gaining my respect for my teacher again, she asked me to pull up my shirt. I did nothing . You have inspired me to speak up. Thank you.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	2/190	1.053
I go to an all girls school, on normal non uniform days we have a few rules to what we are not allowed to wear but it's more along the lines of not wearing shirts that have offensive slogans on them or stuff that could cause accidents like rollerblades and the like. But....We had a sixth form taster day so the girls school and boys school merged together, surprise surprise the list of stuff we can't wear went from a short list at the top of a planner page to a whole freaking letter! And I know some people who go to the boys school and they had next to nothing they weren't allowed to wear! WTF - that has solidified the fact in my mind that I'm definitely not staying here	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/133	0.752
I did a social experiment. At my school you have to wear uniform. We wear polos and you have were it at most 1 button down. For one day my male friend wore his 3 buttons down and you could see his chest somewhat visibly. I wore mine 2 buttons down and you could not see any of my chest. He was able to go through the day wearing his 3 buttons down, and I didn't even get to second period. I hate when people say that it's because women want to be sexy at school. It's not. Gender roles are not equal at school. Thank you for making the video Ms. Green	Gender	Gender - General	1/113	0.885

I just realized 99,999 novels in wattpad are INCREDIBLY sexist. There's always the popular guy or bad boy who has sex with every girl that is disposed to have it with him. Then, he sees the protagonist as a sexual object and always, always they end up together in a fairy tailed relationship. (like the girl accepts his mentality). And there's never missing the character who plays the bitch role and wears really short skirts and is really judged by the protagonist because of that. Always. The author even makes the effort to come up with the 'coolest' insults and all. The stories are mostly of the 'Bad Boys' who are DANGEROUSLY POSSESSIVE. Like the girl is just an object. You can't deny this, just by seeing the novel 'His' &amp; reading the description, this story got more than 15 million votes. Girls in wattpad have extremely sexist mentality. I'm starting a 'story' there about this, but mostly no one pays me attention on this so...	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	2/166	1.205
I don't think it's sexiest to acknowledge that there are differences between men/boys and women/girls. Boys don't generally wear relieving pants because when we are aroused it is obvious. With high levels of testosterone during puberty this happens constantly. And yes being constantly aroused is overwhelmingly distracting. What wants and needs is a girl in high school fulfilling by wearing yoga pants? I would say just feeling accepted by piers and being seen as attractive by boys. If a dress code says no one can wear yoga pants that eliminates the pier pressure. Ahh never mind, girls can do what ever that want they need to be supported and nurtured. Boys are all dirty misogynist rapists.	Misogynist	Gender - General	1/116	0.862
Oh Laci, why do you waste your pretty little mouth on this potty talk, when you could be using those lips the way they are supposed to be used. . . Don't waste your talent on this, use that skilled mouth of yours to show your man what a confident and independent woman you are	Woman	Gender - General	1/55	1.818
What about boys who can't wear muscle shirts because their arms might distract girls. Both sides have problems, maybe mention both sides. A more gender egalitarian view would encourage more men AND women to watch. Just some constructive criticism. :)	Gender	Gender - General	1/40	2.5
you make me sick. if you don't like how your country is. get out!!! we don't need people like you in this holy nation.	Nation	Nationality - General	1/24	4.167
i wore skinny jeans to school and was told to change but then other people wore bootcut jeans that were just as tight but not at the bottom and those were fine....	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/32	3.125
better wear nothing. boys will be more glad since you wanted to be show your body to all.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/18	5.556

As a boy I have never once thought any of these things, maybe if you were to ask a boy: "do you think of girls as sexual beings?" and heard his answer you would be surprised	Sexual	Gender - General	1/36	2.778
We need to stop seperating people by gender . We're all people, there is nothing specific to any gender . It should be rude to mention anyones gender .	Gender, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	4/26	15.385
it isn't sexist to do that. that is your opinion. but not ALL women are "retarded and insecure"one question: do you have a girlfriend or have sort of attraction towards the female gender ? if so, what are your standarcs?	Gender	Gender - General	1/40	2.5
cool cool. you actually have a pretty respectable opinion. I'm fine with whatever you say as long as you aren't disrespecting and stereotyping an entire gender . (i.e. calling all women "retarded and insecure.") again, I hate yoga pants and dress conservatively; I am just standing guard of the stereotypes you are sticking on the female gender .	Gender	Gender - General	2/56	3.571
+John Lewis It's sexist because the whole purpose to cover up is so that they won't make others uncomfortable. And why do people feel uncomfortable? Once they feel attracted to a woman , even more so in a middle/highschool, it's an uncomfortable experience. Of course it's not proper to wear something provocative in school, but you need to ask: Why is something provocative not proper?' You must also ask yourself," Why are leggings, shorts, or tank-tops provocative, or not proper?" And then, ask yourself why the feelings of the viewer, uncomfortable or comfortable, matters more than of the person being viewed, realizing they are sexualized and their body makes others uncomfortable.	Woman	Gender - General	1/110	0.909
Megan Hegeman I feel like I need to add something to my previous comment. You asked why leggings, shorts, and tank tops are not proper. For starters, leggings, when worn correctly, are very proper, and look lovely. When worn as pants, they look trashy. Leggings aren't pants. You're supposed to wear leggings with something covering your ass. That way, you don't look like a whore. Moving onto shorts. Girls tend to wear their shorts way too short. Showing too much leg is not proper. Moving on to tank tops. Tank tops are not proper in any situation. Something to wear at home, sure, but in a social environment, it's improper from both a male or a female. And that's because tank tops are undershirts. It's fine to sexualize yourself, I suppose, but if you're comfortable with who you are as a person, you don't need too. If you're an adult woman , everybody knows that you have tits. You don't need to shove them in everybody's face.	Woman	Gender - General	1/166	0.602

+John Lewis Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/15	6.667
So you're telling me that something that covers your butt and legs completely, to where you can't see her body at all below her waist, isn't pants? I understand it's inappropriate if it's see through, but wearing leggings that are opaque is the same as wearing tight skinny jeans or jeggings. And yes, yoga pants are for yoga, but muscle shirts and other exercise clothes for men are allowed at school, and it's the exact same material with the exact same purpose.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/82	1.22
Shaylon Moore Just because it completely covers you up doesn't mean it isn't an undergarment. And don't wear skinny jeans. If they're tight against your skin, they don't fit. Wearing clothing too tight can cause circulation issues, and can potentially lead to permanent nerve damage.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/45	2.222
+John Lewis boys do not cover up, at my high school, they walk around the gym hallway shirtless, and nobody goes DX eww omg put on some clothes, they just mind their own business, as they should. I do agree there needs to be some sort of dress code, but some schools just take it way to far.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/58	1.724
ASMR Cataclysm A lot of men have back hair, actually. I don't want to see you without your shirt on, man. Not sure why you'd want to show me your body anyway. I guess I'm just not as gay as you are.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/42	4.762
Jade Pham Nobody should show their nipples to anybody else. I don't want to see your nipples. I'd rather see you wearing something nice.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/24	4.167
ASMR Cataclysm No, you're gay for wanting me to see your naked torso. I don't want to see your body, man. Wear a shirt when you're out in public.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/29	6.897

+John Lewis I absolutely hates jeans and other similar fabrics. So I wear Yoga pants and leggings, they are the only pants I wear. I don't get why people don't see them as pants? Leggings are as tight as skinny jeans etc. You cant see skin, so by wearing yoga pants or leggings you ARE covered up.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/57	1.754
+Lee Bellamy sex and girls swallowing whatever is legal at 16, being a porn star isn't l o l	Sex	Gender - General	1/19	5.263
GingerCatXD I feel like your parents are responsible for providing you with clothing. Depending on your age .	Age	Age - General	1/17	5.882
+John Lewis I am reading all these comments of the females, and it almost seems that they are the ones who are sexist to us. They basically want to have a sexual advantage over us (in terms of looks), and i think they often think that us men are just objects, and don't really care about our interests at all	Sexual	Gender - General	1/60	1.667
There is no sexism in the dress code... My friend in middle school ( a guy ) got dress coded for wearing shorts that were too short. It goes both ways but none of you want to see it that way	Sexism	Gender - General	1/41	2.439
Today, I protested the uniform code at my school I wore a tank top that showed the front of my bra. I am a minor, and a lesbian . My male principal said I was acting "slutty for boys". I told him I wasn't attracted to boys, and he said that I was merely going through a phase and that bullshit, then told me to change. I said no. I refused to, and when he tried to make me put the shirt on, my teacher walked in and took me away. She said, and I quote: "Next time, kick him in the balls."	Lesbian	Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	1/102	0.98
YES JUST YES I LOVE 5 HIS CHICK	Chick	Gender - General	1/8	12.5
It doesn't matter who you like. It's that they're distracted anyway. Even past that, another lesbian might stare, too. Probably more so since they're under the impression that they must find out their sexual orientation.	Lesbian, Sexual	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	2/35	5.714
+Bellatrix Lestrange Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/15	6.667

Black Maybe if you have no life outside your computer, then of course. Correct all the strangers slang words and abbreviations you like. It's not a healthy habit especially on YouTube and in cases where spelling and grammar isn't required to a high standard. But hey, live how you want to live. If that gives you a sense of fulfillment thats kind of sad but to each their own.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/69	1.449
Black Sorry man you need to lay off the medication.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/10	10.0
Black "Its just the fact of correcting someone who is lost and confused."I'm not sure if you have friends in real life, I find it hard to believe from this short conversation with you. However when contacting people using mobile devices or such there is this thing called text language, now in this language it is acceptable to shorten words enough that even an idiot can conceive the true meaning. Not all idiots can see this as you have so clearly pointed out, but most.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/86	1.163
Black Jesus christ you are a fucking moron. You said "Correcting a lost person isn't a waste of time." in response to me saying " I already know the difference but thank you for wasting your time replying" which was regarding the spelling of "your" So your pointless statement "Never have i ever said anything about text messages or have i ever corrected his spelling or grammar. " has no meaning whatsoever, I know you didnt correct any spelling you started commenting BECAUSE of a purposeful spelling error on part that was corrected.I'm astonished at how stupid you are.. but please go on and explain how your direct reply to a spelling correction isn't related to a spelling correction. Your take on the English language is just magnificent.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/129	0.775
Black Do you actually read what you type? Nothing you are saying makes sense. What pointless point am I attempting to prove that I know I'm wrong about? What have you proved me wrong?Stupid troll	Black, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black	2/36	5.556
Black ...I never said you tried to correct someones grammar...	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/10	10.0
Black I say " thank you for wasting your time replying" not " thank you for wasting your time trying to correct my grammar"....	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/24	4.167
Black No you implied that " Correcting a lost person isn't a waste of time." in regards to the spelling of "your" i replied saying why i thought it was a waste of time	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/34	2.941

Black Exactly and by saying "correcting a lost person isn't a waste of time" you are obviously implying the correction he made on my spelling mistake.... You were 100 regarding the spelling. If you were not then your comment wouldn't have made any sense.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/44	2.273
Black Holy shit I cannot even fathom how retarded you are.You responded to a comment solely talking about spelling and correcting a person who spelt something wrong then you said "correcting a lost person is not a waste of time" and your trying to pass that off as not being related to spelling...What the fuck are you talking about if its not related to my comment which was BASED on a spelling mistake. Are you saying you replied to someone without actually replying to what they said? You just felt like making a random unrelated comment? You're insane!	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/100	1.0
Black ok troll	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/3	33.333
Black Your the one who replied about a spelling correction then argued it wasn't as if you were in some parallel universe lmao.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/23	4.348
Black I admitted this yonks ago "You responded to a comment solely talking about spelling" You are reallly... realllyy slow.You replied to a comment about spelling, talking about a correction (a spelling correction was made) this implies you were referring to spelling.I don't understand how you could possibly think you are right. You're unbelievable..	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/56	1.786
Black Oh jesus christ your autism is intense. I said you implied it. if you cant see the connection thats your problem but holy fuck the connection is as clear as day.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/32	3.125
Black You've said numerous times it wasn't about spelling a spelling correction despite using the word "corrected". You implied it was to do with spelling, why else would you say "correcting" when someone corrected my spelling mistake. You are an idiot to not see the connection.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/46	2.174

Black YOU REPLIED TO ME THAT IS WHY IT IS IMPLIED. When you specifically reply to someone, whatever you said is implied to have atleast something to do with the person the other said. You are argueing that you said something completely irrelevant to the topic at hand which is just stupid. If that was the case you wouldn't have replied to what I SAID.I'll break it down seeing as you are hilariously retarded.I spelt something wrong.Someone corrected my spelling mistakeI said that correcting it was a waste of time.YOU SAID: Correcting a lost person isn't a waste of time.Unless you are down syndrome, by saying "Correcting" on the topic of a corrected spelling mistake you are implying you are talking about the spelling correction and that I'm somehow lost because of it.Why is this so difficult for you to understand. This is basic language structure..	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/153	0.654
Black Exactly and the context of "correcting someone was a waste of time" was the context of spelling. He corrected me on my spelling. Hence you are implying that what you said was based on spelling correction. I think you realize you're wrong at this point.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/46	2.174
Black This is your argument:Bob to Me: "learn the difference between you're and your."Me to Bob: "I already know the difference but thank you for wasting your time replying"You to Me: "correcting a lost person is not a waste of time."Now lets compare statements..Me: 1)I already know the difference2) but thank you for wasting your time replyingYour Refuting Statement:1) correcting a lost person2) is not a waste of timeThe context of WASTE OF TIME was correcting a random persons spelling.You REPLIED TO ME repeating "WASTE OF TIME" and argueing "ITS NOT A WASTE OF TIME"If you were refuting my point (which you obviously were or you would not have replied to me and specifically argue "ITS NOT"...).So now we have achieved the fact you were providing a refuting statement the context had to have been from my comment otherwise you are refuting nothing , you are simply saying a random combination of words serving no relevance at all.Do you understand now, or is this still too difficult for your mind to grasp?	Black, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black	2/185	1.081
Black For the second time, I never said you were trying to correct your spelling. You are so fucking retarded. "Now you are just restating what I've been trying to say from the beginning."So right from the beginning you knew I was right? You totally missed the point of my last post. Clearly English language structure is too much for you to grasp. Good day pigeon.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/67	1.493
Black So because I'm right, therefore I realize what you were trying to say therefore you are right?Cool Logic.You got rekt.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/23	4.348

Black Ha I proved myself clear enough even a down syndrome could see it, you are so ignorant.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/18	5.556
Black You're an ignorant fool.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/5	20.0
Black Chris -0 Guys, stop fighting. I think that we should all just accept each other and their opinions. Why can't it be we get along like when we were in middle school, and I could just bake a cake full of rainbows and everyone could just be happy	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/49	2.041
Black Internet high five!	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/4	25.0
Good idea, one more crazy bitch off the streets for assault.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/11	9.091
+I can't think of a name. If within an institution that has established a dress code and that code is broken then yes it is fair to tell a woman or man what they can or can't wear.	Woman	Gender - General	1/38	2.632
+I can't think of a name. If you didn't like my original comparison how about thisCheck out night club dress codes & you'll find any respectable venue has way laxer rules for women. In my area most venues don't allow shorts for men, legs must be covered, but a woman can wear mini skirts or dresses so short you can pretty much see their vaginas, in some cases they don't wear panties so doing certain dance moves they expose themselves. No singlets - collared shirts are preferred (for gentlemen) fashion t-shirts are acceptable, whereas women can wear next to nothing covering their upper half with straps at least 1cm thick & midriffs can be shown.	Nothing, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/116	1.724
+Bellatrix Lestrangle If the roles were switched femicunts like you would cry misogyny .	Misogyny	Gender - General	1/13	7.692
Shiny Hunter April No, I would cry sexism at the principal. Because shoulders aren't smexy on tweens.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/17	5.882
+Bellatrix Lestrangle "Waaaah, I can't dress like a hooker "Male dress codes are more strict than female ones, as it is, and Laci here only wants to make the existing double standard even worse. Girls should be held to the exact same standard as boys: Slacks and shirts, all year round, no exceptions.	Hooker	Gender - Female sexuality	1/53	1.887

SHOULDERS ARE TOO SEXUAL NO NO NO PUT THEM AWAY RIGHT NOW YOUR SHOULDERS ARE WAY TOO SEXUAL I MIGHT GET A BONER NO WAY CAN YOU WEAR A TANK TOP	Sexual	Gender - General	2/31	6.452
Bruh. All the shoulders. Leme see them. Yes! XD school boards are dumb	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/13	7.692
My high school dress code, Girls were not aloud to wear jeans with design on the back pocket or if it formed our butt. No skinny jeans, ripped jeans. No heels, no boots with heels. No patterns on your shirts. They said it was inappropriate to wear in front of boys. But the boys got to wear anything or barely anything. Two Of my friends got pulled out of class because they had on jeans that formed the butt and shirts that had to many patterns, etc. They both had tests that day as well and they were never aloud to do the make up test. It has happened to me many times. And if they didn't have anything for you to wear that will cover you up, they would make you stay in the front office. My mother got into a fight over my jeans. She would purposely wear many of the clothing and shoes the were looked down upon. All of the teachers and faculty would give her dirty looks.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/172	0.581
so I'm a bio sex male, and one of my biggest regrets is not learning in a school with strict dress codes explicitly for girls, so I could come to school with a miniscert and a tight reviling top...i'd start aguing with the school that "no, I'm a male and the regulation is for females only!! can't you read!!"	Sex	Gender - General	1/60	1.667
my vice principal only sees if I a woman accidentally made a hole above my knee not if my friend a guy is wearing a muscle shirt A MUSCLE SHIRT!!!!	Woman	Gender - General	1/30	3.333
How is a dress code sexist if it's asking for men and women to wear pretty much the same thing? If men were prancing around nearly naked and were getting away with it then I'd understand the anger, that would be holding each gender to a different standard which would literally be sexism . But that isn't the case, modesty is expected from both genders, both genders are held to the same standard. I can't go to class in stringer gym tank tops anymore than you can in spaghetti straps, difference is, I get on with the more important things in my life.	Gender, Sexism	Gender - General	2/102	1.961

Personally, I think everyone should be required to wear sweaters and pants at all times. I am in full support of school uniforms for everyone that are exactly the same so that there can be no claims of dress code sexism because it simply won't be an issue in dress codes. All slackers nd polo shirts fully buttoned. Yep.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/59	1.695
my old school was a bitch about dress codes. No hair that has been dyed an unnatural color allowed, no hats, no yoga pants, all tank tops had to have straps at least 3 inches thick, no less ect. To prepare for the school, my mom had looked over the dress code they gave her very carefully and most of my clothing was not going to qualify so she basically bought me an entire new wardrobe worth of cloths. Problem is, the fliar with the dress code failed to mention that yoga pants were banned and all the new pants I just got were yoga pants. My school did however allow any pants you want to be worn so long as you put a skirt over them, so we ran out shopping again to pick up skirts that I could wear over the pants. They left me alone about my pants after that. But for some odd reason, skinny jeans(which look more sexual than my pants by far) weren't banned but my yoga pants(I had the loose kind that don't squeeze your legs, they might as well have been sweat pants) were.On top of that, at time I entered that school, I had some of my bangs dyed blue. The principle kept pulling me aside during lunch saying I had to remove the blue hair by tomorrow or get in trouble. So my mom, the person who dyed my hair for me, decided we would just get the bangs dyed black since black was not considered an unnatural color even though the rest of my hair is naturally brown. She could not go to the store to get the dye for a week, so she decided that in meantime, she would just draw over the blue bangs with a black sharpie. I thought the idea sounded amusing but problem with black ink is it has green in it once it starts to fade. The sharpie worked extremely well but there were some tiny parts of my hair where the black ink faded quickly and caused the formerly blue hair to peep out in spots as a shiny metallic sort of green. There were only one or two tiny parts of my hair that did the green thing, but somehow, the principle saw it, and told me I had to get that barely noticeable obviously not deliberate green hair covered up or I would get in trouble. So I went home told my mom, and as she was very busy that week, just re inked my hair every two days or so making dam sure to cover up the green bangs...I live in SC, we are not exactly known for amazing schools XD.	Black, Old, Sexual, Skinny	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	8/454	1.762
I agree with you 100. But when I was in highschool it was the opposite mostly because the male faculty were gross old perverts. But again I agree and this has to change	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/33	3.03
Instead of shaming us about our bodies , maybe you should teach males that WE ARE NOT SEXUAL OBJECTS!	Sexual	Gender - General	1/19	5.263

Guys clothes generally show less. Its already considerd short shorts on a guy if his knees are showing. You never see guys with booty shorts or boy shorts. Girl shorts are like long underwear or boxers. Nobody seems to take this into account lol.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/44	2.273
well, i am a boy, i get distracted by girls. and i get distracted significantly more when the girls wear more revealing clothes. i don't really care, cus i obviously benefit from that. seriously though, it is true for many boys, and many boys aren't against girls wearing revealing clothes. it's the teachers who are against it, why? because parents think decent schools should have decent dress codes. it was a decision that both mothers and fathers collectively made.i'm just talking about the topic btw, not really making a point. anyways, while letting girls dress freely, also get permission for boys to dress freely as well; people keep forgetting this, but feminism is about gender equality. i think. not sure, cus it's called feminism, why not genderism or something???	Gender	Gender - General	1/130	0.769
Ok so if we're covering up women to stop men from being 'distracted', then men with really nice, muscly bodies have to cover up too... Because most girls can NOT deny, they get distracted my men too. It's a sexist thing that's going on, but you can't put 100 of the blame on men or homosexual women, why can't we just blame all sexes and sexual preferences? Except for asexuals of course.	Homosexual, Sexual	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General	2/72	2.778
+Nico Nico Wry shhhhhhh, stop using logic and pointing out a double standard, before they shame you and say you have "internalized misogyny ".	Misogyny	Gender - General	1/23	4.348
+Nico Nico Wry Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/16	6.25
I know that this in an older video of yours and I'm kinda late on the topic of this but I am a freshman in high school and we had an assembly about the dress codes. They had boys from the senior upperclassmen levels wearing clothing that would be considered "inappropriate"for girls to wear such as shorts, skirts and yoga shorts. The school principal was also addressing that these clothing items would result in consequences for girls. One thing really really stuck out for me that day. No boys clothing was ever even mentioned or even talked about in that little dress code assembly. Me and my friends are still outraged since school started about this topic.	Senior	Age - Over 65s	1/117	0.855
boys will be boys doesn't mean normalizing bad behavior, it just means that boys usually like to learn the hard way and there's nothing you can do to change it. They're not naturally bad, they're naturally stubborn.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/37	2.703

It's sad what society has become I remember in the 1990s nobody was bitching about these problems because our new generation made them	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/23	4.348
I really do not like the way you do any of your videos, you put your feminist goggles on and disregard a ton of factors. No gender should come into a workplace or a educational place and dress provocatively, this includes men wearing things that expose things most women find sexual such as arms or wearing tight clothing so there is nothing left to the imagination, and women who come in wearing hot pants and half shirts? (the ones were it only covers the upper torso and not your stomach) As it is distracting to be around anything sexual , especially at a age were people at discovering their sexuality. Schools do these things to make sure everyone is on task instead of staring at a individual they find attractive. Yes i do agree that females get a stricter dress code and in some cases WAY to strict, but the principle behind it is not to fucking slut shame someone for wearing clothes which is a inherently stupid statement its too get them ready for strict dress codes in work place and to make sure BOTH genders are on task. It is commonly portrayed in media that women are sexual objects which is wrong and i think its wrong however its because of this that the gender is more focused on in schools, tackle that issue first instead of bashing schools for trying to help students stay on task.Oh also boys don't get taught that women are more sexual in schools they find that out everywhere because that is what is commonly used in everything in marketing anyone who pretty much does anything would know that so to blame schools for this is dumb as fuck.I do not agree with anybody putting anyone down on what they wear however if a teacher says "i don't think that's suitable for school" is not harassment or slut shaming or a insult its saying that the clothing you have on is against the policy set by the school and by not following that policy they are more than able to state this, abusing dress codes however is bs and should not be done.	Age, Dumb, Gender, Nothing, Sexual	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	9/361	2.493
The code might be sexist in the sense that dress code violations heavily side against female clothing, but the majority of these cases I've seen the dress code have been enforced or made worse by female teachers, and complaints from mothers. I don't believe a complaint has been made by a male student, as joked about in the description. It's a sad state of affairs, no one should be treated with disrespect like this especially because of gender or identity. In a lot of these situations it feels like whats going on is female on female oppression. Although you could say that these administrators, teachers, and the complaining mothers have been brought up in a sexist society and have been taught to react this way.	Gender	Gender - General	1/125	0.8

As a typical feminist, you don't see how a lot of what you brought up effects men too; in your first point you quite literally said "uncontrollable" to describe male sexuality. When you were talking about the subject and the object, you talked about how women are objectified but feminism has also lead society to blame this on men and now we get the blame for being "rapists" and "sexualising women". With your second point you literally said that dress code leads to boys thinking they can disrespect girls, which is complete bullshit, nobody "sets the stage for harassment and sexual assault" as men are stereotyped as these things and more false accusations are made against men because everyone always jumps to the victim. Third point: How is adequately covering up your body, body shaming ? Even with your last point you say how is it girls that are the problem, but still you fail too see that our sexuality is the thing being blamed 90 of the time NOT women. Last thing: you complain that women are sexualized, but let me ask you this; Which gender typically walks out in the street with less clothes on and tends to try a lot harder to look sexually attractive?	Body Shaming, Gender, Nobody, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Physical Identity - General	4/207	1.932
Because I go to a school in England, we have a school uniform. Hardly anyone gets called out for what they are wearing and if they are its because they are wearing the wrong colour shoes, or a coat in lessons (but they let you do that when it gets cold). Girls can wear any skirt/trousers they want as long as they are black . Boys can also wear whatever, as long as its black . You can wear any polo shirt as long as it is white. The only thing you have to wear/bring to school with you is the school jumper (as it has the school logo on it). I think many dress codes in the US and beyond are specifically targeting females and that needs to stop.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	2/128	1.562

As a man I see no trouble in wearing whatever the fk you want. I mean, there is a society that will keep you in place if you go too far. Surely you can walk almost naked, but I don't think most people will go that far and if so, you'll draw a lot of attention, which may be 'annoying' to most people, which will automatically make you walk in line again. If you want a dress code, make one with some liberty, people just want to develop in their school years, there is nothing wrong with 'not walking 100 in line'.There is only one problem that can be solved with a good dress code and that's bullying. I personally don't think there was a lot of that in my school, but those guys are the ones who have 'crossed the line'. A good school should find an equilibrium between developing youngsters and crossing the line. I would take druggs seriously and leave the clothing issues for what they are. After all, it's the girls choice to look a little oversexy and it's a natural reaction to draw the men's attention. I also look at pretty women, but than call me a voyeur, I don't go or think they are whores, I just think they look pretty and it's hard to ignore something beautiful in life. I rather look to a field of flowers than to be in that ugly basement you know...Have fun and enjoy your lifes and as a smart man once memed 'JUST DO IT' xd	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/261	0.383
I'm the only guy here... I just came across this video from the stupid air conditioning is sexist video but hey I kinda like you, your actually not a retarded Feminazi like most of the feminists nowadays unfortunately	Feminazi	Gender - Female intelligence	1/38	2.632
i sorry but i have to follow both the male dress code and female. i cant wear leggings that show off my dick just like a woman that wear sexual clothes that show off there sexual body parts. it is simple if i came it to school with skirts 4 inches or more above my knee just like a young girl(i wouldn't because i am one of the evil mail gender ) but i would still be punished and made to change. i also cant wear sweat muscle shirts so the idea that woman cant wear clothes that show off skit is total bullshit. don't dress like a slut. that goes for both genders. oh ya a woman 's body is sexual boobs are for feeding the young witch is why men find them attractive as something they would like to have on a mate. big thighs that usually lead to big butts means that a woman is mature enough to give birth so us terrible men find them attractive so this hole argument is bullshitP.S when i describe men as terrible or evil i am sarcastic some small minded feminists might not get that	Gender, Sexual, Witch, Woman	Gender - Female age and physical appearance, Gender - General	8/194	4.124

Okay, here's my story. I walked into class and soon as my female teacher saw me, she pulled me to the side in front of the class. (And remind you that EVERYONE could hear anyways) and said "you need to cover up, and not to show so much skin" as she wrote me a pass. So that part was fine, but I had to walk the walk of shame across the classroom. I went down the hallway and entered the office and in front of parents, students, and teachers, I had to go up to the office lady and say "hi, I was, um, dresscoded" so she led me to the office and grabbed me a shirt that was down to my knees and had sleeves that went to my elbows, and said I had to change in the bathroom, so I started to walking away to go get changed in the public restroom but she made me change in the office bathroom. Once I was in there I honestly started to tear up because people only see me as a object. Luckily I had a skirt on and tucked that in and rolled up the sleeves. Making my self confidence drop to zero . I hurried out of the bathroom and went back to class. At the end of class, I asked a question about the homework and she somehow turned it into" you know your skirt probably to short too, and it was unacceptable" I told her that "its because it rid up while I was sitting down" she said then pull it down and made me stand up and pull it down, so that sucks	Zero	Age - Youngsters	1/277	0.361
The only reason why dress-code "targets" guys is because guys generaly don't were short shorts. And I don't know ifnoticed but guys have to follow the same dress code. the purpess although bulshit in my opinion is so no ome is distackted by revealing cothing. I don't know about the rest of you but if i saw a 6ft fat dude wereing shorts with juicy printed on the back i'd be prety fucken distackted. Stop telling women what they want to hear.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/82	1.22
my friend got dress coded because of her jeans. JEANS and they weren't even skinny jeans	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/16	6.25

The dress code itself isn't meant to be sexist, but it's usually the teachers who are stricter towards girls about it. The restrictions are the same for both genders, but in my experiences teachers are usually more strict on females. For example, I went to school wearing a cut off tank top that covered my shoulders and although there was another tank top covering the area on the sides that the shirt didn't, I was yelled at and told to cover up because my upper arms would be distracting to the boys in school. The next day, a boy wore the exact same cut off tank top, with nothing else under it so I could see his nipples, and he didn't get in trouble at all for it. Honestly the problem isn't the dress code, or the boys who supposedly get horny over everything on the female body, but it's the teachers who blow things way out of proportions for girls but don't care about the boys. It may not be like this wherever you are, but it is for me.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/181	0.552
I wear leggings because they are comfy...That's it....I wear leggings out and in of school...(They're normally just plain black so it blends in with my uniform) I don't really care how I look..I just find leggings extremely comfy! (I know joggers/Sweatpants are comfy aswell) But when I was like 8 we aWe're having a sports day, and we were doing a race in them like bag things and you had to jump to the end to win the race...And my sweatpants/joggers fell down in the bag and it was really embarrassing...	Black, Race	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	3/92	3.261
It's pretty much saying that male student's educations are more important. Female students are being pulled out of class, interrupting their educations, just so the "boys aren't distracted." Luckily, my school has a code, but is pretty chill about it. They don't pull you out of class, or give you detentions or anything. They only maybe pull you aside like "Hey, little inappropriate for school, change it would you?" ANd the only time I've even heard of that happening, is to yellow at somebody who had a picture of weed on their clothing. My school pretty much allows you to wear what you want, they have a GSA, so I assume that guys can wear skirts since all the teachers are accepting people. No guys wear skirts to school though. I see girls with midriff shirts, and while that't not technically allowed, nobody gets scolded for it. Pretty much, things that are reasonable to wear to school, and if the students are trusted, they'll wear okay things. I think that girls shouldn't arrested for not wearing a shirt at all, but I think there's a time and place, just like for guys. You don't see a guy going anywhere important without a shirt. You see 'em without shirts when it's hot, and they're at home; at the pool/lake, appropriate places.	Nobody, Yellow	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Asian (East- China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam), Nationality - Chinese, Nationality - Japanese	4/221	1.81

That feminazi has proven to be a liar, she lies to justify her sexism against men.	Feminazi, Sexism	Gender - Female intelligence, Gender - General	2/16	12.5
You guys act like guys aren't supposed to be attracted to girls. It's natural for a boy to look at a girl. You crazy feminists will be single forever though	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/30	3.333
+FURIOUS PUSSY obviously. but female targeted clothing often isn't appropriate for because that's the style, so it's more difficult for female to find appropriate clothes.	pussy	Nationality - Chinese	1/25	4.0
Krissy Krabbenhof No it's called a tshirt boys wear them adults wear them and old people wear them tshirts are comfortable come in any size and color and usually have a cool pattern or logo on the front or back of them you don't need to wear anything more or anything else when at school school is a place for education you don't wear short shorts and a tank top to go and learn about stuff	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/76	1.316
+FURIOUS PUSSY when it's in the 90s and it's hot as heck? we wear shorts because it's hot, if males can wear their shorts, why can't females wear their shorts? female targeted clothing that is dress code appropriate is hard to find and ugly. and honestly what's wrong about shoulders showing? they aren't sexy like at all.	pussy	Nationality - Chinese	1/57	1.754
+FURIOUS PUSSY my elementary school didn't, we were 5-10 year olds and we weren't allowed to wear shorts and we were in a brick building, aka oven . all schools in our area are like that.	Oven, pussy	Nationality - Chinese, Religious Identity - Jewish	2/35	5.714
+FURIOUS PUSSY so many areas are like that. what 5-10 year old boys are going to be turned on by our legs?	Old, pussy	Age - Over 65s, Nationality - Chinese	2/22	9.091
Y know leggings were kinda made for girls! (Don't take that in the wrong way! But a guy wearing leggings is like a guy wearing a bra....It's like uwotm8 (unless your transsexual ) I mean there is nothing a wrong with if..But guys aren't really directed at men)	Nothing, Transsexual	Age - Youngsters, Sexual Identity - Transexuality	2/47	4.255

+FURIOUS PUSSY There is a giant difference between male and female dresscodes in school. First off, the bikini and topless male example isn't really adquate, since banning that is basically a given. The problem is that the school administrators are viewing female bodies as sexual completely unnecessarily - do some research on it, most of the clothes banned are perfectly fine. It's gotten to the point that they're banning tops with straps. And for what it's worth, I think that they are actually CREATING the problem. By harassing girls this way, they are giving a signal to boys that certain types of clothing are sexual , whereas if they didn't do that, nobody would care. I'm from Europe, where I grew up, you could basically go to school in anything you wanted as long as it was more than underwear - and nobody even looked twice at the girls with skirts barely covering their asses, because it wasn't a big deal.	Nobody, Sexual, pussy	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Nationality - Chinese	5/160	3.125
Wow it's like the exact opposite to nightclub dress code sexism .	Sexism	Gender - General	1/11	9.091
There's nothing wrong with skin being shown. It's the sick individuals that sexualise everything with a vagina. Especially children, that's just wrong! I can look at a naked man and women without sexualising them. I just see two bodies, that's is.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/41	2.439
i actually HATE usa when they do this to you guys. So if i was living in for exempel Cali, I can't wear tights because a boy can get sexual feelings for me and if he feel for it eaven RAPE me !? Oh ok, it's MY fault that i wear clothes who conforming to my body ? PLEASE move to Sweden <3<3<3<3<3	Sexual	Gender - General	1/63	1.587
Girls are not allowed to show bra straps. Oh I'm sorry that I, a female with painful heavy sacks of fat showed you that I am in fact a female trying to take away pain and not have my boobs fly into people faces, which would be more "distracting". We are not allowed to wear lacy sleeved shirts because of bra straps because " nobody wants to see that" when the teacher who told us that always wear lacy sleeved shirts and her bra straps fall down her arm. She even talked about this in front of the boys and they were looking sorry for is. They don't even care. They spent 2 minutes on guys and 15 on girls depress code. They also literally spent 30 or less seconds just to say " No weapons or drugs in school. "	Fat, Nobody	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/141	1.418
can I point out that it isn't feminists who are saying men can't help but rape a woman if she walks by? much shaming of women's bodies include the idea that men can't control their sexual actions. it's more apparent in the middle east where some have litterally said not waring a burka makes men rape women.	Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	2/57	3.509

Standing up for women everywhere. I mean, 7th graders who wear booty shorts and crop tops are allowed to keep wearing that, even though the guy equivalent of that much clothing is nothing but they're shorts, which, of course, means that if guys wore that much clothing they would be treated exactly like girls who wear that much clothing are. But, great job!! Really representing the stupid people of the world well!	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/72	1.389
Theres a guy at my university that walks around with a baby dragon stuffed animal perched on his shoulder and a dragon tail strapped to his belt. And, surprisingly enough, no students have trouble focusing during class because of it! Crazy huh?!	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/42	2.381
+immortalmouse all jokes aside, dress code sexism is a big issue. At my high school's prom, there was literally a rule that said two girls wearing the same dress may face different consequences based purely on how they fill out the dress. Translated, that means don't be curvy and wear dresses that accentuate said curves or you'll get kicked out of your senior prom, but that skinnier girl in the exact same dress but with less curves over there is okay!	Senior, Sexism	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/81	2.469
Oh no you can only wear a long skirt in summer! Thank goodness you don't have to wear black trousers, a shirt and tie and a blazer, but you know, male tears and all that	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/35	2.857
wow no one understands that one girl can get many boys in some deep shit and also one girl dressing like a hoe can make a teacher loose there jobs well not female teachers MALE teachers with a few words for like "he was looking down my shirt" are"he touched my shoulder wrong" sense she had those sluty cloths on she just round a teachers life. oh and also if a girl sent a pic of her self to a boy her not being nude btw just her and her slut clothing she can lie and show the text to the cops and then he will be a sex offender for the rest of his life for one pic every one just has to stop thinking of it as sexist and thinking of it as the school trying to cover there asses. also its not the boys fault the naturally pop a few boners after looking at a girl in slutty clothing its just what happins there is no way we can help it so stop with this feminist bs and think of it as school covering there asses from the girls parents and law suits	Sex	Gender - General	1/196	0.51
even though im not a "feminist" im not an anything ist really i just want equality. and people say feminists are gender equality... ummm no i was egged buy feminist for taking part in no shave November because it was unfair for them i was trying to show my masculinity ect but you cant blame guys for dress code issues its 40 year old women who think they know what men will do if they see a thigh	Gender, Old	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/78	2.564

It's neither slut shaming nor objectification. Telling women to cover their breasts, and cover their thighs so as not to interfere with an institution designed for a singular purpose of education, which does NOT involve attractiveness or social image upkeep as a requirement, is not slut shaming or objectifying women. It's telling them they're bad for showing too much skin. Which is not slut shaming, it's just asking them to have some decency... It's telling them that people will find their bodies beautiful, and that if they could please not wear clothing designed to draw attention, that would be great. which is NOT objectification. How on earth did the jump from "dress codes that target women" to "They're being objectified and slut-shamed!!! Call the police!?" Men's dress codes usually ban any clothing that could reveal sexual things about a mans body, like his chest. Women are more specified because women are just more attractive than men, in a weird way. Also, women are more likely to want to wear distracting or revealing clothing, so it's logical that more rules would have been made for them. If men started wearing just their boxers to school, I'm pretty sure there would be a problem...	Sexual, Weird	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/202	0.99
The dress codes are not given to bits because boys don't come into school in bum shorts. If America just did the sensible thug like Britain-and wore uniform in the first place, this wouldn't be a problem	Bum	Social Class - Destitute	2/37	5.405
This is so true the other day in class a guy was wearing a shirt with a naked girl on it and another guy was wearing a muscle tank. But one girl was wearing a muscle tank as well and she was sent home. The guys were told nothing .	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/49	2.041
Bra straps, legs, shoulders, skintight clothing. Yea woman have it worse	Woman	Gender - General	1/11	9.091
be true if i see a sexy girl with a fat ass in yoga pants im gonna smack that ass at the cost of being punched or slapped just being real though	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/32	3.125
I also hate the "boys will be boys" thing. Like you said, it's condoning bad behavior. One common phrase used by feminist protesters is "Don't teach your women how to dress; teach your men not to rape." That's how it should be.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/42	2.381

AGREED. I'm not a goddamn sex toy and I should not be treated as such. If I wanna wear short shorts or show shoulders, then I'm going to and if a guy objectifies me for that, then it's HIS problem that he can't show respect. Men are not crazy sex beasts who wanna get it on with everything, and women aren't sex objects. I hate these rules; they're ridiculous.	Crazy, Sex	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	4/69	5.797
Laci, you contradicted yourself in this video. Early on, you stated that girls are seen as more sexual than boys, and then later, at 3:55 you said that girls are seen as not having a sexuality of their own. Which is it, or somewhere in between these two extremes? I think that it is somewhere in between these two extremes, just as it is for boys.The reason girls and women are seemingly "singled out" for dress code citations is that most boys and men don't show as much of their body off as women do. It's distracting when women and girls do it as much as it would be if men showed off as much of their body as most women do. Also, male brains are much more visually oriented than female brains, as scientists have shown. Sources: [LINK] [LINK] [LINK]	Sexual	Gender - General	1/142	0.704
Yeah but in high school I was told I couldn't wear a sleeveless shirt while girls are aloud to wear basically nothing in high school and as a joke I put a dress on and was sent home I've never seen a girl get sent home for wearing pants or tank tops but if I wear a tank top or a kilt I'm sent home because guys are not allowed to basically guys don't get sent home because most guys follow the same dress code we don't wear short shorts we don't have our shirts hanging down to our chest unless in gym and that's another issue in its own guys are objectified in there own way as well I know at work now I work with girls all the time if I say hey that's not cool when they Objectify me because I'm the only guy I'm made out to be the bad guy stating this as only girls get objectified by schools or work is total bull shit Society just makes it ok to bring up the issue that women are being objectified	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/185	0.541
Males get bashed by both genders for being fat , females get bashed by both genders for being fat , though if a male says it becomes problematic. Also, not to be "unequal," males have more testosterone which makes them act impulsively, this is why girls tend to be better liars. This is a... scientific fact, by the way.Also, saying girls are objects is wrong: [LINK]	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/65	3.077

You realise that woman mature faster then men right? That's why I don't understand this, woman have more esrigion in their body, so we mature faster however boys take up to 4 years to mature the same as woman yet boys don't have any real dress code when woman get to the age of all of their sexual feelings, do they? But woman are constantly told not to wear legging as it would distract boys, despite the fact that they are less sexually mature than woman , this is just sexism .	Age, Sexism, Sexual, Woman	Age - General, Gender - General	9/90	10.0
I was wearing a muscle shirt in summer at school and my principle came up to me and said "by this age you should know that that amount of shoulder is inappropriate"	Age	Age - General	1/32	3.125
At my school guys can wear muscle shirts, low cut shirts, tiny shorts, you name it and guys can wear it. If a guy has holes in his pants above the knee they have to cover it with clear tape, and a girl has holes in her jeans she gets detention, sent home, or have to cover it up with a massive amount of black electrical tape or duck tape. In all the years my school has been built there's most likely 2 at most men who have been dressed coded. Generally, the women are getting punished for their growing body's, but yes she did ignore it and I'm sure it was because it rarely ever happens.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/117	0.855
+DreamOfTitans Good question. But I believe Laci made it fairly clear it isn't about the 'keeping to school guidelines'. The issue is...female clothing is constructed to sexualise while male clothing is constructed for practicality.I have worked in all manner of fashion stores for years and have been horrified over and over by the way clothing is gender segregated in this manner. I currently work at Clarks, a ' gender -neutral' company and there is not even a SINGLE girls school shoe designed as a trainer-type shoe, while there are at least 5 styles made for boys. Likewise, there aren't any patent leather boys school shoes, because 'boys can't be shiny, that's a girly thing'. This problem even pervades to baby shoes and clothes, THAT'S how early the fashion brain-washing starts. Gender fashion standards are totally biased towards boys being 'active' and 'practical' while girls must be 'attractive' and 'ornamental'.So many times parents have complained that their daughters can't play football at break in their mary-janes and I've also had sons who wanted to have pink trainers. Instead I have to fit opposite gender shoes, but in many cases the parents refuse the shoes if they know it's 'meant for boys/girls'.That is the issue at hand; not the 'school guide-lines'.It's total gender -manipulation from the moment you are born. UGH.	Gender	Gender - General	3/220	1.364

+DreamOfTitans Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/14	7.143
+DreamOfTitans Because Is Sexual Discrimination Because Of OUR Bodies. We Can't Wear Basically Anything Or We Will Gets Stared At or Detention. Guys Can Wear Much More Then A Girl Can.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/31	3.226
Within the past year of school, I've seen three different guys with their shirts off in school, without reprimand. (Not the entire day, but for a few minutes) I've also seen a 14 year old girl forced to cover herself more because her skirt came up two inches past her knees. Which one seems more distracting to you? Which one is cause for punishment?	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/64	1.562
+DreamOfTitans Because muscle don't turn on women and they are not a sexual body part like cleavelage is. I know this because I'm a gym rat (stronger than 98 of men) and if I go walking around without my shirt girls won't want to have sex with me. I'm tall also, 6'1.5. If I asked them they would say no. Males show way less skin than females.	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	2/67	2.985
Miss Fortune idk about that, but it seems that people are always complaining that feminists don't do enough,but nobody says that about MRA. shouldn't they try to tackle this issue (if it is an issue) as well.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/37	2.703
Feminazi nigga	Feminazi, Nigga	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - Female intelligence	2/2	100.0
+Miss Fortune she's not ignoring male problems, she's focusing on the problems that girls go through in a short video. You want her to go through every person's problem in the world in a six minute video ? Good luck. Why do you have such a problem when she talks about girl's issues if they're all issues.? I'm sure she could make more videos discussing misandry and men's problems too. But if she made a video only about men that would also cause everyone to say " but.... Women toooooo!" I guess people just can't handle only focusing on a specific issue /; they need to include everyone (although women certainly go through more hardships than men, sorry to break it to you.)	Misandry	Gender - General	1/123	0.813
+Gretta She comes ignore male problems. Not a single one of her videos even mentions mens sexism problems.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/18	5.556

+Miss Fortune ok sure. Tell that to all of the boys who were shot just for having darker skin :( just because we have a black president doesn't mean that racism doesn't exist.	Black, Racism	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	2/33	6.061
+Gretta Why the hell not? I was accused of rape by my ex because I dumped her and she almost got away with it if it weren't for me keeping our conversations saved and told my friend about us having sex . People will take a girls side over a guys any day.	Sex	Gender - General	1/52	1.923
Firstly, I will agree its wrong to tell girls to change their clothing, changing clothing without permission from parents or to give demeaning comments to young girls. Here is where I disagree, I do not believe it teaches girls or boys that either gender are overly sexual or that they are not entitled to human rights, that is really quite absurd to imply that. Men and women ARE inherently sexual by nature, whether you like it or not one of our main purposes as humans is to reproduce and in order to do so we are sexual stimulated by another gender . That is simply nature. Now implying that we pretend girls do not have an individual sexuality is once again absurd, all I hear is implications, presumptions and assumptions at the reality of the matter. Girls are not said to be the problem nor are they denied as sexually active beings and I think I speak for many guys when I say girls tend to be let off for far more than girls do, since boys are instantly presumed to be too loud, distracting, boisterous etc.	Gender, Sexual	Gender - General	5/186	2.688
Its sexism that people would've used about 30 years ago, people never chance	Sexism	Gender - General	1/13	7.692
I think my schools dress code is fine. When half of someone's ass is hanging out or they are wearing something that is very revealing; that is just common decency , not slut shaming. I look forward to your replies.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/40	2.5
Yes, I'm sorry that I'm showing the body I have been told to love and accept from a young age , my bad.	Age	Age - General	1/22	4.545
Wow your make the dress code sound moronic and one sided when really at least where I live there's a dress code for guys and it's a lot more strict than the girls dress code. It's pretty much as long as you aren't showing half a pussy lip or half of your ass you're fine. However guys can't wear those baggy muscle shirts or shorts that go more than halfway up their thigh. And the thing is guys never break the dress code while girls are frequently having to change. And you say that we're objectifieing women, tuck in your vagina and stop objectifieing yourself.	pussy	Nationality - Chinese	1/105	0.952

why do you open your mouth so wide when you speak? Is that supposed to be endearing? its not. I see you stopped doing the weird squinty eye thing, my comment I left 3 years ago must have hit a chord, now enough with the weird face shit, no one wants to see it, maybe you should rely on what you are saying over putting on a funny face, that's like a comedian who is bad who has to make faces after every joke, or a weird sound after every joke, its same shit, stop it if you have any self respect.	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/102	2.941
Have you ever been a 17 year old guy? Do you know what the fuck it is like in 7th period physics to try and focus on moment of inertia of a disc when Brittany is wearing fucking yoga pants. She's fucking hot. Waaayyy more interesting than physics	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/48	2.083
what about objectificatio against men the thought of men being here just for women. OH wait, sorry I forgot women have all the problems,all the good looking guys who get STARED AT BY GIRLS nah it's the guys fault for being too pretty but a man bats an eye at a chick and it's OMG YOU SEXIST OBJECTIFYING PIECE OF LITERAL DOG SHIT HOW DARE YOU. but only women have double standards	Chick	Gender - General	1/72	1.389
boys were way sexual in my high school they held them by there how ha and smack them and the female gets in trouble all the time	Sexual	Gender - General	1/27	3.704
Dress code:Prohibited:Leggings or pants that aren't denim or khaki Spandex, Jean Shorts that are farther than the knee, short skirts (skater skirts or highwaisted)Midriff shirts with a TANK TOP under them Sweat pants Jeans that are baggy Dresses that aren't collared, sleeves and down to your finger tips"Distracting" EarringsSandles, UGGS (boots), certain athletic shoes, flip flops, and heels. Shirts with "too much print" on them?? Bandanas and headbands thicker than a finger.Sweat pants or joggers (I get away with it but it's not supposed to be worn)Tank tops with cardigans Allowed:Khaki Pants RompersLong skirts Jeans that aren't skinny but aren't baggy Collared shirts Collared dresses with sleeves and that are passed your kneesT-Shirtstennis shoes "Capri Shorts"	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/127	0.787

dress code in are schools for girls and bay is equal and is not sexism lacey green you have lied abut the dress code enforced on young women and of are schools wrong abut the dress code you are one-sided on this focusing on the girl’s dress code and not the boys in schools they have the same dress code as the girls do with a few changes like they can not have gain memorabilia in schools for an example you work for a bank they expect men to wear a nice shirt and tie and slack to work and woman to wear a nice blouse and slack is this sexism no because it is professional our young girls and boys going to school to learn how to be professionals in the working environment one day the dress code helps them learn how to dress for life as a professional worker some day then dressing like an unprofessional bum we need the dress code enforced in our schools lacey you need to stop and think about things you are saying on your blog when you joined the feminist party you stopped thinking for yourself the feminist tell you what to say they censor what you can say on the internet and in public you need to do more research to see what the dress code does in schools and how it makes people better for a professional job for all the woman and social justice warrior out there that have been miss led by the fantasy of feminism that there is a problem in our society there is no patriarchy like there is no wage gap and we do not live in a rap culture the realty is rap has gong down so haves violent crimes to woman gone down the feminist are the most abusive out there to man and woman who disagree whit them, for an example of the wage gap I work 5 hours a day for $8 an hour and my female co worker works 3 hours an night for $8 an hour I work 2 more hours according to feminist this is sexists that she need to be pad the same as me for working 2 hours less a night that is not right for me feminist are the one that make up sexist ways of life and there wrong all of us need to look at all info out there and not get trap in this mad fantasy that the feminism head mad up of us we need reality not fantasy life ty	Bum, Patriarchy, Sexism, Woman	Gender - General, Social Class - Destitute	8/429	1.865
totally. My middle school principle from years ago would yell at girls if she should see any skin but my obese principle would have on shirts where u could see her own bra. Yup that happened.	Obese	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/36	2.778
... I’m sorry but this is just stupid, if you are going to talk about dress code ”sexism” talk about how men aren’t allowed to wear whatever they want in public but women are.... although this clothing modesty is an issue it does not have shit to do with sexism.	Sexism	Gender - General	2/50	4.0

At my school they will pull girls aside and inform us we looking inappropriate but from what I have seen every girl wears the same things but only the "larger" girls get informed and forced to change. I got informed the other day that my skirt was way to short when I was below finger tip length and that's longer than what the handbook say on top of that girls half my weight wear skirts that end at the very last part of their butts. When they Walt you see everything but because of my curves it's inappropriate and disgusting to wear something that's lower than finger tip length. This is really body shaming .	Body Shaming	Physical Identity - General	1/114	0.877
Oh BTW if black people have equal rights and gay and anybody in the world can girls have equal rights. Girls better have equal rights.	Black, Gay	Ethnicity - Black, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	3/25	12.0
guys can have there pants down to there knees I can't where my leggings and one day I came home crying because i got a yellow slip which means I cant play at recces and had to walk.	Yellow	Ethnicity - Asian (East-China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam), Nationality - Chinese, Nationality - Japanese	3/38	7.895
SaveMe JeebusYou are assuming these guidelines are generally not to be followed. From the video, "the problem is not that there are guidelines".You are conflating two very different issues. We aren't talking about justifying the wearing of see-through clothing, short shorts that leave half your ass hanging out or ridiculously tiny bikinis to school or walking around with your balls out or without clothing altogether or wearing a terrible disco dress outfit to a suit and tie event.We are talking about some specific guidelines and the reasons behind these guidelines (i.e. "you can't show your shoulders because it's distracting to men/boys who are sex starved monsters").	Sex	Gender - General	1/109	0.917
women are so strong and independent that they should wear short-shorts and look like a object of sex	Sex	Gender - General	1/18	5.556

Central Ohio school district is calling for dress code reform! Community is demanding an inclusive dress code that will help eliminate sexism and racism from the schools.We need YOUR help! Sign and share this petition to help reform the dress code and pave the way for reform in other cities and states. [LINK]	Racism, Sexism	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	2/54	3.704
I feel a dress code should be enforced and while there has been a lot of double standards in the way girls are treated but there are seriously some things not appropriate for school. When I was in school my school district cracked the whip on both females and males even though a lot of the school security thought some of the rules were dumb themselves lol. But if you're being bullied and your following dress code definitely report it.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/80	1.25
Only in the retarded non factual world of laci green is dress code sexist against females. When I was in school mullets were not allowed past the color. Then they disallowed the short on side one blade and spike on top. Guys were given enough demerits for not shaving when they had stuble. Women have so much fashion freedom it is ridiculous. Males cannot wear short shorts or tight yoga pants. We can't wear skirts or shirts that expose our shoulders at work. Men self police these things.	Spike	Religious Identity - Protestant	1/88	1.136
As a dude, it's extremely insulting to be told that i get distracted by a girl's body. Like no dude, fuck you. Unlike you old perverted teachers, i've been raised to not see girls as sex objects, and even if I do find a girl attractive, it's not just because of her body. I actually see woman as human beings as well.	Old, Sex, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	3/62	4.839
i hear slut shaming and think "I AM A PROUD SLUT". :P also guys also got dress codes. and sexual appeal is biologically programmed, if u say sex is biologically programmed	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	2/31	6.452
Rotem Steiner Yeah and there is nobody doing yoga in the middle of a school day either but girls still wear yoga pants.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/23	4.348
Rotem Steiner Jersey's aren't seen sexual in the slightest.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/9	11.111
Rotem Steiner Well since I have to draw it out for you, if a 12 year old boy with raging hormones is in class with a girl wearing "yoga" pants he's obviously going to get distracted from learning.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/38	2.632

Rotem Steiner First, the only females yoga pants don't look good on are fat ones and these rules aren't targeting them because that isn't what teenage boys are attracted to 9 out of 10 times. Second I never said booty shorts and yoga pants were the same, I don't know how you came to that assumption. Thirdly, the same rules that apply to girls apply to males, just because you don't seem them being enforced doesn't mean they aren't there (Just yesterday one of my male friends got in trouble for wearing shorts too small).	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/95	1.053
+Rotem Steiner Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/15	6.667
Lucas Hull lmao I don;t care about all the "objectifying" crap. This isn't even really about genders either. I just think if a school has a really dumb rule they should at least follow through. If you don't care enough to follow through, why not just cancel the stupid rule?	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/50	2.0
Rotem Steiner and your entire position of "dress codes aren't applied to the poms or boys" is dumb because you can't provide any substancial evidence for it. And when I call you out on it the only way for you to turn is to become the grammar police.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/48	2.083
Dylan Fritz but you don't know what I look like	Fritz	Nationality - German	1/10	10.0

Men aren't taught that girls bodies are inherently sexual...we simply know they are. Because they are. Bodies are sexual and when we are sexually attracted to those sexual bodies, sexy things start happening to our sexual bodies. You do not teach sexuality - you can't. You can teach anatomy, biology, and sociology and revolve those around the concept of sex - but sexuality is inherent and the human body is inherently sexual. And there was not too much of a dress code back when I was in school. I live in florida too so girls were wearing shirts that cut off and short shorts and....oh it was heaven for a teenage boy, I can tell you. But it was absolutely a distraction. This isn't sexism. Maybe they are going overboard but this isn't sexism. It's a response to a real life fact - young men are extremely easily distracted the female body especially as their bodies are just beginning to sexually mature. Nobody teaches us this - it simply happens to us.	Nobody, Sex, Sexism, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	9/172	5.233
Josh Gundersonia It's getting really hard to acknowledge easily observable differences between male and female attraction when everyone is pretending men and women are exactly the same. Men's sexual drive is pretty much entirely visual at this age, and girls dress to that attraction. Meaning basically they wear less clothes lol. You're not getting the same dynamic on the female side.I think the schools are going overboard, but obviously when it comes to a lack of clothing they have less to worry about with boys. But guys still aren't allowed typically to walk around with sleeveless shirts etc. Male fashion doesn't typically involve scantily clad clothing. So obviously girls are the main target. It really just makes sense.And this is basically one thing they can sort of control - most other aspects of attraction are pretty much impossible to police without segregation. Which at this point for kids...might not be terrible idea.	Age, Sexual	Age - General, Gender - General	2/154	1.299

Beauty and Sexualization are social constructs. People are taught to view bodies sexually because of the way they are presented as sexual objects within society. Finding your desired preference attractive is natural, having a basic wonderlust of the human body is also natural. But natural attraction is enhanced significantly by social sexualization, and the human body is over-sexualized. Clothes also contribute to this issue, public nudity is seen as a social abnormality which makes the human body a rarer occurrence. We don't generally see each other naked and part of sexualization exploits the element of discovery. So not only does society make nudity a big deal, it also coats it with a sexual element. Nudist communities and static and nomadic tribes generally do not have this same problem of sexual obsession and sexualization of the human body. Standards of beauty are not global and are very much rooted in culture, they are always changing over time too. For example in Tudor England, abnormally obese women were considered the peak of sexualization, whereas things have drastically changed now. Attraction is natural, but society largely shapes what we perceive as beautiful by making certain things appear to be more desirable through social conditioning.	Obese, Sexual	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	4/201	1.99
Sexy Guy The science of symmetry and human biology disagrees with you. Sexualization is natural, and beauty is not entirely a social construct - though it is littered with little social nuances. When you mention how nudist communities don't have that problem, there's a point to that, but social construct isn't it. What we learn is very simple - the more you repress sex the more obsessive you get. Nudist communities are never wanting for sexual stimulation - but normally in society we are to an extent. The more repressed a society gets, the more deviance you're going to see. So it's pretty much the opposite of what you said - sexual repression is a social construct - not sexualization. Although hyper sexualization is most often a result of repression which is a social construct. Sexualization itself is strictly natural, and that reaction is a natural one. And I think society accentuates what we already deem as beautiful - not so much shapes it. That isn't to say attraction is completely static, but it's more tightly bound than we'd like to admit, to general standards.	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	3/185	1.622

Edindro Whitehall Sexualization is merely an extension of social conditioning though. To a small extent there are natural levels of sexualization when it comes to attraction but it's technically an abnormality to natural processes of attraction. The human body has become a sexual icon as a result of society. It has essentially been turned into a product. Its become the supply for a need created by society. While sexual repression has caused a higher demand for sex, which is a completely natural response, it is only natural within that artificial environment, making sexualization essentially artificial. It's an artificial product of a social construct that feeds into pre-existing templates of human nature. Society is often underestimated for its control over beauty, yet it can and has radically changed perceptions of beauty over the past few centuries until now. If beauty was mainly natural, we wouldn't have dominant social ideals and paradigms of beauty in society, because attraction is extremely diverse in its natural state. That alone indicates that society plays a large role in shaping what we find attractive and how much we desire sexual interactivity, making attraction in society seem like the interplay between social and natural influences. We certainly have natural influences that we use to essentially calculate beauty. Not all nudist communities are asexual, many are just not exposed to the social need for sex, because they do not see the human body as a sexual icon in the same way we do, as a result of having been exposed to social material. That makes them seem less interested in sex in contrast to our hyper-sexualized society.	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	7/269	2.602
---	-------------	------------------	-------	-------

Sexy Guy You and I are essentially agreeing it seems. Yes our response is natural in an artificial environment due to that repression we've grown accustomed to - but if we tie this all back to the school dress codes...why are we so offended? The school isn't creating the construct, it's reacting to the same artificial environment that boys are reacting to when they are distracted by all the skin during the most hypersexual point of their lives. How is this sexist if it's simply a response to what is the norm in this society....a norm that isn't even really sexism - artificial as it may be? It's not. It's a reaction to an observation. "When girls dress this way...guys act this way...we should probably get these kids back on point." Their job is fucking crazy hard. It's not sexism it's just a bunch of educators trying to create an environment that is conducive to learning - and they have no control over any of the societal vs natural factors that we've been discussing here. They have to do so within the confines of the society that surrounds them. So that was closer to my point than where we ended up. Another point. I'm in my 30's and have thankfully surpassed the influence this new wave of feminism will surely have on our kids. Sex isn't that big of a deal to me, sexual advertisements don't affect me, and honestly a lot of what we talked about just doesn't have a significant impact. I would hope this is the same for most people my age and that regardless of all of the stigmas that surround young people and sex that there is a point where it all just sort of falls away. Other societies aren't so lucky.Sorry if this seems scatterbrained btw - I'm having a few beers and catching up on Orange is the New Black . :)	Age, Black, Crazy, Sex, Sexism, Sexual	Age - General, Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	8/319	2.508
Even if we go by the idea that boys are hornier than girls, then boys still have to have equally strict dress codes, because gay and bi guys exist who are turned on by guys	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/35	5.714
Josh Gundersonia Female sexuality is of course visual, it's just not as predominately physical as male sexuality. To me it's kind of like female sexuality is visual plus - with lots of other factors tacked on. Nothing wrong with that, but like you said, they are different. Women may have a number of reasons for dressing provocatively but I think it's pretty foolish to pretend that male attention isn't really high up on that list - and plenty of them will even flat out tell you that. But I'm just jumping in for that. Bottom line is this isn't an example of sexism . When we identify that men and women dress differently, and respond to sex differently - then the differences discussed in this video simply aren't surprising and shouldn't be considered to be controversial at all.	Nothing, Sex, Sexism	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/137	2.19

Many wear sagging pants though. And if straight men are aroused by underwear showing I don't see why gay guys wouldn't be.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/22	9.091
+Edindro Whitehall Nobody teaches murder or rape either, it simply happens.Plenty of horrifying things occur naturally, is that the be-all-end-all excuse for them?It is a defining trait of the human race to attempt to change or control damaging natural occurrences, and the decision of when something it categorized as 'damaging' changes courtesy of human evolution and progression as a race . We are currently more diplomatic and empathetic than we were 100 years ago, and that has allowed all sorts of good things to happen scientifically, socially and culturally.'Defying nature' doesn't mean you can't be sexual , sexualisation is by no means a bad thing; but there is definitely a different way the situation can be handled that will allow progression, not acceptance, of current unethical sexualisation standards.	Nobody, Race, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	4/129	3.101
strangelittlebeing Hell of a comparison there of natural sexual attraction to women...and then murder and rape. We're talking about something that shouldn't change and that nobody wants to change. Men being distracted by women isn't exactly a horrifying thing. And neither is dress codes on that basis. I don't understand why you think schools taking what are relatively modest measures to keep kids less distracted by their growing sexual urges and more engaged in their school work while they are at school is somehow regressive or unacceptable - and the video didn't do a good job of adequately expressing this. This is a non-issue being manipulated into a gender issue. But really...what different way do you think we could handle the issue of teenagers being horny at school? What could you possibly think could accurately combat that in a progressive way? Because I've got nothing .	Gender, Nobody, Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	5/145	3.448

Are you Daft? Young women should take it upon themselves to understand what is overtly sexual or not. Failure to do so results in Dress codes that seem repressive but actually are not! Good example is if your pants Wedge up into your Genitalia to the point that it's outline is visible(Yoga pants, Leggings) then they are band. Reasoning is about fairness, Put bluntly one Coochi Showing = no person wearing said Item!Secondly The ONLY WAY TO ACHIVE TRUE GENDER EQUALITY is to HOLD EVERYONE ACCOUNTABLE FOR THEIR ACTIONS!DID YOU miss that memo? Although, Self-Expression is key in schools and pure uniforms are repressive a Dress code is necessary.	Gender, Sexual	Gender - General	2/109	1.835
+Josh 'Engineer Engifar' Gundersonia Engineers eyes and ears :)	Engineers	Nationality - General	1/9	11.111
+Bill Eliseos Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/15	6.667
ok one thing that sucks at my school is literally i get dress coded for shorts not even too short and i can say i am kinda a bigger girl i am not a skinny beautiful model with long limbs and a block between her thighs yet all the pretty model like girls i can really see their butts hanging out of their shorts!!! but if i point it out they take that as i am ratting her out or slut shaming her because she didn't get caught and im just trying to get away..... of course though i never go to the damn office because i know what they are wearing is way worse than me and i do not like basket ball shorts that they give me to wear also because i do not want aids because i wore some olde ugly stinky dress code violator shorts .....(sorry about my late rant on this topic i am new to ur channel though and love ur awareness and u :D)	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/171	0.585
Well, I honestly think that schools should have strict dress code. For both guys and girls. So tired of stupid school kids complaining that they cannot wear leggings or shorts at school. That is school, not beach, you dumb spoiled little brats	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/42	2.381
So you'd be happy wearing jeans, trousers and jumpers in the heat? Having to walk to class then sit down and do nothing for an hour, with possibly bad air conditioning then having to go to PE and do excersise. SMH	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/41	2.439

Think about this, what Laci has mentioned is exactly what many males in the Islamic world, especially strict and radical islamists are mandating for all their girls and women. Therefore we see BURKAS on girls and women. Apparently this is the route our schools are aiming for. "I know, let's put all our female students in big black bags, and then we can ignore them and at the same time pretend that they are not there 'distracting' our innocent little/big boys." How about we do "equal opportunity" dress codes? EVERYONE regardless of gender wears the following: Skirts (style them like Kilts) or knee length Bermuda Shorts in the months from April through Oct. Pants/trousers during the colder months or when it is raining. Fair is fair right? Then even the males will understand it IS NOT the clothes, it IS the female or male body image.	Black, Gender	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	2/146	1.37
Central Ohio is having a huge issue with dress code sexism , racism , and classism ! Please sign our petition to demand the South-Western City School District to provide our schools with an inclusive dress code that isn't harmful to our children. [LINK]	Classism, Racism, Sexism	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General, Social Class - General	3/41	7.317 is the problem here dress inequalities for girls, or the actual dress codes? this video seems to be implying that there is little use for dress codes in school, because the sexualization of minors is wrong. So teen girls should wear whatever they want until they are 18, then follow dress codes? Or should every one just walk around half naked if that's what makes them "feel comfortable?" The real issue is that women are targetted by the dress codes, not that the codes exist in schools. And also, as a side note, please don't tell me girls dressing scantily is only sexual because of media. I was very sheltered from that type of media as a child (as you should be) but I would still find them more distracting/ sexual . call me insane, but the female body is attractive to me by nature not by what media tells me. Nice try though.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/152	0.658
you lie. womens know when they wear sexual clouthning and i think you know real reason why not let kids wear clothes what shows skin. dont be noob	Sexual	Gender - General	1/28	3.571
Not saying that dress code isn't biased, but vice versa... it can empower a woman to believe that she can control men with her looks. So I would appreciate it if you looked at both sides of the coin.	Woman	Gender - General	1/39	2.564

There is high school a few towns over from mine, a rival to my school, where they had an assembly to talk about the dress code and one of the teachers said "Ladies, we don't want to see your bra straps." and one girl was outraged at how blatantly sexist the dress code was, so she started "the crop top movement" where girls were to come to school wearing crop tops, spaghetti straps, see through shirts, yoga pants, leggings, anything that was aimed towards girls that went against the dress code to send the message that our bodies are not a distraction, that our bodies are not sexual , etc. The message got around to new stations and was spread all across social media.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/123	0.813
Our sixth form had a very loose dress code at first (keep it 75 black , white, grey and no shorts - for anyone), but then they started calling out girls wearing leggings stating that it "makes male staff uncomfortable". I also was sitting wearing a skirt one day and our student councillor walked past, BENT OVER to see if she could see up my skirt, and then called me into her office to say my "knickers were on show"... A female teacher was also reprimanded for wearing pencil skirts because they were too tight around her backside. Our school was a bit ridiculous at times.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/105	0.952
also some companies tell women that they have a crazy dress code of covering up cause of there tattoos and piercings I feel it should be more open that they should be allowed too come to work as they are without a company uniform	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/44	2.273
I am so glad my school turned down their regulations. Almost no one gets dresscoded anymore unless their ass is hanging out of their pants/shorts (guys and girls). That only happened cause people voiced their opinions. A group of my guy friends also all agreed to wear dresses to show the double standard and also to see how the system reacted to non binary dressings. They were all sent to the discipline office even though there is nothing in the dress code forbidding a male student from wearing a dress. A lot of students were angered so now you can wear whatever you want as long as you are not naked x)	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/112	0.893
So first, it's wrong for men to sexuality woman , but then you complain when schools try to regulate it?	Woman	Gender - General	1/19	5.263

The double standard regarding dress code is ridiculous. The first day of my freshman year of high school (I was 13 at the time) I was shamed in front of an entire class for my shirt. It completely covered my shoulders, which is the requirement in our code of conduct. The teacher called me out in front of the entire class along with another girl wearing a similar shirt. Meanwhile, there are boys wearing tank tops showing more than I was and not receiving a second glance. Once a boy wore girls running shorts that were much to small and I made a comment about if I wore those shorts I would get in trouble yet he wasn't forced to change. He told me that girls whined too much about dress code. We have announcements made regularly at school about how "especially you girls" need to watch what we wear. I remember being in fifth and sixth grade being told my shorts were too short. I'm not a sexual object, and I should not have to sacrifice my comfort because boys are "distracted".	Sexual	Gender - General	1/183	0.546
so your saying that "boys will be boys" excuses sexual assault? tell me one situation where a male that has committed sexual assault used that defence and got away? and you dont mention that males are body shamed and become depressed as well, almost as if its something only women understand? well heres an actual fact for you, men make up more suicide victims each year because because mens mental health does not matter. hell uk survivors who help men who are victims of things like sexual assault and rape had thier funding cut so no mental health help for those men because evidently they dont matter. so how about not only focusing on how women are treated as sexual objects but include men as well as we are in exactly the same boat as women.	Mental, Sexual	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	6/136	4.412
In 8th grade one the last day of school, I (and about fifteen other girls) got sent home on the last day of school for wearing tight sweatpants. My principal, who was a woman , went on a rampage pulling out 10's of girls sent them home and even told the girls who tried to talk back that she could get them suspended for the first day of high school. I even had a gym teacher come up to me in the office and tell me that there was nothing wrong with my pants!	Nothing, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/93	2.151
What if a guy wants to wear a skirt, he'll be told off for that. Not just by a school but by society. Meanwhile a girl can wear pants and not a single problem. I think that's sexism aswell. Why do feminists and male rights activists have to exist when we can all stop arguing about who has it worse and become egalitarians.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/63	1.587
ive seen guys wear yoga pants and short shorts and nobody does anything about it	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/15	6.667

my english teacher once in 8th grade pulled me aside to say that i couldnt wear my crop top even though i was wearing an under shirt under it and made me change. but yet all the skinny girls in my school could wear crop tops the whole summer. like wow way to really fuck a 14 year olds mental health up.	Mental, Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/62	3.226
I don't get it why Teachers and administrators are so heavy focused on girls and I see men wearing tank tops and ones that are revealing the sides of there bodies and they don't get yelled at. That's sexism I have not got yell at I wear tanks and other things.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/51	1.961
I don't see how any particular body part is sexual besides what's required to have sex , I can see a completely naked man or woman and not get distracted	Sex, Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	3/29	10.345
Uniform. Do it. Y'all complaining about 'shoulders'...if mine or my boyfriend's TIE is off-point they will STOP YOU NO MATTER WHAT YOU ARE DOING to make YOU DO IT AGAIN. Lol. Want hair that has highlights or an unnatural color, or even (box-dye cherry red ) RED ? Nope. Don't come back until we like it. Want earrings?? Don't bother. Piercings? Move schools. Both genders are equal in my school. Neither can do shit :))))	Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American	2/73	2.74
Young girls aren't being sexualized by those who view them, they are intrinsically, by their very biological natures, visually sexually appealing to men. Boys brains are hardwired to view a women's body as sexual , especially a young hormone fueled boy. It's natural. I would say women constantly sexually harass men by dressing in provocative ways.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/55	1.818

The idea that dress codes are unfairly targeting girls more than boys is nonsense. Girls tend to be much more likely to wear revealing clothes for all sorts of reasons, such as fashion or trying to look attractive, whereas the vast majority of boys do not put much consideration or value on which clothes they wear. Boys frequently do get in trouble for dress code violations, when they break them, and there are also plenty of girls who get away with breaking them- it is not like they are enforced with 100 effectiveness. I knew plenty of guys in high school who got in trouble for wearing pants that were too saggy, or shirts that did not cover their shoulders. Also, the claim that boys get away with wearing more revealing clothes than girls is downright ludicrous. Boys almost never wear revealing clothes- the only thing that is generally more acceptable for boys is to show their bare chest, but girls can wear much shorter shorts, more revealing shirts (belly shirts, spaghetti straps), and much tighter clothes in general; whereas most of the common options for girl clothes are not even close to acceptable for a guy to wear in almost any public setting. To pretend that females are held to stricter standards when it comes to how they dress than males are, is just completely out of touch with reality. A guy would be fucking ridiculed if he wore a belly shirt with spaghetti straps with yoga pants/booty shorts/mini skirt/etc. in any public place other than maybe a sex club or a gay pride parade. Even if they do say that girls might be distracting to boys when they wear revealing clothes. That is not excusing predatory or abusive behavior. Most boys that age are already spending a lot of their time thinking about girls and having sexually motivated thoughts, much more so than they are focused on actually learning and doing school work. The fact is that seeing girls walking around in really tight or revealing clothes is just going to bring their attention right back to where it is already inclined to be, and it makes it even more difficult for teachers to keep them interested in academic subjects and work. Hormones are a real thing and boys tend to be very visually stimulated.	Age, Common, Gay, Sex	Age - General, Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality, Social Class - Working class	5/387	1.292
bunkypeppz I see. Generally girls are specifically targeted because their shoulders, calves, knees etc. are seen as "too sexual" and "distracting the male students". it is possible that your school enforces a dress code that doesn't target girls, but these schools that do so unfortunately exist. I live in a country where schools do not have a dress code, and people are pretty much free to wear anything that is legal. It sounds ridiculous to me that people are getting disciplined for wearing muscle shirts, or a girl being sent home for a shirt exposing her collarbone.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/97	1.031

Salla KolehmainenFrom what I have seen, girls are usually targeted more because they tend to wear much more revealing clothes. Most guys usually do not wear clothes that are as tight or revealing as what girls typically wear. It is not very common for guys to wear shorts as short as what girls wear, or shirts that are as tight or revealing (belly shirts, spaghetti straps, etc.).I know of plenty of high schools that have rules against boys having shorts that do not go past their knees, while allowing girls to wear shorts that go half way down the thigh. It's much more socially acceptable in most places for girls to show their bodies than it is for guys, with the exception of being bare-chested. To act as if girls are always disproportionately targeted by these codes, and for no reason, is just disconnected from reality.Just look at the image Laci used in the video of someone complaining about guys being able to wear tight shirts and girls not being able to wear yoga pants: that is not even an honest comparison; I can guarantee you that guys in that school are not allowed to wear yoga pants either- but they probably wouldn't be seen wearing them in the first place, so people act as if it is sexist because only the girls are getting in trouble for violating the dress code in that situation.I agree that dress codes are not necessarily important and that people should be allowed to wear what they want, but it bugs me when people make things out to be an issue of sexism by ignoring a large part of the topic's reality.	Common, Sexism	Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	2/282	0.709
bunklypeppz The difference, however, is that girls are told to "cover-up", and that they are sexually distractive. Why is it that women's clothes, that are more variable in shape and length, are suddenly not socially acceptable in a school environment, whereas in public places and at home it is perfectly normal for a girl to wear a top with spaghetti straps or shorts over knee length? That is some mixed message.Dress codes are perfectly understandable, if boys and girls are judged by same standards, such as having restrictions about sleeve lengths in order for students to look more formal and tidy. However, if girls are told that their clothes are "distracting for male students" or that their collarbone is a sexual body part that should be covered for modesty, THAT is some fine targeting against girls. Seriously, did you see her picture? She was dressed like the nicest and the most modest girl in school. The next step up from that is a burka or some other clothing that covers the whole body.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/174	0.575

EVERYTHING VIDEO Women aren't forced to wear revealing clothes; if they want shorts or shirts that are less revealing, they are perfectly capable of buying them. The types of clothes you would typically find in a section for men/women are there due to the fact that those are what tend to be bought by individuals of those demographics. However, it is not difficult to find shorts of any length you want, regardless of what gender you are.	Gender	Gender - General	1/77	1.299
Salla Kolehmainen What do you mean by that being the difference? I am pointing out situations in which both get told to cover up. It's not like every girl is told they are being "sexually distracting." I knew plenty of girls who got in trouble for dress code violations and none of them had anything said to them with regards to sexuality being the reason for them to change. That is not a common thing for them to be told; that is much more often used as a critical inference by people who oppose dress codes for whatever reason. What the vast majority of students who get in trouble for violating the dress code are told is simply that they violated to dress code or that they were not dressed in an appropriate manner. Also, the reality is that sometimes what girls wear CAN be distracting for boys in their classes. At that age , most boys are almost constantly having sexual thoughts, and it is difficult enough for teachers to keep them interested and focused on academic subjects- most of which they are not extremely interested in to begin with. Most boys in high school probably have more anxiety in class related to the chance of getting called to the front of the room with a boner than about tests or assignments. I don't know whether or not the same is true for female students, but boys are typically known to be more visually stimulated, and as I have mentioned before, they are not usually the ones wearing extremely tight or revealing clothes.	Age, Common, Sexual	Age - General, Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	3/263	1.141

bunklypeppz This might not be an everyday situation in every school, but those cases that have emerged indicate that this kind of unfair treatment happens while it shouldn't. It seems though that these cases are more common in more conservative states. Could you please open that link in my first comment to you, and tell me what exactly is sexual about that girls outfit? And the next thing you are doing is defending the mentality that girls are responsible if boys are incapable of controlling their sexual urges. That is messed up. Instead of enforcing the idea that every inch of a girl in any situation is sexual , shouldn't we be taught the opposite? That there is absolutely nothing sexual about a girl wearing shorts on a hot day, or wearing a shirt with no sleeves? How come that in countries like mine, where dress codes are not a thing, boys are perfectly capable of understanding this, and are able to go to school without getting distracted by a girl's legs?It doesn't matter whether boys are visually more stimulated or not, girls are not responsible for this, and shouldn't be the punished for it.	Common, Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	6/195	3.077
--	-------------------------	---	-------	-------

Salla Kolehmainen” And the next thing you are doing is defending the mentality that girls are responsible if boys are incapable of controlling their sexual urges. That is messed up. Instead of enforcing the idea that every inch of a girl in any situation is sexual, shouldn’t we be taught the opposite?”I am not defending anything. There is a difference between endorsing an ideological view and acknowledging a biological fact. Everyone is ultimately responsible for how and whether or not they act on their own urges, but it is not rational or fair for people to be expected to dictate which urges they involuntarily experience. You can teach people to respect others, but you can’t change the fact that kids that age are experiencing strong hormonal changes that have significant effects on their mind and body, and that part of that experience for boys is being highly attracted to the female form.Part of the biggest problems with feminism is that it suggests that normal male sexuality is pathological because it does not manifest in the same way that female sexuality does. You are saying that boys do not get distracted by looking at girls in your country; I can tell you that you’re wrong- it happens everywhere. It’s not the girls’ fault, and it doesn’t mean that all boys will fail out of school because of it, but just about every boy in high school is spending a lot of time thinking about sex, and seeing a girl in tight short shorts, or showing cleavage is likely to get their mind to wander in that direction.”It doesn’t matter whether boys are visually more stimulated or not, girls are not responsible for this, and shouldn’t be the punished for it.”It is not an issue of whether or not girls should be punished in retaliation for this. It is the responsibility of EVERY student or teacher to contribute to making school a productive learning environment for all students. There are plenty of ways in which boys are expected to moderate their behavior to accommodate the presence of female students. It is not that hard for anyone to just choose to wear articles of clothing that adhere to a dress code, before they leave their house. You are acting like girls should just wear whatever they want to school, a decision which has nothing to do with how well they can perform and succeed in academics, and if that results in boys having less academic prosperity, then ’too bad;’ and again, boys get in trouble for violating dress codes too!	Age, Nothing, Sex, Sexual	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	5/431	1.16
--	---------------------------	---	-------	------

bunklypeppz "I am not defending anything. There is a difference between endorsing an ideological view and acknowledging a biological fact."Indeed, and you implying that female students should be self-conscious about wearing clothes that reveal their generally non-sexual body parts, is endorsing the idea that women are responsible of not triggering sexual urges in men. Besides, what is considered sexually stimulating is not merely biological, but very likely a combination of multiple factors, including learned behavior. [LINK] "The origins of the sexually differentiated response to sexual stimuli are unknown. Possible factors could be sociological, evolutionary, physiological, psychological, or most likely a combination. Sociological variables likely play a significant role in observed sex differences in reports of sexual arousal. Some researchers argue that sexuality is largely a socialized phenomenon (Reiss, 1986)." "The social teachings experienced by men and women throughout their lives may mediate their subjective feelings of sexual arousal in response to sexual stimuli. That there are cultural differences in sexual attitudes suggests that social influences contribute to observed differences in sexual attitudes and behavior (Reiss, 1986; Widmer, Treas, &amp; Newcomb, 1998).""Together, previous literature suggests that differences between men and women in experience, gender roles, and feelings about sexuality may produce different subjective levels of arousal.""Part of the biggest problems with feminism is that it suggests that normal male sexuality is pathological because it does not manifest in the same way that female sexuality does."Ha! Quite the contrary, men seem to think that their excessive sexual urges in this era of sexual objectification are "natural", and that it gives them some sort of right to tell women how to dress and how to behave so that women don't bother them with their presence. That is how you make it sound like. And there is no principle in feminism that would suggest that male sexuality is pathological, you made that shit up yourself. "There are plenty of ways in which boys are expected to moderate their behavior to accommodate the presence of female students." Don't you mean normal, civilized behavior? Because that is what it is called. Nobody is forcing boys to unfairly moderate their behavior in a way that girls wouldn't be expected to do also. " It is not that hard for anyone to just choose to wear articles of clothing that adhere to a dress code, before they leave their house. You are acting like girls should just wear whatever they want to school, a decision which has nothing to do with how well they can perform and succeed in academics, and if that results in boys having less academic prosperity, then 'too bad;' and again, boys get in trouble for violating dress codes too!"Oh fuck's sake, you are again making that assumption that we are talking about fair dress codes that treat both girls and boys equally. WE ARE NOT. We are discussing about the cases where dress codes are unfair towards girls by enforcing a special standard of "sexual modesty", and enforcing the idea that certain non-sexual body parts are sexual and distractive, such as the collarbone case. There is absolutely no way that boys' academic success is in line because of girls wearing shorts to school.	Gender, Nobody, Nothing, Sex, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	15/535	2.804
--	---	---	---------------	--------------

Salla Kolehmainen”men seem to think that their excessive sexual urges in this era of sexual objectification are ”natural”””And there is no principle in feminism that would suggest that male sexuality is pathological, you made that shit up yourself.”You really don’t see the contradiction here? Feminists say that the male expression of sexuality is wrong in many ways and then justify it by citing inconclusive science to claim that it is not natural.I am not insisting that the cause of boys having these thoughts and impulses is purely biological, no one can say whether or not that is the case for sure. I am saying that those urges are there and they have a biologically driven impact on thought and behavior that goes beyond the volition of the young men experiencing them.”Don’t you mean normal, civilized behavior? Because that is what it is called”You mean like wearing clothes that look appropriate and are not excessively revealing? Because that is how many people would respond to you complaining about dress codes- everyone thinks ’their way’ of thinking is the right way.”Nobody is forcing boys to unfairly moderate their behavior in a way that girls wouldn’t be expected to do also.”This is delusional- there are countless ways in which boys and unfairly treated and expected to behave compared to their female counterparts. Boys are constantly told things like ”don’t say that, there are girls around” ”don’t do that, there a girls around.” There are countless fucking male behaviors that are considered pathological in todays world, especially for young men in school, because the school system in the western world is tailored to the needs of girls more so than boys. That is why girls are vastly and increasingly outperforming boys in school, and boys are vastly and increasingly being put on harmful medications to alter and moderate their behavior and young ages. People are being lead to believe that natural behavior exhibited by young boys is pathological and it is proving to be detrimental to boys in many ways.”Oh fuck’s sake, you are again making that assumption that we are talking about fair dress codes that treat both girls and boys equally. WE ARE NOT. We are discussing about the cases where dress codes are unfair towards girls by enforcing a special standard of ”sexual modesty”, and enforcing the idea that certain non-sexual body parts are sexual and distractive, such as the collarbone case. There is absolutely no way that boys’ academic success is in line because of girls wearing shorts to school.”You are discussing a STRAW MAN argument. Dress codes often do treat boys and girls equally You are discussing cases that only take into account one perspective on what is happening: ask girls who get in trouble and they will say boys are treated better; ask boys who got in trouble for it and they will say girls are treated better. Some are less fair to girls, some are less fair to boys. You are making an argument based on insignificant anecdotal incidents that a few girls have complained about because they were personally mad about getting in trouble, and tried to make it out to be a widespread societal issue. You said yourself that you live in a part of the world that does not have school dress codes; you know NOTHING about them other than what some clowns on the internet have said. I went to schools with dress codes and I know many people who went to other schools with dress codes. You	Nobody, Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	6/646	0.929
---	-------------------------	---	-------	-------

bunklypeppz "You really don't see the contradiction here? Feminists say that the male expression of sexuality is wrong in many ways and then justify it by citing inconclusive science to claim that it is not natural."Definitely not, you wouldn't either if you had actually understood my point, instead of taking my words out of context and pulling ridiculous conclusions about them. Male sexuality is natural, men getting overly excited about women's non-sexual body parts, is not. "I am not insisting that the cause of boys having these thoughts and impulses is purely biological, no one can say whether or not that is the case for sure. I am saying that those urges are there and they have a biologically driven impact on thought and behavior that goes beyond the volition of the young men experiencing them."Great, we are on the same page about this. However, we disagree on what this has to do with girls' clothing and dress codes."You mean like wearing clothes that look appropriate and are not excessively revealing?"No. And what the fuck is inappropriate about women's collarbone? Or shoulders? I have constantly tried to tell you, the problem is the assertion that female non-sexual body parts are sexual and therefore inappropriate: an assertion not made about the bodies of men. "This is delusional- there are countless ways in which boys and unfairly treated and expected to behave compared to their female counterparts. Boys are constantly told things like "don't say that, there are girls around" "don't do that, there a girls around." " I don't recall ever being in a situation where boys couldn't have done something socially normal in a school environment with girls being present. I am curious, what those poor boys cannot say or do because of girls? "You are discussing a STRAW MAN argument."No. Ironically it is you who are making straw man arguments here, such as that silly ramble about feminists saying that male sexuality is pathological, when discussing about to what extent is male visual sexual stimuli biological, and how sociological and cultural influences affect it."Dress codes often do treat boys and girls equally." Still not talking about dress codes in general."You are making an argument based on insignificant anecdotal incidents that a few girls have complained about because they were personally mad about getting in trouble, and tried to make it out to be a widespread societal issue."In reality, you are completely oblivious about how big of an issue the sexualization of female body is, and how these "little things" contribute to the bigger picture. Dress codes asserting that girls from a very young age have to cover up certain non-sexual body parts for "modesty", are harmful and insulting to women. If the case is that a dress code applies for both genders without any special rules for neither, and includes no notions for girls about sexual modesty, it is fine. That is not a dress code we are talking about."You said yourself that you live in a part of the world that does not have school dress codes; you know NOTHING about them other than what some clowns on the internet have said."Well, if the news media is run by clowns... And obviously I know nothing about the issue we don't have thanks to our very school system that allows us the freedom of using the same clothes we buy from the stores, and what we use every day in many other public places also, without causing the men to	Age, Nothing, Old, Sexual	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	7/605	1.157
--	----------------------------------	--	--------------	--------------

Salla Kolehmainen”Male sexuality is natural, men getting overly excited about women’s non-sexual body parts, is not.”A person being attracted to body parts is part of their sexuality. You are saying that men are wrong about what they think their own sexuality is; people are turned on by body parts other than vaginas and penises- that a normal part of sexuality.”the problem is the assertion that female non-sexual body parts are sexual and therefore inappropriate: an assertion not made about the bodies of men.”It is not simply a matter of sexuality, dress codes are based on notions of what is appropriate or not for an academic environment for young people (whether correct or not). Both boys and girls can be in violation of these codes- as I mentioned before, girls are much more likely to wear revealing and tight clothes than boys, which is why some girls tend to think they are being persecuted or singled out over boys.”I don’t recall ever being in a situation where boys couldn’t have done something socially normal in a school environment with girls being present. I am curious, what those poor boys cannot say or do because of girls?”There are many types of behavior that are normal for young boys to exhibit that have come to be viewed as pathological and inappropriate in the past few decades, due to schools changing their focus to suit the needs of female students. The entire school environment is made to accommodate the wants and needs of girls in terms of curricular structure/content as well as standards for conduct. This also contributes to the epidemic of boys being put on unnecessary prescription medications that are harmful to their long terms mental and physical health.”such as that silly ramble about feminists saying that male sexuality is pathological, when discussing about to what extent is male visual sexual stimuli biological, and how sociological and cultural influences affect it.”I don’t think you understand what a straw man argument is.” Still not talking about dress codes in general.”Which is exactly why I said you are making a strawman argument- you are attacking dress codes based on your assumption that something is true, when in reality the issue you are discussing is made up by whining children who are mad about not getting their fucking way. Again, just look at that idiotic poster in the video acting as if it was somehow a double standard for men to be able to wear tight shirts in the gym and girls not being able to wear yoga pants. NEWSFLASH: guys can’t wear yoga pants under that code either- they just never get in trouble for it because they never wear them in the first goddamn place.”In reality, you are completely oblivious about how big of an issue the sexualization of female body is, and how these ”little things” contribute to the bigger picture.”I am not oblivious to that concept, I am saying that this is not an area in which it is operative. Dress codes to apply to both genders. You, and many other people are just assuming that there is an issue where there is not one, because you don’t question these things due to your assumptions based on the issue of sexual objectification that is prevalent in other areas. It is the same thing as people hearing someone claim that a person from Alabama is racist and then believing it without evidence because they know a lot of racist people live in Alabama.”Well, if the news media is run by clowns...”Yes, yes it is...	Mental, Racist, Sexual	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	6/640	0.938
--	------------------------	--	-------	-------

bunklypeppz "A person being attracted to body parts is part of their sexuality. You are saying that men are wrong about what they think their own sexuality is; people are turned on by body parts other than vaginas and penises- that a normal part of sexuality."Technically, an atypical arousal that intervenes with normal everyday life, is classified as paraphilia. If you find yourself out of focus because of an arousal caused by a teenage girls shoulders in a school, I would say you have a problem. It is a part of normal sexual behavior that we recognize and control ourselves in non-sexual situations. "There are many types of behavior that are normal for young boys to exhibit that have come to be viewed as pathological and inappropriate in the past few decades, due to schools changing their focus to suit the needs of female students. The entire school environment is made to accommodate the wants and needs of girls in terms of curricular structure/content as well as standards for conduct. This also contributes to the epidemic of boys being put on unnecessary prescription medications that are harmful to their long terms mental and physical health."That was pretty vague, not to mention that you did not support it with any sources. Care to be more specific about what normal male behavior is, according to you, deemed as pathological?"I don't think you understand what a straw man argument is."Ditto. A straw man argument is an informal fallacy, which is based on creating a malformed version of the opponents argument, and then "refuting" it, instead of addressing the real argument. That is what you did, not me. "Which is exactly why I said you are making a strawman argument- you are attacking dress codes based on your assumption that something is true, when in reality the issue you are discussing is made up by whining children who are mad about not getting their fucking way." This what you did here, is a straw man. I am not "attacking" dress codes. I am addressing the issue that some dress codes, established by some schools, are unfair towards girls by giving them an extra directive of "sexual modesty", and claiming that the way girls dress is sexually distractive, making an assertion that certain non-sexual body parts of a female body are sexual, while not making the same assertion about male bodies."I am not oblivious to that concept, I am saying that this is not an area in which it is operative." That is a kind of silly thing to say. The sexualization of female bodies is not operative on an area that focuses on clothing our bodies. Quite the contrary, dress codes are an area vulnerable to sexualization. After all, dictating what kind of clothes are appropriate to wear is about covering certain parts of our bodies that are "inappropriate". Religions such as Islam use this tactic to control female sexuality."You, and many other people are just assuming that there is an issue where there is not one, because you don't question these things due to your assumptions based on the issue of sexual objectification that is prevalent in other areas."Or, judging by the evidence I have come to a conclusion that dress codes are used unfairly towards girls and women in some extent."Yes, yes it is... welcome to America. The news media spends more time talking about then Kardashians, and reporting half baked, factually flaky stories, than trying to inform the	Mental, Sexual	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	5/607	0.824
---	-----------------------	--	--------------	--------------

Salla Kolehmainen”It is a part of normal sexual behavior that we recognize and control ourselves in non-sexual situations.”Yes, you control your actions, but people can not control the feelings that inspire the compulsion for those actions. Especially not teenage boys.”That was pretty vague, not to mention that you did not support it with any sources. Care to be more specific about what normal male behavior is, according to you, deemed as pathological?”Normal behavior for young males generally includes traits that are considered to be associated with many recently identified ’behavioral disorders’ such as ADHD, which have been classified as such in recent decades in which schools have changed their approach to be more accommodating towards then needs of females, often at the expense of males. In youth, the male brain tends to mature at a slower rate than the female brain, which tends to result behavioral and cognitive differences between the genders at those ages, yet people tend to view the type of behavior typically exhibited by females to be correct and the behavior exhibited by males to be incorrect and in need of pharmaceutical intervention.Also, boys are more likely to get in trouble than girls in school because girls are generally viewed as benevolent. If a girl and a boy get into an altercation, the boy is often treated as the offender and the girl is considered the victim, even if she was the aggressor.Boys are also frequently accused of having inappropriate sexual intentions, while girls are viewed as being pure and at risk of being victimized-even the subject of this argument is evidence of that. What is being said is not that girls are harming the boys’ sensibilities by exposing their bodies; they are getting in trouble because people don’t want the boys to be thinking sexual thoughts about a girls or being provoked by them. It is still treating the boys as a danger.Here’s a story about a six year old boy being suspended for sexual harassment: [LINK] A four year old accused of sexual harassment: [LINK] Here’s a 7th grader accused of sexual harassment because his teacher did not like his ’tone’ when he complimented her: [LINK] These are just incidents with teachers- it happens even more with students. Sure sometimes students do behave in inappropriate ways that warrant punishment, but boys are constantly having the worst assumed of them. I knew a handful of boys in the high school I went to who had gotten in trouble because girls accused them of looking at their breasts or butts. ”Or, judging by the evidence I have come to a conclusion that dress codes are used unfairly towards girls and women in some extent.”The plain fact of the matter is, girls wear more revealing clothes than boys do. You cannot assert that dress codes are more unfair to girls when you can look around in any school in the US that does not require uniforms, and clearly see that the girls are wearing much tighter and more revealing clothes, regardless of whether or not a dress code exists there. If a girl walked around in typical guy clothes in school, she would probably be looked at as a tomboy- if a guy walked around in typical girls, people would either think it was for some kind of goof, that he would undoubtedly get sent to the school office for, or they would view him as a sexual deviant.There are issues with them being enforced in a consistent manner, which is why some people tend to feel singled out and then attribute	Old, Sexual	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	9/661	1.362
---	-------------	----------------------------------	-------	-------

bunklypeppz "Yes, you control your actions, but people can not control the feelings that inspire the compulsion for those actions. Especially not teenage boys."So have we come to a conclusion that teenage boys, while not necessarily always in control of their feelings, are responsible of their own behavior, just like everybody else? And that girls have nothing to do with this?"Normal behavior for young males generally includes traits that are considered to be associated with many recently identified 'behavioral disorders' such as ADHD, which have been classified as such in recent decades in which schools have changed their approach to be more accommodating towards then needs of females, often at the expense of males."Source?"In youth, the male brain tends to mature at a slower rate than the female brain, which tends to result behavioral and cognitive differences between the genders at those ages,.."True..."yet people tend to view the type of behavior typically exhibited by females to be correct and the behavior exhibited by males to be incorrect and in need of pharmaceutical intervention."And what is this typical female behavior like and how is it compared to typical male behavior? In what ways is this typical male behavior condemned or restricted? What is an example of a typical male behavior deemed to be fixed with medication?"Also, boys are more likely to get in trouble than girls in school because girls are generally viewed as benevolent. If a girl and a boy get into an altercation, the boy is often treated as the offender and the girl is considered the victim, even if she was the aggressor."Source? "Boys are also frequently accused of having inappropriate sexual intentions, while girls are viewed as being pure and at risk of being victimized- even the subject of this argument is evidence of that."Well , the overwhelming majority of the victims of sexual harassment, sexual abuse, and rape ARE women and girls, and the aggressor is most often a man. Apparently you have found the most ridiculous cases in the internet, and I would like to make it clear that I really do find this kind of behavior idiotic. "What is being said is not that girls are harming the boys' sensibilities by exposing their bodies; they are getting in trouble because people don't want the boys to be thinking sexual thoughts about a girls or being provoked by them. It is still treating the boys as a danger."Except that it is not the case. It was specifically said that it was about boys getting "distracted", not about the safety of the girls. Even the assumption that girls are sexually provocative while dressing in clothes that are acceptable in every other public environment, is insulting to girls. Instead of constantly trying to control the female body by dictating normal clothes as too sexual for school environment, how about respecting the right of the girls to dress in perfectly normal clothes, without somebody always deeming it as sexual behavior? "The plain fact of the matter is, girls wear more revealing clothes than boys do."Which they have all the right to do without being sexualized."You cannot assert that dress codes are more unfair to girls..."To SOME extent, and yes I can. "...when you can look around in any school in the US that does not require uniforms, and clearly see that the girls are wearing much tighter and more revealing clothes, regardless of whether or not a dress code exists there."Amusing	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	10/661	1.513
--	------------------------	---	---------------	--------------

Salla Kolehmainen”So have we come to a conclusion that teenage boys, while not necessarily always in control of their feelings, are responsible of their own behavior, just like everybody else? And that girls have nothing to do with this?”Yes, they are responsible for their own behavior. Being distracted or having urges, are not behaviors.”Source?”What are you asking for a source for? It is a fact that the male brain matures at a slower rate than the female brain, in adolescence. This results in males having a greater propensity for certain behaviors that are associated with what are now described as various ‘behavioral disorders’ and the result is that boys are much more likely to be put on unnecessary medications and restricted from indulging in certain behaviors to which they are compelled.Here’s one article that discusses this phenomenon: [LINK] ”Source?” [LINK] [LINK] ”Well , the overwhelming majority of the victims of sexual harassment, sexual abuse, and rape ARE women and girls, and the aggressor is most often a man.”That is not nearly as true as common knowledge would indicate. However, even if it was, it does not justify unfairly ascribing harmful intentions of young boys in school who did nothing wrong.”Except that it is not the case. It was specifically said that it was about boys getting ”distracted”, not about the safety of the girls. Even the assumption that girls are sexually provocative while dressing in clothes that are acceptable in every other public environment, is insulting to girls.”People are allowed to be sexually provocative if they want to, in a public setting- but not in school. Some people do dress certain ways to be sexually provocative. Also, those clothes are not at all acceptable in ”every other public environment” if they are worn by a guy, which was one of my previous points.”There exists schools with ridiculous dress codes that assume certain body parts of a female body are sexual, when they are not.”You are assuming that all dress codes are based on ideas about sexuality. The fundamental premise of a dress code has nothing to do with instilling sexual morality upon students- they are explicitly intended to contribute to the emulation of a professional environment, many of which will require similar standards for attire. There are many types of jobs that would consider tight or revealing clothes to be ’inappropriate” for the work place, and schools with dress codes are intended to prepare students for that.”While the rules may be same to both genders, girls might be told to ”dress modestly” and ” cover up properly” etc, while boys are not told the same.”I was told to cover up whenever I wore shorts that did not cover my knees (and as I previously mentioned, girls were allowed to wear shorts that went half way down their thighs).	Common, Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	8/480	1.667
---	-------------------------	---	-------	-------

bunklypeppz”Yes, they are responsible for their own behavior. Being distracted or having urges, are not behaviors.”If boys get distracted, it is their problem. Girls are not responsible for it, and they cannot be forced or dictated to be ”non-distractive”. End of story. If I get distracted by the cuteness of someone’s face, should they wear a paper bag so that I could focus on studying? Or is it perhaps up to me to try to get a grip?All I read from that article was that there is an issue of false diagnosing of ADHD in USA that affects mostly young boys. One paragraph that was pretty much an opinion of this Ned Hallowell guy said something about this being the fault of the school being a place where disrruptive behavior is not allowed, and that girls are supposedly naturally more good at sitting quietly. This in no way indicates that your schools are purposely created to be against boys, that is ridiculous. Maybe your classes should be more interactive, I don’t know. ”That is not nearly as true as common knowledge would indicate. However, even if it was, it does not justify unfairly ascribing harmful intentions of young boys in school who did nothing wrong.”First, yes, it is. Second, I said that I found those cases stupid. They still do not nullify sexual harassment that really happens in any way.”People are allowed to be sexually provocative if they want to, in a public setting- but not in school.”Funny assumption again that girls clothes are automatically sexually provocative. They are not. Remember the collarbone girl? Jeans, two set of shirts, and the only problem was her collarbone. And it is not the fault of girls if the society is so backwards that guys in traditionally girlish clothes are unacceptable. I don’t personally see it as a problem, they have the right to dress the way they want to.”You are assuming that all dress codes are based on ideas about sexuality. ” No, I am not. I have been trying to explain this to you this whole time...”I was told to cover up whenever I wore shorts that did not cover my knees (and as I previously mentioned, girls were allowed to wear shorts that went half way down their thighs).” Cover up in a way such as ”Omg your knees are sexually distractive and that is so immoral”?	Common, Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	3/404	0.743
--	-------------------------	---	-------	-------

Salla Kolehmainen”If boys get distracted, it is their problem. Girls are not responsible for it, and they cannot be forced or dictated to be ”non-distractive”. End of story. If I get distracted by the cuteness of someone’s face, should they wear a paper bag so that I could focus on studying? Or is it perhaps up to me to try to get a grip?”It is ultimately everyone’s responsibility to get themselves to pay attention, but the problem in school is that not all the kids even want to be there or pay attention in the first place, so it is the job of the teachers to try to make the lessons interesting and compelling. It may not be the girls’ responsibility, but it is the school’s and the teachers’ responsibility. Part of the responsibility that the school has is to create a productive learning environment and therefore prevent behaviors that may be distracting to students. If boys are distracted by girls wearing booty shorts and showing cleavage, then it would make sense for schools to implement dress codes to minimize those distractions.”All I read from that article was that there is an issue of false diagnosing of ADHD in USA that affects mostly young boys. One paragraph that was pretty much an opinion of this Ned Hallowell guy said something about this being the fault of the school being a place where disrruptive behavior is not allowed, and that girls are supposedly naturally more good at sitting quietly. This in no way indicates that your schools are purposely created to be against boys, that is ridiculous. Maybe your classes should be more interactive, I don’t know.”Of course they are not purposely created to be against boys. I NEVER said that. I said that the issues is that schools are tailored to the needs of girls and that the needs of boys are largely neglected by this structure. Which is exactly what you just described.”First, yes, it is. Second, I said that I found those cases stupid. They still do not nullify sexual harassment that really happens in any way.”I did not say that they nullify harassment, the discussion had nothing to do with harassment. You fucking brought it up in response to me mentioning cases of boys being unfairly accused to harassment due to innocent behavior. My point was that real sexual harassment does not nullify the fact that some boys are unfairly assumed to be sexually aggressive- you are arbitrarily flipping the scripts to inject a point that was not relevant in the first place. Also, how do you know the proportion of instances of sexual harassment by gender? Males are much less likely to ever report or admit to being raped or sexually harassed than women are. Also, most definitions of rape do not even include men being raped by women, so when you look at the numbers of male rape victims compared to female rape victims, the male number only includes victims of other males or instances of statutory rape involving a minor. [LINK] ”In other words, if being made to penetrate someone was counted as rape—and why shouldn’t it be?—then the headlines could have focused on a truly sensational CDC finding: that women rape men as often as men rape women.””Funny assumption again that girls clothes are automatically sexually provocative. They are not. Remember the collarbone girl? Jeans, two set of shirts, and the only problem was her collarbone.”I guess I will just respond to you with a quote of your own: ”I found those cases stupid.””And it is not the fault of girls if the society is so	Common, Gender, Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	7/805	0.87
---	---------------------------------	---	-------	------

bunklypeppz "Part of the responsibility that the school has is to create a productive learning environment and therefore prevent behaviors that may be distracting to students. If boys are distracted by girls wearing booty shorts and showing cleavage, then it would make sense for schools to implement dress codes to minimize those distractions."Even that implies that the way that girls dress should be dictated on the basis what boys think about certain parts of the female body. Look, dress codes are fine if they are not based on any assumptions about girls' nor boys' being sexually distractive, and same assumptions and rules apply to both genders, no matter who is more inclined to wear and what. If the rule is "no sleeveless shirts", fine, as long as it isn't "girls/boys, cover your shoulders you are sexually distractive and shoulders are no-no"."Of course they are not purposely created to be against boys. I NEVER said that. I said that the issues is that schools are tailored to the needs of girls and that the needs of boys are largely neglected by this structure. Which is exactly what you just described."Now you contradicted yourself. If you claim that the schools are tailored to the needs of the girls, you are basically saying that the system is inherently created or has developed to be so that it favors girls, which is not the case. Schools were places where teachers taught and students sat and listened before girls were even allowed to have education. I am not a huge fan of sitting quietly all day either."Also, how do you know the proportion of instances of sexual harassmtent by gender?" Basic statistics. And that is just the USA. [LINK] "Males are much less likely to ever report or admit to being raped or sexually harassed than women are."Not all the cases of females being raped are reported. In fact, a majority of rape victims do not report the crime, and yet the stats show that more women get raped."In other words, if being made to penetrate someone was counted as rape—and why shouldn't it be?—then the headlines could have focused on a truly sensational CDC finding: that women rape men as often as men rape women."That is false. I don't know how, but this Cathy Young person seems to have a problem with understanding statistics. Look it up, you won't find anything like that in there, quite the contrary. [LINK] [LINK] "It is not the fault of girls, but the fact is that there is a much wider range of what is acceptable for girls/women to wear than for guys, which goes in stark contrast to the argument you are making."Wrong. Women and girls get sexualized way more for wearing any clothes, and like I said already, men can basically walk around bare chested, whereas women are perceived sexually for having a cleavage.	Gender, Sexual	Gender - General	2/486	0.412
---	----------------	------------------	-------	-------

Salla Kolehmainen”Even that implies that the way that girls dress should be dictated on the basis what boys think about certain parts of the female body.”It has nothing to do with what boys ”think” about girls’ bodies- it is about their reaction to them. The boys are not the ones complaining about girls wearing revealing clothes. Most boys are happy to get to see a girl’s cleavage or butt- which is the problem.”Now you contradicted yourself. If you claim that the schools are tailored to the needs of the girls, you are basically saying that the system is inherently created or has developed to be so that it favors girls, which is not the case. Schools were places where teachers taught and students sat and listened before girls were even allowed to have education. I am not a huge fan of sitting quietly all day either.”There is a difference between deliberately trying to hold boys back, and simply neglecting them in favor of the needs of female students- the latter of which is true. Schools have changed drastically over the past few decades to suit the needs of girls. Just because you want to pretend that it is not the case, does not make what you are saying true. Boys used to overwhelmingly outperform girls in school, and over the past few decades, changes have been made to swing the pendulum completely in the opposite direction. Schools have shifted the type of work and the emphasis on certain skills to suit what abilities of girls- it has absolutely not been the same way all along. [LINK] ”Basic statistics. And that is just the USA.”Those statistic are meaningless. Women are overwhelmingly more likely to report sexual harassment or to perceive behaviors as sexual harassment. They are also much more likely to be taken seriously if they say something. I have had women do things that could be considered sexual harassment countless times in the workplace and elsewhere, and so has almost every guy I know- yet none of them have ever tried to report the behavior.”Not all the cases of females being raped are reported. In fact, a majority of rape victims do not report the crime, and yet the stats show that more women get raped.”Of course not all women who get raped report it. Just because many women do not report it, does not change the fact that much more men do not report it. You are completely out of your mind if you think that the chances of a man reporting being raped are even remotely close to a woman reporting being raped. Even men who want to report it, often do not because so many people do not even believe that men can be raped.”That is false. I don’t know how, but this Cathy Young person seems to have a problem with understanding statistics. Look it up, you won’t find anything like that in there, quite the contrary.”Which of your links do you think disproves what she said? It seems to me like you did not read them and just linked them under the assumption that they support what you said. First of all, her article was based on a comprehensive assessment of statistics on sexual violence, taking into account that under normal circumstances, the raw statistics do not include certain acts of sexual violence against men to be rape. Your link is nothing but raw statistics with no applicable interpretation, and it even states that made to penetrate was not counted as rape against males- nor did prison rape, which if you account for that, there are more males	Gender, Nothing, Sexual, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	11/776	1.418
--	---------------------------------------	---	---------------	--------------

bunklypeppz "It has nothing to do with what boys "think" about girls' bodies- it is about their reaction to them. The boys are not the ones complaining about girls wearing revealing clothes. Most boys are happy to get to see a girl's cleavage or butt- which is the problem."But that is exactly the problem here! Female bodies are sexualized, based on what men are taught to find sexual, including inherently non-sexual body parts. Furthermore, you assert that it is up to girls to be "non-distractive", you know, instead teaching boys from the young age that girls butts are NOT for you to look at in class, or in any other non-sexual situation. You are still trying to pass this as "boys will be boys"."There is a difference between deliberately trying to hold boys back, and simply neglecting them in favor of the needs of female students- the latter of which is true. Schools have changed drastically over the past few decades to suit the needs of girls. Just because you want to pretend that it is not the case, does not make what you are saying true." I did not catch this assertion in your source. Nothing in that article claimed that the school system was reformed purposely to be better for girls. What the article did claim was that girls perform better at the current system, because they are more likely to be conscientious, and are overall better at planning ahead. "Boys used to overwhelmingly outperform girls in school, and over the past few decades, changes have been made to swing the pendulum completely in the opposite direction. Schools have shifted the type of work and the emphasis on certain skills to suit what abilities of girls- it has absolutely not been the same way all along."Source?"Those statistic are meaningless."You know, I don't think that you can just decide that statistics are meaningless. I don't think you have the skills to dismiss something that has been proven over and over again. "Women are overwhelmingly more likely to report sexual harassment or to perceive behaviors as sexual harassment."And yet, roughly 68 of the all rapes and attempted rapes go unreported in USA. [LINK] "They are also much more likely to be taken seriously if they say something. I have had women do things that could be considered sexual harassment countless times in the workplace and elsewhere, and so has almost every guy I know- yet none of them have ever tried to report the behavior."Aren't you a bit in a denial. It has been estimated that even at worst about 10 of the rape victims in USA are men. Women might report these cases slightly more often, but that in no way explains the huge statistical differences. "Which of your links do you think disproves what she said? It seems to me like you did not read them and just linked them under the assumption that they support what you said."The two links to the same studies where she claims to have pulled that assertion. I found no such claim in either of these, nor did I find the numbers she claimed to be there. She seems to have misunderstood the statistics or is purposely misrepresenting them, as these studies clearly state that women are more likely to be raped, and are more likely to experience other types of sexual violence. There is in no way any claim that women rape as much as men, quite the contrary:"Sex of Perpetrator inLifetime Reports ofSexual ViolenceMost perpetrators of all forms ofsexual violence against womenwere male. For

Age, Gender, Nothing, Sex, Sexual, Woman

Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General

21/941

2.232

Salla Kolehmainen”But that is exactly the problem here! Female bodies are sexualized, based on what men are taught to find sexual, including inherently non-sexual body parts. Furthermore, you assert that it is up to girls to be ”non-distractive”, you know, instead teaching boys from the young age that girls butts are NOT for you to look at in class, or in any other non-sexual situation. You are still trying to pass this as ”boys will be boys.”What you are saying MAY be true. However you cannot say that the assertion that boys are only attracted to what they are attracted to, due to societal influence, is factual. That is a hypothesis. As things are right now, boys are attracted to the sight of girls bodies, and it is a possible cause for distraction in school. We should not try to influence people to be attracted to things they are not naturally attracted to, but it is unclear whether or not boys’ sexual preferences are strictly a result of conditioning. What is wrong with saying ”boys will be boys” other than the fact that feminists have designated it problematic by virtue of their arbitrary association with it and aggressive behaviors. The fact is that there are some differences based on gender and it is important for children’s well-being for people to take those differences into consideration.”Source?”Several articles that I linked made reference to that fact. Also, I made that point in response to your assertion that schools have always been the way they are. Why don’t you source that claim if you were not just pulling that factoid out of thin air?”And yet, roughly 68 of the all rapes and attempted rapes go unreported in USA.”Yes, and women are STILL much more likely to report it than men are. Why is this a difficult concept for you to understand?”Aren’t you a bit in a denial. It has been estimated that even at worst about 10 of the rape victims in USA are men. Women might report these cases slightly more often, but that in no way explains the huge statistical differences. ”As I stated, it is a documented fact that statistics indicate that a comparable number of men and women are raped in the US, if you include prison rape. [LINK] And again, this does not include ”made to penetrate,” which is not legally considered rape, even though it is forced sexual intercourse against a man by a woman. Which would greatly increase the number of male victims if it were included. To reiterate: a woman forcing herself sexually upon a man is NOT CONSIDERED RAPE in the statistics that you are referring to.”What you mean is that women have traditionally been set higher expectations to be beautiful and desirable to men, and at the same time they have been told to restrain from expressing their sexuality and having sex, and are even shamed for being sexually active. A fully clothed female with a cleavage and above knees shorts is more likely to be perceived sexual than a man walking without a shirt.”Yeah, and there are other areas in which men have high expectations placed upon them. I never said I thought gender roles were inherently good.”How can a bare chested man, who reveals roughly half of his body, be perceived less sexually than a woman who wears any kind of shirt?”When men can pay their way through college by taking of their shirts and dancing, then I’ll get back to you on that. It is not a coincidence that breasts are seen as sexual on a woman- countless women	Age, Gender, Sex, Sexual, Thin, Woman	Age - General, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	14/674	2.077
---	--	---	---------------	--------------

bunklypeppz "What you are saying MAY be true. However you cannot say that the assertion that boys are only attracted to what they are attracted to, due to societal influence, is factual. That is a hypothesis."I didn't mean to imply that that societal influence is the only factor, but it plays a big part in this. For example in South Korea, revealing your back is considered very sexual, and wearing a shirt open from back may be considered immodest. On the contrast, there exists cultures where females go bare chested, and it's not a big deal. The idea that women should cover their bodies so that they won't attract the attention of men is way too close to the assertion that women would be ultimately responsible for men's feelings and actions. This is the same mentality used in victim blaming. "Several articles that I linked made reference to that fact."Did not catch any."I made that point in response to your assertion that schools have always been the way they are. Why don't you source that claim if you were not just pulling that factoid out of thin air? "My assertion was that disruptive behavior has literally never been tolerated in schools, not that there has been no changes in school systems ever. I merely reminded you that as far as I know, the idea behind school has always been that teachers teach, and students listen and learn something, and that includes a lot of time when students are required to sit quietly in class. That is not something new and radical done to help girls. Still, I suppose your school system has become far too performance oriented rather than learning oriented."Yes, and women are STILL much more likely to report it than men are. Why is this a difficult concept for you to understand?"What is difficult for me to understand is your persistence to dismiss statistics and make false assertions."As I stated, it is a documented fact that statistics indicate that a comparable number of men and women are raped in the US, if you include prison rape."This is simply not true. One dailymail article that misrepresents data proves nothing. This site pretty much explains the reason. [LINK] "Yeah, and there are other areas in which men have high expectations placed upon them. I never said I thought gender roles were inherently good."Well its a good thing that gender roles are in no way mandatory, so we can stop putting pressure on girls to be beautiful. We can also stop the sexualization of the female body, and the shaming of girls for being sexually active."When men can pay their way through college by taking of their shirts and dancing, then I'll get back to you on that."I can assure you that most of women can't do that either, not to mention that jobs for male exotic dancers do exist."It is not a coincidence that breasts are seen as sexual on a woman- countless women do more than any man ever could to reinforce and benefit off of the notion of breasts as sexual body parts."Yet, even when covered breasts are seen as more sexual than a bare male chest. What do you think women should do, wear a sack? We have breasts, and that is going to be always pretty apparent, no matter how tight or lose shirts we wear. It is in no way an invitation to our personal space or indicate that we want to be objectified.	Gender, Nothing, Sexual, Thin	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	8/592	1.351
---	-------------------------------	--	-------	-------

Salla Kolehmainen”The idea that women should cover their bodies so that they won’t attract the attention of men is way too close to the assertion that women would be ultimately responsible for men’s feelings and actions. This is the same mentality used in victim blaming.”The fact is that boys tend to be visually stimulated by the sight of the female form, for whatever reason. This leads to the possibility of them being distracted by girls wearing revealing clothing, regardless of their personal values or beliefs, or the intention of the girls. It may not even be correct that girls’ clothing choices play a huge role in this phenomenon, but if that is the case, it is not unfair to suggest that girls should not wear very revealing clothes in a learning environment for adolescents, assuming the clothing standards apply to both genders. My issues is with the idea that it is somehow sexist to girls not let them wear whatever clothes they want, under the presumption that it can be deleterious to the education of boys. Clothing choice is not as important as education, especially in school.”My assertion was that disruptive behavior has literally never been tolerated in schools, not that there has been no changes in school systems ever.”It is not just a matter of whether or not it is acceptable to behave in a disruptive manner. It is about the emphasis that the school puts on certain subjects and learning methods that meet the needs of the students. Male and female students tend to differ in some of these needs and schools are currently much more suited to the learning needs of girls more than boys, and to a greater degree than they used to be.”What is difficult for me to understand is your persistence to dismiss statistics and make false assertions.”Dismiss statistics and make false assertions? So let me get this straight, you are denying that men are significantly less likely than women to report sexual crimes made against them than women are? If you are saying that, then you are simply in complete denial.”This is simply not true. One dailymail article that misrepresents data proves nothing. This site pretty much explains the reason.”The link you provided does not even prove anything. It is just a wishy-washy blog post by someone who claims that the other article was probably using misleading information; it even says that it was not necessarily criticizing the claim itself, but just the daily mail article. It is possible that the number of male rapes in prison do not outnumber the amount of females raped in the whole country, but either way, you claim that less than 10 of rape victims are male, is false (and as I previously mentioned, does not include adult female-on-male rape).Here’s another link with regards to the number of male victims of sexual violence. [LINK] ”I can assure you that most of women can’t do that either, not to mention that jobs for male exotic dancers do exist.”Not all women can, but many do. Male exotic dancers exist, but they are not common at all, and they don’t make much money. I knew guys who used to work as bouncers in strip clubs and they said almost every girl there was just trying to make money for tuition because they didn’t want to work a regular job; they usually made 500-1000 a night. Male strippers don’t make nearly as much and most clubs do not hire them at all. Being the more sexualized gender does have its benefits, some women appreciate or capitalize on them	Common, Gender, Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	7/742	0.943
--	---------------------------------	---	-------	-------

bunklypeppz "My issues is with the idea that it is somehow sexist to girls not let them wear whatever clothes they want, under the presumption that it can be deleterious to the education of boys."It is ludicrous dictate the clothing choices of female students on the basis of the sexualization of non-sexual body-parts in a non-sexual environment. Sleeveless shirts, shorts, skirts, and dresses are perfectly normal clothes, yet magically they become immodest and sexually distractive at schools? How come this has never been an issue here on those years I have been in school? It is unfair to base dress codes on the assumption that female bodies should be covered for sexual modesty, yet male bodies merely for formality. And I am not saying that dress codes inherently are based on this, just that some of them seem to be like that."Male and female students tend to differ in some of these needs and schools are currently much more suited to the learning needs of girls more than boys, and to a greater degree than they used to be."I get that, but I don't see how it would be because of favoritism of girls. Isn't the problem of the american school system that it emphasizes performing tasks, such as doing homework and other assignments, and excessive standardized testing? "Dismiss statistics and make false assertions? So let me get this straight, you are denying that men are significantly less likely than women to report sexual crimes made against them than women are? If you are saying that, then you are simply in complete denial."YOU are denying that nothing that you claim STILL does not explain the significantly higher number of female victims. Your assertion that there are more male victims simply does NOT hold true. "The link you provided does not even prove anything. It is just a wishy-washy blog post by someone who claims that the other article was probably using misleading information; it even says that it was not necessarily criticizing the claim itself, but just the daily mail article."I did not claim that. I claimed that it explicitly explains why the assertion that Dailymail and you defended is false: the data in no way proves that men ostensibly get raped more than women in USA. "It is possible that the number of male rapes in prison do not outnumber the amount of females raped in the whole country, but either way, you claim that less than 10 of rape victims are male, is false (and as I previously mentioned, does not include adult female-on-male rape)."Fine. Lets conclude that the 10 does not hold true if the prison is included in the numbers. Still, prison environment is a bit different system than a free society, and the sex crimes in that institution are the result of sexual frustration and the power game to establish hierarchies between inmates, and at times between the inmates and the staff. It is a completely separate issue, an important issue that needs to be addressed yet still."Being the more sexualized gender does have its benefits, some women appreciate or capitalize on them more than others, but don't pretend that women only have the bad parts of being sexualized and men get all the same benefits."Sexualization and being seen as sexual in sexual situations are not the same thing. Sexualization of women is a bad thing, because it defines women as sexual by character. That means we are sen in sexual context even in non-sexual situations. This combined with the higher	Gender, Nothing, Sex, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	14/670	2.09
--	-------------------------------------	---	---------------	-------------

Salla Kolehmainen”It is ludicrous dictate the clothing choices of female students on the basis of the sexualization of non-sexual body-parts in a non-sexual environment. Sleeveless shirts, shorts, skirts, and dresses are perfectly normal clothes, yet magically they become immodest and sexually distractive at schools? How come this has never been an issue here on those years I have been in school?”I am not making any absolute claims on whether or not it actually ruins the performance of boys in school, or whether or not it is correct that boys unnaturally sexualize parts of girls’ bodies. I am saying that I take issue with the notion that it is sexist against girls to not be allowed to wear revealing clothing, under the presumption that it does take away from boys’ education. I think it is sexist to suggest that if boys get distracted by girls wearing revealing clothes, ‘then too bad, let them fail,’ which is what a lot of people seem to believe.”I get that, but I don’t see how it would be because of favoritism of girls. Isn’t the problem of the american school system that it emphasizes performing tasks, such as doing homework and other assignments, and excessive standardized testing?”Those are all parts of it, but the changes that were made to benefit girls were those that put more emphasis on tasks that girls were typically better at than boys and less emphasis on those which boys typically outperformed girls. Part of the feminist movement in the past few decades in the US was to improve the academic success of female students and many groups lobbied to support this push, including fighting for things like affirmative action, changes in curriculum, etc. It worked, and now girls are graduating at higher rates than boys, dropping out at lower rates, and attending college at nearly double the rate of males. Studies also indicate that teachers tend to be much more lenient toward female students. [LINK] ”YOU are denying that nothing that you claim STILL does not explain the significantly higher number of female victims. Your assertion that there are more male victims simply does NOT hold true.”I was not talking about more men being victims, I was talking about men being much less likely than women to report it if they were raped. Just because the majority of female victims do not come forward, does not mean that there is not an even higher percentage of male victims that do not come forward.”I did not claim that. I claimed that it explicitly explains why the assertion that Dailymail and you defended is false: the data in no way proves that men ostensibly get raped more than women in USA.”It does not explain why the assertion made by dailymail is false; it explains why the dailymail article was problematic in and of itself, which the blog explicitly admits. I don’t know for sure if it is absolutely true that more men are raped in prison than women are overall- it is difficult to tell based on the nebulous statistics that are available, but the point is that there are many more men raped that regular crime statistics would indicate, because there are a large number of male victims of rape who are fundamentally excluded from those numbers. In other words, your claim that less than 10 of rape victims are men, is not accurately representative of the reality. ”prison environment is a bit different system than a free society, and the sex crimes in that institution are the result of sexual frustration and the power game to	Nothing, Sex, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	11/839	1.311
---	----------------------	---	--------	-------

bunklypeppz "I am saying that I take issue with the notion that it is sexist against girls to not be allowed to wear revealing clothing, under the presumption that it does take away from boys' education."But that presumption does not hold true. Teens don't simply under-perform just because there are girls in the class wearing normal clothes that everybody is pretty much seen girls wearing in other instances. Teens are pretty easily distracted from learning by almost anything they find more interesting, such as their friends and phones."Those are all parts of it, but the changes that were made to benefit girls were those that put more emphasis on tasks that girls were typically better at than boys and less emphasis on those which boys typically outperformed girls."Do you have any examples?"Part of the feminist movement in the past few decades in the US was to improve the academic success of female students and many groups lobbied to support this push, including fighting for things like affirmative action, changes in curriculum, etc. It worked, and now girls are graduating at higher rates than boys, dropping out at lower rates, and attending college at nearly double the rate of males."So at first the school system was more beneficial to boys, and now the situation is the opposite? What do you think that should be done so that neither boys or girls get the short end of the stick? "Rape happens for numerous reasons wherever it can occur. Rape is rape regardless of what its causes are."Naturally. It is just that from the society's point of view, women are more at risk in their everyday life.."No one person can determine for everyone what constitutes an appropriate time to be seen as sexual."I am pretty sure that most of the women would like to be seen as persons, not as something that men find attractive, or as sexual objects. It is annoying that so much emphasis is put on women's looks and attractiveness when judging their character. "As I stated, there are both potential negatives and positives to the manner in which women are viewed with regards to sexuality in our culture. There are many women who deliberately use their sexuality for their own benefit, even in non-sexual situations, and there are other women who wish that they were not viewed sexually in almost any situation."The way I see it, the negative consequences outweighs the supposedly positive ones.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/414	0.483
--	--------	------------------	-------	-------

Salla Kolehmainen”But that presumption does not hold true. Teens don’t simply under-perform just because there are girls in the class wearing normal clothes that everybody is pretty much seen girls wearing in other instances. Teens are pretty easily distracted from learning by almost anything they find more interesting, such as their friends and phones.”If that is the argument being made, I have no issue with it. I am not trying to insist that boys’ education is hindered by girls’ clothing choices. I am saying that hypothetically, if it is, then it is not sexist against girls to require them to follow a dress code that prohibits unnecessarily revealing clothes.”Do you have any examples?”One example was test taking. One of the pages I linked stated that in the past few decades, schools adopted a curriculum that had much less emphasis on test performance, which was a skill that boys tended to outperform girls in. They observed that even though boys were statistically outperforming girls on tests, they were consistently getting much lower grades, due to other factors that heavily outweighed tests in grading significance.”So at first the school system was more beneficial to boys, and now the situation is the opposite? What do you think that should be done so that neither boys or girls get the short end of the stick?”I don’t know exactly what should be done, but I think it is important for schools to focus equally on the needs of all students. They shouldn’t just look at who they want to specifically help at one time, and then get stuck in a trend that neglects and is ultimately detrimental to the others.”I am pretty sure that most of the women would like to be seen as persons, not as something that men find attractive, or as sexual objects. It is annoying that so much emphasis is put on women’s looks and attractiveness when judging their character.”There are a lot of people who do not place much value on their own character, both women and men. I have known many women who care more about how hot guys think they are, than they do about their education or other forms of personal fulfillment. I also know guys who don’t care about much other than how easily they can attract women. There is also an unclear line between being viewed only as a sex object and being viewed as attractive without your personhood being ignored- and sometimes the way it is interpreted is not the way it is intended.”The way I see it, the negative consequences outweighs the supposedly positive ones.”Your allowed to have that belief, but as we’ve discussed, there are many people who feel differently. There are many guys who resent the fact that they are the less sexualized gender.	Gender, Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	3/473	0.634
--	---------------------	------------------	-------	-------

Sorry, Laci, you've got it wrong on this one. A dress code makes sense, and yes, it is distracting to male members of the school - from students to staff to visitors to faculty - because of the nature of the human male. The human male is MUCH more influenced by sight than the human female. If you're not sure about this, just check out the porn industry and see to whom they are selling their wares. If you want to deny the nature of the human male, that's up to you. But if you want to face facts and the way human biology works, then you need to say "There should be a dress code". Is this sexist? Sure it is. But, Laci, life is sexist. Nature is sexist. The genders are NOT equal, no matter how many Youtube videos you have published. Of course, the question then arises: What should this dress code be? In each society, there are different standards, and in western society, I say (FWIW) that the dress code standard for schools should similar to what is called "business casual". For boys as well as for girls. It makes for a more serious environment without being too overbearing. But this is subjective. I do know that in other societies (Amish, Orthodox Jewish, Muslim, Catholic) the dress codes would be more strict. But then again, in other societies (Pacific Islander, for example), the dress code would likely be more lenient. YMMV And the "body shaming" and the way some dress codes are enforced is indeed problematic. People need to learn that it's OK and acceptable to have a dress code, and take a girl (or boy!) aside who is violating the code and correct it in a discreet, respectful manner.	Body Shaming	Physical Identity - General	1/294	0.34
+playerazzi petruchio That's mindblowingly silly. Oh, how will our poor boys prevail here in Finland where girls can wear tank tops, yoga pants, shorts, and dresses to school. Fantastically, because they are not expected to act like fucking savages, and are able be in the same room with girls, without feeling sexual urges 24/7.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/54	1.852
Well when I first saw the name of the video I was like oh no not one of these feminazis but the. She said how it's keeping 14 year old boys off focus	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/33	3.03
Maybe because it is actually a distraction. Just because Laci didn't have guys who thought she was hot doesn't mean no girls can. Guys don't have exaggerated features like women do. Many women also like to show off their sexual features. I'm tired of how she hates men, and says that she just wants equality.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/55	1.818
I'm gay and if we are talking about distraction then I should say then boys should wear mask because I get distracted by their cuteness	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/25	8.0

+Bojana Jovovic Last time I checked, men are socially permitted to show their bare chest, shoulders, calves, and knees without causing an uproar. Even if a dresscode prohibited revealing these, for men it wouldn't be about covering up "naughty parts", whereas for women wearing a skirt revealing calves and knees would be considered sexual , and therefore forbidden.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/57	1.754
Bojana Jovovic I know some cases where schools have prohibited girls from wearing above knee length skirts, dresses and shorts. There was this particular case where a girl was sent home for wearing a shirt that exposed her collarbone. This is absolutely ridiculous. [LINK] I am fully aware of workplace dress codes, and I especially mentioned that they might require both men and women to cover up certain parts of their bodies, but for men, it is not about being perceived too sexual . Men are not required to wear shirts because their chest is hypersexualized, unlike women. I live in a country where dress codes are not a thing, or are very lenient. I have seen dress codes requiring formal attire only in business, journalism and politics. Schools here do not have uniforms, nor is the students attire regulated. It is baffling for me that there exists western countries where students are not allowed to wear certain perfectly normal clothes.Why are women perceived as "Showing off what mama gave them" when wearing perfectly normal clothing that reveals their calves, shoulders, or even the collarbone? The problem is that women's bodies are ridiculously oversexualized, not the fact that women are encouraged to dress freely, and appropriately for weather.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/208	0.481
Salla Kolehmainen I agree that that is pretty ridiculous, especially since professional workplaces usually allow collarbones and calves, which was school should be prepping us for. I also agree that women's bodies are more sexualized than men's. I'm just stating the dress codes are generally not the issue, and that in terms of what we are allowed and not allowed to wear, both genders have to deal with challenges, whether socially or otherwise. They're not, but women are generally encouraged to show more skin and body than men are. And in terms of weather appropriate, if a man (who on average has a higher core body temperature) can feel comfortable in hot summer weather in knee-length cargo shorts, a woman doesn't need to wear short shorts to be comfortable. I'd like to add I'm not dissing shorts by any means, I wear them myself. But dress codes, in most cases, are not inherently sexist towards women and girls.	Woman	Gender - General	1/158	0.633
Bojana Jovovic I agree that the idea of a dress code is not against women, I simply meant that some dress codes are unfair to them, simply because they get told that they are sexually distractive, and should therefore cover up body parts like shoulders, that are in fact, not sexual , just overly sexualized.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/54	1.852

+Bojana Jovovic I get what your saying. I think its because some types of clothing are consider feminine and some masculine. To men, looking feminine is so awful because no one wants to be seen as being "like a girl". This is also why guys are so afraid of being gay and hate being called " gay ". Because gay is considered feminine as well.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	6/63	9.524
Laci Green, you are a fucking hypocrite. In essence, what you are saying is that sexism against females is wrong, but portraying males (FUCKING KIDS, might I add) as sex-obsessed little monsters that will rape a woman over a bare shoulder is perfectly fine. No, no that's logic. That makes perfect sense. Because how else are you going to stop rape except by letting girls dress like tramps at schools where boys are constant prowling looking for their next rape. This literally makes me want to hang myself because this is the sort of shit my generation is listening to. Oh wait, I'm a man so it wouldn't matter. Oh well, time to go line up for public castration because that's clearly what Laci Green intends to happen in her world.	Sexism, Woman	Gender - General	2/131	1.527
feminazi	Feminazi	Gender - Female intelligence	1/1	100.0
+Eva Solis Yum an ankle, such a sexual body part LMFAO!	Sexual	Gender - General	1/11	9.091
Guys have more stronger sexual feelings/urges when going through puberty. Women's calves, thighs, shoulders, butts etc are nice to look at when going through these changes. Girls (as far as I'm aware) don't find boys calves, thighs, and shoulders sexy or nice to look at. Maybe butts, but guys don't wear yoga pants. This proves to me that feminists are self centered and ass backwards. You want to wear all this stuff though you know boys like to look at it, but boys look at it and their "sexualizing you". Sorry, I might be the only guy here, but it IS distracting. I know you're going to say that's "boy's problems", but that's how we were born. It's especially bad when boys are going through puberty, and can get boners from pretty much anything. Idk why Rhett and Link are talking with you, you're going to ruin the comedic aspect and try to brainwash their fanbase with all this "oppressed" garbage.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/161	0.621

I'm a 15 year old girl and I get the whole dress code shit all the time but I will say girls DO think when guys have good arms, legs or shoulders that it is a turn on. Guys aren't the only ones getting turned on by those things. tbh, not to be gross, but girls are no different than guys we can just hide it bc we don't get a boner. so the reason girls are annoyed about dress codes is because we have to look at guys all day not covered up and appropriately dressed for the weather. While us Girls on the other hand, are stuck wearing jeans. I live in Florida and lately it has been around 98 outside. Jeans and 98 degree weather DO NOT mix well.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/133	0.752
peepslostsheep okay, that is ridiculous and I wonder if the school is located in an ultra conservative district. but there is such thing as showing too much skin or exposing your figure too much. This one 'controversy' is one such example of what took place at a high school in canada. Like I said before, male or female (or did I) if you're under the age of 18 and someone else has to be responsible for you, then rules need to be put in place to help govern your behavior and provide some means of prevention and protection. It is not patriarchy to tell a girl that her shorts are too short or an outfit shows too much of her figure. Dress codes are necessary and need to be enforced.	Age, Patriarchy	Age - General, Gender - General	2/130	1.538
darealJazwon The sexism comes in when girls are held to standards that boys are not. Such as tank tops. Boys being allowed to wear them, while girls cannot. Boys being permitted to wear sexually explicit shirts, while a girl cannot show her shoulders. Yes, I agree that dress codes are important, but they need to be fair, and ENFORCED fairly.Back in HS, a friend of mine went to a school where girls could not wear shorts, of any length, but guys could. Girls could not wear tank tops, but guys could. In my own school, tank tops were not allowed for ANYONE, however, the rule was ONLY enforced with the female students.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/113	0.885

the reason it doesn't seem to appeal to guys is because guys don't like putting on these kids of clothing, how many men do you know who chose to dress in short shorts? how many men do you know who dress in spaghetti straps if guys decide to put on those clothes they will get in trouble too. At my school guys couldn't where sagging pants and no hoods on with your hoodie. just because their are dress codes rules that seem to be pointed to one gender doesn't mean that they are. will you guys ever be happy? We can dress how we want but don't think we are sexy or attractive. that is so stupid everyone looks that the people they are attracted to and if they are showing more skin the more you look. that is human nature. so you are saying have a dress code but let people where what ever they want? how is the not a contradiction what you have said. two of your pictures were totally different comparing a shirt to shorts doesn't really work.	Gender	Gender - General	1/182	0.549
NATHANIEL SMITH Exactly, follow the dress code, enforce the dress code, that's not what anyone is talking about. This is about guys getting away with whatever they want and girls being harassed over minuscule things that aren't even in the dress code rules. Make the boys follow the rules and stop harassing girls and body shaming them. You can enforce a dress code without hurting anyone's feelings, you don't have to call them fat or that they are less than human and deserve no respect based on what they're wearing. And as for "this is just how it is" it used to be women couldn't even wear pants. You can't accept things that are wrong by the excuse "that is just how it is." otherwise there would be no progression.	Body Shaming, Fat	Physical Identity - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/130	1.538
xLexC7x You are making it sound like you want to let girls do whatever they want and have boys fallow the rules when you say "Make the boys follow the rules and stop harassing girls and body shaming them"	Body Shaming	Physical Identity - General	1/39	2.564
Because men's brains are hardwired to like curves on women because it means that she is able to have many babies, ITS HOW FUCKING BIOLOGY WORKS YOU FUCKING DUMB BITCH I THOUGHT YOU WERE A SCIENTIST	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/36	5.556
Okay, I will show up to school in a speedo and call everyone old fashioned and hateful who disagrees.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/19	5.263

In our school only 6th formers can wear non-uniform. My friends sister was wearing a red bra cause it was the only one she had left that was clean and when she got to school our head mistress made her go to the store at break and buy a new bra because it was 'distracting'. She was wearing a BLACK shirt and it was only faint but she was forced to go and buy a new bra. The next day she came in with her bra over her shirt.	Black, Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - Native-American	3/89	3.371
My middle school works like this no tank tops shorter than 3 fingers and same for boys in sure but a story. A girl on my bus that's is extremely annoying and she doesn't care she does anything for attention. One day she wears a non 3 finger tank top and pants that were a bit uncomfortable for me and some pple and one of my friends confront about the 3 finger rule and she said I don't care I look hot in it and my other friend said you're as hot as a dwarf and she got mad and slapped the first guy and as soon as he got slapped my other friend not the one that did nothing got slapped as well and my Dean came on the bus and told them to write apologetic letter because she cried after she slapped them. Some girls are annoying morons and some are attention whores, she's both.	Dwarf, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/158	1.266
+AsianBros as Have you ever seen a prominent feminist give a shit about the third world? I've been keeping up with some laws being passed in the Middle East and not a single feminist had given a shit. Child marriage for girls as young as 9 is being legalized. Rape is becoming legal. It's an act of terrorism for a woman to drive in Saudi Arabia or even go out without a male escort. And you know what else? ISIS is selling women and little girls into sex slavery. Has Anita Sarkeezian said anything about it? Or Mrs. Laci Green? Nope. You know why? It doesn't benefit them. The fact that you pointed out that I live in a first world country proves my point. There's nothing to combat here. Why don't feminists move their focus to the third world where REAL female oppression is. But they won't because it won't benefit them.	Nothing, Sex, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/153	1.961

+Ros M I've had female coworkers get paid more than me, I worked at a company where almost all of the managers and general managers were women. The wage gap was outlawed in the 60's by the equal pay act of 1962, signed by Kennedy. The "wage gap" numbers come from a study taken in I believe 2010 that took the aggregate pay of every woman in America compared with every male in America. In total, women made 50 cents less than every man in America. That doesn't mean every woman got paid less than every man. The study didn't account for position within companies, occupation, years worked at whatever company, or anything like that. It was a number taken in aggregate. Generally women tend to choose lower paying jobs than men (i.e nurse, daycare worker teacher, etc.), does that mean they can't be a fortune 500 CEO? No, what it means is women and men make different life choices. Shocker I know. So the wage gap is a misrepresentation of information and if you're actually getting paid less than someone else solely because of your gender, take it to the police because that's illegal. Also, if companies paid women less than men, wouldn't it make sense for companies to fire all their male employees to maximize profits by paying their only employees less? Or is the patriarchy too subtle abput being discriminatory? Weird how a system that is supposedly set up to discriminate is so subtle about it. And with being called a slut for wearing short shorts, men get the same shit. "Dude what the fuck are you wearing? You look gay as shit in those short shorts." I've heard it before. Dress code isn't about reducing distractions, it's about dressing decently (and admittedly school dress code can be stupid) but guess what, men sre subject to the exact same rules and expectations regarding dress. The fact that you and every other feminist just spouts out the same shit all the time shows how much research is actually done and how connected they are with reality. Do some fucking research and think for yourself.	Gay, Gender, Patriarchy, Weird, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	7/356	1.966
+Ros M In Britain there is an equal pay law. If a man is hired and is paid less than another man for the same work it is tough luck. If a woman is employed she can sue if she doesn't get the same amount. Also (and I am not making this up) one main UK political party (Labour) has women only shortlists to become a candidate to be an MP in some areas. Only women are allowed.One then female MP(Louise Mensh) in Britain said she hoped the next Home Secretary (in charge of the police) would be a woman because , and I am not making this up, men according to her don't know what rape is. Many would like Hilary to be the next American president just because she is a woman.	Woman	Gender - General	3/135	2.222

okay i have my student handbook beside me and here are some things from it - •no skinny jeans •no stretchy pants •no low cut, midriff baring, or backless blouses •no skirts •nothing above the knee•no sandals, mules, "Ugs", high heels, boots or Crocs are allowed•Girls may wear tasteful makeup and nail polish that does not call attention to the student. - keep in mind most of the rules about clothing are just about girls. I agree with you. It's like girls are taught that we're responsible for mens actions. I look up to you, Laci.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/99	1.01
AbstinenceWith all the emphasis on the importance of using condoms and birth control to ensure safer sex , I feel an intelligent choice is being overlooked. What is this choice? Well, it is sometimes looked at as old-fashion or not as a plausible decision. I feel, though, that it is very possible, and I am living proof that it is. This decision that I have made is pre-marital sexual abstinence.First of all, I want to say that I feel that people should be educated about condoms and other forms of birth control. Being responsible enough to take those measures when dealing with sex is important in and outside marriage. Also, I would like to say that I am not looking down on anyone who chooses to engage in pre-marital sex . Many of my closest friends have chosen to have sex , and I have and always will be there for them no matter what decisions they make. I can talk to them about sex and give advice knowing that their beliefs are not mine.So, why have I made this decision? Well, the root of my decision is from my religion.I am a born-again Christian, and God tells us in the bible that it is wrong to have sex outside of marriage. When I was in junior high, I made a lot of promises that I swore I wouldn't break. They included such things as not drinking and not having sex until I was married. Well, I managed to break most of those promises in high school, but I always have kept my promise of abstinence. It wasn't a decision that I made to be a 'good' girl, it was a way of life. Every issue I saw that dealt with sex in high school made my decision even stronger. I was scared that me wanting to be a virgin would receive a lot of sarcasm and jokes, but I instead received the exact opposite.Boys that found out would think it was wonderful and say such things as 'You're the type of girl I want to marry!' One of my best friends wrote in my yearbook 'I will always admire you for your ability to say no in the most intense, heat of the moment. Always stick to what you believe. You'll know when its right!' I was also afraid that I would never have a boyfriend who would accept me for my beliefs. On the contrary, I had a very serious relationship for a year without having sex . My ex-boyfriend has even made the choice of abstinence for himself. Some of my closest friends have also made the same decision, which helps because we can be there to support each other.	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	10/454	2.203

Sometimes, it's not just the administrators who try to put restrictions on you.I have actually had my sister and a teacher defend me in a classroom because I was not, in fact, violating the dress code. A brief exchange occurred between two female STUDENTS and the teacher, regarding my choice in top for that day(it was a yellow cap sleeve t-shirt that fell to my hips), the teacher stated that I was not violating the dress code and my sister followed up with, "Maybe if you focused on the lesson material instead of my sister's body, you might be doing better in this class." I swear I have NEVER been more proud of my younger sister than in that(super embarrassing) moment.	Yellow	Ethnicity - Asian (East-China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam), Nationality - Chinese, Nationality - Japanese	3/122	2.459
Too distracting? Wow, lotta perverts who cant see beyond gender . I had a friend who was a girl and everyone made it difficult to be friends with her. Apparently guys and girls cant just be friends.	Gender	Gender - General	1/36	2.778
My school has a dress code, but only the skinny girls with no boobs or butt get away with EVERYTHING. But me? I have larger of the both and i get dress coded when im following the fucking dress code? Multiple teachers have admitted to me that many teachers will dress code me instead of the other girls because im curvier than the other girls. It makes me so freaking mad! So in the hot ass summer all my friends can wear shorts and tank tops im stuck in long ass jeans and tee shirts (which is very uncomfortable)	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/99	1.01
Also, why do schools just assume that all guys are sex crazy beasts? Like ok, we all get horny, but wearing a tank top or short shorts isn't going to make them jizz their pants and fail the algebra final.	Crazy, Sex	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/40	5.0

aaron chavez Oh, really, seven hundred cases of rape? That’s literally nothing compared to the thousands of cases all the fucking time with people who aren’t in schools. It’s ridiculous to say that wearing a certain type of clothing causes one to be raped. Also (if that is the case), why should the girls be told to restrict themselves when it should really be the rapists who are disciplined? I don’t wear short shorts to show off my body or tank tops to reveal to the world what great shoulders I have; I wear them with an innocent mindset, so why should I trouble myself by having to get a new wardrobe to satisfy those raging male hormones? By the way, (if you even read my comment) you would notice that I’m supporting the guys. You seem to think that teenage boys all can’t control themselves, but there are so many fucking boys who themselves say that they can control themselves, because it’s just CLOTHING. Maybe you should think about changing your ways a bit because apparently many teenage boys can do the same.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/184	0.543
aaron chavez ”and it works pretty well so far”.????????????????what????????what????? the??????? fuck?????????lmao if it’s working pretty well so far, why are girls who follow the dress code or even wear uniforms getting raped? Oh wait, it’s because people get horny and crazed as shit regardless of clothes. Which isn’t to say that just because you’re horny, you have a right to act on it. Have some common sense, please.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/72	1.389
xx cute trash xx not regardless. There was a major drop in sexual assault. Just because it’s not entirely gone doesn’t mean you go spouting crap. And again, rapists don’t care, and rapists don’t go to seminars to not be rapists. They rape people. Deal with it.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/47	2.128
I could not say this any better. Why would someone disrespect a guy’s mental abilities, and self control like that?	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/20	5.0

I mean I'm a junior so I can tell you that the top comment is right, we aren't sex crazy beast. I mean boys can't control themselves but some of us are actually maturing in school and not acting like a five year old . I just want to make sure my student body doesn't look like sex crazy crack heads. Shorts shorts? whatever just don't complain when the boys previously mentioned stare at your ass. leggings? still don't give a shit, just don't whine about the boys staring. But throwing me in with them is where I draw the line. I don't focus on girls wearing skimpy stuff. I've got a graduation with honors to work on. I ain't got time for that shit. Just don't sexistly stereotype me with those bunches of jackasses	Crazy, Old, Sex	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	5/134	3.731
ZavierDLC Exactly. Of course, anybody with any sort of sexual hormones can't help feeling attracted and staring at someone if they are wearing something sort of skimpy a bit. So if any girls complain about that, I'm calling BS because if they are attracted to boys sexually, they most likely have stared at something or other of the male body. And I definitely don't think girls/anybody should be allowed to wear clothes that completely show off everything, because it makes the school look ridiculous and disorganized; we live in a society where clothes are a necessity, and we can't help that, so I think slightly modest clothes are in order. However, I think short-shorts, leggings, short skirts (that don't expose anything), tank tops that don't look like undershirts (in other words, aren't see-through, very revealing, or just trashy looking in general) are all acceptable clothing. That's what I was trying to get at.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/153	0.654
+xx cute trash xx I feel it. to say that teenagers have complete control over their sexual wants is foolish. With the hormone increase during puberty, it's nigh impossible. I believe that we should try to keep students from looking like gutter rats and such. My problem was that Aaron up ahead was clearly emphasizing teenage boys. The demographic in which I'm in. To say a generalization for one group, based on the defining characteristic of the group is bigoted. It just so happens Aaron up here was sexist by basing off what I presume he doesn't know	Sexual	Gender - General	1/98	1.02
ZavierDLC Aaron's an idiot lmao, don't worry about him. I'm sure he's just saying that because it's the case for him: he is extremely horny and can't control himself when he sees some girl's thighs.Also, I agree with you on the whole sexism thing. Men are often treated as eye candy for women, but it's not a big deal because women tend to be treated as the victim (even though men are raped repeatedly but not believed when they report it, because people tend to think it unlikely that a girl would rape a guy).	Sexism	Gender - General	1/96	1.042

ZavierDLC Very true. People find it ridiculous that there could be sexism against males, but in this day and age, there is very much of it: more than we realize. There are many songs that raise women well above men, dating back to the mid-twentieth century even, when women started getting more recognition. I think people and the media resigned to get women's rights by putting down men, and that's affected how our society is today. There are plenty of instances where a woman says something that would enrage people if swapped genders (for example, I was flipping through a magazine once and there was this page about women's pride, and some star said "My life's proudest accomplishment is being a woman" or some shit, like??? What??), but no one bats an eyelash.	Age, Sexism, Woman	Age - General, Gender - General	4/133	3.008
Hope Hart that is where I disagree. I have done my research and when, as a person on the outside looking in, I see the shit feminism does and the campaigns I've seen pop up. Not one is about trying to lower suicide rate, not one is to helps with forced parenthood, not one helps with how biased a divorce court is, not one helps with circumcisions, not one helps with male domestic violence victims, not one.....so no its not about ALL genders, especially when it focuses on one gender. And don't say "oh its trying to put an end to stereotypes and make boys open up" no its not.... It's more busy with bashing men than helping, when it's busy doing that that tells everyone what it really is. Also don't try the no true scottzman fallacy either, gamergate has to own up to our idiots and call them out so do y'all.	Gender	Gender - General	1/154	0.649
Alright, I'm not anti-feminism, but I don't necessarily think I agree with how it's running currently. Firstly, gender inequality isn't even that serious an issue right now in the U.S., but feminists make it out to be. I'd understand rallies and fights in seriously deprived countries like Saudi Arabia (and other middle-eastern countries), but I don't see very many gender issues in places like America or the U.K. Secondly, I agree with how Jack Bracston says that you don't see feminists fighting for men's rights. If they truly believe in equality for ALL genders, I would expect to see rallies and protests against circumcisions, unfair divorce cases, rape and sexual harassment for men, and many more issues that the group fails to bring up.	Gender, Sexual	Gender - General	3/124	2.419
Jack Bracston Then that isn't actually feminism. "Guy-bashing" isn't feminist, although the people doing it may claim to be. That's being a Feminazi. There's a difference.	Feminazi	Gender - Female intelligence	1/26	3.846

Hope Hart thus you use the no true scottzman fallacy anyway, but the second an mra steps in you will bash him/her bc feminism, you will call him a rape apologist, a scumbag, a misogynist , and you will do everything in your power to disrupt their meetings to help men and boys, you will try to keep them out of colleges and universities. Feminism is a broken religion and all who don't conform, according to feminists, are bigotted	Misogynist	Gender - General	1/78	1.282
Hope Hart ....you DO realize that boys don't wear different assortments of clothes besides shorts sweat pants pants/jeans t shirts and tank tops.....right?.....the restrictions are made in a way to equally match the opposite sex to stop from anyone being that special privileged person like you are trying to be....	Sex	Gender - General	1/50	2.0
Hope Hart but the down side would be you'd have to pay even more for your freshman softmore junior and senior year than before to cover the expenses of the uniforms and etc....	Senior	Age - Over 65s	1/33	3.03
Jack Bracston Alright, well, as you mentioned tank tops, many schools don't allow girls to wear tank tops, but there's nothing done against a guy if he chose to wear one. That's unfair.And how about muscle tees vs. Yoga pants? Both are made to suit different genders, both are made for working out. I've never heard of an institution such as a school that did not allow guys to wear muscle tees. But it is not uncommon to find a school where yoga pants and legging are not allowed. I believe that is unfair treatment against girls. It's not that I want to trample all over your rights, or whatever twisted shit you've already accused me of in your mind. I just want to be treated fairly.Either way: how does it affect you if people start going lax on dress codes and girls can freely express themselves? Why does that offend you?	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/154	0.649
Jack Bracston This is all a very nice opinion you have, but none of this has anything to do with reality. Your point is that we should not be able to dress freely and as we find comfortable, for whatever reason, I still can't figure it out. Because we shouldn't want to look good? When I wear yoga pants it isn't because I want "to look fabulous", bitch I wear them because they're damn comfy. Nobody goes to school just to look good, and at school, what you're wearing plays very little into your activities there. That was a very nice speech about how you're much better than everyone because you "focused on your studies", you sound nice and self-absorbed, but this has nothing to do with the original argument.	Nobody, Nothing	Age - Youngsters	2/130	1.538

Hope Hart no I point is, if you truly want "fair" that's where it'll all go, my point is the dress code is as equal as you will want it bc I know if your school wanted too, next year they could just say "okay everyone's gonna wear a school uniform issued by the school". my point is your looks is the last thing that should be worried about. My point is that dress codes is the last thing feminists should focus on. You don't understand my points bc you are still stuck in this delusional fantasy that since you are a girl you deserve special treatment or that since you aren't an adult you should get to wear whatever you want when going to school, and then you sit here and listen to hypocrites like laci green, onision and all the sorts and absorb so much more delusional shit that you THINK the dress code is top priority all the while trying to tell ME, who has done my research on feminism, that I know nothing of the cult...	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/180	0.556
Jack Bracston Once again, you have avoided my arguments. Duly noted.Because none of that is in my power at this time, maybe I'll look into it further in the future, but I am fairly certain many of those already exist, they just haven't gained popularity. But if you suggest that I should be fighting for anti-male-rape, first I would have to try and put a stop to female rape, because 95 of rapes are committed by men, and done to women. Only about 5 of rapes are done by women.I think you're only arguing those points just because they effect you and your sphere of life. You can be a feminist, and start some of those causes yourself. Or you can whine about how women are currently fighting for other women, because there was been very heavy misogyny in our culture, not just in America, but world-wide. The amount of male discrimination is a mere fraction of the amount of female discrimination that is still present.	Misogyny	Gender - General	1/168	0.595
Jack Bracston By the actual definition of feminism, we are working for all genders. Just because you don't like the way it's being done doesn't make it any less valid or important. You want to fight for men and only men, and that's sexism .	Sexism	Gender - General	1/44	2.273
Krstel Alice No, it's a Meninist. Or a misogynist .	Misogynist	Gender - General	1/9	11.111

Hope Hart no, its not sexism when feminism who do you think it fought for? Is that sexism? Is feminism sexist? Yes. Especially by your standard "if a movement focuses on one gender when it's about THAT gender its sexist" idc if feminism only focuses on women but I won't let people like you inflate what really happens. It's really 1 in 1000 women will be raped in their life time, there isn't a wage gap, there isn't a rape culture, nor is there a war on women. There is, however, a war on men and boys..... If a boy is being a boy at school, "scold him" "put him on meds" "put him in time out" . there's also, by feminists, mansplaining, manterupting, manspreading (which has already gotten someone arrested after being made into a law) manosphere, "teach men not to rape", killallmen sorryitsaboy masculinitysofragile maletears killallwhitemen, "you can't be sexist against men" the patriarchy. You claim feminism to be about both genders yet it made all those campaigns and hate hashtags and said all those things (except for the school related things in the beginning of the list) while ignoring, male rape victims being higher than women, male domestic violence victims getting little to no help, male domestic violence victims being told THEY are the abuser, there being bias in custody court case, there being bias in divorce cases, the rate of homeless, the rage of homicide, the rate of suicide, death at work places being high, the draft, all these things and I'm most likely missing some. All those things and where is feminist outrage?....just recently an 11 year old by was raped by his 22 year old babysitter in the UK, where's the feminist outrage? Where are the hashtags? Where are the protests? You tell me "by the dictionary definition" bullshit here's what the definition ACTUALLY says " fem · i · nism femə nizəm/nounthe advocacy of women's rights on the grounds of political, social, and economic equality to men.synonyms:the women's movement, the feminist movement, women's liberation, female emancipation, women's rights;informalwomen's lib" what do I see? What do you see? Do you see men? Do you see gender? Don't create your own definition or use egalitarianism's definition " e · gal · i · tar · i · ani alə terēən/adjective1.of, relating to, or believing in the principle that all people are equal and deserve equal rights and opportunities."a fairer, more egalitarian society"noun1.a person who advocates or supports egalitarian principles."	Gender, Old, Patriarchy, Sexism	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	8/410	1.951
Hope Hart I'm sorry but when you are a 4 - 11 year old in bright start, kindergarten and first grade as a boy you are rowdy, you are rough, you will odds are play with toy swords and bop each other, you will being playing cowboy and bandit. And it's hilarious how you associated boys being boys with lashing out and not behaving. Talk about wanting to get rid of stereotypes while using them	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/75	1.333

Jack Bracston Says you, undoubtedly a 40 year old man clearly unsuited for this generation and culture. You don't actually know that at all, all you know is YOUR experiences as a little kid, and the few kids around you.Go take your opinions to a retirement home, I feel like you'll fund a lot of people there with the same opinion.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/62	1.613
I mean guys can't wear tight to the body clothes either. And he is right, the only way to have equal rights is complete freedom or no freedom at all. So either everyone goes in the same uniform or no one goes at all. To give males more or females less clothing restrictions won't solve it. it's as equal as it can be without a dress code. to think you can be equal without it is naive. And a girl isn't blamed for a boys action, but that doesn't mean they should get to walk around butt naked without a problem. Neither sex should be dressing like hookers and crack dealers yet that's want many people think equal dress code is. Equal dress code is complete restriction. Guys can't wear hats, tanks tops or sandals at my school for that reason.	Sex	Gender - General	1/141	0.709
crow like shiny things, guys like t&a.it is what it is.	Crow	Ethnicity - Black	1/11	9.091
Daniel W ??? Okay, if that's the case, why doesn't every straight guy rape every hot girl in sight? Oh yeah, because they have self-control. I have plenty of sexual fantasies about girls, and I could very well rape a girl if I wanted to, but I don't, because it's morally wrong, and I can keep myself in my place. I like to think many guys are the same way. I have tons of guy friends who don't even think about sex much, and they find the thought of raping a girl disgusting and vile. Having sexual urges is COMPLETELY normal, yes, but raping/ sexual harassment is an entirely different concept.	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	3/110	2.727
xx cute trash xx first of all, your the only talking about raping people, the topic was girls dressing provocatively, and distracting straight males. I agree that we(well most) have the self control to not go all rape crazy in 3rd period, but the simple fact that you exercise self control proves the distraction factor.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/55	1.818
+xx cute trash xx the problem is these feminazi think that we males can be "educated" and they can dress like they are looking to get laid and not have to endure stares and getting hit on. guys get told to pull their pants up all time.	Feminazi	Gender - Female intelligence	1/47	2.128

Daniel W I agree strongly with that as well. The fact that women shame men for being "sex-crazy pigs " etcetra is ridiculous when they think they can get away with wearing revealing clothing. Men are going to stare and be sexually attracted no matter what, and it doesn't help when women where skimpy clothes. So, yeah, if a woman wears clothes that show off a lot, I think they have no right to tell men not to stare.	PIGS, Woman	Gender - General, Nationality - Southern European	2/78	2.564
Just saying I skipped most of this conversation. But I'd like to state that this is mainly an American problem (Much like police shootings). In England we have a school uniform and that means that girls can't have their skirts too high, wear ties or wear socks with tights. However there are also issues with the boys such as: Boys can't wear shorts during summer (which gets rather toasty if I do say so myself) neither can their hair be too short and we have to have our top button done up always. However none of this is at all due to sexism . It is all due to the school wanting to look smart and professional which dictates rules both sexes must follow such as: Tucked in shirt, Jumper on when on school premises and no pullover jumpers at break (recess). So I think my message is... HA! you have to suffer with the freedom of wearing home clothes.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/159	0.629
+christinnuendo Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/14	7.143
I mean it's not like we arnt sex crazed teens filled with hormones. Not like we don't have any control over wanting to reproduce right? I seriously wonder why there are rules and laws on teens about sexting and sex with older people when were at our sexual peak. Like do they not understand we don't have control over wanting to fuck the hot blonde who gives bjs after school.	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	3/70	4.286
I am a crazy sex beast	Crazy, Sex	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/6	33.333
+christinnuendo exactly, I'm not a guy, but i imagine our minds work similarly, I go to school to freakin learn not oggle the opposite sex all day	Sex	Gender - General	1/27	3.704

+Ame :P You (and every other female) can't even begin to understand the "power of the visual"(look up the PragerU video). Guys, especially teens, are in fact sex crazed beasts.	Sex	Gender - General	1/30	3.333
Daniel Broderick don't speak for all guys, i think many other guys would argue that they aren't driven completely by sex .(at least i sincerely hope so : )	Sex	Gender - General	1/28	3.571
Daniel W 1st, where does it say that. 2nd, many guys would get offended if you said you guys are all sex crazed beasts, so speak for yourself please.Honestly, which one is it?...	Sex	Gender - General	1/34	2.941
Then why are you denying the power of the human sex drive? Also the dangers of repressing it?	Sex	Gender - General	1/18	5.556
Okay, to all of the people I haven't replied to: 1. This was a while ago, so my ideas have changed, but my opinion still stands.2. I'm a VERY horny teenager, but, personally, shorter skirts on girls honestly won't distract me any more than skirts two inches above the knee. Why? Because sexual thoughts are present, regardless of what clothes the people around me are wearing (unless they're wearing little to no clothes; that'll certainly intensify my feelings). Also, I never pay attention in class anyway lol.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/88	1.136
But this bitch don't give two fucks because she's a feminazi .	Feminazi	Gender - Female intelligence	1/11	9.091
LITERALLY GUYS AT MY SCHOOL WALK AROUND WITHOUT A SHIRT, AND NOBODY EVEN CARES. I WEAR LEGGINGS AND EVERY SINGLE TIME SOME ADMINISTRATOR WANTS TO STOP AND INTERROGATE ME ABOUT MY OUTFIT. MY TEACHERS TELL ME I "DONT LEAVE ENOUGH TO THE INAGINATION" OR SOME SHIT. WTF IM COMPLETELY COVERED IM WEARING LEGGINGS AND A SHIRT THAT GOES DOWN TO THE MIDDLE OF MY THIGHS WITH BOOTS THE ONLY THING EXPOSED IS MY NECK MY ARMS AND MY FACE WTFWTFWTFWTFWTHDHDND	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/80	1.25

My friend is a stick figure. She wore super short shorts to school and no one noticed. My friend is a very little bit chubby and I have some curves. I was wearing leggings that were covered by a tank top, that was covered by a crop top. She was wearing jeggings that looked just like jeans. An administrator saw us talking before school and pulled us aside. She said we weren't allowed to wear leggings or jeggings without covering up our butts. She told me to pull down my tank top even more and took my friend to change for dress code. She missed about ten minutes of class before coming back to the class looking the same as before. I asked what happened. She said they decided they look enough like actual jeans to pass. After that we still wore leggings/jeggings and nothing like that ever happened again. I think the administrator is just a prude. Once she saw my ex crush and my ex friend holding hands and forcefully tore their hands apart.	Chubby, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/176	1.136
Judging people for what type of glasses they wear. You are dumb .	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/12	8.333
+Uranium You don't know that person, they could be a college professor for all you know. Why call them dumb ?	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/20	5.0
Why does it matter what she's wearing? It has no bearing on her intelligence or lack thereof. Sexism in action, ladies and gentlemen.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/23	4.348
Nicole Chojnacki You're the one bringing up gender . Your assumption that everyone in the audience has a binary gender identity is also highly offensive, jeez.	Gender	Gender - General	2/25	8.0
+suicideposter Fyi, you can clearly see that this woman have myopia. So it makes her eyes look little. Her glasses are not that big, and she needs those glasses.	Woman	Gender - General	1/29	3.448
suicideposter I'm not bringing up gender at all, you are. I know full well that there are more than two genders. What I'm saying is that you're equating her/his/ser/their (see, I can use all those pronouns!) wearing of glasses with being unintelligent. What is this, gradeschool?	Gender	Gender - General	1/46	2.174

+Brain Trollstan I'm concerned about your mental health.	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/8	12.5
The Pancake Mafia XD These BITCHES	Pancake	Ethnicity - Asian (East-China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam)	1/6	16.667
Brain Trollstan Awww you're gay ? Awww what a glitter filled little darlin'. :) I appreciate the compliment but I'm not gay myself. But thanks. :)Sure I'm a feminist. And I'm a humanist. And I'm an egalitarian. And I'm an animal rights activist and I'm a workers rights activist. And I'm a medical neurological researcher. And I like the colour blue and I have a wolfy hybrid and a some kitties and I like mangos and papaya and long hikes in the forest. :)	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	4/84	4.762
Voight Kampff Your can't be a feminist and a egalitarian. Its against the rules. Animal rights WTF But killing pigs for bacon is the best Mmmmm mmm	PIGS	Nationality - Southern European	1/29	3.448
Brain Trollstan against what rules? LOL omg you're hilarious! hahahah I don't care if you like bacon. Bacon is fat btw. And eating it clogs your arteries. :)And raises your blood pressure. And hurts your heart.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/37	2.703
+Brain Trollstan No one got "owned." Male chauvinist pigs never "win."	Chauvinist, PIGS	Gender - General, Nationality - Southern European	2/11	18.182
+suicideposter and when i see someone judging a book by its cover, i know nothing intelligent will come from them. ignorant fuck	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/22	4.545
Oh true true because nobody ever has misspelled a word	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/10	10.0
Brain Trollstan I think it takes a special kind of idiot to offer nothing useful to a discussion and type in all caps while misspelling words. It's compounded, you know?	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/30	3.333

+suicideposter guess what some people actually need glasses and choose the ones that are trendy. i have big hipsterish glasses and you know what: without them i'm blind as a fucking bat. and let me think... oh i'm studying in university to become an engineer and so far it's going really good so shut your stupid mouth. (also english is not my first language but i'm still pretty damn good at it by now. yeah i'm probably dumb for my choice of glasses)	Blind, Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/83	2.41
+assibratzen116 Bats aren't that blind you know. They can see things with their adorable beady eyes... Completely Off Topic and Proad of It!	Blind	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/23	4.348
+suicideposter kay. i wear PRESCRIPTION "hipster" glasses because they're trendy and honestly super adorable, so. bye bye to that lil tidbit of ignorance.what about any of this was unintelligent to you? as far as i'm hearing, it's... mostly just common sense.a kindergartner shouldn't be sexualized?? duh??	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/48	2.083
the subject of stars But this bitch is supporting young teen girls to be allowed to be sexy. Wonder why teens get pregnant? O ya because she sexualizes herself for a boy that will knock her up. If anything dress codes protect girls from "asking for it" because the sad truth is that that's how young boys think. We are at our sexual peak afer all i dont see what people don't understand. There is only one reason you wear something sexy. Some of the dress code violations she mentioned are understandable but yoga pants and shorts? Does she want a 13 year old to dress like a slut? I want to say the shorts dress code was unfair but seeing how short girls wear them today i say they had good reason. Maybe girls just should dress up like sluts. If you need to show your tits to get a bf then what does that say about the boy. He just wants sex but girls never get it. Always see them bitch about how they were used just to get deflowerd by a guy so he can brag. They never understand.	Old, Sex, Sexual	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	3/192	1.562

OK. I have to say this is that last year in school (7th grade) I went to school in a tank top with very thin straps and nothing under. I wore very short shorts (not tight though) and got pulled into the office FIVE MINUTES after walking into school. I got sent home and suspended for dress code. I am a boy and I am not a super feminine boy. Its not just girls getting this treatment. Its for all genders. Yes there is a little more dress code pointed towards girls but that's because they try to show off and not appropriate for school. And I did this out of my own free will and got bullied for the rest of the school year for it (which was 3 months) and I dont think your point is as valid as you think.	Nothing, Thin	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/143	1.399
I am lucky because my school has the same dress code for everyone. Not shorter shorts than credit card length from your kneecap, nothing lower than 2 inches from your armpit, covers your stomach, and covers your shoulders. Public school.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/40	2.5
As long as the dress code applies equally across all gender , It should not be a problem but in saying that as a 16 year old male it's is unlikely I will be wearing a to short skirt or yoga pants to school.	Gender, Old	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/43	4.651
I go to a private high school and coming in as a freshman, I didn't really notice how discriminating and sexist the dress code was... But in 10th grade, my class had 9 girls and one guy, and all of us being feminists, we realized how objectifying the dress code really was! So in our gov class we wrote a moc declaration of independence, stating all of our points and concerns. Towards the end of the year, the head of our school finally recognized what we were saying and formed a committee to re-write the dress code. After a few meetings, I was chosen to totally restructure and re-write the dress code with the input we had talked about. It ended up being passed with more leniency for showing skin and none of the old , lets say "questionable phrases". So I guess the moral here is: don't be afraid to speak up against discrimination, slut-shaming or any social injustice because shared with the right people, your opinions and thoughts can make difference.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/172	0.581
I had to stop near the end of the video because one we are aware that women have sexual feelings two but a mans hormones are WAY higher then a woman's so if we see even the tiniest glimpse of a girl it triggers are hormones. It's kind of hard to walk around school with a FUCKING boner, and back on the subject that woman have sexual urges that's true but it's hard to get turned on when not much is being revealed. So pretty much it's either noticeable curves or a sexual object that hidden behind 2 to 3 layers of clothing. That's why girls have higher dress code standards it's to protect A. Yourselfs from perverts and B. To keep boys in check. Sorry for the long ass paragraph but it pissed me off how she's only talking about women's problems,	Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	4/143	2.797

I am a teenage guy. I am strongly against any guy treating any girl with disrespect. I think that guys who treat girls like a sexual object are complete idiots. They need to be taught otherwise. I am not saying that the rules should be there because "leggings and stuff are too distracting" . I am saying that they should be there is because i dont think anyone wants to see see some girls camal toe. I couldnt care less about seeing some girls bra strap. I mean "WHAT!!!! GIRLS WEAR BRAS!!!!" No duh sherlock. Girls wear bras. And if these codes are going to be on girls, put them on guys as well. If girls cant wear leggings, tell guys to pull up their pants. If girls shoulder cant be shown, guys should wear muscle shirts. it should be both ways not just one way. On top of all of that, teachers and other school administrators need to not humiliate girls in front of the classes, say any of those things to them. That's not going to help at all. I know. I am a guy. I have no say in the matter. If you feel comfortable in those clothes, wear them. Have your own style. I am not stopping you.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/212	0.472
I love this video so much because I have something called pcos and it made me slightly over weight and one day I picked out something from the store and my grandmother said it didn't look right on my body and that it was to weird looking on my. I cried in the dressing room and she told me that I needed to stop acting this way or she would tell my mom something not true and get me grounded. I stop crying and went back to my aunts house and cried. Then It turned out she called my mom told her I was hitting her and being very rude her which was not true. My mom beloved her and made me cry even more. Then my dad told me I was grounded but we went to waffle house and I told them what happened then my older brother also told them what happened. I was ungrounded and stopped going shopping with my grandmother chase I thought she was degrading and it hurt me and I started not being confident in my body. Thank you so much for building my confidence back up. Ily	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/194	0.515
Why Men blame woman when they can't keep their dks in their pants?	Woman	Gender - General	1/13	7.692
You know what's distracting? Having to learn and keep track of a whole list of things I'm not supposed to be distracted by. You can't tell someone to not think about something and then actually expect them to not think about it. Don't think about panda's! See now you're thinking about it. Yes. That is a bit simplistic and yes there is truth to the idea that people have sexual thought's that can at times be distracting. It only really becomes a major issue though when it's focused on excessively. Otherwise it's equally as distracting as that tv show you like or that upcoming party or the song you can't get out of your head.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/115	0.87

There was a guy at my school who was allowed to walk around without a shirt and nothing . Cause that's fair	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/21	4.762
I got in trouble for wearing my favorite tank top from my favorite state given to me by my dad because "The straps are too thin ." Like, why? Are boys going to get boners because my shoulders are visible?! They wouldn't if society hadn't told them in the first place that they should get turned on certain exposed parts of a girls body. Maybe I didn't wear that shirt because I wanted to look sexy, maybe I just wanted to wear it because it contained sentimental value!	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/87	1.149
On Non-school uniform days in my school we (girls) are not allowed to wear shorts even if we have tights or leggings on underneath. Our depute head said we can't because "there are male staff and pupils around " and because it's a " distraction ". It's ridiculous that not only were we told this but that they said it to us when we were 11/12. It's fundamentally wrong that you tell an 11/12 year old ( or any girl/woman for that matter ) that her body is a " distraction " and imply it's her fault. My friend ( lets call her Sophie for now ) forgot this rule ( i.e she wore shorts ) one time and heard a group of girls talking about her saying that they " felt bad for her " because she was going to " get into a lot of trouble ". 'Sophie' over heard this and broke down crying, she was sent to the deputes office and was asked to go home an change. So not only are we told we can't wear certain types of clothing, but then make us feel scared to wear these types of clothes in case we get into trouble? This is yet again wrong! Here's an idea, instead of shaming us for our bodies being " distracting " and saying we cannot wear certain types of clothing, you teach men and boys to stop treating women and girls like sex objects! Things have to change!	Old, Sex	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/250	0.8
Our dress code isn't that bad. We aren't supposed to wear leggings,but if your decently covered they don't care. As for shorts, they are not allowed to be six inches above the knee. Girls are allowed to wear tank tops as long as they are three fingers. Boys however are not. One teacher told a boy that if he shaved his armpits he could wear a tank top. The biggest problem in our school is that there are references to drugs and alcohol on t-shirts After the first month they really don't care, as long as it is not to revealing. If we do get dress coded we either have to call our parents and have them bring us more clothes, or we have to go to our youth service center to get some. I never realized how lucky we are until I watched this.	alcohol	Behavioural Addiction - Alcohol	1/145	0.69
+josh stover the difference is girls' shoulders and thighs are hyper sexualized, and yet for some reason nobody gives a flying fuck about guys' shoulders and thighs	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/27	3.704

at my school (an all girls school) you can wear ANY type of skirt as long as it's black . However there are soo many rules about trousers and i hate that.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/31	3.226
My friend was once forced to take off her under shirt because it was visible through her dress shirt and had to walk around with her black bra visible through her shirt.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/32	3.125
at my school they say you have to have pants as long as your arms touch on your legs, i have very long arms that almost go down to my knees same with my best friends so one day i just wore a long tank top as a dress, of course it didn't have thin straps because my school doesn't allow those either it had straps that were three fingers wide what the frick i say! what the frickkk	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/79	1.266
There is nothing wrong with modesty. Modesty does not harm women. If anything, it helps us. Do you see men's business suits with short sleeves? How about business shorts? Do they show their chest? Maybe their 6 pack? No, no, no....and no. When we talk about this crap, we don't really want to be equal, we want special treatment. We want to be allowed to do, wear and say what we want without anyone calling us out on our bullshit. School dress codes also don't let guys sag their pants or walk around with wife beaters on, but you don't see them complaining about it. Nope, only girls being told to dress if not professional, at least modestly.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/118	0.847
I don't think people understand how easy it is to get horny when your 13-17 year old boy.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/18	5.556
RustyTheClown I don't think people understand that it shouldn't be a 13-17 year old girls' problem if the boy sitting next to her gets horny off of her exposed shoulder.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/30	3.333
Eric Gonzalez I agree that some girls do wear leggings to show off their butt, I could name 5 in my classes alone but some just don't want to wear tight skinny jeans every day.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/35	2.857
The shoulder one kinda is dumb , but honestly walking around with your ass basically visible with those leggings makes you look unprofessional and like yu care more about fashion and how guys think of your ass rather than getting an education	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/41	2.439
Eric Gonzalez Man, since when is fashion all about showing off to the other sex ? I wear short shorts because 1) they're cute 2) it's fucking hot outside 3) they're easy to move around in. I am honestly not doing it to show off my ass. In fact, I've started becoming uncomfortable wearing them because I'm afraid people will think I'm slutty (like you apparently would), when in reality, I'm just wearing them for logical reasons.	Sex	Gender - General	1/76	1.316

I live in the New Mexico desert and about 75 of girls wear skinny jeans. Your point is invalid	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/19	5.263
Eric Gonzalez Alright, and why should that affect what I wear? Firstly, my legs don't fit in skinny jeans, and secondly, I'd rather not burn to death. Girls where I live majorly wear short shorts because it's hot.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/38	2.632
Because skinny jeans don't break school dress code, but short shorts do. Also, get some regular jeans. It's hot where I live too, but you don't see me complaining about how I can't wear muscle shirts.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/36	2.778
Have you tried girl shorts on before? Or skinny jeans? They are hot asf. Especially compared to those sports shorts or airy capris that guys wear all the time. But whatever, I don't really feel like arguing about this anymore, so live your life, I guess.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/46	2.174
+xx cute trash xx "I wear short shorts because 1) they're cute 2) it's fucking hot outside"I work outside in 90+ degree heat on a regular basis and I can tell you that revealing your skin is not a very smart way to stay cool in hot weather. Loose, thin , light colored clothes are what you should wear if you are concerned about heat (they serve as insulation and reduce the heating effect of sun rays coming in contact with skin), let alone the fact that chronically exposing your bare skin to the sun is extremely dangerous, even if you use sunscreen.	Colored, Thin	Ethnicity - Black, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/103	1.942

+xx cute trash xx I live in washington and the normal temperature here is around 50-60 average.and yet I still wear leggings year round xD They feel like pajamas. So I feel comftorable and more at home (introvert with a bit of social anxiety). I also dont even have a good ass to show off so thats outta the question.their also pretty thick. And their not one of the kinds that basically shapes your ass xDDIn my school leggings are against the dress code but ONLY if they are the thin ones that show off the more sexual stuff with alot of defintion.I also wear baggy long sweaters. so that helps too xDThe sad thing. Is this summer was the hottest we've experience in 19 years. and one of my friends brought a jacket since she had a shirt underneath. that had short sleeves. but didnt expose the shoulders. instead they exposed the upper arm.and during science class we had to go outside for a box warming project to melt marshmallows.and she wasnt allowed to take off the jacket because "your shoulders are showing. Its against the dress code"Even though they werent -.hell mine was the one with my shoulders showing.Goes to show the dress code is diffrent in many places	Sexual, Thin	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/221	0.905
Because typically, men who wear muscle shirts and shades are douches, women who wear leggings and short shirts for no other reason than to look cute, then get dresscoded, are both fucking stupid. No matter the gender .	Gender	Gender - General	1/38	2.632
+xx cute trash xx I had this argument with someone else here on youtube. There are heat friendly clothing options that don't show a bunch of skin. In fact in hot weather it's best to cover up so you don't get sun burned. Here are some heat friendly options for the legs. long skirts that are suitably thin but not revealing, pants that are suitably thin but not revealing, dresses that are suitably thing but not revealing ETC. Look at what people in the middle east wear. They don't show off a bunch of skin. In Saudi Arabia men typically wear a Thobe; which is basically thin pants worn with a long, long sleeve robe. Combine that with a keffiyeh and you're all set. There was an episode of the show "no reservations" where Anthony Bourdain went to Saudi Arabia. He was fitted for a Thobe. He remarked about how well it worked in the hot weather. So yes you can be covered up and sill be cool in hot weather. Short shorts weren't invented by desert dwellers.	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/178	1.685
Even if we go by the idea that boys are hornier than girls, then boys STILL need to have dress codes as strict as girls, because gay and bisexual guys exist.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/31	6.452

+Kendra Obika There are more options of dress than leggings and skinny jeans. Wear baggy jeans. Those are so comfortable.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/20	5.0
+RustyTheClown Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/14	7.143
Sorry, but you are in charge of your own reactions. If you are slapping somebody, just becaue you are angry doesn't make it okay. And tbh if you just get a boner at age 13 NOBODY will call you perverted since its part of puberty.	Age, Nobody	Age - General, Age - Youngsters	2/45	4.444
So you're saying that in American schools girls can't wear a tank top but guys can show up dressed like Axl Rose and that's fine? I'm calling bullshit on that. Stop making everything a gender issue.	Gender	Gender - General	1/36	2.778
This is true somewhat with a hint of bullshit. Schools dont like skin showing. Period. Most girls and yes im saying most because i personally see hundreds of girls everyday near my job, where i live, and my school who wear the tightest, smallest clothing. Does the school get upset? Yes. Is it cause theyre girls? No. Its cause women have the tendency to wear more revealing clothing. Ive known guys at my school who had to change clothes cause they were revealing. Ive seen little 5 yo girls wearing short shorts so short i felt like a perv looking at them. So no it has nothing to do with sexism . It has to do with the fact that as the youth of today, we see this as no problem but in a place where they dont care about the latest fashion or trend they see it as nuisance to those who are actually trying to focus and then the feminazis see this as a crime against humanity or something.	Nothing, Sexism	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/170	1.176
I think that if you have to hold your skirt down at any point in your day short of a wind storm there is a problem. I think that women who dress in this way are attention seeking, its gone way beyond making a statement about dress code sexism . I've actually heard a young woman say "my booty, my problem"... Wow. If barely there clothing is the means for addressing dress code sexism then I do not support it. And I'm a woman . I'm a feminist.	Sexism, Woman	Gender - General	4/86	4.651

That's not how it is. Boys and girls have the same rules and by the way girls wear yoga pants and booty shorts at our school even though it's against the dress code. If a boy wore booty shorts he would have been called gay , made fun of, and would have to call his parents to bring him other clothes.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/60	3.333
it's the vibration IN the clothes that is distracting, not the clothes....this high tech hypnotism, "vibe" , can put men in jail, cause premature ejaculation so they can't fuck there girlfriend, causes a conditioning of the mind so they are more susceptible to mind control and programming, can make you piss your pants etc....."cumming out" is what the gay men call it, but not everyone is gay and not every boy wants to have to cum in there pants in geometry class but I'd be willing to bet that nude girls with no shampoo, no make up,no jewelry,.... nothing bought in a store on their person, would be less distractingand less sexual than the clothes they wear.....women and girls who pretend to not know they are making men cum out are evil....you do know, so don't lie to us....school is not the place.....this vibe puts women in sexual power over men, but just remember that we could bring in some mind control and send out a vibe so painful and powerful and uncomfortable that everyone in the school would not tolerate it and we'd run you students right the fuck out of the school and when you say "those guys sent out an uncomfortable vibe" we'll say, "we weren't doing anything" just like you say with your sex vibe ( now the beach is a different story people go to the beach to be sexy ) so if you think you can play the vibe game with our teachers guess again because we'll fuck you up you life destroying game players.And you'll go to jail not us. you r way dumber than you think.	Gay, Nothing, Sex, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	8/275	2.909
I literally wore a skirt to school one time that was PAST fingertip length. It came just right above my knees and I was pulled out from the hallway and into the office because I was inappropriately showing off my KNEES. If someone is getting hot because of my knees then that is just ridiculous. Yet, surprise surprise, a boy can wear shorts that come right above his knees.Now I am in college and happy that there are NO DRESS CODES. Girls can wear shorts and crop tops and leggings, WHATEVER. And this may come as a surprise, but ACTUAL LEARNING IS ACCOMPLISHED. No one is having sex in the middle of class. Who knew that was possible?	Sex	Gender - General	1/119	0.84
Well there's nothing really sexist about dress codes. I don't condone them and think they're stupid, but usually when a guy wears less clothes, the worse they look. Unless they have a six pack and huge biceps or whatever.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/39	2.564

This was great, but it leaves me wondering what you think an appropriate dress code is for school. Like you said, there are dress codes for work, for weddings, for the pool; it's logical to have a dress code for school as well. How do we create a dress code that doesn't single young women out for criticism, but also maintains appropriate dress during an age where people naturally push boundaries. Where is the balance between, "Whatever you feel comfortable in" and "I can see your underwear."?	Age	Age - General	1/87	1.149
Rapists are frowned upon idiot. If I raped someone do you think my father will say that's my boy, I put him in the best patriarchy school in patriarchy land.	Patriarchy	Gender - General	2/31	6.452
At my school (in England) we have a uniform but girls are still being told off for having too skinny trousers or too short skirts, even though most of it is found in the school section of clothing shops and even though no one has actually said "It's too distracting" it's kind of the message they're giving	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/57	1.754
Another great example of the undeniable difficult life of a woman in the west.	Woman	Gender - General	1/14	7.143
I'm happy to live in Ireland where MOST schools have uniforms and barely any EXTREMELY, (Imagine a red line under extremely), Discriminating dress codes....Now I better not get any bullshit hate just because you "so called" go to school in Ireland and your female and feel discriminated, Just think of SOME/MOST girls in the world that have worse problems with the dress code than you. THIS COMMENT CAN'T GET ANY LEGIT/BULLSHIT HATE ANYMORE!! And I better not get any hate for just saying that :)I'm laughing so hard right now XD, I KINDA (Imagine a red line under kinda) a feminist too...	Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American	4/103	3.883
I wore jeans, a tank top, a shirt, and a hoodie to school. I got ISS (In school suspension) for three days which later led to suspension. I got this because my stomach showed. Like are you fucking kidding me? My mom was livid, and brought the clothes I wore to school in and yelled at them. I was out of school for three days. It also interferes with the purpose of school, which is education. If a guy showed his stomach would they give a shit? Nope. My old high school gives out ISS, and suspension out like candy. It has gotten worse since I have left too.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/109	0.917

it's fine when girls wear short shorts in hot weather, or leggings or yoga pants or some shit like that in warm weather, but when they wear booty shorts and tank tops in 40 degree weather, wtf? you're obviously dressing for sexual attention. and also, guys can wear muscle shirts because they don't have a sexual part/organ or whatever tf you want to call it up there. also, you can't blame guys for being sexually attracted. it's literally scientific and natural for guys to look if they see a half-naked women showing 40 of their skin. also, I do think their shouldn't be dress code unless you're fully naked or in your underwear. we have free will for a reason. And if I walked in the streets with a tin foil hat and a superwoman costume in the middle of July, wouldn't you look at me crazy ? So in the same way, if I see a woman wearing shorts with half her ass sticking out, me, and all other guys, are going to think she's a slut, since that's how sluts dress. I'm trying to be as non-biased as I can, since I see a lot of full-on biased feminazis in the comments.	Crazy, Sexual, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	4/203	1.97
My old school had a strict dress code for students, but a relaxed one for teachers. So some teachers literally came to school in tight or revealing clothes, huge heels, and loads of makeup, now that was distracting!	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/38	2.632
I'm amazed at how uninformed, illogical, and ignorant the commenters are below. The Hate spewing against male teachers is almost unfathomable, and certainly JUST as reprehensible as the reasoning y'all have used to justify that hate.Just because a gender adult finds someone attractive or arousing does not change because of a year or two. What they do about (regarding a legal minor) it is what matters. I doubt many of you above the age of 25 could tell the difference between scantily-clad 17 year olds and 18 year olds. Yet the very thought of attraction for one enrages you, and the other disgusts you? Y'all have some real growing up to do. If you ladies say a scanitly-clad 17 year male with a six-pack works out in front of you, and it arouses you in no-way: THEN YOU ARE LYING. Why be so hypocritical (I.E. why is it okay for you, but not for them)? You have a problem with the truth?	Age, Gender	Age - General, Gender - General	2/163	1.227
I agree with your phrase saying that what they do about it matters, but not all women are attracted to males...doesn't mean they're lying. Plus, the point of this is to show that it is unfair to force females to dress a certain way because it might DISTRACT male students/teachers. Nobody ever says anything about guys dressing in a way that distracts female students/teachers because their bodies are not sexualized like women's bodies are	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/74	1.351

Sidhvi Reddy yes. its almost like men and women are different isnt it. ahaha jesus christ. men have different and some times more overt sexual feelings then women. they are more brash and forward in their ways. women are less so. its biology. if a woman is seen as overtly sexual or promiscuous it is seen as generally unattractive, because what man wants a woman who is seeing other men? however a woman who sees a man who is sort after and popular with women he is seen as genetically desirable. this is literally how it works in nature. and reality	Promiscuous, Sexual, Woman	Gender - Female sexuality, Gender - General	6/101	5.941
+James L This video wasn't talking about 17 and 18 year olds, it was about all students, grade school through high school. And you just compared 17 year old scantily clad six pack working out right in front of you to young girls going to school in appropriate outfits? On no level is that anywhere near the same.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/58	1.724
Fucking excuse me for being the slightest bit creeped out if a male teacher can't control his dick around a six year old girl whose skirt just barely doesn't reach the tips of her fingers.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/35	2.857
+James L . No wonder why half the boys of this generation are gay .	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/14	14.286
+blue debussy Yes indeed and I can speak from experience on that one. I am transgender and currently taking testosterone blockers and estrogen. I know what testosterone does. So yea young men who have hit puberty ARE going to be distracted by a young woman showing skin. In middle school I remember being distracted by one of the more developed girls. She had pretty good sized boobs and I wanted to look at them. Now that my testosterone level is lower I am not as likely to get sexually aroused. Young men have loads of testosterone in their body. So of course they will get a woody at the drop of a hat. You get a an erection over nothing . I always hated the random erections. You can't control biological responses. All you can control is what you do in regards to those biological responses. It's important to tell boys to behave appropriately. But they shouldn't be told that their natural biological responses are wrong. I don't think it's appropriate for someone who has never been a boy/man to speculate about what goes on in a boy's/man's head.	Nothing, Transgender, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Transexuality	3/188	1.596

+James L I take it you are a teacher or school faculty member who clearly has your mind on 17 and 18 year old girls or else you wouldn't be so offended...she was talking about girls of all ages, even 10 years olds. And it's not just the fact that they become attracted to the young girls. We all know how attraction and sexuality works, but it's the fact that they and other faculty let it be known. I don't see how in the right mind someone would admit that to a co-worker, clearly they are stupid.What is the conversation??male teacher: "Oh did you see so and so is wearing shorts above her fingertips?"co-worker: "mmm...yeah I saw that, hot and distracting isn't it?"male teacher: "yeah! I can't stop thinking about her."co-worker: "yeah it's her fault we can't control our own thoughts"co-worker: "so there was this young girl with short shorts...male teacher and I couldn't stop thinking about her."superintendent: "really?..something must be done about this."superintendent: "SHORTS ABOVE THE FINGER TIPS ARE ALL BANNED. Never mind the fact that I have two perverts working with minors who admittedly said they are constantly thinking about these young girls in a sexual way."	Old, Sexual	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/207	0.966
I am certainly not aroused by a 17 year old male with a six pack. You are disgusting.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/18	5.556

Everyone seems to be taking everyone’s comments out of context here.I think the point that James was trying to make is that it is actually pretty common for adults to find minors approaching adulthood attractive. And that we need to accept that as well as address those people properly rather than just call them sickos and hope they go away.Following in line with what James said, it’s important to realize that people don’t choose their sexuality.People don’t get to choose what they do or don’t find attractive, but they do get to choose how they act when it comes to this attraction.An adult should NEVER engage a minor in a sexual manner, but attacking and discriminating against people who were unfortunate enough to be left with a desire they should never seek to fulfill (and that they never intend to) is not only unfair, it also makes things worse.I’m sure this will be highly controversial, but I’m going to say it anyway: Pedophiles aren’t the problem; child molesters and rapists are.Not all pedophiles are (nor want to be) molesters or rapists and attacking those people doesn’t just make it harder for them to accept themselves, it also makes them reluctant to seek help.And these people NEED help. Not the condescending ”that guy needs professional help”, but the actual caring and serious help that a person who is stuck with a problem that will likely haunt them for the rest of their life really needs.Please note that I made no statements about the concept of a dress code in the above paragraphs as I have not yet made my decision on where exactly I stand when it comes to the dress code issues presented in the video.Rather, I wrote this comment because I think that people need to better understand that not all pedophiles are criminals and that pedophiles need to be seen as people.Pedophiles are people with problems, but they are not necessarily problem people.	Common, Sexual	Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	2/335	0.597
+Samantha Adams And lesbians. I’m gay and a scantily clad, 17 boy with a six pack does not sound arousing. Maybe distracting cause it sounds weird .. but not arousi ng.	Gay, Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	3/31	9.677

As you all know...Laci is a natural beauty, with well-applied makeup and a flattering hairstyle. Combine that with her demonstrative personality...I find her ....very distracting...LOL enuf horn-dog talk. Keep up the good work Laci. Your opinions are well founded for the current age , and always on point! Kudos.	Age	Age - General	1/50	2.0
Ok...Hi, I'm Serenity and I'm 11. My school thinks that shorts obviously weren't meant to be short. So, us 5th and 6th graders scared of getting punishment always wear long shorts, or pants. We are not allowed to wear tank tops because apparently are shoulder are distracting to 10-12 year old boys. Another thing here, you guys might make a big deal of how I'm young and what's yapping in high school and middle schools dress codes don't matter for me but, do you realize that one day I will be there. And if it's not what I think my education and style should be restricted to then I will stand tall and proud with you. We should not be told what to wear, who to be. This is our body and we should be allowed to do whatever we want with it.Who's with me? OurFuture We should choose are future! Everybody speak your voice.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/157	0.637
shorts are meant to be shorts. yes.BUT WITHIN REASON AND THEY WILL LET YOU USE THEM.hell. normally you cant wear leggings. put on some leggings and put the shorts over them boom code avoided xDEither way, It may not be often at your school. but alot of boys at 10-12 are already having sex and want nothing but to get a girl in their pants.That is the sad reality of todays society.Now not all boys are like that.But the number is increasing. Thats why the dresscode is in place. For safety.If a 10-12 year old girl is wearing booty shorts. She will get called out and callrd to change.Or worse.A boy could start picking on her and trying to get her to do him 'favors'It's sad.But it's the reality of todays society.	Nothing, Old, Sex	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/143	2.098
+JustAPettyPhanGirl spelling Nazi * gets hitman* Find HER	Nazi	Ideological and Political Identity - General	1/8	12.5
+Magic Music Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/15	6.667
Idiotic video - no understanding of common sense	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/8	12.5

Brain Trollstan lol. I'm a woman ? Wow. I had no idea! Thanks for informing me! LOLI can change a diaper because I am a decade older than my siblings and I helped my mom out because I'm a decent human being.And because big babies like you that whine and cry and stamp their feet and have temper tantrums for attention always need their diapers changed becuse they never learned how to use a potty like a regular human.I would probably whine and cry like you too if I hadn't learned how to use a toilet and my diaper was full of shit.Tough break bro tough break.	Woman	Gender - General	1/110	0.909
Vanessa T honestly I'm old and I've heard it all before Vanessa. I'm sure you'll be JUST as boring as everyone else trying to be coolies and insult me. :)But go ahead if it makes you feel better about yourself.I've got a thick skin. Ain't nothing to me. :)Also, we don't want you in Canada. So stay in yer own country eh?:) ;)	Nothing, Old	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters	2/67	2.985
Voight Kampff"I've got a thick skin. Ain't nothing to me. :)"Then why did you react so irrationally to someone saying they don't want a feminist president.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/28	3.571
Voight Kampff No shit nobody is being serious if We were I would be busting out the facts something feminist arn't quite good at making up	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/26	3.846
+Michael Bagouty Back to insults so soon? Nothing better to say?	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/11	9.091
+InvaderTak02 Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/14	7.143
If America has a woman as a president... We are fucked	Woman	Gender - General	1/11	9.091

Ohoho, whoa whoa whoa. Slow down there, feminazi .Would girls be distracted if boys wore clothing as revealing as girls' clothing? Yes, definitely.It's just that there are decent and indecent "shorts". Many young girls have/want to show off how short they can go. It definitely stops when their "shorts" are getting shorter than my fucking boxer briefs.Same for tops. Barely any fabric, revealing everything. Comparable to a man going no-shirt.Also, yes, women are inherently more sexual beings than men. Sexual dimorphism, ever heard of it? Women are made to be more beautiful than men, and men are made to lust after womens looks more than women do for mens looks. That's just something you can't change.Also, leggings aren't pants. IMO they're practically stockings. What if a man walked around with only stockings on, gloriously presenting his junk to everyone? That'd be distracting too, would it not?!So in conclusion: Let women wear what they want in school - unless it's TOO sexually provocative. It's for the girls' good as well, since many get "forced" into it and aren't at all comfortable with wearing those 'slutty' clothes.And this is coming from a man who loves to stare at scarcely clothed females.And just to clarify: I cringe every time I walk with some female friends and they get cat-called or randomly "talked to" as well. I don't get how men can be that primitive and hope for success with such a shitty tactic.	Feminazi, Sexual	Gender - Female intelligence, Gender - General	3/247	1.215
This Ian what you think it is if a man wore as tight fitting cloths as women it would most likely be outlawed in dress codes same with shirts and shorts that show to much skin your the ones that want to wear your clothes that right and revealing it's not because your a woman that gets u in trouble it's that your wearing tight and rea raking clothing	Woman	Gender - General	1/69	1.449
At my school they banned leggings, yoga pants, fake glasses, flower crowns (apparently you're a hippie if you wear flowers in your hair, they said hippies do drugs, so no hippie clothes) they banned flipflops and those nike sandals, jeggings, etc. well i have a very "full" chest. my boobs are pretty big and with any shirt i wear there's always cleavage, i tried telling them this but they wouldn't listen, I'm not one to show my body, i dont like when my body is being looked at. I went to school one day with a small whole about the size of a penny and they suspended me for 3 days, but this boy in my class had rips all up and down his pant leg, and he didn't get in trouble. yes boys also have a dress code, but boys get away with breaking the dress code because the teachers aren't looking at the guys chest to make sure their cleavage isn't showing or a bra strap. Some girls do dress a little lets just say "wild" outside of school, but if they just made the dress code like " nothing too short" or something in the lines of that, i believe most people would actually listen. I'm not complaining or ranting just merely stating my opinion.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/217	0.461

Dress codes are not fucking accommodations for boys. They're in place because you're expected to look at least semi professional for school as opposed to showing up half naked or in pants that might as well be painted on. There are dress codes in place for boys as well. Boys can get sent home for sagging their pants in school. No one cries sexism on that. (Or at least not as frequently). If you tried going to work dressed in either way I just described you'd get fired.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/88	1.136
Here's an idea. Act fucking respectable. Crazy right?	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/8	12.5
Well, why dont people see that sexual objectification isnt bad, men and women do it and its part of being human	Sexual	Gender - General	1/21	4.762
I once had to wear à pair of shorts bc all my jeans were dirty I wore stockings with it and one of the administrators said that it was limit and I didn't wear shorts with tights/stockings for 2 years while every other skinnier girl than me was aloud to.I also got comments from an old guy friend of mine (not friends anymore) that I was a slut for wearing shorts with tights.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/74	1.351
I live in England and I have a uniform next year it is yet again becoming stricter girls have to wear trousers that are bagy and no ankles are allowed to be seen or if you want to wear a skirt other has to be 5cm longer than your middle finger when your arms are by your sides. This makes me so frustrated and angry. We aren't allowed nail polish or make up but I have acne and I am very self conscious about it. I think all these new rules are unnecessary just an abuse of power. We can't express ourselves at all some girls have been sent home because they have either refused to take their nail polish off or they wore leggings under their skirt instead of tights. I want to stand up for what I believe in but I'm terrified. These teachers are so stuck in the past and tradition that they can't see that things are changing and that's not a bad thing. I refuse to be told that my ankles are distracting or sexual as to 98 of the world ankles are human if a boy had his ankle out he wouldn't get a detention. Please help I need to find a way for things to change.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/213	0.469
Dress code strictness isn't just sexist towards girls, even though that's more common . They teach boys that they are never responsible for their own actions and that they can't control themselves. It teaches guys that they have no self control ever just because of their gender . I do understand how it's harmful to girls but also to guys!	Common, Gender	Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	2/58	3.448

I don't know what its like in America but in England I would say dress codes are favoured towards girls. For example at my school (we have school uniform) in summer girls are allowed to switch to an open necked shirt whist boys have to stay wearing a shirt and tie. Girls can wear trousers but have the shorter option of wearing a skirt whilst boys have to wear trousers all year round. I remember a few years ago at a different school a boy wore a skirt to complain about the unfairness. Also girls are allowed earrings of a certain size whilst boys aren't allowed any. Girls are made to wear their skirts at a sensible length but its to be smart rather than to stop boys looking. You wouldn't show up to work in a professional environment with your bum hanging out, its teaching students how they will have to dress if they go into the world of work. Overall I think if you want to be a feminist stop moaning about school uniforms and start worrying about serious issues where women are really being oppressed such as forced arranged marriages and FGM.	Bum	Social Class - Destitute	1/195	0.513
--	-----	--------------------------	-------	-------

Feminism, it's a thing. Not some phase Girls go through when they're on their period. Feminism 1. advocating social, political, legal, and economic rights for women equal to those of men. It does not mean I hate men or believe that woman are superior. It just means I believe that I should have the same rights as any man. - I am a feminist because when a woman sleeps around she's a slut but if a guy does he's considered cool.- I'm a feminist because if a man acts on his hormones it's because he's "just a guy" but a girl is just acting desperate - I'm a feminist because I have to wait until I'm 30 to date while my brother can have a girlfriend at 14 - I'm a feminist because I will be paid less for a job than a man. Even when I could be more qualified - I'm a feminist because 1 in four women will be assaulted sometime in their life. - I'm a feminist because when women are raped men say she "was asking for it" because of her clothing- I'm a feminist because being called a pussy is one of the biggest insults a man could be called. ( where do you think you came from?) - I'm a feminist because not 1 country can honestly say they respect women as they do men - I'm a feminist because I'm said to be weak or some how incapable of real labor because I have a Vagina - I'm a feminist because people are disgusted when I don't shave - I'm a feminist because in order to be a female I have to super model thin and wear dresses. ( but not too revealing ) - I'm a feminist because guys are free to be themselves when some girls don't know what that feels like - I'm a feminist because cat calls are still okay. Even when they make women feel objectified- I'm a feminist because I will most likely get hate for posting this- I'm a feminist because apparently the only way things get sold is when half naked women tell you to. ( Soap, Cars, Fast Food Soda etc) - I'm a feminist because as I write and as you read this women are being sold and beaten all over the world. - I'm a feminist because of Gender Roles. As little girls we're told to like pink and Barbie dolls. While boys like blue and Monster Trucks. We are confined by this. - I'm a feminist because opening up emotionally is seen as weak because it's a girly thing to do- I'm a feminist because apparently the only thing I'm good for is cleaning and making babies - I'm a feminist because when a man voices his opinion he's acting manly but when a woman does she's bossy.- I'm a feminist because this would sound more serious coming from a man - I'm a feminist because men think feminism is just a joke - I'm a feminist because girls no younger than 13 are in sex trafficking - I'm a feminist because there are hundreds of websites where seeing women naked is the sole purpose- I'm a feminist because Men can't like "girly" things because it makes them weak.- I'm a feminist because girls are dropping out of sports because it's not girly. - I'm a feminist because girls are killing themselves because their bodies are being objectified; or don't meet the standard of Cosmo magazine. - I'm a feminist because our society today tells us to value our appearance more than ourselves - I'm a feminist because the group of people who make laws about females' bodies are over 80% male - I'm a feminist because schools continue to hold double standards in dress code violations - I'm a feminist because I believe in EQUAL rights and opportunities. - I'm a feminist because although women's rights	Gender, Sex, Thin, Woman, pussy	Gender - General, Nationality - Chinese, Physical Identity - Physical Features	5/722	0.693
--	---------------------------------	--	-------	-------

The oppression perpetrated by the heterosexual white man must be stopped. We must first legalize gay marriage, then promote this equality along with culturally enriched diversity in our media to fairly represent the oppressed minorities and the LGBT community. Then we shall push for acceptance and embrace our horribly mistreated transgender population, and instill their courage and bravery into our culturally diverse and progressive youth. Females should not be held back by this oppressive centuries old patriarchy , it's time to unite against these men who don't understand the daily oppression and struggle to be a woman or a minority! Since our gay marriage ruling, America is truly becoming the bastion of human rights and diversity for the rest of the world. This country will be loved again! The white heterosexual man's oppressive rule will come to and end. Oy vey! Shlomo Shekelsteinberg	Gay, LGBT, Old, Patriarchy, Transgender, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality, Sexual Identity - Transexuality	11/142	7.746
so this is sexist against both genders. dress codes for girls suggest that boys are sex crazed dudes with no self control at all, and it prohibits girls from wearing what they want and sexualizes the female body even more	Sex	Gender - General	1/40	2.5
Laci Green, GREAT POINTS! I think all high school males should start wearing tights and jeggings. Because, hey, just because you can CLEARLY SEE their junk, it definitely isn't distracting. ESPECIALLY to the young women who you have already admitted have " sexual feelings TOOO!". /sYou're only calling it sexism because currently, the only people wearing tight enough clothing to be considered "distracting"....is women! DING,DING,DING! Not ACTUAL sexism . A little critical thought goes a long way.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	3/76	3.947
LOL. I bet you if all schools got rid of a dress code today, this dumb bitch would make a video about how filthy pigs men are for staring at girls who dress provocatively.You think I gave a shit about tits and ass when I was 10 years old ? Hell no, it was cooties and girls were gross. As soon as you get into puberty is when you start ogling and people dressed this way. It is not beaten into our minds by the media, it isn't institutionalized by anyone, it's fucking nature.Point being: You can't win with feminists guys so don't argue against it. The more intelligent things you try to say, the more stupid shit they will spew out of their mouth. There truly are intelligent feminists who are fighting for women's rights in parts of the world like Asia and parts of Europe where there are serious fucking problems. If you think any spoiled western white girls is having any true problems, you're a fucking idiot.	Dumb, Old, PIGS	Age - Over 65s, Nationality - Southern European, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/171	1.754

She doesn't want to completely get rid of dress codes. Of course you wouldn't know that since you don't follow her I assume. She just wants the dress code to be equal for both boys and girls. I won't keep you from believing this but...just wanted you to know that all feminists want is to be equal with men. They also want men to be equal with woman . If a woman thinks that woman are better then men and that men are pigs , they arn't feminists. They're just haters of men.	PIGS, Woman	Gender - General, Nationality - Southern European	4/91	4.396
Actually, these days most young kids try to act much older for their age . An example is when I was in 4th grade and there were already 10 year old boys and girls saying they had sex and were cursing.	Age, Old, Sex	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	3/40	7.5
On the last week of school at my high school almost all the guys were taking our finals shirtless and the girls were being yelled at because of there leggings. SEXISM? WELL Laci Green YOU ARE R.I.G.H.T. RIGHT	Sexism	Gender - General	1/38	2.632
Good morning, Laci, Your articles are pretty good. No one else seems to be able to speak clearly on any sort of sexual subjects.. I suspect that some of the school staff THEMSELVES are the ones who find themselves being tempted by their students, while such does not enter the students' minds at the time. Anyway, on a slightly different subject, when it comes to women and girls clothes, I have a question: WHY do the girls fuss and carry on at the boys who inadvertently see the girls upper legs or panties when the wind might blow their skirts up to their waists, yet have no problem and don't care who sees them in bikini's or even thong swim-suits at the beach? When I happen to see wind action on the girls' skirts, I LOOK, not just peek. For one thing, the motion itself automatically draws the eyes to whatever is going on. If you addressed this question elsewhere, I did not see it.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/165	0.606
So why is it that I can wear shorter shorts to school and get in trouble and guys do the same and nothing happens?	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/24	4.167

I used to teach sunday school at my church - there were a few issues with the shirts I was wearing, they felt as though I was showing too much cleavage. I asked why it was such a problem, it's not like my girls were just hanging out, it was just a shirt. I was told by the church pastor that I'd cause the men at church to have sexual feelings and that's not fair on them because they want to keep their thoughts pure.That was a huge defining moment in my life because that's when I realised that some men never take ownership for their own sexual urges even outside of high school. And this is probably why rape and sexual harassment is such an issue. Because they've figured out ways to shift the blame onto women. I think the key to all this is education, we need to start teaching young boys that females ARE NOT EVER responsible for their own feelings, urges, thoughts and actions. What is unfair is putting the responsibility onto young girls, it's an incredible injustice. Not only do they have to deal with their own feelings and thoughts but they are forced to take into consideration the feelings and thoughts of boys too?? Oh, by the way, I kept rocking out in whatever I wanted, and eventually the complaints just stopped. Persistence, ladies - they accept that you have say over your own body sooner or later.	Sexual	Gender - General	3/245	1.224
Not being rude but everybody looks and the public is doing this so they don't look, I look that's because I'm attracted like a magnet so are a lot of other people but then there are the other guys who go all out and get freaky or jerky around girls wearing short clothing. The public does this to keep girls from getting offended by those who stare and stare by making it to where they have nothing to stare at. But if you want to wear only leggings I'll be looking like this.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/93	1.075
And not only "boys will be boys" excuses bad behavior. It also just paints all boys as sexual predators which is not true.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/23	4.348

Interesting that all of your choices of references are clearly biased. Anyone can write up an article and reference it later as "factual proof". Maybe if you want to make commonly regarded "true" statements you should diversify your sources. If guys came to school wearing any incredibly revealing clothing they would be disciplined without question, and any thought otherwise is blatantly incorrect. Yoga pants and leggings are very much so revealing. That's just a fact, nothing against people who wear them. I personally don't find them that big of a deal. Women I can gaurantee have NEVER been disciplined for wearing clothing because "some clothing looks worse on some women". To make that statement in any way at all is a lie. Boys are never taught its okay in school to harass and disrespect women because of their clothes. To make this statement in any way is also a blatant lie. There are no sneaky undertones that say it's okay. The odd example does not represent society as a whole. Any time a girl has been reprimanded in these cases is because they were overreacting in the utmost extreme, and I mean the very utmost extreme. Schools recognize if a boy sexually harassed a girl it is completely their fault and the girl is usually only told off, so not really punished. You do not get all of your rights until you are 18. You of course have your unalienable rights before then. Therefore, schools can do as they please and there isn't much you can do because you're a minor. If something is truly wrong, however, more than enough adults will stand tall in your corner with little knowledge of the event. When you are older, and have a job, a job is a private organization. If they set a dress code, and you don't follow it, and they don't happen to catch a member of the opposite sex wearing improper clothing and they catch you, they can discipline you with no consequences. That's what's called running a business. Yeah, older forms of US government were treating women like they were less than men, but only in their right to vote and that was amended. This is called women's suffrage. All of these are status quo, and don't fit into your agenda of women being ruled by a Draconian code. In short, the conditions I present are reputable and definitely exist, while yours are irrefutable and definitely do not. It's not sexist, because they apply to both sexes. That's what being gender neutral is, not punishing one side to overcompensate the other like you propose.	Gender, Nothing, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/436	0.688
Soo if the lads came into school with tight shorts or even yoga pants or hey no shirt and just a skinny tank top you think they won't be pushed away? Fuck you. This is the reason for school uniform and the problem would be fucking solved.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/47	2.128
shows my back creepy old teacher gets a boner I get detention because I wore a backless short sleeved dress that wasn't against the dress code aren't school policies so awesome.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/31	3.226

i think this video is awesome, all the girls at my school where...the tightest yoga pants, and all the guys take off there shirt when they get the chance, my only problem is why they are doing it, i would understand if it were because of they just want to feel pretty, but the girls that i have witness are going far beyond petty. My and my friends were sitting on a bench one day looking at a group of girls (cause they had nice hair) When one girl bends over and we get mooned to the extreme. I took in to consideration that it was hot but...she wasn't even wearing a dress that went down below her hips. But i shook it off. i then latter found out (by my science teacher) That most of the girls at my school (And may i say i live in a "rich kid" neighborhood where i'm the only black ) are almost all not virgins. Doesn't matter the grade, they just aren't. i think this is terrible because they just gave away a beautiful thing. i started to feel bad for them and treat them nice when one day i was picked one for dressing like a "man" they bullied me to the point where i couldn't take it and start to cut. i didn't want to hurt them because i knew it wasn't there fault they were this way, but i latter found out tat the clothes you wear can effect the way you see yourself and act. because of this i think that the dress code, should yes be improved but should also be taken into consideration of the circumstances. like even changing the name of the rule would help.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/289	0.346
Well. You do realize that this applies for men too.Short shorts are equivalent to men wearing boxer briefs. Imagine if you saw a tall male, huge muscles and wearing nothing but some boxers with a huge buldge sticking out, and only wearing a tight, laytex muscle shirt.This would get the attention of girls for sure.This is how it feels for men. Following a primal sexual instinct is hard to resist.We can control it, yes, but we will want to look at them. Just like girls want to look at Taylor Lautners' body in Twilight.Schools are saving girls from getting harassed by men. Nothing wrong with that.	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/111	2.703
i feel like a dress code is necessary to an extent. In my school we have a dress code but it isnt enforced, so girls can come to school in short shorts and guy can wear hats or hoodies. I like being able to go to school in shorts, flip flops and a tank top when its 80 degrees out. BUT I have literally seen a 14 year old girl - a child - come to school in a bra. A girl whos shorts were so short you could see her pubic hair. Various mini skirts where, if youre walking behind the girl going up the stairs, youll see her panties (I was one of them and had to hold my skirt down the entire time) and more. So do you guys still think this is appropriate?	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/137	0.73

So Laci hear this i said this to the dean and got in trouble ” I cant wear leggings because it desracting but he can wear a supper tight shirt but no no no hes a boy so its okay but how can you know im not a boy ” My school is very homophobic and sexist I was bullied for 3 years and was hit multible time but they said in his defince boys will be boys and I snaped and chucked a highliter at him and got It fixed but still got in trouble for it my parents told me they were happy for me !	Homophobic	Sexual Identity - General	1/108	0.926
Thank you for pointing out that not only girls are affected by dress code. My guy friend had to go to the office and change into someone’s old school shirt because he wore a muscle tee to school. It’s not mainly the students, but the administrators.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/46	2.174
woman shows shoulder”Omg girl ur so ratchet!!!!”	Woman	Gender - General	1/8	12.5
My friends are now protesting and I will to this is so wrong the picture of the girl with a crop top and the guy is so stupid my guy friends have worn some ”distracting” stuff to but nothing happens to them.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/42	2.381
As a teenage guy who swims and lifts weights (we’re talking 7 body fat and defined muscles and abs) I can definitely tell you that when I wear a bro tank to school I get looks from women during class. Oh no I distracted them from the boring lecture. It goes both ways.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/53	1.887
Dress codes are one of those topics that seem to overly invite self-righteous, middle class men to speak on behalf of female bodies, and the regulations of those bodies, as if they were the expert. This happens to such an extent, that even when Laci Green herself puts forth a well articulated and supported argument, you still get 1,898 dislikes and idiotic comments...the opinion of young woman is grossly devalued when discussing the regulation of young, female bodies...	Woman	Gender - General	1/78	1.282

+jj111099 Gotta be honest here, calling school dress codes "professional" is just bullshit. My high school dress code didn't prepare me for any professional dress code short of the very most basic food service jobs I worked at where jeans and a t-shirt/polo shirt were considered appropriate work attire. I now work at a department store (Macy's to be specific) and I must dress far more professionally than my high school dress code ever suggested. Also, in said actually professional dress code, leggings are an option to wear both under something or alone if they are made of a heavier fabric and intended to be worn like pants (those do actually exist, btw). School dress codes prepare you for nothing in terms of a professional wardrobe and it isn't their job to. If they wanted to do that, they would actually have students wear professional attire instead of just nitpicking about what particular unprofessional clothing they want to allow people to wear.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/162	0.617
No, you're missing my point. I was pointing out that most of what students are allowed to wear is not professional, yet people try to claim it's about being professional. School has nothing to do with being professional and I really believe that people should dress comfortably because it just shouldn't matter (that doesn't mean wearing whatever you want, but it means not banning stupid things like yoga pants, which are not the same as leggings). No one said anything about baring your stomach or wearing clothes that show a thong, don't exaggerate for the sake of exaggerating. I'm referring to some of the more ridiculous bans for female students such as: leggings (as a general item, regardless of how they are worn), yoga pants (there's nothing wrong with wearing comfortable clothing to school), and skinny jeans (which are simply jeans, so I'm not sure how that's a fair ban), among other bans. I'm gonna be honest, guys could pretty much wear whatever they wanted when I was in HS and rarely got in trouble for it. That included wearing t-shirts with the sleeves and sides cut out purely so they could show off their muscles to the girls and sloppy looking sweatpants because they wanted to be comfortable. It really depends on where you are how fairly the dress code is enforced.	Nothing, Skinny	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/223	1.345
And then there are gay people.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/6	33.333

can you please do a video on abortion? I am a strong feminist in every other sort and want so badly to understand and be for abortion, but just don't see how it is okay because I am not that educated on it. Nobody talks about it and I want to hear both sides.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/54	1.852
a. guys can get dress coded toob. the dress code suggests that men are creeps who stare at little girls asses, which is a stereotype.c. if a guy was wearing really short shorts like girls do at my school (butt showing) it would be distracting to everyone. Not our fault that girls choose to wear shorts that short. A guy would get dress coded if he did it too. d. there aren't sections stating the rules for each gender . the rules are unisex.	Gender	Gender - General	1/85	1.176
Hi! I was wondering if you could maybe do a video on intersex people, the surgeries they don't want, being expected to live as a gender that they aren't, etc? Thank you!	Gender	Gender - General	1/32	3.125
Watched the racism video. Was very well made. Then I watched this video. WOW! You have just earned yourself a subscriber! Awesome, cogent, progressive points being made in every video.	Racism	Ethnicity - General	1/30	3.333
I go to an all girls boarding school and the dress code is really strict. They also said that the rules were to prevent distraction,there are a couple lesbians but that shouldn't mater. Just because 2 lesbians are at a boarding school together doesn't mean that they will get together. Because of this body shaming is not the only problem, the bigger problem Is discrimination against lesbians.	Body Shaming	Physical Identity - General	1/67	1.493
I feel like the school dress code system is so weird nowadays. No one gives a shit if a girls bra strap is showing or if a guy is wearing a sleeveless shirt. Girls are allowed to dye their hair all the colours of the rainbow but its forbidden in my school for guys to even try. Girls arent allowed to wear dresses above their knees like its fucking 1943 and guys cant grow their hair out beyond their shoulders. Fuck this shit	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/83	1.205
The funny thing is, there has been no scientific research done to show that boys are distracted by girls. One study actually showed that both genders perform better when in the presence of the opposite gender . So who's the real problem here? Boys, or school administration? I would bet the later.	Gender	Gender - General	1/51	1.961
It is also so very discriminating against boys, because those rules are just considering them all as sexual predators..	Sexual	Gender - General	1/19	5.263
I had a teacher sign my yearbook, "either wear a slip, or keep away from windows." However, I knew he was was joking. This was in the eighties, and at the time, I wore a black leather mini skirt, with fishnet stockings, all the time, to school, and never had a teacher have a problem with it. Sad to think that in thirty years we have gone backward.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/68	1.471

In middle school, I wore a sleeveless turtleneck sweater to school (the fact that it was ugly as sin is beside the point) and was forced to wear a jacket to cover my shoulders, since sleeveless tops were not permitted. Less than a month later, a female faculty member wore the EXACT SAME SHIRT and the administrators had nothing to say about it. So riddle me this: those in a place of leadership, who are supposed to be role models are exempt from the dress codes applied to students...? The only thing I learned in school that day was that I was apparently subjected to unequal standards. What a great lesson, people!	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/112	0.893
Laci campaigning for people to dress like whores and degenerates. Nothing new here	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/13	7.692
Boys have absolutely no freedom to wear what they want. Boys have no freedom to wear less to cool down. Boys have to be covered from head to toe. Boys might just as well wear burkas. And how about the assumption that boys can't handle scantily clad girls? And that it leads to sexual assault? And men don't have body shame? Sorry, but I'm afraid that this is SEXISM AGAINST MEN .	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	2/71	2.817
hang on, feminists don't want girls dedicated as sex objects but then say its sexist when they can't wear revealing cloths. Well then, time for some Jack.	Sex	Gender - General	1/27	3.704
Guys have to abide by dress codes as well. In my school, if a guys underarm is very visible, he has to change. Does that objectify men? Does it teach women that men are always sexual ? No. It teaches the guy that what he's wearing is not acceptable in a professional environment.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/52	1.923
Oh shut up. They have dress codes to prepare you for the real world. It's more strict for women because guess what: Women usually have the more exposing types of clothing while men just have the bagging issue. Coming from a woman , I don't really care about dress code. The reasons might be a little tipsy turvy but still, shut the fuck up, damn it. You won't see a boy walking around with a regular tank top on and you won't see a girl walking around with a tank top on. Jesus Christ the delusion here..	Woman	Gender - General	1/96	1.042
I am in grade 9. Today in my gym class I took off my shirt to just wear a sports bra because it was 30+ degrees outside and I was hot. The guys in field next to us basically all had their shirts off and nobody said a thing. I refused to put my shirt back on and was sent to the principles office and was suspended because what I was wearing is "inappropriate and distracting." Last week I got sent home for wearing a spaghetti strap school! I have begun to print out posters to put around school to protest again this because it's time that women stop getting treated like objects	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/113	0.885

My school Boy wears naked girl on tee shirt = ... Nothing Girl wears 'don't slut shame me ' shirt = force to change into borrowed PE uniform and a Saturday school for profanity yet boy doesn't get one for what is basically a porn advertisement	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/46	2.174
I was told in a senior class assembly in the beginning of the year to "respect myself and not wear tight leggings" I wore them as often as possible after that day.	Senior	Age - Over 65s	1/32	3.125
laughs at women trying to pick up huge tree branch with her tiny girl muscles trousers only give camel toes if not properly fitted. Leggings give camel toes every time a woman stands up from a sitting position and doesn't adjust.	Woman	Gender - General	1/41	2.439
lemonadethirsty Canrltoes are about as sexy as used tampons. It's a nasty fashion trend worn by nasty women. Also yes all leggings show cameltoes everytime a woman goes from a sitting position to a standing position. One more thing cameltoes are fucking disgusting so I highly doubt he's sexualizing his students for dressing like skanks. More like he's desperately trying to keep his lunch down. As far as jeans. If y'all nasty skanks have to wear jeans so tight that your cameltoes show they should be banned too.	Woman	Gender - General	1/88	1.136
No the only way that pants show cameltoe is when they are paper thin and tight enough to see blood being pumped trough the veins. Legging on the other hand show cameltoes whenever a women goes from a sitting position to a stand one. Then she has to adjust which is double nasty. I can't think of a single guy in the world outside from the most depraved perverts that wants to see that.	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/74	1.351
I agree nobody "stares" at cameltoes. Y'all just walk right up and shove that shit in our faces. Btw Nice try with your shaming tactic but I know how y'all work.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/31	3.226
We aren't talking about them. We are talking about your fat ass. You can accuse me of being fat because I don't hide behind an avatar (see pic) Now put up or shut up.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/34	5.882
thorin dyer You mentioned them in the first place. And as I recall this conversation was about leggings. You just got pissed and brought up fat for no reason. You should shut up because I never even mentioned your appearance. Do you want me to make fun of how you look? I'm confused.Maybe I don't want to put up a picture of me on a site full of strangers. Besides, I actually did try changing my profile pic once(to a picture I liked on Google Images) but it didn't work no matter what, so now I guess I'll forever be avatar less. That's none of your business anyway and stop changing this subject	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/114	0.877

Snoop your short ass stares at crotches standing up. Lemonade nobody wants to look at your fat ass crotch	Fat, Nobody	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/19	10.526
thorin dyer Your insults are stupid, you've never even seen me so why do you keep calling me fat ? Maybe the blue guy on my profile pic is fat to you?? Well too bad google plus won't let me change my default avatar of the blue guy. So yeah	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/49	4.082
You're fat . Face it. I am very correct in my assumption. I gave you a chance to redeme yourself and you fell flat on your fat face. Now so much time had past even if you did post a time stamped pic of yourself I'm just gonna assume you finally got one of your more attractive aka none feminist friends to pose for you. I know you have attractive friends btw because every group needs an ugly girl.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/78	2.564
thorin dyer How are you correct? You gave me a chance to redeme myself? Huh? How is it possible to prove yourself? ANYONE can make an assumption. Hell I could actually be a freakin cat right now typing and you wouldn't even know it. So stop trying to be edgy.And why the hell would I give you a picture of my body to you? Holy shit stop asking for pics of me, how old are you anyway? For all I know you could be a 30 year old child molestor. So fuck off thirsty creep.	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/96	2.083
Hahahaha. FattyConfirmed I got my picture posted right here. Nice try. Besides I have no interest in fapping to a land whale but I'm sure your boy snoopy is totally into the chubby . You can wear your leggings and seduce him with your cameltoe.	Chubby	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/44	2.273
thorin dyer Your profile pic is only your face. You can't tell if someone is fat from their face(except if they are obese , then they'd have a double chin ). You'd need a full body shot.Anyway why are you so pissed? Maybe if camel toes gross you so much, you prefer moose knuckles and bulges. I bet ya do. You virgin boy. Be glad the only thing you see are camel toes. That's the only thing you'll see in your life from a woman .	Double chin, Fat, Obese, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	4/84	4.762

FatHomophobeConfirmed Why do you look down on gays? You're talking like being gay is something to be ashamed of. If I was gay would that make me less of a human or your thighs smaller. Nope. You're a biggot a Cheeto encrusted biggot.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	4/43	9.302
Dreams of Snoopy He's just really thirsty. He literally keeps asking for pictures of me and I don't even know him. I can't tell if he's thirsty or a troll. Either way I'm really sick of his notifications. Every time he replies he completely ignores what the argument was about and starts calling me fat (which doesn't make sense considering he never even seen me).	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/64	1.562
Lemonade I made an educated guess when I first called you fat . You confirmed my suspensions by not typing three little words "I'm not fat " you just danced around my actuation whith typical "pay not attention to the man behind the curtain" deflection tactics. Also a homophobic joke is still homophobia , you biggot.	Fat, Homophobia, Homophobic	Physical Identity - Physical Features, Sexual Identity - General	4/53	7.547
thorin dyer I never said I liked camel toes. Only that camel toes only show if you pull your pants too high. Or if the leggings material is bad. My leggings are pretty thick and good material, and I don't pull them too high, so yeah. But anyways, I have only seen camel toes a few times actually, maybe you see more. But it's still weird how you obsess over them. Just say it turns you on and stop already	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/80	1.25
I'm a confirmed bachelor not a mgtow. mgtow is an ideology and I want nothing to do with ideologies. Also Lemonade I took a look through at your channel Fat Pride and Anime porn everywhere. You really are a fat nasty pervert aren't you	Fat, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/44	6.818

thorin dyer Fat pride? Most of my liked videos are anime or make-up tutorials. And I liked them years ago, now I'm pretty casual with anime and makeup than when I was younger. Anyway, stop being a hypocrite. You keep insulting me by saying I like cartoons/anime. Well look at you! Your liked videos are anime AND MLP. It's like the pot calling the kettle black . Besides, not only have you liked anime and mlp videos. You also liked brony reaction videos, MGTOW videos, being an ugly american in the phillipines(lol wut), a shit ton of knife videos(knife fetish lol), theamazingatheist, anti-feminism, dating anime girls, asian girls, and more.Lol you seem to be the nasty weeaboo pervert, not me	Black, Fat	Ethnicity - Black, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/120	1.667
Slow down fatty you're getting ahead of your fatness. See I don't date fat women. so you are beneath me. ( not in a sexual sense you perve) So your personal rejection comes at a relief not an insult.	Fat, Fatty, Sexual	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/39	7.692
thorin dyer You are MGTOW so you don't date any women. Well I don't know, one time I saw a MGTOW rant about how skinny women were bitches and dating chubby girls were better on Youtube lol. Hehe don't you MGTOW like fatties?	Chubby, Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/43	4.651
I think mgtow is more about hating women in general that just fat ones. Btw you saying "you're mgtow" is about as edgy as a Christian calling me an atheist even though I'm Agnostic. Yawn.:O	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/35	2.857
thorin dyer And you don't need to reply everytime you feel lonely that women don't want you. Seriously, stop replying every 10 seconds. You're spamming me at this point. Every reply of yours is literally just calling me fat . At this point it's not even annoying, just humourous. You're getting trollier and trollier	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/53	1.887
thorin dyer And you calling me fat is as edgy as calling a 500 pound person anorexic	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/17	5.882
Hmm 1:10 me then 1:10 you. Hey fatty kettle meet pot.	Fatty	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/11	9.091

You're still below my league. Savor that flavor. Fatty	Fatty	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/9	11.111
thorin dyer Lol I know that youtube makes numbers into links, but you didn't mention time so kinda confused lol. Anyway, get a life, please, stop replying to me. If you're that desperate just tell me. You'll probably reply saying "lol why would i like a fatty like you?". If you don't like me because i'm " fat " why do you keep replying to me? Is this a trolling technique? After you lose the debate, you get pissed and start calling people fat for no reason? You are how old ? Over 20? Get a life. Every video you liked on Youtube are MLP, Anime, MGTOW, Bronies, Asian women, dealing with being ugly, knives, anti-feminism, and theamazingatheist. Now you are arguing with a teenager for no reason, asking her for pictures of herself(pedo much?), getting mad when I refuse to show a thirsty creep pictures of myself, then spamming with with posts repeatedly telling me I am fat so much it's not even insulting anymore, it makes you look like a child. A manchild. I already told you this was getting old and I wanted you to stop replying because you are in my notifications. At this point it's sad, even if you're a troll.I'm tired of your spamming. You're blocked now.	Fat, Fatty, Old	Age - Over 65s, Physical Identity - Physical Features	6/211	2.844
Hey fatty you're replying right the fuck back. I know you're excited because it's been a while since a man gave you attention but geez cool it bitch You're coming off as desperate.	Fatty	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/33	3.03

Bonds? You think you bonded with someone? I highly doubt you know what it takes to bond with someone. To truly bond with someone you have to know for a fact they they will take a bullet for you. Not just have casual sex with in the afternoon. You're right about me not finding a girl willing to jump in front of a bullet for me. I have found plenty of girls willing to pick fights with total strangers and use me as a human shield when they get rough. Do I think every girl just wants to use men in this fashion:No This is why I am not MGTOW Do I think the vast majority of women wants to use men as means to an end: absolutely. This is why I was curious about the mgtow movement (and yes it's a movement complete with it's own twisted ideologies. Much like feminism) I'm very anti ideology it limits free thinking and encourages hive minds and own group preference. I believe I said I wasn't mgtow. Now I explained why I'm not mgtow. Trust me if I stilled believed it was just a bunch of single guys playing porker and sipping I'd be all about mgtow, but it's not. Now you wouldn't call a feminist an anti feminist because they were an anti feminist in the past would you? Didn't think so. Now why would you call openly an anti mgtow a mgtow just because they watched a few mgtow videos? Is it because you think I'm embarrassed? Haaa I wish I could like 10,000 mgtow videos just because the word mgtow pisses you off so much. Also don't tell me you found love. Watch a year of living together will wipe that delusion away from your eyes quick.	Porker, Sex	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/298	0.671
Dreams of Snoopy I suggest you block thorin. I have a feeling now that he can't reply to me anymore he's going after you. Lol. He really is a MGTOW. He's just coming up with excuses because he's ashamed of it. Look at his youtube page. Nothing but MGTOW, anti-feminism, anime, mlp, knives, asian women, and dealing with being ugly(literally he liked a video on that lol) and theamazingatheist. Lol he's basically on Youtube 24/7 checking notifications and replying every 15 seconds. And if he loses the argument he changes the subject. First the argument was about leggings, than fat , than mgtow. Thorin is just really pathetic	Fat, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/107	1.869
Ana Moldovan He just knew that his argument was bad and he lost, so he decided to spam me obsessively with replies calling me fat . I wasn't really offended, just cringing at how childish he was.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/36	2.778
DancingWithSugaryTea No they aren't. School is a place for education, not sexual immorality. If you wanna wear leggings, do it when you escort your clients at nights, outside of school hours. When you bring leggings to the class room, YOU are the one bringing in and provoking perversion in the class room. So shut up.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/55	1.818

Nightmare Within Well at least he didn't spam her 20 times calling her fat for no reason until she had to block him :/	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/23	4.348
Nightmare Within the amount of physical training a woman has to go through to be on the same level as a guy who sits around eating cookies is unreal, but you go ahead and believe what you want to believe. If you and your friends want to live in a make believe fantasy world where women are badassess I'm not gonna to stop you. Just don't expect me to believe those lies	Woman	Gender - General	1/71	1.408
That's sexist. Women's muscles show less and aren't as big but the size of an arm doesn't prove anything. Women are tough and are equal to men in this area. Men's muscles stand out more and it seems like it's impossible for them to gain weight when women actually work for their bodies(Not like all men don't). It's like women can work hard and barely get rid of any fat or gain muscle and men end up ripped. So women do try hard and workout more and better than men but it's hard for them to find a difference of what their body was before vs what it was after. So there can be two people of different genders who have the same strength and body weight, but the man looks stronger and fitter even if he isn't. Don't skip to conclusions.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/142	0.704
DancingWithSugaryTeaHave you or any other girl or woman you know screamed when jacob took his shirt off on twilight?Yes, of course! he was a minor.Don't sexualize minors!	Woman	Gender - General	1/30	3.333

DancingWithSugaryTea Girls dress to impress other girls (usually) girls want attention period. Typically the more skin or form showing the more eye catching. The schools have dress codes to protect themselves and students from law suites and other problems. I know of a music teacher that got fired from my HS a student alleged he looked at her breast down her shirt. We wore polos and she did button her shirt and she was leaning over his desk and he looked up.....fired. My school had casual days and there was still a dress code. shorts no higher then 2” from the knee, tank tops are ok but no spaghetti strap (no overly revealing clothing). I know it maybe summer but most buildings have AC. Girls are saying leggings/yoga pants are ok, but like many people mentioned camel toe not to mention you can see exactly what their ass looks like; and when they bend over you can see through the clothe. Laci say a lot of dumb stuff in her vid. Girls are told about their clothing because men generally don’t wear as revealing clothing as women do. If a guy where to wear legging yoga pants and you can see the shape of his total ass and genitals, something would be said to him. As the administration talks to girls.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/221	0.452
lemonadethirsty Camel toe can happen when clothing is tight also. Almost every women i see that has leggings yoga pants on has camel toe. That’s why so women now wear a longer top that covers their pelvic area. It’s ineradicably easy to have camel toe with leggings yoga pants because they way they are ( tight and thin clothed) They banned provocative clothing to protect the school from law suites and problems.	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/72	1.389
Ava Wolchuk when he was talking about lifting the tree. It was a joke. Women can be tough, but as far as physical strength not really. A women can be physically stronger then a man but it would take special circumstance. Men can gain weight very easily but can loss it easier then women because of testosterone. That is what gives men muscular bodies. Women are biologically predisposition to have more fat then men because of child baring. Testosterone builds muscle, muscle burns fat (fuel). Women don’t have testosterone the same way men do. Women can build muscle but it will take a lot of work. In general 8 out of 10 men wile be physically stronger.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/117	1.709
Libby ChildersIs that not a excuse?Are you saying that women can sexualize minors and men don’t?Why men has to control his sexual needs when women don’t?I am not saying that harrasment is ok, but revealing clothes (on woman or man) distracts because we all like to see beauty. School is not a place to be sexy and not many man’s clothes are sexy, the variety of woman ’s clothes is enormous. Is much higher the chances of a woman ’s clothes be proibited than man’s clothes.	Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	2/88	2.273

Libby ChildersYou said:"That's a bullshit excuse if a male teacher is doing that then the school hired a pedophile"If a female teacher do this, she is not a pedophile? Why was necessary in your comentary to state the gender ? Only male is pedophile? Only male like woman ? Maybe lesbians exists.Maybe you have double standards.	Gender, Woman	Gender - General	2/58	3.448
danielcook11 Not all leggings show camel toe. The very tight, thin cheap material does. The good material, thick ones don't	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/20	5.0
morderteufel I never seen a woman do that lol	Woman	Gender - General	1/9	11.111
morderteufelIf you go crazy like this, you're not diferent from crazy feminists. Woman or anybody should dress like they want and nobody can call they sluts (but are limits like the rulses of the place you're in). If you want to criticise, criticise when they go over the limit. Some of the things the feminists says are good, I criticise the other things.I don't criticise the "lack of clothes", that is not the problem. I criticise the word "sexualisation" used like it are always bad (like woman never have used this to take some kind of advantage). I criticise the fact of a man being caled pedophile by geting distracted by a young woman voluntarily showing skin.	Crazy, Nobody, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	6/119	5.042

+lemonadethirsty the creepy dude is displaying this hilariously laughable "tactic" called Negging.Look it up. It's hilarious.Basically negging is trying to break down a woman's self esteem by insulting her to the point where you can control them.IE: calling you fat constantly etc.He's SUPER into you. So he's trying out this negging "tactic" (I put it in quotes because negging is not a tactic. It's actually just straight up bullying and abuse) on you in hopes that if he just manages to get you feeling weak enough that you'll send him those pics he wants of you so bad so he can fap to them in his lonely little basement in mom's house.Can you imagine this poor lonely mra in their lonely little bedroom? It's such a sad little picture. I bet it's super filthy and smells bad with all kinds of leftover and uneaten food in various states of mould all over. (Angry creepers like him usually live in such states because they are so depressed. I mean really, anyone that's happy with themselves and their life and who they are as a human being doesn't lash out like angry, lonely boy here)I can just imagine all the printed out and spunked on pics of women and their camel toes he's totally obsessed over. It's hilarious how many times he even says camel toe! LOL He's literally obsessed. And creepy AS FUCK!He tries so hard it's so funny!I'm laughing my ass off here just reading his thirsty posts. It's so pathetic!He tries to look smart but he just keeps bringing stuff up about himself that's unrelated completely. Like he's got so little self esteem and literally no one but youtube commenters talk to his lonely ass that he tries to talk about himself constantly.Like his weird FAIL of an analogy:"is about a edgy as a Christian calling me an atheist even though I'm Agnostic"He's FINALLY got his chance with a REAL female to FINALLY talk all about himself! He had to make sure you knew he was agnostic. (can you imagine actually going on a date with this dude? Holy crap! So basically it would just be him talking about himself and how great he THINKS he is and in between puffing himself up like a pidgeon he would be negging the girl on the date. He's MAD at girls because no one will date him because he's gross and anyone with 2 brain cells to rub together can smell that thirsty grossness a MILE away)So hilarious. O dogs....wipes tear this is comedy gold!!!Thanks for being so awesome and helping me laugh this morning lemonade. You're such a patient good sport to this poor lonely thirsty ephebophile (someone who is attracted to adolescents).	Fat, Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/467	0.428
+DancingWithSugaryTea Hey go please watch my video on weird Girl Dress Code !! :)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/14	7.143

+thorin dyer You're a women hating weirdo , stop going on about 'camel-toes' for fucks sake, as though they're a fashion choice or deliberate... or automatically going to happen wearing leggings- they're not! Why are you so repulsed by women anyway? It's odd. I'm disappointed in myself for humouring you with a reply, because you're clearly a deranged troll who is pathetic enough to defend old men sexualizing young girls.	Old, Weirdo	Age - Over 65s, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/69	2.899
Ladies:You will continue to be raped/sexually harassed objectified and looked as sex objects as long as there are men on this planet! I know it's harsh but it just how the world works.. DEAL WITH IT! :)	Sex	Gender - General	1/38	2.632
I went to an all girls school no boys like a few male teachers. And they made us have our shoulders covered at all times we couldn't wear super skinny jeans and no leggings no straps showing ever bra or tank top nothing see through even with a tank under it and no words on the butts. And no low cut shirts no shorts above finger tips which is totally unfair. This was an all girls school but like depending on the girl they would punish us. We had giant shirts to cover us	Nothing, Skinny	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/94	2.128
At our school we don't have a dress code for the students, but we do for the teachers. So we are allowed to wear shorts that reveal part of our butts and tops whit huge cleavage and nobody says a thing(and doesn't care), but male teachers are not allowed to wear any kind of shorts not even pants that cover 3/4 of their legs!	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/64	1.562
Hey Laci, you probably won't read this but just in case; thank you for this video and all your videos. You empowered me to start a protest at my school which led me to talk about dress code sexism on the radio, on tv and on social media. It got ppl to think about it and talk about it and im really proud of that! Thanks for all you do i absolutly love your videos! Keep it up!	Sexism	Gender - General	1/78	1.282
I went to a school where at one point my vice principal gathered every girl from 6th grade up (6th grade!!!) and told us, "The men of this school, both your peers and your teachers, look down at you, and I must protect them" So we weren't allowed ANY sort of cleavage, no tank tops, nothing of the sort. Because apparently, in 6th grade, instead of looking down at my FACE they were looking at my barely existent boobs.... That's worrying.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/81	1.235
Gender segregate the schools. Problem solved.	Gender	Gender - General	1/6	16.667

I do agree that some dress codes are ridiculous but however I do not think that anyone should have there ass hanging out or there stomach completely out or breasts all exposed at school. It is school you are there to learn why is everyone dressing like we are going to the beach or to the club. I am not body shaming anybody but I do not want to be walking down the hall and see anybody butt checks hanging from the bottom of their shorts boy or girl.	Body Shaming	Physical Identity - General	1/89	1.124
When a woman is objectified a lot of the time it's called 'slut shaming'. But is there a term for when men get objectified? I actually curious. Because guys get objectified a lot of the time too, we just ignore it. Movies, books, comics and models set the bar for what is found attractive. The way I see it women are more of less shamed loudly by society while men are shamed more silently.	Woman	Gender - General	1/74	1.351
We never really had this problem in school as we had a uniform but I remember one year it was extremely warm towards the end of the school year (I live in Ireland so we usually aren't prepared for heat) and the girls all took their blouses off and just went around with the school trousers and tops with thin straps (during classes they wore the blouse), this was fine for about a week and then for some reason got banned : So even if it's small scale compared to American schools I think the issue would be just as large here if we had the heat to deal with aswell... This is something that needs to be dealt with as I don't think a girls shoulder is what is going to distract a guy, the negative attitude towards it is what's going to give him as sense of entitlement and a sense that it's ok to sexualise random female body parts.	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/162	0.617
You all realize that teenage boys are very hormonal and in many cases can't help them self's. Also men are full of much more testosterone which is linked to a stronger sex drive so it is absolutely normal for them to be distracted. I think the solution is a uniform. So every one is dressed the same or equally	Sex	Gender - General	1/59	1.695
Thank you for this video. This was a huge problem at my school last year. I was dress coded a few times as well as basically every girl in the grade. The faculty come up with flimsy excuses when we point out that boys should be responsible for their own actions. Even the guys protested with us but nothing really came out of it. Anyway, this is important evaluate only girls are targeted for "inappropriate" clothing!	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/76	1.316

I noticed in high school that more girls would be sent home for violating the dress code than guys. Most of the guys did ACTUALLY violate the dress !! I remember my vice principal saying my pants were too tight while the guy next to me wore baggy pants(no baggy pants allowed or cargo), an off colored shirt (we wore polos red black or white). He was not following the dress code not me! I wore my stupid red polo and ugly black Khakis that I had to wear a belt with cuz my grandma got a bigger size by mistake. You tell me who should've been scolded..I hated that dress code. Too many ridiculous rules for the girls.	Black, Colored, Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - Native-American	7/119	5.882
It's funny how when a girl dresses provocatively guys are supposed to ignore it and just go about our business. However let's review what provocative means. It means you want attention and you want a reaction. When a girl comes to school with her butt hanging out of her shorts showing generous amounts of side boob that is supposed to be her expressing herself? Let me ask you this. If a good looking (I mean Brad Pitt looking guy) came to school in a pair of daisy dukes with his ass hanging out of them and a really tight cut off shirt do you seriously think teachers would be ok with that? Do you think his fellow class mates would just "treat him normally? Ya I don't think so. This is not a female only sexist body shaming conspiracy. It's called dress like you have common sense. The reason why it's not an issue for men is because most guys have no interest in showing off our bodies in school or work. Clubs, beaches fine those are places where you don't care if you are taken seriously. Where you won't be distracting anybody. Why would you want to look unprofessional or not serious during work or school. Are you there to get educated or earn money? Or are you constantly just trying to get a reaction out of people/get picked up. I repeat I have no idea how this can be made into a gender issue since both sexes are held to the same standards. I could have sworn there was a word for that like equality.	Body Shaming, Common, Gender	Gender - General, Physical Identity - General, Social Class - Working class	3/267	1.124
best solution to this problem is single sex schools	Sex	Gender - General	1/9	11.111
Today my P.E teacher (who is male) said that girls need to cover up because men can't handle their urges and that they "undress" us with their eyes. I totally disagree we should be able to wear whatever we want! Men need to respect woman and control their urges.	Woman	Gender - General	1/49	2.041

I know a lot of women don't think so, but there is a little bit of dress code sexism for men too. A lot of schools are saying skinny jeans for men are inappropriate. And more. Heh, i know feminists think so, but women aren't the only ones who are antagonized	Sexism, Skinny	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/51	3.922
Americans really have twisted minds. They really take it to the extreme. How is it compromising to women to follow a dress code? It's a school just like going to work, you're required to wear corporate attire. Guys don't complain if they get told by their school to maintain then short haircuts , not wear earrings & not wearing open toed shoes. It's called adhering to your school's rules. And you're going to a school, not the beach. Jesus, this girl is nuts. She immediately came to the the conclusion that it's sexism .	Sexism	Gender - General	1/93	1.075
when I was a freshmen in high school, whenever my crush wore shortsleeved shirts I would be distracted by his forearms which 14 year old me thought were just the sexiest arms ever. But astonishingly, no one ever made wearing long sleeves mandatory to cater to me. And if they did I probably would have found something else to focus on that was not english literature.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/66	1.515
My school had a dress code where you couldn't wear leggings because, of course..they were distracting. The factuality said that they're too skinny or "show too much." Yet, a whole bunch of girls still wore leggings. And I remember one time when one of my friends had to change to a huge, baggy sweatshirt from a tank top (not a spaghetti strap btw.) BUT, the dress code said if you can fit 2 or 3 fingers in the straps, then it's okay. AND THAT'S HOW THE SHIRT WAS. YET, THEY MADE HER WEAR AN UGLY BAGGY, OVERSIZED SWEATER. I wanted to say something because it was unfair. They didn't even look if her 2 or 3 fingers could fit inbetween the straps!!	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/122	0.82
This is why I like uniforms.Here in Ireland most every school has uniforms. I like this idea because everyone is wearing the exact same thing. Also it prepares students for the future where they may have to dress appropriately for work. (Suits, uniforms etc) Although some people say it's restricting our individuality. I say that it doesn't really matter, all you have to do is wear the uniform for a few hours and when you get home you can wear all the crazy clothes you want. :)	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/88	1.136

Bottom line. In school girls and guys both don't be revealing. It's just the fact that women have MORE to reveal. If a guy wore the same they'd be told not to. Guys at my school aren't aloud to wear tank tops so.... This shouldn't even be a video.The saying boys will be boys is an old saying, but it is true. It's true that guys will like girls and girls will like guys. Guys get punished if they whip their dick out or wear speedos or even wear a tank top. And when they do... Girls will be girls. But the thing is. Both genders should be school appropriate and both genders shouldn't act out when turned on.See here, you're pretty hot and schools get that, they also get that sperm+egg=baby. So, guys are in fact punished as well. Now, if you were ugly they get that hamburger+NotTakingProperCareOfYourself=gross. They aren't wrong when they say certain body types don't match certain clothing, the solution is that people should take care of their body, and if they fail to do that then they should most definitely be ashamed and fix whatever they ruined.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/194	0.515
If people would just understand that the way we dress affects how we behave and think this wouldn't be an issue. [LINK] [LINK] This isn't about "The Patriarchy" and "Oppressing The Modern First World Woman". There is a reason Casual Friday feels so much different from the other days on the week. How you dress is a display of who you are and how you feel and these things are not suddenly effaced when someone is made to dress in an appropriate manner for the occasion at hand. If you have a hard time expressing yourself through different forms of dress that is a personal issue, one that can be resolved with a few seconds of thinking. Shorts are not the only option for staying cool, we can take a look at our Middle Eastern friends for an example.SIDE NOTE: Women's shoulders are not a distraction. That excuse has long worn out its welcome. I assume it comes from ass backwards born again schools run by religious nut jobs. The south is the only place I've heard that sorry excuse used.	Patriarchy, Woman	Gender - General	2/182	1.099
LACY! This is happening at my high school that I graduated from. Im try to help stand up for these girls. They are being sent home for bra straps showing under their tank tops, wearing knee length pencil skirts, yoga pants and a lot more! This petition could help to change the dress code policy at the school and show faculty and staff there that what they are doing is harmful to these girls and is body shaming and sexualizing them! Please anyone sign! Lets get the word out and stop this madness from happening! The future mindsets of our young women is being compromised! [LINK]	Body Shaming	Physical Identity - General	1/106	0.943

At our school a lot of guys get in trouble too. They're not aloud to wear shirts that don't fully cover their shoulders and they can't wear muscle tank tops that show their sides. Girls usually only get in trouble for shorts or skirts that are really short. The dress code policy is supposed to be that shorts and skirts can't be above an index card length, but that's never enforced. The only time a girl gets in trouble is if you can see their butts or their underwear. But its the same if guys have saggy pants. We've never really had a sexism problem in our school. The dress code is equal for everyone.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/115	0.87
Here the thing. I find necks sexy. I love a tiny neck, the way the muscle stick out on a skinny neck. So sexy. Hide necks.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/26	3.846
I love your "This is my common sense announcement of the day" hahah So true!	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/15	6.667
At school we aren't allowed to wear short skirts or skinny trousers "for our safety" safety from what?	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/18	5.556
in my town only the French schools have crazy rules like this, the rest just say no breasts, butts, or backs. it goes for everyone no matter who you are.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/30	3.333
Comments on body type are of course not necessary. Girls missing teachings in class isn't good either. What suggestions do you have for a male dress code that would not arouse females? Of course full t shirts to say the least. Rather than speak AGAINST the bombardment of sexualized images that boys are also subjected to you would rather continue to say, boys it's up to you to not think of us that way even though we know what turns you on and what we would wear if we wanted to turn you on, which is not far off from what we wear regularly? Compared to TV, movies and music and girls just walking around in public in leggings and boobly shirts and bikinis, I think a dress code at school is the least of your problems if you don't want to be viewed as sex objects.	Sex	Gender - General	1/147	0.68

I understand that you are speaking about this from a female perspective without having personally experienced the male mind. I don't mean being around your boyfriend all the time and hearing how often he talks about sexual things. I am referring to the thoughts and feelings he is experiencing that have culminated in him saying something sexual out loud.You don't need to teach boys that girls bodies are sexual , we are naturally programmed to be aroused by females for the purpose of procreation. Lets not be silly, we all know breasts and butts and vaginas are sexual to males. I do not know the extent to which a penis arouses a female. If children were not already thinking sexual things, girls covering up is not going to all of a sudden make them think things were so sexual before. As I listen more carefully I realize that you are saying showing skin is a problem. I think everyone needs to specify, that it is not just any skin, like that on your arms or below your knees. We are talking about upper thigh, inches from the vagina, and skin on breasts. I have never personally been aroused by shoulders, so I assume that may be a zealous precaution by administrators.	Sexual	Gender - General	6/211	2.844
give me a break, girls don't need to be wearing short little shorts or tops period at school, maybe the parents need to have more control over their stupid daughters. dress codes are put in for a reason, working on a job and everything else has dress codes so you dumb ass teen girls bitching. get over it	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/58	1.724
Hi Laci, I am a girl who thought she had no voice because I grew up with these thoughts about me expressing who I am was bad. You really helped my out. I now have been writing a story on sexism on wattpad call I'm a Distraction. Mind checking it out?	Sexism	Gender - General	1/51	1.961
Rusty Shackelford so girls would hate a world where they are treated as equals and get the HONOR of being paid the same amount as men for the same job?? yep. i sure would hate such a sick world. the one we live in is PERFECT! Not sexist, racist , homophobic , and ignorant at all :)	Homophobic, Racist	Ethnicity - General, Sexual Identity - General	2/55	3.636
Priya Malelu This idiot is crying about clothes and make up. This is a first world "feminist" issue. She knows zero about anything outside of her privileged little life.	Zero	Age - Youngsters	1/29	3.448

I Use Towels That isn't her logic. Her logic is about whats distracting and rude and whats not. For example if you stuck to the end. A girl is wearing leggings. And its considered distracting. But when a guy wears a shirt that says "bad girls suck, good girls swallow." A school wouldn't consider that "distracting" or "rude" in almost every dresscode. Hell, My school doesn't allow anyone to wear graphic shirts or shirts like that one, But when a guy used it he didn't get in trouble. When a girl used it she got detention and almost suspended :/.What she's basically saying is, If a guy can wear certain things against the dress code and not get in trouble, Why can't a girl do it? She also mentioned the fact that. When we're in school, We are basically taught that a girl is sexual , No matter what a girl will be sexual and distracting.Basically saying guys cant be sexual or distracting :/You should watch the entire video through to pick up what she's really saying <3	Sexual	Gender - General	3/180	1.667
Abandon3dRain "Hell, My school doesn't allow anyone to wear graphic shirts or shirts like that one, But when a guy used it he didn't get in trouble. When a girl used it she got detention and almost suspended :/."Unless you have proof there is no reason we should believe that statement, the most a dress code violation can give you is a detention, but suspension? Either your friend did more then just dress code violation (yelling, cusing, or trying to start a fight) or she came into school with something far worse than what you described (or your just exaggerating, or flat out fibbing) Dress Codes are presented for both sexes both regarding the matter of revealing cloths, and offensive clothing. Guys can't wear shorts too short, piercings, visible tattoos, beards, low collars, no sleeve shirts ect."That isn't her logic. Her logic is about whats distracting and rude and whats not. For example if you stuck to the end. A girl is wearing leggings. And its considered distracting. "actually things like these are to prevent the likelihood of Sexual Harrasment, cat calling and other things.and don't give me "we should just teach guys not to do those things" (which I always get as a reply) because.1.) that is being Heterosexist; assuming that only a straight guy would be the one to do so and not maybe a Lesbian or Bi women.2.) Just telling people something is bad or "illegal" that's not going to stop them entirely there will always be people who don't care that's why there are those who do illegal drugs, and kill people, cause they don't care.	Lesbian, Sexual	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	2/276	0.725

speeddevil4040 Actually, They're both two people I know, They happened to be doing it as a experiment to see how the school would react. When the girl got called on it but not the male she argued to them about how sexist it was being, cursed once, kept arguing when told not to. (This would be the almost suspension one xDDD)Also dont worry. I'm not the type to say "then lets teach the guys not to catcall or look at girls in a sexual manner" Boys will be boys, girls will be girls, etc. Basically, Humans will be humans XDD	Sexual	Gender - General	1/101	0.99
Emily Charland You said it yourself though, "women dress provocatively", meaning that their dress provokes a response. Schools historically have sought to censor the provocative and it isn't a gender issue. Wearing an American flag shirt to some schools is also provocative and its something boys have been sent home for. If you think the schools should respect freedom of speech over censoring all things provocative, I might agree with you, but saying this is strictly a gender issue is a stretch too far.	Gender	Gender - General	2/84	2.381
Kind of off topic but not really. If we're going to talk about how far society teaches boys to objectify women, read this. I saw a video shot in the middle eastern world where a woman wearing a non-revealing robe, covered everything including her hands, hair, and face, all except her eyes, walking on a street with men cat calling her, looking at her in an over-sexualizing way. This goes to show that even though there is nothing sexual about the woman herself showing, men are taught to look at her that way. And this is absolutely repulsive. Another thought. I was watching a hilarious video the other day with boys messing around, telling provocative yet pretty funny jokes, and this occurred to me: if it were girls instead of boys, people would call them sluts in the comments, and this is pretty sad.	Nothing, Sexual, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	4/144	2.778

I am not sure if males are even aware that in many schools girls are pulled aside for private assemblies about how their clothing choices affect male students and faculty in Canada and the US. This occurs for girls starting in kindergarten who are made 'aware' that bare shoulders and visible thighs are prohibited because it makes male students and faculty uncomfortable and unable to concentrate (presumably on anything but your bare flesh). Just to make it clear to the guys on here who are unaware this is even happening- the schools are making you sound like uncontrollable creeps and this should bother you as well! Acceptable dress codes are one thing- nothing wrong with them at all when presented and enforced as professional school attire, but something definitely wrong when pulling females only (as young as 4) out of class for gender focused assemblies to inform them their bodies are a sexual distraction and implying males have no self control. Sincerely, that is exactly how it's presented, and it's wrong and damaging for both sexes.	Gender, Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/176	1.705
I believe that all the school dress codes should be the same for either gender . Also, I think that the fact that bra straps being visible is against the rules is stupid. Would you rather me not wear a bra? Then you'll send me home. Administrators just need to realize that these rules are irrational and it's like you're saying to a girl, "A boy's education is more important than yours because you're wearing shorts," which is untrue.	Gender	Gender - General	1/78	1.282
I know what she's talking about cause I'm going threw middle school and I do feel the need to be sexual	Sexual	Gender - General	1/21	4.762
I mean your still young, just be careful I don't do anything too crazy	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/14	7.143
This video has made me ridiculously happy and empowered. I have this same problem at my high school and its becoming worse each year. A friend of mine got suspended for wearing the "wrong shade of purple". Dress code has become crazy these days. I'm going to start empowering my fellow feminist with this video and show administration what they are really doing to the students. Thanks again so much I love you	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/74	1.351
Exactly I still weird I re bet in 6th grade I had a really pretty dress on I was so happy and it had big thick straps on it. And they made me put on a grandma sweater, and made be as a little girl cried. Who the heck is distracted by a 6th graders shoulders..	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/56	1.786

So tired of the endless feminist whining. Grow up. Rules are rules. They're not even unreasonable. You wonder why we have kids that can't get anywhere in life, complain constantly and can't seem to get it. Thought processes of entitlement is the first step. We had a dress code all through school and no one has a problem with it. And I'm glad that we had it. Some people think any old scrap of clothing is perfectly fine. As a grown adult with kids I simply cannot respect you as a fellow adult.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/93	1.075
I get in trouble for wearing a red bandana on my head (Rosie the riveter) (they said it was a gang symbol) guys don't get in trouble for having their pants to their knees. With bandanas in their back pockets and tied around their ankles (actual gang symbols). Seriously? I'm in 7th grade, a senior had pulled his pants down in front of me several times, called me a his bitch, a slut, babe, baby, many times even after me telling him to stop and reporting him several times. I'm to a feminist, definitely not, but when this is happening, is that really fair?	Red, Senior	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - Native-American	3/104	2.885
Damn feminist... They're are so dumb	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/6	16.667
My school's dress code is actually pretty ok. It's the same for all students, male or female. Khaki, navy blue, or black pants, with a solid colored , collard button shirt. And we are pretty liberal, so, if a guy wants to wear a skirt, they don't mind, it just cant be nor than 6 inches above the knees. I just thought that's pretty cool.	Black, Colored	Ethnicity - Black	2/64	3.125
Also, not my real name, or age , or really anything. Haha. This is a buddy's e-mail I use. I'm 17 from Idaho.	Age	Age - General	1/22	4.545
On the day of my first school dance ever which was when I was eleven I wore w strapless summer dress. My homebase teacher told me I had to wair my gym clothes. When I asked why she said my shoulders could distract my peers and faculty. Did I mention I was eleven years old ? I was upset that I had to wair stinky gym clothes to my first dance. I dared my guy friend to wair something strapless the next day which he did. My homebase teacher complimented him on "discovering" himself in clothes and gave him candy.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/99	1.01

This is stupid! Women’s/girls’ bodies are inherently sexual, As are Men’s and boys’ bodies. It just so happens that they are sexual in different ways. Men’s bodies are sexualized by height and face structure, for girls it’s about curves, skin &amp; etc.. While I totally agree that women should in general be able to express their sexuality in whatever way they please, I think schools should have conservative dress codes for both sexes. Why? Because that’s what the Chinese, Koreans, and other East Asian schools do and they are kicking our asses in academic achievement. Seriously, my master degree program in mathematics is 1 or 2 white Americans including myself, about 40 Chinese nationals, and about 10 Indian nationals. It’s pathetic! Fuck all the social clicks, and prom, and dating; focus the kids on studying and nothing else. If you have to repress their sexual expression until their adults to do that, then do it. Otherwise accept your new Chinese and Indian bosses.	Indian, Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Native- American, Gender - General	6/163	3.681
why are they even looking there? if its hot imma wear shorts. if its hot imma wear tank tops. if its hot imma wear short skirts. if imma work out, ill wear my yoga pants. im not a nun. im not a nurse. i am not an old woman. i am not shy. you do not dress me. there are no uniforms... you claim. you are teaching us to live in the real world, you are teaching us to have our own taste. how will i have my own taste when you do not let me. there are no dress codes in the real world. i am only a girl with a lot of summer clothing. if u dont like it then u can shove it.-its not only guys who get distracted btw	Old, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/134	1.493
Lets rmemeber this is in the christian nation USA.In my country girls can wear anything, those tiny skirts with a short top on all year around if they wanted too.And sure it may distract me to the point of me looking at her because she looks fine however im solely responsible for not letting it affect my education NOT HER.Its all backwards in America when are you gonna wake up?	Nation	Nationality - General	1/73	1.37
Telling girls to cover up, just as telling boys they may not wear muscle shirts and pants waist down to their you know what., is not telling them their bodies are inappropriate, It tells them that there is a time and place for different kinds of dress. Both sexes have an obligation. Boys and men need to be taught not to objectify women, and women need to be taught not to objectify themselves. School is a place where education should come first, not learning to leer at women or wearing clothes that entice men. Granted children are learning about their sexuality at this age, but school is not the venue to practice it.In fact, I’m all for uniforms. They eliminate not only this problem, but help with class distinctions in schools, especially in middle school. If we want to teach our children to be judged for their inner beauty, rather than their outer beauty, parents need to walk the walk.	Age	Age - General	1/161	0.621

Joseph S Nobody is claiming that telling people to cover up is basically saying that your bodies are inappropriate. The problem lies not with the dress code, but with unfairly targeting girls and not equally enforcing the rules on boys. When you do that, you are showing that boys don't have to adhere to the dress code if they don't want to (and that thinking may extend to other areas, may teach them to feel entitled), and you are showing that girls need to be dressed a certain way or they are otherwise considered promiscuous, provocative, and/or distracting. Personally, I don't think that schools HAVE to be considered a place where you need to dress like you would when going to work. I think it's great that many schools allow freedom of expression through clothing, but I have no qualms with schools mandating a dress code because they believe that you SHOULD dress for school like you would for work. What I DO have qualms about is when schools don't equally enforce that dress code on both genders; when the faculty end up cutting one gender slack while unfairly targeting the other. You are actually contradicting yourself when you say that "boys and men need to be taught not to objectify women, and women need to be taught not to objectify themselves". You say men need to learn not to objectify, but then you say that women need to learn not objectify themselves– you are still putting blame on women for dressing the way they do. Women (and men) should be able to dress however they want to because they have the right to express themselves. If a woman (or a man) wants to express herself a certain way by wearing certain clothing, then she should be allowed to do it without being accused of "objectifying herself". More often than not, her intent is not to cry out for attention, rather, she usually just likes the way her clothing looks and she likes the way it looks on her. That isn't objectifying herself, that's confidence. I am of course, not saying that men and women are not allowed to look or stare at someone because of how they're dressed (we're GOING to do that if we see something we like or if we see something strange), but both genders need to understand that the clothing that someone is wearing is not grounds for objectification, no matter how "provocative" or "distracting" it might be. Actually, I'd say that school IS the perfect place to practice not leering at women. You are at school to learn, if you allow yourself to get distracted by what someone else is wearing, that is YOUR fault, not the fault of the person wearing the thing that distracted you. That's like saying we need to board up all the windows because it's their fault for tempting children to look out of them and get distracted by what's outside and not pay any attention in class. You're taking away individual responsibility and then putting that responsibility on other peoples' shoulders. You're making it someone else's problem to make sure that the child is paying attention, instead of actually making the child LEARN to pay attention. Girls going to school generally aren't wearing clothes specifically to entice men, rather they wear them because that's what they feel comfortable in and that's how they express themselves. I'd imagine it's the same for boys, and girls are just as guilty of being enticed by how men dress too. It's perfectly fine if boys and girls are attracted by what they are seeing, but	Gender, Nobody, Promiscuous, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - Female sexuality, Gender - General	4/852	0.469
--	------------------------------------	---	-------	-------

Ayla Cheshir What you fail to realize at that age male hormone are ragging so it not of the scope to use that reasoning. People aren't really saying that though, people are saying women clothes atr vast compared to what males wear thus why their seem to be a lot dress code rules girls have to follow	Age	Age - General	1/57	1.754
Joseph S so you want to tell me that girls in their teens don't have any sexual urges? oh come on, are you living in the 17th century or something?	Sexual	Gender - General	1/30	3.333
Ayla Cheshir Well if you have on pants and you get a boner that becomes Really uncomfortable physically and socially. Idk those are some of the things that definitely turn guys on if they really never had sex before.	Sex	Gender - General	1/39	2.564
No we aren't we just follow the dress code and don't make a big deal about it. Everything that is a rule doesn't have to be a protest. Just say in dress code and wear what you want to where when you leave school. Not that bad of a trade. I do it. Something's can be absurd but realize us guys can't wear what you wear either. The only reason they don't say anything when we do because they think we are guy and they don't want to make it seem like they are homophobic me where your clothes	Homophobic	Sexual Identity - General	1/99	1.01
So many of my friends that are girls get yelled at by teachers to go change because of these stupid things and yet some guys wear tight muscle shirts, super skinny jeans ,and other guys sag their pants so much that you can see their butts but the girls that are wearing tank tops and your able to see their shoulders are getting in trouble!!!!!!!! It's so stupid!!!!!!	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/68	1.471
I'll be honest, dress code when I was in high school were pretty plain and clear cut for people of either sex , exact equal for either with same punishments for both..	Sex	Gender - General	1/31	3.226
The dress code is for students in school which means a majority of them are under 18 and going through changes in their lives boys specifically normally can't control the urge to stare at girls because it's what their bodies are telling them to do while they're going through puberty it's just natural. Now based off of some of the other videos you've made you don't like it when guys stare, say something about your outfit and how sexy it is, etc. and you consider it sexual objectification or something along those lines then you complain about it not being okay that a school has rules in place to prevent boys from staring at a girl and commenting on her outfit. Also you said the rules are only for girls and you brought up VERY specific articles about such incidents but you either didn't want to show us or were just too lazy to do actual research so here look at this : :) [LINK]	Sexual	Gender - General	1/164	0.61
I'm Kinda sad that she doesn't mention the fact that men aren't allowed to wear several types of gender neutral clothing, including earrings and flip flops in most schools.	Gender	Gender - General	1/29	3.448

I got dress coded in 8th grade by my teacher and she said "pull up your shirt or find a sweater no wonder this boy can't focus" then sent me to the office to get another shirt that's red and says loaner on it, I was quiet angry.	Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American	2/48	4.167
So at my old job, there was an extremely strict dress code for all employees. When I was being trained I actually had to read the employee handbook, and it listed all the things I couldn't wear. Male employees were not allowed to have long hair, wear jewelry, have painted nails, wear any makeup, and could only wear black dress pants and a blue button up shirt. Shouldn't that be classified as "dress code sexism " as well? This video has an interesting topic, but I hate how it doesn't go any deeper than female issues. This leaves a lot of the arguments open ended because she fails to recognize/examine any possible reasons for these issues other than implying that men are at fault.	Black, Old, Sexism	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	3/123	2.439
There's one, big, non-sexist reason why girls get in trouble for dress code more than boy do that most people don't realize. (I didn't even until recently) It has to do with visibility.When a girl breaks the dress code you can tell from the other end of the hall. Too short skirts/shorts, see through clothing, exposed underwear are all extremely visible and teachers will be able to notice them without any effort.When a boy breaks the dress code, it is more visually subtle. While, under shirts, muscle shirts and pants worn way too low can be seen and rectified just like with the girls, inappropriate and sexist slogans and images on t shirts require teachers to notice, read, and in some cases understand the inappropriate content before the student will get in trouble.Case in point: My older sister owned a shirt that had "Enjoy Cocaine" on it in the style of a Coca-Cola ad. She thought it was hilarious and wore it to school on multiple occasions. It was only after she had given a long presentation at the front of the class over a year later that a teacher finally read it and told her she couldn't wear it to school again. On the other hand my little brother's been informed that his sleeveless shirt was not allowed since the arm holes were so long they reached his navel and that was against dress code.In short, sometimes it's not the gender of the dress code violation bub how easily it is seen which determines who gets in trouble.	Gender	Gender - General	1/263	0.38

No doubt school dress code can suck balls, but when you have shorty shorts, you know the ones that show the bottom of your cheek, it's not ok. And no laci, it doesn't inherently tell boys that women's bodies are sexual "objects", they learn it from the media, family, and hormones. Also, when you say that wearing cloths objectifies women, you are the one saying that and portraying that message, the school district never said female bodies are objects, you did.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/81	1.235
Well I'm going to get a lot of SJW hate for this, but I think dress codes, in general, are justified. Of course there are those isolated incidents of "I SEE HER ANKLE, EXPEL HER", but that isn't the norm. In my school you get busted for wearing booty shorts or crop tops. Now I know there is going to be the "WELL WHY ARE BOYS OBJECTIFYING ME UGH" but really schools are just trying you to dress professional. You wouldn't wear booty shorts at your office job. Now for the argument of "why don't boys get busted nearly as much, because PATRIARCHAL SEXISM " that's simple. Boys tend to not wear booty shorts. They tend to not show off too much chest and they tend to not have their bulge completely outlined by their clothes. If a male came in with his ass hanging out and most of his chest showing, he'd get in trouble too. Once you're out of a professional setting go ahead and wear what you want. If you want your ass feeling the breeze or your tits getting some rays that is absolutely fine, I encourage you to dress how you like on your own time. Finally I'd like to point out the "they treat woman like sexual objects!" flaw. If you dress provocatively then you are the one that makes yourself the sexual object. With that being said of course obviously not letting a kindergartner wear a skirt that was appropriately sized is moronic. My comment was just to point out that the majority of reprimanding woman on dress code violations is completely justified (with what I've personally seen). Also for you radicalists I'm a white cis-male so have at me (;	Sexism, Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	5/287	1.742
Dont you dumbass feminists realize mens brains are different from womens. Theyre constantly looking for a beautiful healthy woman with whom they can procreate (make babies with). "Omg a straight adolescent male cant stop looking at an adolescent females breasts!" He cant help himself hes a straight man. Its natural, its biological. These rules are so girls dont get self conscious about the horny teenage boys gawking at them.	Woman	Gender - General	1/69	1.449

At my high school everybody was treated the same regardless of gender . Girls and guys both weren't allowed to wear sleeveless shirts, yoga pants, super short shorts, etc. Maybe it's because I'm from the south but guys just never wore anything that broke dress code, except for the occasional bro-tank but they always got busted. It was in fact the definition of feminism: both genders being treated equally. I'm not saying I agree with the dress code, I'm just saying that in my experiences it wasn't sexist.	Gender	Gender - General	1/87	1.149
GeckoW33dSmoker That's exactly it. There is nothing sexist about the dress code itself. Girls just violate it more than males do.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/21	4.762
Don't forget all the schools with rules against "crossdressing".I got so lucky when I came out as transgender and started dressing as a woman that my school hand't made any rules against it like all the others in my area did.	Transgender, Woman	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Transexuality	2/42	4.762
It has nothing to do with targeting girls specifically to body shame them. Girls are wearing clothing that you would most commonly see on the las vegas strip. That's the freaking problem. Some of these misguided authority figures are taking the " zero tolerance" policies a little to serious but that's a completely different problem. This isn't double standards, this has to do with the very real fact that far too many girls are dressing more like hookers and less like students.	Nothing, Zero	Age - Youngsters	2/81	2.469
I live in England and so we have to wear uniforms at school but even so we work our way around it to make it a little more personalised. Last year my school said that the girls aren't allowed to wear jeans or any form of tight trousers as they're "distracting" especially a popular brand called 'Miss Sexy' because they have a red label on them. We're also not allowed to wear pencil skirts as they're "too tight" so most of us switched to skater skirts and yet we are still being told they're "not appropriate" even though they're not that short. However the girls have all of these rules and what do they guys go around wearing? Skinny jeans... So some friends and I attempted to change this by talking to our Head Teacher (principle) and even getting our male friend who is head boy (head of students, kinda) on board with us. But when we went and spoke to the Head Teacher he just said "We're only trying to make you all into good citizens". Sorry for this long rant that no one will read but I was just trying to prove that this is happening in other places too not just the US.	Red, Skinny	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/206	1.456

1. They weren't wearing shorts, shorts go at least to the knees.2. As I was a high school student once as well and I am male, yoga pants were indeed distracting. 3. Ah yes, let's shorten the skirts for even the most young of children because we obviously have no sense of decency.4. All of those logical arguments you just dismissed are valid. Because you aren't a guy (I really can't tell what you are anymore Laci, just to be honest) you don't understand what it's like. Just like your argument how men can't know how hard it is to be a woman and deal with all the chemicals. Testosterone is a thing that men don't complain about because we deal with it.5. Yes to a man, women's bodies are sexual (for the most part). It's a guy thing you don't seem to care about because it isn't convenient for you. While it isn't true that teenage boys think about sex every six seconds, it is true that teen age boys (as well as all of the other males) are easily stimulated by sight, sound and touch.6. Nowhere does it teach boys to disrespect girls.7. You've been so against sexual abuse yet you promote the use of sexualized clothing for young girls in an environment that could be extremely toxic and volatile for these girls.8. ( Body shaming , degrading screenings) That sounds like a woman -> woman comment. It seems as if women like to put each other down a lot. This happens a lot in families where mothers will shame their daughter. I'll agree on this.9. The problem is that the outfits some girls wear becomes more and more sexual . This needs to stop or quit complaining when the school tries to enforce some decency in your life.10. Your " Common Sense Announcement of the Day" is the reason there is so much whining and complaining in physical education classes. It's why children can't play soccer, football, baseball, capture the flag, etc. because someone loses and their feelings get hurt or they might get a little scrape on their knee and have to get a band-aid. WAH give me a break! Next time a war starts, the whistle is blown and my front line platoon has to charge out of the trenches right into enemy fire, you better be there right with the rest of us. I don't care if the sight of blood makes you faint, you better be there with the rest of the guys in the name of equal treatment.	Age, Body Shaming, Common, Sex, Sexual, Woman	Age - General, Gender - General, Physical Identity - General, Social Class - Working class	10/430	2.326
YES!!! I was raised Mormon and the modesty rules were at home, not just school. It contributed to my eating disorder because it taught me that my body was sexual and shameful, that I was on display, and that my body was open to public commentary. This is so incredibly damaging!!!	Sexual	Gender - General	1/51	1.961

My school has an official dresscode: school polo and black or kacki pants; shirts tucked in AND NO JACKETS!!! My school will let us wear pretty much whatever we want on Fridays which I'm very lucky to have. I've worn short shorts and tops that have no sleeves and no cared. But what I DO hate about my school's dresscode is the fact we can't wear jackets Monday - Thursday. They say it's so they know we're wearing school polos but why don't they just tell us to not zip up our jackets? I think it's funny that my school won't let us wear jackets regardless of who you are. I hate the no jacket rule because I get cold in school and I don't like being cold. My school has weird issues.... like for some reason they also think we have drugs but they've never found any. I go to a mostly Hispanic school; so maybe that's why but I guess that makes my school racist and not sexist....	Black, Racist, Weird, Zip	Ethnicity - Asian (East-China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam), Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	4/170	2.353
At my school the dress code is the same for all students. I understand some of the rules completely, like no leggings since a lot of people would wear leggings so thin that you could see their butt. Yeah some codes might be aimed to more girls' or guys' clothing, but they are equally enforced. Guys can't sag to show underwear or their butts, girls can't wear see through garments that show their underwear or butt. The idea is modesty and safety, not targeting one of the genders. Just like you wouldn't go to work in a super short skirt that barely covers your butt, you don't go to school like that since it's a student's professional environment.	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/118	0.847
I'll admit I've broke dress code once or twice but girls at my school do everyday and they wear nike shorts and dont get in trouble but my friend she wears shorts and LEGGINGS underneath god help us that's distracting so they put her in sweat pants yes I wore shorts too short once or twice and leggings with nothing coverings butt, but that's not put fault people male cloths like this cause it's on style so it's hard to find decent clothing and with guys judging us but our butts and boobs and hell thighs and shoulders we can't wear anything I'm summer my own male teacher even said he doesn't care for dress code I mean some should have some boundaries but they should teacher guys obedience it's not fair the ones whom shouldn't be blamed has to pay the price	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/143	0.699

3:57 that is exactly what the administration is doing, teaching girls and boys to dress professionally at school because it will affect the other gender if one gender is dressing promiscuously, but whatever, evil/stupid/sexist/opressive men and poor/opressed women i guese.	Gender	Gender - General	2/40	5.0
I agree with pressure to be sexy. Now talk about the sexism of men that wear skirts/dresses and are sent home or forced to take it off	Sexism	Gender - General	1/27	3.704
Dumb bitch	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/2	50.0
The worst was when I was in high school and they wouldn't let us guys wear white tank tops. But girls could wear sleeveless shirts. And I got in trouble for wearing a beer shirt. Oh I'm sorry you don't like beer, but I'm an 18 year old adult, I can wear whatever I want. I like beer. If the fuckers who ran the school on my tax dollars don't, that's called not my problem.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/75	1.333
i go to school in ireland so we have uniforms but girls arent aloud to wear makeup before the age of 16 and we are constantly screamed at about the legnth of our skirts	Age	Age - General	1/34	2.941

Are dress codes really sexist? I'm a guy and I was sent home in high school(14 years ago) for wearing a tight tank top. My brother(9 years older than me) was sent home for wearing short shorts(back in the day when boys wore short shorts). I was also sent home in elementary school for wearing shorts. I also had a boss have a talk with me because I was wearing tight polo shirts to work and it was "distracting" to the ladies. I had a nice body because I played football and worked out, and my gf preferred me in tight shirts(she picked out my wardrobe). Dress codes have always been universal and are the same as they've always been. The only difference is that guys no longer wear belly shirts, short shorts, etc like they used to. Just because male fashion has gone away from showing skin, while female fashion has gone in the opposite direction, doesn't make the dress code sexist. I guarantee that if I wore short shorts or tight shorts showing a crotch bulge when I was in school, I would have been sent home. Is a dress code sexist because it is mostly girls who are pushing the boundaries of the dress code? That would be like saying banning hats is sexist because it is mostly guys who wear hats. I knew a lot of guys who got sent home for wearing hats in school. Don't get me wrong, I think dress codes are stupid, and women should be able to wear whatever they want(within reason). I just don't think they're sexist, because they apply both ways....the fact that predominantly one sex is breaking that code doesn't make it sexist. The company I work for allows women to wear skirts, and straps, showing their arms and shoulders. Men are required to wear button up shirts or polo shirts, and NO shorts. This gets pretty damn hot in the summer, and it sucks seeing the ladies wearing skirts and straps, while us guys are sweating and miserable. Now, THAT is pushing the boundary towards sexist, since women are allowed to wear something that men are not. If you show me a school that allows boys to wear short shorts, but not girls, boys to wear tight tank tops, but girls can't wear the equivalent, then yes THAT would be sexist. However, most of the time I see these stories, that isn't the case. It's a girl breaking a universal dress code that is applied to both genders. When they pull the girls aside and tell them that they're distracting boys, that is sexist. The dress code isn't sexist, but the approach in which they tell the girls why they can't dress that way and telling them that they're sexual objects and that boys can't control themselves...that is sexist.	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	2/472	0.424
--	-------------	------------------	-------	-------

the problem is that men are more visual in terms of sexual attraction (this can be controlled with adding clothing over the skin), while women are attracted on a level that can't be very easily controlled. men want youth and beauty in women, women want good providers in men.this goes back to the relative investment each puts into reproduction: sperm are cheap, pregnancy is expensive. so in terms of reproduction, men are all about mass production and women are about quality control. a part of mass production is ensuring that supply meets demand so men will want physically attractive women to ensure the offspring are physically attractive and thus there will be more demand for them in their endeavors to find mates. men also want younger women because it is a well established fact that as women age , egg cell viability decreases, meaning older female mates are less likely to produce healthy, if any, offspring. another part of reproductive quality control is ensuring that the offspring make it to reproductive age , so she will want a man who can provide resources to ensure that they do. since women are more invested in the offspring they typically take the role of caregiver while men who have less investment choose to invest the rest of their time in the role of the provider. this can change but it still goes back to the relative biological investment of each parent. even the things women find physically attractive are related to this. large muscles in males is seen as attractive because it would have allowed primitive man to hunt and therefore provide better than a man who is fat or extremely skinny .	Age, Fat, Sexual, Skinny	Age - General, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	5/279	1.792
Honestly Dress Codes are so stupid. Seriously, I wore a crop top to school one time and my principal and my English teacher both called me out for it. And how many students mentioned my shirt? NONE. Yeah. "The students get distracted"... If the staff calls me out on it, I'm pretty sure that's getting distracted by it. My school doesn't allow Spaghetti strap tank tops, short shorts, off shoulder tops, etc... But seriously, what kind of guy is going to stare at your shoulder or arms if you're wearing a tank top and be like "Dang, that's a hot shoulder you got there". That's just weird and gross. And you always hear stories about how, for example, a student gets raped by her teacher or something like that. Do you ever hear stories about a girl getting raped by a boy her age because she has a " hot shoulder "? Ew. Like, I could rant about it for hours.	Age, Weird	Age - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/161	1.242
14 year old girls should be allowed to dress as slutty as possible. -every child predator ever, oh and Laci Green.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/21	4.762

My school has called me out on what I was wearing BECAUSE OF MY WEIGHT. I'm not skinny , actually I'm very overweight. my school is fine with the normal sized people wearing shorts so short you can see their underwear 5 days a week. I wore a pair of shorts ONCE that was a little above the preferred "fingertip length." I later got called to the office to here that I wasn't allowed to wear such scandalous outfits.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/78	1.282
Yes, I do agree on your point, I would like to add, children are not what we used to be. I don't know how old are, (and at 36 I don't think I'm that old ), children nowadays are subjected to more sexually fueled content than ever before. And without good parenting, could lead to an epidemic that we as a country have never known. Kids will be kids, yes, but if they are allowed to porusse the Internet without supervision, then yes, we will have a problem with what girls and boys wear to school.	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/95	2.105
All the skiny and popular girls get away with tank tops and booty shorts but fat and unpopular girls like me get in trouble for wearing shorts to your knees when the school policy is mid theigh	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/37	2.703

In my school handbook it says, and I quote, "Clothing which is considered to be revealing will not be allowed on any student. This would include clothing that does not cover from shoulders to thighs." All on one day, three of my best friends were sent home because their shoulders were exposed. It was on that same day that I counted 67 boys all wearing thin tank-tops that exposed their shoulders. Why weren't they sent home?Somehow, I was able to muster up the courage to ask my language arts teacher about this, as she was the one who had sent my friends home. She said something along the lines of, "The shoulders are too revealing and distract some of the boys. The boys are maturing rather quickly and we want to make sure you girls stay safe."The funny thing is is that most of the other boys from my pod still are immature enough to crack sex jokes in the middle of class and try to make everything the teacher says and does sexual. Whenever another student does it, though, it becomes gross. One of the main problems is also that most of the kids in my pod are ELEVEN AND TWELVE YEARS OLD. There are a lot of people already wasting their first kisses and going out on dates and stuff, but none of them want to advance into sex just yet. I am in sixth grade. If the boys are going to find it distracting, then the schools should teach them to man up and focus on their schoolwork. If they are thinking of sex, then they should be the ones being talked to, not the girls. Yet again, society is telling young girls to comply to the needs of men and not be themselves.Also, most of the boys in sixth grade aren't interested in sex, so who would be in the school? Oh, I know! The teachers! If the teachers are the ones who are distracted by the students' outfits, then they should be fired for being a pedophile. Only one of the teacher's was fired for being a pedophile, and it was because he had child pornography on his computer. You've already done it once, school, so why not get rid of all the problems and get rid of the rest of the teachers who are the problems?	Old, Sex, Sexual, Thin	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	7/395	1.772
I wore a pair of short shorts to school one day in grade 6, but i wore a pair of leggings underneath to be more modest. My principal actually said i was dressed like a "hooker". She used that exact word. I was 12. She also pulled me out of recess to talk to me because i was having issues with another girl in the school. She told me I would be happier if I lost a little weight, and proceeded to give me yogurt recipes (!?). She constantly brought up the fact that I (very curvy for 12 with B cup breasts and wide hips), and the other girl (tall and thin) had different body types and she always used negative tones when explaining my body type. The issues I was having with this girl were based on telling secrets and jealousy, our bodies had nothing to do with the conflict.	Hooker, Nothing, Thin	Age - Youngsters, Gender - Female sexuality, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/152	1.974

Actually testosterone is what gives you the sex drive so biologically guys have a greater sex drive than women.	Sex	Gender - General	2/19	10.526
---	-----	---------------------	------	--------

How are women oppressed, in my city we have 220,000+ homeless men, 14,000+ homeless women. Women are preferred over men in family courts for no reason whatsoever, yes women are being oppressed in 3rd world countries as much as men, did you know that most suicide bombers are little boys? Girls in 3rd world countries are raped by their family members, because the guys are forced to do, and if they don't, they kill them, then the guy and the girls they BOTH live with the trauma.<sup>87</sup> of homicide victims are male<sup>96.8</sup> males working the most dangerous jobs with the lowest paySuicide rates are 6 times higher in males<sup>500+</sup> shelters for women, 12 for men, in my country a woman is abusing a male and he defends himself, what is going to happen? The woman just needs to say: He hit me. And without proof or research, they are going to believe her. Victims of domestic abuse are 50/50 but the men who seek help from social service agencies are often made to feel responsible for the abuse — or even to be accused of being the perpetrator.A guy being abused doesn't carry the same sort of weight, and it's not accepted by society as being an issue, as a result, violence toward women tends to get the lion's share of funding and attention.Who were the ones that were/are drafted to war against their will to do? Males. Who are the ones that get fucked over in custody? Males, why? Because this companies make more money off a guy than a girl, they don't care or research what's the best option for the child to be with, the father could be abusing him or the mom, and they don't care as long as they make money in this companies mostly ruined by women.Yes, we all know girls can be raped but so do men, statistically 51 of boys out of 150 around the ages 8-13 were inappropriately touched and statistically girls 49.<sup>87</sup> Rape can also happen to males of any ages, you just don't hear about it because people like you don't believe that it can happen, they laugh about it, make fun of you , if a guy is raped he's more likely to kill himself.Females are so privileged in America that a woman can pop out three kids from different men and have free money automatically deposited in her bank account, have a wide variety of mainstream corporations (even men's organizations) fight for any future disease she may contract, and have feminist-friendly writers on sites like Huffington Post and soJane explain how men should man up and marry her because she's strong and independent, regardless of the fact that she's dependent on her government husband. If you believe women are oppressed in America, it's possible you're mentally ill (i.e. a social justice warrior) or living in a sheltered echo chamber with an allergy to truth and facts.We've arrived at the point where men are so consistently oppressed from birth to adulthood that any notion of female oppression can be immediately laughed at on its face. Here are just a few examples:— Young boys are drugged and zombified with methamphetamine based pharmaceuticals at three times the rate of girls, all for exhibiting normal male behavior.— Young boys are methodically excluded from programs that can aid them in science, math, and computer programming, leaving them to fend for themselves.— Young girls are encouraged to invade traditionally male spaces like gaming and sports while men are excluded from female spaces. — College males are	Woman	Gender - General	4/1181	0.339
--	-------	------------------	--------	-------

This is not sexism.How about exposing the sexism of teaching females that they make 33 less than males do because of discrimination? That is a false statistic by the way, the true number is 4-7 when we compare wages between actual jobs. And, get this, modern research proves that females in the 22-30 age group make 8 more than their male counterparts (who work full time). Why don't we use that statistic when talking about sexism? How about lets talk about how females are accepted into Stem cell research fields 2 to 1 compared to males, and males still dominate that field. Lets talk about how females in 2015 are 30 more likely to graduate from college with a degree than males? What about that sexism?Lets talk about domestic abuse, and the lack of any assistance to male victims as soon as they turn 18. Male abuse victims have access to programs for children, including females, but once they turn 18 there are no programs that can help males. Females get every single bit of the resources allocated to domestic abuse victims. If a female under 18 is abused, she has access to all the programs a male her same age does, but she has access to female only programs as well. When she hits 18 every single program out there designed to help abuse victims solely focuses on females, so she has plenty of resources to fall back on. Males have none. NONE. Every time someone tries to set up a male dominated one, the government shuts it down because feminists say its disriminatory against females.As a direct result of this practice by FEMINISTS the vast majority of homeless are male. This is because there are no programs designed to help males. There are female only programs, and all the programs designed out there are to help females first and foremost. What about this sexism?Lets talk about how male victims of rape get told that they are part of the problem by FEMINISTS when they attend anti rape rally's.Lets talk about the numerous fake rape vases that happen that the media jump on that in the end turn out to be fake. The female lied. Or perhaps a rape happened but she accused the wrong male. Feminists run to the females defense, despite overwhelming evidence proving the males innocence of this crime. Lets talk about how soceity still acuses that male of rape even if it is proven beyond any reasonable doubt he is innocent. Lets also talk about the lack of punishment of a female who issues false rape claims. Now before you twist this, PEOPLE who are victims of rape or who witness or hear of a rape need to come forward so the perpetrators can be punished. But we need evidence to prove they did it, we cannot rely just on a female's word alone because females lie. Lets talk abut the feminists definition of rape, which allow fora female to retroactively declare a sexual encounter she had was rape. That is sexist.So, lets recap. Females make moer than males in the same professions. Females are more likely to graduate from college with a degree than males. Females have female only help programs to help with abuse victims, not only do males have no such programs but FEMINISTS shut down any program desigend to help men. Feminists want us to belive all women when they claim they were raped, despite that most of the high profile rape cases in recent times have been lies told by the female and the males she accused have

Age, Common, Sexism, Sexual

Age - General,
Gender -
General,
Social Class -
Working class

10/853

1.172

Ms. Green males are visual creatures, you Know this and yet your femist mind wants you to bring down the hammer on this ism, this like racism won't be something easliy fought over, we are talking biology here in both respects of isms, i understand the school male workers but i dont think the females should be punished for disobeying the dress code, i think a debate of understanding on both side should be done before any hammers fall there needs to be a vote, this is america...	Racism	Ethnicity - General	1/88	1.136
I just saw your video on a media site and you talked about racism . You hit it right on the head with all your points. I grew up in New Jersey and didn't deal with racism . Not to say it wasn't around but it just didn't come out my way, I'm 30 now and it seems like it's everywhere in America now more than any time period in Americas history. In my opinion I think social media has played a huge role in its development because everything society does is now captured and spun even into something way bigger than what it is. Now am I saying racism isn't bad of course not, what I'm saying is I believe it's always been around but now it's just amplified to another level. I think eventually America will be a FREE country, just not right now. I've spent sometime serving overseas and I'll tell you this, Europe seems more free than any state in America. Again love the points and keep up the amazing videos.	Racism	Ethnicity - General	3/173	1.734
Devin Bridgewater Actually whites are overwhelmingly the victims of racism in 2014 and 2015. If you look at the facts of the Eric Garner death, Travon Martin shooting, Mike Brown shooting, you will see the media has fundamentally lied to you about the nature of those cases to spin the racist angle. Just as fox news was a spokepiece for the Republican party, NBC and the rest of the MSM is a spokespiece for the Democrat party. Did you know the KKK is the offshooting of the DEMOCRATIC party? The race relations are so bad in the USA because of hte democratic party and media blaming everything that happens on " racist white people". And actively censoring all the anti white violence that goes on in this country. If you think Ferguson was the first race riot in modern times you are wrong. Racism is a prolem, but if you look at actual incidents in modern times you will find that more whites are victims of racism than blacks, yet these cases rarely hit the news because when blacks are perps beating the hell out of white people its hard to sell the story that blacks are victims of white racism .Real talk, stop the censorship. The truth is out there if you just ignore the mainstream media and do your own research. White Girl bleed a lot, Dont make the black kids angry. Look this stuff up and it should piss you off how the mainstream refuses to cover these incidents all the while telling us that whites are the problem.	Black, Race, Racism, Racist	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	9/261	3.448

I can't comment on a women's psychology or sexuality without being told to "stay in my lane" or "I'm talking about things I don't understand", but you can tell everyone what is or isn't distracting to a pubescent teen boy? Hypocrisy abound. It can be a distraction for a boy in puberty to see a girl's body. Unless you have been a pubescent boy who is dealing with an extremely new and overwhelming sex drive then you have no place to comment on what is distracting for a teen boy or not. At no other time in a man's life does he feel so consumed with and driven by sex than in his teens. For some boys it can completely consume one's thoughts and motivations for that time. Girls, it's nothing personal, but YOU are a distraction during those teens years. A little help via dress code and understanding that we have to supress very STRONG sexual urges at school would be appreciated. Simple biology at work, not misongony and rape culture.	Nothing, Sex, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	4/172	2.326
It's not even a matter of "only girls are the victims", because like Laci said, its not the guys fault. I don't think that many adults realize that kids and teens are always making judgements. Even when something is dress-code worthy, sometimes it can be more sexual then what is not, so its impossible to control unless we revert to 1984 coverall style clothing. Are we going to make a ban for flip flops because foot fetishes exist? No. I remember I went to a school that eventually banned abrocombie and fitch bags because of the male and female models on the bags...that didn't work. I believe in wearing the right clothing for the right place, but that has nothing to do with sexualization per say - its just common sense and courtesy.	Common, Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	3/133	2.256
likes times a thousand a 5 year old girl was forced to change for wearing a full length spaghetti strap sundress. THAT IS SO FUCKING STUPID	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/26	3.846
And I'm sure a lot of boys feel offended by this too by the school saying there's some animals that freak out and get distracted but a bra strap or some legs	Freak	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/32	3.125
Kara Lena Most men can control themselves. Most boys can control themselves. Boys growing up don't always have control of their penises so they get erections, but that is equivilent to females getting wet, its a biological function that does not mean they are ready or want to have sex at that moment. Feminism teaches girls that all men are wild animals who can't control themselves. That is false. That is the real sexism in this world. The fact that they can say this hate speech without getting called on it is one of the biggest social problems we have in the USA today.	Sex, Sexism	Gender - General	2/104	1.923

I am FTM transgender and sometimes the binders that I wear to school don't necessarily work all that well. My school's administrators will notice this and will make a phone call to my dad to tell him that I'm dressed inappropriately for school due to the fact that I'm not wearing a bra. Once they actually made such a big deal out of it that I was sent home from school! So, someone in charge at my school is staring at my tits and noticing that I'm "not wearing a bra"! It's so messed up!	Transgender	Sexual Identity - Transsexuality	1/95	1.053
dear schools, as a teenager let me assure you that we still look at girls our age in jeans too	Age	Age - General	1/20	5.0
I am also an avid feminist like Laci and i totally agree with her that we need to kill all men and stop breastfeeding male babies. It's the only way to stop the patriarchy . KillAllMen	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/35	2.857
how is a female body not sexual lol, boys dont care what you were but we WILL definately glance at certain exposed parts of your body	Sexual	Gender - General	1/26	3.846
Nobody took into account that maybe some guys have a thing for shoulders hahah	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/14	7.143
I was taught every since i started getting boobs that my body was sexual . Shoulders boobs and thighs arent allowed to be shown at school.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/25	4.0
I get in trouble by my dad for wearing a beach towel long after a shower (while in my own room, btw). Somehow a giant towel covering everything but my shoulders and ankles are exposing and inappropriate, meanwhile I've seen this man walk around the house in nothing but half-translucent undies (and yes, my eyeballs are scarred for life). Not mention that, as a CHILD, I got in trouble for walking around in my Winnie the Pooh nightgown. Seriously, wtf?	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/80	1.25
Hello Laci! I've seen a few of your videos since I'm a subscriber and recently I've had to do a presentation at university on discrimination and stereotyping in a soft course regarding behavior in organizations. I focused on sex discrimination. The presentation was going normally when a 20 year old male colleague found that laughing was the most appropriate reaction when hearing about male privilege in the entrepreneur environment. This wasn't the first time I heard and saw condemnation for defending an anti sex discrimination view or opinion coming from either men or women. Now Laci, how do you get the courage to keep defending your beliefs and confidence to not be torn down buy this comments from even your colleagues or friends?	Old, Sex	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	3/123	2.439
I hate to say it... but certain aspects of our bodies are inherently sexual . And whatever she says, because of the way that they are, boys ogle girls far more than the other way round.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/35	2.857

You can't wear shorts that look like your underwear... That's reasonable. These codes don't target women, there's also a dress code for guys, which is LITERALLY the same dress code. Yes, people generally say "It's too distracting", but if there wasn't a dress code or any other power upholding what you wear in what is supposed to be an educational society, people could be showing up; in gang affiliated attire, basically not wearing anything at all like a short skirt and a bando top, swimsuit, etc.. &lt;- (that would be really distracting, for everybody.) The dress code DOES NOT TEACH anyone anything other than that "it is not acceptable to wear these things at this location." The dress code never rewrote itself to say "You distract someone because you're sexually appealing, you're too fat so don't wear that, you're responsible for distracting everyone that glares at you.", that's an example of what people individually think when they attempt to interpret the dress code, or it is what they get told by stupid fuckhead teachers that tell them that. It's not that girls are always the problem, I've seen men at my local high school get dress coded too, it's that men generally don't break dress code because we don't really have the opportunity to. Men don't get the styles of spaghetti straps, crop tops, skirts or short shorts, or even leggings (although I have seen men in jeggings). Men generally wear a T-shirt and pants which is completely acceptable depending on what it looks like. I can safely say 9 times out of ten, men get dress coded for something gang related, or for objectifying a woman on their shirt. "Oh my god right?!?! the school doesn't want to objectify women! That is so wrong!" - Said every fucking moron who for some reason believes that objectifying a woman in public is socially acceptable. Last but not least because I wanna play some dank ass video games, when people get dress coded for something and someone else doesn't get caught for what you absolutely know they should not wear and then the individual who did get caught complains about it, do you honestly believe that they stopped to think "Oh maybe he/she didn't get caught." because I can tell you being at a high school where the staff rating is about 1:40, not everyone is going to get caught unless they stand out. Schools don't hire people to stare at kids who wear things they shouldn't be wearing, I hope that kind of thing would actually be illegal. I wore a punk rock T-shirt that said "fuck" on it, along with some other design, I am glad my teachers didn't read it, I knew I wasn't supposed to wear it but I took my chances since I don't give a fuck about profanity.I am actually kind of interested in what people have to say about this, since it is a valid argument, and I am hoping that someone with an open mind replies with something at least more meaningful than an "Oh my god, you're a male, you wouldn't understand, stupid sexist bitch.", because I don't know what to expect.Edit: And if I made a mistake, please teach me what it is I was mistaken on, and understand I will express my understanding in an appropriate fashion, otherwise known as a proper argument. All this rather than calling me a folkin dum0ss.	Fat, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/574	0.523
--	------------	---	-------	-------

I agree with most of what she saying, but the problem is you don't need to be a feminist to understand or do something about this injustice. People have to stand up to the public school systems if they want them to change the rules. It's not hard for them to do that. When I was still in high school they never allowed cell phones, but when parents told the board of education that they could use their cellphones to research when doing a in-school project (That isn't a test or quiz) they were glad to allow cellphones so long as it wasn't used for making phone calls in class.Sure some school districts are worse then others, but again this isn't a problem that needs feminism. It's a problem that needs anybody (Especially the parents) to stand up to the school system.Also on a side note I don't think it's teaching us slut shaming, I think it's teaching us that people are assholes. I doubt kindergartners sitting around saying that we have to dress up women since they are sexual if they dressed a certain way. Laci Green is not an idiot by any means. In fact she is fairly smart in comparison to people like Anita Sarkeesian or Wil Wheaton. Laci is just misguided and thinks if we make a large movement for women's rights that we will solve all issues for people who are oppressed or mistreated. In reality the only way we are going to do that is to make a group for humans rights so we're not excluding certain people out and we understand that all people should be given equal rights regardless of their gender, age, race , religion, economic status, etc. Now tell me honestly: Does that sound so hard for all of you MRAs and feminist to do? Can we just settle for humans rights? I feel like I am going insane.I would also like to add that it's not just men pressuring girls and women to dress a certain way. It's other women too. I mean go look at those teen magazines like M, J-14, Seventeen ETC. They are usually written and produced mostly by women. So you can't even say that the people pressuring to make girls dress "Sexy" are just men. It's women too! This is why we can't just blame one side over the other.	Age, Gender, Race, Sexual	Age - General, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	4/398	1.005
The dress code rules are horrible, especially at my private Christian school. When the school is Christian, not only do you get the body shaming and specialization of (usually) young girls, but you also get a healthy spoon of "tempting others to lust is a sin" and "you should dress in a God-pleasing way". How is God disappointed in me for showing my shoulder. How.	Body Shaming	Physical Identity - General	1/65	1.538

Heres the thing tho listen, I have no problem with women wanting to wear anything they want but I apologize if i sww your thighs and ass popping out im going to look. School should be treated as proper ground for both men and women, I get it it is hot as shit. But im not going to wear my white beater, Just like work that requires uniform even if its smoltering we have to deal with it. dress codes are important. if its comfortable for me to show up naked to school, should it be allowed? I dont think so. This isnt a gender issue neither.Like are you saying that men get to wear short shorts, fuck no atleast you get to wear shorts without looking like a gorrilla lols	Gender	Gender - General	1/131	0.763
Why can't we have gender neutral dress codes??	Gender	Gender - General	1/8	12.5
And girls should get detention for wearing shorts that show the majority of their thighs...even if it's in the sweltering heat. Boys aren't dropping dead of heat stroke from wearing shorts that come down to knee level. And girls shouldn't be allow to wear clothes that have their shoulder's exposed if they policy also prohibits boys from wearing sleeveless shirts or tank tops.And no, girls shouldn't be allowed to wear clothing that shows off their curves. They're in school; they're not at a fucking party ! Here's a news flash: everyone's body ( male or female ) is "sexualized. People find the male and female body attractive, it's just that women in just about every situation, from church and to the work place, if you let them, wear revealing clothing. It's funny how you attack "dress code sexism " when it effects women. Trying being a man and being told that you can't enter a club because you have sneakers on. Try being a man and being refused entry because you're wearing boots. I've never even came across a club/bar that had a dress code for women.And, when it comes to men, a lot of this is "dress code racism " because they prohibit certain items of clothing that blacks tend to wear. When I go out I have to wear dress shoes just to make sure that I can enter any club/bar.Why don't you talk about that ? Oh yeah, that's right, feminists only care about feminist's issues, and many white feminists don't give a damn about women of color.	Racism, Sexism	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	2/262	0.763
Preach woman !	Woman	Gender - General	1/2	50.0

I don't agree with the whole "zomg don't let boys find out you have shoulders!" mentality. But, there definitely is some clothing out there that shows a bit too much. In the same way that women are made to feel like their bodies are too sexual to be seen, it seems to me that grown up clothes play off that same mentality by making all the clothes show things off. Seriously though, it makes me laugh because like when my parents were growing up the guys were wearing super short shorts. I wonder how distracting that was ... lol	Sexual	Gender - General	1/99	1.01
My old middle school had dress codes, but instead of sending you home they made you change into sweats clothing that read "Loner." Everyone would yell out Looooooner.... thus humiliating you.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/31	3.226
High school does not need to be a fashion show....I vote for uniforms. Its hard enough with all the hormones flying around at that age ....too much skin makes it worse....	Age	Age - General	1/30	3.333
80°f PE today running a mile in black sweat pants... that went over well	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/14	7.143

”Sweltering Heat of Summer,” I went to Senegal, Africa a few years ago. There it is immodest for males or female to wear pants or skirts that show even the shins. (for men it is more strict). For those who do not know Senegal is a tiny country near the ocean (the reason I say this is to aware those who are not familiar with the locations of African countries), so you can had add humidity into the mix of high 90’s to 100+ degree weather every day, and guess what. I wore pants (jeans specifically) everyday I was there, and it did not bother me; I also had long hair, and facial hair at the time, and i managed to live comfortably in a country hotter than most places in the U.S. (which happens to lack air conditioning almost every where, the only place I saw air conditioning was at a ”fancy” restaurant, and they had ceiling fans), just fine. On top of that I also went to a school (for kindergarten through 8th grade) which had a dress code preventing male or female students of any age or grade from wearing shorts. The males mandated to wear pants, shorts resulted in calling the parents to pick up the student and take them home to change, and girls had it only slightly easier as they were allowed to wear caprices or skirts that went below the knew. Despite nine years of this, no one died from the ”sweltering heat,” and complaints were few and far between, we all just got along. On a final note I had school friend who wore shorts to wear to PE one day, and he was immediately sent to the principal’ office and was told he needed to change back to his jeans for the entirety of the day with no exceptions and serve a one hour detention after school, because if he wore shorts he would be not only distracting the girls, but also making them tumble. So Laci, should I feel that I; and my male classmates; were being discriminated against, and objectified by my school, as we had a slightly more restrictive dress code than girls, but were also being told that our shins would make them stumble, or should I, as any sane person would, I not care as it is a moral basis which is completely subjective, and is dictated by the faculties of the school which should under most circumstances be perceived to have a more grounded and farseeing knowledge than the students?	African, Age	Age - General, Ethnicity - Black	2/425	0.471
Had to change into different pants during field day because my yoga pants were simply too distracting. Wore uniform shorts which slowed me down and made me feel even worse because of all the dry and red patches on my skin because of my eczema. I was so confused since it clearly said on the slip they give us about the day for the dress code it said it allowed yoga pants. I don’t see what the problem really is. Other girls wore the EXACT same yoga pants just not ones hugging your calves. What’s so wrong about calves?!	Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American	2/99	2.02

It's not sexism when boys are equally not allowed to wear short shorts and leggings. It's not fucking sexist at all.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/21	4.762
this chick is bae, she is an amazing speaker and she really does know what she's talking about.	Chick	Gender - General	1/18	5.556
You use sexual thumbnails and misleading titles to make money but complain about sexism yea fuck you lol	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	2/18	11.111
personally i find this nonsense incredibly insulting, i'm a man and unless its time for something like sex to occur, i woman walking down the street dressed like a victoria's secret model would not bother me, and it wouldn't certainly make me go suddenly mad with passion and rape her... at least give men some sort of credit we are not beasts who look at women like objects, in fact the majority of men do not treat women like objects and the only time i seem to hear women being reffered to as object is my bone headed feminists and cretins that follow them... and i can almost with certain fact that these things your talking about in your video come from women, not men... men don't care if some one wears yoga pants... or shows her arms or belly. no one cares, except other women...the problem is not men in this case but rather women thinking that men like skin and will act like beasts if we see it, WE WON'T. so stop insulting our gender and stop making yours look stupid...	Gender, Sex, Woman	Gender - General	3/183	1.639
If we have free dress day at my school. The boys can wear anything they want. While girls cand wear tank tops and there shorts have to be at least 5 inches above the knee. Both girls and boys cant wear hats. Im in 6 grade and apparently a shoulder and thighs are sexual .	Sexual	Gender - General	1/54	1.852
One day I went to school wearing a loosely knit sweater (you could see through the holes) with a tank top and bra underneath. I like my sweaters to be big on me as I find it comfortable. This one sweater would fall off one of my shoulder and if I wasn't checking my shoulders constantly the sleeves would fall to one side. I was sitting in my class room eating my lunch well reading a book. A female teacher came up to me and said I need to cover my shoulder. Being me I did so. She then went on saying that some of the things that girls were wearing on that (warm) day. Thinking back on it I found it quiet bad for a teacher to be bad mouthing other girls. Saying it was a distraction to both the male students and male staff. If an adult male was distracted by my shoulder and having sexual thoughts about these girls (12 - 13 at the time) then he should be the one in trouble.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/176	0.568

So lesbian women wouldn't be distracted either?Your bias is pretty epic.	Lesbian	Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	1/12	8.333
The idea that dress code mainly effects girls may be true, but the implication that this is due to sexism is absurd. How can you deny the fact that dress code violations are mostly committed by girls because boys don't dress in a revealing way? I agree that some of the comments bring this issue to a whole different level, and maybe this subject should not be brought up to children in lower level schools, but dress codes are essential to maintaining a professional environment that is conducive to learning when the students are mature enough to choose their own clothing. School isn't the rest of the world, and everyone, both boys and girls, needs to learn what is acceptable attire and what is not. To say that some of the clothing females wear is not provocative is ridiculous and you know it. It is not boys who think shoulders are distracting that is the problem. Having strapless or spaghetti strapped shirts exposes breasts in an unprofessional way, and, to say that girls are innocent and ignorant to the fact that showing these parts of her body is objectifying is frankly insulting to female's intelligence. Girls know that if they dress sexually, they will get(and expect to get) a sexual response. The same goes for boys; whether you like it or not, the human body is a sexual thing. You would feel the same way for a man with nice abs and tight shorts as a boy does for a female with exposed breasts and revealed butt, arousal is a biological and involuntary response. The only difference is that boys do not dress like that on a regular basis. These rules put in place by a dress code do not extend solely to girls. A boy I went to high school with was required to change because he wore a tank top-similar to one a girl would be reprimanded for. It is just a fact that boys do not wear the same short shorts and tight, revealing tops that girls do. If a boy was wearing booty shorts that blatantly revealed his penis, can you not agree that it would be a problem? The fact of the matter is this: school is preparation for the professional world, so, unless you believe that the clothing girls are being punished for would be acceptable to wear in a professional environment, there should be no issue with the schools having a completely reasonable business casual dress code.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	3/415	0.723
Courtney Steele HOW DARE YOU TRY TO PUT LOGIC INTO THIS!!!! LOGIC DOES NOT FEED INTO OUR VICTIM COMPLEX OF PATRIARCHY KEEPING WOMEN DOWN!!!!	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/24	4.167

Now i love Laci even if i don't rly like Feminism. But trust me, my wife works in midle schools, and girls start to grow and want to show it off. I was visiting once and all the young girls had camel toes. I couldn't listen to my wife talk! I know i'm shit for that and will burn in hell but i couldn't help it. My mind knew it was wrong but my body wasn't. I can not picture me day after day in there with them...i think i would go nuts! We are different boys and girls and i think we should accept that. Dress appropriately so not to bother one another. I don't think it's normal to see 11 and 12 year old girls in high heels and see through pants with thongs underneath, and nipples sticking through they'r shirts. And it also goes for the boys. I don't know what is not appropriate for boys to be dressed in...if anyone could give me examples i'd appreciated.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/169	0.592
When I was in high school my senior year a new superintendent came in and enforced a new dress code. We couldn't wear leggings, things with skulls on it, couldn't have multi tonal hair.... A bunch of stuff like that. Now do I think it was over the top? Yes. But my school never tried to used the "distraction" cop out. And boys had to dress just as modestly as girls. The idea wasn't to keep girls from dressing slutty it was to teach young adults how to dress professionally in the real world. Maybe I just went to a good school but I honestly was not aware this was happening in school like this.	Senior	Age - Over 65s	1/115	0.87
my high school was an all girls school and we still had a sudden change in the dress code for non uniform days (im from the uk so we have uniform) and we were told that we couldnt show our bra straps (no cami tops), legs, arms, chest or stomach without being sent home because it made THE MALE FACULTY uncomfortable! this school is for 12-16 year olds... the male faculty should not even think about girls in this way and if they do they shouldnt be teaching in an all girls school! yet we were told to change into our PE shorts if we were wearing any type of other shorts? the whole thing makes me feel a bit sick now, realising that apparently all male teachers sexualise 12 year old girls.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/133	0.752
laci you are missing the big picture entirely. first of all men and women both are treated poorly. secondly, there is a serious form of inequality in our world and its got nothing to do with genders but it is about money. we live in a broken society which is the cause of any inequality between genders, classes, etc. so if you only focus on a symptom such as the inequality women face, you will not actually be able to fix the problem. we humans have a serious problem when it comes to looking at all of the causes that achieve an effect and feminism is one example. i love you laci as i do all people regardless of gender, sexual orientation, race, religion, culture, class, beliefs, views, etc. i hope that everyone practices love, tolerance, and compassion towards everyone because this is the only way we will achieve a true and lasting change.	Gender, Nothing, Race, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	4/154	2.597

I want to say: "only in America" But yeah, I can't say that, even though I get the feel that Laci Green is living in a society that is very different from scandinavia, and not to get all racist on your asses, but that kind of sucks.Only and idiot would claim that girls are not supposed to dress the way they want, likewise, and (this is were it gets controversial) only an idiot would think that boys wouldn't run the risk of getting distracted by what their female classmates are wearing, Why this is somehow wrong, and girs pining over celebrity boys more successful than their classmates is ok, I don nott get.But regardless of your gender , dress how the fuck you want, wear whatever makes you feel good, and if people get distracted, it's their problem, not yours.	Gender, Racist	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	2/141	1.418
But is it a double standard? Do you think a boy wearing yoga pants would get in trouble as well? I remember when I was in school boys would get in trouble for baggy pants all the time. I have also got in trouble for haircuts that they decided where distracting. Are you sure you arnt just looking for sexism in a place that it isnt really?	Sexism	Gender - General	1/67	1.493
When I was in school the biggest thing was holes in our jeans at our knees. They said it was sexual and could cause guys to pay more attention to our knees. Jesus	Sexual	Gender - General	1/33	3.03
Hey guys, not trying to start an argument but rather a discussion. Here's my question to you:If a well known celebrity wears a revealing sexual outfit, is she in your opinion:a) Wearing what she wants, because she wants to wear that and she is free to do so.b) Encouraging the sexualisation of younger generations of girls, enforcing hypersexualisation.Can't wait to hear all your opinions on this! & please no fights, just healthy discussion. :-)	Sexual	Gender - General	1/79	1.266
You could not be more wrong. It is biology. Sex drives are natural and especially strong in teens, there is no need to provoke.	Sex	Gender - General	1/24	4.167
Im a 15 year old boy and girls will distract me whatever there wearing lol	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/15	6.667
A womans body is inherently sexual to most menBoys and men do not control their desire, they control their actions!A girls education should have nothing to do with whether she's allowed to show her legs or not. These boys are in control of their actions - it's still a distraction.	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/52	3.846

Short shorts and mini skirts, I can understand. Especially if the person has their ass half sticking out or panties showing from underneath. But spaghetti straps? Not that anyone really wears them anymore, but in what way is showing shoulder sexual ? (on an unrelated note, try saying that seven times fast). Guys aren't like "Daaamn girl, that's one fine lookin scapula you got there". In the past, yes - if a woman slipped the collar of her dress off, that was her way of saying "I want you", but that was more than a century ago - is that how old these people who made these rules are? Seriously teachers should focus more on teaching, that's why they were named that way. Whether its maths or english or the seriousness of rape culture in society, teaching is what they're being paid for, and what they should stick to.	Old, Sexual, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	3/148	2.027
LACI YOU'RE A FEMINAZI NOT A FUCKING FEMINIST.	Feminazi	Gender - Female intelligence	1/8	12.5
BlackVission it's also a danger to everyone around. My school never allowed heelies let alone roller skates. I remember someone did actually bring roller skates once and they were taken away.They are a distraction, that's y they should not be allowed. And honestly i think it is kind of a sexist issue if guys aren't allowed to wear leggings. It's a matter of how we treat one gender over the other so i think it does belong. The roller skates? well for one i don't think the comment before wanted anyone to pay attention to the gender more like they wanted to say it was not fair that one kid was able to wear roller skates yet they were not allowed to wear leggings. I think they were trying to say that wearing both of these things is a distraction and they should both be prohibited.	Gender	Gender - General	2/146	1.37
BlackVission What they are saying. Is a schools arguments for anything against their rules is "distracting" distracting, Something that takes away your attention. Their basically saying roller skates are also distracting as a person could be skating around in them, Falling, Skating around and hitting others then a quick escape, Etc. Things like that are also distracting.yet.its not against the regulation of their arguments always being "distracting" or a "safety hazard" which. in fact roller skates could be both distracting and a safety hazard.yetstill nothing against it xDThey were just using it as a example :)	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/101	0.99
EGnails When girls wear leggings they're exploiting men's sexual instincts. It's understandable.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/12	8.333

Jaquen H'ghar How are we exploiting mens sexual instincts by just wearing some leggings?Like, Not even the thin ass ones the girls use that are see through, But the tough stretchable ones and that stuff.	Sexual, Thin	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/36	5.556
Jaquen H'ghar No. No I am not. I'm fucking 14, And unlike the rest of this stupid generation of females, I'm not running around trying to get fucked by every guy I see, partying,smoking and drinking.That is the difference.I wear them because their comfortable, Jeans are okay too but I find the material less comfortable, Also leggings feel like pajamas to me xDDMine are also very stretchable and not see through, Not to mention thick as well, So it's not like the other one's the girls my age use v	Age	Age - General	1/93	1.075
Shut the fuck up yall were inappropriate clothing all the time and nothing happens but if I were a shirt that says fuck the police or any swear I'm suspended for three days or I get in trouble for sagging but I see a bitch were something up to her motha fucking eye Brows and nothing happens f yall want to wear that bull shit then I should be able to wear a shirt that says fuck the police	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	2/79	2.532
I think it's so stupid that showing non sexual body parts (INCLUDING BREASTS, because their purpose is to provide milk for a child) is shamed and over sexualized in society. I understand basic dress codes for school, but having girls totally cover themselves is totally idiotic. I couldn't have put it better into words than you, Laci	Sexual	Gender - General	1/57	1.754
Jan Di So my friends over. She wants to type a response to that. So here it is:Well billions of years ago boobs weren't even sexual , Especially since they were always covered up and never exposed. They were just meant to feed the babies the women had birthed and that was it. Then someone played around with boobs, thought it was fun, More people started doing it, And eventually it became sexual .(She's a weirdo . But, that's her response, Feel free to debate it)	Sexual, Weirdo	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/85	3.529
+Jan Di You just missed her xDAnyway.Yeah. Your right, My friend's just a weirdo like that xDDI'd send your response to her but she doesnt have skype or anything. And sadly. I can't text on my tablet xDD	Weirdo	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/41	2.439

I know, right? They can dress however they want. Their life not yours, teachers! Like you said, boys are always distracted. breasts, butts and sex . Nothing wrong with natural bodies people And why the hell wold shoulders be bad? Fucking idiot teacher's rules.	Nothing, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/43	4.651
Owlcheerforyou Aj For me, it's as long as the person dress reasonably. I mean, if you dress to school like Miley Cyrus, you should change. Those pictures in this video are just normal clothes, I They are shorts, which looks fine. As long as you cover your body in a reasonable manner such as your general private, and your breast. Man should not show their general "junk" are, or wear no shirt. That is the basic and common sense, anything else is unnecessary and stupid.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/85	1.176
But, still is it ok, that now girls are shamed? Back in the days NO shame (I mean like native americans) were not harassed about their breasts or junk? But it's 'not natural?' It is very VERY natural for woman to have junk!	Woman	Gender - General	1/43	2.326
+kairon156 I actually do not agree that men's bodies are not desired in the same way as women's body's. Look at the Old Spice commercials, " the man your man can smell like". It is later on said in a behind the scenes that "if you prefer Terry's commercials, it's because my commercials are for women." I know me, my mom, and my sister all appreciate watching these commercials, because his chest is bare. However, I believe that men do have to cover up their assets —their chests among other things. There is a reason some restaurants don't serve shirtless men.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/101	0.99
Yo I have question why do they say that the reason they tell girls to not dress like sluts is that boys are distracted that's not the reason its to dress appropriately look proper look like your going to school thats why don't know what school yall go to but I were I have to school that's been the answer the answer has never been boys are to distracted were did this come from also if they did there lying to you bcse that's not the reason its so you look proper like its come and sense and if your dumb enough to believe them well than that ur dumbass	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/110	0.909
Are women going to be happy when men have finally had enough of feminist blaming everything on men and refuse to date, Cohabitate with, or least of all marry women!As it is now marriage rates have been cut in HALF Over the last 10 years because guys fear false rape claims, losing their children and homes after a breakup, police ALWAYS arresting the guy when police are called even though half the domestic violence can be attributed to women. Sex is just not worth the risk. As older males know it is far cheaper to see a prostitute than risk losing everything you own if the woman trades up to a richer or better looking guy.	Sex, Woman	Gender - General	2/117	1.709

Living in the UK, all schools(primary,secondary and some nursery/receptions) have some sort of uniform, in the majority of schools the uniform between boys and girls differ by only small amounts usually, primarily school will give girls the options of skirts or trousers. And like anyone standard teenage growing up, will be 'distracted' by those who attract them, completely regardless of what they were. Not to mention there are far more annoying and distracting things at school teenagers have to deal with on a daily basis than made up crap like someone clothing is to revealing and is too distracting.I find it rather insulting that as a man I'm shown in this light by other idiots who cannot see beyond their own perverted mind to get on with whatever it is they're meant to be doing, such as actually teaching the next generation. Sure I'm a man and like most other men will often think of sexual stuff during the day but I'm no so pathetic I cannot keep it to myself and get on with my day as normal, any one who cannot should probably be seeking some help.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/190	0.526
Laci approves of 9 year old girls dressing like prostitutes. Smh double standards lot of boys can't go to school in tank tops and boxers silly slutty laci. You see why laci NEVER responses to videos calling her out on her BS coward.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/43	2.326
Did you hear the news? apparently Laci Green was beaten up by a group of young black thugs	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/18	5.556
"Men are never told that their legs, arms or stomachs are a problem for other people". Speak for yourself dear....I was told to stop practising kickboxing because the (all-female) pole dancing class in the other training room, separated with a semi-transparent glass panel wall, was getting distracted.That instructor actually got mad when I was surprised by being told that and then told her to sod off.Plus that despite my heterosexuality and near-permanent spoken-for status the past years, I've been tempted to print and hang up a sign saying "I'm gay . Quit showing off" on some days. Girls literally moved their poles over to the side of the room I was on the other side off, to be able to dangle upside down in front of me or others in the private practise times, trying to show off cleavage and stuff. It got awkward a lot of the time.One actually went so far as to walk in after her class was over and start looking and trying to start a conversation, disrupting my training. Dear, please fuck off, I'm here to learn proper technique, not to get chatted up by some bimbo who thinks pole dancing should be a core skill on her resume.Let's just say I was relieved when the kickboxing gym was moved to another part of the sports building.	Bimbo, Gay	Gender - Female intelligence, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	3/226	1.327

Your entire video defines men as uncontrollable, aggressive oppressors. It is better when shoulder parts are not exposed, since it is more formal, appropriate in a educational community. You create issues out of nothing . Exactly how feminists complain issues out of nothing for their own self benefit.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	2/47	4.255
I love how nobody mentions the sexist assumption that boys are Neanderthalic sex addicts that can't focus in the presence of a shoulder or thigh.	Nobody, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/25	8.0
At my school, we're just warned about what isn't appropriate to wear during the summer. But I guess it's because what some girls (Not most girls) choose to wear something that is extremely inappropriate for their specific age group or grade. It's super rare that someone will be kicked out for wearing "short shorts" because no one has worn very short shorts to the extreme. But yeah, I'm with these girls. That's really sexist	Age	Age - General	1/74	1.351
Please do a video on Freddie gray!! Its happening where i live, in baltimore and its getting really violent. It really needs to be discussed, people are getting the wrong idea. Today was supposed to be a day of peace and mourning for his funeral, but instead it took a turn for the worse when people started setting cars on fire, robbing and vandalizing stores, throwing rocks at police and etc. everyone is upset about Freddie Gray's death, but destroying our city and hurting innocent people is not the way to go about this! Please do a video on this so people know whats going on! Its very scary and i fear for my city, friends and family ): If some of you don't already know, Freddie Gray was a black male who was beaten and killed by police officers. This is a case of police brutality. At first there was wonderful, peaceful protests, but people lost their cause, and began vandalizing innocent areas.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/164	0.61
At my school leggings and yoga pants are banned and honestly, I agree with it. Girls wore leggings that were see-through (and yes, I can say mostly all of them) and you could easily tell what color panties they wore. They'd get told multiple times not to wear clothing like that in school but they'd wear it again anyways. After that yoga pants and leggings was banned (idk why yoga pants were though). We slowly moved into a uniform school too since they'd continue to wear the banned clothing and play it off as black skinny jeans. Goes to show why this can be a GOOD THING.	Black, Skinny	Ethnicity - Black, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/107	1.869

To heterosexual males... a woman's body is more sexual and/or attractive... Same thing goes for boys. Boy also get in trouble for various dress code violations, such as tank tops or saggy pants. Claim that only women are objectified in society is ignorant and anti equality, feminist my ass... Laci Green, do you want equality? Or men to be subservient?	Sexual	Gender - General	1/60	1.667
This chick is very closed minded. In my city guys can not wear blue or red shoe laces or pants because gang relation. Guys can not sag there pants for the same reason girls can not wear leggings as pants, because it is not cool to show your ass in public. This chick is one sided.	Chick, Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American, Gender - General	4/56	7.143
I hate how us men are described as being some predator when they say that women's choice of clothing is 'distracting'. Only the degenerates get distracted by such a thing. Here in the UK everyone has to follow a strict dress code, that does mean that women are not allowed to wear short skirts, crop top s and so on; That is also the same for men, we cannot wear tank tops or roll up our sleeves but yet it's only the women complaining. You argue that women should be allowed to expose what they see fit, I'll tell you that men have no problem with that but if you then start complaining about 'stare rape' and nonsense like that, then we have an issue. You cannot object to sexual objectification sexually. Double standards right there.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/136	0.735
She is ho	Ho	Gender - Female sexuality	1/3	33.333
Another feminazi , another dislike :)	Feminazi	Gender - Female intelligence	1/5	20.0
Females bodies are inherently sexual and visually triggering, Laci.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/9	11.111

When are you females going to get it through your thick heads that your bodies trigger a man visually?You won't ever understand, because you are female and you think that a guy wearing short shorts and a tank top is equal to a girl wearing the same clothing, please.Men have a little hormone called Testosterone, its the hormone that makes us want to kill animals to eat, kill other men to protect and generally the reason why we die earlier than females do. Its simply crazy to me that girls believe that men and women are COMPLETELY EQUAL IN ALL TERMS.....Bullshit, you have the babies, we bring food to the babies, end of fucking story.If you don't agree with the above, explain to me why we have the WNBA vs. NBA? WHOAAAA I thought women were EQUAL TO MEN???? Why aren't women competing in the NBA????	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/150	0.667
This video ticks me off because it sounds so stupid!! The dress code is for two reasons: 1. Dress professionally in a professional environment!! DUH!! Everyone knows that!! 2. Boys just have trouble with not looking sexualy at girls. The ONLY thing I agree with here is that girls ALSO have sexual feelings. I also agree that adminestraiton shouldn't say such hurtful things to girls like "You're a distraction!" "Cerntian dresses don't look good on certian girls." Slut shaming is wrong, but how should guys respect girls? Self dicsapline!! Self control!!	Sexual	Gender - General	1/91	1.099
Yeah I don't think that Laci was trying to say that the boys are the problem, people in the comments, I think she's saying the administration is the issue, it is nowhere near the male pupils fault if they are allowed to get away with risqué attire it is the dress code's fault. And the main issue is that we see this everywhere, even in different countries, I'm British and we have school uniform but I'm in sixth form so we're allowed to wear anything as long as it is suitable for a very professional business environment, suits, blazers, ties etcetera. but then there is the girls' dress code, blazer/cardigan, blouse/professional jumper and KNEE LENGTH skirts. The reason I put emphasis on knee length is that you can be completely modest as long as it is not a mini skirt basically and yet there are constantly assemblies moaning at the girls for their attire when teachers are strutting around flashing all kinds of knee to the students.I don't think it's fair to tell the boys that we are sexual predators and I don't think it's fair to inconvenience girls. But what I think is most unfair is that they introduced a no-tight-trouser policy to the boys, like, this is regression in equality. Okay so we're both restricted now and both called sexual deviants so it's equality but it's very far from the right direction to go about it.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/239	0.837

I remember my junior year math teacher had big boobs and I couldn't concentrate worth of shit because of her revealing cloths. I hate it when females and white knights who literarily won't hide their feelings about every little thing a female thinks is wrong but will hide their sexual urges, tell me I should of over came this. I remember the only thing I cared about was girls, girls, girls, girls. Thank god for dress code.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/77	1.299
In my school, some boys wear shirts showing their chest and their sides because the sleeves are down to their torsos and nobody bats an eye. But oh, when I (and more than likely other girls) that have a bra strap (unintentionally) showing or something like that, some teachers have tell me that I shouldn't be showing my bra straps or else I will possibly get ISS for it. I mean, we're talking a freaking BRA STRAP that BARELY exposes anything. And the boys NEVER get in trouble for wearing a shirt that basically makes them look shirtless that's ACTUALLY distracting unlike the bra straps.. our society is so messed up - -	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/112	0.893
So all women and girls K-12 should be allowed to go to school in their underwear, a bikini, or nothing at all, so long as they are "happy and comfortable" in what they are wearing? Parents and school faculty opinions be damned I suppose? Come on Laci, you have to be smarter than this.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/54	1.852
Joe Puffenbarger II I'm not sure that shorts or ripped jeans are equal to wearing absolutely NOTHING .	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/17	5.882
Yes, all those things yes. There is nothing wrong with wearing underwear, a bikini or nudity there is only societal norms against that.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/23	4.348
Ptjklmyn. There is nothing wrong with wearing only your underwear or wearing nothing at all, but there is a proper place for that. There are places where that is not acceptable, and school is one of those places.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	2/38	5.263
chosen direction limit it? you need to adhere to society rules, need to adhere to school rules, employers rules, apatment or house rules. you are not a special snowflake and you do not have special rules that you can ignore. I am tired of the special snowflake syndrom of this gen y.	Snowflake	Ideological and Political Identity - General	2/51	3.922

Stacey Stankowski no what I am saying is that guys get in trouble and due to a lifetime ofg etting into trouble without double standards they expect not to get infinite chances. Girls are taught that they have double standards benefitting them and that they can always talk their way out of trouble. So when girls get in trouble its a bigger deal to them than boys getting into trouble because boys are used to it, girls are not due to the double standards benefitting females over males in the society we live in today.And we have dishonest sexists like Laci Green here telling female that whenever they get into trouble its the patriarchy opressing them instead of telling them to accept the consequences of their own actions like males are taught from birth to do.	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/137	0.73
degen83 I think on top of gender, race is a factor in the double standard thing. As a biracial female, I have learned not to expect a whole ton of second chances because of prejudice. I think it entire depends on the person and if they take responsibility for their own actions rather than generalizing an entire group of people. I know guys that never learn from their mistakes same as girls so saying something something is true for all guys or girls really isn't fair to say.	Gender, Race	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	2/88	2.273
Stacey Stankowski except as a non white male you get all the privilege, all the chances, get jobs and schooling and access to finances that white males just do not get from the state and private beneficiaries. It isn't white males opressing anyone, but this stupid racist sexist country is so busy fighting the battles of yesteryear to realize how they are screwing over the current generation.	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/67	1.493

degen83 we're still fighting those battles because the war isn't over yet. You must be a white male if can seriously say that they aren't oppressing anyone. I think of Donald Trump, Scott Walker, and countless others. The Confederate Flag still flies and all-black colleges have to be fenced in with barbed wire and take extreme security measures because there are still crimes against black citizens. Tony Robinson, Charleston and the fact that BlackLivesMatter needs to exist are all signs of racial oppression in 2015. African Americans, Latinos, Asians, you name it don't get the same job opportunities as Caucasians which can be seen in government. The vast majority of people in office are white males. People are less likely to be hired if they have an ethnic sounding name. Women still don't get paid as much as men and still have to fight for social rights because of rape culture and that the female body is sexualized more than that of a man. Women can't walk around topless because media, especially porn, view women's' breasts as sexual objects rather than things that give life to children so the rest of society follows suit. Not too long ago it was illegal for men to go topless and so it's about time that women can too. In Indigenous countries, women could go topless because the men didn't have an issue with it until the white missionaries showed up. As you can see, the war is far from over.	African, Black, Ethnic, Sexual	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	4/247	1.619
--	--------------------------------	--	-------	-------

Stacey Stankowski The Confederate flag ain't racist, you dishonor the thousands of free blacks that willingly fought on the Confederate side. Its only racists that think its racist. The only reason its a big topic now is because Barrack Obama wants to distract you from the numerous black on white beatings that go on in the USA each day that the media censors at his request, to give us a talking point so we don't complain about his breaching of the US government by trying to force through through his wishes in direct violation of the US constitution. But anyone who brings this up must be a racist, right?You are sheep. You buy into their lies, hook line and sinker. You are told you are an eternal victim so that is what you think. How can blacks be victims when they commit 5 times as many interracial assaults as whites? 560,000 whites were victims to assaults by blacks in 2013, and only 56,000 blacks were victims to whites. So how you gonna claim victimhood?64 of females will go to college now. The average college class makeup is 64 female 36 male, and the number is projected to be even more lopsided in the future. The trend of focusing SOLELY on female education at the direct expense of males is continuing despite the statistics show that females are in a position of privilege now with college degrees. There is no gender pay gap as sa result of discrimination. The gender pay gap between the same exact job is 3-7 depending on the job, at most, and in some fields females make up to 8 MORE THAN MALES do.But since facts do not fit into your notion of victimhood, you'll just ignore this and not even look up these facts or do any research on the contrary. I have lived a harder life than most blacks have, and I'm white. What do you know about not having food to eat? Nothing, you can go to the store with EBT no problem. What do you know about being attacked because you are the only person of your skin color somewher? Nothing, because whites do not attack blacks anymore but black attacks on whites is a huge disrprotionate number. What you know about being victim of racism? Rel talk, what the fuck have you been through with whites being racist to you? Because the life I've lived the only victims of racism are white and the only perpetrators of racism are black, yet blacks scream victim the most and the racist government lets you play the race card.I have no white guilt, so fuck that race card and fuck that female card. I grew up and it was my sisters that got that double standard benefits, not me. IT was always at my expense. Same with all my friends.I have never seen the male child get treated better than a female child. That is becuse in modern times in the USa and western countries women are not opressed. In fact it is turning into females oppressing males.	Black, Gender, Nothing, Race, Racism, Racist	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	17/518	3.282
--	--	--	--------	-------

No you dumb fuck..She didn't say that...If you actually listened you mentioned guide lines...For like not doing that.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/18	5.556
--	------	---	------	-------

From my experience in public high school, never had I been told that it is okay to "be disrespectful" or "misbehave" if a girl was dressed inappropriately. I would be punished regardless is I had misbehaved against another boy in the exact same manner as if I had misbehaved against a girl. Actually that statement is false, if I misbehaved against a girl I would most likely be punished much more severely. It is common sense that boys are in fact responsible for their actions, teachers are not ingraining in young boys minds that they have the right to mistreat anyone EVER. Why? Because it is morally wrong to do so and is shameful not only upon that child but more importantly on the guardians of that child even if they had not taught him to do such a thing. Another point, men are attracted to women, women are attracted to women, the media using women in order to advertise products makes sense. They portray what the general populous is attracted to in order to make you want to purchase goods. It is a simple marketing strategy and is so far extremely effective. Also, the people most likely to "slut-shame" or attack a woman's own body image is in fact another woman with a higher social standing or any perceived higher standing. Another thing that bothered me was the image of yoga pants compared to a muscle tee, I have never seen a girl be sent home for wearing a muscle tee, though I do agree that shirts with the sides cutout should be universally against the dress code. I believe dress codes are appropriate in schools, I believe that of all the places to be bombarded with multiple messages some of which can cause fallacies in one's own logic such as the case with many high schoolers drinking cans and cans of energy drinks which are extremely unhealthy for them because they believe it is cool, school should not be another one of these places. No one is sending girls home for wearing a knee-length summer dress, or shorts that actually go down to their knees, or for clothing that is not extremely revealing. Other than the occasional guy who wears shirts without sides guys themselves do not wear extremely revealing clothing. No one is stopping you from wearing a sports tee or some such article of clothing. What is not allowed is shorts that ride to the tops of girl's thighs, which coincidentally guys usually will not be wearing. No one is allowing guys to mistreat, shame, or sexually abuse women, that is wrong and it should never happen. It is not taught to anyone, however there are people who do it, like there are women who do it. It is not a gender issue it is individuals. To say all men are uncontrollable pigs who are taught they do not need self control is insulting and fundamentally incorrect and misguided. Generally speaking if there is a double standard it is in the protection of women. Because if a man were to be abusing a woman almost every decent person in the vicinity would come to her aid, but if it were a man being abused by a woman who is in fact his equal by law, no one would help him, no one would tell her that she is wrong in what she is doing and that she should stop. Why? Because she is a woman and he is man, they would most likely snicker at the sight of a boy being abused by a girl or a man being abused by a woman.	Common, Gender, PIGS, Woman	Gender - General, Nationality - Southern European, Social Class - Working class	8/607	1.318
---	-----------------------------	---	-------	-------

A black man got taxed to death today.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/8	12.5
I am a thirteen-going-on-fourteen girl in 8th grade. Last week at school, I wore an open flannel overshirt with a solid tank top underneath. The shirt was what could be mistaken as a boy's shirt but was actually of a girl's tank and the flannel was unisex. The shirt top was carved a bit low, so at times it showed glimpses of the top of my cleavage, like a low cut men's v-neck would. As I was standing up when the bell rang after one of my classes, I dropped my pencil and bent down to pick it up. The shirt rode up and the top was pushed a bit down. My pants were super skinny jeans. There were boys behind and in front of me. When I bent down, they started to wolf whistle and cat call me. One boy called out the question that if I was wearing my last night's conquest's shirts. I instantly turned to the teacher, who had clearly heard, but he said that it was my fault for wearing such revealing clothes. He added, to the satisfaction of the boys, that I should not be partaking in sexual activities at such a young age and if I was, then what was my reason to complain for wearing my "partner's" clothing the day afterward. The boys got in no trouble. I was humiliated and the boys have continued to hit on me in that class. The teacher refuses to move my seat. I have tried to bring this to the attention of my principal, but he is "too busy to deal with the county's issues and I should just contact the county themselves or learn to follow the rules."	Age, Sexual, Skinny	Age - General, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/284	1.056
Please. This is more than compensated for once men and women hit the workplace. Women can wear dress shorts and capris. I'm all for schools outlawing yoga pants tho because those used to be called leotards and nobody would've ever worn them with nothing but a shirt. Never realized so many people took issue with schools trying to ensure girls aren't looking slutty when parents fail.	Nobody, Nothing	Age - Youngsters	2/66	3.03

In my school I remember the girls skirts had to be below the knee. I didn't think it was because they were sexual objects at the time, I just thought it was trying to keep with the schools tradition, like the boys having to have a tie long enough to show at least 13 stripes. Cant speak for how the girls may have experienced it though, except it is blatant that there has to be some kind of limit, it would be naive to think that sometimes some women like to perhaps have their skirt a little more revealing when just feeling confident. The nature of youth is about pushing boundaries and that is often a key component of sexuality, the hard thing is to put in rules that are easy to follow and don't require teachers resorting to a tape measure in the playground or remembering a long list of banned items.As with this, America would probably solve a lot of its gang problems too with school uniforms in the UK the school becomes your gang and going round to other schools to beat the shit out of their kids ends when you leave school.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/197	0.508
Floweringlotus +++++ In one school near me, not common the rule is that the girls skirts have to be above the knee!!! and its an all girls school?	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/28	3.571
He this video is ABSOLUTELY stupid. I am a middle schooler and I have seen boys and they always get distracted by girls. What IS the problem is that GIRLS, enjoy teasing boys in the first place. I have heard many confessions that actually have stated this. Some uniform policies are stupid, but frankly they need to stop this Disgusting American "CULTURE" of sex and only sex .	Sex	Gender - General	2/67	2.985
Ladies and gentleman there is a serious epidemic going on right now. Cops are killing black people . This does not matter if dress codes affect people though. Thanks to laci green for flipping out when an asshole sexually assaults women but not when Blacks get killed. Unsubscribe!	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/48	2.083
Laci, I Don't Know if you already have, but can you do a sex education video for kids? My little sister keeps asking what it means and what periods are, but I don't want to tell her, and since she's fostered she doesn't wanna tell my parents. Could you do a video that I could show to her??	Sex	Gender - General	1/58	1.724
One time this guy came in in short shorts. It wasn't distracting at all. Suck it up. I'm into girls too, and nothing that they do is going to "distract me". They could come in wearing bondage and I wouldn't griffin blink an eye.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/44	2.273

Don't even get me started on the dress code issue (especially considering I went to a private school, which is a whole other oppression issue all together) but honestly, I absolutely love to dress to show off my body (I love wearing push up bras and low cut dresses in the summer), I love my mini skirts, I love my 6 inch heels, but I love it because I FEEL COMFORTABLE IN IT! I'm not dressing to get attention from guys, girls, or otherwise. I'm dressing because it's something in my style, that I like. There is nothing forcing you to look at my shoulder, leg, or whatever, regardless of if I have a piece of fabric on it or not. If you wanna look? Fine, go ahead. If you don't wanna look? Fine, keep your comments to yourself and keep walking. Have I gotten accused of being a slut because of how I dress in the summer? Sure. But last time, just because a girl likes to show off her skin, doesn't mean she's a slut. What's the difference if I have a mini skater dress showing off my legs and boobs at a park, or if I'm walking around in a bikini on the beach? Why is one deemed normal, and the other is deemed as "slutty"?	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/219	0.457
I think, for dress codes, girls are the ones who generally dress to be attractive (even if only to themselves). Boys, on the other hand, tend not to care how they dress, and dress more for the impression they make on other guys, if they dress for any reason. If boys dressed in such a way to flatter body parts, and stylishly, I can definitely say I would have been distracted in high school. Hell, going to college I'm distracted when I see a well-dressed guy in the hall, I'll outright rubberneck.I think this comes down to a few problems:1. Female clothes tend to be shorter, tighter, etc.2. Females care about their appearance more often, and humans are sexual creatures. Combined, especially in the young, this is not a good thing (this also goes with 1, because a girl either sacrifices style, comfort, or modesty).3. Males standards of beauty rarely matter to the average guy. (they tend to worry more about their muscles, or something)4. If girls dress like boys do, all sorts of negative conclusions are drawn (she's a slob, she's a lesbian , etc.)	Lesbian, Sexual	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	2/190	1.053
ok the dress code is needed but to what point in 6th grade i dyed my hair and got in trouble i went to class almost every girl had there hair dye ( if my hair being dyed is going distract someone how are they not going to pink is so much more distracting then black and white)	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/58	1.724

One of my close friends was told by our assistant principal that her shorts were too short after being informed by two younger students that she was wearing shorts. Her behind was completely covered by her dress shirt (we were dressed up for our senior breakfast, most of us wearing warm weather clothing because it was 90 degrees outside and my school did not have air conditioning) and her legs were the only thing showing. When my friend tried to explain why she was wearing shorts my assistant principal interrupted her with "Your senior breakfast is no reason to dress like a little whore." She did not make my friend go home, but she ruined a day meant to be fun and joyful with her disgustingly old fashioned and closed minded mouth of hers.	Old, Senior	Age - Over 65s	3/134	2.239
Here in Australia, I can understand on casual days why they won't allow you to wear tank tops (cause of sun protection) but shorts? At my school we have the rule that they can't be any shorter than your finger tips. Who wants to wear shorts that long? But yeah, the spaghetti strap thing in other countries, fricking ridiculous. Track pants (yoga pants) are fine but I can kinda see why leggings might not be as acceptable. But girls should be allowed to wear them, as long as their shirt covers their bum .	Bum	Social Class - Destitute	1/93	1.075

I want to do an experiment. You don't have to physically do anything, or reply to this comment in any way, shape, or form. I simply wish for you to consider the situation I'm about to put before you, as well as your thoughts on each situation.in this experiment, we're applying these ideas liberally, so Channing Tatum, Rob Ford, and every man and boy in between could, potentially, dress in these ways, as well as be afforded and maintain legal and social protections similar to those currently afforded to women and girls in most civilized "westernized" societiesIt would be interesting if there were a way for guys to "dress like sluts". And I don't mean like having a man dress in stereotypical "slutty girl clothes". I mean to have clothing tailored in specific ways, and made with specific fabrics, to accentuate parts of the male body that females find most desirable and visually appealing. Imagine if there were a similar anti-shaming, pro-body movement for men and boys, and, to hell with it, let's say men and boys did start dressing in stereotypical "slutty girl clothes".So, imagine guys wearing yoga pants and leggings as pants themselves, with no fear of social backlash or ridicule from other guys. Imagine a boy being suspended from school because his yoga pants were "distracting" other students.Imagine some guy coming up with a discrimination lawsuit for being fired over his "too short mini-skirt", with co-workers and colleagues calling his outfit "distracting". He wore underwear, as well as taking other steps to ensure his penis was never plainly visible (because it would clearly be violation for it to be poking out, uncovered, from under said skirt, but, even with all that said and considered, what would it matter if he wasn't wearing underwear? why is anyone looking there anyway?). He fails to see any issue, and claims he's being discriminated against.Imagine a guy coming up with a discrimination lawsuit for being fired over his refusal to wear any shirt. His argument being "Since there is no noted biological use or function for male breast tissue and/or nipples, and there is nothing about the male upper torso that is overtly, or socially observed, as being sexual, or sexualized, in nature, there is no real reason to wear an upper body cover, unless to shield the physical self from injury." Since he works in a department store, and thus his body is not subject to circumstances which would normally, and regularly, put his physical person at risk of injury (unlike, say, a TIG/MIG welder because of flying sparks) he feels a shirt is completely unnecessary, as well as feeling requests for him to put on a shirt are people being oppressive, as he feels it's a form of subconscious and/or passive aggressive body shaming. Imagine a man arguing for his "right" to wear nothing but a loincloth, in public, as the only part of his body that is sexual in nature, and is publicly observable as being sexualized, is his penis, which the cloth covers. He feels any explanations or reasons for why he should not dress in anything more than a loin cloth is oppression through body shaming.As a matter of public health concern, we'll have it stated that there must be a piece of fabric separating one's bottom from surfaces others may touch. Things like seats on a bus/subway/public transportation, or public seating of any kind, for example.Imagine if there was something similar to a push-up bra, or padded bra, for guys' penises. Guys'	Body Shaming, Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Physical Identity - General	6/731	0.821
--	-------------------------------	---	-------	-------

At my school everything has to be below the knee. A girl got dress coded for having her dress at the knee not below it. Thats how crazy the staff are. I feel like I'm living in the fifties.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/39	2.564
Bangkok McGee The fact that you went to my google plus page to find my comments is creepy. You went out of your way to find where I was commenting specifically to respond. That's weird .	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/35	2.857
Bangkok McGee You went to my profile to find where I comment. You're like a youtube stalker. Yes, now I have invited you to do so because I want to see the extent of how far out of your way you'll go to respond to me. It's weird , you know it's weird .	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/52	3.846
Bangkok McGee You're quoting something that was never said. And inviting you happened after you've already decided to follow me around. You could stop now and be relatively creepy or you could keep going and be a full blown weirdo .	Weirdo	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/40	2.5
uncontrollable male desire in little boys? only girls have issues? only girls are told not to misbehave? dumb bitch	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/19	5.263

I completely agree with this video. I personally have an even more extreme opinion, and I'm not trolling about this...you can see my other comments and my blog. I believe that there should be zero dress code. In my opinion, you shouldn't even need to cover your genitals, because it's your body, and it's none of the other people's business. This is because I don't get distracted too much by naked bodies. I've done many life drawing classes, and nude bodies don't distract me that much. I'm sure other people can train themselves to ignore nudity as well. It's all in the mind. Deal with it.I'm not sure about my views towards dress code for minors though. Since they don't have full consent on what they should wear, nor the knowledge to properly take responsibility for their dress, I think that people below the age of 18 should wear underpants that covers at least part of their genitals. Topless is okay only if both parents allows it.My other problem is for consumer service staff. If they are naked, then it would be hard to find someone to help me if I have a question in Walmart, because how do we find we distinguish the workers from the customers in Walmart? I believe that customer service workers should have a necklace around their necks to distinguish themselves as employees. I don't think anything else is required though.I do understand that it is easier to accidentally touch my genitals if I'm naked. That's okay though, I'm flexible like that. What other people do is not my business, as long as they are not grinding against me in the metro. Accidental finger to anal penetration is not acceptable, because how the heck do you "accidentally" penetrate my butt with your fingers?People get injured due to lack of protective clothing should be responsible for things that happen to them. For example, if you walk into a construction site with no helmet, and something falls on your head, you should be responsible for it. Same thing for motorcycling and helmet. If you have an accident while on your bike, and you weren't wearing any helmet, don't expect medical treatment. Because, you are responsible for your own safety. You can't expect society to protect you if you don't take preliminary steps to protect yourself, like installing a functional fire alarm.I know things might get a bit hairy (pun intended) if we have no dress code, but some risk is worth the price of freedom. We can't have true freedom without risk.I'm against sexual activities in public. No deliberate genital contact in public. It's okay if you rub your own breasts though. Kissing is okay too.	Age, Sexual, Zero	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/455	0.659
--	-------------------	---	-------	-------

Maybe things have changed since I was in high school, but I don't remember any guys wearing short shorts, low cut shirts, spaghetti straps, or midriff shirts. At my school, social pressure alone would have eviscerated any male who dressed 'provocatively' or in 'revealing' clothes. That said, there are issues with the way these things are handled and its completely ridiculous. It's absurd to hold girls only assemblies for these things, to shame girls in front of their classes, or force them to change without parent's knowledge. I think everyone should be allowed to wear whatever they want. But I also understand if schools don't want people going to class in a bikini. I think these policies have become more sexist in appearance, because of a more underlying sense of gender norms that are unfair to BOTH sides.	Gender	Gender - General	1/138	0.725
U are all idiots u say sexist I say protecting woman from getting raped. So is u dont believe me look up how many rapes we got this year more than 1 i can tell u that and these girl were very hot wearing inappropriate clothing walkn to school so if u have a problem tell the principal stop posting it on YouTube and do something in your life	Woman	Gender - General	1/69	1.449
i just wanna shove my foot in your mouth and kick until theres nothing left of your head	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/18	5.556
we have been on the moon, and we are close to same sex couples conceiving children on their own, but yet a 15 year old girl can't wear shorts to school because some gross boy will jizz on his pants if he sees thighs.	Old, Sex	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/44	4.545
i wore one of those sport jackets that have the turtleneck type collar and long sleeves paired with leggings and tennis shoes once because i felt extremely uncomfortable due to period pains and i didnt feel like wearing jeans that day and i got stopped on my way to my guidance counselor, whom i see for mental issues, and was told to put my fingers down and since my shirt didnt go past my fingertips, i had to change. i stood in the front office for 40 minutes, waiting for my mom to bring shorts from work, and i missed my appointment with my counselor, and then i was forced to wear sweatpants that were ripped, stained, and about 3 sizes too big. when i asked why, the principal told me i was "too revealing", in my completely black outfit which covered every part of my skin except for my face and hands.	Black, Mental	Ethnicity - Black, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/153	1.307

I just have to say i feel like the term "sexist" is only ever applied to men, I see all of what you're saying BUT and a big BUT (and not in an objectifying way) I think that you kind of are saying that we are not subject to sexism . Do you know how many people just expect me to be some sexist, sportplaying, meatloving (meats good dont get me wrong), objectifying, amoral pig and it really hurts. I think being expected to be the "male" stereotype is just as hurtful as people actually being sexist to girls. I, like a lot of these girls, just want a chance to be a person without being crammed into a mold or assumed to be what I very much am not. I'm not trying to be mean I'm just saying males are treated with just as much prejudice as females.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/148	0.676
Is She One Of Those Girls Who Swears There Crazy Smart And Never STFU????	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/14	7.143
Feminazi idiots.	Feminazi	Gender - Female intelligence	1/2	50.0
2:13 I think society should start objectifying men a lot more, maybe take the pressure off women a bit. How horrible it would be, to just be seen as a sexual object by women...the cat-calls...the self-esteem boost...the endless offers of free sex & gifts for no reason other than me being hot....THE HORROR!!! I think everyone should be required to wear a burqa, that's the only true way to protect people's fragile self-esteems AND from being objectified. I mean sure "cute outfits" will be a thing of the past, but it's a small price to pay for no more objectification right? Thanks for reading, and enjoy your day!	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	2/108	1.852
in 8th grade, my friend got in trouble for wearing "short shorts". many people were getting in trouble for the same thing and also "spaghetti straps". my friend and i put posters up, similar to the ones shown. we got compared to neo-nazis by our principal and i had to miss two class periods being told why what we did was wrong. meanwhile, a kid in one of my classes wore a shirt that said "cool story babe, now make me a sandwich " and my teacher COMPLIMENTED HIM AND TOLD HIM IT WAS HILARIOUS. i feel like that's more of a distraction than what girls wore, and its sexist too!! i'm so mad at that school.	Make me a sandwich	Gender - Female intelligence	1/116	0.862

Fun story; when I was in seventh grade, only 13, I went to a middle school twelve miles and half an hour away from my home. I was sent to the office for wearing a tank top because, 'Oh, your straps are too thin , you're showing too much skin.' So I had to call my dad and tell him to drive all the way there, and all the way back with a "less revealing shirt", about 25 miles in total, not to mention the other 50 to get my brother and I there and pick us up, simply because they were catering to the boys and sexualizing me, a 13 year old girl. I got in trouble for wearing another "too thin straps" tank top just a few months ago, due to my lovely, but super religious and unknowingly sexist female Science teacher. Oh, how American schools are fucking fun. Just for that, I'm wearing a tank top to school on the 20th (Monday,) before I skip school to meet Connor Franta on the 21st. I am going out with a bang.	Old, Thin	Age - Over 65s, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/182	1.648
People are idiots, nothing new.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/5	20.0
If they'd want to be honest they'd establish uniforms.I believe that men and boys, especially if they just got out of their diapers, are able to control themselves. You may say that they go crazy on hormones, but that goes for everyone in their teens, not just guys. Also even teens on their " crazy crazy hormones" are able to think and maintain their self control.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/66	3.03
Hell you think im joking bouth the shirtles niggas? A teacher straight up let the nigga in to school in compression shorts and shirtles. Now Laci Green thats sexim to the max	Nigga	Ethnicity - Black	1/32	3.125
Now that i think of it there was recently a riot at the high school in my district because of some new hall pass thing,i feel like this could start an actual real riot like flipping over cars and starting things on fire witch i would really like to join in on	Witch	Gender - Female age and physical appearance	1/52	1.923

I think i will provide something from my own life here maybe it will be useful for someone else. For 9th and 10th grade I went to high school class as a guy and for 11th and 12 i went as a female if you dont get whats going on then dont worry.I think the double standard largely exists depending on the age group during school girls are picked on more by school admin but in the work life men are more picked on. I have worked at many places were men are not allowed to wear shorts (period). Depending on the title he holds he has to wear a collared shirt among other things.Now during school times I think the double standard has parts were it make sense. There are some shorts were the shorts are just too short for school. I call it the your pockets are longer then your shorts. I think there are the guys in schools that try to make them selves seem sexy wear self cut/made tank tops, but I also think there is an entire division of young men that tell each other "dude what the fuck are you wearing" an example of that is many guys at the school i went to would not wear shirts that would expose there stomachs if they raised there arms.	Age	Age - General	1/226	0.442
I think Girls need to be educated about advertising. what I mean by that is if you dress sexy you are advertising sex and therefore are going to get men looking for that, if you dress beautifully you will get men looking for long term relationship and if you dress casually you will draw men looking for something more casual ( I.E. friendship or saying that your not looking for a relationship..) same goes for men too. this is not to say that only those type of guys will show but it will have a stronger pull on those type of guys. the way you dress does affect the type of people you come into contact with, among many other factors, so one should keep that in mind when they decide on what to put on.	Sex	Gender - General	1/136	0.735
Society doesn't have to tell boys that girl's bodies are sexual regardless of context. That's just the way the male brain is designed. A certain context isn't needed for a girl's body to be sexual , in our minds it just inherently is.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/42	4.762
Id bet A LOT of money that most of these administrators that are cracking these dress code whips are women, so where the hell is the sexism , you woman/feminists/equal rights advocates or whatever you guys are is totally cool with me, but you ladies are cut throat, sure men have a lot of room to progress but don't just dwell on men/boys because all you end up doing is shifting the blame.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/72	1.389

Ok, though I see where she is coming from, and I definitely think that showing a shoulder is absolutely NOTHING to get worried about at all, I think calling it sexism may be a bit over the top. Yes, it is mostly focused toward girls and most of it is complete over kill, however, almost all of the dress code rules (in my school anyway) were implemented and enforced by female staff. I find it hard to point at something like that and call it demeaning sexism when it is women who are making these rules and regulations FOR young women. Maybe i just dont understand because i'm a guy idk.	Nothing, Sexism	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/111	2.703
If you disobey the dress code (which is insanely sexist) at my school, girls are forced to wear these hideous black trousers or a white shirt (depending on what's "inappropriate"). You have to wear them for the rest of the day, and give them back the next day, also receiving a detention. Boys do not have to change anything they wear. Last month I got picked out for wearing a corset OVER A T SHIRT, and an almost knee length skirt, with ripped tights. Hardly provocative. So the minute I was out of sight, I took off the school trousers and sewed the bottoms up so that you couldn't put your feet in them! I then stapled a three page essay to them about why the dress code is sexist, and handed them in the next day. It is safe to say that the school was not happy XD	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/149	0.671
I got told off today about wearing thigh high socks. I have to wear a uniform so they were black with a skirt. According to my school it's 'inappropriate '	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/30	3.333
Unpopular opinion hereI feel that there should be a dress code for everyone. Male, female, gender neutral, you name it. Since, yes, everyone is distracted. But this raises the talk on, "You can wear what ever you want, how you want as long as you're comfortable". Personally, I try to think of common decency. For example, if I'm on a train, I don't want to see some girls ass hanging out from their tine skirt. NOR do I want to see some guy's pants sagging to the point I could swipe my credit card between their cheeks.	Common, Gender	Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	2/98	2.041
What planet are we on?....Oh yea the one where Testosterone induced men do bad things. Woman 's self images are a separate issue but none the less important. Just acknowledging we are smart humans doesn't at all offer any solution. But....there has got to be a strategy where woman can have positive self images and men can do some thing positive with their penises.	Woman	Gender - General	1/63	1.587
On the topic of body shaming , it should also be noted that often times at my school, girls who are either bigger and/or taller get in trouble for wearing shorts/skirts that are perfectly fine, even within the dress code, while shorter and/or thinner girls get away with wearing clothing that does violate the dress code.	Body Shaming	Physical Identity - General	1/55	1.818

Have you thought maybe once in your life that dress codes aren't ALWAYS about mens sexual urges? At my school athletic shorts are prohibited for everyone and it used to be a rule that boys couldn't wear any shorts during the winter (Women could only wear skirts during winter) because it WAS MORE FORMAL. In the real world if you came in to a job interview or to work with athletic shorts you'd be shown the door immediately.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/78	1.282
This is why America is far from gender equality and makes us an easy target for religious fundamentalists.	Gender	Gender - General	1/18	5.556
I'm from Florida and I'm in 7th grade. It's been getting hot lately, considering it's coming closer to summer and Florida weather can be VERY hot. At my school, we're not allowed to wear shorts, only jeans and skirts, and I only wear jeans because I don't really like skirts, and considering it is getting hot, I've been rolling my jeans up at the ankles, and they've never been up farther than 2 inches. But the thing is, I've been stopped in the middle of the halls and also during class for this, and a few times I've been stopped by the principle. She told me to roll them down because, and I quote, "having your pants rolled up like that at school is distracting and is considered defiance" can someone please tell me, how a 13 year old girls ankles are DISTRACTING? I'm actually curious as to how many guys are walking by my in the halls and thinking "damn girl you got some fine ass ankles I'd tap that" oh, but wait, that's DOESNT HAPPEN. so could someone please tell me what's so bad about this and why my ankles showing are more important than my education?	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/199	0.503
To all the girls commenting on guys having self control need to realise there are some genuinley messed up people out there and give alot of us guys a bad rep, but to be fair you have to think of it like when you say guys should control themselves, what if your dream crush came to your school in revealing clothes, be honest here girls you would look :D i aint giving anyone shit but gender equality is gunna have to start happening real soon cos girls and guys are the same :D	Gender	Gender - General	1/93	1.075

So, here's a bit of a counterpoint to the latest "Crisis" of wear.We are ok with boys not being able to wear wife beaters and cut off shirts in schools, but we are not ok with girls not being allowed to wear spaghetti straps.we are ok with telling boys not to wear their pants around their ankles exposing their underwear to everyone, but we are not ok with telling girls to not wear leggings which (with normal thickness) does the same thing.To me, these pieces of clothing are just inappropriate for wear in the academic setting no matter what gender . At the very least, students should come in with a semi-professional clothing line and not pants with holes in the crotch so we can see their boxers.And LEGGINGS ARE MEANT TO BE WORN WITH EITHER A SKIRT OR SHORTS! LEGGINGS ARE NOT PANTS!	Gender	Gender - General	1/147	0.68
Yoga pants are a fucking tease. Nothing BUT a tease and all you women know it.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/16	6.25
I've said this for a while now but people just say I'm a crazy feminist.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/15	6.667
at my school guys wear muscle shirts all the time (tank tops with very wide very open very long arm holes basically) without anything under them but when girls wear them with a normal tank top under them even if nothing is showing they get dress coded	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/47	2.128

To all those people saying that this isn't a legitimate topic because it's just school and not being able to wear your favorite shirt for 6 hours a day doesn't matter, consider this: The lessons learned at school do not happen in isolation from the rest of life. Children are socialized in school; they learn to fit in, what behaviors are acceptable, what's in fashion, what language to use, etc. It's not just the lessons in class, but also the socialization that we take with us into the outside world. So, for example, if a girl is taught by her school's dress code that certain parts are inherently sexual and that she is responsible for how boys and men react to those body parts, she will carry that belief with her outside of school and probably act accordingly. And let's say a boy is taught that those parts on a girl are so inherently sexual that they must be absolutely hidden, and that because he is male he MUST view her sexually and only sexually, how will he learn how to respectfully interact with women? Don't get me wrong - I'm not saying that teenaged boys aren't checking teenaged girls out. But it goes both ways, and many school dress codes fail to take this into account and assume the only body parts anyone could be "distracted by" are the ones attached to their female students. (By the way, I find toned calves and forearms highly distracting - and I'm pretty sure my high school dress code didn't make anybody cover those. :D)Lessons about respect should absolutely be taught at home, but we can't forget that peers and messages about socialization are powerful teachers. In addition, for those who say that schools are just enforcing "professional dress": if yoga pants, short skirts and tank tops are to be banned, so should sweat pants, sweat shirts, t-shirts, athletic shorts and other casual clothing be as well. And although some countries undoubtedly have it worse, and there are places that are far more overtly oppressive towards women, that doesn't mean that we can just ignore issues that children in our country are dealing with and the potentially harmful gender relations our schools are teaching through biased dress codes.BTW, this message is not meant to suppress criticism or be an end-all, be-all sort of statement. I would really appreciate constructive responses and criticisms as they arise! That is all, thank you.	Gender, Sexual	Gender - General	3/410	0.732
---	----------------	------------------	-------	-------

Jesus guys I just found the female onision! Nice to see what complete self-obsession,arrogance and stupidity looks like on a woman .I think you are a pathetic excuse for a person with even a remote understanding of general things and I really hope this can penetrate the slimy cocoon of vanity your brain is resting in.Young and impressionable girls watching this probably sees your smut as good advice and they will be developing a sense entitlement that will make them act like spoiled children. By doing this you also send out a message saying that life should be easier for girls and men are just out to get them and I say Fuck No,we are equal.Now tell me, is my gender (men) trying to poison the minds of the poor little ladies or are you New-Wave feminists doing that right off the back?Every word out of your mouth is Text Book Hypocrisy . I'm not sorry I'm a man, I'm grateful!I'm not sorry you're a woman because I don't care! But I'm very sorry that you, are a FUCKING IDIOT.	Gender, Woman	Gender - General	3/179	1.676
My school is really bad about this, one day they'll force one of my friends to change out of shorts into pants, another friend will be wearing super short shorts and not get in trouble. The sad thing is: the only difference between the two friends of mine is that one is average and the other is really thin . The average one is the one that was asked to change.	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/70	1.429
peepslostsheep so what you are saying is that girls can break rules and claim sexism and get away with it but all guys are inherently wrong.That is sexist against men. These double standards, these attempts to only view things in a sexist light is why I do not need feminism.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/51	1.961
degen83 "so what you are saying is that girls can break rules and claim sexism and get away with it but all guys are inherently wrong."I'd love to see a quote of where I said that. Nothing at all in my post insinuated anything of the sort. My point was that the dress code is not being fairly enforced, where by the boy I mention can wear something terribly revealing, but a girl showing drastically less skin was cited for dress code violation.	Nothing, Sexism	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/84	2.381

SeraphinaThorbes06What do you define as readily available for most girls? because I think you mean "in style" so other girls will be jealous of your new clothes and want to get them themselves. Dressing modestly isn't "cool" or ":trendy". Nobody is trynig to get girls in trouble whose parents can't afford new clothes and they are outgrowing their old clothes. The purpose is to get rid of the clothing distraction.I've seen boys get in trouble before who used to sag their pants so low you could see theri underwear/shorts. I've seen 2 girls who wore boxer shorts for bottoms every day in 6th period. They never got in trouble. Meanwhile if boys showed their boxers they would get detential, referrels, even suspensions or expulsions. But the girls who deliberately wore boxer shorts (and nothing over them) never got in trouble for their dress.They got in trouble for being loudmoths and sassng the teacher but they never got in trouble for their dress.I have never once seen a double standard that benefitted males over females. School dress codes isn't one a double standard that benefits males over females.	Nobody, Nothing, Old	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters	3/191	1.571
Fuck, you're acting like dress codes are the new big shtick of patriarchy . It's not like they've been around for centuries or something, nah, it's an entirely new threat of american society. If you really find not being allowed to show your legs oppressive, you have way too much time on your hands.If you're at a work place, there are dress codes as well. If you come to work scabtily clad or looking like a hobo, you're just not gonna be taken seriously. And if a man comes to work in bermuda shorts and a tank top, he's not gonna be taken any more seriously than the woman with the bralet and the hot pants that reveal half her buttcheeks. It goes both ways.And if a girl comes to school dressed like Lady Gaga in Bad Roamce, I'm sorry, but she's gonna be sent home. This has nothing to do with boys being distracted or some vile shit, but certain places will just require you to act, dress and talk a certain way. If you can't deal with it then that's entirely YOUR problem.	Nothing, Patriarchy, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/186	1.613
to the people who feel alone, ashamed, lost, like nothing and/or hopeless, know that you can and will get better. it is ok to not be ok. It is ok to see yourself fall apart.. It's a part of life and everyone falls apart and feels alone and down sometimes. you will make it through this. Being upset and down is a common part of life and you shouldnt feel bad for being shaken up.. If you have been experiencing sadness or hopelessness then please reach out to someone. You can reach to me. You have support. It will get better.	Common, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Social Class - Working class	2/101	1.98

Lol this is a pretty dumb argument at my school muscle shirts and revealing clothes for boys were banned so it's not a double standard.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/25	4.0
The only things distracting me at school are fuckboys, white girls, guys in skinny jeans, and butts... all the butts. Oh, and my anxiety This guy at my school (yesterday) got sent home for wearing a tank top	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/38	2.632
Laci the fact that you are complaining about this shows that you have no understanding of how people (not men not women but people) act and think.You know that dress codes don't effect only women and you SHOULD knw what is considered a distraction from both genders in schools. Then you have your sad army of feminist sheeps following you and not using common sense to see that you're wrong. like all the shit in the world that actual oppressed women go through and you complain about a dress code in school.What has the world come to.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/99	1.01
"Why is it always girls who are the problem"Because guys don't dress like whores. Have you ever been to a nightclub? Notice how the men are wearing a jeans and a button up shirt while the women are wearing skin tight dresses exposing most of their body? Women know EXACTLY what they're doing dressing like this. They are trying to get sexual attention.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/64	1.562
No. Men shouldn't have been taught that women are sexual creatures. Anyone should be able to wear what they want. Girls shouldn't have to worry about their shoulders, knees, or thighs beeping shown. Men/boys shouldn't be looking there. I'm a feminist, so I believe we should be equal. Men and women shouldn't be sexualized, but in most cases it's girls. (Dress code wise men are sexualized too.) Slut shaming is 1000000000 wrong. You can't call someone a whore. You don't know if they are looking for attention. Maybe it is hot outside! Maybe it's the summer! We shouldn't be forced to wear jeans and pants for that matter when it is hot because "boys are bad, you are dressing in something too short! They will sexualize you!" In reality, they do. Get your facts right before you comment. :)	Sexual	Gender - General	1/139	0.719

blondbeauty xEver single sentence in your post is just a declarative statement without any argument, or thought process attached to it. Listen to how many times you said the word "should". That's all feminists can do is make declarations and demands. "Girls shouldn't have to worry about their shoulders, knees, or thighs beeping shown."They're showing them ON PURPOSE!"You can't call someone a whore."Or course you can, MANY girls are whores. And many more dress IDENTICAL to whores."You don't know if they are looking for attention. Maybe it is hot outside!"Women wear skin tight dresses that end two inches below their ass cheeks in the middle of winter. OF COURSE they are looking for attention. Men and women live in the same temperatures, but it's female clothing that is much tighter, revealing, and cut to emphasize curves. Women deliberately shop for, try on and purchase, precisely because the clothes that draw attention to their secondary sex characteristics. I guess they're covering any blemishes on their face with powder and make up because it's hot out too."I'm a feminist, so I believe we should be equal."I couldn't care less about your empty beliefs and meaningless assertions. If you have an argument or an idea for me to consider, that's one thing, but if all you are capable of is stating your feelings without the tiniest bit of thinking, then spare us all the drivel.Without exception, I've known feminists to be completely incapable of having any kind of serious argument. I challenge you to prove me wrong. See if you can provide any evidence that you've ever thought about any of these issues before.	Sex	Gender - General	1/280	0.357
EmmaCRB1989 Nobody has the right to wear or not wear things and not be judged. Everybody gets judged, women are no exception to this rule.You cannot be the thought police.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/31	3.226
EmmaCRB1989 nobody has the right to be exepmt from other's natural reactions. You, the rest of the world, and I all immediately judge everyone and everything we see. We have no choice. It. Is. Natural. We don't have to be hateful to each other. But implying that women have the right to not be judged isn't logical. Also, it's funny that you didn't say PEOPLE have the right to wear what they want and not be judged. Just women, huh?lol	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/80	1.25
blondbeauty x "Men shouldn't have been taught that women are sexual creatures. " Literally no one is teaching this, moron.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/20	5.0
Yara Voss Nobody knows what you're referring to.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/8	12.5

degen83 but the rules themselves are not equal, i agree we need rules put in place to make sure people are not going out in public butt naked but also of these rules do have a double standards, a guy gets away with breaking the dress code and a girl does not that's not ok but you also cant use the excuse it is distracting to males when no one gives a shit is something is distracting for females. there is no doubt woman get a lot of shit for things men can do and be praised for, woman by most of the world are looked down upon just because we are women, mens needs are most of the times put before womens needs and that's not ok we should be treated equally, and complaining about it brings it in to the publics eye so the matter can be adressed and hopefully be changed	Woman	Gender - General	2/154	1.299
Autumn grace Wrong. the rules themselves are equal. Nothing is being done to discriminate against females in schools. If anything schools go out of their way to promote females going to college by always telling females they should go to college. They do not do this for males because they erroneously assume all males are naturally born knowing they must go to college. Wrong, males need encouragement too but we don't get it because it all goes to females. Thanks to feminists.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/82	1.22
degen83 im sorry if that is the case for you that only women are pushed to go to collage but everywhere i have lived has pushed a higher education on both genders equally and no, women are discriminated against in schools and if you cant see that your so blind . and this was about dress codes not about which gender gets more attention, its not ok for women to not be allowed to wear a tanktop because it is deemed distracting to males even though it can be a girl distracted by a male and it be ignored, you have to admit its fucked up that from a young age women are taught to wear clothing that while covers you and doesnt reveal anything you cant wear that because a guy might sexually harass you. men need to learn to contrll them selves we all should dress appropriate but its not an excuse to discriminate	Age, Blind, Gender	Age - General, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/155	1.935
Autumn grace Citation desperately needed on your statement that "there is sexism against women almost everywhere you go".Where in the western countries (USA, Canada, UK, etc) is there prevelant sexism against women? Give me specific examples, because I've heard you feminists make this claim before but I have never seen it happen on a daily basis. I have seen the occasional incidents, but even then its once every few years, not anywhere near every week and most certainly not every day.	Sexism	Gender - General	2/81	2.469

Autumn graceYou claim that boys talking to girls and touching them is sexually is discriminating against girls.I do not think that by itself is discrimination.What school are you in? Elementary? Middle school? High school? College? The behavior you describe is normal behavior of a mixed group mainly in middle school to high school, but perhaps late elementary school too when both sexes begin to hit puberty.Guys are genetically wired to look at girls and think sexual thoughts. Girls are genetically wired to do the same thing with boys. Its just girls are taught to keep those thoughts to themselves whereas boys are encouraged to be more vocal about it. It is usually the guy making the first move in any given relationship. This means that in most of the relationships worldwide the first move was done by a male. That means that without the first action being done by a male, the female would not have made the move, and most of those couples would not be couples. During puberty guys and girls are also experiencing changing bodies, changing hormones, and are experimenting with newfound freedoms, seeing where the new lines are. Touching is a sign of flirting. However if you mean the boys are inapportpriately touching girls who don't want to be touched, they should definately tell someone to get that behavior to stop. From your post, I just do not agree with you that what you mentioned was discriminatory. It sounds like natural healthy behavior between males and females who are young adults or going through puberty. I see nothing discriminating against females about that behavior. The reason the school is being dismissing of your claims is because it is natural behavior that happens at every mixed gender school where there are boys and girls going through puberty. It is not sexist, not discriminatory, but biological and natural.Now if you do not want attention from boys, you need to make it known. However also know that kids are viscious and will spread rumours about you if they don't like you. Please please understand that those rumours are not sexist or discriminatory, they would spread rumours about boys and girls equally. The rumours themselves are tailored to the boy or girl, but neither sex is immune from this. This is natural behavior that happens. Hell I had rumours spread about me growing up. I was the most picked on kid in school for a time until I learned to fight back. Growing up, school can be a tough place, you have to deal with scholastic stuff but also deal with the social circles within your school. From your comment, I completely disagree that the behavior you mention is sexist and discriminatory. Unwanted touching should stop, but the rest sounds like harmless flirting. If humans didn't flirt, we would die out as a species because the consensual sex rate would dramatically decrease and no new babies would be born because there would be no couples to have consentual sex together to produce babies.Do you have other examples of discriminatory behavior?Or do you want to explain in more detail why you think boys talking to girls in school is discriminatory? Maybe you didn't explain it well enough and I'm just not getting a full picture of what it is you are seeing.	Gender, Nothing, Sex, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	6/558	1.075
---	------------------------------	---	-------	-------

letmeenjoymysummer i have a life and want to enjoy it and im not telling you what grade i am in and i would like to say ive experienced this from men MUCH older than me along with my age countless times, you might not notice it because you are male and it does not effect you the same, please let me enjoy my summer and i dont want to wast my time debating with you.	Age	Age - General	1/79	1.266
Autumn grace if you make a claim like women are systematically being opressed than expect people to call you on it.And before you cry sexism and discrimination against me for "keeping you from enjoying your summer", well I'm not forcing you to respond to me. I'm just tired of feminists claiming discrimination but being unable to tell me exactly how they are being discriminated against.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/66	1.515
degen83 no i'm not going to call sexism and discrimination on you haha, I'm very well on people calling me on it, im stating from my own background of being discriminated, by being sexually assaulted physically and verbally, and im not going to say how exactly because for a lot of girls its hard to talk about, i don't want to waste my time arguing about this because it gets neither of us anywhere, no ones mind is going to be changed, there is no point to it so i just want to instead of debating with you just enjoy the summer. we both have our own outlooks on things based on experiences.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/113	0.885
Autumn grace from my experiences in my life, I have been sexually abused by females, lived a few years in a foster home, and every single double standard I have personally experienced has benefitted the female and never the male.I understand my experiences may be unique, but I just have never seen what I would classify as sexism against women. In fact I have witnessed and lived and endured what I would classify as sexism against males by females.	Sexism	Gender - General	2/80	2.5
im so sorry you had to go through that, and i never said sexism against males was no alive and well but it effects both genders, but from my experiences men have benifited more i have even had many of my male friends tell me how much easier it is to be male, while this can be considered false, its my background, i have seen sexism against men but mainly against women, and my personal experiences along with my friends, cause me to think this way.	Sexism	Gender - General	2/86	2.326

Autumn grace”many of my male friends tell me how much easier it is to be male”That’s not because of society, it’s because of biology. You would find life a lot easier if you didn’t have to rely on the state. If you were a lot bigger and stronger and not the sexual desire of men, you could walk alone late at night, you wouldn’t be so vulnerable. Society recognizes women as weak and vulnerable and therefore implements a number of laws to help females. That’s why men pay most of the taxes and women collect most of the benefits. Women think they’re strong and independent but it’s still men who make the world go around and it is still men who facilitate female freedom and safety.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/128	0.781
--	--------	------------------	-------	-------

Autumn graceSome aspects of being male are easier.No having to spend time putting on makeup.A common hair style for men is short hair which is very easy to manage and style in the morning. But other aspects are easier for a girl.A man is expected to never hit a girl, even if she attacks him. I have seen videos of females just outright assaulting a man, and when the man retaliates the crowd jumps in to defend the female. So there is a huge double standard thinking it is acceptable for females to hit males but not acceptable for males to hit females (even if the female starts the hitting). In custody battles the female is almost always garaunted primary or sole custody of all children, unless on the off chance she is proven to be etremely incompetant. So that is better for females.In college colleges are accepting more women than men, all programs in colleges are doing their best to accept females (Stem cell research scientific field, for example, accepts females at a 2 to 1 ratio of males). The myth of a discriminatory wage gap benefits females, because recent studies have shown how full time workers who are female in the 22-30 age group make 8 more than their male peers. There are bake sales by schools charging women 77 of what they charge males, too perpetuating the myth that there is a discriminatory wage gap. So by trying to compensate for an imaginary discriminatory wage gap, women end up with more privileges and more money than males do. Being a woman in society is easier and harder than being a male. There are some aspects that are easier. Going to college is easier for females than males. Getting help and assistance is easier for females than males (in fact ALL programs aimed to help domestic abuse and sexual abuse victims for people 18 years of age or older are SOLELY FEMALE, as in no males allowed, and feminists have ensured that there will be no help for males 18 and over for domestic abuse or sexual abuse). There are laws prohibiting women from being discriminated against, tehre are laws prohibiting pay differenes between men and women, woemn can own property, be exeturos in wills, hold political office, and do every single thing a man can do. There is absolutely no rights men have that women do not in 2015 in the west.So I think that being a woman is overall easier. I am going to ignore biological functions like menstration because that is a biological function, and simply not something you can legitimately claim is discriminatory or sexist against women because that is not something that society nor men force women to endure. Overal, women are encouraged to go to college, women graduate in higher numbers than males, women are specifically barred from every being drafted into the military, women are barred from frontline combat duty, women who work in a comparable job and hours to men make 8 more than their male counterparts do in an effort to compensate fo the myth of the discriminatory pay gap. Women are much less likely to be the victim of a violence crime than a male is. When you account for prison statistics, more men are raped each year than women.When you take into account all of these things, females have it better. There are little things that benefit males more, but there is a huge cultural shift that is solely aimed at benefitting only females, and we are still seeing the culture move further into protecting females and

Age, Common, Sexual, Woman

Age - General,
Gender -
General,
Social Class -
Working class

7/638

1.097

Autumn graceIn what ways have males benefitted more?Statistically speaking, in 2015 as a female you are 30 more likely to go to college and graduate. Whatever job you get, when you compare your earnings to a male in that same job with the same tasks you are likely to be earning 8 more than that male, solely because of your vagina.In 2014 95 of all workplace injuries were male. The majority of workplace fatalities was also male.Whenever a woman claims rape, the media pounces on the story and publishes it as fact, with little to no fact checking of the actual incident. This has caused severe backlash when actual investigations were done that prove the female lied about that incident. But even after decisive evidence proves beyond any reasonable doubt that the case the female tried to bring against a male or group of males was false, still after she was proven to be mistaken or lying about the incident still people believe her. It is to the point where whenever a female claims rape she is beleived and the male(s) accused are assumed to be guilty without any investigation. Even when found innocent, that false rape accuastion will haunt the male(s) for the rest of their lives.There is no such response when a male claims rape.When women make claims, it makes national news. When men make claims, nobody cares or they get made fun of for it. It isn't because of "patriarchy", it is because the feminist movements only cares about males if the male wants to act and dress like a female. Feminists promote men wearing makeup and dresses, but when it comes to helping a father fight for custody of his children or admitting a male was falsely accused of rape, feminists are nowhere to be found.	Nobody, Patriarchy, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/306	0.98
--	---------------------------	---	-------	------

Autumn grace actually you are wrong, women are not paid 33 less than men because of discrimination. That figure is being taught but it is a lie. It does not mean what you think it means.I will explain. This will be a long post.There is no discrimination in the pay gap. The pay gap figure of 33 comes from summing the combined wages of all FULL TIME women and FULL TIME MEN and comparing the 2. It does NOT COMPARE SAME JOBS. Women are 33 more likely to go to college and graduate than males are, but the degrees women chose to get are overwhelming social in nature. There were more Womens studies majors in 2013 than there were women in all engineering and science fields combined.So as for education, women are making the personal choice not to pursue highly technical scientific or engineering jobs despite colleges doing all they can to increase females iin these fields.As for other jobs that pay more, they are highly dangerous. Women chose not to work in these jobs like commercial fishing, construction, mineral extraction. Because these are physically demanding jobs and often in remote areas. When we compare men and women in the SAME JOBS, we find that women make 8 more than their male counterparts.That 33 figure does not include part time workers. It also doesn't account for the fact that most full time working women do not work as much overtime as their male counterparts do. They also do not negotiate as high a starting wage as their male counterparts do on average.In the 22-30 age group, full time working women make 8 MORE THAN MEN. So stop lying and just repeating that 33 figure because you clearly do not know anything about that figure.I bet you believe that "1 in 4 females will get sexually assaulted in college" lie too, right? The way they got that number was via a study that got 89 responses at a university. Extremely low response rate, and they used extreme loose definitions of the term sexual assault to include such things as "sexual intercourse if the female had a beer" or "unwanting flirting by males" or even being "looked at wrong" by males. In short, that figure is completely bogus, the findings were from such a small sample size it cannot be used to extrapolate figures for the larger population.You need to do some reseearch into these claims because they have already been fully debunked using facts and statistics from 2013 and newer. Feminists make these claims and site statistics from 1990. Can you not understand how that is dishonest? Use the most recent statistics and studies, but feminists do not do this at all.	Age, Sexual	Age - General, Gender - General	3/459	0.654
--	-------------	---------------------------------	-------	-------

Autumn grace I didn'tr claim all rape accuasations were false. I did state that of the rape accuastions that are false, there is no relief for the male who was accused, he is always assumed to be guilty, there is always the stigma of being accused of rape, and thank to the feminist view of "once accused a man is guilty", people simply do not believe he is innocent.This has destroyed mens lives because the feminist agenda has society punish innocent men the same as guilty men. So a vindictive female can just all of sudden decide that the consensual sex she had with a male 5 years ago was rape, and call rape, and have society take her seriously and destroy that mans life.There is no punishment for females who falsely accuse men of rape. That is what I have a problem with. If a man did rape someone, he deserves punishment. But the males who are FALSELY ACCUSED of rape need to be vindictated and the female who falsely accused them need to have real consequences laid upon them because this happens way too much.Every recent high profile rape case has been proven to be false. The Duke Lacross case had the media denounce the Duke Lacross team and denounce them all as racist rapists, but it turns out that the accused wre not even present at the event in question and it was proven they did not rape that girl. Where was the apology to Duke? Where was the apology to those 3 individuals?Another recent case had a girl claim she was raped at a frat party. A magazine wroote a full page article on this account, taking her word verbatim. It turns out when people actually investigated the claims, there was no party that night in question, none of th epeople she accused raped her, and it turns out there was absolutely no evidence to corroborate her story. But the feminist agenda pushed back and many people, despite hearing how that girls story was shot down due to lack of evidence, still believe her word that she was raped. So when proven beyond any reasonable doubt that she was lying or mistaken people still believe the girl who cries rape over her accusers.That is why females have it better. When they accuse a male of anything, society goes out of their way to defend the girl, even when it is proven the girl lied and the male was completely innocent.	Racist, Sex	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	2/419	0.477
Excuse me but this was about school matters where girls aren't allowed to shorts, tank tops, dresses, and even skirts, because they show skin a lot of schools don't even allow leggings which cover legs completely. Yes a lot of girls dress slutty out of school because they want attention from anyone they can get attention from but a lot of girls just want to look in style so do not slut shame woman	Woman	Gender - General	1/74	1.351

Amity Marll every single school I have been to allows girls to wear shorts skirts and dresses, as long as those shorts/skirts are around knee level. Schools do not allow boys to wear tanktops so why do you think girls should wear them when boys cant?The only one being sexist here is Laci Green and all her feminist followers who lack common sense and the ability to think critically about these issues.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/73	1.37
And as soon as they get sexual attention, they cry rape	Sexual	Gender - General	1/11	9.091
Amity Marll hon it aint worth it ., don't bother arguing with him he just keeps on going and bitching. nothing is going to change his mind.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/27	3.704
Autumn grace the only thing that will change my mind is facts. the facts do not support the feminist lies here. Old facts from the 1980's, 1990,s and way before might, but facts from 2013 2014 and recent facts do not.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/41	2.439
Everyone should be worried about rapists. Rape is a crime as old as time. It's never going away. It's horrible and rapists should be buried under the prison, in my opinion. However, if I wanted to increase the odds of getting raped, I would dress "slutty". Women have the right to dress however they want. I am all for it. It's not their fault if they get raped dressed like a "slut". I'm not a rapist, so how you women dress doesn't motivate me to act one way or the other. But it does encourage RAPISTS to pursue you. Not the normal majority of guys like me. Trying to mandate more anti rape trainings in school will not stop a rapist when he or she decides to dominate another person. Almost the entire male population is completely respectful of everyone's boundaries. I guess what I'm saying is that it gets tiring to constantly be lumped in with the worst the world has to offer, simply because of my gender .	Gender, Old	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/169	1.183
Women wear hyper sexual clothing for the main purpose of making them appear sexually attractive. So how the fuck is that NOT distracting? Disproportionately attacking girls? So when all boys are taken aside and told not to rape, that's fine, but when girls are told not to deliberately draw attention to their tits and ass, that's sexist.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/57	1.754
Teach the dumb boys	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/4	25.0

I like the comments where people say that their schools simply make the students wear uniforms. Nobody has to worry about anyone distracting anyone because of revealing clothing. lacigreen simply says that everything is distracting but completely ignores why revealing clothing is distracting and just says there are many other things that are distracting. She didn't address the issue at all. If a girl is wearing an extremely low cut shirt that reveals most of her chest with her boobs just hanging there like eggs on a plate it would be distracting. I suppose lacigreen would just say something like, "control your self". Easier said than done (imagine a world where men didn't care about what women wore and just didn't look at women at all and just weren't attracted to women). The woman wearing this obviously wanted the attention. Maybe she doesn't want it from most of the men looking onto her but she instead wants whoever she might be interested in to take interest. It's just one of the ways our society works. The woman has to look attractive and then the man approaches her. The school is just one of the places that this should not be taking place in. You're there primarily to learn. Anything that comes in the way of that should be dealt with. Towards the end of the video she showed some pictures of men wearing some obscene articles of clothing. Yeah, they shouldn't be wearing those things either and should be dealt with accordingly. They shouldn't go after only girls at all. What she showed didn't justify her opinion. All it did was show that these guys should be punished as well.	Nobody, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/280	1.071
I can usually side with Lacey Green but we all know girls don't wear "shorts" because its "hot". I live in Arizona and I wear skinny jeans and a t-shirt everyday. If girls don't want to be hot during the summer why not wear basketball shorts like boys? I see girls showing off cleavage and ass everyday. If you have to keep adjusting your cloths every three minuets its a sign you shouldnt be wearing them. I couldnt imagine being a guy teacher, seeing little girls with their boobs and butts hanging out. Awkward! I don't understand the yoga pants or leggings though I wear them all the time.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/109	0.917
Yet you feminazis shamed a man for wearing a shirt designed by a woman .	Woman	Gender - General	1/14	7.143
The problem with your argument is that you don't mention how young girls dress like this to intimidate and distract boys. The problem is, a lot of girls use their bodies for take advantages of male sexuality. It's not sexes that boys don't care to put on super short shorts and tight pants. And lastly, If a male where's a sleeveless shirt, they will need a change of cloths in most schools. Again, it's not about gender inequality!	Gender	Gender - General	1/78	1.282

Well this is pretty dumb . Firstly I don't live in the US never been, but I've always thought that not having dress codes for minors in schools (who are now under the protection of that institution) is unsafe. But meh the US is fucked anyway.Women's dress-code in the US is less restrictive then men's, they have alot more choice and get away with a whole lot more.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/68	1.471
As a human with a Y chromosome, I can guarantee that when a girl wears revealing clothing, (yoga pants, short shorts, leggings, and blouses) it is definitely distracting. To say that it's not is ridiculous. Every male that is not homosexual is drawn to areas of cleavage. Women choose to display these openly. They then complain when they notice men taking notice. It is the ultimate weapon for attention whores. The reason it is not a problem for men is because we don't display ourselves in overly sexual ways. The most ironic part of this is that we assume women are incompetent of managing their own figure and dress, so we as a society created rules to tell them how to behave. If you have a problem, it's not that the dress codes are too strict, it's that they're there at all. However, if you do remove them, some girls WILL dress sluttier and sluttier. It is known.	Homosexual, Sexual	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General	2/158	1.266
At my middle school and high school, guys were able to wear the shirt "Cool Story, Babe. now Go Make Me a Sandwich ", but the fact that I have breasts was offensive. :/	Make me a sandwich	Gender - Female intelligence	1/33	3.03
Hi lacigreen I'm a gay boy of 16 years old and i experimented with sex toys.Though i often find the pain more overwhelming than the plessure so could you maybe give tips/tricks to decrease the pain or what i and other men can do to experience the plessure more? Thx for your attention!	Gay, Old, Sex	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	4/54	7.407

yeah..school uniforms should be a given for everyone. there is no reason to encourage sexualization of children, no reason to help exacerbate the problem with economic disparity amongst school children with fancy clothes, and no reason to even HAVE to worry about what a student is wearing...they should all be wearing the same thing.also that isn't sexist, it is a result of the sexualization of girls..disturbingly this is usually the girls choice. Take a look at preteen these days..they dress like whores. There is no other way to put it..thongs, shorts that are so short you can see their ass cheeks, lacy bras, skin tight tank tops with extremely low cuts...yeah..parents are shitty these days. My sister wasn't even allowed to get her ears pierced till 16..let alone wear a fucking thong to middle school.as far as sexuality for boys..girls sexuality=looks, guys sexuality=success. A girl dresses sexy to attract a guy, a guy...becomes the team quarterback, or has a fancy car or whatever. A guys clothes are an extremely minimal part of male sex appeal.. give me a porsche, 7 figure income, mansion, my own plane etc..my clothes won't make a damned bit of difference, i'll get female attention. Put me in a nice suit and otherwise i drive a junker, have no job, and not "popular" won't get any female attention..well not after they know all that...and that is with me looking EXACTLY THE SAME other than clothes.	Sex	Gender - General	1/241	0.415
This is so true I personally don't like to wear tight or revealing clothes as I find them uncomfortable but still for those girls out there who find these clothes comfortable go for it Truthfully I have always been quite boyish in peoples eyes but still sexism MUST STOP.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/49	2.041

I say we just let people get naked in public. Teaching shame of the body is inherently teaching shame of self, we're always going to be distracted by the gender we're attracted to, even if they're in a goddamn burka, so I think the real way to combat that is to just leave less to the imagination, and let men see women in a relaxed, not inherently sexual form. The problem with body image is that we, both men and women, are only taught to be naked for our partner's sake and that in any other situation, the default is to cover up. And that filters through to the media so that the only time we see someone naked or exposed on TV is when they are deemed attractive, and I think the message goes from "good enough to be sexualized" to "good enough to even be viewed", and that's where we see people internalizing such an emphasis on a need to be attractive, even in times where there's no one you're trying to attract, and fat =indecent exposure. If we saw fat people, old people, and otherwise not very sexy people letting it all hang out more often, I think we would actually be a less sex crazy culture, because it takes the mystery out of it and the distraction ends up being less. I mean when you couldn't show any part of your body, an ankle would drive men wild, now we're in bikinis and that doesn't happen so much.I'd like to live in a culture where it was reversed, and covering up was a sign that you like someone. And of course I don't mean women in burkas would be considered "asking for it", but I mean to send the message, "I let other people see my tits all the time, because I don't want anything from them, but you, I want to keep you guessing"	Crazy, Fat, Gender, Old, Sex, Sexual	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Physical Identity - Physical Features	6/319	1.881
So when I was in school , I had to wear a suit in the height of summer and a long sleeve shirt , what was distracting about wearing a short sleeve shirt ? The answer is nothing , again, this has nothing to do with sexism , it's just having a dress code for school. Oh no wait , this is sexist , no one took to the Internet to defend boys having to shave for work , or having to wear a suit in summer, or not being allowed to dye their hair blue at school. Stop blaming men for everything that is going on , 9/10 it's nothing to do with sexism , this is just sexism towards men	Nothing, Sexism	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	6/120	5.0
For balance, the school I went to required long pants for the boys, the rules for girls were not enforced. So while girls ran around in miniskirts and spaghettitops (which was no problem for me), I had to wear long jeans in the blistering heat (which was a problem).The boys started wearing skirts on select days (can't send everyone home) and once it hit the media, the rules for jeans and miniskirts were finally removed.That was Belgium though. Stupid rules are stupid. Sexism is sexism no matter which gender suffers most (because we all suffer from unequal rights)	Gender, Sexism	Gender - General	3/100	3.0

It's hot? Don't most schools have A/C?"They are objectified enough." and then basically saying they should be able to wear clothes that would allow them to be objectified.Does trying to stop young girls from showing skin say that they are taught that they are sexual or should not try to be sexual ? I mean, are they inherently sexual or does presenting themselves in a certain way MAKE them sexualized?I can't say that I agree with all dress codes or the way they enforce them but they do serve a purpose. You are at school to get an education. Really, is there that much free time to do anything else? You can wear whatever the fuck you want on the weekend or after school.	Sexual	Gender - General	3/126	2.381
I would love it if women were allowed to wear just about anything they wanted to just like guys. I think the problem comes in when girls and women want to have their cake and eat it too. See if it were up to me y'all could walk around naked if you wanted to, just don't ask me to be asexual about it when you do. Im strait, im sexual attracted to women, so if you walk around in revealing or tight clothing and I see something I like I'm going to look, that's just the way it is. Women that choose to dress like this should prepare for people ,not just men and boys, to look at them at the very least. THAT BEING SAID women that choose to dress like this shouldn't have to deal with the cat calling, groping, unwanted sexual advances, or even long awkward staring. That brings me back to my main point. If it were up to me, women could dress however they wanted to. Just don't ask people not to look at you when you do it. Sometimes you can't have your cake and eat it too.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/194	1.031
Ella Levad There's no such thing as meninism.That was a joke.The real thing is called MRM(Men's right movement) and all the ppl who work for it are called MRA(men's right activists)(And the cool thing is most of the well known MRA's are women :P ).They work for men's gender equality is various issues.	Gender	Gender - General	1/53	1.887
I was walking through the hallway after show choir practice in shorts and I had one class left and a teacher told me "you need to learn how to put on some clothes young lady.Another time I had to make an Indian costume and my shoulders were showing and another teacher said "sweetheart you're going have to cover your shoulders, there's boys in here."	Indian	Ethnicity - Native-American	1/65	1.538

Dana It also enforces people to buy a more extensive wardrobe (pressuring low-income families), it teaches an unhealthy group mentality (you're not allowed to be different), it destroys individuality, but the real problem is, it does absolutely nothing to remove bullying.Children with a behaviour disorder who bully will always find something else. The problem isn't the clothes, the problem is in badly behaved kids who aren't punished enough for bullying.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/71	1.408
JadeTheSquid I went to an Australian private school and yup, uniforms can be very expensive. But I don't understand why you think that's an argument against uniforms rather than an argument against smarter uniforms, like schools using white shirts as a mainstay and colours like black and navy and second hand uniform shops like we also have here in Australia. Uniforms also save money in the long run anyway and do so more with the above situations.As for individuality, that sounds good, but there have been plenty of studies showing that a) kids perform better with uniforms (just like the military, office situations etc) and the b) for many, many kids, the ability for individuality comes with the huge cost of self-consciousness about looks, style, fitting in, keeping up with costly fashions or brands etc etc.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/137	0.73
"Therefore if you have any encouragement from being united with Christ, if any comfort from his love, if any common sharing in the Spirit, if any tenderness and compassion, then make my joy complete by being like-minded, having the same love, being one in spirit and of one mind. Do nothing out of selfish ambition or vain conceit. Rather, in humility value others above yourselves, not looking to your own interests but each of you to the interests of the others. In your relationships with one another, have the same mindset as Christ Jesus: Who, being in very nature God, did not consider equality with God something to be used to his own advantage; rather, he made himself nothing by taking the very nature of a servant,being made in human likeness." Philippians 2:1-7	Common, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Social Class - Working class	3/134	2.239

Dana i couldn't agree more. I went to a public school in Australia for 6 years and I never had a problem. In high school the only way you get detention is if you didn't stick to the uniform but come to think of it as you get older, they let a lot more things slide. Now I go to a school with no uniforms but a dress code in Malaysia where the GIRLS aren't allowed to wear anything that shows the knees (which is stupid because they let it slide when we have sports). But then I always see the boys wearing three-quarter shorts and sometimes they wear shorts that show their knees. Annoyed, I tried wearing my three-quarter shorts that end JUST above my knees and during the assembly that day my teacher talked about dress codes that was obviously directed at me and everyone knew it. After the assembly I went of my own accord to go talk to him and he gave me some babble about "distracting boys" and how it was against the rules and how the school was trying to teach students about dressing in a workplace environment. Apparently a workplace environment included jeans. So then I pointed out one of the boys who was wearing shorts that showed the knees and then he said i was a very lovely looking girl and how that was a compliment and that it's better for me to dress in a presentable way and not look like I'm about go fishing or something. I tried getting the other girls to help me out with this because it was stupid and sexist and they were all happy to help but then one of them gave some speech about "respecting the rules" and how they're lenient with us and we should be "greatful we don't have to wear uniforms". Then suddenly they weren't as willing and I had no idea what to do and I was so annoyed but what can one girl do right? Anyway this is why I like uniforms more. Uniforms which allow shorts for both girls and boys as well might I add (I'd also say that boys should be allowed to wear skirts as well but I feel like that isn't gonna happen anytime soon so yeah). At least with uniforms there is no sexism (not with the school that I came from anyway). Honestly now I'm contemplating on whether or not to risk it again. I feel like it's a lot more trouble than it's worth.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/423	0.236
Imanrulz, I'm sorry that you've experienced that kind of sexism. But I'd just like to say that every time I hear about someone so young actually thinking and even trying to raise these issues publicly, it makes my heart sing. So thank you. :)	Sexism	Gender - General	1/44	2.273

Dana At my nieces school girls were told they were only allowed to wear white bras because any other colour would show up. My youngest niece who, at the time, was 13, was pulled out of class and one of the male teachers had a female teacher look down her shirt to check her bra colour.Also, kids, of both genders, have been sent home from many UK schools for wearing something that isn't part of the uniform, like a thin white trim on their shoes, or the wrong sort of skirt. Not the wrong length of skirt, mind, the wrong type.If uniforms were the great equalizer that we want them to be then boys would always be able to wear skirts if they wanted, and girls would always be able to wear trousers if they wanted.	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/136	0.735
There is actually some schools in Australia that have no uniforms. (I went to one :D) And the dress code applies TO EVERY SINGLE GENDER . Shorts/skirts/dresses have to reach finger tip length. Cannot be higher. Closed in shoes. Tops have to be sun safe so it has have sleeves. The dress code is for EVERYONE.	Gender	Gender - General	1/55	1.818
But that would be an harassment for transgender people, since they're probably going to force the student to wear the clothing after their genetalia.	Transgender	Sexual Identity - Transexuality	1/24	4.167

Teenage boys are testosterone fueled animals by and large. I'm honestly surprised that women don't seem to get this. Take what is an essentially emotionally immature and fairly ignorant male Great Ape, and pump it full of sex hormones that it hasn't had to cope with for its previous years of practicing being in a body full of sensations and urges and the sort. What do you expect? We're mammals.Morals have nothing to do with it. Rights have nothing to do with it. These are abstractions made possible by the power of sex. Humans are great at post-rationalization, but the fact remains that almost everything that we do after hitting puberty is at least partially tied up in reproductive strategies. Teenagers are just crappy at it, largely because society does an absolutely appalling job preparing children for sexuality. We're just like...'surprise...now you want to fuck people!'Honestly, I found my time as a teenager was made alternately frustrating and titillating thanks to girls' complete nonchalance about showing their bodies. I'm sorry, but boys are evolutionarily hard-wired to get aroused at the sight of your primary and secondary sexual characteristics. Teenage boys don't even need that, because they're like pressure cookers filled with semen.It sucks. It is a serious pain in the ass for both genders that our sexual strategies tend to come into conflict. It must be especially painful for young women who go from having sexually neutral bodies, surrounded by sexually neutral little boys, to suddenly having sexually desirable bodies, surrounded by overly horny, passive aggressive and completely unskilled teenage boys. That honestly sounds like a nightmare.So, ladies and gents...lets put each other in each others' shoes. Ladies...how would you like to have a buffet carted out in front of you during a test while you feel like you are literally starving? That would be distracting, wouldn't it? Well, to teenage boys, the desire for sex is only slightly less demanding of attention than the desire for food. Gents...how would you like to be seen as a buffet by a bunch of unconscious, rude, and aggressive cavemen, most of whom are bigger and stronger than you? That would be scary as shit, wouldn't it?The thing is...I promise you...the boys have almost no control. I know. I was one. Learning to control one's sexual desire takes practice and coaching. It doesn't come naturally. You ladies have some control, however small, over how much sexual attention you get (somewhat less even with teenage boys since they'll find nearly anything sexual). If you choose not to use it for the sake of fairness and equality, that's your business, but be prepared to get a lot of unwanted attention.	Ape, Nothing, Sex, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	11/450	2.444
Lacigreen is a brainwashed feminazi !	Feminazi	Gender - Female intelligence	1/5	20.0

i go to school where we have to wear uniforms because there were so many dress code violations before the uniforms were implemented. girls get detention and parent interventions, letters and phone calls home because they wear pants that are "too tight, revealing, or distracting." meanwhile, guys wear jogger pants that sag and their entire boxers hang out, you get a full view of their ASS IN BOXERS and they never face any repercussions. it's infuriating, especially because the teachers that crack down on the offenses are old , old -fashioned, misogynistic WOMEN. they say very offensive things like "girls who respect themselves dont wear such things." how about we give school administrators interventions and assemblies to teach them what THEY are doing is WRONG.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/123	0.813
This brings back memories of high school. The end of senior year I got a detention for wearing shorts. We had this one female teacher who would just go off on girls for wearing shorts or tank tops. She said we looked like whores. I wasn't wearing shorts to show off, it was like 86 degrees and the school didn't have AC. Like it was unbearable how hot it would get in there. I really hated that teacher. She was a bitch.	Senior	Age - Over 65s	1/82	1.22
I agree that these dress codes like this are are dumb , but its not specific to girls. That's a bit misleading. Boys arent allowed to wear tank to most schools either. In my high school boys were not allowed to wear baseball caps in buildings, however girls were because for some reason it was considered an "accessory to her outfit." Furthermore, my nephews kindergarten class requires collared shirts for boys, but has no such restrictions for girls. So its nice to point out these silly rules for what they are, but in truth the "stupidity" pendulum swings both ways on this topic.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/102	0.98
Jessica Sander The lunatic asylum.	Lunatic	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/5	20.0
Hey Laci just wanna say I love your videos! They're so informative. I'm a 14y/o girl and we don't have sex Ed classes at my school bc the boys are too immature. And so are most girls. But yeah your channel is really educational AMD its helping me out a lot. Thanks	Sex	Gender - General	1/53	1.887
And a lot of guys cannot wear tank tops... Yoga pants on a hot chick are distracting as hell.	Chick	Gender - General	1/19	5.263

a male teacher told a girl at my school that the skirts she wore were distracting to the male faculty. when she argued and pointed out that he had a daughter the same age as her, he told her that that made it all the more wrog for her to allow him to be "distracted" by it	Age	Age - General	1/57	1.754
I completely agree with everything laci said. I got in school detention for refusing to change out of my skinny jeans. They're reasoning for wanting to me change was that a fellow male classmate complained about my jeans because they were "distracting" him. These kind of things happen daily at my school. If your bra strap shows you get detention. If you wear leggings it get detention. If you wear jeans with a rip above the knee you get detention.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/80	1.25
We men should be able to control ourselves to a great degree. These women are beings here, not sexual objuectsHOWEVER, fashion now a days is really getting out of hand for females. Tighter clothes. visible tops showing the bra, short, loose skirts that with one swoop of wind, can indeed reveal that camel toe. Sure its cool to show the feminine figure, but why to such a great degree?If girls have the right to wear what they want then I'm afraid that its the ladies that sexualize themselves rather then society or the school faculty saying its sexualizing	Sexual	Gender - General	1/100	1.0
Why does everyone complain about girls' dress codes?! Boys also have dress code problems, boys can't wear dresses or skirts or things that are feminine in any way with out being thought as homosexual , which I think feminism; if it were in anyway a good thing, would look at aswell. That is in fact what I thought this video was about.Girls' bodies are sexual . It's a basic fact, it's an innate reaction to be attracted to girls bodies. It gives you pleasure, not sexual pleasure by looking at attractive women, whether their clothes are on or off!	Homosexual, Sexual	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General	3/98	3.061
Rusty Shackleford yes, it woud be ok to stop a female from learning if she was just in her bra and panties at school, the same as it would be ok to stop a male from learning if he was only wearing boxers at school.Unless you are in some sort of new age clothing optional learning centre, but even then I don't think that would be a good idea for kids going through puberty.	Age	Age - General	1/75	1.333

degen83 "There are clothes, or lack of clothes, that cross the line from being a protective layer to being a purposeful distraction."Which is a different line for everyone, so I guess the only compromise is that we all run around naked."Feminists claiming females should be able to walk around wearing as little as they want and if you stare at them you are raping them with your eyes and if you stare away you must be afraid of the female form."Yes, women are allowed to wear as little as they want. They are also allowed to wear as much as they want. And you aren't allowed to feel entitled to anything because of it.And, frankly, I don't care whether you stare or not. Just don't make it the woman's fault if you are unable to control your own eyes."You will accuse males of the most heinous things imaginable"Did I do that? No. Are you doing a baseless ad hominem? Yes."regardless of the actual events that take place."Repeat above reply."the feminist positions holds males in the wrong inherently just for having a penis."Says the one who hold females inherently in the wrong just for having vaginas.I don't care about people's sexual organs. They can run around without covering them for all I care, if it's so important to them. What I care about is nutjobs like you who claim there is any way to make an actual rule out of something as individual and thereby nonconforming to rules as people's preferences in clothing.Other people won't do what you tell them to. That's the way the world works. The sooner you realise that, the better it is for you, Don Quixote.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/291	0.344
degen83 It's biological for people to look at attractive people of the sex they're attracted to.I don't blame men for looking. I blame people for calling it "men being men" when some men do more than just looking, which is essentially you saying "all men have no control over their hormones, can't think, and when they treat people like objects because they're aroused, it's just them being who they are". Because THAT is sexist.	Sex	Gender - General	1/75	1.333

TheYasmineFlower Most men do stop it at looking. Even girls look at hot girls as teh walk by.As evident by the just about uiversal outrage when a female gets raped in the west, most people take rape very seriously. So seriously, in fact, that most people jump on the knee jerk anti rape campaign in every single new incident without bothering to do fact checking.In every recent high profile rape case the female was found to be incorrect, the male(s) accused were innocent of that crime and did not rape the women who accused them. Despite this and and despite overwhelming evidence proving the incident in question never happened, still people go around and think that something happened and that the woman was a victim by some male that just hasn't been found yet.That is feminism for you. Trying to punish men for looking at women. When that doesn't work, trying to punish men for thinking about women. When that doesn't work, try to punish any man who is accused of rape without an investigation or due process or any sort of fact checking, because "reliving the experience can be traumatic", but no more traumatic than a falsely accusd and convicted male getting raped and murdered in prison because we couldn't bother to hold off judgement until after the facts were fact checked.In the USA you are innocent until proven guilty. In feminists mind all males are guilty of rape, its just a matter of when and where. That is sexist and we must fight that attitude everywhere we go.And, news flash, not everyone wants to see naked people everywhere they go. Do you think that if schools had no dress codes and encouraged nudity that all students would go nude? Nope. Some students would be offended by their peers nudity. Not all girls want to see naked girls walking around "because they can". And biologically speaking, being naked in school would lead to sanitary issues, with vaginal discharge going and menstration being natural bodily functions that lead to things being expelled from the vagina involuntarily. Your period doesn't always follow a set pattern until you are older so its not like you can easily plan ahead. Walking around in your underwear just bcause you can is stupid too, at least in school. You are not walking around in your underwear because its comfortable, you are walking around in your underwear to "fight the patriarchy" and only do it just because your parents and society tell you not to.Just because you can do something doesn't mean you should.	Patriarchy, Woman	Gender - General	2/434	0.461
--	-------------------	---------------------	-------	-------

degen83 "Most men do stop it at looking."Hence, those are not the problem."Even girls look at hot girls as teh y walk by."I can affirm that."As evident by the just about uiversal outrage when a female gets raped in the west, most people take rape very seriously."Not saying they aren't. Only saying that there are actually people who tell you "If you wear that, you're gonna give people false ideas and they might rape you".That creates a culture of fear, a sexist culture of fear, hurting both genders.Apart from that, it's also utter nonsense. There's nothing that prevents rape, except teaching people to respect other people's consent and non-consent. But what people wear has nothing to do with that. Or can you point me to a reliable study that proves that there's a higher percentage of rape among nudists?"Despite this and and despite overwhelming evidence proving the incident in question never happened, still people go around and think that something happened and that the woman was a victim by some male that just hasn't been found yet."Well, let's be fair: Accusations turning out to be false make for uninteresting headlines. Naturally, the media reporting about the accusations won't bother advertising the developments on the front page.Meanwhile, people trust these medias to report what's important, and when they don't report it, it's not important.There's likely a multitude of reasons for why accusations turning out to be false aren't recognised as widely by the population. I think we should adress some of the more likely ones first."That is feminism for you."No, it isn't. My feminism wants equality for both genders - my feminism wants neither rape nor false accusations."Trying to punish men for looking at women."Read what I write: I don't."In the USA you are innocent until proven guilty."Well, I could say: Trayvon Martin, Michael Brown, police brutality..."In feminists mind all males are guilty of rape,"Would you be so kind as to stop spouting that nonsense, when you're talking to a feminist who doesn't think such shit?"its just a matter of when and where. That is sexist and we must fight that attitude everywhere we go."Which is why we shouldn't pretend as if revealing clothing makes men turn into rapists because skin. That's the same kind of sexist you just criticised."And, news flash, not everyone wants to see naked people everywhere they go."I also don't want to see people wearing tweed jackets. But last time I checked, the only wardrobe I have any business bothering myself with is my own."Do you think that if schools had no dress codes and encouraged nudity that all students would go nude?"No, because nudity is impractical in most places.But still, if they want to, they should be allowed to. Their choice."Some students would be offended by their peers nudity."I am also offended by my professors suits. Doesn't make it my business what they wear."And biologically speaking, being naked in school would lead to sanitary issues"Well, I said it's impractical. If you let them try it for a day, they'd never stick with it anyway. Might as well let them. Give them the chance to make experiences, even if they're weird."Your period doesn't always follow a set pattern until you are older so its not like you can easily plan ahead."Pill. Other hormonal contraception. Supposing that any girl would actually go naked when she thinks her period might be	Nothing, Patriarchy, Weird, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	5/713	0.701
---	--	--	--------------	--------------

TheYasmineFlower "Your" feminism is feminism. No different than the man haters, feminism is feminism. As in female. Not about equal rights for all.Feminism was originally about equal rights for women to raise womens rights to those equal to mens rights. In 2015 we have achieved this fully in all things in the west. By claiming to be a feminist you in actuality support one sided double standards sined to solely benefit females.If you supported equal rights you would be an egalatarian. Feminists typically refuse to take responsibility for their actions, or the facts of life. I've have feminists blame me for their periods. I've seen feminists blame men on their monthly cramps. I've had feminists blame men on the fact that women get pregnant, as if men met and decided to give these biological functions to females. By claiming feminism you are upholding each and every one of these femists claims and support them. Denounce feminism if you really about equality. I'm all for equal rights for equal work, and in clothing optional places that are clearly defined for people who don't mind seeing naked people, but its not fo everyone. Not everyone is born equal in terms of ability, mental capacity, physical ability, quickness, ability to grow muscles and grow tall. That is where feminism fails you, it blames men on the "bio truths" of the human bodies, somehow thinking that males being on average stronger than fmeales on boys being told to do more menial tasks to gain upper body strength and girls aren't. That explanation is wrong, and even if it were true that statse that the "patriarchy" has a adouble standard to force males to do menial labor and doesn't force females to do any such effort, thus double standard benefitting females and not males.Dress codes are not patriarchy.Dress codes are not anti feminist.Dress codes are not anti equality.In fact there are more double standards that benefit females than males in 2015 (in western countries). For example, females are 30 more likely to graduate college than males are in 2015. Just because you have ovaries makes the government automatically care more about your education than mine.	Mental, Patriarchy	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/367	0.817
TheYasmineFlower Yeah but then those religions basically make women more like sex objects because every female clothing shows the curves of the body .. After all, Clothing goes over the curves, And mold. ..	Sex	Gender - General	1/34	2.941
Jan Di Then there way too thin, They need to keep in mind, The material stretches, And when it stretches it reveals the small holes. in the material.Like i wear leggings alot but the material doesn't get see through once stretched..	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/42	2.381

Jan Di	"Yeah I know, but most people now at days don't know that they're not pants, they never were."So friggin what? They can be used as such, so what's the deal? o.o"Leggings have been around for years and people back then KNOW that you're suppose to wear them under your clothing."People back then also KNEW that you were supposed to wear socks with your sandals..."If you want to wear something similar just buy workout clothing or yoga pants, they're way more comfortable to wear and thicker fabric."If leggings are comfortable for others, I'm not gonna tell them not to wear them."I don't really care what people wear anymore, but school rules are school rules."Not all rules make sense. If a rule only applies to one gender , it is a rule without reason. If a rule applies to both genders, it may be without reason, but at least it is consequential, not discriminatory."If they tell you not to wear them just don't wear them, it's their property just deal with them..you're only in school for a few years and those years goes by fast."I say, let them wear what they want to wear, BECAUSE they're in school. Once you're out, you have to wear things according to your profession and stuff, so why not give children and teens the freedom to go crazy while they still can?There were some weird fashion trends when I was that age , and I see none of that on anyone who's out of school.	Age, Crazy, Gender, Weird	Age - General, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	4/259	1.544
Jan Di	A public school is public property, and therefore has no wants you need to respect. Public property goes by public rules.And what's "too much freedom" about letting minors wear what they want? They need to experiment, it's the age in which they usually do that, so why not?It's not like I want to give them hard drugs or anything. It's only healthy for them to be given the freedom to wear what they want - it helps them to grow more comfortable inside their bodies. It helps them to develop a certain taste, and it helps them to get creative through combinations and styles.It's just clothes. How can there be "too much freedom" when it's about clothes?	Age	Age - General	1/122	0.82
Jan Di	Teenage girls tend to dress that way to grab attention on purpose nowadays.Usually the attention of a specific person they want to have sex with xDAlot of girls wear crop tops and booty shorts at my school, And when they do, You see them grabbing attention and flirting with everyone, Just as they asked for.It's sad tbh, Their so young and yet they want to go out and screw with a guy. ./	Sex	Gender - General	1/78	1.282

Abandon3dRain "Which a lot of girls do in my school sadly ;-;"Don't worry, no one does that until after school. Until then, do crazy clothes stuff yourself. It's the time to experiment. :)'"They tend to get groped or harrassed. Although the girls when wearing that have started it since they literally lean up against the guy trying to get into their pants :/"If a girl is groped or harrassed because of her clothing, that is not her fault and she did not start it.If a girl has a misunderstanding with someone, by both parties not setting boundaries of what's okay to do, then that's unfortunate.And if a girl wants to get into a guy's pants, that's her choice.Just because there are idiots who misinterpret clothing as an invitation does not mean we should ban those clothes. We should ban idiots."I think that's what they mean by too much freedom."In the case of girl's getting harrassed or in the case of girl's being sexually active? It's just, the latter is not a bad thing at all."Theirs alot of teen girls, 12+ who have already lost their virginity. And it tends to be the girls who dress as I described above "As long as they wanted that sex, that is their business. The only obligation the government and/or school has is to ensure that they are educated about birth control and protection against diseases, as well as them having access to it.But if they want to have sex, all the parties involved consent to it, than that's none of anyone else's business. :)	Crazy, Sex	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/272	1.103
--	------------	---	-------	-------

Jan Di "Having too much freedom is never a good thing, you're telling people it's okay to do something without consequences."When it's something as redundant as clothing, then yes, it is okay."They might be clothes to you...but they're not to most people especially creeps who's going to assume you "want it" just because you dress that way."Has it ever occurred to you that that is the fault of the creeps, not of the clothes?"When you're an adult you can do whatever you please to your body, but when you're still a minor"Then you can still wear whatever the fuck you want. We're not talking about tattoos or piercings or beauty surgery. We're talking about clothes. You can always change them again.And you have to let minors wear the clothes they want. It's healthy for their development. They have to be able to experiment, to develop a taste and to become self-assured."um no the hell you don't and when you enter someone's property you need to respect their rules just like you would want them to respect yours."We are talking about public schools. Public schools are PUBLIC property, They function by PUBLIC rules. That includes your basic human rights, which include your freedom to dress however you want."About the creeps thing again, when you dress a certain way..you tend to attract more people who just want to screw you and creeps.."As far as I know, there are also those who loose their confidence when dealing with a proud girl or woman who wears revealing clothing, precisely because it makes them feel good and proud about themselves.And just because there are idiots does not mean we should fight what might attract idiots, rather than the idiots themselves."The clothes that these kids are wearing are made for YOUNG ADULTS, not kids of any age. Teenage girls shouldn't be in women's clothing store buying women's clothes."Teenage girls are becoming women. You don't just magically become a woman when you turn 18 - it's a process.A process that includes making experiences and developing a style and thereby a sense of self."Most of the time when a girl exposes her breast are either craving for attention or very naive to what most of their clothes that they wear symbolizes."Still their business. And they can crave for attention if they want to.Besides, a sure sign of a craving for attention is a good thing when talking about teenagers. It's more telling than the more subtle signs of underlying issues, like lack of love in their home."I don't really understand the way teen girls dress now, but they honestly need to be very careful."No, they don't. Society needs to take action against people who think that clothes worn by a woman entitles them to anything from her.It's the perpetrators that are the issue. Not the victims. It's the perpetrators who should stop doing the crime. Not the victims who should be burdened with the sysiphus work of not attracting attention. That's literally impossible."Trust me we all thought clothes were just clothes"They kinda are. And even if they aren't, that does not mean we shouldn't be allowed to wear what we feel comfortable in."People like Laci set poor example to very young girls, teenage girls."Why? Because they want them to feel comfortable in their bodies, so that they are not ashamed of them? Because they want society to blame the criminal, not his victim?	Age, Woman	Age - General, Gender - General	4/589	0.679
--	------------	---------------------------------	-------	-------

TheYasmineFlower because 12-14 is too young XDDEspecially 12. 12-14 they don't know what their getting into, Most of them want a child, And they can't take care of it, Nor know how to properly take care of one xD One of my ex-friends had sex and got pregnant on the 5th try just as she wanted, And of course she had to quit school to make time for the baby. I came over once to see how she was doing, Spent a few hours trying to help her. She had a very lovely baby girl, But she was a shit mother. When changing the diapers she started from the bottom up when wiping (basically putting the shit on the vagina) the baby refused the bottle of milk, And of course shes a little to young to breast feed, She also wasn't comfortable with breastfeeding, So there was clearly problems there, She never got any sleep due to the amount of times the baby cried, All in all, She basically began to hate the child, Began yelling at her own baby ;-; She gave her up for adoption then.Basically. At 12-14 your too young to ACTUALLY know what your getting into, And you may know what comes with it and the struggles, But when it actually happens, It turns out to be too much for em.That's why xDD	Sex	Gender - General	1/230	0.435
TheYasmineFloweras long as the abide by the dress codes then yes they are there to get an education. This is also teaching them a lesson in how to properly act in life not just school. In other words it isn't some hang out, dress the way you want at home or when out and about. FYI you wouldn't show up to work dressed like a tart for obvious reasons	Tart	Gender - Female sexuality	1/70	1.429

What an idiotic and ignorant video... Shows zero understanding of what adolescence truly entails. There is a plethora of scientific content that discusses how the body AND BRAIN functionally transition during teenage years and how that transition begins to affect behavior. This can be a long and intricate discussion- if between informed individuals. But let's just say that- for both "boys" and "girls" - it does indeed matter how the other is dressed. Yes, we are intelligent beings capable of behavioral modification BUT we are also ANIMALS hardwired in such a way such that certain natural and base instincts can have very compelling and influential effects on our behavior at such a pivotal point in our reproductive lifespan. Hormones are "raging" and the human frontal lobe- seemingly accountable for judgment and behavior- is not nearly fully mature in the adolescent brain and therefore poor decisions will be made that could affect performance in an academic setting(acting in such a way so that your priority of getting laid is better taken care of than getting that A on your next exam). What is worn does matter. Exposed cleavage/skin will elicit powerful neurological and physiological responses in men of that age in particular. Women will also react to stimuli in an analogous manner. Simply put, WHAT ONE WEARS DOES MATTER AND SHOULD BE CONSIDERED AT THAT POINT AND CAN VERY MUCH BE DISTRACTING IN SUCH A WAY THAT PERFORMANCE IN THE CLASSROOM SCHOOL ENVIRONMENT CAN BE CONSIDERABLY AFFECTED.. So please get off your uninformed high horse and stop telling girls to wear anything they want. It's crappy advice.	Age, Transition, Zero	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Sexual Identity - Transexuality	4/266	1.504
I kinda watched the full video because the girl was cute, but couldn't ban her words out of my mind, so eventually followed the whole story. Did I just witness a sexual distraction that made me concentrate on the lesson being taught?	Sexual	Gender - General	1/42	2.381

I talked about this once on my facebook. I work in a mall and I've noted that a young 11 maybe 12 year old girl wearing short shorts, a crop top and loads of make up I thought she was my age (22) until I actually looked at her and then while i was kneeling on the ground folding clothes on the table in front of me she leaned over in front of me to grab a shirt and a huge amount of her thong was showing. I know she was not a teenager cause I work in the children's department. After I made note of this on facebook I said it's a good thing children aren't allowed to wear that to school. My cousin went on saying the dress code should allow her to wear that and I support rape. No joke she said that out of no where. I told her I don't support rape culture and dress code violations are getting ridiculous, but small guidelines are needed because they are children. She tells me teens aren't kids they are girls being shamed for their bodies. I said they are under the age of 18 that makes them a minor and underage to dress inappropriately for school. They are going there to learn if a girl gets sent home for reasons such as too much cleavage, stomach showing it's because it's not appropriate just like how i can't do that at work. Not for leggings and shoulders. I think some people are take the dress code in general to shame girls and some of those guidelines do, but some guidelines i think is needed. If they want to dress sexy do it outside school and what a girl wears outside school is her business. I remember once I was sent home because when I sat down like an inch of my lower back showed and they said I need to get a longer shirt. I didn't go home cause I refused and said I'll grab my hoodie from my locker. That situation and all these ones being pointed out including schools' own statements for dress codes are highly sexist. But my school had a dress code for boys too.	Age, Old	Age - General, Age - Over 65s	3/370	0.811
This is all SOOO SADLY TRUE! A teacher told me I was showing too much of my collar bones. "The boys won't be able to control themselves!" It was super hot and I had to wear a sweatshirt all day. My shorts were once less than half an inch from my finger tips like the dress code required so they called my mom to bring in different clothes for me. She made it known how wrong she knew this was along with many other parents but this changed NOTHING ! Schools can be cruel to their female students. Even in college, my Ethics professor tried to required sexist dress codes of female students only. :(	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/114	0.877
itry2brational Shut the fuck up you dumb fuck	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/8	12.5

Sarah Swinton	They are distracting, the teacher was stating a fact. Girls and boys of that age are starting to become sexual , so it's only sensible to have dress codes.	Age, Sexual	Age - General, Gender - General	2/30	6.667
Sarah Swinton	telling you to stop wearing distracting clothes is not message up in the slightest. Its why most schools ban you from chewing gum or wearing hats and sunglasses inside the classroom, because they are distracting. It is why most schools have a banned clothing list.Not everything is because of sexism . I would bet $1000 that your experienec was not sexist at all.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/65	1.538
sm loves cat	If all girls wear them, then yes, most boys would be running after girls instead of grades. Perhaps because you're not a boy you don't understand the power of sexual attraction amounst hormonal teenagers.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/35	2.857
+AWResistance	I may not be a boy, but I am a hormonal teenager. I'm also gay , I get distracted by cute girls in class, but I also know I can't blame that girl for my poor performance in class.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/39	5.128
AWResistance	I may not be a boy, but I am a hormonal teenager. I'm also gay , I get distracted by cute girls in class, but I also know I can't blame that girl for my poor performance in class.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/39	5.128
AWResistance	The fuck? Both male and female hormonal teenagers understand the power of sexual attraction.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/15	6.667
whoops guess cause I'm a girl	I can't look at someone and have sexual feelings! Damn I'm really missing out. I'm bisexual so I get "distracted" by both attractive genders, but it doesn't cause my grades or some shit any damage. I may not be a boy, but I can still look at a girl and be like DAMN THAT BOOTY THOOOO and I can look at a guy and be like FUCK HES HOT CONGRATS ON YOUR WHOLE DAMN BODY	Sexual	Gender - General	1/82	1.22

Son of Anarchy "I'm sorry teacher I just HAD to wear shorts because its HOT or maybe because I just felt like it?? Me wearing shorts has nothing to do with catching your attention or anyone else's." and guys wear shorts too but unfortunately they don't usually wear shorter shorts because they're shamed by society for "dressing feminine" which completely defeats the purpose you of calling someone a slut. It sounds to me like maybe you've had some experience with seeing someone wear shorts that you did not like?? Oh man I'm so sorry for you that must've been so hard to see someone's body;((((((( And don't ever slut shame or shame someone for their weight.. it's rude and there's absolutely no reason to be so cruel to someone voicing their opinion.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/132	0.758
sm loves catsm loves cat AWResistance +Shelbie Rose NPR covered a story where a lesbian took testosterone supplements and her sex drive went crazy . She started objectifying women, and was even seeing things like cars as sexual ! so ya sm loves cat's AWResistance is right you have no idea what it's like to be a man. Testosterone levels in both men and women correlate to libido and men have 5 to 10 times more testosterone!	Crazy, Lesbian, Sex, Sexual	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	4/69	5.797
mathcreative, people's sex drives are different. Would you believe the number of male partners I've had whose sex drives could not keep up with mine? Lol, some people are hornier than others, some of those are women. We've just been told to keep it a secret cause nobody likes a "slut"	Nobody, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/51	5.882
lol she's going to scream sexism because she likely does not understand satire	Sexism	Gender - General	1/13	7.692

Dress codes are ridiculous, a non-sexual based thing happened to me in high school. I cosplayed at school once, and therefore was wearing a wig, a big spiky red wig. Now I'd worn that wig to school before multiple times, no one and I mean no one, the students or the faculty (including the principle, who I saw and sometimes greeted everyday) was distracted or upset. They asked questions for maybe a minute tops before class and were fine and even complemented me. Then low and behold this one vice-principle comes along and forces me to take it off claiming its against dress code because its not my real hair...and I think he was trying to claim it was a hat. I got detention and felt humiliated, and honestly that's when I started to hate that wig and stopped wearing it as much. There was nothing in the dress code about wigs, and we had a male student with a tall green mohawk and also some other styles. But because it's not my natural hair I can't wear it? It's my hair, I wasn't distracting but to that one guy, and I felt happy with how I looked, and I got in trouble for it. Yeah I kinda hate that, sorry for the rant. Especially since it wasn't really sexual based.	Nothing, Red, Sexual	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Native-American, Gender - General	4/221	1.81
At my school there was the same dress code for boys as girls. No shorts, skirts had to come to the knee (there was a boy that wore a kilt sometimes because he could), shirts had to cover the entire shoulder, no stomachs shown, no cleavage shown (for boys no shirts that go down low like that).It being different for boys than girls in some schools is super weird. But also, to fight to get shorts and spagetti strap shirts allowed is also super weird. It's school. Be happy you don't have to wear uniforms. You can wear what you want later.	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/103	1.942
Mumu Lulu I never said u wanted so see that that's what girls would wear and how old are so u really think its OK for boys or girls to come to school practically naked how old are u man What do u think school is for its preparing them for the future and most jobs people have u would probably have dress code the same reason teachers can't wear booty shorts is the same reason the students can't it's not appropriate school is a professional place for learning not the club if they won't to dress like a slut stop muching off free education pay for home school and wear what they won't well if there parents let them some parents would die seeing what there kids wear to school There is a time and place for every thing imagine if a person came to a funeral with booty shorts and there boobs hanging out would it be sexist asking them to change into something appropriate Jesus Christ why can't u people see that what next no clothes letting kids fuck each other in school fuck it school is obviously to u a free zone with no rules fuck u say let kids wear what they won't yea let's have them able to wear machine guns strapped on there back because rules don't matter haha	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/226	0.885

Mumu Lulu what do u mean how are they showing to much with dress code policy u do realize there getting in trouble because they are showing to much that's the problem they can wear shorts just long enough they can were skirts not just short skirts the girls are basically complaining about not being able to dress like a ho And I'm curious what awsome job ur going to do were u can wear what ever u won't	Ho	Gender - Female sexuality	1/79	1.266
Mumu Lulu damn that's a lot of jobs u must be talented and u your right most of those jobs dont have strick dress code my mom owns her own salon she makes her employees wear all black but every wear is different I still don't agree if kids don't won't to be send home for wearing leggings yoga pants skirts crop top the answer is simple follow the rule its like me saying it's not fair for me to get sent home because I bring weed to school damn well knowing its against the rules if these kids like u said won't to be at school learning they would respect the rule like they do any other Don't let Lacie green tells u bullshit like there not allowed to dress revealing because its only because of guy saying that is completely one sided if thats true guys would not have dress code Lastly some schools in force dress codes some schools couldn't care less if they go to one that inforce dress code well tough shit there unlucky I swear 15 years in the future those girls would realize dressing like that is not appropriate for school I always notice they say they won't to dress how they like Know that WONT is not a NEED	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/217	0.461
hawkeye mehawks Jesus Christ, learn how to spell and type. It killed me to read that argument, and not just because you're an idiot. The point isn't that they want to be able to break the rules. The point is that the dress codes target girls and tell them that their body is to be sexualized, while a boy can walk down the hall with barely any clothing on and it's completely normal. The female body shouldn't be seen as an object, nor should the male body. We're all humans, so why can't we go by the same rules? Also, stop using the term slut unless you're referring to a male and a female. Sex isn't a one party thing. It involves two people, so the male(or female, idk maybe they swing that way, no judging) is just as guilty of being a "slut."	Sex	Gender - General	1/144	0.694

Sphanks so if dress code is used to target girls telling them there body's are sexual (witch is true because they have boobs and ass so are guys if they weren't nobody would be attracted to each other ) how come kids can't wear bandanas,hats,sun glasses, shirts with cure's words, are those things sexual or distracting And dude fuck of with that shit guys get in trouble with dress code all the time. My friends sag there pants and they get in trouble all the time Is it not true girls dress more revealing than guys so would it not make sense teachers keep a eye on the girls more What ever is going on in school its not sexist because the majority of teachers are female What is the big deal that schools are asking students to dress appropriately for a place that's preparing them for the future witch most jobs not every job but most jobs do have dress restrictions do u think the people that work for apple wear booty shorts and skimpy crop tops to work I mean what els is next man kids should be able to go to school hight as hell because there expressing themselves schools not letting them is teaching them not to be who they are lol sarcasm	Apple, Nobody, Sexual, Witch	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Native- American, Gender - Female age and physical appearance, Gender - General	6/217	2.765
hawkeye mehawks You're missing my point. 1) Men are allowed to be attracted to women, men should also be able to control themselves, the woman shouldn't have to dress accordingly to a man's lack of self control. You aren't allowed to wear bandannas because they are used to show an affiliation with gangs. Personally I don't understand why hats or sunglasses aren't allowed in schools, other than the fact that it is generally scene as rude/unnecessary. You aren't allowed to wear shirts with swear words on them because it has a swear word on it lmfao. If you aren't supposed to use swear words, why would you be able to wear clothing with said words on it?2) I never said a male can't get in trouble for the dress code. Guys at my school can't wear hats. Their*.3) There isn't a problem with the DRESS CODE the problem is with the fact that the said dress code targets TEENAGE GIRLS.4) I know you said sarcasm, but that's still a dumb statement.Sockenpuppe Please tell me more about these dress codes, because I have never seen a dress code in which a man is targeted by the code more so than a woman. Also, please don't try to make an argument if you don't know how to spell were.	Dumb, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/221	1.357

Sphanks ur missing the point wear not dealing with men wear dealing with horny teenage boys do I really half to tell u if a girl wears booty Shorts yes some teens are going to be distracted And if u think the only purpose of dress code is because boys get distracted ur a fool I'm sorry to say So tell me this why at all girls schools there not allowed to wear booty shorts or short skirts and show bra but there allowed to wear jeans and regular t shirts I mean we must have dress code because all boys will get distracted and let's make boys have dress code to as a cover up (sarcasm) Its funny u say wearing cloths with bad words is not allowed but so is showing a lot of skin so how come u favor one rule but not the other And I'm going to just speak real shit right here kids don't have rights at school they do what there told the freedom of free speech if kids talk to much the teachers has right to kick them out kids don't have the freedom to do what they want they can't cuss,they can't leave the class without asking permission,they can't kiss other students, some schools dont allow there students to wear headphones or have technology, and chuy gum. Do u get what I'm saying here all those things are not illegal and basic human rights but still students are not allowed to do those things because again kids do what they are told at a place were u get FREE EDUCATION if u go to a school were there's strict dress code tuff balls unlucky u Omg I really hope u reply because I won't to here what dumb shit u say because u won't girls to be able to dress like a slut to school	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/314	0.318
hawkeye mehawks I honestly can't even understand what you're saying. You are in no place to try to make an argument about schools if you obviously skipped your high school career.As for me, I'm actually a 15 year old boy. I don't get uncontrollably horny when I see a girl in leggings or shorts. I've got this thing called self control, but according to you that must be extremely rare.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/71	1.408
hawkeye mehawks girls may have boobs and a butt with a vigaina, but guys have biceps, abs, a dick, and also many girls like guys with a little booty. if girls are sexualized then so are guys, because girls get really crazy over a guys body. i love that you have an opinion though. but hey, all im saying is that love and lust isn't always one sided. one thing that i do know about you though, is that you are really brave for coming to these comments and voicing your opinion. just remember to speak from compassion, not hate, and other will do that same in return. hope to talk again soon.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/113	0.885

TAMCalifornia I get what ur saying but the fact is girls get mad because they cant wear their fashionable clothes let's just be real for a second here I honestly have never heard of a public school that doesn't allow shorts the problem here is those girls keep wearing shorts that go well above the knee Girls say they can't wear skirts bull shit they can to wear skirts but not the fashionable short one's they can wear skirts just the ugly long ones And yes I know there ugly and I get why girls would get upset they can't wear the fashionable clothes they buy but this is not a matter of sexism do girls get more in trouble for dress code yes because no one can deny girls usually dress more revealing and I get guys dress revealing to but still were talking about majority I went to school in Jamaica for 5 years every school there had dress code we boys had to wear a suite's girls wore the something but they had long skirts instead of pants the average in Jamaica is 90 degrees the schools have no air conditioningBut yet I have never heard any child complain about dress code until I came to school in america maybe because children don't take school as play time but a time of learning u do what u do and u go home and u can dress how u won't to. To party's and other events	Sexism	Gender - General	1/249	0.402
Trilogy I don't mind an equal sex code like the one you describe. The problem is that those are super rare, as most of them target boys and girls separately. Also, isn't it weird that we are taught to think that spaghetti strap shirts and shorts have some influence over the grades boys get? I mean, sometimes it's hot, and what is so wrong with showing your shoulder?	Sex, Weird	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/68	2.941

moyoyst c.*i wanna murder my computer. this is the third time i've typed my comment.*the shirt wasn't the problem, it was the shorts. i'm not looking to change the dress code. I'd rather focus on bigger problems than that but i'm not sure how. What i hate is the very way they teach us. I feel like they don't put enough importance on our education. It is so easy to pass a class even when you know nothing about the subject. Do your homework, show up to class, and don't disrupt class and you will pass with at least a C. Foreign language too. No one is expected to use these skills and all they focus on is grammar and writing never one speaking which is kind of the most important. There are so many people in foreign language that can't speak at all including myself but can pass a test because it's mostly just writing and vocabulary. Everything is written hardly anything spoken. You only will get a good education if u try which most people don't even do that much. You can't just rely on the school to push you which is what most people do. I'll be fine but i don't know about other people. I feel like they just give us diplomas now and while some people work for it others don't. I'm not sure what to go after first. it's nice that you started a petition though.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/243	0.412
Trilogy i just think it's mind blowing y u can't do this. but i understand. you are right u can't wear shorts at work. mine job actually requires black pants, no jeans though black jeans were ok.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	2/37	5.405
This is pretty unfair and harmful to the guys too, these silly dress code rules suggest that boys are mindless sex crazed idiots who will get easily distracted by a girl's body. Stupid and sexist!	Sex	Gender - General	1/35	2.857
Online Alias Do you usually have a wife, girlfriend, or someone with whom you do sexual things? If so, it is easier for you to ignore random girls because you are being satisfied at home. Sexual activity outside of marriage is a sin and can put you at risk of hell according to the bible.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/55	3.636
Johnny Rocket 18 year old single guy here. No sexual activity.	Old, Sexual	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/11	18.182

Online Alias I am impressed. I hope you stay the course and don't let a harlot or peer pressure tempt you to give it up before marriage. Or even better, remain a virgin for life. Much respect to you. I hope you are walking with God because you are resisting a sin that countless people stumble over. If what Saint John wrote in Revelation is true you can still qualify to be one of the 144,000 first fruits to God. No matter how righteous I am for the rest of my life or how many good deeds I do on earth I can never again qualify to be among the first fruits to God. Revelation 14:1-5"Then I looked, and there before me was the Lamb, standing on Mount Zion, and with him 144,000 who had his name and his Father's name written on their foreheads. And I heard a sound from heaven like the roar of rushing waters and like a loud peal of thunder. The sound I heard was like that of harpists playing their harps. And they sang a new song before the throne and before the four living creatures and the elders. No one could learn the song except the 144,000 who had been redeemed from the earth. These are those who did not defile themselves with women, for they remained virgins. They follow the Lamb wherever he goes. They were purchased from among mankind and offered as firstfruits to God and the Lamb. No lie was found in their mouths; they are blameless."Of course you have to repent of what sins you have committed, desiring to never do them again, and follow Christ.1 Corinthians 6:18-20Flee fornication. Every sin that a man doeth is without the body; but he that committeth fornication sinneth against his own body. What? know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own? For ye are bought with a price: therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's.1 Corinthians 6:13-14The body, however, is not meant for sexual immorality but for the Lord, and the Lord for the body. By his power God raised the Lord from the dead, and he will raise us also. Do you not know that your bodies are members of Christ himself?..."1 Corinthians 7:1-3Now concerning the things whereof ye wrote unto me: It is good for a man not to touch a woman . Nevertheless, to avoid fornication, let every man have his own wife, and let every woman have her own husband. 1	Harlot, Sexual, Woman	Gender - Female sexuality, Gender - General	4/442	0.905
foxy moon Thats the thing though. In todays society the males are VERY sexual (so are the females but the males are sexualizing girls even for the tiniest thing. Like, She can show no cleavage or skin, And they could still be staring at her breasts. Basically the dress code is plainly stupid. Hell, Even 10 year old males pressure girls into sex with them lately .-. its sad. Thats why this rule happens.)	Old, Sex, Sexual	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	3/74	4.054

Connor Perkins Apparently, Short hair on a girl is a sin and long hair on a guy is a sin as well xDD ( Old testament. of course us humans changed the bible ONCE again :) )Theres also the new testament for slaves called dolos and male slaves pais i believe? Someone had a pais and asked jesus to heal him, Also mentioning that it was his lover. They were both men. Jesus healed the pais and went off. Thats my favorite part of the bible xDD Has nothing against homosexuality yet all christians seem to do is look at any sin they like and choose to agree with it and ignore the others, Just with any sin in general usually haha xDDD	Nothing, Old	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters	2/123	1.626
men are sex crazed us why men usually have more sexual partners. its biology.men can have children with a 100 women but a women cannot have a 100 babies.	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	2/30	6.667
Atheist Jewish Messiah Can a woman really not? I mean, If she starts having sex early enough, Getting pregnant plenty, Has good fertility, Is it possible? o-o Or is it literally impossible? :o	Sex, Woman	Gender - General	2/33	6.061
foxy moon Well I'm sure you know how they act and think from living with them, but I'm sure none were sexually attracted to you so you really couldn't know anything more about mens sexual motivations just from growing up with them.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/42	2.381
Jaqen H'ghar some of them were and the rest weren't. I actually had to cut a few of them out of my life because the guys who were attracted to me started treating me like shit because I wouldn't date any of them. I just know for a fact whether they had sex on their mind or not, at least they did a pretty good job keeping it to themselves	Sex	Gender - General	1/70	1.429
It's sad how these codes put no responsibility on males to stay focused and respect people as more than sexual objects. You didn't fail your Spanish test because Sarah wasn't concealing her shoulders. It's honestly insulting that they view men as just sexual beasts who can't focus when anything sexual is around them. Smh.	Sexual	Gender - General	3/54	5.556
Just today during lunch I saw a girls's obvious lycra/tights camel toe. Did I get confused and distracted for even a minute? No. I may have asked myself why anyone would be comfortable showing such a display, but things happen, and more power to her if she's fine with it. I didn't say anything about it to anyone, nor did I overhear anyone else say anything about it, and I'm not all that shocked by that. No one even says anything about the male version of that situation (which is far more common in my school, and more awkward :/). In my opinion, the majority of the people that make a big deal about that stuff are from a previous generation, and are simply stuck in their ways.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/128	0.781

You say its sexism but i don't think you know what this means.... it would be sexist if they allowed boys to wear things that girls couldn't wear. You don't see boys wearing yoga pants and other shit but if they did they'd also get in trouble. laci green your just being a bitch hatemongering on rules that everyone has to follow (only exception swimsuits) you blow things out of proportion so that feminist go apeshit like a bunch of dogs in heat.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/83	1.205
Preach it Laci! They are making it sexual , not us.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/10	10.0
There is nothing professional about dressing a certain way.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/9	11.111
Teaching students that the human body is sexual is not bad because at the end of the day it is. full stop. The human body is for having sex and gathering food Laci, thats what nature made us for. I dont believe any part of the human body should be deemed offensive. If men can go topless to the beach so should women	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	2/63	3.175
make me a sandwich!	Make me a sandwich	Gender - Female intelligence	1/4	25.0
There are some differences between boys, girls and man, woman . So deal with it. I as a man have also some problems that woman doesn't have. Grow up and be an adult FGS	Woman	Gender - General	2/33	6.061
I tried to have a frank open conversation with my principal about the dress code and how it might be sexist and I list many of the things that you had said but yet he still decided to tell me that the dress code was implying everyone and not just girls. the dress code talks about shirts laceback open backs open toed shoes and nothing about the guys dress code which is sexist and might I add that he told me that the dress code was for everyone talking about shirts shorts and dresses. what guy in their right mind wears dresses and skirts to school? just saying .but I tried to let him see from my point of view that people should be comfortable in your own skin like you said and I believe that but he refused to listen to what I had to say and he disregarded everything that I said with full intent.he didn't want to listen and he didn't want to lift the policy. what do I do?	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/173	0.578
One more male bashing. Male are guilty in everything blablabla abusers blablabla rapists blablabla privileged blablabla sexism blablabla war against women blablabla. When this will stop??	Sexism	Gender - General	1/26	3.846

I half agree with this... Schools are totally overbearing on dress codes, but from my experience, there's a difference between boys wearing long cargo shorts, t-shirts, and a-shirts, and girls trying to come into school in Daisy Dukes, and a tube-top. And that's really where it all got started. Your butt should not be hanging out. And tube-tops are simply not appropriate, for a couple reasons (there were boys in my class more than happy to yank a girls shirt if it'd embarrass the hell out of her). That said, the fingertip-length rule applies to both sexes, 'cause no one wants to see the guys coming in with short-shirts either. I think the shoulders thing is a hyperextension of the tube-top issue, and is, yes, going too far. As long as your ass is properly covered and you're not at risk of losing your shirt, accidentally or via a light tug, then it should be fine.School really isn't the place to dress like your going out clubbing... Or stripping - And I was friends with girls who tried to get away with dressing like that.	Yank	Nationality - American	1/186	0.538
So I just got out of high school but I distinctly remember how irritating the dress code was, and I wore jeans and a hoodie every day. But basically every fourth period all the girls had to stand up in class for dress code inspection every day. If they didn't pass, they got sent home. We would also get reminders every week when the weather warmed up (Now, I went to high school in phoenix. "warm" weather is 90-100 degrees, and it only got hotter) where our principal would say "Now girls, I know it's getting warmer out, but the dress code is still the same. Remember, modest is hottest." The dress code was, no shorts that go above the tip of your finger(raising your shoulders our curling your fingers was strictly not allowed), no sheer fabrics, no low cut shirts, no clothing with extra holes, and no tank tops. So yeah, modest is fucking hottest, especially in an outdoor school in 102 degrees when guys are walking around wearing just basketball shorts, and my friends are getting heat stroke. And did I forget to mention, there were other dress code standards too like no shirts with drug, alcohol , or gang paraphernalia, no offensive imagery or text, and no shirts with depictions of weapons. Yeah, those were the kinds of shirts that were most popular with the guys at school, no dress code enforcement. At all, even when I reported it to teachers.	alcohol	Behavioural Addiction - Alcohol	1/243	0.412
To me this is so weird . My school had a dress code however we could wear shorts, skirts and show our shoulders.And we would, no one would say a thing about it.	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/33	3.03
laci can you please make a video about 'friendzoning' and why it's sexist? i think more people need to understand the sexism behind it!	Sexism	Gender - General	1/24	4.167

Laci I have watched most of your videos and have come to a conclusion. Try as you might, you do not fairly represent both genders in your conjecture. You also announce your conjectures with baseless authority that sadly tend more and more towards misandry .Furthermore, you speak of feminism as a single ubiquitous term when you should know that modern feminism has long since branched into different political sub groups of whom you respectfully do NOT accurately represent. On the other hand I think your sex education is top notch quality. Finally, PLEASE try to represent both genders more fairly, and do your own research because you have been spreading false statistics. Cheers	Misandry, Sex	Gender - General	2/113	1.77
drake7547 oh also you're a feminist not a feminazi like Anita Sarkseesian, speaking of her whats your opinion on video games?	Feminazi	Gender - Female intelligence	1/21	4.762
I wore a Jump suit last year to my high school and I had my Hair, (22inch existentions) covering my back and in front of my sholders the bottom of my jump suit was Long loose pants So it coverd a lot just not my sholders and this Lady dress coded me and ask if I'd wear it to church and I said I have then she asked if I was ashamed and if my mother knew what I was wearing I said she bought it with me (we always shop together) , the lady replied "yea" and walked me Down to the office and the lady's asked y it was dressed coded. She said because my sholders where "exposed " so I had to sit. For the last 45min of the day. (she dressed coded me Walking to my last class of the Day ) in the office I started to think did she question my religion what if my religion didn't have a church what if my family and I didn't have a god Or didn't believe in one. How does she no I even went to a church she saw me as someone low Because of her State of mind Because she didn't like it. My boob crack wasn't even showing and I really do regret not saying something that day I was so baffled that I could get dress coded for that and it was my frist. I'm a senior . If it took me this. Long to get dress code then tell me "hey idk if you should where that it's a lil risky for the guide lines of dress code" that would have been a lot better then "do u wear that to church, does your mother no u came to school like that" nd if my sholders where exposed nd that make them distracting then y do I have sholders. It doesn't make sense to me yet I see these Cheerleaders That where there uniform, and I'm all about school spirit I mean go cowboys yea woop woop but If the cheer leaders can get away with wearing a skirt that only Goes to there Wrists when there arms Are Fully down to there Sides Opposed to the rule saying It has to at least touch the Tip of ur Longest Figure then my Sholders should be able to be. "Exposed" it's just crazy	Crazy, Senior	Age - Over 65s, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/400	0.5

Protip: a person’s emotionality and emotional maturity has nothing to do with gender .	Gender, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/13	15.385
I remember in 8th grade i got in trouble for wearing a skirt that wasfingertip length with leggings. I was in the office with a 6th grade girl for the same dress code violation and while waiting on my mom to bring me pants, the principal walks by shakes his head and said to one of the office staff ”this is why i’m glad i don’t have daughters, girls now a days dress like whores.” I will never forget the way that made me feel. it was my first week at a new school in Georgia and i only had skirts because in my school in California i could wear them and they didn’t have to be knee length. Now in high school, girls have to wear knee length skirts and cant show ”too much skin” with your shirts, which means you can pretty much only wear t shirts and long sleeved shirts. If you are African American you can get away with short skirts and tank tops (as long as they’re not spaghetti straps) and if you’re a guy you can wear short shorts! I am completely disgusted with this and hopefully the world will come to its senses and realize that this is not okay! The other day i wore a dress that wasn’t knee length and felt like a whore until i realized that it was LONGER than fingertip length. I get it you want us to dress more modest, but to make it to the point where girls either feel disgusted or that they have to have their butt cheeks hanging out when they’re out of school really says a lot about what the dress code is doing to young people today.	African	Ethnicity - Black	1/286	0.35

This bullshit is everywhere. On a hot day in August my senior year, the high of that afternoon was around 100 degrees so I wore a tank top and shorts to school. The shorts were mid-thigh, and the tank was a black tank with inch wide straps. One of my FEMALE teachers decided to hover over my desk and say very loudly to put on a jacket. I'm sorry, was my two inches of top-boob distracting you??? There was a girl sitting across the classroom wearing the same tank top in a different colour. So why did my teacher call ME out? Simply because I had bigger breasts. Not only was it embarrassing (everyone in class could hear her admonish me, and they knew exactly what it was about. I even got giggles from a couple of shitheads sitting in the back of the room), but I had to wear a fucking BLACK JACKET in 100 degree heat. Which I had to get from my locker, all the way on the other side of the building. Why? "Well, because what you're wearing isn't school appropriate. You're showing too much skin." Because it wasn't about my health and it wasn't about my education, it was about someone else controlling MY BODY. My best friend who drove me home that day was outraged that someone had even thought what I was wearing was inappropriate. Then he bought me a water bottle because I about fucking passed out on my way to the truck in the parking lot. He's disgusted that he is expected to be distracted by women's bodies. And I quote: "Dammit, you're not just a pair of tits, and no one should look at you that way. They're the gross ones. Now drink your water. Please don't throw up in my truck."	Black, Senior	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - Black	3/302	0.993
This is why I hope our school may change the dress code. I get it. But make the SAME rules apply to boys at our school! Girls hahaha could get as easily distracted HAHHAHA by a boy's body at this age. But I mean, seeing our school... I don't think boys are that interested in girls anyway, or I haven't seen it. I'll be sure to try to address this issue:	Age	Age - General	1/71	1.408
Dear Laci, You. Are. Awesome! I love you so much! You and your videos have been there for me when I have had questions I deemed to strange or out there to ask my mom at my young age. But still I was curious and concerned about my future, what would happen to me during puberty and sex and stuff like that. You have helped me so much. I just love you! Thank you so much Laci! You are like the sister I never had. I actually wish you were so I could just have you there with me to understand me like my family never will be able to. Thank you for all the help, lots of love for you Laci. Again thank you and I love you!. Love,. Blue is not sad	Age, Sex	Age - General, Gender - General	2/133	1.504

in the summer I remember in 5th or 6th grade (i was 10 or 11 years old ) my principal would come around to every class and make all the girls stand up and she would check our short length ( the dress code said it had to be at our knees) it gets really hot in the summer and our school had no air conditioning so i and many other girls had on shorter shorts. my principal would verbally shame us in front of the whole class and make us change into pants (the girls who did this were very very uncomfortable and over heated all day which hindered their ability to focus and learn) if we didn't have a change of pants she would send us home and we would be forced to catch up on the lesson we missed the next day. when i asked why we couldnt wear shorts she told me that my 10 year old thighs were not only distracting to boys but she told me that it was slutty to show my thighs and that i should be ashamed of them	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/187	1.07
A teacher (female) at my son's school called a boy who had been harassing some girls into detention for 'showing of biceps.' (true story btw) later she taught another boy a lesson by asking him to take his shirt off in class and stay like that because he'd talked to a girl how she should 'dress nicely, cause nobody wants to look at ugly girls.' I personally wouldn't do such things as a teacher but I think these were lessons that should have worked and not hurt instead so, thumbs up for the lady!	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/95	1.053
as long as the students aren't showing parts of the private areas, i don't see what the problem is. but as far as the teachers and staff, their way of think is a result of social conditioning. the societal messages that makes us to believe that a girls body is so hyper- sexualized, that even her shoulders are seen as sexual . SMH	Sexual	Gender - General	1/62	1.613
The thing i find disturbing is it sort of objectifies boys as well, telling them they are mindless and cant control themselves like animals. Its actually pretty disturbing. But yeah, sexism hurts everyone, and it sucks that in 2015 we still have to deal with the same bs. If a guy wants to wear a muscle shirt, who cares, if a girl wants to wear a tank, who cares. Id only find it distracting if they didnt wear deodorant!	Sexism	Gender - General	1/79	1.266
I once had the displeasure of sitting behind a morbidly obese woman who just couldn't be bothered to pull her pants up high enough to hide her crack. Where were the dress-code nazis then huh???	Obese, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/35	5.714

I'm not sure you can say guys are "getting away" with anything, since the issue on display for guys is that their sexuality has no value. The thought is no one wants to see a guy naked, so short shorts and tight clothing are "OK." It stems from the sexist thought that boys have to be sexual aggressors and therefore don't have to worry about the female gaze. It puts boys in the default role of perpetrators of sexual objectification.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/80	2.5
That "boy's are bad" comment is also indicative of the sexist idea that men and boys are incapable of basic self-control. It's the vein of thought as "all men are rapists" and it's just not true. Each sex is responsible for their own behavior.	Sex	Gender - General	1/44	2.273
I love how there are so many intelligent and civil discussions going on in the comments below. And for once I'm not being sarcastic! YES! And I agree with what people are saying, that school systems need to clue in and stop with the double standards. I went to a public high school and a private high school, and at both guys could wear tank tops or tight shirts and girls couldn't, and girls could have long hair or earrings and guys couldn't. If something is acceptable for one gender , why isn't it for the other? It's teaching girls that they need to be ashamed of their bodies and teaching guys that they are basically monsters with no self control. Both are FALSE. It makes me so fucking sick.	Gender	Gender - General	1/129	0.775
Also, the way my high school/middle school wrote the dress code it was like men can't wear this, and women can't wear this. So there was a big loophole, and when I was a senior a couple of guys actually showed up in clothing that would be against the girl's dress code, but it wasn't against the boy's. Not sure if anything happened with that cause it was at the very end of my senior year so any changes would've been made after I graduated. But yeah	Senior	Age - Over 65s	2/87	2.299

My school has the same rules for both girls and guys and are considered to have universal punishment. The rules are the same but the way most administration, teachers, and even students handle it is not. It's hot outside where I live so I started to wear shorts. Of course because I'm a female, I've gotten all sorts of comments and looks from teachers and mainly students about my dress code violation (that I was not punished for because our administration doesn't care at this time of year). But I have noticed many guys wearing chubbies (guys short shorts) to school on a regular basis and not a single person said a thing or even gave them a sideways glance. In fact, I've had a guy wearing the exact same length shorts as me ask me how I was getting away with wearing those shorts to school even though he himself was breaking the rules. This is a prime example of internalized sexism that is the cause of all of this controversy and protests. It's not about the rules themselves, but the double standards that are seen when enforcing or even commenting on the violations of these rules.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/198	0.505
nathan schommer whoa what kind of school did you go to? This is how it is at my school:Guys can wear tank tops, girls can't wear any top with a strap thinner than three inchesGuys can sag their pants, girls can't wear anything that ends above fingertipsGuys can wear sandals, girls can't wear open toed shoesGuys can wear hats, girls can'tIn protest, girls in the senior class had "slut day" where they all wore skirts that ended at their knees. Any girl wearing a skirt that day was put in detention. Didn't matter how long the skirt was- it was just because they wore a skirt. I saw girls wearing skirts past their knees pulled into detention.It isn't this way in some schools, but it really is in many. If they were equal- no one may show underwear, shoulders, or feet- I'd be down for it.	Senior	Age - Over 65s	1/151	0.662
nathan schommer Feminism supports the right of men to express their gender in any way they please	Gender	Gender - General	1/17	5.882
Andrea Jackson no feminist main point is female Why do u think its called fem-inist if it was man and woman it would be called humanist	Woman	Gender - General	1/26	3.846
hawkeye mehawks omg thank you i cant tell you how many times ive made a similar statement if it was about equality it would be called equality not i swear the western world is gonna end up like parts of japan were women become mostly masculine and men become more feminine and the men mostly give up on girls and date A.I instead its sad but it could happen now im not saying that all men or all women be their gender roles but dont push all men and women outside theirs if they like it	Gender	Gender - General	1/96	1.042

Very true but lacue really isn any diffrent then anita or any of these other sjws they all make money and cause drama over this stuff and to be honest most of them are creating masojinist and this rape culture crap and yes your right on them directing themselves to the middle east hell go to china girls are less valued there the states is pretty equal and what about that pornstar who had 3 black males break into her home beat her husband and force her kids to watch as they raped her but that was never even mentioned by the feminazis or the media becausr she was a porn star and feminists dont defend them its horrible	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/119	0.84
Srry for the typos XD im on a small with big thumbs and just to clear it up just cause i said black males that isnt racist thats sad i have to point that out like being a white guy if i say black guy its racist thats sad	Black, Racist	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	4/49	8.163
When the fuck did this goddess say that men can't wear shorts or spaghetti straps? Neither gender can wear them to my school. Shut up and stop taking pity on yourself. She never once insulted men in this video, she merely made fun of how the school board thinks men think. If you can't see that this topic is a huge problem, you need to rethink your logic.	Gender	Gender - General	1/68	1.471
Mumu Lulu I honestly I'm not trying to sound mean but what fucking school do u go to I'm saying this because I know how dum guys High School guys are because I'm a guy myself with lots of male friends and I've been to multiple schools in different states idk if its just me but my female friends are way more mature then my male friends Ur school must be out of control if they ignore the behavior of male students unless ur school just suspend them and skip the detention And I'm sorry to break it to its actually proven woman get less serious jail time than men just look it up	Woman	Gender - General	1/115	0.87
Mumu Lulu u make no sense they get away with more witch means they get caught am I correct OK But u say they get the same discipline so how do they get away with stuff if they get the same discipline I notice ur not explaining ur argument well probably because u realize u poked holes in ur own arguments I ask what school rule privileges they have but u still didn't answer that question I take u couldn't make up one probably because they get in trouble just as girls do honestly probably more because I have never heard I'll be high school we're girls give most of the trouble	Witch	Gender - Female age and physical appearance	1/113	0.885
nathan schommer regular girls shorts? yes, yes they are. sometimes even shorter. I'm not referring to short shorts, im referring to regular old girls shorts. chubbies are around the same length if not shorter in some instances	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/37	2.703

Starpower320 I remember senior year a bunch of my class started to cross dress for protesting school uniforms I don't remember its outcome but it was funny as hell	Senior	Age - Over 65s	1/29	3.448
hawkeye mehawks I didn't even mention the west?! And even if I talked about the west, we still did not achieve the complete equality of men and women anywhere in the world! There are always women who are paid less for the same job a man did, or who are 'supposed to be in the kitchen'! I do not say that men are always better treated than women! That is a fact. But it is still more common than woman having a complete equality to men.	Common, Woman	Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	2/86	2.326
Latisha Lingo yea where taking about America so off course I'm gonna talk about the west Getting paid less is not a fucking inequality its a crime in the u.s Constitution paying a woman less for the same work is illegal if that is happening to anyone they should know there rights and start a investigation Men are treated worse than women get the fuck out of here with that messThe percentage of homeless men are higher than womenThe number of college students are higher than men The rate of custody over child is higher than men The number of suicide homicide fatal injury at work are higher for men Men often serve more time in jail for the same crime Men put in a higher number of work hours then womenSo don't sit there and act like women are the only one with fucking problems up in this bitch the difference is most men just deal with it U say I supposed to be in the kitchen' idk why u put that I think its the stereotype that women should be house wife but I have never heard in my life a ass hole who believes that most my friends won't a working women just like them idk maybe I hang with weirdosI hate when feminist complain about equality and the pay millions of dollars on a commercial saying bossie is a bad word and saying bitch should be banded some feminist here in New York are trying to get men to close there legs in public but when was the last time I seen feminist bring attention to the middle East there talking about calling people bossie but in the middle East months before that they made rape basically legal were are the commercials about thatFeminist also say they for men equality as well but when was the last time they brought attention to our problems the only one I heard is Emma woston And don't pull the bs saying because women have more problems. when men as just as many u named like 3 I named more the hypocrisy of u people is mind blowing	Woman	Gender - General	1/363	0.275
hawkeye mehawks preach my nigga preach we men got more fucking problems I rather sit home and cook than be pressured to work a 9 to 5 to support a hole family Lol	Nigga	Ethnicity - Black	1/33	3.03

nathan schommer Maybe boys in school are not aware that girl students are specifically pulled aside for aside for assembly starting in junior kindergarten to discuss clothing options with the explanation that bare shoulders, exposed thighs and visible bra straps have created complaints and cause distraction to male students and faculty. This is not only in America, but Canada too. There is no such assembly for male students despite the fact that there is (a rarely enforced) dress code for them as well. You have to understand the dress code is not the issue, it's the way it's presented! If ALL students were taken to assembly to explain dress code rules because school is a professional place with rules, and that dress code is enforced without shaming for both genders, that is not a problem at all. But to present it to girls only, explaining their manner of dress is shameful and distracting to males (both students and teachers) is not right! It is harmful to their self image, and it is very harmful to their view of males as well.. believing they have to adjust their behaviour and clothing style and viewing themselves as sex objects SPECIFICALLY to prevent the 'creeps' from being focused on their body parts. That is not beneficial to girls and it is not beneficial to boys! I don't want my daughters to feel they are distracting sexual objects with gender biased rules, and I don't want my sons to be viewed as perverts and creeps who are unable to control themselves. It is insulting to both.	Gender, Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	3/262	1.145
aubreyD94stop lying. Perhaps in your school but in other schools it is not just girls pulled aside, its boy who have inappropriate clothing too.I got pulled aside for wearing a red shirt too many days becaus they were afraid of Blood affiliation might spark more gang tensions because I live in a gang infested neighborhood and went to a gang infested school where gang violence was a real threat.But you wouldn't know anything about that. Boys were pulled aside more often than girls in my school and got into way more trouble than girls did. Even if they did the same thing. Girls got suspended less, or for less days, than boys did for fighting and breaking rules.Your experience just doesn't mesh with my own. You think your own experience is one all have. You are wrong, way more guys get in trouble in school than girls do.This also fits into the current policy of ensuring girls to go college and us not caring one bit if males do to college. 64 of all college students are female, 34 are male, and the number is increasingly going up for females. Stop lying and get with the picture.	Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American	2/202	0.99

aubreyD94 my job here is to point out inaccuracies in your claims. Now I do think more should be done to get more males to go to college, but feminists disagree. The feminist movement blocks any sort of thinking designed to help males in any way (the exceptions being if a male wants to act female and dress female). Men have tried forming mens only shelters, but feminists fought tooth and nail to stop every single one of them from helping a single male victim of abuse.I would go out and fight for these things, but theres no hope. The feminazis will shout us down while claiming the victim card. We need more people willing to stand up to tehse sexist pigs and not be afraid of them calling us names. I'm not, but I really dislike being ganged up like feminists do, especially in public playing the victim card and at times waiting for some "macho" male feminist to come over to white knight them in the false hope that they will ever be anything more than a friend, if that.I'm too jaded. The cup is half empty, and its your fault because you drank it :D That is more in line with my philosophy. I'll point out problems then laugh as you all ignore me and shit bites you in the ass, again.	PIGS	Nationality - Southern European	1/227	0.441
Of men wanted to wear short shorts they can , but I bet if you ask any guy they'd say "hell no" because they'd think it was embarrassing . Guys can wear whatever they please nobody said they couldn't . Yeah maybe society would be like that's weird or something but who cares? And WHY CANT GIRLS WALK AROUND WITHOUT SHIRTS ON BUT GUYS CAN , MEN HAVE BOOBS TOO MAYBE NOT BIG ONES BUT THEIR THERE . There are plenty of things girls wear/do that guys wouldn't and there are plenty of things that some guys wear/do that some girls wouldn't . That's just how it is , if you have a problem , you can go wear short shorts and a tank top out , NOBODY IS STOPPING YOU. Maybe you should think of things that guys can do and it be considered ok that girls can't before you go posting some bull crap comment .	Nobody, Weird	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/158	1.899
Ally E. Wrong. It is always enforced when boys do it, and rarely enforced when girls do it. Being punished for breaking the rules is not sexism.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/27	3.704
GodShe bases that on "her feels". She feels females are oppressed by patriarchy therefor it must be true.She has seen some instances where she thinks its unfair and then extrapolates that to make assumptions that all boys have double standards benefiting them. The truth is the only double standards that exist are for females benefit, not males. Males get in trouble in schools and with the law at a much higher rate than females do. Her assumptions are baseless in fact, and only grounded in her feels. That is how feminists debate. They feel a thing is true therefor it is, and when you respond with facts they are ignored because their feels tell them otherwise.	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/118	0.847

degen83did you even read what I wrote about mandatory assemblies being held for girls starting in kindergarten to explain that their bare shoulders or extra centimetre of thigh was being regulated BECAUSE men are easily distracted? At the last assembly girls were also reminded to make sure their tops weren't too LOOSE because male teachers felt uncomfortable when standing over them if they could see down their top. I assumed you really did see an issue with this since you called me a liar about it. Equivalent dress codes are not the issue. Being singled out for chastisement to maintain comfort levels in another group is discrimination. We don't hold assemblies for black students as a whole to explain hoodies frighten the white students enough to distract them from working. If there was a school wide ban on hoodies with the explanation that 'hoodies were not appropriate school wear without singling anybody out that isn't the same problem (even if it doesn't make sense it would at least be fair and would not single people out- it would also not be obviously discriminatory against black students nor paint the whole white student body as a bunch of racists). Even IF the dress code is the *same (though not always evenly applied), singling students out to explain a sexist or racist reason for the code is wrong.	Black, Racist	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	3/227	1.322
aubreyD94I read what you said about mandatory assemblies being held for girls explaining dress codes, but as a person who was in attendance in schools I can safely say that I do not remember any special assembly just for girls in my entire primary school. Never in my pre college schools was there a female only assembly. The only thing that came close was sex ed whcih was had the class separate by sex . So I disagree with your ascertions. Your claims do not match what my own experiences have been, nor the experiences of my friends and family.I am out of school, so it is possible that these girl only assembleis were something that was started after I graduated. If that is the case I agree with you that they are stupid and should be recinded. Boys have no special treatment and there are no boys only assemblies (because that would be sexist), so I am really questioning the validity of your statement of the girls only assemblies. What did the boys do during that assembly? It just doesn't make sense.	Sex	Gender - General	2/184	1.087
Aubry, in my old middle school all boys went to an assembly to talk about how drawing penises on stuff needed to stop. Girls weren't. So there's that.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/28	3.571

nathan schommer	Why would I lie? Randy and Kayla both wore it. A red tank-top and blue shorts.	Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American	2/18	11.111
Alexandra Lucas	And how do you know this fake story happens in "quite a lot of schools"? Have you been to over half of the schools in the world? Plus the exact same thing can happen to guys too. That's what makes you feminists self-absorbed pigs .	PIGS	Nationality - Southern European	1/46	2.174
	Men can go shirtless in public and aren't told to cover up their features because it distracts women, in my school there are NO dress codes for boys but the girls have a whole list of what they are and aren't allowed to wear. Girls can't even show their bra strap! yes im a girl i have breasts and I will be wearing a bra why should I be ashamed of my own anatomy. sexism towards women happens everyday we're just so used to it that we don't notice it anymore, which is sad.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/94	1.064
gianna femia	"No dress codes for boys" I doubt they can go to school naked. " Sexism towards women happens everyday" Sexism happens to men everyday too. "Girls can't even show their bra strap" That can get you sexually harassed. Unless you want that, stop complaining. And it's not sexist if men don't wear bras. "Men can go shirtless in public" They don't have boobs so how is that sexist?	Sexism	Gender - General	2/69	2.899
gianna femia	Yes you should have to actually, you're a girl and you have breasts, so you wear a bra and bras increase your chance of being sexually harassed if they are seen. What can be done about that? You can already get in trouble if you sexually harass someone so what else can be done to prevent it? Kill all men and women? The dress code is only helping you so stop complaining and be thankful. Men and women have different bodies, this isn't sexism at all.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/88	1.136
gianna femia	In fact, men and women are two completely different things. Certain things should be equal to both genders because we are both humans but we both aren't exactly the same. You're complaining about things that can't be equalified unless you physically change a gender completely.	Gender	Gender - General	1/47	2.128

heyysimone wasn't saying it's sexist, was saying that what women choose to wear shouldn't give anyone the right to judge them. especially in schools - a tank top shouldn't be seen as inappropriate to wear during hot weather because 'oh no! a boy might get distracted during class' or a teacher might be a bit uncomfortable. them turning something as innocent as a shoulder into something sexual is their fault. however, if a women, or anyone for that matter, chooses to dress in a sexual way (whether that's just something that makes them feel sexy like a dress, or even a nice top), doesn't meant that people are allowed to then sexualise them.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/113	1.77
heyysimone You make yourself into an object of sex by your clothing, you can't expect all men to re-wire their brains for your benefit, you just need to accept reality.	Sex	Gender - General	1/30	3.333
I firmly believe that there's a time and place for certain clothing. What may be ok for camping or going to the beach may not be a good idea for school, work and any formal occasion. But I also think that the no shoulders rule is stupid. I don't agree with that rule because when it gets really hot outside and if you can't take the heat well. I also kind of and kind of dot agree with the skirts being below the middle finger tip rule. It can be a good rule of thumb for people with an average size ass it can work well. You most likely not have to worry about your underwear showing. But if you have a big ass like me no cute skirt is going to cover it.	Dot	Ethnicity - Asian (South-India, Pakistan, Bangladesh)	1/134	0.746
I think what administrators are saying in the cases quoted is reprehensible, but I think there is some value in the concept of a dress code. It is also somewhat misleading to talk about how schools target girls, because schools are playing a numbers game. Since many more girls wear yoga pants than boys do, schools are going to be more antsy about girls. A boy might get away with something a girl could not get away with, because schools are going to be checking the girls carefully as checking boys would be almost a waste of time. It may be unfair, but even though men have more willpower than the old fashioned narrative gives them, any limit on distractions has value.I agree that there are problems within the dress-code system, but this video seemed motivated by some ideology, not just practical application. The same dress codes that are applied currently could be nothing but a benefit if the right attitudes were put around and behind them.	Nothing, Old	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters	2/167	1.198

Still missed the mark. you want to shout about women’s right in the battle on how they want to be exposed their bodies. And you want to downplay the natural effect of a woman ’s body on a man. But what you’re doing is actually working against yourself. Because the more of a woman a man sees the lessee respect her. And that’s because she doesn’t respect herself. So if you’re objective is for men to respect a woman rights then you’re completely working against yourself. So why don’t you take on a real issue. If you’re off for women’s rights,which I see you are, then want to speak out against bigger atrocities. like in the Muslim world where women have their genitals cut out. or if a woman is raped by a man the woman is the one is murdered for the man raping her . that would be a women’s right issue send me a personal rights issue not be small things like dress code.	Woman	Gender - General	4/166	2.41
I agree with this 100. In 8th grade, I was wearing a low cut shirt (it was the only yellow shirt I owned, which I needed a yellow shirt for a school project that day) and a teacher pulled me out of lunch and said ”Boys can’t do math”. I was confused, and then she proceeded to say ”Boys can’t do math if your shirt is that low. Please pull it up.” That still disgusts me to this day, and I’m not a sopohmore in high school.	Yellow	Ethnicity - Asian (East-China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam), Nationality - Chinese, Nationality - Japanese	6/87	6.897
Its the opposite in our school, girls get to wear skirts without ttights but men aren’t allowed to wear shorts, in summer having to wear horrible black trousers makes you sweat buckets.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/32	3.125
It’s so weird .... It’s like half the time she is blaming men for everything, and then other times she’s just preaching equality. I am definitely a supporter of feminism, and believe equality is important for all humans regardless of gender , race , sexuality. BUT blaming men for the problems that women face is not the proper way to handle them.	Gender, Race, Weird	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/59	5.085

I think the root of these biased rules is that men AND women(ie fathers and mothers) are favoring their sons, a long established habit in human history. How? By putting the blame for 'sinful' thoughts on females, it excuses the boys(their sons) from taking responsibility for their own personal conduct with girls and women. "Boys will be boys" we've all heard that right? What does that mean? It means you can't blame guys for how they treat women, that's just how guys are. So when their son does something 'bad' with a girl, it's not his fault it's hers.Being a guy I can admit that if some teenage boy is in class having sexual thoughts, all the girls in that class could be wearing the most ugly clothing known to humans and he'd STILL be having those sexual thoughts. Those thoughts are not external in origin, they're internal.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/149	1.342
I agree with a lot of this video but definitely not with the statement that women have the same sexual urges as men. They don't, they never have and never will. This does not mean they do not have urges at all but lets stop pretending that the disconnect between female urges and male urges is solely based on oppression, it clearly isn't; ask any married man.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/67	1.493
Wow this is... wow. Sexism at its best. I didn't know about this issue before I watched your video because I went to school in Germany, and here the only dress code (for girls AND boys) is that your genitals should be covered and you shouldn't show all pf your back/belly. So everyone wears whatever the fuck he/she wants: mini skirts, tube tops, leggings, muscle shirts, shorts, crop tops, etc. Even some of the teachers show cleavage or legs. I think it's disgusting that US schools apparently tell little girls that their bodies are sinful and sexualizing (9 y o girls!!) and tell boys that they have absolutely no brain and only think with their genitalia.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/116	0.862
I agree with everything you just said in this video. Actually, scratch that, I've seen at least 8 of your videos, and I agree with all of them, and holy shit, I'm male! Female sexuality isn't any worse or better than male sexuality, and people that objectify females in that regard with asinine comments about their garb, especially if the "faculty" is "distracted" when they are under the age of 18 is disgusting. I've seen women in classes that I have attended in college that wore short garb, and they weren't told by teachers or staff that what they were wearing was inappropriate. Sexual biases and discrimination are some of the worst social practices in modern day society, especially with circumcision, in which they are trying to destroy sexuality in people and things, judging it as "sin" and oppressing it, instead of a normal human function and teaching people the correct way to approach their own sexual desires, wants, and needs.	Age, Sexual	Age - General, Gender - General	3/161	1.863

I disagree. Sexism is being thrown around a little to much in this video.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/14	7.143
A male has sexual tendencies regardless what they do. A female doesn't have to wear slutty clothes unless its their CHOICE. Choice over nature...	Sexual	Gender - General	1/24	4.167
When I was in highschool all dresscodes were global. No one could expose their shoulders, thighs, or cleavage. No V-Necks for boys, no gym shorts outside of gym for either gender . And no skirts an inch above the knee. But, there was also an obvious no head wear that is a common guideline in many schools. Girls were allowed to walk around with hats and boys were not. They could wear bandannas and boys could not. Also boys were not allowed to wear earrings.It would have been nice to see Laci take an approach that was not so biased.	Common, Gender	Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	2/100	2.0
I agree people should wear what they want to wear. I don't believe either gender should be harrassed for harshly for what they wear. I believe both genders should wear appropriate clothing that is respectable in the publics eye.	Gender	Gender - General	1/39	2.564
At my school you can't wear a jacket inside. Well during an exam my friend was really sick and cold therefore she wanted to wear her jacket. The teacher said if she put it on she would get a zero on the exam and would need to leave. It was a final so she tried to stay she eventually passed out and I had to drive her home the teacher still failed her.....	Zero	Age - Youngsters	1/73	1.37
looks like your indoctrination program is going well, I hope your army of 14 year old girls with absolutely no world view support you when this movement based upon hatred and division comes crashing down.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/35	2.857
When I was twelve years old , I went to a bible camp. It turned out that 90 of my wardrobe, despite having no dress code given before I arrived, was deemed too revealing. Mind you, none of the shirts, skirts, shorts or dresses I was wearing went more than two inches above my knee/off my shoulders/bared midriff and any cleavage I would have had at that age , i.e. none, was not shown. I was taken aside and told that when the boys looked at me in my provocative outfits, it made them imagine me with less and less clothing until they were seeing me naked and that gave them impure thoughts. They essentially told me that I was the one to blame for giving boys sexual urges, and that I was inviting sexual attention. They were both slut shaming me and trying to scare me away from boys, and it stuck with me for way too long. If/when I have daughters, I will make sure they know whatever they wear is a form of expression, and it is not their responsibility to control the sexual urges of anyone with their wardrobe.	Age, Old, Sexual	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	5/191	2.618

What drove me nuts in high school is I am well endowed. Skinny girls with no breasts can wear tank tops and booty shorts. But anyone above a C cup and that had hips couldn't. Also it came to the point where only the unattractive girls were told to cover up i.e. fat or ugly. It was such bullshit and it just made all of us dress more scandalous to prove a point.	Fat, Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/73	2.74
If woman where not so sexualised this wouldn't even be a issue. Seeing a dudes chest (or what ever body part) should just be as revealing as seeing a chicks breasts, or the other way around; just as normal. Problem is that society has accepted the sexualisation of woman that has been spread around by the media, believes and many ( old ) cultures. Sadly it's been like this a long ass time, I doubt it is ever going to change. But starting with addressing to things like dress codes is a start! Nice video :)	Old, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	3/94	3.191
I can see that shorts are too short if you can see their butt cheeks, but at my school the in seam has to be 5 inches, I personally things that's crazy , you can barely find shorts that long anywhere anymore. and leggings are distracting, so they're telling us were suppose to wear jeans during the hot months at school? I hate wearing jeans in general especially to school, no I don't want to sit around in a desk for 7 hours in an uncomfortable material. 5 inches for the in seam seems beyond crazy seems how you can barely find shorts that long anymore.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/105	1.905

REASONS WHY I'M NOT A FEMINIST! KISS ME NYC Double StandardsKevin Lincoln saying Liam Neeson's movies shut out womenClaiming Trevor Noah's tweets are sexistSaying Grand Theft Auto is misogynisticGetting offended over toysYes means Yes is discriminationManspreadingClaiming a PS4 trailer is sexist, when it's notMelody Hensley claiming the she has PTSD from twitterSwedish feminists want to ban men from standing up to urinateFeminist Frequency- Anita Sarkeesian saying sexism against men doesn't exist- Saying players are meant to exploit situations, when the players are meant to avoid them (Hitman)- Jack Thompson 2.0- Saying Christmas songs are sexist- Over-Analyzing everything- Possible con-artist- Why does she disable the like-dislike ratio- Saying Video Games cause sexism- Denies science- Saying women are being instituteally oppressed in every facet of their lives- Watch Thunder00tGender Roles- Transgender people- Not respecting original gender rolesJessica Valenti- Advocates that we should pay women more and men less- Wears a shirt saying "I Bathe in Male Tears"- Saying it doesn't matter if feminists hate menSexual Objectification (Subject-Object Dichotomy)- Her body, her choice- Just because a person is sexulized, doesn't mean that person loses their worth or rightsTheir reaction to people who say they not feministsSorry not SorryBan BossyShirtgateTheir reaction to Comic Book covers (Spider-Woman, Batgirl, etc)UVA Rape Scandal &amp; Duke lacrosse CaseRape HysteriaWage Gap Myth- Why wouldn't employers hire more women if they could get away with paying them less- It's simply the average earnings of all men and women, working full time- It doesn't take into account Occupations, Positions, Education, Job Tenure, Hours Worked per Week. Take all these factors into account, the "wage gap" narrows to point of vanishing- Watch Christina Hoff Sommers	Gender, Sexism, Sexual, Transgender	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Transexuality	6/316	1.899
Don't stereotype. It's not like we're all like that. Feminism is about women being equal to men and vice versa. Not about women being better than men, that is called misandry.	Misandry	Gender - General	1/31	3.226

Michael McKenzie I "don't think feminism as a movement is irrelevant in modern-day America" either, it's very relevant actually. As long as we have pay gaps, men who think woman "belong in the kitchen" and "must have slept with the boss" to get that raise/promotion and a million other reason just on problems within the US, not to mention all of the horrendous things done to women and girls every day around the world for no other reason other then they were born female; as long as men are told to "man up" as a reaction to natural human emotion.... I could go on, but I don't have the time nor do you to read it all at once I'm sure. But for many many reason Feminism is extremely relevant and needed. And please, don't spread false rumors that the extremists who simply happen to have bigger mouths in any way represent feminism at any point in history. Every group - ever, has their extremists with absurd thoughts and drastic actions that bring a bad light to the group as a whole. We're aware, we don't agree with them either.	Woman	Gender - General	1/190	0.526
Michael McKenzie If the world began and ended with the laws of our societies, your question would have merit.But the world is too complex to dumb it down to a simple one liner.Every group is treated poorly in some respect: Some far more so than others, but every issue is still a real issue.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/56	1.786

Sha Riggles 1. Wage gaps have been proven wrong countless of times, it's a myth! Earning is not the same as paying.2. And what about women or feminists who believe that men are all raping scum-bags who deserve to die, or are we just gonna dismiss that? guess what? some people are ass holes.3. Again, does the fact that they are women suddenly make it worse then the crimes done to men and boys just because their male? Because males are more subject to murder and abuse than women are.4. Maybe it's not the fact that he's male and he just needs to not be so sensitive to everything around him otherwise it could drive him to suicide and depression, another statistic that is higher in men than women, ever think that maybe teaching everyone to have a better control over their emotions is a good thing?5. Also I don't see how that last one is a problem for feminists when you can still be a feminist that hates men and doesn't believe that men should have emotions, if it doesn't apply to the whole group, then it can't be counted as a problem for all feminist, just for you, and who would join a movement that can't decide on what they want? Even radical feminists believe in equal or more rights for females, and that is the only thing feminism does, it's not a cure that helps everyone and everything, if it's not an issue for the activist movement as a whole, then don't pretend it is.6. And even extremists believe in female rights right? Then they still count as feminists even if they hate men? In such case, they still represent a part of your movement in some way, as they are not dismissed as being feminist! See, egalitarianism means human rights, feminism may mean "equal" rights, but there is a difference between the technical term and actions based up on that group. Saying "we" as in referring to all other feminists is therefore incorrect as radical feminists still counts as, well, feminists. Still don't see why people don't want to be feminists? I think it's good to look at people who argue against feminists points as well, if you keep an open mind and actually look at what modern day feminism is, then you'll see it's a group that contributes nothing any more, makes up ridiculous facts and is full of hypocrisy and contradictions. Overall, a messy group that doesn't know what it wants or what it actually helps, when I was still considering what feminism was really about, I looked at people who represented the movement, both good and bad, and that's why I'm not a feminist, I suggest checking out a YouTuber called "TL;DR", and his responses to feminism, just saying that it's good to keep an open mind to what other people have to say.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/486	0.206
---	---------	---------------------	-------	-------

Gender roles? Transgender people? Not respecting gender roles?Her body her choice?Please expand what these "Issues" are.	Gender, Transgender	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Transexuality	3/18	16.667
PitLover1523 Why do transgender people exist if gender roles are socially constructed? Feminists get angry when women embrace original gender roles.Feminists getting offended by the way women dress.	Gender, Transgender	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Transexuality	3/29	10.345
Michael McKenzie You are assuming all Transgender people fit into gender roles. There are feminine ftm 's and masculine mtf 's.I have yet to meet a feminist is real life who doesn't believe women should choose how they live (key word being, choose). If a woman wants to fit into a traditional gender role then sure, but she shouldn't be pressured into being a stay at home mom or a nurse when she would rather go to work or be a firefighter. Most feminists (real feminists) only care when she is not choosing that role but is forced into it.	Gender, Transgender, Woman	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Transexuality	4/101	3.96
Michael McKenzie How about the fact that feminists have to continually depend on the flawed wage gap theory to justify their victimization. It seems very hard for them to come up with anything else that makes them victims (not that they don't). Just to name a few issues that are disadvantageous towards men: 99 of those executed are male, men get an average sentence more than twice as long as women for the same crimes, domestic violence against women gets its own civil rights violating legislation, domestic violence against men is looked at as a joke, Women's History Month (still waiting for Men's History Month), men are a majority of the homeless at 75, family courts historically rule in favor of the mother, a woman is almost twice as likely to have sole custody as she is to have joint custody, ect., ect.	Woman	Gender - General	1/143	0.699
Michael McKenzie Feminism is a collection of movements and ideologies that share a common goal: to define, establish, and achieve equal political, economic, cultural, personal, and social rights for women. This includes seeking to establish equal opportunities for women in education and employment. Just thought I would tell you the definition.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/51	1.961

Alexandra Lucas The pay gap is a myth.- It's down to men picking more lucrative jobs than women. - Why not make the majority of the workplace female? You wouldn't have to pay them as much.- If women are being paid less than men, just for being women, why aren't there gender discrimination lawsuits all over the country? How are you less valuable than men?I agree that saying something like that is horrible, but I think it's exaggerated.	Gender	Gender - General	1/81	1.235
Michael McKenzie A) Women have more trouble balancing family life and work. We need paid leave. B) The wage gap, Don't groan. [LINK] You guys give me websites that say the wage gap isn't real,but in your website it doesn't compare a women to a man with same effort ETC and still say they get paid the same. C) Ceo problems [LINK] We're also more likely to be interrupted. I think it states that in the website. D) the media. Men get objectives too, but lets be honest you've probably seen a women's breast being used to sell everything. Cars, burgers, chips! Did you know that the FIFA suggested that the women wear Tighter shorts to gain more views!!! E) not that many women are in stem. STEM is a male dominated felid and has a lot of sexism and is a harsh environment. It's hard for a women. Although there are others reasons I'm sure this one is the biggest. F) We have a short supply of pads in prison. G) cat-calling. It's gets really annoying when you walk and pray that no one says anything to youH) Not being respected in politics. Come on, are you really going to tell me journalist don't constantly bring up our looks and don't mention the words we say? Or watched a interview and see that the female mostly got the questions about her looks rather than her accomplishment or goals etc. I) Men are raped more in prison, while women are raped more on the streets, and we alway have to worry about our drinks getting posioned. SOCIETY PROBLEMA) a girl can dress like a boy but a boy can't dress like a girl. Why? Because it's degrading to be feminine. B) if a man sleep around his value doesn't decrease, but it a women sleeps around she's not worth anything. C) slut shaming is different from BD) victim blaming is different from CE) degrading kitchen jokes F) sexual favors for promotions. Thanks Sha! I feel like there's a need to restate this. "Don't think I don't acknowledge the problems men face. Women have more problems, that are small but add up, while men have few problems but they're big "	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	2/375	0.533

Michael McKenzie Did you read the last paragraph at all!!!! Don't women already get paid maternity leave? No2. The wage gap is a myth, it's the fact that men go into more lucrative jobs, look it up. Just gave you evidence that refers to studies and books I believe 3. That's such a small petty issue. That "small petty issue" cost some women a lot. Discrimination in ceo is a lot. 4. Their body, their choice. When you show ads like that, where the women's body is used like a toy being used to sell something, what kind of message do you think that sends. This creates problems for women. 5. Evidence? [LINK] [LINK] 6. Fine, kind of a small issue isn't it? Although everyone knows women have periods, you don't think it's EMBRASSING to have red stains on your jumpsuit. It's also uncomfortable to have liquid running down your legs? It may seem like small issue because you don't have to go threw this. 7. Freedom of Speech? You have freedom of speech until it makes someone uncomfortable, or if it's threats. (rape threats) 8. But isn't mainly women asking these questions? It doesn't matter who asked the question, it's still a problem, and thus makes us feel like we're dolls. Pretty and pink on the outside and hollow on the inside. 9. Meh, small issue. Since I used letters and your using numbers, I have to count. I recounted this seven times. Excuse me? Always being concern for our safety is a small issue. From your pervious comments, I really thought you had common sense 10. I agree with the slut thing.11. What do you mean by "victim blaming"? I completely lost faith in you. When you blame the rape victims for the rapist's lack of self control.	Common, Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American, Social Class - Working class	3/304	0.987
Michael McKenzie" I'm only asking a question, what do you mean by "victim blaming", what does that mean? "How old are you? Go back to my pervious comment. "Women are agreeing to do theses ads, it's their body, it's their choice."Already explained that. "Also freedom of speech doesn't end just because it makes you uncomfortable."yes it does, if your freedom of speech consists of yelling inappropriate things, and rape threats then it ends. And your "freedom of speech" might led to some conclusion that can harm you. I mean if you say you want to sleep with a women and she gets raped..... Connect the dots buddy	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/111	0.901
All of this gets solved by having school uniforms. If everyone wears the same thing, nobody gets singled out on the basis of what they wear.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/26	3.846

We had a dress code kerfuffle back was in high school. There was a protest on campus (that the administrators were handing out detention for, of course, even though we didn't break a single rule) and I got up on the podium and thanked the administration personally, as a gay man, for enabling me to ogle all the shirtless men I want during gym class. I thanked them for banning baggy clothing that conceals the male figure from my desperately horny teenaged gaze. I thanked them for shielding my delicate gay sensibilities from having to look at things I can't masturbate to, such as female shoulders and feet clad in flip-flops. I also suggested that in the future, women also shouldn't be allowed to wear accessories that are cuter than mine, as the envy might become distracting. After that, they started treating mens' dress codes a little more equally :c	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	4/150	2.667
Dan Z I've seen your other comments a bit and general agree with you, but I must say, we actually do wear clothes as protection from the elements. The sun, cold, wind, bugs... as a women, I would not be comfortable sitting on a public seat in the buff - where many others have sat naked before me. And could you imagine cooking (especially with boiling water or hot grease) in the nude? o.O lol It is our manner of dress and what is considered "sexy" that is very much a cultural thing though. We need to learn how to respect each other simply as being and stop over sexualizing parts and people (not to mention racism , sexism , etc - but we'll stick to one problem at a time for now XD)	Racism, Sexism	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	2/132	1.515
Because a lot of the time, even in their teenage years, girls are more subtle with their sexual feelings.Which, probably came about from the same double standard that Laci is talking about so, yeah.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/35	2.857
THANK YOU omg. In my school we cant wear tank tops, shorts have to be at least 5 in above the knee, you cant have off the shoulders,and you cant wear any sleeveless. i live in la, where the weather gets up to 100 degrees. its honestly so dumb bc its gettingREALLY HOT AND I HAVE TO WEAR CLOTHES THAT COVER MY ARMPITS SKSNXM AND IM LIKE SWIMMING IN MY SWEAT LIKE WTF	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/73	1.37

”Do you think your skirt is too short?””No.””Don’t get smart with me little missy””Not only is it within dress code, it is not a distracting skirt.””You need to go change.””No.””Then you will be in my office tomorrow morning so I can’t make sure what you’re wearing is within dress code””Nothing I’m wearing right now is out of dress code.””Turn around and let me see the back””No, I will not turn around for you to examine my rear end””You need to change into sweatpants””I will not””Then you need to go see the other vice principal”*other vice principal”That skirt is clearly inappropriate.””Why?””Even if it’s within the four inches above the knee guideline, it looks sexual on you.”I went back to class. I got pulled out of class. ”You still haven’t changed, you’re be insubordinate.””You have caused me to miss two class periods today, you are being a bad vice principal and causing me to miss class. Something that actually inhibits learning at the cost of some boys being distracted in class over my long legs. I’m going back to class.”And I did.	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/201	0.995
dear laci,could you perhaps make a video on the subject of ageism? I think it would be interesting as people don’t usually talk about itlove yaxx	Ageism	Age - General	1/29	3.448
There was an assembly at the beginning of the year for everyone at my school in every grade (I’m in high school). It was pretty much basic things, the rules against fighting, profanity, disrespect, but then they came up to the part for the dress code. It was divided by gender. The girls section took a good 5 minutes at least to get through everything, but the boys had one dress code: no tank tops. I see boys in my school wear tank tops every single day and absolutely none of them that I have encountered have ever been talked to by administration. Yet girls get called out when their dress, skirt, shorts, etc. are more than 1/2 inch above the knee, if they’re wearing leggings or yoga pants and the shirt doesn’t cover up, if they’re ”too big” for certain clothing, if they’re shoulder, bra strap, or any cleavage at all shows. I wore a skirt that went down to my knees and I was actually called a slut my one of the ladies who works at my school. The dress code at my school is incredibly sexist, it’s ridiculous that the boys only have one dress code rule to follow, it’s even worse that it’s not even enforced and at the same time girls are being told that they’re too big for a dress or that they’re sluts for wearing it.	Gender	Gender - General	1/233	0.429
There is another Dress Code sexism and it exists in the workplace and it affects men. I live in a warm climate and work requires the men to wear slacks a long sleeve dress shirt and tie yet women can wear knee length skirts, short sleeve, and loose collar blouses. So I have to suffer in the heat while they can dress comfortably. Just saying it’s not always women who get the short end of the dress code.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/78	1.282

We Don't Have Shoulder Fetishes Thats Just weird	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/8	12.5
I had in school suspension 4 times during high school, for wearing shorts WITH Black Leggings underneath, the shorts were about 2 fingers above my knees , it was" innapropriate" the office ladies said ... somehow.. i wasn't even allow to get out of the office, and wasn't allows to talk to anybody like if i was selling drugs or some shit... good going America	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/65	1.538
Well, I am going to conclude that you are crazy .	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/10	10.0
Funnily enough in my school this was the exact opposite. Girls could wear anything from flip flips to high heels. If a guy came in in anything but smart leather black shoes he was disciplined.Girls could wear everything from long trousers to short skirts and shorts. From dress shirts to strap tops. Guys had to stick to trousers year round and a t-shirt was really pushing your luck. A shirt was necessary to be certain of avoiding teachers wrath.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/80	1.25
Although I guess I'm of the opinion that everyone should wear a plain white shirt and black trousers/knee length skirt, and plain black non healed leather shoes to school all the time. An opinion I've been called all sorts of names for.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	2/42	4.762
Lol realy your goin to tell a boy that just hit puberty he cant look at tna and wonder why that gender thing just got bigger guys wear tuxedo s shows no skin make a tuxedo for girls you wouldn't have as big of problem as mini skirts leggings and cleavage cracks	Gender	Gender - General	1/52	1.923

Let's be honest Laci there are some stupid fucking dress code rules. It really is more about control then sexism . I will give you that the school saying aren't you going to get married. I happen to live in Utah and knowing that you grew up here you know what I mean by ultra-conservative. The thing is schools have no intention to change any policies. This is proof from the amount of Petitions and things that people are doing to just get hats unbanned. Now you could say that it is a bunch of idiots who are giving the petitions to the schools and not the higher ups. However that is not true since I scheduled an appointment and had signatures from several schools in our county and a partner who got even more collected.If you can't get people to listen than you take what you want. I had a brilliant plan which would be set up like an anonymous mission. It was Operation: *Tips Fedora. A very basic plan. Get students to wear hats that were not distracting in any way or inappropriate (so the school couldn't make BS excuses, since we we're following policy technically.) People who whore said hats would walk around class to class minding there business. However when requested to take of said hat you would simply tip your "fedora" respectfully. The plan never got through since there were a few important details we couldn't iron out.The Point I'm trying to make is I have seen and used aggressive action to take down these stupid policies that are placed on kids. The reason I chose hats is it is literally the most docile thing, almost everyone disagree's with the policy and no one at all knows exactly why it is there. School is a casual learning environment, so It seems appropriate that casual attire can be worn. Schools and there higher ups are not going to listen to there students, because they have a preconcept bias that students will have no idea what they are talking about or are stupid/ineloquent. In all of my experience though nothing makes an administrator more scared and pissed of than talking to a student who knows what they are talking about. It is almost as if I knew "too" much.	Nothing, Sexism	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/383	0.522
I have no problem with the clothes. The problem is that those are the only clothes out there. It would be great if women, and men, had more clothing choices. Until then woman , tell the people complaining to go to the store and find you a different outfit. After that find a different thing to say.	Woman	Gender - General	1/56	1.786

I tend to not get involved with feminism, however, when at my school my friend, who is indeed a girl, was wearing tight jeans, and a shirt showing shoulders. I have known this girl for a very long time, so I know she would never try and use this to seduce boys (ngl she was extremely hot, however I didn't want to have sex with her, considering I am not Sam Pepper). The school told her she has to go home and change. I said 'wait a minute, that's not right' and ended up having a shouting argument with the head of year. I lost two weeks of school. I got a girlfriend. Either way, it ended good. Don't be afraid to argue, especially for someone you love, or for something you believe in.	Sex	Gender - General	1/134	0.746
Self Explanatory sexism in dress codes is nothign to the sexism of males getting in trouble more often than females. Until males are gotten in trouble only as much as males are, that would solve any such issue with just the dress code.Boys get in trouble more than girls do.	Sexism	Gender - General	2/51	3.922
Right, so what about guys showing their underwater, or displaying their package with tight pants... It's not about sex at all /sarcasm. There might be a few girls who were not wearing anything revealing.. but what about girls wearing shorts showing off thongs, or pants that show their butt. This mantra of I'm an individual, and what I do shouldn't affect anyone else is popular, but a fallacy. " just because fallacies become fashions doesn't mean they cease being fallacies"	Sex	Gender - General	1/80	1.25
I completely agree that dress codes are messed up and target women in ways that are degrading. I'd also like to point out the choices that affordable cloth gives girls. Target, Walmart, and Old Navy clothing for girls is often short and tight. For families on budgets trying to deal with a child who is constantly growing and dealing with body changes,this is a challenge. A skirt that fits one day can be too short next week. Most girls don't have choice to dress conservatively. I remember when I taught middle school and the biggest complaint was that girls could not find shorts long enough because no one makes them.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/110	0.909

degen83 i do not have to do better than that at all because it's not a competition. I'm simply stating these things are unfair and should be corrected and in my school, they have been. Now i'm not trying to say this is a double standard and they did it on purpose because i don't believe they could have predicted that muscle tees would have been the next big trend. I also believe that we are so used to dress codes being as they are that we do not often see the double standards that take place at times. Now, i understand how u feel, i can tell u have grown up in a very sexist household, my step father is the same way w his son. He always drug his son to the farm to work ignoring the son's protests while he let his son's sisters and i choose because we are girls. Even when we went, we would be allowed to play with the cats while his poor son was forced to work even past the point of being exhausted. The two of them have been fixing the sidewalk recently (and other things, she seems to be giving them more jobs, we think she may be lonely) for this woman a block away. My step father bought this construction machinery thing (that i imagine picks up dirt, idk because i didn't go see nor was i told what it was and for some reason i can't think of the name) He used the machine and gave his son a shovel. "work faster, come on!" the father said. "I'm trying! i have a shovel, i have to do more work!" the son said back The father replied by saying he was actually doing more work. He was being kind to his son by giving him the shovel. And he wasn't joking. My mother was the one that said she understands how he feels. (not exactly a sexist situation, just shows my step father doesn't understand hard labor because he works an office job and only works hard when he chooses to go to the farm and then he makes his son or my mother do all the grunt work, but still, the poor son always gets the short end of the stick around girls as well as his father. My mother continually tells me my step father is like this because he was raised that way. It still irritates me but i know she's right because i saw it a lot with my step brother even when we were friends and not family. He lets his youngest daughter do whatever she wants, sadly he never gave this treatment to his eldest daughter tho he never made her work either. She was his example, the son, his boy, and the youngest, his princess. You're not the only one who experiences double standards and there is no it mostly effects boys or girls. Either way, it doesn't matter because it shouldn't happen at all.	Woman	Gender - General	1/503	0.199
--	-------	------------------	-------	-------

degen83 i understand but feminism isn't just about girls though you'd think it would be after hearing everyone's bull shit. It's supposed to be for equality between the genders or the definition was something along the lines of 'elevating women's rights to that of men' meaning both genders should be equal, it focuses on girls because that was the issue being looked at during that time but even the definition says it's for boys and girls. i get what you mean but not everyone grows up in that kind of household, before i met my step father and my friends, i'd never met anyone like that before, i didn't think it was even possible people like that still existed because that never happened to me or my brother. My brother mowed the lawn etc but he and i grew up without a father so he had to act as one when my mother couldn't (which was often, though she was good at playing both roles unfortunately she had to work every night and was tired during the day. She still took care of us as much as possible but my brother cared for me a lot too so much that he was like my father. i was sick too as a kid so i don't remember ever being required to do chores not unless i was instructed to by my mother or i chose too which believe it or not actually did happen. i remember being surprised my friends never wanted to help do anything ever well except if they were at my house or other people's houses. yeah i never understood y people would want to clean someone else's house but not the one they live in.) i think the only chore i ever did growing up was bring in the garbage. Though i always thought the biggest reason y my brother and i were raised differently wasn't just because i was always sick when i was young but because we r 10 years apart. 10 years can make a big difference, mom was a lot older and a lot less willing to deal w crying and fits so naturally i got what i wanted though when she was really against something there was no stopping my mother, she'd let me whine and cry all day and still wouldn't give in to me. She was pretty good at picking her battles that's for sure though from what i was told, she never gave in to my brother ever. though he did go to pool everyday after he did the dishes and whatever other chores he did, idk what he did since i was still just a baby, a toddler at most when he was like 12 or 14( somewhere around that age) i do understand though, i always used to fight my friend's dad tooth and nail to let him stay w us because it just wasn't as much fun w/o him but the problem w his dad is he's pretty childish too. He always thinks he should get what he wants because he's the man of the house now (his father did the same to him) even when it comes to other adults or even my mother, he doesn't care because he's the only one that matters. so yeah we didn't win many arguments w him. the only saving grace we had was when he was at work.

Age

Age - General

1/571

0.175

shygirl2927 You are wrong, in 2015 women are equal to men. In fact women are "more" equal, females are more likely to graduate from college than males are, females in the 22-30 age group who work full time are already making 8 MORE MONEY than their male counterparts ... explain how females are not equal to males in 2015.	Age	Age - General	1/59	1.695
The dishonesty in this video is shameful. Maybe it's not dishonesty, maybe it's just ignorance? Who knows? I'll explain. When I was in school I was easily sexually aroused, I think most teenaged boys are. If I saw a girl with a nice butt wearing yoga pants it did make me think about sex and I would pop a chubby . Having a chubby in class is distracting as hell. So whether you want to admit it or not, some attire is distracting. That being said, I don't think girls should be removed from class for distracting me, it's not their fault that I grow a major woody thinking about licking their different body parts. But to say that it isn't distracting to males is simply a lie. I don't know if having a school uniform would stop this, though. A pretty girl dressed in any type of clothing is pretty distracting for a young male. I went to school in an area with a very high of good looking females. I don't know why there were so many good looking females, I just lucked out I guess. Even with all of those "distractions" wandering the halls with their beautiful butt cheeks staring at me, I was able to graduate high school and attend college, where the girls butt cheeks only became more appealing. Girls can't help that they are distracting and boys can't help being distracted. This as probably been the case since humans have discovered fire. There's simply nothing that can be done about it and yanking girls out of class because they are making us drool is stupid. Wait....I just thought of a way to remedy this situation. Have every school aged girl eat 50 pounds of food a day until she weighs 500 pounds. This would completely stop the attraction boys feel towards them and it would also build up fat stores for the girls in the event of a global catastrophe.	Chubby, Fat, Nothing, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	5/326	1.534
At my friends old school, they couldn't even wear the COLOR black because apparently it made you gang related. Wtf, they preach about us having freedom and liberty and yet this kind of crap happens	Black, Old	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - Black	2/35	5.714
Laci, you look beautiful as always! However, you cannot blame boys to have a high sexual desire towards girls (or boys). It's our nature, what are you going to do about it? Dressing in less voluptuous looking outfit is also another way to decrease the possibility of rape and sexual harrasment, don't you agree?	Sexual	Gender - General	2/54	3.704
Amelia Webb I hate how feminists think male are "part of the problem", even males who were raped and attend anti rape rally's. Stop seeing sexism when there is none. Stop using " sexism " as a crutch.	Sexism	Gender - General	2/36	5.556

zzzzImTired That's called sexual assault. Have fun in prison.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/9	11.111
zzzzImTiredYep, have fun on the day you meet the female who knocks out your teeth in self defense and presses sexual assault charges. Zero time for such ignorance * mute*	Sexual, Zero	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/31	6.452
Yoga pants should be outlawed. There evil and overly sex established. I mean come on ladys you know what you doing in those things.	Sex	Gender - General	1/24	4.167
If you find shoulders sexually attractive you need mental help. Asap.	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/11	9.091
Murphy Star It's a sign you're far more focused on fashion and dressing like a hooker , when the desired result is for you to focus on your mind and education.Dan Z There should be far stricter dress codes in school. The goal of school is preparing us for the job sector. A school uniform removes issues like fashion, money and sexualisation.	Hooker	Gender - Female sexuality	1/62	1.613
How does wearing a tank top make me a hooker ? When I was in high school, we had no air conditioning, and it got fucking hot as hell in that building. It was hard to focus on school work when I was pretty much getting overheated. It ultimately affected some of my final grades (we took them at the end of May) so I hope that the men that were going to be distracted by my shoulders are happy.	Hooker	Gender - Female sexuality	1/79	1.266
Didn't you know women only exist on this planet for men's sexual needs? We're not humans or anything. Therefore having our shoulders exposed will distract our poor little men from their precious education.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/33	3.03
Dan Z Can boys attend school in nothing but a g-string and shoes...? Or do you think a teacher might have a word with them.Murphy Star It affected your final grades... What are you, 5. You're getting an education, that will allow you to pursue almost anything, in the western world. And you're complaining about tank tops not being proper school attire.The hearts of the billions of poor and dying kids around the world bleed for you.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/79	1.266
Dan Z It has nothing to do with sexism .Murphy Star The argument to end poverty is better than sexism in school. It's real, for one.	Nothing, Sexism	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/26	11.538

Murphy Star And i'm sick of males being treatedly as disposable and slaves.And there are billions more disposable slaves than there are humans being sexually "objectified".itmovesitchats We're never going to stop boys being distracted by girls, in school. The argument is silly.This argument is going to lead either to a strict dress code or none. And do you prefer smart or fashionable.This issue has nothing to do with equality. Males are suffering huge lackings in the schooling area and a common end result is young male murder, abuse and suicide.And this vid wants me to focus my attention on dress code sexism ... It's a joke. A distasteful one.	Common, Nothing, Sexism	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	3/113	2.655
--	-------------------------	---	-------	-------

Skinflint I never said we could or should stop boys from being distracted by girls in school. It's nature.I don't think anyone is actually saying that, really. People are, inherently really easily distracted, especially in duller environments.The way dress codes are enforced, however, sends a message to boys that "Hey, you are controlled by your most base urges and there's nothing you can do about it because it's normal and right to do so."Which is not only wrong, but puts a lot of pressure on boys in order to be accepted.Sexuality in men is often exaggerated to the point where if a young man isn't acting like a raging pile of hormones, he gets humiliated/insulted by his peers (And in some cases, the adults in their lives). He's a pansy, a wuss, or gay. He's not the son I wanted. He's not good enough. Defective.Who do you think that little kid will grow up into?Somehow, at some point, our culture created concepts of how a boy should be, and how a girl should be, and growing up is a constant struggle against that ideal for everyone.If you want to lower adolescent suicide, then yes, part of that IS about equality.Because being told that your mind is so weak that it is secondary to a piece of your reproductive system hurts.Life is hard. It's painful, and fast, and at any given moment it feels like the world around you is just going to collapse.And at that age, you don't realize that hey, it will improve, that weight will come and go but I can take it. They think their entire life is just going to be more and more weights added until their lives are filled with nothing but pain and dread.And then we lose someone. Maybe a boy who was just a bit shy or introverted, or a girl who was led to believe that she's somehow less than person.So why, if ultimately your argument is that "Equality has nothing to do with it because males are suffering, too" would you really be against trying to lower some of the pressure on kids? Sexism exists whether you want to see it or not, but more importantly, it hurts both parties in both subtle and obvious ways.Murphy Star Not everyone is a jerk. Don't focus so much on the negative people in your life, you're too young to be jaded. The more anger you build up now the harder your future will be, and then someday you'll be sitting there realizing how much time and energy you wasted being angry at people who aren't in your life anymore, who really ultimately didn't even matter.	Age, Gay, Nothing, Pansy, Sexism	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	8/456	1.754
--	----------------------------------	--	-------	-------

Murphy Star I'm pretty sure your jails are over flowing with males. Your morges full of male corpses. And your poor riddled with debt.itmovesitchats We are controlled by our base urges. If you don't procreate, your genes don't survive. If you don't eat, drink, sleep, breath, exercise your mind and body you die.Dress codes just send the message that there is a dress code and you are here for an education, not fashion.That's a ridiculous argument. That queer could be anything he/she wants. In the west you're able to achieve practically anything.Culture didn't create these constructs. Nature did. By design the female is the most important for survival, which means any culture before the 20th century used males as disposable labour.There are extensive tests on new borns which shows even that early, there are differences. Females between the age of 1 and 10 are far more socially advanced and interested in social fields. It's got nothing to do with societal influence.Dress codes aren't a pressure. It's a clear code that tells you what's allowed and that you'll be punished if you don't follow. It's a huge burden lifted.Yes sexism exists but in the west(outside the hick states), it's illegal to descriminate based on gender .	Age, Gender, Hick, Nothing, Queer, Sexism	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - White, Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	7/211	3.318
Sockenpuppe, I think either gender should be able to wear them. I personally am not retarded enough to do poorly in school because an attractive guy wore a tank top to class.	Gender	Gender - General	1/32	3.125
Skinflint "The argument to end poverty is better than sexism in school. It's real, for one." i mean, I don't want to point out that you're a guy so you wouldn't really know unless you actually looked into it but uhhhhh....	Sexism	Gender - General	1/41	2.439
Archer Kasai 1) facepalm.2) what's my gender matter?	Gender	Gender - General	1/9	11.111
Gandalf the Gay Exactly. Everyone has their fetish. :)	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/9	22.222
Murphy Star you are a bigot for shaming those who have different sexual preferences than you. smh	Sexual	Gender - General	1/17	5.882

The argument you pose is quite valid. And agreeable. However, do you not feel in the least that it is one sided. The dress codes that schools have are for both male and female. If I'm not completely out of date from high schools males can't where tank tops where there shoulders are exposed. The have to where pants at there waist. Many of males get pulled out of class for having distracting clothing too. If we feel that people should express themselves how they want that's fine I'm on board but let's preach gender equality because males and females and everything in between should be treated equal. Everyone is a person and they choose to express as they should. If a male chooses to wear a dress because it expresses themselves then we should understand. If a woman wants to dress in a pant suit then let's allow this but let's take both sides and not stand for just one. Let's stand behind everyone and put no one down!	Gender, Woman	Gender - General	2/170	1.176
There's nothing wrong with a dress code for school. There were dress codes, simple to comply with when i was in school. Now all of this is being framed in the "boys will be distracted." This doesn't require all the defensive arguments"Waah, it's too hot in school we have to wear really short shorts, waah, really tight shorts too. Baloney. Dress appropriately. Keep the fashion excitement for your own time. sick of the privileged youth.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/75	1.333
Our school says NOBODY wears sleeveless tops, net or lace shirts, or shirts with bare midriffs. Not boys, girls, nor faculty.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/21	4.762
If my hot female classmate comes to class with skirts shorter than my belt and seethrough t-shirts then why do I suddenly want to masturbate all over her? Since this video just explained that womens body's arent the cause of this sexual arousal, so what is?	Sexual	Gender - General	1/46	2.174
When I was at school, sometime during the mid-18th century, we had to wear uniform, and the argument was that if everyone dressed the same nobody could be ridiculed for wearing clothes that may have made them look like they were from a poor family. Not a bad reason, looking back, I suppose...	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/53	1.887

Hi laci in my AP English class we often have a ton of discussion that have nothing to do with English. Sometimes it's racism , government corruption, the war in the middle east, and most recently dress code. My English teacher is amazing and when the topic came up she told us a story about how when she was in her 20's and had just started teaching she got the entire state of nevada to let female teachers not have to wear stockings underneath there skirts. When the class was talking about how unfair and sexist the dress code is our teacher told us that we should do research and write to the principal of the school and the school board if we wanted things changed. Of course we have to list recourses as well and I was wondering if I could list you as one of my sources and quote you. This is so so important to me and I really want some change to happen if you could let me know soon that would be great, thank you so much for these videos laci.	Nothing, Racism	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - General	2/185	1.081
Boys and girls should be held to the same dress code - in most cases this is how schools work, your video doesn't address that. I am a guy and I wore a skirt once to my high school. I was told I had to change, I thought I had caught the administration up in being anti-crossdresser...I was wrong, I had to change because my skirt was too short for the dress code, and my school had the same rules for boys and girls - which is very common and this video barely addresses that (aside of the submitted photo of douchey guys in shirts that were supposedly permitted - though in my High School, those guys would have had to change). What you are arguing for in this video, for which you almost offer a disclaimer toward the end, is that girls should co-opt the system by which they are expected in this society to expose more skin to be valued.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/162	0.617
but wait should we not be objectifying women as sex objects with sexy clothes?OH THE DOUBLE STANDARDS BITCH	Sex	Gender - General	1/18	5.556
Last year (literally the same day) my friend was wearing a tank top with thin straps. She was pulled out of class and forced to change into an oversized tshirt that she was uncomfortable in and had trouble focusing the rest of the day because she was embarrassed and people kept asking her why she changed. A few blocks later we were at gym class and a boy was wearing a shirt that says "cool story babe now go make my sandwich." Many girls complained about the offensiveness of the shirt. His objectification of women went unpunished after several complaints but her shoulder received no complaints and interrupted her learning...	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/110	0.909

My friends asked the vice principal of my school (a huge enforcer of the dress code) why girls had such a strict dress code. And the VP responded with "So the male teachers don't get distracted. We don't want them getting reported for sexual assault." just when i thought this whole dress code business couldn't get any worse...	Sexual	Gender - General	1/58	1.724
I think dress code is important, though it shouldn't be aimed at only the girls. I'm Bi so I can find my self distracted my girls wearing tight or revealing shirts and men wearing tank tops or muscle shirts. So I feel that they should keep the rules vague towards the sex ExNo tight shirtsNo tank tops/muscle shirtsThe length of your shorts must be at the knee or lowerEtc	Sex	Gender - General	1/73	1.37
Hmmmmm...I'm torn with this one. The only body part I love showing off are my legs (by wearing adorable heels XD). I'm happy with my body type and shape, but I'm self conscious of the skin on my upper arms and thighs because I have KP on both and stretchmarks on my butt and thighs. Therefore, the only way you're seeing me in spaghetti straps in public is if it's so f---ing hot that I see no other option. It's weird because I feel like a tiny bit of a prude (despite being 20), but I'm a bisexual fem so I'm definitely NOT prudish when it comes to my sexuality. I feel like the two usually go together...As far as "distracting" body parts/clothes combos go I actually do get a little uncomfortable or distracted with these: cleavage, leggings as pants (and yoga pants), and boxers. Totallllly okay with cleavage--the discomfort comes with the other two. If I'm walking behind a girl wearing leggings I always feel like an awkward perv. If you have a long shirt or a dress covering your butt it's all good, but just leggings?!?! Where should I look?!?! I'm short so those tight pants are WELL within my peripherals. Can't look down--butt--can't look straight ahead--butt--and if I stare at the ceiling I look like a weirdo ! I usually get stuck having an inner montage with myself reminding my eyes to stay glued to the back of her head or something. I suppose I wouldn't mind it If I found butts attractive, but I'm a boobs girl haha. So, I REALLY have no interest in becoming that intimately acquainted with your rear. Plus, I end up unwillingly finding out what kind of underwear you wear. No panty line=thong. TMI. Getting stuck behind a guy with his pants hanging down and boxers hanging out is worse though. Automatically I'm grossed out. I just want to get through hallways and to my next class without having to think about anything!Also, I'd love it if girls stuck to wearing exercise gear (leggings and yoga pants) for when they're actually exercising. The tightness actually makes sense in that case.	Weird, Weirdo	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/360	0.556

This is kind of a funny issue to me because my school had uniforms.The uniform was this:Everyone wore a black cardigan with the school crest.A grey shirt buttoned to the top.A tie.Black or grey socksBlack formal shoes.Girls wear a skirt that is below knees and guys wear trousers.Girls if they prefer could wear trousers (and I'm not going to make this into a "but guys can't wear skirts" argument. It was for practical reasons such as "I ride a bike to school and a skirt is impractical" and also "I don't feel comfortable wearing a skirt" was acceptable).Sexism in regards to dress code was rare. Anyone who broke dress code was noticed by teachers of all genders and it had little or nothing to do with sex or body type. You can't have your top shirt button open to show cleavage or chest. You can't show shoulders. You can't wear shorts (It's Ireland's climate, so no worries there).And now and again we had non-uniform days and girls could dress as slutty as they like and guys could wear a fuckin wife beater with their pecks hanging out if they were into that whigger shit.HOWEVER!! It was almost unanimous. We fuckin hated our uniforms. So the question I ask to Y'all is: *Uniforms.. Yay or nay?	Black, Nothing, Sex, Sexism	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	6/226	2.655
I remember crying in a bathroom in 6th grade after the principal gave me a talk about how a male teacher of mine was uncomfortable with how much thigh I showed and told me that I should wear longer skirts because men can't control themselves. The fact that my skirts were always dress code appropriate and that I was a good student didn't matter all because my 11 year old thighs distracted an old man. It's disgusting to think that the principal made me believe it was my fault.	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/89	2.247
Lacey... They're going through PUBERTY.Popping random boners throughout the day, thinking about nothing but sex at thus age because that's what happens during puberty! Everything is a distraction, everything is related to sex at that age. And YES, if girls are wearing yoga pants or leggings that essentially leave very little to the imagination of COURSE THEYRE GOING TO BE DISTRACTED. why are you acting like the science of human reproductive biology and development during prepubescent and teen years has zero part in this "sexualization?" You're not that dense... So please take into account ALL factors before you go attacking these guidelines.	Age, Nothing, Sex, Zero	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	6/103	5.825
Did you completely miss the part of the video discussing the 5 year old? I'm pretty sure puberty doesn't start when you're in kindergarten.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/24	4.167

cynthx I had another point to make, but I'm just going to point out +cinigs56 instead... bc 1) as you said, teenagers are going through puberty, and boys are thinking about sex almost constantly - regardless of what their female classmates are wearing. And 2) they're also not animals and have self control and mind enough to ignore those urges and thoughts and get on with their day as civilized human beings. If they do not, they're the problem, not the female class mate who wore a tank top to class. The male form can also be just as sexually appealing and beautiful as the "soft curves" of the female form, that point is of personal taste and irrelevant (and not at all a "biological fact"). And as a female who in my school days was pulled from class and made to change from a tank top exactly like that being worn by half of my male classmates [although the female version, so it was even cut for me and revealed nothing] into my gym t-shirt on one of the hottest days of the season - I can tell you this is very much a real problem/situation worthy of discussion and in need of review.	Sex	Gender - General	1/205	0.488
cynthx Actually, she DID mention puberty...she basically said that preteens & teenagers are going through having new feelings anyway whether people are wearing revealing clothes or not. Also, she said that girls are "distracted" by boys at this age too so why are they not told to cover up in some schools because they are "too sexy"?	Age	Age - General	1/57	1.754
except girls and boys are psychologically structured different as well due to their biological make up. higher testosterone levels increase aggression in males. women don't have as much testosterone, which is why we aren't roudy and out of line when we see someone attractive. whether you or anyone else likes it or not, biology makes males more aggressive, not the schools, or women, or themselves. especially at this age where they're still trying to figure out why they're getting 10 boners a day out of nowhere because- yes, that actually happens.	Age	Age - General	1/91	1.099

Devil’s advocate and some criticism here. We are talking about children in the peak of puberty spending a lot of time together in confined spaces. These kids are being exposed to the highs and lows of their own sex hormones for the first time in their lives and it takes years to adjust to it. I fail to see how the dress code operates as a double standard. From a very young age , girls are constantly being empowered by the feminist propaganda machine. Girls know, on some level, they have intrinsic value by virtue of being female. This value can be commoditized and earns them rewards proportionate to the beauty they were privileged with by their genetics.The dress code that schools adopt is an effort to keep class as an academic environment. We are not training children to be fashion-conscious debutantes. We are training them to be obedient workers. Distracting the boys with pretty fertility goddesses directly undermines this. Honestly, I don’t know why the crisis here is that some girls are being told their wardrobe is inappropriate when it is consistent toy evident across all levels of education that young boys are being left behind. The ”distraction” or a pretty girl is just that—a distraction. Attention really needs to be focused not on why some girls push these dress code boundaries when they are supposed to be engaged in academics, but on why the American education system is so far behind the rest of the world, and why boys in particular are dropping out of post-secondary education. Oh, and one other note. Until 16 in most states, education is compulsory. My property taxes are paying to train those girls. I expect them to get a decent education, not play Barbie dress-up. Girls and boys both do not have a ”choice,” nor should they. Learning to dress in a manner appropriate for the setting is part of that education. I understand these are children. But do you?	Age, Sex	Age - General, Gender - General	2/328	0.61
Once I was wearing khaki jeggings (WOE ALREADY TOO SEXI) and a teacher told me ” nobody wants to see that”	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/20	5.0
I now go to an art school where they are much better with the dress code but at my old school, which was a standard public school was ridiculous. The vice principal had to give the dress code speech and keep in mind we can actually walk to the beach in three minutes from our classes said, ”We are near the beach you can’t dress like you are going to the beach. Do that on your own time.” So the boys could wear board shorts any day they wanted but we can’t even wear tank tops.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/96	1.042
If I couldn’t wear leggings with long sweaters anymore during winter I would freak out	Freak	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/15	6.667

Pretty girls are distracting, sure. Are they even more distracting if they wear "more revealing" clothes? Yeah.But learning how to deal with that is part of being a man. Or woman . Or any decent human being able to control his basic urges to disgracefully stare at whatever type of person you find is attractive.	Woman	Gender - General	1/55	1.818
I attended public high school 1968-1972. Until my senior year, we girls had to wear dresses, but no granny dresses or mini-skirts. No low-cut tops or bare shoulders were permitted. Boys could wear jeans and t-shirts, we couldn't even wear pants. We were permitted pantsuits in my senior year. Before I went to high school, I had been in Catholic schools. We had uniforms there and both boys and girls had to conform to very similar standards. School uniforms are really not a bad idea. Students express their individuality in countless ways, so uniforms do not stifle creativity. They level a lot of fields and are far less expensive than full wardrobes. I think uniforms would solve a lot of the dress code uncertainty and sexism problems.	Senior, Sexism	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	3/127	2.362
I'm in Britain so my school had a uniform, when I was in year 7 we had skirts banned because some girls wore their skirt "too short" which was "inappropriate" and "too distracting", meaning in the spring and summer months we were too hot to concentrate, which I think is worse than wearing skirts to a length that the person feels comfortable. Not only that but when I was in year 10 they tried to bring in school trousers because us girls were wearing trousers which were too skinny , showed off our curves and distracted boys from their learning! I made a petition which about 300 people signed against it and I wrote an article against it and threatened to get it published in the local newspaper, so they had to only bring it in for the younger years. I was still outraged, but it shows that this isn't an American problem but an international problem, and also highlights that feminism is important!!	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/163	0.613
Riley Freeman lmfao it's great here in the Netherlands with our health care and freedom of speech and being able to marry no matter what your sexuality is and being able to wear shorts or a tank top without being called a prostitute. Though there's nothing wrong with prostitutes? They're just doing their job?	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/54	1.852
Riley Freeman That's exactly what a 13 year old would say.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/11	9.091
+Riley Freeman I really like how people like you thinks "Nice guys" are a product of feminism, actually they are a product of patriarchy .They imagine girls have sex for thanking, for pleasure, in trade of something, for them, girls can't have their own sexuality, choice, preferance etc....It's also the myth of the hero who kill the dragon and at the end fucks the princess.So : No, WK and nice guys aren't feminists, they're for many misogynist .	Misogynist, Patriarchy, Sex	Gender - General	3/79	3.797

I don't think you'll ever get a not crazy answer from him. I mean he's so far down the rabbit hole that he refers to other men as alpha and beta lol last time I checked men were humans, not dogs :p	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/42	2.381
You'd be talking about "positive sexism "- an example would be a guy putting women up on a pedestal, worshipping and coddling them. I've literally never met a guy who does that, and I went to an art school filled with male feminists :P I'm sure they exist, they're probably just not as common as you think. I think most feminists, including myself, just want mutual respect- I respect you, you respect me. By the way, I'd like to tell you about something called "outgroup homogeneity". It refers to when someone thinks that their ingroup (for example, males, females, feminists, non-feminists, etc.) is diverse and varied, while any outgroup is made up of a homogenous, groupthinking mass of people, easily stereotyped. Every single group is diverse and varied, is my point, and they don't all have the exact same opinions. Feminists fight and debate ALL THE TIME about these kinds of issues, as I'm sure non-feminists or anti-feminists do as well. I'm not going to stereotype an entire group based on a few assholes, and you shouldn't either. By the way, the peeing standing up swedish thing is absolutely ridiculous and I can guarantee you 99 of feminists would agree (that is something we generally agree upon :P)	Common, Sexism	Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	2/207	0.966
weebweeb oh goood, i feel ya, buddy :Dthis shit is all so freaking dumb for me. greets from your big neighbor germany. :)	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/24	4.167
Riley Freeman So your argument is that male feminists are only "feminist" so they can get laid. Cool. Then do you mind explaining gay men identifying as feminist?	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/28	7.143
memi35 * They focus on girls showing their knees and shoulders, while guys can get away with that just fine. * - No guy would walk into school with the same amount of flesh showing as a woman , come on now. We have higher standards than that!	Woman	Gender - General	1/47	2.128

i want to move to ur country. i hate dress codes and sexism america has a lot of those, ya kno	Sexism	Gender - General	1/23	4.348
BunnyDays Actually the USA has very little sexism against females now. In fact there is sexism against males instead.Lets play a game. You name 1 sexist thing against women. I'll name 1 sexist thing against men. Lets keep playing until someone runs out of things to say. No saying the same thing twice./I'll go first.Females are 30 more likely to go to college and graduate than males in 2015.	Sexism	Gender - General	2/72	2.778
degen83 Why do you care so much about who is discriminated more against? The fact is, both genders face sexism and it needs to change.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/25	4.0
memi35 Both genders do face sexism . The fact that both genders face sexism is not proof of an existence of patriarchy . I have a problem with people claiming that all sexism is because of patriarchy .	Patriarchy, Sexism	Gender - General	5/35	14.286
degen83 And when did bunnydays say that it was?Don't you think that rather than play the blame game or try to figure out who is discriminated against more, we should be trying to eliminate sexism as a whole?	Sexism	Gender - General	1/39	2.564
memi35Yes, we should eliminate sexism as a whole. The modern feminism movement is a sexist anti male movement proven by their actions of consistently banning programs designed to help males, even just 1 male. Feminists protest the creation of just 1 male shelter for abuse victims, despite there being hundreds of shelters for child (male and female under 18) and women (all females 18 or older) shelters. Feminists complain about sexism , but they are the cause of much of the sexism they bring up.	Sexism	Gender - General	3/85	3.529

memi35Yes, it depends on the feminist. But the problem the way I see it is that feminists of all sorts unite under the universal banner of feminism to protect all who claim to be feminists. So if a man is debating a feminist who wants to ban mens shelters for male abuse victims, other feminists will jump in to defend that female. Feminists debate by bringing up unrelated topics.Example:me: banning mens shelters is sexist, not for equalityfeminist: you don't need mens shelters because in Saudi Arabia women aren't allowed to driveThe two are not related at all, but that is the type of intellectual dishonest I have come to expect from any feminist I speak with. It is not the media who is demonizing feminists, it is not the patriarchy demonizing feminists, it is some feminists who come off as man hating hate filled women who cannot stay on topic or remain civilized to have an actual debate on the subjects they bring up. Those feminists whose "debates" and "open forums" result in their screaming about patriarchy and shouting over any and all people who have an alternate point of view.I would really like to see a feminist actually debate in a civilized manner with someone who doesn't think feminism is needed in 2015. I am not saying no feminist is capable of that, but I have not seen one feminist respond with actual facts when facts are used to disprove the assertions they are making.	Patriarchy	Gender - General	2/252	0.794
I put up posters ar my old school and almost got suspended.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/12	8.333
Laci, you are off into the weeds on this one and here is why. Boys, right about the same time they are entering high school, start getting really hammered with testosterone their sex drive kicks into gear. Now the same thing starts happening to girls and the level of intensity is more than likely comparable. Basically neither gender is equipped, mentally, to deal with this. Yet you would advocate "let girls wear whatever they want" and I assume you would advocate the same for boys. Should both genders dial it back a little? I say yes. Dress codes allow us to do that. Should that boy you showed in your clip be sent home for that utterly sexist shirt? Yeah he should, it is offensive and I doubt anyone would disagree.I noticed that your video showed no girls dressed in micro-thin Lycra "leggings" or micro-thin "yoga pants" in shorts that are cut so high in the crotch that it is essentially a g-string.Don't we have enough issues in schools already? Do we need to throw gasoline on the already burning sex drives of boys and girls who are rapidly becoming young men and women?	Gender, Sex	Gender - General	3/196	1.531
This is so true, however I also annoyingly to myself am distracted by more skin showing on girls sexually and think it is important to educate boys from a young age to not objectify women because that is the only way to stop this problem.	Age	Age - General	1/45	2.222

if a guy has six pack abs and wears a tight fit shirt it would definitely distract any girl. So why does nobody ask the guy to change his shirt cuz its distracting?	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/33	3.03
You know nothing about boys	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/5	20.0
1. You dont need to be a male to understand America's male gender role. And 2. I fail to see how Laci is speaking through a poisoned feminist view of men? She clearly doesnt hate men or think they are all rapists and women are all victims. As an anti-feminist myself, I can say Laci is a "good" feminist. One that DOES want equality. But more of freedom of gender expression and proper sexual education (most of the time)	Gender, Sexual	Gender - General	3/79	3.797
MISTERSEANIE Don't you see she is on your side? When girls are pulled out of class to discuss how their bare shoulders are distracting to male students and teachers, not only does it negatively affect their perception of themselves, but their perception of males also becomes negative.. it gives them the impression that men are uncontrollable creeps! These female only assemblies begin in junior kindergarten... your daughters are being told the reason they must cover up is because boys and men cannot learn and teach in an environment where girls shoulders are visible starting at 4 years old . Think of how that makes men look in their eyes.. it is not acceptable!	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/112	0.893
Drawcandy Women are the oppressors, go to any supermarket and see little infant boys being violently abused by their mothers, when a woman strikes a man she's a hero DOUBLE STANDARDS when she screws around behind her husbands back she's a hero and he deserved it DOUBLE STANDARDS when she murders his unborn baby without even telling him she's pregnant it's "her choice" DOUBLE STANDARDS when she divorces him and a corrupt sexist court gives her his house and half his income for the rest of her life she deserves it DOUBLE STANDARDS when he can't see his own children because she doesn't want him to and corrupt family courts always act as the female is the one in need of "protection" DOUBLE STANDARDS I could go on but I'm kinda busy, try your false victimhood BS on someone else, women are privileged MEN are the oppressed gender in todays society FACT!	Gender, Woman	Gender - General	2/152	1.316
Oh. My. God. Are you really that blind ? You cant see it can you? The thing you cant see is that this goes both ways... For example, yea girls are told they dress to sexy but what are boys told? They are rapists. They are objectifying everything. They're not aloud to find something attractive without it being "sexist". This is why modern day feminism is a JOKE. Feminists just look at girls issues mostly and call it "equality". You feminists disgust me.	Blind	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/82	1.22

This makes me so mad... Honestly if you think about it a girl that dresses appropriately has more respect for her self and by doing so is not objectifying her body... Girls that dress sexually always complain... Why are guys treating me like this? What you wear determines the way people treat you... Your talking about common sense... And teaching little kids to dress like hockers is good... No wonder little kids are getting pregnant... I didn't know what sex was till I was like 15-16... Let alone try it... Now kids at 13 have banged multiple times... And everyone is like asking why? Cuz of people like you... I wish I didn't live in this messed time... Like wtf... Soon people will say walking naked is ok and 10 year olds should be given condoms and have sex ... Because "it's only uh main right" people like you will lead this world to the end lol	Common, Sex	Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	3/156	1.923
Thank God my high school had a fair dress code. Guys would get called in for inappropriate writing on T-shirts or wearing those muscle shirts, girls would get in trouble only if they had intentionally exposed midriffs or those spaghetti strap things. The rules were basically the same for everyone. Yoga pants were common .I think that a dress code like that is necessary, since real life does have a dress code. Workplaces all have rules that are usually more specific (since they want their employees to look professional). A dress code just prepares kids for real life by showing them the most generic "workplace" clothing standards.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/107	0.935
I'm a guy. We have a strict dress code at our school, but it only really apples to females. I've always thought it was weird when girls had to wear scrubs if they showed up in yoga pants, like..... they cover the whole leg, just because they are skin tight they are 'distracting'? We are in high school, if we don't have self control at this point we shouldn't be at public school in the first place.	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/77	1.299
My school was always pretty decent about dress codes. Girls couldn't wear shirts with thin straps, and boys couldn't wear tank tops at all. Boys couldn't sag, and girls couldn't wear yoga pants, leggings, or short shorts. No one was allowed to have rips in their pants at all. School is all about teaching students how to dress for your future career. I'm not saying there aren't schools who only target girls in the dress code, but these cases seem like the extreme side of things. Most dress codes I've encountered pertain to the boys and girls.	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/97	1.031
I live in MENA and we have a gender neutral dress code ... Grow up USA	Gender	Gender - General	1/16	6.25

The comments are still full of people body shaming other women...which i'm seeing these comments mainly FROM women. Quick thing: Just because you are uncomfortable in your own skin, does not mean you should be forcing those hardships on others - by shaming and disrespecting a woman for simply what clothes she decides to wear you are participating in oppression.You are on the faculties side. This goes to trans* people as well, if someone decides to dress out of their gender (or lack thereof) "norm", they shouldn't be punished or placed in uncomfortable situations because they are doing so.	Body Shaming, Gender, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - General	3/100	3.0
At my middle school it was like your straps had to be "three fat lady fingers", and shorts had to be past your fingertips when your arms are by your sides, which, by the way was extremely hard to find. High school is a little better about that...	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/48	2.083
Lol, i got in trouble for wearing BLACK JEANS that look like yoga pants -,- .....	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/16	6.25
So laci if a girl wants to wear nothing but a thong to school, and that makes her happy, it should be tolerated?	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/23	4.348
I was sent home SO many times at my old private school because we had to wear button up shirts and I always have had a large chest. Well the buttons would never be able to button up all the way and I always got in trouble for this. So ridiculous.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/51	1.961
You can whine on this all you like, but the reality of the situation is clothing that reveals inappropriate amounts of one's body is just not a male issue. You know who tells guys they can't wear skin tight yoga pants? The 10 dudes that would mock him for the rest of the year if he did. It is, however, a problem with various fashion trends that are running among girls. I've never had to tell a male student to not wear a pair of shorts that was exposing is butt cheek, it's a regular problem with girls. Never had a problem enforcing the no sleeveless tops with boys, it is a problem with female students. Never had to tell a male student his mini-skirt was too short, again common with female students.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/133	0.752
THANK YOU. Why is this not common sense? It gives me a sad. <3 Everything you said. Keep the truth coming.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/21	4.762
Don't confuse equality with similarity re: sex drive. Both teen girls and boys sex drive begins at puberty, but boys' skyrocket and peak at about 19. Girls' sex drive slowly climbs and peaks about 35 to 40. We tend to project our feelings onto others so low sex -drive girls have no idea the power their skin and curves have on raging-bull boys. Girls, beware - you're playing with dynamite!	Sex	Gender - General	3/69	4.348

I will always remember how in middle school I was having anxiety over the clothes I wore to school because all my fucking clothes were old hand-me-downs, my older sister's or cousin's.. And I didn't have a lot that fit me perfectly so yeah some days I didn't even have a CHOICE to wear a shirt that was a bit too short, and I would stress out all day over the fact that I was scared I would get dresscoded for it.. that rrrreally helped my learning experience..	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/88	1.136
You americans are so weird . We don't have such stupid stuff like a dress code over here. When I was in school you could basically come in a cropped top and shorts and no one would complain about it. Whats wrong with you people over there? put the bible aside for a second.	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/53	1.887
if you think girls wearing very revealing clothes in class isn't distracting you've never been a 14yr old boy that gets boners from everything.pubescent guys have enough problems with that already and girls wearing hot pants so short you can see the underside of their ass doesn't help.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/48	2.083
Doesn't help that the dresscodes are often so condescendingly worded, words like "ladylike" etc, that's how you talk to a four-year-old. At best. They're just treating women as 'inherently tied to sex' and sexualizing parts of their bodies that have nothing to do with procreation. And they do this with young teenaged girls, although the assumption that all boys have no self-control is not unproblematic, either. I mean, no one seems worried that the boy's manly biceps will distract the girls.Sunlight, in moderate doses, is healthy and good for your mood, and sometimes it's just fucking hot. Or maybe I just like a particular skirt/shorts/top?	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/106	0.943
Also that whole "boys will be boys" or "boys will get distracted if you wear shorts" is both sexist to men and stupid in general. First of all this shows that the idea "all men are pigs " is true but it's not. Not all men are perverts or not all men want sex all the time. It also pressures men to be that way when in reality they know it's wrong.	PIGS, Sex	Gender - General, Nationality - Southern European	2/71	2.817
I live on the east coast and the only dress code they enforce is the giving of a baggy shirt to the girls who have nipple piercings and choose to wear no bra and have on very tight, spandex shirts. Any thing else goes outside nudity, obviously, male or female. Prior to my living here I was in Oklahoma where if you didn't come to school in the equivalent to a hazmat suit, they would send you home, for the girls. For the boys, if you sagged your pants you were given zip ties and a stern warning. Just figured I'd share...	Zip	Ethnicity - Asian (East- China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam)	1/102	0.98

stupidest video I have seen for a while, when I was in high school 2 years ago there was no piercings, no unnatural hair colours, no makeup, no brightly coloured shoes or shoe laces you must wear school uniform, no jewellery necklaces or bracelets, no colourful hair ties or socks, no nail polish the only thing we were allowed was a watch, for the males a plain black or white shirt was allowed to be worn under the uniform, I don't know what these people are complaining about.	Black, coloured	Ethnicity - Black	2/88	2.273
frontal labotomy Yes, because nothing ever changes and YOUR school is the foundation for all other schools everywhere. >.<	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/19	5.263
frontal labotomy I agree with the others that not every or even most schools are this strict, but still, I'm pretty sure that these dress codes aren't necessarily targeted toward women. It just so happens that women are typically the ones wearing these things. If a man showed up at school wearing the same thing, then I'm pretty sure that he would be called out on it by the administration as well. There's also a religious context you have to take into account. Lot's of schools have these dress codes based on a religion, and while I believe that church and school should be separate, religion is still a strong factor in school rules. This is at least from my experience and educated guessing. I haven't really read any literature about it, so don't quote me and correct me if you will.I see this more as a public decency issue, rather than a gender issue.	Gender	Gender - General	1/156	0.641

frontal labotomyHundreds of years? I hardly think so. In fact for many school districts in many states (I'm sure countries too) uniforms are only recently (within the last 5 years or so) becoming the rule, and for many it's not even an issue yet.Yes, when you get older you realize how ignorant fashion and "keeping up with the cool kids" or the "in crowd" is. But you also realize a great many injustices that have been going on around you your whole life, that you were simply to young, naive and narrow minded on childish things to realize.For instance I didn't realize at the time how sexist it was when I was once pulled from class to change my tank top into my gym t-shirt, the same style tank top being worn by over half of the males in my class - in a female version, so it was designed for young girls and exposed nothing. All during one of the hottest days of the season. No, we didn't have uniforms - so that is irrelevant. We were allowed to wear tank tops, just not low cut, v neck or spaghetti straps - of which my top was none.And this wasn't an isolated incident, it happened to many other girls while the boys walked around cool and comfortable in the same style top. Same for some shorts too. Now, I'm not talking booty hanging out short either (those are inappropriate for anybody, lol), just mid thigh - was okay for the boys in the shorter cargo shorts, but not the girls.To add insult to injury - when we were pulled away from OUR studies to change we were told it was inappropriate because it was distracting to the boys. "Because It Was Distracting To The Boys"What we're talking about here isn't fashion. No one is even arguing against uniforms (I also find them to be a good idea - and yes, bullying is a problem uniforms on a very small level help with), what we're arguing against is the difference in what boys and girls can get away with. The conversation now may have to do with in the school system, because so many stories are coming out about it now.... but that's only a small part of the much bigger picture.Kratz S I should surely hope in a public school system, religion has nothing to with it. Of course, this would depend greatly on the country in questions - but as an American. No.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	2/422	0.474
--	---------	------------------	-------	-------

frontal labotomy I don't think you quite understand... yoga pants are not slutty. Yet they are banned. Tank tops are not slutty. Yet they are banned. Shorts are not slutty, in fact they were made to KEEP PEOPLE COOL DURING THE SUMMER. NOT FOR YOUR SEXUAL PLEASURE. Tank tops were made TO KEEP PEOPLE COOL DURING THE SUMMER. NOT FOR YOUR SEXUAL PLEASURE. Yoga pants were made TO KEEP PEOPLE WARM- you see my point. It is YOUR fault for not keeping your junk in your pants when women expose skin. And generally we don't think in the morning "OH I NEED TO WEAR SHORT SHORTS TO SCHOOL FOR THE PERVERTED STAFF" we think "It's hot out. Shorts keep me cool. I will wear shorts." It is for the weather conditions, not to look slutty. On the other hand, men can't keep their junk in their pants and that's.... normal? "It's distracting!" How about you just not look at her. Crazy idea right? Look away. Simple. It is your problem if you can't keep your eyes off a girl for 5 minutes. I'm not saying you can't think about it, but if you fail a test over a girl's shoulders, maybe you should have looked away.	Crazy, Sexual	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/206	1.456
Really I Am Secretly A Deer ? you and I both know that not very much of what you said in your comment was true, yoga pants were made to be comfortable to exercise in, im sure those other types of clothes were not specifically made to keep you cool they were made to be fashionable, the one thing you said that probably is true was "we don't think in the morning "OH I NEED TO WEAR SHORT SHORTS TO SCHOOL FOR THE PERVERTED STAFF" ". im sure you don't, but you do wake up in the morning and think what looks good on me and will show my bits of to the boys the best, or girls if your into that.Human girls were made to want to show off what will be most likely to attract a mate and guys are constantly looking for a mate, so this whole problem is just humans doing what they do, but adults don't like children being sexual even though they have reached an age where there hormones are telling them to be, so please don't go blaming guys, you sound like a little feminist in the making, the problem is adults trying to supress the sexuality of teenagers.	Age, Sexual	Age - General, Gender - General	2/207	0.966
This is basically what my high school principal did to me, apparently my dress straps were "too thin " and distracting the boys.	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/22	4.545
Lacy I know this has nothing to do with your video but I need help. I can't orgasom when I masterbate I could like 3 moths ago but now I can't. I'm freaking out. I miss my orgasom. Can you help me	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/42	2.381

Laci!!I completely agree with basically everything you’ve said in this video, and I’m a very feminist and pro body image woman, but I have a question -What happens when 14 year olds (or any young women) PURPOSEFULLY dress ”provocatively” because they’re trying to sexualize themselves? I know legs or shoulders or even stomachs aren’t even sexual body parts but should we still encourage young girls to sexualize themselves (if they’re doing it purposefully)? 14 year olds shouldn’t have to worry about how they look or whether or not they’re sexy.	Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	2/92	2.174
itsnot just the school but fellow students that is the issue. my dressing style is no where near common in my area of residence (i never wear pants unless mandatory and all my skirts are floor length with most shirts long sleeve or really baggy) and the school is okay with it but all students i speak with believe i am a prude or have ”no taste” which has lowered my self esteem and worsened my depression far worse then any code or older generations critiquing and attempting to change my way of presenting myself ever has when i wore revealing items of clothing. i agree the dress code is unfair and sexist with mainly focusing of female clothing and the ”distraction” of males but female should be able to be able to feel comfortable in their body without showing the type of undergarments they are wearing, or even have undergarments as exterior clothing. specifically in the frigged cold when dressing as uch only causes them to complain of being cold and possible outcomes that accompany the cold when not used to it in such little layers.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/187	0.535
I don’t see a problem with dress codes, so long as the dress code is logical and for the sole purpose of promoting a professional attitude. Ultimately, schools purpose it to prepare students for the workforce, so dressing appropriately as you would for a job is important. My logic for when I get dressed in the morning is ”do I like how I look? Do I feel comfortable? Would I wear this to work?” but these standards of dress should not be targeted at girls only. They should also be enforced for boys. For example, inappropriate messages on clothing, revealing muscle shirts and showing underwear are also not school appropriate. In any case, schools can’t send people away for wearing certain clothes. It is their body they are choosing to reveal and nothing is more important than an education. The only time a school should be able to send a student home for what they wear is if it says or shows something illegal, racist, sexist or prejudice because those messages actually DO hurt other students. If you plan to respond to this comment, please express your opinion in a kind way. This is just my opinion and everyone entitled to both their opinion and respect.	Nothing, Racist	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - General	2/206	0.971

This is weird in my school girls can wear yoga pants and tanks this is messed up btw I'm in 5th grade	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/23	4.348
Who is distracted by a kindergartener's skort?!!I'm disturbed by the fact that dress codes today are almost exclusively targeting the dress of girls and women. Instead of detaining girls for what they are wearing, why not educate BOTH sexes on sexual objectification and respect for the opposite sex . What a girl or woman wears and feels comfortable in should not get her in trouble. Are the boys being educated about how they should treat girls like whole people?! Girls should NOT be taught that their body is something to be covered up, is distracting, or doesn't look good in certain clothing. Be body positive, everyone! =)	Sex, Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	3/107	2.804
I am going to approach this in a respectful manner I am a middle school student (Ik shocking a teenager plays MC I know!) but anyway I agree with her on pretty much everything in this video. However at my school guys have dress code as well though it is rare to see a guy get dress coded it happens for shoulders as well anyway I feel like she is saying though we are being and I say this loosely "taught" that girls are objects I have moral standards of my own and while my friends are losing their virginity I don't think we should blame guys for looking at girls because that groups us as scumbags where as most and there are very few who don't just don't care if a girl is over exposed I know that sounds crazy but I really don't think that a guy who does look at girls is going to make a big change in his mind wether a girl is wearing yoga or sweat pants because that's just what those types of guys do we arnt all bad	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/186	0.538

My five points1. Rules; Rules are Rules are RULES!2. Equality; As a boy I can not go to school in any shirt that contains a hole, or pants with holes above the knees. I can not wear a cut-off. As an athlete I have a multitude of shirts that show off my shoulders, I would be asked to changed instantaneously.3.Normal; It is not normal for boys to wear yoga-pants or tights to school. So as boys we don't cross the same lines as girls do. So to call it objectification of a singular gender is asinine4. Inconsistency; In this world we can not be "fair" but we can be consistent. In my high-school the biggest problem is within some girls getting away with it, and some not. Some body figures are given the green light and some are forced to change. This will clear up a lot of problems5. Rebellion, Girls purposefully by these clothes for themselves. The wear skin tight and sexually objectifying clothes for their own reason. However what we keep missing is that they should be getting in trouble for insubordination rather than dress code. If a male/female student continues to violate a rule (that is not the dress code) they will eventually be expelled. Why is dress code any different?	Gender	Gender - General	1/219	0.457
Dress codes (especially at school) make me want to wear tight/revealing clothes even more! Na uh nobody can tell me what to and what not to wear. If somebody is going to sexualise/objectify you theyre going to do it regardless of what you wear so might as well feel comfortable with what im wearing whilst its happening	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/57	1.754

I want to know what would be a good dress code that should be adopted by the schools? I understand that the same rules should be applied to both sexes, that is not in question to me. I agree that there is a problem but what would you replace it with? Here is a dress code for a local school What would make the policy better? All I have seen in this video is that there is a problem, what is the solution then? In order to ensure academic excellence, ethical behavior and personal responsibility, dress willbe of a nature that sets a school-wide tone of caring about personal pride, school pride, and thecourteous customs of the society in which we live. The purpose of this policy is to model andpromote a safe, productive, and professional environment for students, staff and community.This policy will apply equally and without bias based on race, color, religion, national origin,disability, and/or age. This policy will apply equally to female and male.Requests for clothing and/or appearance change, assignment of discipline referrals and generaldiscipline policies will be used as the enforcement tools of this policy. Pursuant to the abovephilosophy and in an attempt to create a workable and enforceable standard of dress, thefollowing guidelines are delineated:A. GENERAL: Clothing should always be clean, mended, and suitable to body size and ingood taste. Clothing including shirts, book bags, backpacks, accessories (including notebooksand binders) with messages, writing, graffiti, and or insignia which advertise, endorse, and/orpromote drugs, tobacco, alcohol, profanity, illegal activities, racially derogatory or 'hate group'references, Satanism, death, or destruction, violence, shock-rock, sadism, gangs, racial,separatism, and sexual innuendo are not permitted at any time.B. CLOTHING: Pants/slacks are to be worn at the waist. Belts are not required, but if worn,must be in belt loops and are not to hang down. Pants that cannot be held up without a belt areforbidden. Bib-type overalls/coveralls shall be worn in an appropriate, safe fastened manner. Noextremely tight-fitting clothing will be worn. Clothes must conceal undergarments at all times.See-through, mesh, and/or fishnet fabrics, haltertops, spaghetti straps, off the shoulder or low cuttops, bare midriffs, and skirts and shorts shorter than finger-tip lengths are prohibited. Clothingthat is unduly revealing or attire, which detracts in any way from the educational mission of theschools' instructional program, is unacceptable. Jackets and coats will not be worn to class. (Theexception shall be that if the building does not have lockers for the students; e.g. middle schoolstudents taking classes at the high school.)C. INSIGNIA: Insignia are unacceptable in any form if they contain words, symbols,messages, styles, or gang symbols, logos, obscene symbols, signs, and slogans or emblemswhich degrade gender, religion, culture, sexual orientation, ethnic values. Example include, butare not limited to: Bloods, Crips, Sur 13, South Side, West Side, Tongs, Klan, Happy-Sad Faces,Roll of the Dice, Homies, Skin Heads, Fighting, Nazis, White Pride, Brown Pride, Cigarettes,Alcohol, Drug Paraphernalia, 8-Balls, Tobacco Products, and Marilyn Manson.D. HEAD COVERINGS AND HATS: During school hours, all head coverings areunacceptable for all students and staff while indoors, with the exception of head	Age, Ethnic, Gender, Race, Sex, Sexual, alcohol	Age - General, Behavioural Addiction - Alcohol, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	10/829	1.206
--	--	--	---------------	--------------

I do slightly understand the leggings/yoga pants issue for a very specific reason. If I, a male, were to wear an article of clothing the visibly showed the definitive outline of my genitalia I would justifiably be immediately removed from class. If I did this as an adult, I might be at risk of being arrested for indecent exposure. The spaghetti strap thing is retarded, the shorts thing is pretty dumb . I think the dress code should reflect a manner of dress conducive to a professional environment, the same as you'd expect of a normal job.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/96	1.042
What would be really nice is if clothing companies sold shorts that were longer. Everything else I can fix (you can see through my shirt? Wear a tank top under it! Straps to thin ? Well, it's not like I don't have 20 other shirts that do meet dress code!) but shorts that are long enough are hard to find.That's the second thing clothing companies need to do, right after MAKING LARGER POCKETS!!!!	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/73	1.37
Carlos Enrique Acosta Leon Yeah, accept we have uniforms in many if not most schools, with a growing number. Know what you're talking about before you voice an uneducated opinion and make yourself look as such. Also, never a good idea to judge a whole group by some - has history taught you nothing ?	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/54	1.852
Carlos Enrique Acosta LeonYou would be surprised. For a nation as wealthy as the USA, its surprising the wealth distribution.	Nation	Nationality - General	1/21	4.762
Sha RigglesYou obviously don't know anything about inner city American schools, you know the ones that are majority black . You are kidding yourslef if you think they would be able to afford or cared to afford to buy uniforms. School for them is a daycare system, the moment you require actual money you won't get it or the students.Change the black communitys view on school and then you might get somewhere. Until then all you are affecting is the middle class whites, beacuse the poor whites can't afford uniforms either and the rich whites use private schools.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	2/99	2.02
Sha RigglesNot every parent can afford to pay for that. Not every parent cares enoguh to pay for that.Despite this, there are many cases where some students can't even do basic math or read upon graduating from high school.Despite this, we have many cases If violence in schools from black students attacking teachers. In these cases it is the teachers who aer disciplined, not the student. There are many problems and forcing school uniforms or text book rental fees won't help the worst off or the ones Obama's new elite are running interference for from the top down.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/101	0.99

Some of the double standards are ridiculous. Guys in middle school wore shirts with sexist messages like, "Cool story babe, now go make me a sandwich ." and would never get get in trouble, whereas if I wore a pair of shorts that were a centimeter above fingertip length I was being "Indecent". A vice principal once pulled me aside at lunch and asked me what my mom had to say about what I was wearing and that my shorts were "distracting." As a middle aged faculty member talking to me, a then 13 year old student, I was left feeling extremely uncomfortable.	Make me a sandwich, Old	Age - Over 65s, Gender - Female intelligence	2/102	1.961
This is so true its sad. I got dress coded for wearing ripped jeans. keep in mind these jeans show no part of my thigh. even if it did no guy is going to get distracted by a GASP THIGH!!! My and my friend are putting posters up at my school because of how bad it is. IM FUCKING 15 YEARS OLD I SHOULD NOT BE SEXUALIZED.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/67	1.493
In school I got detention for wearing shorts that were not finger tip length (my legs are really long and lanky along with my arms that are just as long) almost making it impossible to wear any kinds of shorts. A male staff member had made a comment to me that "I needed to stop wearing my little sisters shorts and getting into my little sisters closet into the morning" which was rude enough. The same exact day I saw a senior boy with a shirt with a naked woman on it holding her bare breasts to cover the nipples but everything else on her was out there for everyone to see. But did he have to drive home and change? Nope. I did.	Senior, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/124	1.613
This is one of the reasons why British schools have uniforms. The idea is not to enforce an arbitrary set of standards or strip away an identity but to put everyone on an equal playing field. Everyone wears the same and nobody is more or less fashionable than anyone else and nobody , boy or girl, is more or less "visually distracting" than anyone else because of what they wear. This also helps to even any affluence gap as the children of poorer families and richer families aren't easily differentiated by clothing. That isn't to say it is without issue as some schools don't let girls wear shorts in the summer and force them to instead wear skirts. And occasionally girls are expected to wear skirts rather than trousers (although I know in my school that issue was raised and overcome pretty swiftly over 15 years ago). But it's still much better than the horror stories I hear from other countries.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	2/160	1.25
I totally see with you eye to eye here. I really agree with the fact that girls being told they are being overtly sexual from all these adults, sexualizes women enough! And it's just creepy. If no one else thought what they were wearing was distracting wtf is going through their heads sexualizing women like that saying it's indecent when it's their friggin heads that are being indecent.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/68	1.471

I can see somewhat where she is coming from but she is wrong. One thing, women are not being targeted soley for being women, but because they tend to wear more revealing clothing. When I was in high school, guys couldn't even wear shirts that showed off too much shoulder and I bet if we wore leggings, short shorts, short skirts, and short shirts we would also been targeted(but we didn't). Second, yes teens are constantly distracted which is why it's the school's priority to limit as many of them as possible. Both boys and girls are going through puberty at this time and limiting sexual distractions will help them focus in school, so it's not okay for either sex to be wearing revealing clothing. When they start forcing women to wear burkas, then we'll talk about sexism .	Sex, Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	3/138	2.174
This stuff drives me crazy as a teacher. Basically, as long as your parts aren't hanging out of your shirt or your shorts, it shouldn't be a distraction. Contrary to the opinions of some people, girls are more than capable of determining if they are dressed appropriately for the most part. As a male teacher, I would rather be beaten with a brick stick than make that judgement call...If there is a question, I ask a female colleague for help, just to avoid the creepy factor. I think it is just as offensive for boys to have their pants hanging off of their butts, but I see the differences in dress code enforcement.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/113	0.885
We had no real dress code at my college/university. I went to both in brightly coloured tightly-fitting jeans, crop tops, crazy high heels, brightly coloured lipsticks, the lot. and not a single person (male, female, student, teacher, ANYONE) ever told me I was distracting.	Crazy, coloured	Ethnicity - Black, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/44	6.818
tbh, just be glad you don't have to wear a uniform. A bulky, black blazer that you're not allowed to take off without a teachers consent and uncomfortable tights, skirts, trousers, etc. They're the only options. At least you're allowed to wear something moderately comfortable.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/45	2.222
My bra straps are nearly almost always poking out because I'm fat and most of the clothes they make for fat girls have giant neck holes for some reason if they aren't stranglingly tight. but I never got in trouble for it in school while other girls did because I was fat and therefore undesirable and they just let me wear whatever as ling as it didn't have skulls on it (because they promoted violence) You could tell though that the rules were especially enforced on girls that the teachers found to be attractive to them.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/96	3.125

At my old school, last year all of the girls had a talk by our (male) principle telling us that we had been getting too "risky" with our shorts in the past weeks. Our shorts were at our knees and some girls dared to go an inch above that. He told us that we were being "temptations" to the boys on campus. Instead of addressing the boys for being inappropriate.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/70	1.429
You can't blame males for being more sexual beings. It's our biology and we can't change it.They are not at fault for being sexually attracted to someone. They are at fault if they act upon it, without the person's consent.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/41	2.439
I was body-shamed by my principal; he came up to me lectured me, and then proceeded to touch my shirt to pull it up-I should've been like GET YOUR GRUBBY FINGERS AWAY FROM ME. 12/13 year old me didn't understand how WRONG and TWISTED that was. The same man ran in to me while I was taking a class at the local community college and creepily stared me down and went on to mention how I had "grown-up." I mentioned how I was glad that he was no longer around middle-school children. Laci, THANK you for your vids. Girls, and women need to be empowered. My gift to the women in my family is to have discussions like these. Why would we model parenting after our parents? We hated that archaic bs.The older women in the family are learning too. We are learning how to love ourselves, and teach our daughters and sons how to love women as well!	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/159	0.629
See if they did teach kids about how to deal with such feelings I would've realized my lack of sexual feelings YEARS ago!	Sexual	Gender - General	1/23	4.348

So I have a friend who’s been pretty endowed all throughout middle school, and to top it off, she has a long-ish torso. A bunch of her shirts hit her about mid-hip, but her pants were high-wasted enough to cover any of her skin. However, one day, we were walking back from the cafeteria. The shirt she was wearing was a little loose, she was walking in a bouncy fashion, and her arms were raised at one point or the other, and her shirt rode up maybe an inch and revealed a little bit of stomach skin. She got dress coded. Mind you, she wore shirts that short all throughout middle school– some of them even looser than the one she was wearing. I think the main part of it was that we were walking with our friends–most of whom are boys. It was just assumed that they were going to get turned on by her stomach. Which was funny, because none of us really payed any attention to the two seconds of showing-skin until it was called out. She had to go to the office and wear another shirt.I think that was really when I first noticed how fucked up the dress code system could be. Sure, there was the ”what?” factor with the tank tops, and jokes about ”wow, damn, that’s a niiiccce shoulder”, but that kind of opened my eyes. I started to notice how guys would go unchecked wearing something inappropriate, or showing about half of the side of their chest, or sagging-all of which were against the rules- but if, god forbid, a woman show her bra strap and her shoulder? They were dress coded.I literally had my bra strap pulled up by one of the campus supervisors because it had fallen down my shoulder.	Woman	Gender - General	1/302	0.331
I’m against unreasonable dress codes, especially sexist ones. I believe that anyone AND everyone has the right to wear whatever they feel comfortable with. That said, having rights and freedoms also comes with responsibilities. Your choice of clothing will definitely have effects towards other people.Now to be clear, no, I am NOT defending harassment! Nobody deserves to be harassed for the choices they make. A person who dresses in a way that makes them stand out my deserve unwanted attention, but that’s the absolute extent of blaming I can put on that person.And on objectification: Objectification comes in many forms, some of which are not always bad. I’ve said this before, and I’ll say it again: Objectification of any kind is only bad if it’s disrespectful, unwelcome, or against permission whenever such is required.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/136	0.735
Most guys wear shirts and pants and shoes, pretty normal stuff. Idk why girls get crazy with what they wear, why not just a dress or a jeans with a shirt.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/31	3.226

I CAN NOT AGREE MORE! I have recently graduated from high school and it still makes me mad at the times I "dressed inappropriately" at school. We had a super hero day for homecoming spirit week and I wore a T-shirt, black tights (not see-through), and shorts on top of them. I was told to change because it was inappropriate. I brought up the fact that it went with the dress code for that specific day and they were like um nope. Change or detention. So I was basically told I looked way too sexy while not even revealing any skin. Totally ridiculous. Especially since later that day I saw a boy wear the exact same thing that I was wearing one hour before!!! And his shorts were even shorter than mine. I hope things will have changed by the time my kids get to middle school and high school.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/150	0.667
I'm sick of schools teaching female students to be so ashamed of their bodies. Like oh no your legs are so sexual !! and scandalous!!!Hello they're just LEGS. We've over-sexualized women and girls so much that we're taught to see all their body parts as sexual objects.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/47	4.255
In my high school experience, I found that it was mostly girls and members of certain minorities who got cited for "dress code violation." I found that as an out and proud gay male I got scrutinized for wearing tank tops (so did the other gay males) but none of the straight guys ever got cited for it, when I say that I mean that in a crowd of guys wearing tanks tops, I was the one singled out, and one of the times they had me in the office I was told that I looked "trashy." Felt like a mix of internalized (or just externalized) homophobia and an inappropriate assertion of authoritative dominance.	Gay, Homophobia	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	5/114	4.386
In 6th grade, every girl in my school was pulled into the cafeteria to have a "chat" about the dress code. During the "chat" our female principal said, "No one wants to see this..." while she leaned over and pulled down her shirt so that all of us girls could see her entire cleavage. Isn't that sexual harassment or something?	Sexual	Gender - General	1/60	1.667
Nothing should be banned, just because it makes someone act a certain way, just because a bunch of bad mannered children felt horny or whatever and acted in a bad way(understatement) towards girls, does not mean every male is acting in that way. Also common sense should be used to a degree, you know if you attack a wolf it will attack, same goes in these situations, if you know someone might do something to you if you have a shorter skirt, then don't wear it, and think of the dumbest excuses like "but i want to" or "i will wear what i want to". If those are your arguments, than it is partly your fault.	Common, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Social Class - Working class	2/116	1.724

My all girls school wouldn't let any girls wear trousers. I asked my headteacher (who is a woman ) if she'll allow a consultation with the pupils to get trousers since I know a lot of the girls at my school want the option. The responses I got included "skirts are traditionally feminine" and "you're not a real woman if you don't wear skirts" and "I'll never get a job if I refuse to wear skirts". This is very upsetting to me since it's saying if you don't dress a certain way you're not feminine or a female. I don't even identity as a particular gender .	Gender, Woman	Gender - General	3/105	2.857
This chick is delusional. If I walked into school wearing a pair of yoga pants, leggings, daisy dukes, or a tube top. I'm pretty sure I would be asked to change into something acceptable. Further more if girls don't want to be labeled as sluts. Don't wear a sluts uniform. It totally blows my mind that anyone would let their young daughters 18 and under go out into public completely exposed. Please people have some fucking class.	Chick	Gender - General	1/77	1.299
Teachers would also complain if a guy was to wear pants that literally outline his penis. Guys just don't dress in as sexual ways as girls do in school. Obviously I mean in general they don't, there are extreme cases on both sides.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/43	2.326
Captain Limabean arms, shoulders, stomachs and legs are not sexual . When someone sees those things and thinks it is sexual , that is their problem.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/24	8.333
Nomadic VegetableLegs and stomach are sexual . Go on any pornography website.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/12	8.333
RandomHelpingGuy they're sexual if you make them sexual . Which is what someone who watches porn is doing. Ideally they do this when they are watching porn and not teaching at a middle school. People have feet fetishes too and yet many schools allow sandals. These rules are arbitrary.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/48	4.167
Nomadic VegetableCan't anything be made sexual ?	Sexual	Gender - General	1/7	14.286
Nomadic Vegetable People don't view things as sexual because of porn. Things that are already viewed as sexual are put into porn. And are you saying teachers shouldn't be allowed to watch porn or are you saying they shouldn't be thinking of porn while teaching?	Sexual	Gender - General	2/45	4.444

Then you get England. We have a uniform you can wear that and nothing else. You get no choice in ANYTHING other than shorts or trousers for boys, skirts as well for girls. And if you wear a jumper (sweater in America, right?) or not. Boys can wear "A white shirt, School jumper (optional), School issue blazer and black trousers or black shorts." as for girls... "A white shirt, School jumper (optional), School issue blazer (this is shaped different to the boys one to be more comfy), School issue skirt that come no higher than the knees and worn with knee high socks or tights. or black trousers trousers". "All shoes must be flat and cover the toes. No unnatural hair colours or 'extreme' hair styles' eg Mohawks, patterns ect. No jewelry other than watches" Think yourself lucky America. While I do not agree with any sexist dress codes I do think Americans don't know how free they are to express themselves compared to England.	Black, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black	4/165	2.424
Alright I actually know that little Kindergarden girl, she lives near me. I live in Georgia for fucks sake. It's always hot. ALL THE FUCKING TIME. I'd like to wear shorter shorts because 1. They look a lot better than knee-length shorts and 2. ITS LIKE A HUNDRED DEGREES! But no, I can't show my scrawny legs because a guys gonna fuck me in the ass if he sees me. Guys get to wear whatever the fuck they want, so why can't i?	Scrawny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/83	1.205
This kind of stuff is going on at my school also. For our school, girls have to wear shorts that go below our hands when they are hanging by our sides, this year I am in the 8th grade, last year when I was 12 years old I was sent home because my shorts were 2 centimeters above my fingers however boys got to wear tank tops that could barely be considered tank tops. This is basically saying that the education of boys is more important than mine.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/88	1.136
Feminist want equal rights like education and pay. But they tried to ban men sitting with there legs spread out as if there was nothing in the middle. This is what makes you guys look bad. Smh	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/37	2.703
I fucking hate when people say "Boys will be boys" because like you said it just makes it seem normal for boys to act like sex machines and be complete idiots. For example, my cousin (boy) is 9 years old and he yells and screams at girls and tells them they're hot. It's so annoying and disgusting and my aunt and uncle just say "boys will be boys"	Old, Sex	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/68	2.941

I'm a 16 year old guy from England, going to 6th form in an all girls school where the 6th form dress code is relatively lax... and i completely agree that some of the restrictions on clothes is stupid.Girls aren't allowed to wear leggings or jeggings (without an accompany skirt), they have to keep their shoulders covered, they can't have shoes with any significant heel and they can't show off their stomach.If you ask me, it's stupid. Yeah, okay, in one of my lessons i'm the oly guy, but if all the girls dressed up how they wanted to dress up, objectified clothing or not, it doesn't matter to me at all. And I've asked most of the guys in my year, and they don't really care about the clothing either - even when the rules get pushed to the limit, they don't really notice/care, and it's just the schools pressuring them into seemingly making them think that their body doesn't matter.Stupid. Utterly stupid. Girls should be allowed to wear what clothes they want, and not be complained at for it, because if anything, it's their choice to wear the clothes and if people get distracted by it, tough luck. You just can't take away freedom of speech, whether it be through voice or choice of clothing.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/220	0.455
It's so different in Australia. A girl can wear nothing and be fine while guys get slammed for that stuff.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/20	5.0
you cant say there's sexual objectification of women in media and say women can dress however they want, that's a huge contradiction.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/22	4.545
Where I live, all schools have uniforms. I hate my school so much but it's the only school in the area where girls can wear pants or shorts. At all the other schools, girls are forced to wear dresses or skirts. I'm not trans but I do have some gender expression issues and I think I would rather go to the shitty school I go to now then go to a good school but being forced to wear something that I feel extremely uncomfortable in.	Gender	Gender - General	1/85	1.176
I remembered in middle school I dyed my hair pink and the next day at school I was suspended and focused to dye my hair back to a less distracting color before they would allow me to come back to school. Not even a week after that one of the guys in my math class cut his hair into a Mohawk and dyed it green and he was allowed to have it. I don't believe it's just a sexism thing when it comes to clothes, it's hair, makeup and everything else girls wear or do. In middle school I got my eyebrow, nose and belly button (yes my parents are cool lol) pierced. The administration tried making me take them out because they were "distracting" the other students but it I didn't and they couldn't do anything about because there was nothing in the rules about piercings.I think it depends on the school and the administration. I didn't have any trouble with my hair color, facial piercings or clothing choices when I was in high school but middle school was hell.	Nothing, Sexism	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/182	1.099

I highly disagree with many dress code rules but for some rules it depends on the situation. For example, where I live the leading cause of death is sun cancer, so on free dress days we are not allowed to wear sleeveless shirts because schools are able to be sued if they do not put sun safety rules in place. Furthermore, at schools where I live we have to wear a uniform. One day I read through the dress rules and I was offended when some rules were written for boys only or girls only. As if the other gender was not even allowed to consider wearing make up or ear piercings.	Gender	Gender - General	1/112	0.893
Aleya Pittmon I want you all to think about this very carefully, think about all her points, then think about what the only logical conclusion of them can be. Her points are: 1. "Telling women to dress less sexual is sexism against women." 2. "Pressuring women into looking more sexual via men just not finding them attractive, that's sexism against women too." The only logical conclusion to draw is that male sexuality is toxic, that just finding the female form attractive on their own terms why and whenever they do (as opposed to when and how women want to be seen as sexually attractive) is sexism against women, regardless of the fact that if one held women to that standard of what, when and how they can find people sexually attractive, the feminists would turn around and charge calling that "Slut Shamming", " Sexism Against Women" and "Oppression of Female Sexuality". [LINK] <- This is all a can hear.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	6/158	3.797
Her points, if you were really paying attention instead of just trying to shame feminism, are as follows:1.telling women to dress less sexually while not constantly trying to stifle men's sexuality is sexist.2. Sometimes, women dress sexually because a huge amount of media portrayl focuses on scantily clad women (beer commercials, axe body spray, hardees commercials, and literally EVERYTHING on spike tv). These hyper sexualized images of women are seen by young girls and these girls are conditioned essentially from birth to get a husband. Therefore, they use sex and sexy clothing to get a man. This is a shame on the mothers that reinforce the bullshit trope that suggests a woman HAS to be a wife and mother. However, guys think that if a girl shows skin it means that she's doing it for him. I live in georgia. It's fucking hot outside. Just because a girl is sexy or wants to be sexy doesn't mean that it's for the pleasure of guys. Sometimes, not all the time.3. Women see guys as sexual subjects, not objects. I have a lot of female friends and when we discuss guys we don't just sit around talking about fucking them. Guys do that to girls all the time.	Sex, Sexual, Spike, Woman	Gender - General, Religious Identity - Protestant	4/209	1.914

hawkeye mehawks fat guys have boobs. i've seen some fat guys with bigger tits than the girls they were with.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/20	10.0
when i was in high school there was one really awesome dude who would follow the same guidelines set for female students and wear leggings under his track shorts. the school i attended is also on the news now for advising gay students to pretend to be straight sticking many student protests	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/52	3.846
Shoulders are too sexual ? Okay, I get the whole "no extremely revealing clothing" , but last time I checked, almost fucking everyone has shoulders. There isn't a fucking single person who doesn't know what shoulders look like, so what's the big deal? Also, why is it only girls who can't wear really short shorts and stuff like that? Guys have basically more to show down there, so why only girls? Is it because the American Education system gives a shit? No. Is it because the American Education system is complete trash? Probably.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/92	1.087
lacigreen *Please help*I have a friend who has just turned 13, she is very obsessed with her body image and how she needs to "fix" all these things to make her more "desirable" to men.... not for how she feels about herself but because she thinks it's what all men want and if she doesn't look that certain way she will be "gross and unattractive"I've been good friends with her for a long time and i'm very concerned for her. she is already thin and still wants to be thinner! even tho she is still growing! is there something i can do to help her? I've talked to her about this before but she just doesn't listen and ignores me.. and i am worried that if she doesn't get some help she will develop an eating disorder... or worse..I would really appreciate your input and ideas thank you for putting up videos like this to help.	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/159	0.629
Also, my school is really overly prudish...You can't even say the word "boobs" "period" or " sex " without being told to shut up and people are shamed for for any sexual feelings they have at all. Everything besides academics is considered a distraction, even being in a relationship. No kidding. In public school however, I couldn't eat lunch without being called a ho because I have a friend who happens to be of male.	Ho, Sex, Sexual	Gender - Female sexuality, Gender - General	3/73	4.11

when i was in year 8, our head of year held the girls behind after assembly to tell us that, because it was the height of summer and we weren't wearing our jumpers any more, our bras could be seen through our shirts, which apparently a lot of male staff members complained about, so any bra that wasn't plain white was unacceptable.newsflash: most girls wear bras!! and at the age of 12/13, it can be kind of hard to find one you're comfortable with seeing as you're still growing and maybe you're just uncomfortable about buying them in general. and it's not like we were walking around with our boobs hanging out; every single girl had her shirt buttoned up to the top.it didn't bother me at the time and i just went out and bought a bunch of white bras, but now i just think that if the guys who taught there were so uncomfortable with sort of being able to see our bras, why didn't they just...not look?	Age	Age - General	1/172	0.581
So me and my guy friend decided to do an experiment to see if we both got called to the office if we were wearing the same skinny jeans to school. Only I got called to the office. After being told that my jeans could make boys stare, I then told them to call my friend to the office, were I then showed them that we were wearing the EXACT same jeans. The jeans weren't even out of dress code. All we were told in the handbook was that we couldn't wear jeggings, which these were not. I was told that since I had larger curves than he did that I should be careful about what I wear around boys because they're always thinking sexually. I said ok and left because I was too dumbfounded to do anything else	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/139	0.719
I was never even for a few seconds distracted by women showing plenty of skin (or wearing tight clothes) when I was High School. In fact, senior year, I was nothing but an Honor Roll Student and a full-time extrovert all year, out to make all women and most fellow men feel more than human at most times. And whenever I didn't feel like empowering them I instead felt like leaving them alone and just drawing and writing about various fictional universes, my politics and/or my secular beliefs, you know, after ALL my school work was finished! As an avid writer and artist, I never once wrote or drew anything about apparel in general other than political essays arguing for Freedom of Apparel to be the "dress code" of every nation on Earth by no later than 2050. Other than that though, I will end my comment with this: The Less I Know About How Any Fellow Human Of Either Gender Clads Ones Self, The Happier & Healthier I Am. Every crush I had in High School I never once asked about her personal time apparel choices. Was able therefore to establish Regular friendships with most of them. I still avoid caring what they wear nowadays. TLD	Gender, Nation, Nothing, Senior	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Nationality - General	4/207	1.932

As long as it's not obese women wearing short shorts I'm fine with it.	Obese	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/14	7.143
Thank you so much for addressing tis issue!!!I 100 agree with this this video, and have experienced sexist dress codes and public shaming of girls while boys where weird low-cut tan tops that literally cover nothing , and no one says anything! this also encourages slut shaming between young girls from a young age . I have this friend who likes to point out to everyone when some one is violating dress code. This issue is also prevalent in the Mormon community. My mother is Mormon and and girls from her church have often thought it was their place to tell me I was dressed inappropriately, which is also sexualizing something that had been completely innocent. Other girls from that community have told me they were happy dressing more modestly, because they could go to church with out people publicly criticizing them, and they honestly didn't see the problem with that. They could recognize that their clothing wasn't the problem, the problem was, people who went to church and spent all their time there judging other people. Exposer to these issues DID CAUSE ME TO GO INTO A DEEP DEPRESSION my freshman year of high school.	Age, Nothing, Tan, Weird	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Nationality - British, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	4/195	2.051
Ok so let me get this straight. Girl's bodies are not sexual but they have sexual feelings? Girls should be able to dress as provocatively as they wish and boys should not notice? Considering the fact that many girls/women dress provocatively with the express intent of attracting or getting guys to notice them, I find this dress code argument preposterous. Heck if anything they should protest because dress codes limit their ability to attract the opposite sex . I wonder what would happen if males started wearing spandex to school every day? Would the same standard apply?	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	3/96	3.125
When I was in middle school every single day I would dress coded for the stupidest things. After awhile it made me hate myself and I would go home crying everyday. I would miss classes because my teachers would send me to the principles office. They would make people change into there PE clothes. Which was of course a big target on your back for others to make fun of you. High school hasn't been as bad. I've only been dress coded once for wearing a shirt that was to short. I was wearing a high waisted skirt so less of an itch was showing of my stomach. My principal made a comment about it in front of everyone in the cafeteria. Now I just avoid going into the cafeteria. I'm tired of people telling me how to dress. I am 15 years old . I express myself through clothing and art. I'm a human being to not just some object for people to stay at.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/165	0.606

LOOK! Teens and ppl just dress how they want. We all have different taste. Everyone should know that more sexy clothes will get you more attention. Girl wanna feel sexy and comfortable and there nothing wrong with that. However there are limits and thats why dress codes are around.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/49	2.041
I remember once in 6th grade a male teacher yelled at me in the middle of the hall way, in front of everyone just because my shoulder was showing - - umm... 1. shoulders aren't sexual 2. If you don't want male students looking at my body why are male teachers allowed to look at my body? That's fucking stupid.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/59	1.695
At my school, if a girl wears short shorts in gym class she can do nothing and still pass.If a guy does nothing , he fails. This is because our gym teacher is a perv.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	2/35	5.714
Although I respect some of your opinions, there's just a feel that the foundation of human anatomy is missing. I am a humanist and your neighborhood friendly devil's advocate. Some things that would help is researching sexual dimorphism and sexually dimorphic behaviors. For instance. Homo Sapiens have one gender with a strong innate urge to provide and protect the family unit while the other holds a nurture and support urge. Remember that Sex is physiological and gender is behavioral. An easier way to understand is to look at similar species and read behavioral reports on troops and see how things naturally work. Males will lust after females and its just simple biology. That is how the human race thrived. Its not that object subject bullshit feminists seemed to reach into the void and pull out, pretending its relevant. It's just not and it shows little intelligence and destroys your message to bring it up. I'll explain: We are all subjects and objects. The same reasoning can be applied by uploading this video. You post your view so that we all can hear it. Since that is an act upon us and objects are acted upon, you just objectified everyone who watched your video.As for school dress codes: I went to a school where skirts and shorts had to be just below the knees, shoulders had to be covered, and cleavage had to be covered up. Nobody complained or could find a good excuse to complain. Trying to compare the male body to the female body when coming to equality is like trying to make an apple an orange. While both genders desire a large chest and firm butt, sexually dimorphic behaviors effect the males' physiologically greater primal mind to an effect greater to the female. This is mainly due to alpha traits passed from generation to generation. Teaching coping mechanisms is good, but that will rarely stop a male from looking at the "desirables" of a female.	Apple, Gender, Nobody, Race, Sex, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - General, Ethnicity - Native- American, Gender - General	7/328	2.134

I go to an ALL GIRLS SCHOOL and we STILL have super strict dress code rules for our uniform AND for those rare occasions we get to wear civvies (our own clothes). We have never been given any justification for this except to say that "your clothing should be appropriate for the school context", "do you want people to see you and think badly of you because you have not covered yourself up" and "we have male staff members."Seriously there are rules about length of pants and skirts, bra straps, cleavage, makeup (we are not allowed to wear any), hair, accessories and BODY TYPE.There is literally a part of the letter we receive every time we wear civvies that tells us to "dress for your body type". I once heard a female teacher tell a student that she wishes she had a "serated knife to cut off" her fat - the same girl she gave a detention to the year before because her fat rolls were visible in her school uniform.So even in an all girls school there is horrible, rampant, disgusting sexism and body shaming and it makes me sO angry. The worst part is, I'm a prefect, which means I actually have to ENFORCE these ridiculous rules..	Body Shaming, Fat, Sexism	Gender - General, Physical Identity - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	4/212	1.887
I like the system down here in Australia, where schools have uniform guidelines (if that's the right word). Where I go, the girls can choose between a skirt or black pants or maybe even a skirt with black leggings. And of course guys have choice as well, like shorts and long pants. There's also everything else like jackets for cold days etc. What I like more that my school decided to do is, instead of having limited pieces of the uniform in different local clothing stores, we've got every option and every size in it's very own school uniform shop beside the hall. (open four days a week) With school uniforms, there's less of a fuss about the midriff or sleeveless stuff because it doesn't have any. There are some smaller problems involving out-of-uniform hoodies but that's not too big a problem. That just gets addressed and resolved within 10 minutes. But seeing as American public schools are already having so many problems around what students wear, as an Australian student, I suggest that the uniform system should be used and hopefully it resolves their problems they're putting up with. I don't know if any American public schools do follow the uniform system, but if some do and it works, why not have it more?	Black	Ethnicity - Black	2/215	0.93
I dont see a reason for a uniform if people would not have so much sand in theyre vagina's and bitch about every little thing, the problem would be solved.just make gender equal rules like : shirts above nipple and below belly button, and pants 3 cm beneith crotch, bam bitching is done.	Gender	Gender - General	1/54	1.852

I feel like uniforms would make things even worse. My old high school tried to switch over and parents protested and got it turned down because a lot of kids can't afford the nicer clothes they would have to wear. And also, this takes away simple creativity and individuality that a student should be able to have.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/57	1.754
memi35 Fair enough, but school isn't the only place people at that age can express themselves. They can still go to social outings with friends or Facebook and stuff like that. School isn't really supposed to be a place of expression. It's a place where they are meant to learn systematic information.	Age	Age - General	1/52	1.923
Dylan Fox The USA couldn't afford uniforms for all the students. What most public schools do is have a list of banned clothes (in some areas banned colors as well, like in my school I was banned from wearing red or blue shirts because of gang activity).	Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American	2/47	4.255
SpiffyPop Really? because in my sisters school. they all wear the EXACT same uniform they aren't "allowed out there" hairstyles, they can only dye their hair natural colours and they are restricted on piercings, jewellery even down to not being able to wear studs in their years that aren't plain silver or gold. And in my sisters school there is barely any bullying. They're 11-16 I don't know what happens in America but from what I've heard they're running riot. At age 11-16 you know to pipe the fuck down and stop being an asshole. At least that's how it goes here. I don't doubt it's different in England so forgot about them but that's DEFINITELY how it goes here.	Age	Age - General	1/120	0.833
When i was in 8th grade i wore jeans that were pretty tight. My mom (a crazy friggen christian) told me to stop wearing those jeans cuz she didnt want me to cause any boy who looked at my butt to have sinfull thoughts or think about sex . I asked my guy friends if they thought about sex when they saw me in tight jeans and they told me no. I believe they were telling me the truth cuz they would have no reason to lie.	Crazy, Sex	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/86	3.488
They probably weren't thinking about sex specifically...but they were almost guaranteed attracted to you.	Sex	Gender - General	1/14	7.143
there is NO way they would have told you yes if you asked them that. whether they had sexual thoughts or not.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/22	4.545

What's a good display name? I want you all to think about this very carefully, think about all her points, then think about what the only logical conclusion of them can be. Her points are: 1. "Telling women to dress less sexual is sexism against women." 2. "Pressuring women into looking more sexual via men just not finding them attractive, that's sexism against women too." The only logical conclusion to draw is that male sexuality is toxic, that just finding the female form attractive on their own terms why and whenever they do (as opposed to when and how women want to be seen as sexually attractive) is sexism against women, regardless of the fact that if one held women to that standard of what, when and how they can find people sexually attractive, the feminists would turn around and charge calling that "Slut Shamming", " Sexism Against Women" and "Oppression of Female Sexuality". [LINK] <- This is all a can hear.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	6/161	3.727
Francesca Farris "People should be able to control their own minds, and if they can't, that's their problem,"... does that include peoples own brains in regards to "triggering"?And if it's somehow "different" if it's a negative mental response as opposed to a positive mental response...tell me, was Dr Matt Taylor trying to "hurt" anyone? Because if he wasn't then that means by your own logic these adults with the minds of children are the ones with the problem, right?	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/80	2.5
Calikid331 really a girl in tight jeans makes you think of sex ?? this is a serious question	Sex	Gender - General	1/17	5.882
What's a good display name? not about sex but it does set off my imagination. i have good self control.	Sex	Gender - General	1/20	5.0
What's a good display name? It depends on how good your butt looked in the pants. When a I see a girl with a great butt wearing yoga pants I definitely think about sex . I don't act on it though, and it may be a little distracting because I pop a chubby .	Chubby, Sex	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/52	3.846
BASSFZz you're an idiot, for guys, physical attraction for a girl = boner popped = wants to have sex .	Sex	Gender - General	1/19	5.263
Haha you just can't help yourself can you. Insult away, it's just more entertainment of the immature for me. Please, tell me more about how I'm " dumb as fuck" and have "a pole up my butt" for calling you out on your bullshit. I'll leave, but you need to re-read this little conversation and reflect on your own mannerisms.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/59	1.695

If a guy gets turned on by a girl's dress wear, that's his problem, not yours. Even if a guy were to stare at your ass as you walked by, often teenagers will be turned on by anything! Teens are so pumped full of hormones as their bodies are changing. They crave sex in any way, shape or form, no matter the situation. Teens think, live and breath " sex ". So why should it matter what you wear?	Sex	Gender - General	2/77	2.597
Bradley Vocality I agree. It's human nature, thanks to the sex hormones that are driving through your entire body 24/7. The problem is, it's not fair to limit the expression of girls and boys everywhere just because some people might get distracted.For safety reasons, it makes sense. Saying you must wear shoes makes sense. They're trying to protect your feet from impending injuries. However, when it's meant to simply "help boys focus", that's kind of rude. Yeah, guys will look. But teenagers, as a whole, look at just about everything sexually. As teenagers, people's hunger for sex is extreme! Even if these girls and boys aren't wearing certain clothing items, they'll STILL FIND EVERYTHING SEXUAL . That's just part of human nature, as you said. So, the main purpose of this video was not to say, "Girls/Boys shouldn't follow the dress code to stick it to the man and tease all the guys and shit!" It was to say, "Girls and guys should be allowed to express themselves, and guys and girls will look at things sexually almost 24/7, no matter what it is."	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	3/184	1.63
What's a good display name? Your boyfriends weren't thinking of sex cuz they knew you. If you got the boys to ask random guys as you walked around and the boys told you what those random blokes said you would be suprised. Most guys might not think about sex , but will be thinking about what you like under those tight clothes (and sometimes we can tell if they are tight enough). But young boys in middle or high school don't need much to get their imaginations going. Even just looking at a girls butt or her boobs sticking out is more than enough for boys that age . Boys think of sex a lot. Not 99 of the day, but if they see an attractive girl they definately get those thoughts, regardless of what she is wearing.Except a nuns outfit. Nobody thinks a nuns outfit is sexy, which is why they wear em.	Age, Nobody, Sex	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	5/153	3.268

lacigreen thank you for your videos. As a guy you have helped me learn how I could possibly objectify women, and I have therefore learnt how to prevent myself from it. You have shown me that both women and men need to be treated like human beings (not to say I did it before, but I could've objectified women by accident without knowing it). You have helped me see the world in a way than women, men, transvestites, gay people and lesbian people (and others if I forgot any) can all be treated as equal human beings.	Gay, Lesbian	Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	3/97	3.093
So a girl decides to wear something which she "looks nice in" which is a feeling basically evolved to mean "I look appealing to a mate" and because she DECIDED to dress in a way specifically designed to look attractive and gain attention it's society's fault for basically being animals with primal instincts? People think humans are way to developed. We're fucking monkeys, our sole goal in life is to have sex and create the next generation to keep the species alive. Don't think for a second anything is more important to anyone than the meaning of life.	Sex	Gender - General	1/98	1.02
Poor girl, barely wearing any clothes because that's what society is teaching her. SEXISM! Poor girl, wearing too much clothing because society has told her, her body is ugly. SEXISM! Feminists man...	Sexism	Gender - General	2/32	6.25
Poor girl, having to live in a society where she is bullied into dressing a certain way based on how OTHERS view her body. Sexism .	Sexism	Gender - General	1/25	4.0
Poor girl, because whatever she wears she will get judged for it . Sexism!	Sexism	Gender - General	1/14	7.143

Uh actually, MOST school dress codes mention that you cannot wear things that promote drugs, alcohol , weapons, violence, racism , etc, along with the things they mention for girls. The problem is, girls at my school would ALWAYS get dress coded for bullshit, while no one would ever dress code a guy. I would literally see boys wearing stuff with swastikas, beer, half naked women, drugs, sexist language (ex: I like my whores with bacon, cool story babe now make me a sandwich ). And a crop top offends you? The tiny part of my midriff showing? Guys wear muscle shirts all the time and sag ALL. THE. TIME. And you're talking like girls wear fuckin bikinis. We get dress coded for the SMALLEST things. Bra strap showing, spaghetti straps, shorts not being 5 inches from your ass (stores don't even SELL shorts that long), shoulders showing, cleavage (literally not a person's fault that they have big boobs showing in a regular t-shirt). And you think that we need to be taught to wear stuff for different environments.. We're not 2? Obviously if we work somewhere and they have a dress code, we will comply by it. Stop generalizing when you don't know what you're talking about	Make me a sandwich, Racism, alcohol	Behavioural Addiction - Alcohol, Ethnicity - General, Gender - Female intelligence	3/205	1.463
my highschool used to freak out when we would have our shoulders exposed, but its crazy how there's no dress codes in my university classes, yet boys seem to do just fine no matter how others dress.	Crazy, Freak	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/37	5.405
Us Icelanders are taking this to the next level protesting! FreeTheNipple were girls/young woman want the right to have they're upper body exposed just as boys do! [LINK]	Woman	Gender - General	1/28	3.571
Why can't we all just be chill and let people be themselves? It doesn't matter if someone has internal reproductive organs or external, black or white, rich or poor, religious or not; lets all just respect the fact that other people make lifestyle choices that are different from our own and that unless someone is causing damage to another or perverting their freedoms there isn't really any reason to hate on them beyond social bias (which is the same kind of motivation that drives phobias of all kinds). P.S. 99 of people who claim "its distracting" are making themselves distracted because they want to go out of their way to complain about other people living differently from themselves, because humans like to establish dichotomies to justify our way of life as part of our natural survival instinct. Think beyond your bias and ask yourself why, always ask why. Ask yourself why am I, FritzII, asking you to ask why.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/159	0.629

evidently, its now your problem, not ours! Patriarchy for the win, AGAIN!!!!!!now i do believe that there are some sandwiches to be made so stop painting your nails and worrying about the latest happenings in your soap operas and hop to it, darling. the Men are hungry and for fuck sake, shave your legs! you look like a bloody sasquatch, woman	Patriarchy, Woman	Gender - General	2/62	3.226
MechaOmniissiah I don't see why dictating what they wear would be necessary. And if they are going to dictate what they wear, it should be gender neutral and equally enforced among all students.	Gender	Gender - General	1/33	3.03
Went to school wearing nothing but a jock strap and if the girls can't handle that. Well that's their problem.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/20	5.0
MechaOmniissiah like I said nothing .	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/5	20.0
thorin dyer I personally agree that the dress code is ridiculous, and people should be allowed to wear (Or not wear!) whatever they want, no matter where they are, their gender , or their age .HOWEVER if we ARE going to have a dress code (Still think it's a stupid idea though) it needs to be gender neutral and equally enforced for both genders.	Age, Gender	Age - General, Gender - General	3/63	4.762
giggi4455 Exactly! While there are a lot of injustices against women, there are also plenty against men. Most sexism goes both ways.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/22	4.545
I'm a 32 years old , who has contact with many youngsters, thank you sooo much for helping me out to order the things that I need to share with them when I see how much violence, blaming and harmfull actions are directed to teens	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/44	2.273
One time in middle school I was told that my tank top was distracting. So every day for a week I wore some sort of crazy Halloween costume (totally covered) to prove that you can be just as distracting while not showing skin.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/43	2.326
Bah. We should encourage boys to understand and fully enjoy their own fashion choices and sexuality, allowing both genders to be sex objects as well as expressing themselves. The faculty just has to cope with their <shudder> urges with regards to the students.	Sex	Gender - General	1/43	2.326

We never really had that problem at my school due to us actually having uniforms but the kids still tried to break the school rules by: Hiking up their skirts so they aren't able to sit down properly without showing their knickers (and it's really sad to watch someone try to not do it and just fail), wear coloured bras which go right through the white shirts and the boys tended to wear their pants half way down their butt (dunno if that's still popular now). From what I've found (in my experience) what a student wears really doesn't matter all that much. You had your popular girls that had their skirts rolled up, their legs freshly waxed, make up prepared and shirts they could barely breath in they were so tight and yes they got some attention for their bodies. That being said you got people like myself whom wore a shirt double the size it needed to be, a white singlet underneath and a skin coloured bra, never worse make up and my skirt came down just above my knees. I still got attention from boys and some of those girls who dressed the opposite to me got top grades in my class. I think Laci is right in that the adults just need to say: be comfortable with what you are wearing. Maybe don't have it that your bum cheeks are hanging out though since (in my case) you are still representing your school and that goes for men and women.	Bum, coloured	Ethnicity - Black, Social Class - Destitute	3/254	1.181
I was in 6th grade when I first started wearing bras. I was in the hall, and my male teacher stops me, saying because my bra strap was showing, I had to change, or put a hoodie on. It was 35°C (about 85-90°F, which is damn hot in Canada!) and he was telling me to change into my sweaty, gross gym strip, or put on my heavy 20lb hoodie. Wtf? And when I asked him why it was a big deal, he said, and I quote "because when boys see it, they think ooh la la!" Really? REALLY! That's not cool. I said "I'm not changing" and he said " then take off your bra." And I was like and just walked away. thankfully, my best friend was there to help me through the trauma of my 50 year old math teacher telling me to take off my bra. I didn't, and they had to live with it for the rest of the day. Girl power? Haha!	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/169	0.592
If a girl gets sexually eroused: Literally no way of tellingIf a boy gets sexually eroused:A clear indication being the erection. Which is very embarrassing if your seen with one and sometimes whilst going through puberty hard to control sexual urges.No, pubescent teenagers can't control erections. If they see an ass through a skin right pair of leggings, that's pretty much them erect.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/66	1.515

I think yoga pants and leggings shouldn't be considered trousers/pants.When I was going through high school if I saw a hot girl wearing yoga pants and I could see their ass, well shit I would nearly cum right in my pants. It's quite simple really: once guys go through puberty their testosterone god through the roof and sex is a fascination. It's not hard to understand.	Sex	Gender - General	1/67	1.493
Hi laci some time soon I am going to be making a channel were I talk about my thoughts on things such as things going on in the world and things like sexism,racism,feminism,sex ed Erc basically my thought on pretty much everything and educating people on these subject do you have any advise for me?	Racism, Sex, Sexism	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	3/55	5.455
Me and my two gal friends had a petition to ban the rule "girls must me wearing "appropriate clothing e.g. no short shorts or revealing tops" on a sex ed day. As if the sex ed days provided for us during secondary/high school aren't problematic enough?? So basically one of the heads of our year came forward to the head and told her that he felt "victimised" and "bullied" by the petition. We got around 300 signs and the majority was from both girls AND boys in our year. Loads of people agreed that this rule was sexist and objectifying young girls' bodies- which was the main issue that we were targeting. Long story short one of my gal friends who started the petition nearly got /excluded for being "defiant" and making their school look "bad". Everyone who signed the petition was also threatened with punishments- even though this was never carried out.	Sex	Gender - General	2/153	1.307
Wait i'm confused....your first half of the video says one thing but then your second half says another making you sound a hypocrite? Hmmm....Also I don't care if this has to do with guys or girls or what the fuck ever but yoga pants need to be banned in schools period....the fact that schools and PARENTS are letting this go on for so long is just sad. Think about it if a man wore a pair of yoga pants to school with his junk hanging all over the place he wouldn't last long but guess what THAT IS WHAT GIRLS OF THAT AGE ARE DOING BY WEARING THEM! They tailor the flippen things to show off the private part along with all the other bits of the butts and legs....yet "i'm covered whats the big deal?" no sorry that doesn't fly.	Age	Age - General	1/142	0.704
I used to get detention for having my skirt too short when actually it was just too small for me and we couldn't afford a new skirt. I nearly got suspended until my entire family (which is like a gazillion people) ganged up on the school to show and tell them how dumb they were being. Like dude, high school = puberty = growth spurt = clothes get smaller = smaller skirt = what you deem as inappropriate. Not coool. :L	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/81	1.235

This has absolutely nothing to do with boys or male faculty!In 2015 our elementary schools are a female dominated profession with a sad few male role models. This is more about well intended women fighting against the objectifing of girls by limiting what these young girls want to wear. Girls see how older girls dress in the video and print media. Prepubescent boys are not interested in girls and the sexualized clothes their Mother purchases. Sorry Laci the evil patriarchy is not your whipping boy. Just maybe the single mom has a bit of a tarnished halo.	Nothing, Patriarchy	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/98	2.041
I watched your Sam pepper video earlier and I clicked on your channel expecting you to be one of those adorable geeky youtubers but I was surprised to find out that you're a sex god	Sex	Gender - General	1/35	2.857
Perhaps rather than being petty and childish by pulling the sex/gender card and claiming double standards are present in dress codes, we should focus on how the dress codes are being enforced.I agree that there is no need to publicly humiliate any student of any gender for breaking dress code (or to claim that it distracts the opposite sex), but that doesn't make the dress code itself sexist.Perhaps there are more detailed rules for females. But that's probably because most males don't wear short tight shorts or show their midriff or wear bras that can be seen with spaghetti-straps-that they also do not wear. It is a cold hard fact that girls have a much wider range of clothing-both within and without the dress code.If guys DID, in fact, go to school wearing short tight shirts or shirts that showed their shoulders and/or bellies, most people would definitely be distracted-and they would most certainly be breaking the dress code. But they don't... because most people do not find such attire attractive on males.Sure, there are a lot of silly rules about how dress codes should be enforced. There's a lot of unnecessary examples and details. But it's prevalent with in the male section as well as in the female section. I do believe that both males and females should cover their torsos, shoulders and thighs at school. And no one should be allow to wear clothing with inappropriate markings, but most dress codes have far too many details about what falls in these categories.The point of a dress code is to teach students what is appropriate for most environments, such as work. Unfortunately, the more rules are added, the more it becomes a checklist. This does sadly make administration more legalistic about the letter of the rules rather than focusing on teaching students what is and is not appropriate in a professional setting.In short (TLDR), the dress code itself is not the problem and it is not a double standard. The problem is how it's enforced and mandated. If there is a double standard in how your school enforces and explains it, then by all means, point it out and fight it. Just don't blame the dress code itself.	Gender, Sex	Gender - General	2/375	0.533

The school I went to had a uniform (live in England) but for P.E. we were told to begin with that as long as we wore the school sport t-shirt, we could choose what to wear for bottoms as long as it was black. Towards the end of my final year my old jogging bottoms/sweatpants were too small so I took to wearing leggings, I didn't own any black shorts, and I wasn't prepared to buy another pair of black jogging bottoms just for a few more months of school. However I was soon told that leggings were "inappropriate" in front of male students and I would have to get a longer t-shirt so it covered my bum..absolutely ridiculous! Leggings were the only other comfortable clothing I owned to play sports in, working out in jeans is kinda difficult :P fair enough about hotpants or vests with crazy low necklines..but leggings?! Really?!	Black, Bum, Crazy, Old	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - Black, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Social Class - Destitute	6/152	3.947
I'm sorry Laci, but I'm going to have to disagree with you on this one. While I agree with you that everyone at that age is distracted with all the physical changes they are going through, Both young men and women need to be taught to dress modestly, to have respect for their bodies and to show respect for the opposite sex. The first thing you need to understand about boys, is that they are visual and have extremely strong sex drives along with being endlessly curious at this age. They go from having little or no thoughts about girls to it being all they can think about, and it's really important for them to have good male role models during this time. While at the same time I realize that girls are also curious as well, they're more emotional and are wanting the attention of young men. Teaching a young woman to dress modestly is not slut shaming, it's teaching modesty, and as they are growing into young women, it teaches them how to be a lady! There is nothing shameful about this nor is there any reason why this should give a young woman a negative body image. As for being in the school system, teachers are having a hard enough time keeping large class rooms full of kids minds on their lessons as it is. Any school teacher can tell you how hard it is to keep physically changing adolescents minds off of the other sex as it is. I'm sorry Laci, but you have a lot to learn about the development of young men, and in your own way your thinking is shaming them as men. Modesty not only needs to take place in the class room, but it needs to be taught in the home by their parents as well. Remember, at this age, they are still children and are learning from the examples that are set for them as young men and women. Dress codes that teach modesty is one of the few good things that the school system can do for the kids and keeping their minds on their studies.	Age, Nothing, Sex, Woman	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	9/357	2.521

Its not the girls fault and no they shouldn't be in trouble but leggings and yoga pants well there isnt much to the imagination there so I agree those aren't appropriate attire for school other than a p.e. class. However yes a beautiful woman showing skin will make a guys (or girl depending on orientation) mind wander. But that's on that person to keep focused not on the girls for what they choose to wear.	Woman	Gender - General	1/75	1.333
My school doesn't discriminate against girls in general but on Valentines Day, guys deliver hug-o-grams shirtless and sometimes with horns on and body paint that says 'I'm horny'. Yet in the school announcements before a non-uniform day, it reminds girls to dress modestly. Although, in Australia nobody looks down upon short shorts and leggings, it's more super low cut tops.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/60	1.667

Just gonna drop my opinions here (most of this is coming from discussion in the comments, not the video's message, which I mostly agree with):On the subject of sexism in school dress codes:There's definitely a lot of sexism in the emphasis on dress code enforcement for girls, but I personally think this could mostly be solved by just asking both men and women to wear shorts or skirts that go beyond a certain length and don't have holes in them, as well as have shirts that don't show their stomachs and aren't ridiculously low-cut. This along with a ban on shirt graphics of drugs, sex, etc just brings a sense of decency and respect for education to BOTH genders and pretty much drops any possible accusation of "distraction" until our society can fix the underlying issue of believing women are sexual objects to be viewed by men.On the subject of rape and debating whether or not to force women to cover up in general as they are perceived to be the problem by society:I obviously agree that women having bodies does not mean that they are by default sexual, however in the cases of predation or some form of sexual assault, I do believe that there should be some precautions taken.By this I mean that given anyone who would partake in a sexual assault is mentally unstable, (I have thought long and hard and even seen people I used to consider friends almost go down this road and come to the conclusion that no man in his right state of mind would do such a thing) knowing that this may very well happen and that it does target women more often than men, I would think that a logical preventative measure would be to wear less revealing clothing in some situations. Again this is not to excuse the perpetration of rape, so much as it is an attempt at preventing it until our society can pull itself together and fix the problems which cause these issues.TL;DR: In schools everyone should dress to some level of modesty (not talking about banning yoga pants or thin straps), and out of schools I believe there are merits to dressing more conservatively as a preventative measure, but in any case we need to fix societal issues that lead to most of the inequalities and injustices that face women.If anyone cares for the record I'm an 18 year old male attending UC Berkeley in the U.S.	Old, Sex, Sexism, Sexual, Thin	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	9/418	2.153
--	--------------------------------	---	-------	-------

thing is she isnt giving u all the details on why these things happen she is just trying to make it seem like girls take most of the heat. tbh im a girl and i think this entire video is horse shit because dress code does not only target girls and in fact it targets guys more than girls at my school more guys have been dress coded than girls have and its the standard dress code system every other school has only certain schools have this problem because of sexism not because of dress code so if you are going to target something target the administrators not the dress code that has been in place for a long period of time [Hate on this comment all u want just glad some ppl are smart enough to read all of this]	Sexism	Gender - General	1/141	0.709
Riley Freeman I keep seeing you all over the comments talking about how there are situations where dressing a certain way is necessary. That is true obviously, however the amount of pressure put on the female dress code is ridiculous. Girls aren't coming to school in a bra and strip of tape for a skirt, they are coming to school in leggings and a tank top. Now idk about you but leggings and a tank top sounds like comfortable clothing that is fit for a school environment considering you are there to learn (There is a reason college students dress comfortably) however if a girl has a figure and fills out those leggings and top people oversexualise it and then she has to change her wardrobe for people who should be focusing on their homework, if they can be so distracted by mounds of fat deposits I feel like those are the people that aren't fit for a future work enviroment, not the people dressed a certain way.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/168	0.595
I remember my best friend had gotten in trouble for wearing leggings to school. They said they felt that the boys "might lose focus". Seriously? You're sexualizing a 15 year old girl.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/32	3.125
I agree, whole-heartedly! The dress code system in schools are very sexist! But the problem is also that the women's fashion industry is extremely sexual to begin with. Why is it that majority of shorts designed for women are so short, their butts will hang out, yet men don't have this problem? Why can't there be shorts for women that are modest and appropriate like they are for men? Why are most summer lines for women so revealing? I honestly have a hard time finding decent shorts to wear in the summer, because every time I go shopping for shorts, all I find is short shorts that are too short.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/110	0.909
laci I was wondering if you could answer a few questions for a school paper I want to do about gender equality im 14 and I just made this account just so I could comment and ask you anyway I don't know if you actually read the comments but if you do It would mean the world to me if you replied so I could ask you the actual questions sort for such a lengthy comment I just wanted to ask really badly	Gender	Gender - General	1/83	1.205

I'm against dress code based on gender but I'm for dress code for everyone person.I just think if it's a public school that the tax payers has to pay then the public should vote if they want a dress code.I think it would be better for the students because they don't have to worry about having the right kind of clothes.	Gender	Gender - General	1/63	1.587
Riley Freeman There's a huge gap between yoga pants and a hooker outfit. If you think an 8 year old in leggings is sexy, or a 14 year old in shorts is erotic, that's your problem and you shouldn't be around kids.	Hooker, Old	Age - Over 65s, Gender - Female sexuality	3/42	7.143
Zombiestew A young girl shouldn't have to feel like she's attracting her teachers and other boys in her class because she's wearing a tank top because it's hot out. The point is that girls shouldn't be made to feel sexual at such a young age . Riley Freeman Where did I say only men could sexualize children? I specifically said you, because you think little girls wearing shorts is the same as dressing like a hooker .	Age, Hooker, Sexual	Age - General, Gender - Female sexuality, Gender - General	3/75	4.0
Riley Freeman Laci and also Hannah Maris are literally saying the OPPOSITE of "boys can't control themselves." Laci is saying it's offensive that school administrators assume boys are distracted by simply the bare shoulders and legs of girls, when in fact pre-teens and teens of BOTH genders are experiencing puberty and the beginning of sexual feelings. These stupid rules make unfair assumptions about both genders...which is the whole point of her video! Like, I don't understand how you didn't get that message from what she's saying???? I'm tired of guys commenting on her videos that she's a man hater and doesn't take the position of males into consideration...it sounds like a godamn broken record at this point, and it is the farthest thing from the truth! Try thinking through what she's actually saying instead of grasping at the 1st thought or reaction that pops into your head.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/147	0.68
Valoria SaysSoDo government jobs have a code in place to prevent boys from being distracted? Is weaing cut offs to a funeral okay? Why can't people take their education as seriously as formal occasions? Are hats sexual too?	Sexual	Gender - General	1/39	2.564

Riley Freeman Are you too dense to realize when someone’s agreeing with you?? LoL You made a sweeping assumption that all school aged girls that dislike dress codes must dress like hookers. While Hannah made a point that some of these girls are actually 8 yr olds that want to wear leggings. She didn’t accuse you of being sexually attracted to 8 yr olds...it was your mind that went there! LoL From your comments, you’re probably a 14 yr old minority kid who is really lacking in perspective AKA what life is like in other people’s shoes. White females are not the enemy. You shouldn’t make such all encompassing comments about entire groups of people (stereotyping) bc there are people out there who will make those same types of assumptions about YOU based off your ethnicity and gender . You don’t want that, do u? Lastly, the majority of feminists fight for both gender and racial equality. It’s a true story.	Ethnicity, Gender, Old	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	4/160	2.5
Riley Freeman Also, it looks like your super racist comment I received a notification about is no longer appearing here (hopefully you took it down bc u realized u didn’t want to post such horrible comments), but I’m going to respond to it anyway. First of all, there are no white women alive today that enslaved blacks in America. 2, you weren’t a slave so stop acting like a victim. 3, black female slaves had it the worst during that time in history and are still the segment of the population that unfairly struggles socioeconomically the most to this day. 4, the majority of feminists fight for gender and racial equality. Go read about bell hooks. She’s a well respected black , female feminist. Lastly, there are no white women today crying they were raped by black slaves. U need to pay attention in history class. There is nothing wrong w women fighting against rape. Honestly, what is wrong w u?? Sexual abuse is a huge problem in the world and instead of pointing the finger and contributing to the hate, y don’t u be part of the solution??	Black, Gender, Nothing, Racist, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	7/191	3.665
Eric Doe None of those are sexual related. A guy probably wouldn’t be able to wear spandex to class specifically because it would be sexual , I agree. Because a girl wears a basic tank top, she can be taken from class and told to change or have a parent pick her up. Does someone really need to miss out on class and be called out for having her shoulders show? No. A young girl shouldn’t be called sexual by the staff because she’s wearing shorts.	Sexual	Gender - General	3/85	3.529
Eric Doe I’ve been to 5 different schools. Guys at all of those school and any schools my friends went to were able to wear shorts. If they are in the same clothes by the end of the day and haven’t been sent to change or been sent home, that’s sexist. Plenty of guys wore bro tanks at my school and were never sent home yet girls in tank tops are considered sexual .	Sexual	Gender - General	1/73	1.37

Eric Doe Don't use mental disabilities to insult people. It's just as bad as calling someone "retarded" when you disagree with them or think they're stupid.	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/26	3.846
Eric Doe What on earth are you talking about? I wore "yoga pants", which I just called sweat pants at 8-15 years old . It had absolutely nothing to do with sex . If you think they're sexy, that is very, very much your problem.	Nothing, Old, Sex	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/43	6.977
Eric Doe What I'm saying is they are exactly like leggings, they are tight, comfortable and easy for children to run around and play in. You think that parents are trying to dress their kids that way? That because they're on a little girl instantly makes them as sexy as on a 30 year old woman ? You can't tell the difference in sexuality between a child and an adult? Really?	Old, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/70	2.857
Valoria SaysSo Ok so let me get this straight. Girl's bodies are not sexual but they have sexual feelings? Girls should be able to dress as provocatively as they wish and boys should not notice? Considering the fact that many girls/women dress provocatively with the express intent of attracting or getting guys to notice them, I find this dress code argument preposterous. Heck if anything they should protest because dress codes limit their ability to attract the opposite sex . I wonder what would happen if males started wearing spandex to school every day? Would the same standard apply?	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	3/98	3.061
Eric Doe Ok so let me get this straight. Girl's bodies are not sexual but they have sexual feelings? Girls should be able to dress as provocatively as they wish and boys should not notice? Considering the fact that many girls/women dress provocatively with the express intent of attracting or getting guys to notice them, I find this dress code argument preposterous. Heck if anything they should protest because dress codes limit their ability to attract the opposite sex . I wonder what would happen if males started wearing spandex to school every day? Would the same standard apply?	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	3/98	3.061

Eric Doe the equivalent to your argument is that a girl shouldn't be allowed to wear a see through shirt. There are obvious limitations to clothes. I don't think people should be dressing in a revealing way at all, but to condemn shorts and leggings is ridiculous. "Wife beater" tank tops can tend to be rather see through, so that makes sense. I have never known of a single school where shorts are not allowed for guys. Even private schools and Catholic schools allow shorts. If they won't let guys wear shorts at the school you went to, then they may have been being sexist as well.I'm saying that these dress codes are not beneficial for either sex . The girl's are uncomfortable and the boys are considered dumb and uncontrollable.Riley Freeman Dude. Eric is at least making arguments. You're not contributing what so ever.	Dumb, Sex	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/146	1.37
Eric Doe No one is promoting them as evil! Everyone, including Iaci, is saying that the teachers are saying boys are dumb and naturally bad and can't focus on school without thinking of sex . Keep listening to the radicals. It isn't going to get you anywhere.	Dumb, Sex	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/46	4.348
Eric Doe YES! "as something that oppresses girls and teach boys that they can't control their impulses" That's why it shouldn't be there!!!The fundamentals of the third wave of feminism, which is now, are based on creating racial and societal equalities. "Its transversal politics means that differences such as those of ethnicity , class, sexual orientation, etc., are celebrated but recognized as dynamic, situational and provisional." Quote from Article written by Pacific University. Regarding the third wave of feminism: "has never had a monolithically identifiable, single-issue agenda that distinguishes it from other movements for social justice. One of its main emphases, in fact, has been on feminism and gender activism as only one part of a much larger agenda for environmental, economic, and social justice and one of its main arguments is that it is counterproductive to isolate gender as a single variable." This is a article written for Duke.This modern feminism is for everyone.	Ethnicity, Gender, Sexual	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	4/156	2.564
Eric Doe There is a patriarchy . It's long standing and deeply rooted in history.	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/14	7.143

Hannah Maris So Hannah, let me get this straight. It is ok for girls to wear skin tight clothing that outlines all of their female parts but it is not ok for males to do the same = Double standard? Women have told me they wear provocative clothing with the specific intent of having guys be attracted to them. Studies have shown it is biological instinct to notice/look. Each sex may look for different things but both sexes look. Lastly, it is interesting that no one in this entire argument is addressing the fact that schools are a product of their communities. Communities vary depending on location! Each community has different norms and values the school therefore mirrors those norms and values. I really like the ignorant "shorts and tank top when it is hot" argument. Yea, like the girls in the middle east are wearing shorts and tank tops because it is so hot!	Sex	Gender - General	1/155	0.645
You guys are probably like 10 years old . I am disengaging in this fruitless "discussion."	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/15	6.667
Riley Freeman Hannah Maris I'd like to point out a few things for the greater good. Firstly, I can completely understand why Riley (among other men) hate or don't understand the concept of feminism. Probably because you mostly see women voicing the fact that they are and trying to change things. BUT THAT IS THE WHOLE POINT OF IT. Feminism = equality of BOTH genders. That is the literal definition. Now, here's what I don't get it. I'm 0 sure if this is a fact or not and I'm certainly not trying to sound like a sexist, this is from a point of view and everything I have learned in my life, but women seem to have more gender biased problems. And in my opinion, that's why you see women more than men voicing issues. But, that does NOT mean men aren't allowed to. Eric Doe plainly stated that a teacher stuck gum in his hair because he did have the required haircut. HE. MEN. It is literally the same example as a girls dress code. But all Hannah had to say was, I'm sorry that happened to you. Hypocrisy I'd say.	Gender	Gender - General	1/192	0.521
GeeManda No, their hair was most likely not cut because it was distracting to women and only women. If they got called up in front of the class and told that they look too sexual and the girls can't work because he's trying to be sexy, then yes, it would be the same. The point is the sexuality of a child and saying boys are too simple and sexually driven to think otherwise.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/73	1.37

Tamera Lime People can wear what they want, just not always where they want. As it turns out, schools have dress codes. The problem is that those dress codes are not created equally because a lot of everyday wear men's clothes ISN'T designed sexually whereas a lot of everyday women's clothes IS. In my school, I saw a few guys cited for wearing super tight skinny jeans—and rightly so because the clothes were sexual . I also saw plenty of girls cited for wearing low cut shirts—also sexual clothes (Though I acknowledge this isn't fair since how low cut a shirt appears will depend on how large the female is up top, however, I'd also like to point out few everyday men's shirts are as low cut as everyday women's shirts). If clothes were created on an equal scale (roughly the same fabric to skin ratio) then dress codes could be made fairer—or it would be easier to call them out as downright wrong. But look at a pair of girl shorts: ends mid thigh. compared to guy shorts: ends around the knee. I'm all for an equal dress code, but first the clothes need to be on an equal—or close enough—scale for that to be feasible. Secondly, why in the HECK should kids clothes be designed for adult bodies? Give me one good reason. Clothes should be comfortable, protect from the environmental elements, and kids clothes especially should be hardy for high activity. Sexiness is completely unnecessary at young ages. If they want to design sexy clothes for model children? Sure. Go for it. But there's no room for those clothes in practical every day life. If they want to create clothes for the common (wo)man, they should design clothes with the average person's lifestyle and needs in mind. The fact that over half of kids' clothes are designed to be sassy, sexy, and 'adult' is ridiculous.	Common, Sexual, Skinny	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features, Social Class - Working class	4/317	1.262
Tamera Lime It has nothing to do with them looking sexual , its just a dress code that they must follow.	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/20	10.0
qwervqwe vqwevqwev I can understand where you're coming from, as in looking professional like wearing business attire. But last time I checked, that's not what were on about.. We're talking about the sexual reason for SCHOOL dress code.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/38	2.632
Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria Ramirez If the guy in the muscle shirt or tank is called in front of class or the principle to be told he looks sexual , it's the exact same thing! The whole point of the dress code is that it sexualizes girls and if it were applied to a boy in a sexual way, then that is also a problem.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/65	3.077

born2kill2750 It's the idea that little girls 6, 10, 15 years olds are being considered sexually attractive and that little boys are finding them so sexual that they can't pay attention. Neither little girls or little boys are sexual nor are boys so simple minded that they can't function. The school board and teachers preaching this crap are so out of line and messed up to think children can be sexual .	Sexual	Gender - General	3/71	4.225
Tamera LimePlease see back to my comment about children's clothes being designed off of adult bodies. You cannot have "age-appropriate" children's wear when your clothes are mini-me's of adult fashions. Secondly, that's EXACTLY what they are. Clothes were created to protect the body from the elements and to keep our modesty in social settings. Clothes that are DELIBERATELY designed to show off the sexual characteristics of the body are sexual . "I'm not worried about dress code being "equal", that'll never be as long as we have two different genders." And you know what? It is THAT attitude exactly that is why gender inequalities are so prevalent in our society. Stop seeing people as boy/girl, man/woman, male/female and start seeing them as one PEOPLE. Dividing the human species into two classifications sets up the double standard. Schools are institutions for the general population and thus should implement rules FOR the GENERAL population—not divide the population into sub groups. It's as equally ridiculous as saying "everyone may attend this institution, but male students should wear pants that go at least to the knee, and black students must wear pants that do not sag enough to show their boxers." <= There is NO NEED to single out one sub group of the general population. You apply one rule that fits to everyone and thus eliminate the room for discrimination. If you want equality, you have to start at the foundation.	Black, Gender, Sexual	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	4/238	1.681
Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria Ramirez I read the title and I don't want to watch that video. I don't know Tamera, but I'm pretty sure she doesn't go clubbing and leaves her baby to die. So whatever fixation you have with this BT 1000 isn't useful or constructive in this conversation. You're redundant. Tamera Lime In relation to reproduction, yes, both sexes are different. I believe in equality in society and therefore equality in men and women. I don't believe in gender roles. We don't have to be the same to be treated equally. People in Mexico vs people in China are different, that doesn't mean they're unequal. Same applies to genders and sexes.	Gender	Gender - General	1/115	0.87

I have tried my hardest to keep up with this conversation, and Tamera Lime I really do not understand what you are trying to argue about here. Reading through your comments you are being quite hypocritical. You can deny it all you want, (as one does), but if you really think you are a feminist then saying you don't believe in 100 equality, then you aren't a feminist. Being "exactly the same" has NOTHING to do with it. If people keep saying "true equality will never happen" do really think it's going to? Do you know how many gender roles are portrayed everyday? For instance, did you really think sagging and muscle shirts really have nothing to do with sexual distraction towards women? Of course it does, you're blatantly ignoring the fact that sexism very much happens to men as well, even under the same example as women. Please come back when you've realized how ignorant you are being.	Gender, Nothing, Sexism, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	5/159	3.145
Tamera Lime First of all, No I do not think "sagging" etc is sexually distracting. THE SCHOOL BOARD WHO CREATES THESE DRESS CODES DO. THEY THINK SHOULDERS ARE SEXUALLY DISTRACTING FOR MEN. Now do you see what I'm saying???? It's the people who created it. Not the actual students. The sexism comes from a higher power. "the dress code towards guys is to dress appropriate for school. But the dress code towards girls is to dress appropriately for guys." Do you even understand how you sound? You literally just blatantly ignored an example of sexism towards men and gave an excuse. You sound exactly like the people trying to defend themselves saying that none of the dress code is sexist. Do you really think I don't know how much sexism goes on towards women? I KNOW BECAUSE I EXPERIENCE IT ALL THE FUCKING TIME. But do you think that being a hypocrite and ignoring that fact that feminism=equality for BOTH genders, and just focusing on women is going to get you anywhere, then you're wrong. Do you know why most men will laugh in your face? That's why. They aren't stupid, they know what feminism means. And when you go and protest only about women's rights, they're going to laugh, hell I will too, because that's beyond hypocritical. It doesn't matter what gender receives more sexism, it's not about killing off the bigger problem. THAT is what fucking equality is about. If you only fight for women's rights and not both, you're never going to get equality!!!! I don't get what's so hard to understand about that!!!!!!	Gender, Sexism	Gender - General	5/267	1.873
GeeManda Tamera Lime I did not read all of Tamera's comment, but from what I can gather you guys are agreeing with each other?1.) School board is causing sexism2.)Sexism is towards both sexes because of dress code.3.) Both sexes experience sexism4.) Feminism is for equality for both not by tearing one down for the other.Am I getting this? Or is there some conflict I'm missing.	Sexism	Gender - General	3/70	4.286

Tamera Lime You're not dumb and ignorant. Youtube is full of those sorts of people and you are not one of them. Think of this as practice for when some dumb dumb (not talking about you GeeManda, I like your points too) makes this sort of argument in real life and you already have an arsenal of thought out arguments to put him/her on blast. They won't even know what hit 'em. That's how I like to think of Youtube debates :)	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/82	2.439
Tamera Lime You must be quite the life at parties.Scratch that. You're the chick in the corner	Chick	Gender - General	1/18	5.556
Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria Ramirez That's not a nationality .	Nationality	Nationality - General	1/10	10.0
Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria Ramirez Mhm!And it's not that i don't think men should do anything but i think just pointing out the retardation and double standards is enough, the group will hang itself before we have to stand up and fight.We just need to fight to keep this crazy shit from the children and it's just a matter of time before they turn on eachother.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/69	1.449
ityr2brational Where did anyone say girls don't have to use will power?Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria Ramirez A lot of women don'e get hired for those jobs because women are smaller. The 220b guy is going to get the labor intensive job over the 150lb woman . That just makes sense. It's a big reason why there aren't many women in the Marines and front lines because a women would most likely not be able to lift a fellow injured soldier out of harms way. If the woman is strong enough, she gets the job. Skinflint I don't think you know exactly what a woman has been through unless you witness it first hand.	Woman	Gender - General	3/114	2.632
Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria Ramirez The average man's weight in the US is 195.5lbs. The majority of men I know easily clear 200lbs. I have lots of female friends who work in Landscaping and farm work, all very labor intensive. I also have girlfriends in the Marines and Army. Women don't turn down jobs because of their vaginas, they require a certain body type and strength that not all women have and is much more common for men.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/79	1.266
Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria Ramirez I don't think you're understanding what I'm saying. Women do apply for and can have these jobs, they often aren't hired because they are either thought of as a man's job or the woman isn't physically capable of preforming the job.	Woman	Gender - General	1/47	2.128

Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria Ramirez Not when you understand what feminism means. It affects all races and genders. It encompasses all. When did I ever say women didn't do it because it's hard?And yes, I roofed in North Carolina. Why would you doubt I've done that? Because I'm a woman ?	Woman	Gender - General	1/52	1.923
Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria Ramirez Europe, Asia, South America, Africa, the Middle East...I think that encompasses at least 90 of the world.You know there's still a huge issue with sex trafficking in the US? That is also a huge issue for feminism.	Sex	Gender - General	1/44	2.273
Riley Freeman That's really not at all what feminists mean when we say "teach men not to rape". What we mean is "teach men that they are not entitled to sex for any reason because women are not sex toys, they're people and should be respected as such". "Teach boys not to rape" is just easier and shorter.	Sex	Gender - General	2/58	3.448
Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria Ramirez I think maybe you should watch the news sometime. Sex trafficking does have to do with feminism as does prostitution. Getting women out of the sex industry is incredibly important and does have to do with feminism as well as Crime.	Sex	Gender - General	2/47	4.255
Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria Ramirez Many women go into prostitution because they think they don't have any other option not to mention their pimps could abuse and kill them with no consequences. So shooting an unarmed black man isn't racism , it's part of crime, right? Do you see that lack of logic? It can be two things at once. And sex trafficking is a feminist issue because we decide it is, because we decide to make it part of the fight. Why not liberate women and children from sex trafficking? Why not raise awareness?	Black, Racism, Sex	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	4/95	4.211
Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria Ramirez I'm going to ask you to watch the news once in a while. The idea is to uplift women out of prostitution.And many of those running the sex trafficking rings are men, yes some are women, but the majority are men. The International Labor Organization states that 98 of sex trafficking victims are women. No, the men should not be overlooked. Taking down sex trafficking rings helps everyone. FYI Feminism is a Human Rights Movement.	Sex	Gender - General	3/82	3.659
Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria Ramirez Do you get the sexism in that comment...And yes, the media prefers the radicals because it sells a story. I don't mind doing the right work without media attention.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/36	2.778

Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria Ramirez Because I have never met a single radical feminist in my life. If I did, I would talk to them about how they aren't helping anything. Over the internet, it's easy to go up against a radical and many women don't agree with them. You should see some Buzzfeed threads. One woman said "Women can't be sexist towards men." Literally the dumbest thing I've head in a long while. The average, more common feminists ripped her a new one. You see what you want to see. You don't like feminists so you focus on the negative.	Common, Woman	Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	2/102	1.961
The Fail Gamer The point is that the rule is saying "boys can't control themselves and little girls are inherently sexual ." Both statements are wrong. You need to watch the video again.Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria Ramirez Your arguments are awful at this point.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/45	2.222
The fact is that what you're talking about isn't the problem nor the subject of this video. Female teachers being pedophiles and majority of all school teacher consist of females has nothing to do with sexist guidelines against student girls attire and wrongful stereotypes of ALL student boys being considered as horny pigs .	Nothing, PIGS	Age - Youngsters, Nationality - Southern European	2/53	3.774
Harold Finch I also believe that feminism itself is good for both men and women, gender stereotypes are bad for everyone.	Gender	Gender - General	1/21	4.762
Harold Finch Tbh I wasn't really debating, I was just sharing my opinion. I know theres nothing I can say to get you to change your mind about feminism. I just want others to respect my opinion like I am respecting yours. Which is actually the opposite of what Tuco is doing right now :/	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/55	1.818
Sir fap alot Yes, it does. It's about making men and women equal so men aren't thought of as less for doing what are thought of as traditionally female roles. It also helped change the definition of rape to include men and create outlets for men in the military to have a voice in their sexual assaults. Though more women get raped than injured in combat, more men are sexually assaulted. Feminist activism also helped create paternity leave, yes that is a thing and you can use it.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/88	1.136
Harold Finch Sir fap alot Tuco Benedicto Pacifico Juan Maria RamirezThis is the best way to explain why it isn't called "humanism." The gay rights movement example is fantastic. It's a guy, so I'm sure you'll watch it. [LINK]	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/40	5.0

Hannah Maris I am talking about the actions of feminists, not the fucking name. "It's a guy, so I'm sure you'll watch it."- that doesn't make his opinion right, and it certainly doesn't make me want to reason with feminism, a movement that is so fucking radical that feminists have to constantly lie and excuse the misandry within feminism. Feminism is sexism , plain and simple. You don't know that, because feminism benefits you because you are female. Again i'll ask you to see this from a MALE PERSPECTIVE, where we are told by feminists that all men should be taught not to rape. How can you associate with a movement like that? That's just moronic.Comparing feminism to the gay rights movement is HILARIOUS, gays are actually oppressed in first world countries, women are not.	Gay, Misandry, Sexism	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	4/135	2.963
Harold Finch I agree, there's a lot of inequality towards men in relationship rights. I think the most glaring issue is in custody battles over the children where women are thought of as the better parent simply for being female. Being female isn't an accomplishment. Men and women have the same capabilities and faults. What happened to Pizzey is awful and sadly those types of women who demonize men and blame them for all of their issues are why this movement gets derailed. When a woman preaches that she didn't get the job against a man because of sexism , it drives me mad. Woman , did you ever think he might have been more qualified? Charismatic? Better prepared? Feminism made a lot of what we have possible, took a lot of masculine weight off of men, but it isn't perfect, it isn't quite there yet. And I don't want to win anything if you were to objectify. That isn't a win to me.	Sexism, Woman	Gender - General	3/162	1.852
Harold Finch Yes, the Tender Years law still affects some courts, though others are finding that it violates the 14th amendments Equal Protection clause. Originally, custody went to the father, then more 1800's laws set that the mother should have the children. Overall, very outdated laws. Now the primary caretaker is often ruled as the one who gets custody. Tender Years law more modernly applies to child sexual abuse testimonies. The custody issue is most obvious with unmarried couples in which the father will have a very hard time getting physical custody and often must settle for visitation.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/98	1.02
Harold Finch I don't find feminism to be obsolete because it's needed around the world. I hope I can work for an organization for women's educational rights abroad after college. Just because I'm not genitally mutilated or married off at 13 doesn't mean I can't support them. I won't cut myself off from the movement because I'm not being sold into sex trafficking.	Sex	Gender - General	1/63	1.587

Harold Finch 100 circumcision is genital mutilation. The difference is when women are genitally mutilated it's because it's shameful for them to enjoy sex and be sexual . Circumcision is popular in western countries still because people don't know the problems it causes and it's more for an aesthetic reason. Trust me, I tell as many people as I can not to circumcise their sons. Objectification is if you thought of her as an object or as a person with thoughts and ideas. If you're not thinking of her (or any other woman ) as just something to have sex with, then it might just be aesthetic appreciation. i.e.: were you listening to her or only staring at her body.	Sex, Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	4/118	3.39
Harold Finch That depends. Like if I was watching a hot guy talk about the same things and I would think he was hot as I was listening, I don't think I would be objectifying. I'm not an expert in the difference between appreciation and objectification. Like a few months ago there was a playstation commercial or something where a dude was in an arm chair talking and a girl twerked next to him, that's what I think of as objectification. A person as a one dimensional, sex object.	Sex	Gender - General	1/89	1.124
Harold Finch You can say she's pretty and listen to her at the same time. It walks a thin line between biological response and disrespect.	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/25	4.0
I think this issue is a slippery slope , it's not inherently sexist but sometimes it gets taken to the extreme. The reason it's there is because of the girls who wear deliberately provocative clothing and flat-out dress like grade-a whores. The problem is a school can't say "don't dress like a whore" for obvious reasons. That job should really be on the parents of the problematic girls. So the school goes too far in the other direction and makes it impossible for any girl to dress even somewhat comfortably. But it's not because they think all women are, are sex objects, it's because they must enforce a rule fairly to avoid getting sued. It all comes down to lawyers. I think the dress codes are dumb and I could see how one could see them as sexist but they really aren't. The reason there aren't these problems with guys is because our shorts are longer. And at my high school the guys weren't allowed to wear sleeveless shirts either.	Dumb, Sex, Slope	Gender - General, Nationality - Chinese, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/169	1.775

Girls being asked to not look like their going Clubing, results in the sooo predictable feminist psycho babble tongue lashing While schools show little patience for boys with zero tolerance. Not Discriminatory? As psychologist Michael Thompson has aptly observed: "Girl behavior is the gold standard in schools. Boys are treated by a nearly all female staff like defective girls.As a result, these "defective girls" are not faring well academically. Compared with girls, boys earn lower grades, win fewer honors and are far less likely to go to college. Boys are languishing academically, while girls are prospering. In an ever more knowledge based economy, this is not a recipe for a successful society.But let's keep making it about social engineering with words like "objectifing" & "slut shaming". Because we know it's really about "You Go Girl"; you go right on pretending boy's education doesn't matter.	Psycho, Zero	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/146	1.37
Oh dress codes. I mean i get it, you need dress codes to prohibit someone coming to school with a bathing suit on because school's not a beach. In 9th I got sent to the office multiple times over my shorts. At the time I was furious with them and actually got the principal to listen to me and update and change some of the more "unrealistic" codes like showing shoulders/bra straps/cleavage (I mostly focused on women's wear because it was the bigger issue). I also somewhat modified the dress code on shorts. It used to be they had to be at the knee to be appropriate but with the heat that just wasnt going to happen and almost every store's girl shorts dont come that long. However looking back on that, i should've gotten in trouble considering the shorts that I was wearing were showing the bottom of my butt. I understand things shouldn't be over sexualized but....its a butt, and all butts are sexual a "private part" if you will. Also people criticizing girls for showing cleavage, fuck you. Its part of my body and i cant shrink my boobs. They're there and they create some cleavage with shirts. Its not like we're walking around topless in school (btw i think women should be aloud to be topless out of school but even boys arent aloud to be topless in school).	Sexual	Gender - General	1/233	0.429
FUCK YOU SEXISM!!!	Sexism	Gender - General	1/3	33.333
Thank you! I've been saying this for years! I've had friends that have gotten in trouble for wearing "inappropriate" clothes. Here in Lewiston though if you are skinny the teachers let it slide and I hate it. Hell, I had a ninth grade math teacher that had an over sized shirt for girls (oh and for guys, too, but they never had to wear it).	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/65	1.538

What if I told you that bodies are sexual ? We are mammals who fuck and breed. We are attracted to seeing skin because of nature to want to fuck. Showing skin is distracting because we are genetically predisposed to want to fuck. This is even more so the case when we are teens.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/53	1.887
YES: this "tells boys... that girls' bodies are inherently sexual REGARDLESS OF CONTEXT." Focusing on the sexual nature of a body that is not currently BEING SEXUAL teaches that females don't get to decide for themselves when they're being sexual . It also teaches that female bodies are primarily sexual , regardless, and anything else they're being used for - learning, walking down the street - comes second.No wonder women get catcalled and men, in general, don't.In a sexual sort of environment, like a strip club, both male and female performers might get "woo"s and comments on their sexiness, but in other environments males are generally left alone because it's understood that they aren't using their body for something sexual right now. This does not seem to be understood about female bodies.Sorry for interchanging the words male/female with men/women btw. I'm not trying to erase anyone, it's just late...	Sexual	Gender - General	7/150	4.667
Anyone who argues that clothes/bodies are "distracting" needs to look outside the high-school-and-under bubble at University/College. No dress codes = everyone learns just fine. When it comes down to it, yes, clothing/bodies can be distracting. When people wear highlighter pink sweaters to class it's distracting. Exposed butt cracks are distracting. Thing is, if you want to learn you get over it. That's why nobody 's failing out of university due to these supposed issues. If you want to learn, you'll focus. If you don't, you'll find something to distract you regardless.If you're having legitimate issues focusing because of these things, in university you can usually move where you sit so you can't see that person. If it's happening to you in middle or high school, ask to be put closer to the front of the class so you can focus better. It probably won't require any explanation cause teachers enjoy students wanting to be engaged. If you don't want to move to the front to learn then you being distracted is your own issue - if you don't care enough to make accommodations for yourself then nobody else should have to make accommodations for you.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/195	0.513

A was talking to one of many of the boys (may I add 6th grade boys) that keep touching and grabbing multiple girls butts, so I asked "do you honestly believe the girls don't care when you touch their butts." And he said "they never say anything so why does it matter." And I said "Although this is a leap of topics, If a girl is raped do you think it's okay just because she was to scared to tell you no? And also many of the girls you have assaulted have walked up to me personally and other girls (and boys) she feels comfortable around that you made her feel weak and uncomfortable." These are 6th grade children, wake up people it's getting out of control my best friends cousin was raped at age 13 this is not okay. As a 12 year old I don't expect the world to listen to me but honestly I'm scared for me to have to grow up in a society where girls are punished for guy's violating them. I'm not a man hater (look up the definition of feminism feminist) I just don't want to grow up in fear of rape murder sexual assault Ect... So please think of the next generation before you touch a girl or man in a way that is violating	Age, Old, Sexual	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	3/223	1.345
This is so fucking wrong. Dress codes equally affect boys and girls. A girl is going to get in the same amount of trouble for wearing spaghetti straps as a boy will get in for wearing an undershirt. NOBODY is allowed to show shoulders. Boys get told all the time to stop sagging and pull up their damn pants. Boys will get in a shit ton of trouble if they have a visible bulge. Dress code rules are almost never gendered. Just because girls are more likely to wear short shorts doesn't mean guys are allowed to wear shorts more than 4 inches above the knee.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/106	0.943
When I was in middle school part of my P.E. outfit was an exercise shirt that had the kind of straps that meet up in the back so you could definitely see my shoulders, but it was P.E. so who cares right? We're running and it's hot. Now I wasn't the kind of kid that had enemies, but these two girls that I didn't get along with passed my tennis court and called me out for wearing "revealing clothing" and told me I should be ashamed of myself, which I didn't understand at all because I WAS 12 YEARS OLD. My (male) teacher overheard and quietly told me that though my shirt was technically against dress code, not to worry about it. Which I appreciated, but the fact that these girls would shout to me in front of my class that I was dressed inappropriately stuck with me into high school and I wore nothing but loose t-shirts in P.E. until senior year. The point I guess is that not only are school staff typically on our cases all the time, so are other girls. Which is so, so hurtful, and I cannot beg others enough to not to do that to your fellow girls. Please think about how you could affect someone with what you tell them, ESPECIALLY when you are influencing children.	Nothing, Old, Senior	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters	3/224	1.339

What I love in my country is that we have uniforms. I remember the time that all girls were obligated to use skirts in school and high school as part of the uniform, but like 25 years ago the education system said: The hell, let them wear pants!!!!I think is better to have a generic uniform, the dress code only obligate use the uniform.The only limitations we had when we were kids was do not use Jewelry (that changed), no make-up (that changed except all female religious schools), boys couldn't have long hair... only he schools that has a strong religious sense and the nuns are teachers obligate girls to have long hair (and a specific length).I used uniform all my student life, and in University we could wear what we wanted if we didn't show our sexual parts (both men and girls)!!!	Sexual	Gender - General	1/146	0.685
Joseph Lockhart I want you all to think about this very carefully, think about all her points, then think about what the only logical conclusion of them can be. Her points are: 1. "Telling women to dress less sexual is sexism against women." 2. "Pressuring women into looking more sexual via men just not finding them attractive, that's sexism against women too." The only logical conclusion to draw is that male sexuality is toxic, that just finding the female form attractive on their own terms why and whenever they do (as opposed to when and how women want to be seen as sexually attractive) is sexism against women, regardless of the fact that if one held women to that standard of what, when and how they can find people sexually attractive, the feminists would turn around and charge calling that "Slut Shamming", " Sexism Against Women" and "Oppression of Female Sexuality". [LINK] <- This is all a can hear.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	6/158	3.797
Here's a take from an oldster. When I was in high school, the discrimination was, ironically, kind of reversed. No one could wear shorts; however, girls could wear pants OR skirts, no shorter than something or other (leggings as such didn't exist). Boys had to wear long pants (no kilts allowed :-). Girls could wear sleeveless shirts, but boys' shirts were required to have sleeves (short sleeves or long). Girls could wear sandals; boys had to wear shoes. Neither sex could have exposed midriffs. Consequently, my memories of school usually include being too hot; I honestly thought sometimes that it might have been nice to wear a skirt.	Sex	Gender - General	1/108	0.926
dress code: shallow vanity and narcissism. Nobody gives a fuck about your trivial suburban problem except other trivial petty narcissistic suburbanites. Quit whining, you pathetic self absorbed idiot.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/28	3.571

Hi lacilfirst, ur awesome. also, I feel like one of the most infurating things about dress code sexism , is that it shows clearly that in our society objectifying and sexualizing girls is more important than educating them. I kinda feel like I'm quoting Malala now... anyway, it is outrageous that this is the message girls accross the world have to deel with instead of, like, becoming math geniuses or proffesors of art or something. I mean, what r u telling girls by sending them home bcuz their skirts are short?sorry if I made any spelling or grammer mistakes btw, English is not my first language.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/107	0.935
Eyyyyyyyyyy. I don't think that shirt about the good girls swallow is nice. It's funny and all but I don't really like swallowing sooooooooo,yea. Plus, I remember that in high school I wasn't fond of sex at all in it made me uncomfortable to have all these people making sexual jokes and making it seem like you had to have sex . Thumbs down for the shirt, but for the rest go ahead. Just no booties, pls. I think there's enough of that on TV that we don't need to see it at school. School isn't a reality show or a Niki Minaj concert. Short shorts are fine, I know I need them when its hot, but booty shorts? Nah. Even girls would turn around and be like 'omg, i can see her booty'. When even the ratchet girls are like 'dayum, girl, I can see your booty!', then you know you definitely have a problem. That's not cute and it's distracting for anyone regardless of gender or sexual orientation....And when it's hot your butt cheeks get sweaty and stick to the seat and it's not comfortable and you leave a sweaty butt print on the chair. xD This is true, girls, and you know it. Haha	Gender, Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	5/206	2.427
TheSoloFrenzy I want you all to think about this very carefully, think about all her points, then think about what the only logical conclusion of them can be. Her points are: 1. "Telling women to dress less sexual is sexism against women." 2. "Pressuring women into looking more sexual via men just not finding them attractive, that's sexism against women too." The only logical conclusion to draw is that male sexuality is toxic, that just finding the female form attractive on their own terms why and whenever they do (as opposed to when and how women want to be seen as sexually attractive) is sexism against women, regardless of the fact that if one held women to that standard of what, when and how they can find people sexually attractive, the feminists would turn around and charge calling that "Slut Shamming", " Sexism Against Women" and "Oppression of Female Sexuality". [LINK] <- This is all a can hear.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	6/157	3.822

i only fear phobophobia Nobody has a doubt that you are in fact blind and deaf . You don't have to give so much effort into proving it.	Blind, Deaf, Nobody	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/27	11.111
Riley Freeman At the time I found your blatant rudeness, ignorance and sexism in this comment chain and other comments you had made amusing.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/24	4.167
Yea apparently if a male student sees a bare shoulder his eyes go black and hes overcome with rape lust are you fucking kidding me XD man i must of been a horrible male student since i never raped anyone also the dress code doesnt just effect clothing i was a spooky kid in middle and highschool cant tell you how many times i was told my eyeliner and shadow was disrupting the class this isnt a gender exclusive problem	Black, Gender	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	2/80	2.5
degen83 Your right. Some schools do have different dresscodes for females and males. But that doesn't make it right. If we are going to have a dresscodes at all, then they should be gender neutral. While men and women might have different bodies, their is no reason we can't say 'one inch above nipple and below belly button and three inches below the crotch' for all genders.	Gender	Gender - General	1/67	1.493

memi35Some rules are only applied to one gender because the other gender just doesn't wear clothes that are a problem in that specific regard.If boys wore shorts or skirts so short their underwear is flashed constantly or their penis and testicles flop out on display, then I am sure the schools would instantly ban such attire.Fact is boys just do not willing wear short shorts in 2015.In my school the girls could wear sleeveless shirts (only if they wore a bra) and the boys couldn't. I almost got suspended for wearing a sleeveless shirt in September because it was just after break and it was hot. Girls got to wear those types of shirts year round and never once got in trouble for it.I agree with things like that that should be gender neutral. If one sex can wear sleeveless shirts, both sexes can. But heres the thing, most boys don't want to wear skirts so making a rule saying that skirts males wear must be at or below the knee is ridiculous. Feminists want males to wear skirts and act feminine, but it is a fact that most males don't want to wear them. It is silly to make a rule for males when no male has ever dressed in such a way to warrant needing a rule to prohibit it.If you want gender neutrality so much, why not push for meaningful gender neutrality, like coed restrooms and changing rooms for gym class. Until you do this just doesn't seem like gender neutrality at all, it seems like you pushing for punishing males because females got punished.Its like you are demanding your brother get spanked because you got spanked for breaking the rules and hes a male so why doesn't he get spanked too.He didn't get spanked because he didn't break the rules and is not being a problem.Think about that.	Gender, Sex	Gender - General	7/321	2.181
degen83 Not gonna lie, this post confused me a bit, so I apologize if my response is a bit of point.First of all I do actually push for gender neutral bathrooms/changing rooms.Second of all, I'm not saying "skirts for males must be x". I'm thinking more like "skirts for students must be x". I see know reason male or female even has to come into play with dresscodes. Just give them the exact same rules and don't refer to gender.	Gender	Gender - General	2/82	2.439
memi35If we take out gender specific things, why do we stop at clothes? Why not take the next logical step and ban schools from referring to boys and girls and males and females as different, and only refer to them as students? And then only have student sports, not gender specific, and have student restrooms, which are not gender specific (co ed), and have non gender specific changing rooms (co ed), so all the males and females go to the bathroom and change clothes and play sports on the same teams with the same rules.Either we take it all the way, or none of the way.	Gender	Gender - General	4/108	3.704

Sorry to break it to you society, but your fake "concern" about having "distraction-free education" doesn't work when you only care about it when MEN are the subject. As soon as we talk about WOMEN, the subject of her ability to learn is magically non-existent. The topic suddenly shifts to desexualizing her for the SAKE of men so that they can learn in peace, while never considering whether or not women are able to learn as efficiently. All the girls I knew found fit, muscled arms legs abs very sexy, but whether or not we were being distracted by guys showing all of that off was never a concern!Think about it... When we talk about men in relation to this dress-code bullshit, it's all about their education and success, and making sure distractions and temptations don't get in their way. When we talk about women, however, it's about making sure that we're not getting in the way OF A MAN'S education or success, by BEING that distraction or temptation. Male success is assisted, while female success is ignored or outright hindered.And no, I'm not blaming men for this, I'm blaming society as a whole. Ironically enough, there are just as many women who are guilty of these double standards because they're encouraged to be ignorant. 9/10 times that I found myself being looked down upon for wearing a short skirt to school, it was by another woman! And the reason for it? "Ew what a slut, trying to distract all the boys by looking sexy so they'll stare at her." But did anyone ever think "Ew look at that guy, showing off his arms like a slut and making it so the girls can't focus." No, they didn't, because society has ingrained it into all of us to think about men first, and it's especially depressing when women do it to themselves.	Woman	Gender - General	1/316	0.316
Next week the all girls school I attend will not let us wear leggings tank tops short skirts shorts above the knee and skinny genes	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/26	3.846
Easy way to get over this problem. It's called school uniform.I mean it's school for crying out loud. The rules should state smart casual as an absolute minimum i seen nothing wrong with shorts for either sex or the showing skin.Only issue should be showing excessive amounts of your breasts/wearing trousers that grip the male genitalia too much. Doesnt matter what your sexual preference is, it's not appropriate, because your thrusting personal parts of your body into view, against my wishes. Nothing wrong with showing legs and arms, you know, we've all got those, it's the more intimate parts of our bodies we should be conservative with at school.	Nothing, Sex, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	4/111	3.604

For god’s sake. When will girls know that school is NOT the place to dress as a hooker ? I’m a female but I cover up and have no problems. I go to school to learn.	Hooker	Gender - Female sexuality	1/35	2.857
”that girls shoulder is distracting me from my work” said nobody ever	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/12	8.333
My high school was pretty lenient when it came to dress codes. The biggest things were that you couldn’t wear tops that expose your midriff, bottoms that expose your genitals or underwear (incl. boxer shorts), or any type of garment that had drugs, alcohol , or offensive/lude language or imagery on it.The middle school was way more strict for a while though, but that was mainly due to one of the principals for one of the grade levels being really anal about the length of girl’s shorts and skirts. Like she would pull aside girls at the beginning of the day when everyone was walking in and hold a yard stick up to their leg if she thought what they were wearing was inappropriate. Thank god she retired though.	alcohol	Behavioural Addiction - Alcohol	1/129	0.775
There is nothing wrong with teaching children the fact that choices tend to come with consequences. This lesson must be taught equally, i.e. to both genders though. The whole thing is not even necessarily about self-respect, it is about choices and their consequences. A girl who wears a low cut top will simply have to deal with the fact that boys/men will have trouble to look her into the eyes and nowhere else. The boys must still try to do so – it is a matter of respect – , but it is illusionary to expect boys to not struggle with such a sight. If a girl is fine with this then so be it. It is her right, but exercising said right can come with consequences that are for her to bear. To a certain degree at least. It is still no excuse for boys to behave like pigs . This does also go for girls though. A girl who provokes boys like that intentionally just to see them struggle is just as much a pig as a boy who is not even trying to behave.	Nothing, PIGS	Age - Youngsters, Nationality - Southern European	2/186	1.075
I’m reminded of a MAD magazine strip I saw once. A father objected to his daughter going out of doors in a skimpy outfit because dirty old men would leer at her. She demanded to know how he knew and he replied, ”Because I’m one of them.” Women have to cover themselves up not because we’re slutty but because certain men are weak and can’t control themselves.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/67	1.493

The school thought it was more important for the girls to get the "dress code speech" about how we always look "inappropriate" then to see if the lunch room tables were disinfected before we got to lunch. And if a girl wears shorts that don't show her butt they have to change into the gym shorts (which btw don't fit some of the girls right and it's even worse) but if a boys pants are half way down their legs "pull your pants up" they pull their shirt down and continue on with their pants sagging. More people actually grab others butts (and let me just point out that it's someone they know who doesn't mind and it's not sexual harassment) when they are wearing sweatpants and the gym shorts so they're just giving a bad name to guys when really they aren't the problem, there really isn't a problem present.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/151	0.662
Saige Runyan At no point did I say girls are sluts. I said they dress slutty. As in, they dress like sluts would. That doesn't mean they have "too much sex" or however you want to define a word that doesn't need to be defined. They dress slutty. That's a fact. It can't be debated.As for calling girls sluts if they have sex but not calling guys sluts: guys don't get to have sex with whoever they want. Generally, it's up to the girl to decide if sex will be had. If a girl wants sex, guys will do it. The opposite is not always true. Again, this is a fact. You can debate it a little bit, but generally what I said is correct. Whether or not that makes it okay to slut shame is up to you. But that's not what I was talking about, so it doesn't matter.	Sex	Gender - General	5/152	3.289
This isn't just a US problem. Where I am in the UK, I am in my final weeks at a sixthform (a school department for just juniors and seniors, or the UK equivalent of Years 12 and 13 but it still attached to a regular secondary school). We have a uniform of "workplace attire" but a key rule of the code is no shoulders showing due to it being "distracting" especially to those in younger years and for making the male staff uncomfortable. However, numerous male staff have made comments about students boobs (17/18 year olds but still not appropriate) or made suggestive comments about tops we have worn. Student's have been not allowed to sit exams, costing them university places due to "dress code violation" which was basically wearing a shirt showing their shoulders in the summer weather, probably sweating due to exam nerves and preparing to be sat in a hot room full of a whole load of other students for hours. These rules are also being enforced by females.It's not okay that girls should loose out on education and be made to feel uncomfortable due to exposed flesh that isn't even socially sexual	Sexual	Gender - General	1/197	0.508

at our school girls have been told to pull their skirts down as they're "revealing" but they stop mid-thigh (They aren't that short) however there has been nothing said about how boys can have their whole asses shown with their slouching jeans??	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/42	2.381
So I'm a large chested woman , carting around DD's since high school, and one day my senior year I wore a cute little sundress to school. I thought it was pretty appropriate, I mean I wore a sweater with it, but it did show some cleavage. When you have that sir boobs everything shows cleavage besides tee shirts. Anyways, I was sitting at lunch when a teacher I knew, a female teacher, came up and placed her hand on my clavicle and said "if you wouldn't want people touching it then you shouldn't be showing it" at the time it didn't seem so outragoues, I was certainly embarrassed but now I realize how wildly inappropriate and horribly rape culture-y that was. I shouldn't show skin that I didn't want touched? Are you kidding me?	Senior, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/134	1.493
SO I'm a 22 year old college senior and a couple months ago I was at a high school for volunteering. The high school is attached to a preschool for children with special needs and I got lost trying to find it. At one point my cardigan had gotten all tangled up with my purse so I put my purse on a bench and took off my cardigan for like thirty seconds to fix it revealing the camisole underneath. Almost instantly some administrator launched at me to tell me I was breaking the dress code and my outfit was too revealing. I'll admit it was a bit satisfying to tell her I was 22 and she had no jurisdiction over me.	Old, Senior	Age - Over 65s	2/121	1.653
While I agree that there are plenty of cases where this rules are very anti woman rights, I think it's important not to just look at the rule itself but the enforcement. I remember in my high school we had all the general dress code rules but they were enforced on both men and women. I remember a few guys getting in trouble for wearing small tight muscle shirts because they broke the dress code.A lot of the problem is that generally guys don't wear the kinds of clothes that break the showing skin kinds of rules, so they are never seen to be enforced. This doesn't make any of the behaviors that you're talking about excusable, it's just something to think about.	Woman	Gender - General	1/124	0.806
Some of the dress code regulations are silly and yes the way that schools are going about enforcing them is sexist, but it's not sexist to tell girls they can't come to school in booty shorts showing ass cheeks, or that they can't show cleavage. That shit is distracting. Perhaps girls are equally distracted by guys wearing wife beaters, or whatever, I'm not sure because I'm not a female, but saying that showing off your ass and breasts isn't sexual is complete and utter bullshit. It is distracting.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/88	1.136

My 6th grade age daughter is not allowed to wear leggings at school. Or "skinny jeans". It's an issue because that seems to be all stores sell in my area so it limits what I can buy her to almost nothing. I end up getting most of her pants second hand (which I don't mind, saves money) just so she is within the dress code.	Age, Nothing, Skinny	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/65	4.615
I got one of those awful assemblies in middle school. None of it made the news (probably because it's so common) but it was just freaking bad. They took all the girls out of all the grades (in my district 6th, 7th, and 8th) out of whatever class they had 6th period (for me it was science, since teaching young girls that they're all whores is apparently more important than teaching them science) and had a big old festival of wrong in the cafeteria. The guidance counselor came out and talked about how you couldn't wear shorts above the knee because it was "Trashy" or how wearing spaghetti strap tank tops was "just asking" to get your breasts groped. I didn't see anything wrong with the statement at the time but now I'm looking back on it and shudder at a grown woman was telling 11-14 year-old girls how they were "just asking" for sexual harassment. Of course we got the whole "it's distracting boys" spiel because no inappropriate lecture would be complete without it. My school had a myriad of other problems, but that was probably the worst. The administration was also aware of this one biology teacher who would regularly oggle his female students, including me. I already had a D cup by the time I was one of his students and he'd sit there and stare at my 12-year-old overdeveloped breasts. The principal apparently kept him on because he was a "reminder" to girls to wear appropriate shirts. So gross.	Common, Old, Sexual, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	4/253	1.581

This is actually a video that addresses the issue very well. Not long ago, when I was in high school (I am currently in college), there was a woman who was in charge of the admin department. She went around in the early months of spring and summer telling off more than half of the girls at my school for wearing shorts or skirts that were too short. One day she told me off. My body at the time was normal, with curves (not chubby, not skinny). On the other hand, you could see my super skinny friend wearing the shortest skirts and shorts she could everyday to school. In the middle of the debate, when she was telling me and my curvy friends how we should dress, I stood up and asked her if she had not realized other girls who were skinnier were wearing similar outfits and were not being treated in the same way. You know what she said? Basically, she said to me that "you could not see it as visibly in them because they were skinnier". So revolving around her same logic I asked her if she wanted us to be anorexic, in order to be able to wear summer clothes. She was so shocked by my questions that she just thought I was troublesome. But, is it not what she was implying? That curvier girls cannot get away with an innocent skirt? That they have to be aware of their sexually objectified body?	Chubby, Skinny, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	4/249	1.606
Two experiences I've had with dress code were both very humiliating, at the very least. One of which had to do with the bra I was wearing for track conditioning. Anybody who has participated in any kind of sports conditioning knows that it is hell. I was wearing sweating through t-shirt, so I decided to do a suicide in my bra. After my lap, my female coach shoved my shirt over my chest and demanded I cover up even though four other boys were allowed to do their laps shirtless. I was shaking with fury. What was so goddamn shameful about my body that I had to cover up? Nobody was deviating from their conditioning, so how was I distracting? I was then informed by a male team mate that, I "would have been fine if I was wearing a different bra" and that "boys view a girl's body more sexually than girls view boys." The lesson: I am not a person of substance, but an object for your sexual pleasure. Another experience of mine occurred on a dress-up day at school where I was wearing a dress that some could argue was a little short; still, it covered my ass and I felt comfortable in it. I was working quite diligently to complete my class assignment, but I was sent to the office for a translucent piece of fabric that sat a good inch above my breast. The lesson: My studies aren't nearly as important as a translucent piece of fabric on my dress. Good job, American school system. Maybe you'll get it right someday.	Nobody, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/266	0.752

1) This is why I thank god that school uniform exists, England (or most of it) is doing something right for once2) Sixth form doesn't have a uniform, just business dress, and girls cant wear low cut tops because it's "distracting for male staff"3) The argument that boys cant concentrate because a girl is wearing shorts or low tops is invalid because then how the hell are they meant to drive when they've got lingerie adverts and billboards with full grown woman , photo shopped to naked perfection around them. Double fucking standards from the education system	Woman	Gender - General	1/98	1.02
Take a leaf out of the UK's book: School Uniform. Problem SOLVED...as long as that uniform is fairly gender neutral.	Gender	Gender - General	1/21	4.762
My high school was hardly a bastion of gender equality, but we actually had a non- gender specific dress code. All aspects of the dress code applied to everyone, even if some rules were clearly meant for one gender over the other, they were still blanket rules. We had a no pajama pants sweat pants outside of gym rule (again, for everybody) that I'm pretty sure would include yoga pants, but that was less about being revealing and more about not wanting people to sleep in class. I don't understand why the dress code sexism has gotten worse in the less than 10 years since.Of course, when I was in middle school, the principal created a rule about shorts length for girls during a heat wave that was so clearly sexist that there was a huge community backlash, which might explain the non gender specific dress code in high school. (If you stood with your arms to your sides, your shorts had to be longer than the tip of your middle finger. Completely arbitrary)	Gender, Sexism	Gender - General	4/174	2.299
It's not sexism . If you're wearing shorts with your ass hanging out, then you shouldn't be wearing it to school. You don't see boys walking around with no shirts or tank tops on or shirtless.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/35	2.857
so what you're telling me if a big hairy 30 year old man wore daisy dukes it wouldn't bring any attention? HA you even dumber than i thought.....oh wait is it another one of your double standers that women should be able to wear anything without distracting men but men cant wear anything that will distract women? AND don't tell me people wouldn't pay attention because if i saw someone who liked like they cut down trees with a axe wearing daisy dukes i would go all Sherlock Holmes on that mother fucker. schools do this for a reason.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/99	1.01

I dunno. I'm pretty sure that bare shoulders are the leading cause for teen pregnancies. All jokes aside, I find this issue to be hilariously stupid. Let teenagers wear whatever the hell they want, regardless of their gender . Especially in warm weather. I can't really speak from personal experience though as I live in England and we have uniforms and when we occasionally wear our own clothes, no one is questioned about their clothing. Even if they're wearing a crop top which lacks so much fabric that it may as well be a bra. In the winter might I add. Anyway, enjoyable video with an interesting topic.	Gender	Gender - General	1/107	0.935
When you put it all out on the table like that it almost sounds like the School board is turned on by little girls so they have to put them in cardboard boxes to remove any trace of sex .	Sex	Gender - General	1/39	2.564
First, i would just like to say that i think none of the girls shown in this video were wearing something that i would consider distracting, or not appropriate for school. But then again... where do we stop with this? It's ok telling a girl to dress normally, dress in what she feels good. But how short does a skirt need to be before we can say it's too short? How short do pants need to be before we can say they're too short? How deep does a neckline need to be before we can call it too deep? While it is indeed wrong to tell girls their are sex objects, and that somehow boys are allowed to show off, while they can't, telling them that everything goes, no matter how revealing is just as dangerous. Shouldn't a measure of respect be instilled in them instead? And not only girls, but boys as well.	Sex	Gender - General	1/154	0.649
I went to an all girls school and we didn't have uniforms but we had a dress code. We would wear hoodies with skirts and running shoes. We would still get detention if our skirts didnt follow the rules. The focus was placed more on following the rules if anything considering there was no one to distract. However our neighboring all girls schools had uniforms but could roll their skirts as high as they wanted to. I dont get it. Btw.. HOODIES WITH SKIRTS no one was finding us attractive in those trust me. I tried to wear that after i left school and realized how crazy that combo was out of that setting.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/114	0.877
It's crazy how in college and universities, everyone wears what they want and no one complains about being distracted over SKIN.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/21	4.762

For people saying just adding uniforms will help, no. Just no. It will not. I am from the US and had a school uniform for 13 years from K-12 and it was just as strict as the non-uniform dress codes. As a female, I had to wear shorts or a skirt that extended all the way to and touched my knees, shirts that covered my collarbones and my shoulders, along with most of my neck, and that were tucked in so they covered my midriff. Given, the guys had to have their shoulders covered because there were unisex shirts, but their shorts didn't have to reach their knees etc. It still had the implication that anything above the knee or below the shoulder on an underage female was inherently sexual and I have experienced many of the problems that lacy mentioned: being shamed by teachers, being told my body is a sexual object, seeing the sexuality of my body instead of myself in the mirror, and feeling uncomfortable in normal summertime dress required where I live (all summer long the high temperatures are above 100 fahrenheit 40 celsius). This is a problem even in schools with uniforms. They mention the uniform rules once in the beginning of school for 5 mins for the guys, but give repeated lectures about "appropriate" uniform wear for women, often about 20 min in duration because there are that many rules. It's more distracting to constantly lecture on the rules and it takes time away from when everyone could be learning. I am 20 and I am constantly ashamed and uncomfortable with parts of my body like my shoulders because starting when I was 5 I was told they were "sexual" "personal" and I quote from one specific teacher "no one wants to see that".	Sexual	Gender - General	3/301	0.997
I once went back to my school (after having left that summer) to help out in the final music concert of the year, and I had to walk there as always. It was June, and actually warm in England, so I wore shorts. What happens when I get to the school I am no longer a student at? The head teachers tells me I need to change straight away into my black concert trousers, because me wearing shorts is a bad influence on the younger students. Because being loyal to your school and helping out after leaving is such a terrible thing to influence them to do, right? Absolutely ridiculous.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/110	0.909
My brother got in trouble for wearing a basketball jersey to school because he was too fat and you could see his stomach, side, and chest rolls. He was in elementary school and came home crying because now people keep making fun of him and calling him that fat kid. The school did nothing to stop this.	Fat, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/57	5.263

I agree for the most part, but there is still such a thing as 'dress appropriate'. No one shows up to a funeral in a big bird costume, or tux to the beach, and we certainly can't teach children that doing whatever they want is ok.My niece tells me that it isn't uncommon for girls to come to school looking like they're headed to the club. This doesn't have anything to do with slut shamming, or sexualizing women (a whole other topic). It has to do with knowing what is appropriate attire for your environment. I'm pretty sure girls in schools are usually not told they are being sent home because "You look like a slut".Call me old fashioned, but I'm still all for children to abide by regulations, respect authority, and learning to follow rules and find it is more important for schools to teach this.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/149	0.671
It isn't so much sexist as it is antiquated and unfair to everyone - all genders, and frankly, all sexualities. It's unfair to boys because it assumes they are sex crazed animals who can't control their lust and it's unfair to girls for making them feel like they have to control the reactions of other people. As Laci said, in middle and high school, everyone had ragin' hormones that made everything distracting. Seeing an attractive person fully clothed in jeans and a long tshirt? Still distracted. Is the current dress code one sided? No doubt. I'm sure it's worse some places over others. My school was always very strict about images of people on tshirts following the same dress code as students and boys were also expected to cover up. The images sent in by viewers show that isn't the case everywhere. Those boys would have been sent home at my highschool.	Sex	Gender - General	1/152	0.658

In all fairness, female bodies ARE inherently more sexual than male bodies. Breasts, hip shape, &amp; fat concentration just to name a few are all body characteristics that are the way they are in order to make it a better incubation vessel. A female body is built with a balance of physical strength &amp; mobility as well as internal procreation.The male body is a mutated variant that drops all of these in favor of stacking one's proverbial eggs in the physical strength and mobility basket. The only part that's built for sex is effectively tacked on as a afterthought, and isn't crafted into the overall shape.Yes it's sexist but I think it's worth acknowledging when it's caused by cultural bias and when it's straight up sexual dimorphism. Because one of those things we can't change and are always going to have to work around. Men simply don't have the same fertility cues that women do.To your credit... How breaches of code get handled: couldn't agree more. You don't say shit like that to children, or undress them, especially not undressing them. Maybe pull them asside at the end of the day to talk with them, or send them home if it's a repeat problem.Also, is "boys will be boys" an American thing? How many people actually say that? Because I've never had anyone make that excuse for me or anyone I know. But it seems to be some sort of epidemic or something. In my experience you got the "pervert" label instead.	Fat, Sex, Sexual	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	4/256	1.562
You're a hypocrite who plays off feminism and sex.	Sex	Gender - General	1/9	11.111
My seven year old sister just last week was pulled out of class and forced to wait in the office for my parents to bring her new clothes because her skort was "too short." I was furious.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/37	2.703
So, would it be acceptable for a student (male or female) to turn up at school naked? I heard nothing in this vlog to think Green would oppose such a thing. After all, she seems to be saying students should wear what "makes them comfortable, " whatever that might mean.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/50	2.0
I understand what You are...."Trying" to say with this video.....BUT....Your "Facts" are Bullshit. You have NO CONCEPT.....of how MEN THINK.....or Boys for that matter.....The girls who get pulled aside for wearing certain clothing.....ARE DISTRACTING. How often do you hear of a woman....RAPING.....a man? .....do a REAL STUDY.....of Real Men/Boys.....not....What You picked up from your internet studies from varying tales across the country that had the same subject.....learn about people....from people.....computers are the death of true social activity.....	Woman	Gender - General	1/77	1.299
Hi Lacey. I think Mysogyny is a form of Fascism, not simply/merely Sexism.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/13	7.692

Policing anyone’s clothes just seems bizarre to me. A massive waste of time and effort. Plus all the horrible misogyny . Social conservatives are awful.It doesn’t end in school though. Last night at work I heard a woman exclaim that there should be a $1000 fine if a guy wears baggy pants that show his undergarments. I yelled at her to stop policing other people’s clothing. She didn’t budge on her socially conservative view.	Misogyny, Woman	Gender - General	2/74	2.703
--	-----------------	---------------------	------	-------

Obviously this is a touchy subject. Before I speak i would like to clarify that i am a straight male and have been to a private school in the UK that required ties, blazers, tights, skirts etc. Also i have been to a public school with uniforms of polo shirts and khaki pants in the US, and finally i am in a US school where there is no uniform. now having three sisters i was taught to respect and appeal to women first. I also come from a background where modest (clothing) is hottest. when i think of a sexy woman, personally images of long gowns with no holes, long sleeves and high heels, business clothing, knee length skirts, turtle neck sweaters and such come to mind, when i see girls in revealing clothing i personally feel uncomfortable, like i have no right to see so much of her skin. i feel guilty for looking. I don't like bikinis, i HATE shorts in general (guys and girls) (especially short shorts) and i think any skin revealing clothing on men or women is distasteful, as if your skin is part of the outfit (now obviously a t-shirt is ok, I'm not that extreme). I personally have no desire to see cleavage or your thighs of any girl. nor do i care to see some harry ass crack or side nipple of any guy! Personally i would blame society and parenting. I will sometimes see a tiny 4 year old wearing daisy dukes. WHAT!? whether the mother or the father dressed her is of no concern, someone gave her those clothes and taught her that that is what is cute/looks good/acceptable. she didn't pick it out. Society is to blame too, it tells us that we need to be sexy and look good so that people can take us seriously, but too sexy is being a whore slut face, but also not sexy enough is ugly fat and not to be seen listening to. we are at the day an age where if we were to be sent back 100 years that some of our daily wear would be considered underwear (men and women) to those 100 years ago.Now what about uniforms? In my opinion this can make no difference or a huge improvement (depending on how extreme the uniform is). now lets say that there are a group of kids, these kids go to their first day of school. there are no uniforms. In other words complete freedom with clothing (to an extent of course) naturally they will dress to express themselves as an individual while keeping in style/what looks good to them or a particular group of people. This can be healthy and backfire at the same time. on the one hand they get to show people who they are, what they like and what they stand for and can be complimented. but on the other hand they can be criticized for liking something that someone else considers bad taste, or that what they're wearing is considered ugly or offensive in any way. This can be harmful because it can lower self esteem and cause depression, loss of friends, suspension. However it can invite new friends, friendly discussions/conversations, and create respect. In other words high risk = high rewards.Now this time the kids have a uniform, but they have some freedom. they can choose from selected colored shirts but they must all have the same pants (girls and boys). This is good because it relieves stress because the kids don't have to worry about particularly what to wear and heck they could wear the same clothes two days in a row and no one would care nor notice. This is bad because some kids that have a colored shirt that not many kids have could be considered popular/better socially. If someone	Age, Black, Colored, Dumb, Fat, Lamé, Nothing, Old, Woman	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Physical Identity - Physical Features	11/1101	0.999
---	--	---	----------------	--------------

Look if someone is an over eater do you hide food from them? I think that we should teach people to stay the fuck out of someone else's space and to respect other people. By trying to ban girls and women from dressing the way that they want you are only telling everyone else that it is alright to shame or harass them when they do express themselves. It also promotes the ability to use the old argument. "well is she hadn't dressed like that then she wouldn't have been raped!" Which is bullshit within itself. I will be honest, provocative dress may be distracting and I will look and enjoy it. But at the same time it won't distract me so much that I can't function and if it does, isn't that my fault?	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/135	0.741
jojag5 By your logic, boys are slaves to their hormones who cannot control their base desires at all. Whether you blame a girl's attire for a boy not concentrating in class or blame a girl's attire for a boy raping her, you're saying the same thing "No boy or man is responsible for his actions. He has the self-awareness, conscious, and decision-making skills of a gnat; it's up to every girl and woman not to provoke him, because he can't stop himself from acting as a sexual predator."	Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	2/88	2.273
Corey Henton I can't even count how many dicks I saw in high school. Thanks to guys wearing skinny jeans that literally outlines their whole situation down there.. Or wearing baggy shorts that easily showed boners.. Not to mention all the chest and stomachs I saw from those tank tops with the holes down the entire sides. They might as well have been shirtless. Yet they didn't get sent home or told to change. And it was VERY distracting.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/79	1.266
Jordi OrlandoIm 16 years old ...	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/6	16.667
It just means he is a bad teacher who can't concentrate on teaching because he's an old horny fuck.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/19	5.263

Roman Zdenek I want you all to think about this very carefully, think about all her points, then think about what the only logical conclusion of them can be. Her points are: 1. "Telling women to dress less sexual is sexism against women." 2. "Pressuring women into looking more sexual via men just not finding them attractive, that's sexism against women too." The only logical conclusion to draw is that male sexuality is toxic, that just finding the female form attractive on their own terms why and whenever they do (as opposed to when and how women want to be seen as sexually attractive) is sexism against women, regardless of the fact that if one held women to that standard of what, when and how they can find people sexually attractive, the feminists would turn around and charge calling that "Slut Shamming", "Sexism Against Women" and "Oppression of Female Sexuality". [LINK] &lt;- This is all a can hear.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	6/158	3.797
Jordi Orlando Really listen to what she means by "Pressuring Women"... what she means is men having standards of what they find attractive in women, that is pressure via natural selection ("I don't dress a certain way I won't get those men that I am interested in noticing me"). Did you see her video on Sexual Objectification? In her mind men having standards to who and what they find attractive in women, that is sexism against women, regardless of the fact that if anyone held women to that standard of what, when and how they can find people sexually attractive, the feminists such as laci green would turn around and charge calling that "Slut Shamming", "Sexism Against Women" and "Oppression of Female Sexuality". If you're interested in really learning about the difference between male and female sexual (and other) objectification (laci doesn't acknowledge male objectification), I recommend watching the highly detailed break down of male and female sexual objectification: "I'm a sexy woman, so stop objectifying me!" By YouTuber Karen Straughan	Sexism, Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	6/171	3.509
i only fear phobophobia It's not that difficult. Allow a woman to dress in the way she chooses. Do not teach girls the lie that their bodies are inherently sexual objects while teaching boys the truth - that bodies are 'simply bodies' first, and potentially sexually expressive subjects after puberty. That's really the bottom line in as simple a way as I can put it for you.	Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	2/67	2.985

Zombiestew Where do they get the idea that they have to compete with each other for men (like men are the be-all or some shit) and call each other sluts and hate their bodies?Well shucks, it might be from that majorly male-run thing called the media industry, the same thing that promotes rape culture and girls thinking of their bodies as default sexual objects who are only worth the men that will fuck them.Like, god, look around and stop pointing at the victims.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/85	1.176
Roman Zdenek What?? I hated women and I didn't even know it! Thanks feminism! XD I'm dying. I think the pathetic part is your little misandry anger issues at men caused by some deep rooted daddy or authoritative figure problems.	Misandry	Gender - General	1/40	2.5
Zombiestew I despise misogyny , therefore I hate all men? So you believe that all men are misogynists at heart? A plus logic right there.	Misogyny	Gender - General	1/24	4.167
Roman Zdenek No, you think that everyone who doesn't submit to your ideas is a rampant misogynist . Therefore for not agreeing with me you are a misandrist. Just using your exact logic.	Misogynist	Gender - General	1/32	3.125
Roman Zdenek If anything, your logic shows how hypocritical you are. "YOUR A MISOGYNIST " "I don't hate men, I date them" Looks like you can't call the majority of people misogynists; they probably date women. Congrats on debunking your own broken logic	Misogynist	Gender - General	1/42	2.381
Roman Zdenek I never said winning, I said you had nothing to say and instead chose to be childish	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/19	5.263
Zombiestew Yeah, I'm choosing to be childish. It's not my job to be professional or educate people. I don't take your leaps of logic seriously, nor your belief that misandry actually exists.	Misandry	Gender - General	1/32	3.125
hawkeye mehawks If you only see them as "tits and asses" and not a woman , that's objectification. There's no such thing as a slut. People use that word to try and shame women for being sexually active (or they use it as an insult when a woman won't sleep with them). The difference between a "slut" and a clown is the fact that clowning is a profession. It's human nature for a woman to be sexually active. If you're going to sexualize a middle schooler's body, you're the problem here, not her. Wearing a tank top or short shorts doesn't mean you're automatically gonna sleep with the whole football team or have sex at all. Have you ever been inside a school without air conditioning in the early fall late spring? I have. wearing shorts/skirts and t-shirts/tank tops was the only way to stay somewhat comfortable.	Sex, Woman	Gender - General	4/146	2.74

Jacob Grafstrom men are visual isn't an excuse. Your the ones who get enraged when queer men stare at your bulge	Queer	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/21	9.524
I live in England so we have uniforms over here and from year 7-9 the girls all used to buy school trousers that were fitted so they were like skinny jeans (but not because they were school trousers). Loads of girls including me got detention for this when we were still wearing uniform, we just wanted to feel good about ourselves whilst wearing it. I also almost had to sit in the staff room the entire day once because my skirt was "too small" going up probably not even an inch above my knees. Luckily I didn't cos I made a fuss but my mum had to come in and bring my trousers for me instead and I've never worn a skirt to school since (I was 11 years old when that happened). But in year 10-11 when all the boys balls had dropped and whatever they started wearing skinny trousers just like the girls had done, but they were suuuuper skinny , like you could see the outline of one guys bulge, skinny . Nothing was done about that. Now the school have a skirt and trousers option at their uniform shop specifically for the girls...	Nothing, Old, Skinny	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical Features	6/195	3.077
My school is mainly outdoors and we have a no shoulder policy to be smart in the sun. And thank fucking god for that, because I don't want to see your tacky sunburns and tans. You look ridiculous and you're damaging your skin.	Tacky	Social Class - Working class	1/43	2.326
my school has an issue with just boys and girls clothes in general. A boy in my school loves to wear scarves, but a teacher told him that he is a man now and that he needs to dress like one, so he had to take it off. As for me, I feel comfortable in dresses and I enjoy wearing them, but if they aren't long enough (fingertip length) they make us take it off. Nobody really is staring, girls in my school get away with legging sometimes and there's no butt grabbing anywhere. and why shoulders be hidden? "OHMYGOD THATS A HOT SHOULDER!" Liz -8th grade	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/107	0.935
I guess if you want to dress like a tramp be treated like this. Just like the scumbag gansta wanna be that wear their pants down by the knees. Look like a scumbag be treated like a scumbag.	Tramp	Gender - Female sexuality	1/38	2.632
Not only is dress code bullshit because it makes girls feel like sex objects and like they're not allowed to be comfortable, it implies that boys cannot control themselves and will fail school and life if they see a fucking leg or a shoulder. Like jeeze. Give guys a little more credit.	Sex	Gender - General	1/52	1.923

Here in the UK, we have uniforms, and no, uniforms aren't the answer to this dress code thing. At my school, teachers would stand at the gate with make up wipes and nail polish remover. Girls were not allowed to go in until they had taken it off. A girl was expelled (not suspended, EXPELLED,) for dying her hair pink, because her mother didn't see any logical reason why pink hair would interfere with someone's school work, and as a result wouldn't force her daughter to remove it. My sister was told to take off her black woollen scarf one snowy morning in winter, because it was deemed 'a fashion scarf.' People had to carry around uniform cards, and getting one too many marks for wearing your skirt too short, having your shirt untucked, or wearing the wrong kind of shoes would get you suspended.All this effort to get students to LOOK right, while the actual lessons and teachers were shit.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/162	0.617
It's really about the way the public deals with the sexualisation of the female body. I'm "European" from a country where spaghetti tops are so not a big deal and nobody said anything, and I moved to a different country and had an American supervisor in my new job. Basically, after several talks I got the impression that I had to throw out half of my wardrobe which nobody had had a problem with before. I changed my job. But really, if a society has such a messed up view on randomly chosen body parts of a randomly chosen gender , that is wrong. The attitude of making girls the "perpetrators" and boys the "victims" reminds me strangely of another culture... which one was that... hang on... where they wrap up women in full body covers where only the eyes can peep out? Well spoken Lacy!	Gender, Nobody	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/145	2.069
In my school the girls all wear a uniform with a skirt and nothing underneath them. This is a major problem with me because when someone is sitting at a certain angle or a gust of wind goes by, my body reacts to it purely sexually. What I want is to communicate with females without having to be distracted in a sexual way. And in my opinion supporting young people to expose as much as they want in school is counterproductive to teaching children to interact with each other. I'm NOT trying to say that the young women in me school shouldn't have a choice, but it should be noted that in order for the younger generation to learn from the gender inequality we see today, we must try and put ourselves in a neutral setting.	Gender, Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/136	2.206
School is not just for education: it's also supposed to inculcate discipline in an individual, and a dress code is one of the ways to do that. Dress codes are necessary, but the purpose of these double-standard dress codes is not that, it's that women's bodies are sexual , and that needs to stop.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/53	1.887

I went to three schools and kindergarten and I can't remember any of them having a dress code. I don't think anyone was ever told to redress. It might have happened that if a student felt uncomfortable with someone else showing a lot of skin they told them so, but it never was a big issue or even gender specific.	Gender	Gender - General	1/60	1.667
Kindergarten student having a too short skirt?? These administrators (male and female) seem to not have understood that the only other adults that look at kindergartners that way get locked up when they are found out. Because I am pretty sure that there is nothing distracting for a male kindergartner in the first place as they are not sexually mature yet!	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/61	1.639
In Sweden we wear whatever we want in school. Nobody ever complains about " being distracted ". The girls are wearing tops that show the bra straps and shorts really short. It does not distract anyone, that's how it should be. And we don't get all confused later on in life when we get a job and we can't wear whatever we want. It's common knowledge that a company might want their employers to wear something more suited for a workplace.Saying that boys get distracted by girls bodies is just offensive towards both genders.	Common, Nobody	Age - Youngsters, Social Class - Working class	2/95	2.105
Can you please talk about transgender rights within high school? Something I noticed most people gloss over with dress codes is how it casually forgets that not everyone is cisgender. Many transgender and non binary students get in trouble (mostly trans girls) for dress code violations because "boys cant wear skirts" and other transphobic crap.While the dress code is a huge problem, it'd be great if we also talked about how oppressive it is for anybody who doesn't dress according to the gender binary. This also includes prom dress codes, where girls get sent home for wearing tuxes???Oh no!! PANTS!!!!	Gender, Transgender	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Transexuality	3/102	2.941
If human anatomy was taught at a young age with care to their psyche then I think things would definitely change. Breasts are not to be ashamed of.Legs are not to be ashamed of.Stomachs are not to be ashamed of.Buttocks are not to be ashamed of.Shoulders are not to be ashamed of.Females have vaginas and raised breasts. SO what?One is to to make/conceive a child and the other is to feed a child.Other than that we are pretty much the same. Sex is fun and all.. but when it makes people feel they can't dress a certain way because of their gender is when I have a huge fucking problem.	Age, Gender, Sex	Age - General, Gender - General	3/117	2.564
LifeOfAZombiex And the fact that a child's body and clothing says a lot. What the fuck does a 5/6 year old have to feel ashamed for? NOTHING . They are a child. What does a WHATEVER aged adolescent/minor have to hide? Not anything. They are a human being with a body. What is so shameful for that?	Nothing, Old	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters	2/56	3.571

it's not a double standard. Men are never walking around with revealing clothing. If they were they would probably do the same thing to them. If everyone was aloud to be naked in public like it should be then people would never grow up thinking things are to revealing and the problem would dissappear. It has nothing g to do with misogyny or patriarchy .	Misogyny, Nothing, Patriarchy	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/64	4.688
Luckily in my school you can wear WHATEVER you want obviously nothing that is TOO much but trust me. You can wear anything.. the funnt thing is, my school is one of the top schools with a 99.9 graduation rate. Thats really ironic lol... maybe when expressing ones individuality it make them smarter.. no on knows	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/56	1.786
I've been dress coded so many times but I always end up wearing the same thing the following week. I LIVE IN FLORIDA. IT'S SWELTERING HERE. This video should he shown to school administrators, because dress codes are getting out of hand. I remember in 5th grade there was a girl in my class who was sent home for wearing a tank top. WE WERE TEN YEARS OLD .	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/68	1.471
What about the clothing companies that produce the skimpy clothes that girls buy and then wear to school because they have been marketed to as that they will look hot in it? There has to be minimum standards or you get students pushing the boundaries of what is acceptable at school. The acceptable response is that the school enforces their dress code - no sexist comments on shirts, skirts that are no shorter then X length and just refer to that.The problem isn't sexism of clothes, it's the administrators fucking stupid responses instead of just referring to their guidelines and ruling on that.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/104	0.962
You're just mad your fat as fuck and look ugly in yoga pants.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/13	7.692

I'm from Scandinavia - I never heard about this problem at all . and we are socialists :D at school we had people dressing however they wanted even a couple of gay kids as well .... Don't remember anyone telling anybody it was wrongBut then again . we had sex ed in 5th grade ... And most people in Scandinavia are atheists ... So maybe teaching boys and girls the responsibility with sex early on helps? I don't know ... America sounds like a crazy place to be .....	Crazy, Gay, Sex	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	5/90	5.556
I am disgusted at what us going on in some schools. This is just the beginning. They are telling girls to cover themselves up because a little skin distracts fellow students from learning? If that distracts abyone to the point where their achievements in school are affected, MAYBE they are the problem. Now I am no shaming every single male being here, but those who stare at their female classmates getting a boner if she doesn't wear saggy high waist trousers and shapeless turtle neck sweaters. Congrats. You justify it to objectify women and suppress them. It doesn't stop there. What about hair colours? I just recently spoke to a girl who only felt comfortable with her unnatural hair colour, meaning blue. She felt horrible when she was told to dye it brown. Why? Does it put some off so much to see someone with blue hair? A guy I know who lives in Scotland recently told me they're not allowed to wear hoodie on school premise. Why? No one knows. I can understand if school don't want students to come to class in underwear, but shorts and a tank top? Unless you have been living under a rock for at least 200 years, there is no excuse about why this is inappropriate. A swastika on said tank top would be inappropriate. What I read in another comment would be inappropriate; to wear a shirt saying "that's cool babe, now go back to the kitchen". I am so happy that my school has no problems with any of these things and bith male and female students manage to get decent grades, there is little to no sexual harassment that I know of. But students are allowed to wear what they want. In summer, girls come in shorts and tank tops, there are quite a few with unnatural hair colours and even facial piercings. No one cares about those things because it's not their business. And we complain that our principal is against a military themed motto for our graduation...	Sexual	Gender - General	1/339	0.295

I completely agree that discrimination should not be against either sex and that the kindergartener example is absurd. However, as a teacher in the uk, we enforce suitable lengths of skirts on girls as a matter of decency and looking presentable, NOT about distracting boys. When I was at school myself we were not allowed strappy tops but it was because they looked too casual for school and boys were not allowed to wear board shorts for the same reasons.	Sex	Gender - General	1/80	1.25
I'm sorry, this is dumb .	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/5	20.0
I still find it really surreal and weird hearing about 'sexist' dress codes. Girls in my last school were always allowed to wear whatever they wanted. Some girls shorts showed their thong strings.. I mean I personally could care less as long as everyone is treated equally.We were not allowed to wear what we wanted, though. I came in with shorts slightly longer than halfway above my knee when it was 102 degrees out and got yelled at and told 'that's for girls'. Also told that if it weren't for my perfect attitude and grades I would've been sent home with a warning.I'm years ahead of everyone, so it definitely wasn't a sexual thing.. unless everyone is a gay pedophile..	Gay, Sexual, Weird	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	4/122	3.279

My sophomore year of high school we got a new principle. He was a really cool guy who was open to change. My senior year he changed the dress code to allow tank tops, previously deemed "inappropriate." He was helping move in the right direction.The Deans on the other hand sucked. I was in a sewing elective class. It was all girls, learning how to sew. It was a really fun class. One time, dead of summer, we had a dean stand out in front of our sewing classes door and pull aside every girl in "short shorts," aka the only length of shorts available to girls (seriously walk through a clothing store in the warm months and find me one pair of "long" shorts. I dare ya), and gave them detentions, or warnings or w/e. It was clear sexism, as they knew the sewing class, positioned themselves outside the class, and then herded the girls like they were cattle. I'm not kidding they were using their arms, and "herding" them. There was only one time slot for the class, as it wasn't a super popular elective, and the class was right by the deans office. I didn't see them outside that classroom for the rest of the day, or any other day past that time. Want to know why? It was a computer classroom, used mainly for 3D programming, computer science and architecture classes. So boy heavy classes. The sewing machines needed outlets, so that's the room we got. The deans couldn't give two shits about boy dress code. It was all the girls.NEW POINT BELOWLacy didn't touch on the fact that the dress code rules are also super vague. The more vague, the more they can manipulate it. Once I was wearing a nonrevealing dress, with two finger width straps. The only class anyone noticed was my study hall in the library. The librarian came up to me and asked if my dress was school appropriate. I said I thought it was, it was two fingers. We scoured the school manual only to find there was no specification for how wide straps had to be. Ever teacher I asked had a different opinion of 'appropriate' and could dual out punishment that way. The librarian said, go to the deans office and see what they say. I went down and asked the woman at the counter if she thought my dress was appropriate. She asked if I had checked the manual. I told her I had but there was nothing in it. That seemed to puzzle her and she checked herself. The whole thing ended in her saying, "well if a teacher finds it inappropriate than I guess that makes it inappropriate." SAY WHAT?! They have rules, that aren't written down, and then can be arbitrarily decided by teachers? That's just wrong.	Nothing, Senior, Sexism, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	4/476	0.84
--	--------------------------------	--	-------	------

I guess I must be really lucky then. My school had a uniform regardless, but when there was a casual clothes day, everyone had dress standards. Girls and boys. And the school never actually said "because it distracts the opposite sex ", they only ever said "because it's unprofessional".I think that was handled quite well, I can't believe this is even a problem in other places.	Sex	Gender - General	1/66	1.515
omg you are such a psycho . You always repeat this babble about women being objects and men being subjects. It depends on how you look at it you goddamn feminist. The reasons the school used for the dress codes are idiotic, but they imply that men are mindless sexual savages. That if we see a pretty woman , we're not going to be able to control ourselves. It's like a person waving a bone in front of a dog. The dog just stares at the bone. I would say the dog is the object in that scenario.How the fuck does it teach boys that it's ok to disrespect women? You just jump to these crazy conclusions, like the psycho you are. You can't just accept that people are idiots. You're a feminist conspiracy theorist. It can't just be that schools make dumb decisions. Oh no, it HAS to be about sexism; it HAS to be about objectifying and shaming girls.And once AGAIN, what do you mean "girls"????????????? Aren't you supposed to be using gender neutral language?????????????You are one of the biggest supporters of women not being sexualized. And yet when a school tries to force girls not to sexualize themselves, you're against it..... Wearing tight clothes that show off your body is going to be attractive to "cisgender men", but when boys stare at girls, you claim they're "gazing" at her and "objectifying" her. You think men shouldn't stare at women? THAT is shaming people. You're shaming men for being human. You're telling men that they're natural desires are bad.You are seriously deranged. You think you're not crazy because you have this ditzy, quirky, exuberant attitude. Almost everything you say is wrong, and not only are some things wrong, they're completely opposite of what the truth is. You really are a stupid person.	Crazy, Dumb, Gender, Psycho, Sexual, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	8/306	2.614

sweetness583 Think about all her points, then think about what the only logical conclusion of them can be. Her points are: 1. "Telling women to dress less sexual is sexism against women." 2. "Pressuring women into looking more sexual via men just not finding them attractive, that's sexism against women too." The only logical conclusion to draw is that male sexuality is toxic, that just finding the female form attractive on their own terms why and whenever they do (as opposed to when and how women want to be seen as sexually attractive) is sexism against women, regardless of the fact that if one held women to that standard of what, when and how they can find people sexually attractive, the feminists would turn around and charge calling that "Slut Shamming", " Sexism Against Women" and "Oppression of Female Sexuality". [LINK] <- This is all a can hear.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	6/147	4.082
Ben McPherson The only reason school uniforms are different for boys and girls is because the girls complain when they're forced to wear trousers like the boys. The only reason why more parts of female bodies are considered sexual than males is because both men and women create that expectation. Example, take the free the nipple campaign; these feminists want women to be able to be shirtless just as men without them being treated like sexual objects, while at the exact same time they reject men touching them in the exact same way they'd touch their male friends chests (via horse play, or some shit, etc.)... you can't have it both ways, either they're sexual objects, or they are just as worthless as non- sexual male body parts... deal with it.	Sexual	Gender - General	3/130	2.308
Rules are not necessary meant to prevent someone to feel abused by sexism . They are meant to sustain balanced environment in society. That's when your naked body parts become YOUR problem. You live with people, not in jungle. So behave accordingly.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/41	2.439
Even though the high school had a dress code (that only applied to females) just because it was required by the state, but it was never enforced. Girls wore spaghetti straps, short shorts, bared midriff. Nobody said a thing, and guess what! The boys still did their school work just as they would if those girl were wearing long sleeves and jeans.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/62	1.613
If a girl wears short clothes, it's something to love! Sure, even I'll look at her boobs one time or many, and I'll probably go talk to her too, because she looks hot. But that just says that I'm a sexual creature and not necessary a distracted, hungry for sex , weird animal, I know how to control myself and so do ninety percent of the guys.Who cares about the other ten percent perverts?	Sex, Sexual, Weird	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/74	4.054

I hated the dress code when I was in middle school. Even though I was a stick thin girl with no figure I was constantly being told to cover my "bra strap" which they could see on my shoulder (It was a tank top strap and i was wearing a large shirt over top) This honestly did so much damage to my self esteem, since I knew I didn't have a curvaceous body, it made me feel like my body must be so unappealing that it distracts people from doing their work.That's the thing people really don't consider when they say "they are preparing kids for work environments" teenagers are so insecure as it is, the last thing they need is to finally have an outfit they feel confident in be shamed and covered by their teachers.	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/138	0.725
When I was in high school one day I wore a tank top with think straps that also went past my butt with a pair of jeans. (Keep in mind the weather was about 102 degrees) my mother had no problem with what I wore when I got to school however one teacher did and actually said that my shoulders were going to cause a distraction to the boys in my class and made me put on a black sweatshirt where I almost passed out from the heat but hey at least my shoulders got covered!grumbles about sexism	Black, Sexism	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	2/98	2.041
When i was in high school i know if it became mandatory for all woman to wear burkes then i'd be still distracted	Woman	Gender - General	1/23	4.348
A girl in my school nearly got suspended because she wore black socks.The rule in my school is that you have to wear white socks with any type of skirt and boys can wear black and grey socks with shorts and long pants. (Girls can not)	Black	Ethnicity - Black	2/47	4.255
There is a difference between preparing young people for a future work environment and shaming them. When I was in middle school there was a girl who developed DD breasts at age 13, she wore a snug turtle neck to school, it completely followed dress code guidelines, however the teachers demanded she put on her jacket since it was clear she was "trying to display her body", It wasn't about wearing appropriate clothing, it was clearly about trying to hide any sexual development happening in a girl.	Age, Sexual	Age - General, Gender - General	2/87	2.299

Uh actually, MOST school dress codes mention that you cannot wear things that promote drugs, alcohol, weapons, violence, racism, etc, along with the things they mention for girls. The problem is, girls at my school would ALWAYS get dress coded for bullshit, while no one would ever dress code a guy. I would literally see boys wearing stuff with swastikas, beer, half naked women, drugs, sexist language (ex: I like my whores with bacon, cool story babe now make me a sandwich). And a crop top offends you? The tiny part of my midriff showing? Guys wear muscle shirts all the time and sag ALL. THE. TIME. And you're talking like girls wear fuckin bikinis. We get dress coded for the SMALLEST things. Bra strap showing, spaghetti straps, shorts not being 5 inches from your ass (stores don't even SELL shorts that long), shoulders showing, cleavage (literally not a person's fault that they have big boobs showing in a regular t-shirt). And you think that we need to be taught to wear stuff for different environments.. We're not 2? Obviously if we work somewhere and they have a dress code, we will comply by it. Stop generalizing when you don't know what you're talking about.	Make me a sandwich, Racism, alcohol	Behavioural Addiction - Alcohol, Ethnicity - General, Gender - Female intelligence	3/205	1.463
Everist Mister "but if you want to wear what ever the fuck you want, then OBVIOUSLY SOME BOYS WILL STARE AT YOUR SEXY LOOKING BODY. how can you actually be this stupid?"Obviously. It is common sense. Males have no control over our actions. (Sarcasm)You know, one thing schools could do is to teach boys that they don't have to stare at a girl/woman just because they like her body is she is wearing a sexy outfit. Now, of course it takes some practice. When I was 14 years old, I had a hard time resisting the urge to stare at a woman's chest. Now I'm 28 years old and I can control my eyes a lot better.I think you are just making excuses for our sex. If you tell yourself that you are powerless to resist your whims, it becomes a self-fulfilling prophecy. Have you ever gotten into an argument with someone and just really wanted to punch him in the face? Did you actually punch him? We're all human and sometimes we give in to temptation, but I'm guessing that most of the people in your life that you wanted to hit, you didn't actually hit them. You knew that there would be consequences.This issue is important because it ties to how rape is excused. If men are like sharks scenting blood, well, how can you blame us for raping women? We're just acting on instinct. But if we men are thinking creatures who can say "I want to rape this woman, but I know rape is morally wrong, so I won't do it," then it makes more sense to hold us responsible for our actions. If schools give boys the message that they can control themselves, that can lead to fewer incidents of rape, which is much more important than being distracted.	Common, Old, Sex, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	5/308	1.623

PolymorphicPenguin Rapists are just mentally ill. It's not because of the way a woman dressed or that men have desire to rape. Usually rapists don't go for women in tight clothing. They go for women in loose fit gym clothing or anything with easy access. Usually the girls wearing the common "flattering" clothing that society says they'll get raped in, those don't get raped. It's usually tomboyish or sporty girls. Rapists enjoy hurting people. They like to dominate. Men get raped by other men and they weren't wearing skimpy clothing. This is just a rapist trying to dominate someone and feel more powerful.	Common, Woman	Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	2/103	1.942
Everist Mister NO YOU DON'T HAVE A HIGHER LIBIDO, ACTUALLY. I am hornier than almost anyone I know, and while I may be an outlier, I know plenty of males whose female partners have higher sex drives. And simply because someone wants something DOES NOT mean they are entitled to it or being teased. So shut the actual fuck up until you've done your fucking research.	Sex	Gender - General	1/66	1.515
Everist Mister You've never had sex . hint hint I love virgins.	Sex	Gender - General	1/11	9.091
Sarah SantYou're implying that women don't ogle at ripped guys at the gym and in public. It happens. Should they control their sex drive?	Sex	Gender - General	1/25	4.0
Zombiestew nobody is stopping you from bending over and giving in to authority, boy.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/14	7.143
Madeline Kelly Yet you guys have no problem blaming the majority of men and the " patriarchy "? If you fail to see the irony here you should deffinitely take a step back from your beliefs and look at the bigger picture	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/40	2.5
Zombiestew Men hold the most hazardous jobs mainly because in parts of the world where those jobs are popular (Chile, Africa, etc) women's jobs are having children and raising a family only, women are considered the weaker sex that should simply remain barefoot and pregnant where the most dangerous jobs are performed.	Sex	Gender - General	1/52	1.923
In order to help dread awareness of sexist dress code,I try to make my way into telling a teacher that a boys sagging pants are distracting me. Most often they tell him, pull up your pants! And nothing happens but when I wear shorts, grab a helmet cause things are about to get dirty. They tell me they don't want boys seeing my "things" and that I need to be more conservative. I in no way mean to get boys in trouble but am trying to spread this awareness that it's not just girls that want a little freedom.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/99	1.01

This is a bit weird one. Men are not targeted in this case because... What options do us - guys, have? Shorts, Yoga pants, kilts, sleeveless shirts? No! It's full suit, a tie and shoes only that are expected for exam, no options! Not even black jeans are recommended, but sure, if it's all you have, wear them.I guess, this is a case, where school uniform might be a solution, at least partial solution.	Black, Weird	Ethnicity - Black, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/75	2.667
A girl at my old high school started a petition after the principal called her a 'dyke' for having short hair	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/21	4.762
When I was in Jr High, those spaghetti strap tank tops paired with cargo pants were all the rage.... it was the height of the Spice Girl craze, leave it lol. Anyway, I remember so many girls getting dragged into the office for dress code violations because of their shoulders, collar bones and slight bit (like an inch) of belly showing. And it's not until I was older that I realized that it wasn't just sexist, it was also body shaming . Because I recall now exactly what 'type' of girl always got written up for violations, they were thin , willowy, typically chesty. No one ever complained about heavy girls, or small busted girls clothing being against the code or distracting, even though all the girls, no matter their body type, were all wearing the same style of clothing. Things you don't notice until you're an adult, jeez. Sometimes I wish I could go back and give all those perverted teachers a piece of my mind, little girls are not to be sexualized, no matter what their body type is. Just teach their minds, don't worry about their 'virtue', if there even is such a thing.	Body Shaming, Thin	Physical Identity - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/195	1.026
This is kinda a problem at my old school wonce a girl In my class had to go to the office and call home because people could see her bra strap. I MEAN WTF IS WRONG WITH DRASS CODES?!?!	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/39	2.564
Hearing what you and the comments have to say, I must have been very lucky to rarely notice such discrimination in my schools. I'm from Slovenia, and in my current class the only comments girls with the exposed skin seem to get is "How are you not cold in that?" :pAlso, men are OP, please nerf. It's why I hate my gender , men are so empowered I find it hard to relate or even talk to most of them without facing some superiority complex or general carelessness.	Gender	Gender - General	1/88	1.136

Are teenage girls allowed to sexualize their bodies if they choose to want to attract guys their age ?(would like to add that MS Word does not recognize "sexualize" as a word; was that word seriously just made up out of thin air to make their case?)	Age, Thin	Age - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/47	4.255
My little sister was stood up, in front of the entire school at an assembly, for breaking the nonexistent dress code. At a school with no air conditioning, and 4 thousand students, and no dress code, my little 12 year old sister wore athletic shorts. Her principal stood her up, and said she is not a woman of distinction because she is showing off too much skin.	Old, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/67	2.985
This is the stupidest and most ignorant video I've ever seen. There are dress codes for a reason and those who break those codes should be punished. These rules don't only apply to girls! How is Laci so ignorant. In my school if a girl shows a lot of skin then they're asked to change. Same exact thing for a guy. Girls are just way more likely to show a lot of skin because that's the sexual culture that she promotes. Shouldn't there be a standard of decency too. Laci and her feminist friends think that people should wear what they want when they want. Nevermind trying to dress decently or having any moral standards. It's a school. Dress and act professionally. Another problem is that tight clothes are distracting. Like it or not, guys are more likely to be distracted by girls' parts then vice versa. Not because they objectify the women or some other crap. It's because guys are just hard wired that way. This whole video was crap	Sexual	Gender - General	1/171	0.585
I understand not allowing leggings and yoga pants in school. Really, outside and inside of school people will look at your ass. You may be comfortable, but everyone is looking at your ass. Its one thing as an adult woman in public wearing them, but if you are in school you really shouldn't Also shorts that are so short your ass is showing, or they are an inch below your crotch. When I was in school they had to be longer then the tips of your fingers when you had your arms flat at your sides.Also boys and girls could only wear tank tops if the strap was at least 3 fingers wide. And boys couldn't wear "wife beaters" or tank tops that had large arm holes. Boys also got sent to the office if their underwear were showing.	Woman	Gender - General	1/139	0.719

trumpeterjen Ugh, exactly. I am pansexual, and it drives me nuts whenever people act like boys are the only sexual beings in the universe. I can't imagine how annoying it is for a lesbian to be dress-coded and told that her body is distracting to boys when she isn't even attracted to them in the first place! As for preventing distractions, they're never too worried about girls being distracted. If they had been, they would have banned my hormone-laden ass from the locker room.	Lesbian, Sexual	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	2/84	2.381
bbhouk1 I'm an asexual disabled astronomer who lives on the moon and i am forced to wear clothes that are way to revealing.	Disabled	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/23	4.348
bbhouk1 damn thats a valid point about the lesbian thing	Lesbian	Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	1/10	10.0
Eric Doe I blame the invisible patriarchy .	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/7	14.286
bbhouk1 I want you all to think about this very carefully, think about all her points, then think about what the only logical conclusion of them can be. Her points are: 1. "Telling women to dress less sexual is sexism against women." 2. "Pressuring women into looking more sexual via men just not finding them attractive, that's sexism against women too." The only logical conclusion to draw is that male sexuality is toxic, that just finding the female form attractive on their own terms why and whenever they do (as opposed to when and how women want to be seen as sexually attractive) is sexism against women, regardless of the fact that if one held women to that standard of what, when and how they can find people sexually attractive, the feminists would turn around and charge calling that "Slut Shamming", " Sexism Against Women" and "Oppression of Female Sexuality". [LINK] <- This is all a can hear.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	6/157	3.822

i only fear phobophobiaTelling women to dress less sexual and pressuring women into dressing sexily are both forms of sexism . They are, because both are attempting to CONTROL female sexuality. Plain and simple. It's not about how much skin is showing or isn't; it's about attempting to exert patriarchal control over a woman through dress.That does not, in any way, mean male sexuality is toxic. It's NOT ABOUT MEN. Shocking, for a man to hear, I'm sure, but it really ISN'T ABOUT YOU. A woman's sexuality can exist completely separate from any sort of male expression of approval/disapproval about that sexuality. That's just a fact you're going to have to accept, unless you want to start denying the existence of lesbians.	Sexism, Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	3/123	2.439
bbhouk1 Uh, that's odd, my response now isn't there.No matter, i'll say it again:without outright getting rid of male standards of what they find attractive in women all together, what exactly can men do to NOT be "sexist" by pressuring women to being more sexual if needs be (to attract him)?Man, women, whatever, if you have standards then you are by proxy pressuring the people who are attracted to you to conform to your standards... it's sexual selection 101, so without getting rid of men's standards what can you do about that?	Sexual	Gender - General	2/95	2.105
i only fear phobophobia Actually, no. Because most of the time I don't even notice how people respond to what I'm wearing. It's not like I get in trouble for breaking the dress code every single day. Usually the day goes like normal and nothing happens and I just focus on school and what people think of what I'm wearing doesn't even cross my mind. I have better things to think about. When I get ready in the morning I put on whatever makes me feel most comfortable and most like my self. It's a form of self expression, not a form of manipulation. Please don't act like you know me. Or that you know what's going on in people's subconscious.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/121	0.826
Depends on what I'm wearing. If I'm wearing red , it's because red is my favorite color. If I'm wearing a shirt with a Pokemon on it, it's because I love Pokemon. If I'm wearing a flattering piece of clothing, it's because I'm proud of my body and I'm confident enough to show it.Either way, it's really none of your concern. Not everything women do has to do with men, you know.	Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American	4/72	5.556

i only fear phobophobia It wouldn't matter if I were the last person on earth, I would still stay fit. Exercising releases endorphins. Plus, staying fit helps you to be more healthy and that keeps you feeling good physically. A balanced diet and exercise have all sorts of health benefits that make you feel good. And dressing myself in a way I like is like an art form to me, and art is very therapeutic. Art and other forms of self expression have been used in counseling offices for years. Why are you so convinced that the world is so simple? There's a science to it. Staying fit and expressing yourself are things that make people happy because they are literally GOOD FOR YOU. I'm an artist and I create all sorts of art that I never show anyone because it just makes me feel happy to express myself TO MYSELF. And sometimes at night if I'm bored I'll go into the bathroom and do my makeup in different (and sometimes crazy) ways because it's fun and it's a way to be artistic. There aren't always ulterior motives to things. I promise you that there are some people in the world that actually do things for themselves. Do you seriously just think that everything a person does is subconsciously to please someone else? That is complete bullshit. Even though some people do it, it doesn't mean that people are programmed that way. Caring about what people think is a sign of insecurity. Most people care about what others think to some extent, but not in every aspect of their lives, and not to the extent that the laws of science and psychology change. Expressing yourself is good for you and makes you happy. That's just the way it is.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/299	0.334
Kat F "I'm an artist and I create all sorts of art that I never show anyone because it just makes me feel happy to express myself TO MYSELF. And sometimes at night if I'm bored I'll go into the bathroom and do my makeup in different (and sometimes crazy) ways because it's fun and it's a way to be artistic."———That is actually a little disturbing.Most who dress up at home do it as a sort of practice, a Dress Rehearsal if you will... but expressing yourself, TO YOURSELF!... That is borderline NPD (Narcissistic Personality Disorder)!Tell me, does your art also involve you menstruating into a cup and then painting with it? [Don't look that up on YouTube]."Do you seriously just think that everything a person does is subconsciously to please someone else?"———Not everything, but a number of things, yeah. Or though it's not to please someone else for their benefit, it's to please them for your benefit.Again, this isn't conscious, it's subconscious (we do it automatically, we don't even notice we do it at all, but we do).	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/187	0.535

How is that disturbing? I just said it's like art. Do you think it's disturbing for a person to paint something because they have an idea they want to express but then to not show that painting to anyone? And you calling that borderline NPD is HILARIOUS to me, because that implies that doing something for yourself is being narcissistic. Actually, doing things for yourself is important and is part of taking care of yourself. My sister is an artist, I'm an artist, I know a lot of artists, and art comes in many forms. Fashion is art, painting is art, making youtube videos is art, etc. Why is that so hard for you to understand? Maybe it's hard for you to understand because you do everything to impress other people and you can't fathom anyone being different from you, is that right? I don't understand how you could possibly believe people are so simple. Have you NEVER done anything or made anything and then not told anyone about it? And just enjoyed it yourself without trying to get anyone's opinion? I'm an ARTIST. I try different makeup looks because it's fun to see how the different colors work with each other. It's like making a piece of art, but on your face. I do it because I'm curious how it will look and because it's fun. Does FUN mean nothing to you? Just because you can't imagine putting on makeup for fun and then not wearing it out of the house doesn't mean it's some weird narcissistic thing. I usually don't wear very much makeup when I leave the house because I just don't care that much. To me it's not about looking better, it's about the colors and being artistic. Sometime's I'll wear it out of the house when I'm with a friend or something, but I don't do it on purpose to impress anyone. It just happens. The same goes for girls at school who look like they put a lot of effort into their outfit. Often, it's because they wanted to try a look and then just went to school like that. Would I have to wear a burlap sack and no makeup to convince you that I don't care what people think? That's ridiculous. Why is it so hard for you to believe that people enjoy being creative and that I just like to express myself because it's fun to explore what I like and experiment with colors, textures, etc? It's just FUN.	Nothing, Weird	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/418	0.478
--	----------------	---	-------	-------

The fact that you can't do anything to make yourself happy is the only disturbing thing here. Art doesn't have to be expressed to others to be art.If there were no other humans around, I'd have bigger things to worry about.Besides, I go out feeling confident because I see how I look in the mirror, and that makes me happy. If I wanted to please others, I wouldn't dress the way I do. You think walking around wearing Pokemon clothing as a grown woman makes me super popular? No, but I do it anyway because I LIKE IT. This is NOT a difficult concept to grasp.I'm not a child. I explained my reasons for feeling happy (and I have AGAIN, right above this, not that you're bothering to read my comments). Reminding you that my reasons aren't something YOU need to worry about is important, because you can't go around hassling every woman you meet about her motivations for everything. I have my reasons, and that's all you need to know.	Woman	Gender - General	2/174	1.149
trumpeterjen "If there were no other humans around, I'd have bigger things to worry about."——— [in a world where robots do everything and treat you like a god]Maybe, but it wouldn't stop you outright from enjoying things that require no one else to do. By your logic you don't need other humans in order to make you feel happy about the way you look... So wouldn't it cheer you up a little putting on your high-heels, dress and makeup on, and just dancing around in front of a mirror? Or would that lose it's appeal over time?"Reminding you that my reasons aren't something YOU need to worry about is important, because you can't go around hassling every woman you meet about her motivations for everything."——— I don't need to worry about it, that doesn't mean it doesn't matter.What are you saying, I'm not allowed to point at the empire and say out loud that he's bollock naked?[If you don't know what I'm talking about, look up "The Emperor's New Clothes" on wiki]	Woman	Gender - General	1/178	0.562
i only fear phobophobia Just so you know, roughly 90 of women do exactly what Kat F is talking about, so if that bothers you, enjoy not talking to women. Actually, go ahead and do that. We'd be happier that way for sure.I don't like high heels, dresses, or makeup, but thanks for assuming things about me based on no information whatsoever...Clearly, you ARE worrying about it. If you weren't, you wouldn't be bothering to harass women in the comments section of a youtube video.An emperor (not "empire," I'm assuming, because that wouldn't make sense) being naked in public is NOT equivalent to women expressing themselves by wearing the clothing they like. The women being punished by schools aren't naked. They're doing things like showing legs (oh, no!) and shoulders (how terrible!). Reminder: these are things that boys of the same age do in school all the time.	Age	Age - General	1/151	0.662

Amber Richardson Lol no its not? Does someones sexual preference dictate how others are physically attracted to them?! Nooo	Sexual	Gender - General	1/19	5.263
Patrick Parish well i mean the fact that a lesbian girl has to wear clothes that dont show skin when they believe that shes attracting boys when the lesbian is attracting girls.	Lesbian	Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	2/32	6.25
It doesn't matter who she THINKS she's attracting it matters who she is attracting and no matter which sex that is, they still need to show less revealing clothes.	Sex	Gender - General	1/29	3.448
Female politicians don't dress casually. Female politicians get criticized for wearing pantsuits, for crying out loud.Politics have nothing to do with this.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/23	4.348
Because question the fact that women get criticized for that. And if they do its in specific events. Im trying to say that no matter if you're straight or gay , you have to follow the rules. I don't think people who made the rules care about your sexuality people like you preach equality and that is equality.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/57	3.509
"Because question the fact that women get criticized for that" is not a sentence, so I'll just have to assume you're denying the fact that women get criticized for wearing pantsuits.Need proof? Exhibit A: Any time a Republican talks about Hillary Clinton. This can be typical Republicans you meet on the street, but even other politicians who are supposed to be professional, criticize her pantsuits (and her makeup, arbitrarily enough). Men don't get those sorts of comments; people actually debate their politics, not their appearances.The school boards who make these sexist laws are enforcing heteronormativity. They constantly police how girls dress because it's "distracting to boys," but why is it always centered around making boys comfortable? As I said in my original comment (which was nearly a month ago, but people like you are still joining the conversation this late without reading the rest of the thread), I'm bisexual, but they didn't care whether others' outfits were distracting to me. They say girls wear "revealing" clothing to attract boys, but that's often not the case. And no, these rules are NOT equal. Jeez, will you read my comments already? Boys can show their shoulders and legs with no complaints from the school, but girls can't do the same thing. It's unfair. The schools are basically saying that women's bodies are inherently more sexual than men's, which isn't just untrue, it's creepy as hell. These are high school girls we're talking about here.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/244	0.41

Which point isn't proven? People criticizing female politicians for pantsuits? That IS a fact. Women are policed for everything we wear; we can get heckled for being too "slutty," too "dowdy," too feminine, too masculine...we're expected to hold up an impossible middle ground, which can then be called boring. Men don't have anything comparable to this.My school didn't crack down equally. Most don't. A boy can wear a tank top with arm holes so loose you can see his entire bare torso (and they do so all the time with no consequences), but a girl can't show the slightest shoulder or cleavage in a lot of schools. Girls get sent home for wearing skirts that are "above the knee," but it's nearly impossible to find skirts for girls that AREN'T designed above the knee. The problem is worse if you're tall.Legs are NOT sexual. I repeat: legs are NOT sexual. They're just legs. They're used for walking around, and it gets hot to wear long pants all the time. Girls' shorts are designed shorter than boys', so we have little choice again. We're not going to just roast in early summer; that detracts from OUR learning environment (oh, wait, the schools don't care about that). If the people who make these rules are sexualizing high school girls' legs, we have bigger problems here than shorts.The school board doesn't care whether lesbians are distracted. They don't care whether bisexuals are distracted. The only kids they care about are the straight boys. That is NOT what equality looks like, and kids aren't be held to equal standards.You really need to re-watch the video or start actually reading what I have to say rather than blindly repeating your flawed points over and over again if you can't figure this shit out.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/302	0.662
Barack Obama has been seen multiple times in jeans and button-down shirts with ties in public.Yes, I DO see a lot of female politicians wearing suits and ties: Nancy Pelosi, Hillary Clinton (pretty sure I mentioned that twice already), Condoleezza Rice...did you even google that yourself first?Also, wearing a suit and tie isn't the only way to dress nicely. A dress or a nice outfit with a blouse are not at all inappropriate for formal events. Do you see a woman in a gown at a formal dinner party and think, "Ugh, she needs to go home and change!"Above example: Barack Obama. Doesn't always wear suits. Even during his campaign, Mitt Romney sometimes wore similar outfits. Somehow, no one gave a shit. That's because they don't care what men wear so long as it's not completely ridiculous. Women get critiqued on their hair, makeup, outfits, and figures constantly, and that's before they even open their mouths.It's bad enough that adult women in the professional world are treated that way, but teenage and preteen girls in school shouldn't be censored that heavily. They're kids trying to express themselves or sometimes, shocker, not get overheated in the summer.	Woman	Gender - General	1/200	0.5

trumpeterjen "wearing a suit and tie isn't the only way to dress nicely." —No, not dress "nicely", its dress professionally. "Barack Obama has been seen multiple times in jeans and button-down shirts with ties in public." And, what happens when he does?... [LINK] "I DO see a lot of female politicians wearing suits and ties: Nancy Pelosi, Hillary Clinton "———1. "Suits", and TIES?2. Considering Obama gets criticism from wearing jeans with no suit or tie, what the hell do you'd think he'd get for wearing a brightly colored (pink, red, orange, etc.) suit without a tie?	Colored, Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - Native-American	3/100	3.0
Okay, wearing a suit and tie isn't the only way to dress PROFESSIONALLY. Happy now? Men and women don't typically wear the same clothing, and that goes for both casual and professional settings. They face different expectations. Suits are easy. Women are expected to be more creative if they deviate from the suit-and-tie look (and yes, they do wear those sometimes, as I just mentioned). They're frequently criticized whenever they dare to do so (by people like you, btw).Look at the source of who's complaining about Obama's attire (for a phone call where Putin didn't see him, btw): "Ron Christie, a former adviser to President George W. Bush and Vice President Dick Cheney." People like that are going to search for things to complain about.He wouldn't wear those colors (which he SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO WEAR, by the way; it's dumb that we have to limit someone's fucking color palette based on their gender) because, once again, men and women are expected to wear different things.Need I remind you that this isn't relevant to our discussion? We're talking about young students, not presidents.	Dumb, Gender	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/186	1.075
I went to high school in Texas and school administrators did not do this sort of thing. We had a simple dresscode: Jeans and a polo shirt. No one cared whether or not girls clothing were revealing. People got detention mostly for not having their student ID with them which is super weird. I am glad my school administrators were decent people.	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/62	1.613
School uniforms are NOT the solution. In my high school we wore them, and it was still a huge fight and debate over whether or not your school was too short, your knee socks to low ('cause god forbid you can see any leg), pants or shirt are too tight and all of this targeted at girls it's just a different type of sexism and slut shaming.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/67	1.493

No they are not sexist at all... I was not allowed to where "tank tops" as a guy (muscle shirts) or where super short bike shorts it's the same. Nobody wants to see your gut ass or boobs at school it makes everything awkward especially for teachers I just grew up and realized that they maybe want people to dress like civilized human beings not a bunch of sluts	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/69	1.449
When I was in high school I had a female teacher come up to me and tell me that she could see the back strap of my bra through my shirt and that if she ever saw it again she would give me a detention. I was wearing a skin coloured bra because our uniform shirts are extremely sheer and I knew it, yet somehow it was still my fault rather than the fact that the school had never heard of lining? Nah of course it isn't their problem because ooh yeah I just wanna show off that sexy back strap for all da boyz.	coloured	Ethnicity - Black	1/105	0.952
Why don't you go back to making the videos like you used too nobody gives a fuck about your feminazi bull shit	Feminazi, Nobody	Age - Youngsters, Gender - Female intelligence	2/22	9.091
In my school (UK) guys couldn't wear shorts but girls shirts were checked so they win some, lose some. But tbh guys legs aren't sexual like girls. However I don't complain when girls dress dress skimpy, It's attractive and brightens up the day but neither are we unevolved enough to stare all day and lose all attention during class.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/59	1.695
as a guy, I must add that the teacher stopping class so she can pull a girl aside and pick on her because her shorts are supposedly to short, is way more distracting than the shorts she's wearing, which aren't any shorter than outfits we see practically everywhere. this actually happened in my high school Spanish, and despite having no knowledge of gender issues at the time, it really annoyed me that the student and teacher felt the need to argue with each other about something so normal.	Gender	Gender - General	1/88	1.136

When I was in high school we had a rule that your shirt couldn't be more that two or three inches below your collar bone. Or it was considered scandalous. Now me, in my early high school days was not used to my changed body and wore clothes that would have worked, had my chest not grown as much as it had. During study hall one particularly warm day my friend and I went for a walk and passed the main office. The principle passed us in the hall and commented on how her shirt didn't fix the dress code. Meaning it was two low. Her shirt was clearly not violating the code. Yet mine, however was. And the principle made no comment about my clothing as he entered the main office. For years I have chalked the experience up to our principle being a creepy guy. Everyone knew him as a perve. And this kind of proved it. But it also shows how I was being objectified and viewed as being more sexual because of a tight low cut shirt and short shorts while my friend was wearing longer shorts and a less fitted, higher cut shirt. As I made my way through high school I found I could get away with some things others couldn't. And to be clear I was particularly awkward when it came to being sexual in high school. I wasn't trying to dress provocatively. I still thought I was cute rather than hot. Some of my class mates had made comments about it but I was naive then. Those class mates were strangers to me too. It was definitely eye opening to me	Sexual	Gender - General	2/279	0.717
Don't know where you're coming from, again. It's not sexist, it's just the dress code. Men also are not allowed to have their shoulders showing, by the way. Men cannot wear tank tops, or any shirt with the sleeves too short. They can not sag their pants. The same rules have to be followed by both sexes. The examples were pointless confirmation bias for you; some people get caught, some don't and it is like that for most rules. It goes this way for both sexes. Of course you saw one example and that auto-confirmed your belief that sexism is the motive. You once again made an issue out of a non-issue and you tied it in to sexism. Sometimes guys and girls get away with breaking the dress code; it's just luck of the draw and walking by the right teachers and staff. I love picking apart your videos because you make so little sense.	Sexism	Gender - General	2/156	1.282

Okay so feel free to correct me if I'm wrong, but I have always felt that I am not okay with the double standard, but I am okay with there being a dress code. I just want in hand books for it to say "don't wear..." instead of "Girls don't wear..." and "Guys don't wear ..." As a girl in high school I was uncomfortable with the amount of skin that guys were showing, as well as girls. I can't even begin to tell you how many butts I saw. In public and private I am fine with people dressing however they want, but when it is a place where I am forced to be, like school, I don't like to be surrounded by literally half naked people (toga day anyone). This is not because my sexual urges were too much to controls, but just because sometimes I don't want the guy sitting next to me have his nipples showing while I'm trying to master trig because I feel uncomfortable with that. I think that what needs to change in this situation is the approach that the schools are taking, the language and punishments that they have, as well as the double standards.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/203	0.493
I understand the short shorts rule because of the obvious reason. At my school, the shorts have to be longer than your finger tip, however, some girls CAN get away with short shorts that show a lot. It really matters on your torso length, if your torso is longer, your arms will probably only reach just below the bum , allowing the short shorts. If you have a short torso, you arms can go down to your knees at most! Does anyone else's school have this rule?	Bum	Social Class - Destitute	1/86	1.163
Yeah, I know this problem all too well. My former high school (I switched to cyber school 2 years ago) determined that leggings were too much of a "distraction" to boys and have since BANNED them from the school (they have also banned yoga pants and sweat pants). I believe the only exception is if you wear a skirt on top? But I think this is totally stupid because um. hello.. SKINNY JEANS. Almost all the girls (and even boys too) wear skinny jeans that show and conform to your body just as much as leggings do. I can understand the enforced rule that states dresses/skirts/shorts have to be a certain length, but with the kind of style of shirts most girls wear right now ( you guys know what i'm talking about, the shirts that are rounded and longer on the bottoms?) the area the skirt or whatever the girl might be wearing on top of the leggings would be covered by the shirt anyway. Also, I see guys walking around with shirts on that can barely be called shirts and even some guys wearing shirts that have swear and/or inappropriate pictures on them (I even saw one wearing a playboy shirt complete with an outline of one of the bunnies (the girl bunnies, not the logo)) and they did not even get yelled at to change their shirt. There are also the really annoying shirts that say "Cool story, now go make me a sandwich " worn by a lot of the guys at the school and it pisses me off.	Make me a sandwich, Skinny	Gender - Female intelligence, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/262	1.145

Oh it's not just school aged stuff either. It'll happen in the workplace too. While I agree there is such thing as "workplace appropriate" I don't understand why wearing leggings underneath a long shirt or sweater dress is so fucking provocative or offensive? But I'd get sent home if I wore them. Yes, even under knee length dresses. I work in a call center. That half of my body is underneath a desk all day regardless. And the customers can't even see me. Its all bullshit to me.But if I wear a set of frumpy sweats, nobody bats an eye even though they want us dressed "business casual" I'm a thicker girl (sz 16)and I definitely feel body shamed. Like I'm only allowed to wear baggy, unflattering clothes just to comfort the female bosses around me.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/137	0.73
Control is established early in life, in order to, induce submission as an adult... The Elephant Rope: As a man was passing the elephants, he suddenly stopped, confused by the fact that these huge creatures were being held by only a small rope tied to their front leg. No chains, no cages. It was obvious that the elephants could, at anytime, break away from their bonds but for some reason, they did not. He saw a trainer nearby and asked why these animals just stood there and made no attempt to get away. 'Well,' trainer said, 'when they are very young and much smaller we use the same size rope to tie them and, at that age , it's enough to hold them. As they grow up, they are conditioned to believe they cannot break away. They believe the rope can still hold them, so they never try to break free.' The man was amazed. These animals could at any time break free from their bonds but because they believed they couldn't, they were stuck right where they were.	Age	Age - General	1/178	0.562
Wait, you claim that there is a double-standard here, but fail to say how it is a double standard. Many of these forbidden clothes would probably be forbidden on either gender .Also, Dress codes and guidelines are indeed a problem! (and many are very sexist) Dress codes stifle creativity and self-expression which is never a good thing.	Gender	Gender - General	1/57	1.754
Honestly, I am surprised that more people aren't angry when things like that happen. If people that we're supposed to trust are saying that our young girls' will be looked at sexually than the question we need to ask is why is that administrator there? Like if you're sexualizing a young child than maybe you shouldn't be around innocent kids. And to ignore the fact that boys are wearing extremely sexual shirts & are getting away with it while girls can't wear clothes to cool off in 100 degree weather is insane. Also so many people are so dumb that they don't realize that by having double standards you're hurting not only the oppressed, but also the future. Imagine what they could do if only they were believed in & as protected as "them". It shouldn't be an us vs them. It should be we, and we all need to be treated the same.	Dumb, Sexual	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/154	1.299

Another issue with this is the unspoken dress code for male and transgender students. My male friend, proud of his Scottish heritage, wore a full dress kilt to prom and was denied entrance because the administration claimed his choice of dress was not appropriate formal attire for prom, and the following year when handing out the school dress code "male students must wear pants or shorts only" had been added. This also caused issues for my transgender (M>F) friend who began transitioning over the summer and chose to wear feminine clothes upon returning to school in the fall, and was given the choice to either change and cut her hair back to a "male" haircut, or leave school until she was willing to do so, as her enrollment paperwork had her listed as male and thus she was held to the male dress code (mind you, her clothes were completely in compliance with the dress code rules aimed at females).	Transgender	Sexual Identity - Transsexuality	2/160	1.25
Her parents were pretty much a nonentity in her life, so she had to make the very painful decision to continue living as a male during school hours for her last year of high school; however, there were some great teachers who respected her and used female pronouns, etc, and everyone in our friend group always used female pronouns, so she said that helped. Additionally she found that she liked wearing skinny jeans, and the administration didn't have a problem with skinny jeans on males, so she primarily wore those and shirts that felt more feminine but still were "masculine enough" to appease the administration. But yeah, transphobia is another issue lurking in dress codes that needs to be addressed, especially in places where they're so transphobic that they won't allow traditional cultural dress for males unless it involves pants.	Nonentity, Skinny	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/140	2.143
I never thought about this while I was in high school, but I remember "spaghetti straps" being such a big deal and girls always getting in trouble over it.. It's so dumb really!! PRETTY SURE THE TEACHERS ARE MORE DISTRACTED THAN THE STUDENTS..	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/43	2.326
i know!!several (many) years ago, when I was in the FIRST grade, i wore spaghetti straps to school. no one cared until a teacher caught me in the hallways and told me to put a jacket on. so i did. none of the 7 year olds cared! it was the school staff that found it "distracting."i was seven years old . i can't believe how wrong it is that schools are still doing this, and to children so young...	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/80	1.25
Bish, you cant have my cherry limeade drink mix. Not only is that sexist, but that " ethnic hairstyles not allowed" is downright racist .	Ethnic, Racist	Ethnicity - General	2/23	8.696

Ruby Tyson "that it's NOT AN EXCUSE for enforcing the dress code?"——I never said it was, nor did I say you said it was."women are doing these things because of the pressure that men have put on them"——In other words "this is a mans world, HE is the responsible one, she is just an object or child following orders"... don't you get it, you are denying women responsibility for their actions in the world, and denying people responsibility for themselves is denying them agency.As long as you keep making this a gendered issue women will never be given their "credit" for their effect on the world by holding them responsible for their own actions... if they're denied their effect on the world then they're not agents, they are objects. You are denying them their effect on the world."sexism effects men too"———"Lip service", "Lip service", "Lip service", "Patriarchal penis"."I don't want to argue with someone who isn't even listening to what I'm saying."———I am listening to what you are saying... the problem here is you are not listening to what you are saying.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/194	0.515
Jess H. Wow racist and sexist really fucking nice gives your school board the finger	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/15	6.667
Don't the patriarchy know this is the pedo generation and uniforms that prevent little girls from being sexualized is like totally sexist. At my school boys couldn't wear seethrough shirts or short shorts... not sexist though, wonder why? hmmm	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/39	2.564
This is actually an amazing video and living in the blazing sunny side florida girls are forced to wear long baggy clothes and unable to feel comfortable. We should all just be naked. No distraction there because guys will lose the favoring and sexual attraction if they see their boobs and etc daily	Sexual	Gender - General	1/53	1.887
Haha Lakeland senior high made the scrip.	Senior	Age - Over 65s	1/7	14.286
Weird how schools with uniforms most often then not offer more choices to girls (skirts & pants) then to boys (only pants). Sad that the sexism is only shown for the girls.	Sexism, Weird	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/32	6.25

At my old high school, they used to have administrative staff go through every class in the morning and check for dress code violation. I don't remember ever seeing a boy asked to stand up and/or change, but I myself was asked several times to stand up so they could check my skirt/dress length. I am a modest girl, and I think that this is one of the most embarrassing things you can do to high school aged girls. It's telling them that because they wear something, they can be objectified. It's awful and dehumanizing.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/95	1.053
When I was 3 weeks from graduating, I was wearing a pair of jeans with rips in them. I wore them maybe once a week the entire year, but that day, I got sent to In-School-Suspension (ISS) for three hours. I wasn't allowed to study, work on homework, or read a fucking book. All I was allowed to do was stare at the wall until someone brought me a change of clothes.1) They wrote that I was wearing jeans with HOLES in them, but a hole constitutes there's nothing in the middle and these was something in the middle of these RIPS. NOTHING WAS WRONG WITH THESE JEANS IN THE EYES OF THE DRESS CODE ANYWAY.2) None of the rips were above my thigh. I was allowed to show that same skin while wearing a skirt, but if you saw it while wearing jeans, it was "too sexy" (direct quote). 3) Guys never got in trouble for wearing ripped jeans. They were all over the campus, but girls? We couldn't get away with a rogue bra strap.tl;dr Schools have fucked up priorities.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	2/185	1.081
we can't wear spaghetti strap tops because its shows our bra straps and shoulders, because you know...thats so sexual and inappropriate. Umm can you tell boys to stop wearing tank tops because their muscles are distracting thanks. stupid schools > <	Sexual	Gender - General	1/40	2.5
My highschool had a "shoulders make babies" campaign. I remember my teacher telling me to put on a jacket in an 80 degree room and I was like no. My shirt is FINE. You can't see my bra straps it's three fingers across.... and I still had to put the jacket on or go to the principal over something so stupid.Yet a girl who wore a skirt so short if she bent over her bum would be visible, and probably her panties, didn't get dinged over it at all. Seems a little unbalanced there. If you're going to enforce a dress code, it should be enforced equally on all genders and it shouldn't be treated by the concept of sexism so much as Professionalism. It's one thing to say "Don't wear that you'll look like a slut" compared to "Being presentable is important to getting and keeping a job." Like real world lessons.Also I find it hilarious people think the more skin you show, the sexier it is. It's like no. You can be wearing a maxi skirt and long-sleeved sweater and someone is still going to think you're hot ( and this goes for all genders in any type of clothing ). Less Clothing =/= More Sexy.	Bum, Sexism	Gender - General, Social Class - Destitute	2/210	0.952

I get the sexism when your talking about shirts, but I seriously doubt you'll see as many boys wearing short shorts and leggings as girls. As long as the same rules apply to everyone there's no problem.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/37	2.703
There is no dress code in College or University and we are all fine, nobody falling overthemselves	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/17	5.882
I agree completely! Thank you! Due to my inappropriate dress wear (shorts) I was told off one hour before the end of school, and was made to put on a pair of dirty pants from the lost & found, that had a large hole in the butt area, in front of all of my classmates. I was patronized and humiliated. However, it is important to note that this is not only a girl issue. This seems to be more common for girls, but boys are also shamed for their "inappropriate" dress code, and taught disturbing lessons. My understanding is that schools try to maintain their traditional and orderly reputations- freedom of expression (dress) often does not coincide with their ideal reputation. So- to girls AND boys- protest!	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/127	0.787
She has the biggest mouth ever, its like a black hole.Young boys tend to try to get the attention of attractive girls, and since every animal on the planet use brute force as an "argument" to resolve conflicts, sometimes we do just that, and fighting with other boys is not usually a great thing, but I don't expect a feminist like Laci can get that, or other shitty stuff that happen to her opposite gender .	Black, Gender	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	2/76	2.632
Women don't wear clothes because of practicality or for comfort... heals weren't invented because they're comfortable. And ass cheek hanging out booty shorts weren't made because it's "hot" out because if that were the case guys would wear them haha everyone knows people choose the clothes they wear based on the way they look not based on how they feel... could u imagine guys wearing spandex with their dick flopping in your face it would be pretty annoying haha its not different than girls wearing spandex with their fat busted pussy lips hanging out	Fat, pussy	Nationality - Chinese, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/94	2.128
Last year I was volunteering as a tutor at my old middle school. The teacher I was working under told me that the principal had told her to talk to me about how I was dressed because a parent had said something. I was wearing 3/4 sleeved shirt that wasn't low cut at all and leggings. I was there for the benefit of the students not to be criticized for my clothing.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/72	1.389
My old schools dress code said no rips in pants	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/10	10.0

My old middle school dress code was horribly sexist towards women, I saw at least twice a day a teacher checking the length of some article of clothing. But what I wanted to talk about was how it was strangely transphobic, I would wear headbands I borrowed from my friends occasionally (which were in dress code for girls) and I would get sent out of class, FOR A THING ON MY HEAD, when I asked why, they just dodged the question and gave me detention, another time I wore a tank top that had a 5 finger length to it's shoulders (the dress code called for 3) and I yet again got sent out, but this time I tried to argue it, but this only got me suspended. Apparently the high school is worse with the dress code, but I wouldn't know, I go the alternative arts high school which is super accepting and has a very equal dress code.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/160	0.625
idk why girls complain about not being able to wear tank tops. im a dude, my tank top doesnt fit slim to my body or have really thin straps. girls, go to school in boy clothes and then complain about being dress coded.	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/43	2.326
I feel like there should be somewhat of a dress code, and that it's not sexism against women. However, telling women not to wear shorts or tank tops is ridiculous. And to enforce dress codes in a slut shaming sort of way is gross.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/44	2.273
It kinda goes both ways like girls shouldnt be revealing because boys are just gonna be pigs about it. Fuck no us guys have control over their actions(unless your a douche who disrespects women constantly) and women should be allowed to wear wathever they want. Honestly soceity sucks ass right now.	PIGS	Nationality - Southern European	1/51	1.961
That's why boys and girls don't share the same classroom in some stone age countries.	Age	Age - General	1/15	6.667
funny thing is..when i was in school, we had uniform and i followed ALL the rules. And boys STILL flirted, looked, all of that. Whether we were in a short skirt or a big sweater it didn't matter those boys were distracted. Nothing you can do about any of that. We wore uniform for god sakes once again and my school was filled with distractions even still. there was even sex going on in the bathrooms and what not, it doesn't matter guys lol	Nothing, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/84	2.381

I hate this whole idea on scantily dressing of women.Not only does it portray girls just wearing clothes they are comfortable with as slutty, but it majorly degrades men and makes it look like the second they see tight pants or a shoulder, they are so captivated by it that they will fail their classes and such. The only people being distracted are the bored teachers who want a reason to punish someone. The boys are mature enough and mentally strong enough that they won't get so distracted by a shoulder and the girls are mature enough to choose their own clothing without dressing like a prostitute. Nobody is coming to school pantsless or shirtless or wearing linguine! They are wearing normal clothing!Let's stop pretending girls are sex objects and men cannot control themselves when they see a centimeter of skin above the knee!	Nobody, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/146	1.37
Are male students wearing short shorts in mass? No, female students? Yes.Are male students wearing yoga pants in mass? No, female students? YesHoly shit, a rule that can worded to be completely unisex ('no student shall wear.....') is only effecting one gender due to the current fashion trends? It must be sexism .....Try thinking, I promise it is not as scary as it seems	Gender, Sexism	Gender - General	2/65	3.077
Boys wear muscle shirts all the time (against dress code) but the second a girl wears anything that is "revealing" they are instantly sent to the office. It's not even the boys that comment on anything their wearing. They never look or really care in the first place, it's the teachers (m and f). It's so ridiculous that this happens to girls because 40 year olds will go blind if they see female skin	Blind	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/74	1.351
Cursing Pancake My school always had the rule it had to be mid thigh and the boys couldnt have their sleeves ripped off their gym shirts	Pancake	Ethnicity - Asian (East- China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam)	1/26	3.846
Cursing Pancake I think that some yoga pants like the skin tight ones they sell at pink are not needed, but just plain old yogas you would wear to chill and watch netflix all day are just fine	Old, Pancake	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - Asian (East- China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam)	2/38	5.263

Eric Doe Give an example of how dress codes target boys. I've never experienced this myself. I don't live in the states, though, so our rules are way less crazy .My point was that dress codes are fine as long as they're balanced. If dress codes are unfairly focusing on the clothes boys wear, I still see a problem there. If guys are being treated unfairly by dress codes, then we have the same work to do. Basically, the gender didn't really matter, but the imbalance between them did. My point still stands, and I do recognize that men face serious sexism , too. Just because women are being treated unfairly in one area, doesn't mean that men aren't experiencing the same thing in a different area.	Crazy, Gender, Sexism	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/126	2.381
Eric Doe They aren't twisting reality, son. None of those restrictions apply to me, and all the bullshit Laci was talking about does apply to the girls at my school. I'm a guy and can wear shorts, have fucked up haircuts, wear shirts with prints, wear overly colorful tacky clothes, wear tank tops and skinny jeans, tapered pants, jewelry and shit, and any sort of shoe that isn't a flip flop or similar toe-exposed piece of footwear. I can, but I don't. Hell, I wear a fucking full suit, hat, and trenchcoat. Yet girls still have ALL of the asinine and sexist restrictions Laci listed above.Yes, the dress code is unbalanced.You dumbass console plebs have once again proved that you are too damn dumb for your own good. PCMasterRace	Dumb, Skinny, Tacky	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Physical Identity - Physical Features, Social Class - Working class	3/131	2.29
It's also important to mention racism in dress codes. Black teens have gotten in trouble for having natural hair(afro's,locs,braids,etc) and told that their hair is distracting.	Black, Racism	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	2/26	7.692
I love that Laci is addressing issues such as these but I wish she would also mention that not all boys are sex craved addicts that would have sex with whatever can stand up. I think that her videos are very empowering for women but guys have just as many stereotypes that she's never addressed like how all guys are expected to never show any emotion ever or it's " gay ".	Gay, Sex	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	4/70	5.714
Just get over it, girls are more visually sexual than boys. But anyways that mouth on you looks like you can suck a mean dick! That's all I thought about throughout this video lol	Sexual	Gender - General	1/34	2.941

I wear the school dress code, which is a uniform. Perfectly fine, right? nope. There are still distracted boy's, and on several occasions I've seen some staring inappropriately. It makes me feel uncomfortable, yet I'm doing nothing wrong. I wear bootcut khakis with a green or black polo shirt, and the only skin I'm showing is my collar bone. ..damn the pervs	Black, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black	2/62	3.226
Even though I don't agree with some things in this video, I would like to start off by saying that I 100 respect your opinion and you were so informative on your video! For me, I have always agreed with dress code. I'm wondering ladies, when is something considered immodest for you? In my opinion, yoga pants/leggings are very immodest because you can see the entire shape of a woman's lower body. The only difference between being naked and wearing leggings is the color. Yoga pants are supposed to be for yoga and at this point they aren't used for that anymore. If you told me that you didn't think they are tight, I wouldn't believe you. When it comes to tank tops, in a lot of schools boys aren't allowed to wear them as well. It's not because "OMG A SHOULDER IS SEXUAL ". It's because some tank tops show more than others, including cleavage and some are cut down the sides. It just seems like there is no such thing as immodesty or too much skin showing anymore, it's just if a girl wears it, it shouldn't be considered that. I went to a school where your uniform skirt had to be below your knees, girls were never allowed to wear pants, no cleavage, no shoulders, etc and no one ever had a problem with it and I never felt objectified sexually.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/233	0.429
I find this disturbing in the extreme - especially in the case of the Kindergarten student being "changed due to her skorts being 'too short'". If they were the skorts shown in your video - I cannot fathom the workings of the mind responsible, no matter what the age of the student. Laci, I'm going to assume that this Kindergarten teacher was a woman (based on statistics available from 2013, anyway)? IDK about anyone else - but frankly that somehow makes the situation all the more repellent. [Granted, it's a difficult call...]You would like to imagine that women working in Education would realize the gender stereotypes and myths they have internalized over their lifetime, and the importance of not passing such malicious bs on to children at such a vulnerable stage in the development of their personality! I realize that all of us are subject to cognitive biases of which we may not be aware - but this kind of situation at least borders on child abuse, to my mind. All of the dress code "controversies" you have mentioned only serve to strengthen my belief that courses in Critical Thinking should be made a mandatory part of the School Syllabus throughout the "Western" world.	Age, Gender, Woman	Age - General, Gender - General	3/205	1.463

1:15 should earn an oscar for best "uncomfortable" This is the issue which set me on the course of supporting feminism and one of my earliest memories. I remember the double standards being set for girls in our school. We had uniforms and girls were required to wear skirts, but routinely punished for them being too short. Given that this was at an age where girls grow the fastest it was outrageous in the first place. What set the combative tone was the the school eventually relented to the legal arguments and allowed girls to wear trousers, but only a specific brand which was both apparently designed to emphasise the bum, and incredibly uncomfortable to wear. Rumour was that the brand was chosen specifically to deter girls from wearing trousers.I hope the situation has changed there since my sister and I left.	Age, Bum	Age - General, Social Class - Destitute	2/143	1.399
It's crazy because at my school, it seems like although us females have more dress code rules, guys get caught more. Guys at my school can't wear shorts at all while girls can wear skirts, it's CRAZY! I think we should just all be allowed to wear what we want, as long as everything important is covered, it should be fine.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/61	3.279

Attraction between genders at that age tend to be significantly different. What do/did you find attractive at that age , attitude or a body or a mix of both, but for the most part guys are attracted to one thing in the initial instance the body yes it changes as we get to know others but hey what do i know i don't have the female perspective and never will. Though the truth is some women want attention some don't blaming men for finding a women attractive is killing the approach people take towards one another is it appropriate to tell another that you find them or part of them attractive, it depends and the ability to judge that comes from experience if everyone is scared to approach each other due to social justice warrior imposed beliefs you get a bunch more awkward and socially inept individuals. Nothing wrong with that at all just we all know we would much rather have an engaged conversation as opposed to the awkward uming and ahing. Is Dress code enforcement sexism NO is made up on code on the spot based on personal views sexist NO is ignorance. But the sexism comes in when you look at the reasoning not being applied to men but it also seems it is with no one reporting a boy dressing down probably due to them not do it. but i am certain if both a woman and a man dressed identically scantily clad they would both be asked to change just in a different manner which is where sexism comes in again. So no it is not the enforcement of a code or even the enforcement of a made up code to coddle young boys/men that could be considered sexist and this video seems to have made the point that asking someone to cover up due to others opinions/views is sexist is quite bias and a double standard in of itself making it sexist. Dam i got off topic quick sorry end rant.	Age, Nothing, Sexism, Woman	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	7/336	2.083
It's true, it's SO true, this video made me remember a trip camping in Wales when I was 14, and I remember when they were explaining the guidelines on the trip, and the teachers sentenced the boys away, and specifically advised the girls on the sexual behaviours of the boys on the trip. Thinking of the video reminds me of how messed up it was, and all it did is make the boys want to have sex , and it made us horndogs, ready for us to have "fun" with the girls when the teachers weren't looking. I always thought that it was counterproductive, as that separation made it easy for us boys to act like pigs towards girls, and the girls should expect for the boys to behave that way.Not cool, really, but after 14 years ( ) I can deal with it...	PIGS, Sex, Sexual	Gender - General, Nationality - Southern European	3/143	2.098

I attend the Staten Island school she first mentioned. Our principle is enforcing his sexism and even told my friend she needs to start "looking professional" after he looked her up and down for wearing a skirt. And we're the ones who get blamed? Why don't you stop staring at an underage girl? Your ability to not be able to control yourself is not our problem.Our principle always says he doesn't want our education to be robbed, but takes us away from our classes because he doesn't like the length of our shorts. Bullshit.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/94	1.064
in my school district dress code is very strict for both guys and girls. Girls can wear short shorts and it's normal, guys get laughed at by teachers. Girls can wear earrings and guys can't. Girls can wear "boy clothes" but boys can't wear "girl clothes." Girls can have three-finger shoulder straps and boys have to have sleeves. This is very sexist because what they're saying is not only are girls bodies inherently sexual but boys dress effeminately is even worse. This supports the patriarchy by telling feminine men that because they're feminine they're inherently less than.	Patriarchy, Sexual	Gender - General	2/97	2.062
Hi ya I'm a boy and I do not appreciate you calling every boy basically a sex hungry animal. You go into detail on how yoga pants can let boys know it's ok to go bonkers . In my personal experience (high school) I have never once seen or herd of any sexual assault of any kind and I think your over the top on feminism. Shouldn't everyone be equal? Meninist	Bonkers, Sex, Sexual	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/70	4.286
I live in the UK where Uniforms are the norm so dress code isn't as much an issue. When i was in high school we both had to wear blazers,shirt,tie,suit pants or skirt and black shoes. Skirts and skirt length was the only female only dress code but I think its reasonable that the skirt can't be too short in my opinion.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/62	1.613
This is exactly the video I needed to see. Today some of the boys at my school told me that I was breaking the rules for wearing a bandana rolled like a headband. It turns out that the principle wasn't letting boys wear bandanas because they are a gang symbol. However, he allowed a boy to wear a shirt that said "nice story woman , now shut up and make me a sandwich ". We have a pretty basic dress code that has started to get out of hand and seem more like victim blaming. I just wish people had more common sense.	Common, Make me a sandwich, Woman	Gender - Female intelligence, Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	3/101	2.97

Hearing all of this makes me glad the my old high school worded and enforced their dress code the way they did. They made it sound like they wanted to encourage the students to make dress choices that would better fit into a professional setting rather than bring in "girls bodies are distracting" thing. I remember the guys getting punished just as much as the girls for coming in wearing anything that showed off their shoulders too much or their butts, or if they wore a graphic t-shirt that sexually objectify someone. Not so much that it was considered a distraction, but was inappropriate for most work environments.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/108	0.926
I've had teachers come up to me and tuck in my bra straps (without consent to touch me). I've had male teachers stare at my cleavage (as young as 12yrs). And I've been told (by administrators) that if I show off my body then I have no self respect. I've been sent to the office for having holes in my jeans that go too high. But I've seen guys wearing shirts that say "go make me a sandwich " and they never get reprimanded. I am so sick of this shit.	Make me a sandwich	Gender - Female intelligence	1/90	1.111
I remember in 9th grade I was pulled out of class because you could apparently see the lines of my underwear through my yoga pants (not true I was wearing a thong) and I got out of it only because I told the vice principal that I was uncomfortable with the fact that a 50 year old man was looking at my butt long enough to notice something like that	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/70	1.429
When i was in 5th grade, one of my friends started to learn how to wear eyeshadow and was super excited to be like her big sister and her 'big kid friends.' In class, her teacher told her she 'looked like a street walker' in front of all the students and made her go wash off her makeup. Wearing eyeshadow and other cosmetics isn't even a violation of the dress code at our school, she wasn't doing anything wrong. We were 10 year olds. Most of us had never even heard the term 'street walker' and the teacher, who we later dubbed 'the moral compass' because she has a history of doing things like this to other students, publically shamed a 10yr old for simply having makeup on, in front of everyone, and made her cry. And for the first half of the school year, the students would shout 'street walker' at her when they saw her because "if the teacher can call her that, then i can too"	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/169	0.592

This problem goes so much deeper, it's frustrating that a woman can't be seen with her boobs out on TV before a certain time and only on select channels yet a man take his top of exposing his nipples and it's almost praised by the media(ow look at his abs) to sell fucking protein shakes and gym memberships. The big problem here is its easier to go around victimising females rather than looking at our selves and changing our presentation, if a woman walks round in a skirt above her knees that sexual and wrong but what the hell are shorts on a male, guess what the exact same thing. the best thing you can do is to actively not conform to these outrageous pre-conceptions and any time you see it happening call people out on it. Don't even get me started on how society teaches people that swearing is bad X-(	Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	3/152	1.974
OMG at my school ever girl gets in trouble for crop tops, spaghetti straps, shorts, ect. Some girls got suspended for wearing high wasted shorts and a crop top last year. Our principal thinks it's "not appropriate" and it distracts men and they "don't want to see our bellies". I decided to go against it and went to the principal and said "what about the guys? Why don't they have dress code rules" and the principal was like "it's the exact same for the boys! We don't want to see their underwear hanging down" but I still see BIYS underwear all the time... SO DISTRACTING! OMFG I hate dress code sexism. We should be able to wear whatever we want whenever we want and not get judged by faculty.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/129	0.775
As a 16 year old boy, The girls are very distracting at my school x)	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/15	6.667
Honestly I think its more for the male administrators than the students. They don't want to cause a scandal about grown men possibly thinking about teen girls in a sexual way so they blame it on the male students. Now I'm not saying if you see a girl and find her good looking that that makes you a predator. A predator goes out of there way to touch the person, be in their space, photograph them without their consent. Look were humans and sometimes we have sexual thoughts about people it happens. But also because were humans we can delineate between right and wrong and know not to act on those thoughts. But back to the administration they don't want to have to deal with firing an employee and hiring someone new and have to deal with a scandal. I mean teachers and administration become friends and no one wants to admit their friend is a sex fiend.	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	3/158	1.899
am i the only one that doesn't have a story about getting in trouble for wearing something the teachers saw as inappropriateliike i pretty much just wear sweatpants or pajamas and a sweater 2 sizes too big. idk maybe its cause i'm canadian and nobody cares about canada not even canadians	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/52	1.923

I saw a shirt at my school that said "Nice story babe, now go make me a sandwich ."	Make me a sandwich	Gender - Female intelligence	1/18	5.556
Here's a news flash. Men and Women are different. Let that sink in for a minute and try to understand that men don't see things the way women do and women don't see things the way men do.You cannot change the opposite sex , it is how we are created and it is how we will always be.Deal with it.	Sex	Gender - General	1/61	1.639
Dress codes and especially uniforms for schools are so weird and foreign to me (Danish)	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/15	6.667
The teacher made us read a magazine article in class about the debate to ban leggings because boys are too distracted. First of all, we dont just stare at someones butt for the whole class it might just me a quick look and a DAYM to ourselves. Second why is it only for girls to have banned clothing? It fricken annoying why girls are always the ones to be put down because theyre a "distraction". I remember once in 6th grade, the girls were in a maditory meeting to talk about wearing black bras under white shirts. fucked up world. just make us wear uniforms	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/105	0.952
Young girls wear these types of clothing to come off attractive/appealing.It works because it catches the attention of guys. In other words, the clothing is distracting.How can something so simple to see go right over your head? Dress codes aren't about oppressing sweet innocent young girls. Guys get talked to in school if they have baggy pants with their underwear showing, or cutoff shirts. In more formal schools guys even must wear jackets, slacks, and ties... even in the summer while girls often get to wear skirts. There is absolutely NO sexism in dress codes, both genders experience it.Pull your head out of your ass Laci, I don't care if you choose to avoid talking about things that actually matter, but at least pick things that actually exist to talk about.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/134	0.746
Alex-Ian Adams I've noticed that an alarming number of men seem to have the mentality of " everything I do is to try and get sex from women, so therefore everything women do is to get sex from men (and in some cases "to get sex from ME") "No guys, sometimes they dress like that JUST because they like that out fit and could not care less if you like it.	Sex	Gender - General	3/72	4.167

Lark Druid Your truly going to stand behind the idea that girls don't take into consideration what they think is attractive when they pick out an outfit?As a guy I can't even tell you the number of times I've heard girls ask me "Do I look good in this?" or "Does this look okay?" If they really were dressing the way they like and could care less what others think then you would expect them to spend much less time asking for the approval of men in their choice of clothing.Also, I never said anything along the lines that girls in school pick their outfits to get sex , you sound like an idiot when you say that. However I do think most girls dress how they do in an attempt to be appealing/attractive. Like I had said originally.Regardless, the point I was trying to make had nothing at all to do with why girls dress the way they do. The point I was making was that dress codes aren't sexist and men must adhere to just as strict of dress codes as girls do. If a guy walks around school with his dick hanging half out hes gonna get sent to detention and talked to just the same as if a girl walks around with her breasts half out.	Nothing, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/222	0.901
ArcadiaCv oh my god did you actually just compare a girl showing some cleavage to a guy walking around with his dick half out? Because one of those things is a Class B Misdemeanor and has the potential to get you registered as a sex offender while the other is a potential effect of v-neck t-shirts.	Sex	Gender - General	1/56	1.786
SadieTeachesThings "potential effect of v-neck t-shirts"... and the other is a potential effect of leaving your fly down. You'll still get talked to about it if your school has a strict dress code.Oh god, schools are so sexist toward men, we can't walk around with our flies down, woe is me. How dare someone tell a guy to zip his fly up, did you ever think maybe he wants to dress that way, ect...	Zip	Ethnicity - Asian (East- China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam)	1/75	1.333
did you seriously just compare a dick to flesh bags who's purpose are to provide babies with milk? like really? one is used for pissing and sex and the other is for...babies... yup those two are completely analagous	Sex	Gender - General	1/38	2.632

At my middle school my teacher told me that me wearing a skirt (that did fit into the dress code and I was wearing leggings) was too revealing because I have a big butt and that if I had a smaller one it would be more acceptable, I went home and cried for two hours that day and and didn't eat dinner, breakfast, or lunch for the next day. In The fifth grade another teacher at recess had a bunch of the girls come up (who were wearing pants) and told each of them if their pant were acceptable based on weather or not our butt was showing to much. At my high school one of the male teachers said that "it is border line harassment for a girl to wear something that turned him on" WHAT!!!! The worst part was the specific girl who he was talking about was gay and he brought up how she's "actually bisexual and you know what that means". Oh my god I get so mad when these things come up! T I've been thinking about writing a letter to my school in a respectful way, having a ton of girls sign it, and giving it to the administration the day I graduate.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/209	0.957
I'm in high school now and I am NEVER distracted by anything someone is wearing, short of absolutely nothing . And if I was, that's MY FAULT!! As a boy I am proud to say that this is completely sexist and appropriate and we are not helpless, sex-driven meat heads that get distracted by collar bones. OH MY GOD A COLLARBONE	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/60	1.667
Don't look at what they're wearing then. Short shorts are hardly distracting enough that they draw your attention to them (unless your checking out the girl's ass) to the point of being distracting.I feel uncomfortable when some Muslim woman is walking around in a Hijab. I guess those should get banned too right?	Woman	Gender - General	1/54	1.852
To be honest nobody wants to see your ugly ass a guy would get in trouble too if his ass was hanging out the back of his shorts don't kid yourself	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/31	3.226
Everist Mister yep exactly but your a sexist for having some decent common sense just like i can't go to work in my boxers as much as i would like too I'm a big boy and have to follow the rules	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/41	2.439
Everist Mister this is precisely the issue. You are making it the female's responsibility to ensure that the males are focused on their schooling, and stating that if someone chooses to dress in a revealing manner then they are automatically a "stupid bimbo ." The issue lies not in the fact that the boys are looking at the girls, but that the administration is making it the girl's responsibility to "control" the boys focus.	Bimbo	Gender - Female intelligence	1/73	1.37

Everist Misterexcuse me your reaction was completely unwarranted and has nothing to do with what I said. And quite frankly it was extremely rude to insult a stranger's intelligence. why are you so upset over this? please calm down.Besides, we've talking about 13 year old girls here. No one should be staring at the sexy sexy shoulders of 13 year olds. Because guess what? Pedophiles will creep even if you're covered from head to toe.And there is a difference between staring at someone and creeping on them. staring is normal. people have eyes and we use them to see. but creeping is unacceptable behavior for anyone.my point is that the USA seems to have a very prudish view on what clothing is acceptable. Guess what? Where I'm from, shoulders and thighs are not considered sexual . GASP people have shoulders. And this goes for boys too.We are asked to 'dress appropriately'. shorts are not considered inappropriate because no one cares one bit about your thighs. Or your cleavage. Or your shoulders. or your collar bones. Or whatever.besides I clearly mentioned that I live in a hot country. you know what is distracting?the stench of 20 sweating teenagers and teachers.if you still find someone's skin 'provocative' and it makes people feel entitled to creep then you need to get ahold of yourself.What you don't seem to realize... I have had my body my ENTIRE LIFE. my body is completely natural to me. my body. completely MY body. which is why creeping is unacceptable. if you find a anyone clothing inappropriate you LOOK AWAY because it's not your problem. And hope that poor soul won't catch a cold in summer scorching heat.That's what we are taught at my school. To mind your own business and leave people alone.	Nothing, Old, Sexual	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/304	0.987
---	----------------------	--	-------	-------

Everist Mister goodness I was just giving you multiple reasons why people would wear shorts.1. it's hot.2. yes you could wear long dress. many people do. I do sometimes. it's called having a variety of clothing. I have nothing against dresses. I just don't see why they should be worn instead of another item of clothing.3. shorts are more practical if you need to move around.and for the wind thing you completely went to an extreme. I made it very clear that other people are not the problem. whether people stare or not, sexualize or not has nothing to do with this. Yes, they will usually ignore it, hence why they aren't the problem.I don't WANT people to see my underwear when I'm wearing a dress and wind blows. I'm sure most people would agree that being caught by surprise like that is not pleasant. showing thigh and showing your underwear/crotch/ass is not the same thing to most people.And no, its not a big deal, I never made it one. but when I'm picking an outfit for the day, knowing that there is a chance of having a hot, windy day makes it tempting to grab shorts. Personally, I still enjoy the modesty. And no, I do not find shorts to be immodest especially when everyone of any gender is wearing them. They cover butt and crotch. that's the point of them.Swimsuit is different because it's clothing made specifically to swim/go to the beach in. at the beach, everyone is practically naked. another context.and for your last paragraph:no, you just misunderstood me. And you keep adding refutations to arguments I never even made so that you could be right about a point that wasn't the main point of the comment. If the women you talk with always seem to contradict themselves eventually, it might be because you are the one who created that contradiction in the first place. And that you don't give them the chance to properly explain themselves. It might be all in your head. And even if you were correct about this comment, I highly doubt that having a discussion in the youtube comment section, where language barrier and lack of civility and basic etiquette are problems, would teach you much about an entire gender . And generalizing doesn't help. and what you pulled is called 'confirmation bias'. You are searching for the stereotype, so you will see it everywhere.I certainly won't be leaving this conversation thinking "wow guys just love missing the point and going out of their way to NOT understand other people's perspective and insulting random people's intelligence and trolling them do they?" because you can't take one sliver of a conversation to judge an entire person, let alone a few billion people.	Gender, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	4/468	0.855
Everist MisterThere's certain level of common decency and respect that accompanies someone's status as a fucking human being.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/19	5.263

meganthe ratlover Bodies aren't inherently sexual . Sexuality is in the mind. If you deem the human body as sexual that is sadly your problem. No one else is responsible for how you perceive their body.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/35	5.714
Everist MisterWell I have nothing to say about the girl in the photo except that I, personally, don't find her shorts that short.The reaction from the school may have been over the top, IMO, because suspending people for wearing clothing you don't like shouldn't be such a big deal. Being told off is annoying enough and should deter people from breaking rules again if that's what they want. Yes, every place has their own dress code. Trust me, I tried dressing smart and proper for an internship once and got mocked because everyone there were in sweatpants.What we disagree on are what consists of 'appropriate' clothing for school.You do realize that my entire point was that WHERE I COME FROM shorts like those in the picture are not considered inappropriate? Because showing leg skin is NOT CONSIDERED INAPPROPRIATE by my SCHOOL, as long as ass and crotch are not visible. I don't know where this psychological and societal discussion came from.I literally just said that I find the USA school system prudish compared to my one, which is true.I repeat. No one finds shorts inappropriate when I come from. Boys and girls wear them alike. It's NORMAL here. Capiche?It might not be the case where you come from, but that's not my problem and not my point.The mindset where I am is split in two parts: No one cares what I look like + Everyone minds their own business.If you find my reasons for wearing shorts (which are numerous and quite frankly irrelevant to my entire argument) stupid, then you are free to wear long pants.And the discussion on whether or not girls wear shorts to 'distract' guys is another one entirely. Maybe that is the case for some, but the majority of people seem to dress so that they feel happy when they look in the mirror. No one wants to feel uncomfortable or ugly when they look in the mirror. And everyone's level of comfort and taste in clothes is different.And most people hardly get ready for school thinking "yay I'm going to distract people" when they put on shorts. It's more along the lines of "wow its hot today and cheap denim shorts from Cotton On are practical and match any tank top or tshirt I own so yeah ill put those on".If I wanted to purposely distract people, I would dress in a Rio carnival outfit complete with huge colorful feathers and headress. but that's inappropriate for school so nah.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/426	0.235

Secretgirl97 if you showed up to work like she was dressed unless your a stripper or a slutty bar waitress you would be fired. it has nothing to do with distracting guys it has to do with looking like a decent expectable human being. I'm my secretaries came in to work looking like that i would fire them before they got in the door because obviously they don't care about there job	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/73	1.37
Everist Mister No, it depends on the person really. For women and men alike. I don't see how this is exclusive to one gender . Some people dress to impress. Some people dress to impress sometimes. Some people don't care. I know people of every category and I don't see how I have the right to judge their reasons for dressing for whatever reasons they wish. Some humans like attention and that's fine. It doesn't hurt. Some don't lose a minute of sleep over other's opinions. That's great too.	Gender	Gender - General	1/88	1.136
meganthe ratlover I want you all to think about this very carefully, think about all her points, then think about what the only logical conclusion of them can be. Her points are: 1. "Telling women to dress less sexual is sexism against women." 2. "Pressuring women into looking more sexual via men just not finding them attractive, that's sexism against women too." The only logical conclusion to draw is that male sexuality is toxic, that just finding the female form attractive on their own terms why and whenever they do (as opposed to when and how women want to be seen as sexually attractive) is sexism against women, regardless of the fact that if one held women to that standard of what, when and how they can find people sexually attractive, the feminists would turn around and charge calling that "Slut Shaming", " Sexism Against Women" and "Oppression of Female Sexuality". [LINK] <- This is all a can hear.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	6/158	3.797
Macro User exactly man exactly i appreciate somebody with some common sense	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/12	8.333
I agree that school dress codes are often sexist and tell women that they bodies are inherently sexual , while excusing inappropriate male behavior. However, just as you said, dress codes are important to define what is acceptable for work, school, etc. With these two things in mind, it can sometimes be difficult to deal with inappropriate clothing in school. It's easy to say that rules against tanks tops and cleavage are sexist, but how do you deal with a student who comes to school wearing a top that exposes 6 inches of boob? It's inappropriate for school, but at the same time, you don't want to tell her to cover up because her body is sexual or exposing it is shameful. How do we avoid sexist policies while making sure that students dress appropriately? It's shouldn't be about telling girls to cover up, but setting ground rules for everyone.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/149	1.342

Our school is fairly strict on this sort of thing, but it applies to both males and females, and rather than give people detentions or suspensions on this kind of thing, you can have up to 8 infractions in a grading period. The most rash thing I've known them to do is send a girl home for having purple hair. On the other hand, they don't allow for sheer clothes and we have an English teacher who stares at girls breasts when he talks to them... So strict rules and perverted teacher vs. reasonable punishment and gender equality.	Gender	Gender - General	1/98	1.02
Fortunately, I went to a Catholic school, so there was no double-standard. EVERYONE regardless of gender was made to feel ashamed of our bodies! ;-p	Gender	Gender - General	1/25	4.0
Yeah, I went to a religious school too. We were also forced to wear dresses/skirts which was definitely annoying. (I was a tomboy and loved to run and play) One, I kept getting taller and got in trouble because my dress was not "long enough". Mind you, it was (it was the same length as everyone else) but I was still forced to buy new uniforms when I couldn't even afford it. (I guess since I was so much taller than the other girls, my dress had to be extra long) Then we would have recess and have to wear dresses so we couldn't run around and play on the grass without fear that our uniform would fly up and expose ourselves. Then finally they made a rule that every Friday we could were pants and I remember being so happy because I could run around and do hand stands and cartwheels with my friends like all the boys had been doing all along.	Tomboy	Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	1/164	0.61
I want you all to think about this very carefully, think about all her points, then think about what the only logical conclusion of them can be. Her points are: 1. "Telling women to dress less sexual is sexism against women." 2. "Pressuring women into looking more sexual via men just not finding them attractive, that's sexism against women too." The only logical conclusion to draw is that male sexuality is toxic, that just finding the female form attractive on their own terms why and whenever they do (as opposed to when and how women want to be seen as sexually attractive) is sexism against women, regardless of the fact that if one held women to that standard of what, when and how they can find people sexually attractive, the feminists would turn around and charge calling that "Slut Shamming", " Sexism Against Women" and "Oppression of Female Sexuality". [LINK] <- This is all a can hear.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	6/156	3.846

People are so fucking dumb ...how can someone punish anyone for wearing shorts in hot summer? My brain can't understand what those people think about.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/24	4.167
Coming from Norway it is very strange to hear about this. I've never seen anyone getting in trouble because of their clothing in school. Crop tops and short shorts are common and accepted, even though it rarely gets warmer than 70 degrees fahrenheit.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/43	2.326
I go to a private school so our dress code is pretty harsh. There are 5 pages in the school handbook about girls dress code (some examples are)-pants must be at least 6 inches-sleeves must be at least 3 inches-no bra straps can be showing-cannot dye hair unnatural-the shirt must be at least 3-5 inches away from cleavage-no yoga pants-no skinny jeans-no leggings for pants-if you wear leggings the dress over top must be at least 6 inches-no holes in pants or shirts I could go onFor boys at my school it's a quarter of a paragraph-must wear shirt-shirt must have sleeves-no cross dressingThat's it.Something is wrong there!Boys will wear pants and shirts that us girls would be forced to change out of being called distracting. Boys will have holes in their shirts yet they don't have to change. Why is that?	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/159	0.629
I agree and disagree with the school dress code. As a woman , I personally don't want to see other girl's (or boys, I suppose, thought it was never an issue) genitalia (and yes, some of the short-shorts worn in my high school were that bad). However, I disagree with being unable to show off one's shoulders or legs. At the end of the day people are going to see straps, whether they belong to a bra or not shouldn't matter. So I feel there should be a dress code for the length of short-shorts ( nothing unreasonable), and (this is a personal preference so it doesn't have to be implemented) the length of ones shirts, as we had a lot of girls wearing belly shirts and crop tops. Though they aren't necessarily inappropriate, I just find them distasteful fashion wise.	Nothing, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/139	1.439
I went to a high school where the dress code was completely unenfoced- all girls show their midriffs, wore very short shorts, showed cleavage- guys wore sleeveless shirts (the horror!) etc....any yet, somehow, everyone was able to get through their day and our school was one of the best in our state. Almost as if academics are more important than useless body shaming .	Body Shaming	Physical Identity - General	1/63	1.587

So I live in Italy (definitely not the most feminist country in the world) and there is no explicit "dress code" for school; however, there is a sort of unwritten rule that says that it's not ok to show too much skin in certain places like school, work, church, whatever. While I find this debatable (wtf is so wrong with our skin/thighs/cleavage etc that we have to cover it and hide it?), what I love about this is that it applies to both men and women: if a boy is "showing too much" or in general just wearing inappropriate clothes for school (like flip flops I guess?), the teacher will say something and the same thing happens with girls. And this has nothing to do with sexualizing their bodies: in fact, this rule is really just about having good manners and showing respect to your teachers by wearing appropriate, "classy" , elegant clothes - again, this is debatable. But yeah, that's how it works here	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/165	0.606
Oddio, ho appena scritto anch'io un post simile a riguardo, non so che scuola/e hai fatto, ma la mia esperienza è decisamente diversa, non ho visto questo bilanciamento. xDHo frequentato per 4 anni un liceo tecnologico (la stessa struttura aveva anche uno scientifico tradizionale, un linguistico ed un srstistico) e per 3 un ITIS, in entrambi (specialmente nell'ITIS) ho visto regole piuttosto rigide per i maschi, e in entrambi gli istituti nessuna regola per le ragazze; de la serie leggings praticamente trasparenti d'inverno e d'estate shorts ad altezza inguine (discreta parte delle chiappe in bella vista xD), mentre per la parte sopra magliette e canottiere con scollature di ogni tipo e spesso anche completamente trasparenti dove praticamente a quel punto potevano anche far prima a restare solo in reggiseno.Non mi è mai capitato di vedere critiche sull'abbigliamento delle ragazze, mentre per i ragazzi sì, e spesso anche dai professori, specialmente se uomini, è capitato addirittura che qualcuno avesse provato a venire in giacca e cravatta od addirittura soltanto con un papillon sopra una camicia e che venisse pesantemente giudicato.	Ho	Gender - Female sexuality	4/181	2.21
Ahah :D no, ho finito le superiori un paio di anni fa e ho sempre frequentato scuole laiche :) credo dipenda moltissimo dai professori e dal preside! Ognuno ha le sue idee e quindi queste "regole" possono variare molto, nelle scuole che ho frequentato io indossare abiti succinti non è mai stato visto di buon occhio, ma forse mi sono espressa male... Non era una regola esplicita, nessuno ti vieta di indossare quello che vuoi in Italia, solo che magari i professori ti lanciavano qualche frecciatina o ti consigliavano di vestirti diversamente... Ma non succedeva sempre, solo con gli insegnanti un po' più bigotti! E questo non mi ha mai trattenuto dall'indossare i miei abiti preferiti ;) se d'estate faceva caldo io un vestitino corto me lo mettevo senza problemi, al diavolo tutti gli altri! Solo alla maturità ho indossato i pantaloni lunghi D:	Ho	Gender - Female sexuality	4/144	2.778

i got sent home from school last week because i was wearing a fall out boy t-shirt with two knives crossed on the front. a guy (who is in the same grade as me) was wearing a shirt with a bake woman on the front back in 4th grade and nobody said a thing. it's ridiculous	Nobody, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/56	3.571
how is it sexism ? If i goto school wearing a 1 inch skirt i have to change but the girls are left alone. "But cartman your balls are hanging through" NO ITS SEXISM GODDAMMIT.	Sexism	Gender - General	2/34	5.882
Hold up, hold up, hold up! You mean to tell me little 6 year old girls are bein checked for the type of close they wear but not the grown ass men who for some reason cant keep their eyes of a freakin babies legs? It sounds more like a pedophile problem than a dress code problem to me.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/59	1.695
I was just thinking about this as i have bout clothes for the warm weather. I got into a debate about it with m mom and though we agreed about the fact that women shouldnt be punished for boys actions, she said "its just how things are, theres nothing you can do about it" and discouraged me from protesting but im going to anyways. I want to wear shorts when its 102 degrees, showing a bit of midriff makes me feel confident and beautiful, and bra straps ARENT SEXY and shouldnt be.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/92	1.087
My school is so stupid. They made me wear black sweatpants in 98 degree weather because they thought my shorts were too short. I was in fourth grade! They also choose who to dress code. For example, i always get in trouble be the same teacher for wearing a sweater that doesnt have my school's logo on it. Another boy in the class did the same thing and she did nothing . We get sent home for wearing khaki uniform pants because they are 'too tight' but boys are wearing their pants far lower than their hips. In sixth grade i got in trouble for rolling up the bottom of my leggings past my ankle because it was (again) 98 degrees and my math teacher flipped. There is so much more going on as well. I'm gonna post signs up like others as well; this is getting ridiculous.	Black, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black	2/147	1.361
Shut the fuck up already. Jesus Christ the second someone gets some recognition they decide to go batshit crazy . Fuck your new wave feminism fuck your lies and fuck your glasses.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/31	3.226
I wish this video came out when I was in high school. We had a girls only assembly and were told not to wear v-necks since they showed off our cleavage and low rise jeans for fear of "whale tail". This was apparently dressing "like a ho ".	Ho	Gender - Female sexuality	1/47	2.128

Man, I can't tell you how many time i've seen the entire school day go completely off the rails when the girls starting showing off their shoulders. I mean, there's nothing sexier than the joint between your arm and your torso, right?	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/42	2.381
I agree with everything but your statement about "men always seeing women's bodies in a sexual context". Well, no shit? What else would I do with a body from a different sex than mine? Otherwise, great video, but you forgot to mention how boys are also pressured into dress codes too!	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	2/51	3.922
I had a couple teachers in high school that were cool with girls breaking the dress code to a certain degree, one of which on several occasions called out boys (and since she was the track coach would send guys home for wearing those weird shirts where they cut off the sleeves and basically have their sides completely exposed). The general thing between the two was "it's really hot outside, feel free to wear tank tops and stuff like that. Just have a over shirt or something for your other classes and for if a dean walks in." One of them kicked a guy out of class because he argued that his sweatshirt was fine (a picture for Jersey Shore or something), because the women's nipples were covered and guys nipples don't have to be censored. He gave that argument after she told him to take it off because of the nipples.	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/152	0.658
As someone who lives in florida, i dont wanna sweat and stink all day! I wear basketball shorts & tank tops to avoid dress code violations, as they result in wearing a shirt that says 'modest is hotter'. I once wore a jersey and was dresscoded because my bra was not nude or black , and was purple, to match the purple in the jersey, and it 'stood out'. I was once dresscoded for wearing a pencil skirt two that cut off two inches above the knee.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/86	1.163

Jennifer Wiley I love how americans use the words freedom. Let’s take a look at the US. You have the worst justice system in the world that shoots unarmed youths and lock people up at alarming rates. You have a Sex Education in your schools that deny people choice over contraceptive. You have insane debates over the word ”god” on your dollar bill and in your mindless pledge of allegiance to the flag. You have so much freedom that you can shoot each other at a rate the rest of the world just finds insane and frightening. You have a capital city which cannot vote in your congress. But God forbid anyone say lets actually look professional at schools by having uniforms, because that is attack on freedom. Further this passive aggressive comment about googling freedom is just idiotic. The UK is one of the longest working parliamentary democracies in the world and guess what they actually get shit done unlike your pathetic two party congress. Maybe just maybe you should learn what freedom is, because America is not it.	Sex	Gender - General	1/180	0.556
This being such a debated problem in the US is dumb , just make everyone wear uniforms! Problem solved. Here in the UK we wear uniforms up until the age of 16 and it works great. Granted they are not fashionable and not the most comfortable during the summer but they’re beneficial in so many ways. It’s completely eliminates the dress code problem laci is talking about in this video and violations are addressed in a non-sexist manner, i.e. if something violates the code the reason is that it is not part of the uniform regulations, this avoids any sort of blame being put on the child for being a ’distraction’. It also avoids any sort of bullying if kids come from poor households and can’t afford nice clothes and kids, especially young girls, don’t feel pressured to dress sexy because they cant. I know that it would take a lot to start enforcing this now when so many schools don’t have a uniform but it would be so much easier overall than trying to create a code for everyday clothing.	Age, Dumb	Age - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/180	1.111
HALLELUJAH! I go to the school referenced in the beginning of this video and I know plenty of girls who were ridiculed by the administration for this dress code bullshit. I’m an 18 year old dude in high school and I can honestly say that a girl whose shoulders are showing, or who’s shirt is low cut won’t keep me from devoting most of my attention to school. These dress codes are complete bullshit. Oh how I wish this video came out in September so I could have emailed it to my principal.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/93	1.075

I was wearing jeans and a tank top that was four inches. Nothing was see through. No stomach was showing. I still had an administrator walk up and tell me, "What is wrong with you? Your shirt is absolutely unacceptable. I cannot believe you would do this. There is something wrong with you." This happened in the middle of the lunch room. Having anxiety, this gave me a massive panic attack.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/71	1.408
Ok i agree with this but here's the problem that you might not see :If girls wear "sexy" clothing because they like it without any backthought and EVERYBODY else thinks the same neutral mentality. Fine.But in truth, the way you're saying it should be is not better. What about sluts (because they do exist and even if it's society's fault some girls behave like whores at a young age ) that show off their body and let's say you allow them do to it. THEY will SAY that their body is sexual because they've been educated that way or they just "have it in them" sort of..And so you're basically saying that these girls that are gonna get all the boys attentions should be allowed to do so, when it's gonna make the more regular girls feel indadequate, unsexy, unwanted, ugly OR worse force them into wearing things they don't wanna wear..I don't think a normal healthy girl will be so upset that she has to dress casually to go to school, just like boys aren't allowed to wear fucking fishnet tops or just go bare chested... And i mean it's not forbidden just because no one fucking does it.It IS normal to wear something that doesn't attract sexual desire in schools, both for men & women simply because when teens are already attracted to each other as it is, how the fuck are they gonna learn if they spend all of their time eyeying but each other, wich they are free to do outside of schools anyway...	Age, Sexual	Age - General, Gender - General	3/262	1.145
My literal thought process when I was working in school on a day when we could wear our own clothes in the summer (British school with a standard uniform) was: " Oh hey so and so is wearing [item of clothing] that looks nice on her. Now back to my geography notes". That thought process would 'distract' me for around 10 seconds total. It is a woman/girls' right to wear what she feels comfy in. I hate archaic standards that get perpetuated like this.From an 17 year old male.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/90	1.111
Don't you know that's where a womans sexual power lies? It's how we trick men into doing bad things! :P	Sexual	Gender - General	1/20	5.0
Biased opinion: I'd be cool with having a school dress code if they changed the Sex Ed curriculum. All it talks about is abstinence, abuse, and STI's, and then they expect us to be horny all the time. idk about you but syphilis doesn't turn me on.	Sex	Gender - General	1/47	2.128

Shadi Hannaah, the contradictions of the religious mindset. Sex is not bad, sex is not dirty, boys have minds, not just genitals and hormones, girls have genitals and hormones too, the result of abstinence only sex "education" is more STIs, more teen pregnancies, the result of teaching "family" values is more violence against women, more child abuse, more rapes and a fucked up population.Way to go US, you are the best at being the worst.	Sex	Gender - General	3/77	3.896
Zombiestew I work at a law firm. I actually wore a nice short church dress to my interview and you can see my shoulders . I'm short, so my dresses are too because I don't like the way long things look on my short legs. Should I be forced to wear something I don't like because you think that's what looks good? There is nothing sexual about my short legs. I like my short legs. I like the way they look in shorter outfits. No one at my firm has EVER complained about my short outfits and I've never shown any of my genitals. There is a difference between being professional, which is about how you present yourself as far as your attitude, and pretending you're someone that you're not through conservative clothing. Conservative and modest are not the same things and what you're arguing for is the former when it should be the latter. I shouldn't be forced to show my legs (or other body parts) in my least favorite way because other people don't like (or like too much) the way they look. That's their problem, not mine.	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/190	1.053
i only fear phobophobia i think anyone who gets that turned on by such slight things has problems male or female lol. im not a puritan. but im not a sexual anarchist :P	Sexual	Gender - General	1/33	3.03
qwervqwe vqwevqwev work places have dress codes but are pretty much limited to either not having your genitals or gut falling out of your clothes.....or adhering to a branded uniform. no that is not sexist. and if you listend to the video she said dress codes in and of themselves....arent sexist. I'm sorry but the school dress code i experienced as a woman was very frustrating and very much a double standard...and nothing like professional dress codes...and i am a hardworking woman halfway through college. But judging by your language you're more interested in hate, than in understanding.	Nothing, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/98	3.061
You got to think like a control freak , it has to deal with the shirts that slump over the shoulder. Generally that is how tits flop out. If you are a control freak though you would get rid of any excuses. Tank top covers tits well still can't do it because someone who doesn't have a tank top will want to show of that shoulder. Even if the tits don't flop out they'll say oh but the cleavage! Then after that they move the goal post even more.	Freak	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/88	2.273

SGDV It was an over exaggeration but since you can't figure that one out I shall explain. The dress code is based on dressing conservatively, for once a long long time ago kids followed and dressed like their parents. Back then they had all sorts of stupid rhetoric for why you shouldn't dress like a certain way.Naughty you for bring up shoulders don't harm anyone. Repeating the same damn argument word for word is not going to help. Everyone has heard it so many times that at this point it has the same amount of power as calling someone a fag. Not to mention it is such a short argument, further illiterate your points. So when you do come across that one teacher out of the few that does enforce said rules or an administrator you are kind of fucked. IF you pay attention you will realize that quite a few even the majority of teachers agree with you.The most insidious thing about going against any school policy is, your enemy is not in your school. The very people who could change the problem are far away from you. When you do a poster campaign, civil disobedience, hashtag movement, petitions, ect. that is poorly organized then you are standing firm on ground that you do not have. You are so insignificant that you are not even seen. The only two ways to get this issue resolved is find a way to take a valid well thought out case straight to the problem, or gather so many people together to show that it is a problem. They both have issues however. If yo manage to make it as far to the problems front door the likely hood that they'll schedule an appointment is low. If you manage to get enough people into it where it has been seen as a problem the thing your protesting is not going to be the problem, but your movement. When a movement gets that big it becomes harder to control people will start dividing and radicals will start to form. As of now sorry to say it hun but your all kind of fucked.	Fag, Hun	Nationality - German, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/361	0.554
---	----------	--	-------	-------

qwervqwe vqwevqwev aren't you a pleasant fellow. She never said that dress codes were sexist. No one in their right mind would say that dress codes in and of themselves would say dress codes are sexist. But when those codes are only applied to one gender, at the expense of that gender, it's a damn sexist dress code. At my school, boys are allowed to sag their pants so much their asses are falling out, wear hats, and have anything on their chest showing. But. A female student may not wear a dress that ends an inch above her knee, unless she's a cheerleader or on the dance squad- in which case- she can do what she wants. A female student may not wear any top with a strap thinner than three inches. A female student may not wear shorts stopping above her fingertips. Do you see the problem here? Female students are held to really tight guidelines. No one is asking to dress sluty. Just to dress appropriately for the weather. I have several very modest strapless dresses that I love for summer because I can focus on whatever I'm doing because I'm not suffering from heat exhaustion. But I have to wear them with a sweater in school- a school that doesn't have air conditioning and often is at 90 degrees during the late spring and early fall. The guys can wear tank tops- but the girls can't. Hell, the guys can go shirtless. Tell me that that's not sexist. Tell me that's just trying to keep "the whores and bitches in line" Have a nice day you fucking walnut.	Gender	Gender - General	2/272	0.735
Eli Acevedo I read an article on chicago tribune about the shoulder debate. Just like most work environments have dress codes that state no shorts, no cleavage, skirts at arms length and no shoulders. Schools technically want the dress code where education is at least partially aimed at teaching young adults to become professional. My work for example is similar to school dress code, but more strict. No sneakers, no jeans, no shorts, no shoulders, no excessive skin showing, no leggings/yoga pants. Some schools may be having these dress codes to have it be professional and appropriate environment to learn. Which is why all dress codes include the boys too. Like boys can't have their pants falling down. My school the shoulder rule was for boys as well. Boys couldn't wear obscene graphic shirts (I think cause those kinds of shirts you only see for boys and men, you rarely see shirts that have sex jokes on them for girls...but that's a different area to go in) If schools see a student who go against their guidelines don't send them home and say those statements like Laci mentioned. Most schools have them to be more professional which would make more sense. You don't go to a job interview in a crop top showing your shoulders with short shorts. No you would go in a knee length pencil skirt a dress shirt and blazer. But it's a school they aren't going to work, but that's probably why most schools have them to inform them of how to dress when they get a job.	Sex	Gender - General	1/262	0.382

Eli Acevedo ATTN EVERYONE: THE SHOULDER RULE IS A CONVENIENT WAY TO GET AROUND REFERENCING BOOBS. COVERED SHOULDERS USUALLY = COVERED BOOBS. LONG SHORTS = COVERED ASS.... but they cant out right say boobs or ass in school. That would be too sexual ! God Forbid they say that which can not be named! Its all part of pretending that those horrible dirty body parts don't exist	Sexual	Gender - General	1/67	1.493
qwervqwe vqwevqwev This has absolutly nothing to do with properness. People at work and real life wear yoga pants, people in real life leave the house with their shoulders showing. guys in high school are allowed to wear shorts and tank tops and whatever else and so long as there junk isn't hanging out no one cares but if a girl has a tank top or there shorts come above their knees its the end of the world. People should be taught self control not to hide themselves when you force young impressionable girls to hide themselves its damaging to their self esteem. Furthermore teaching boys that girls should cover themselves and if they don't they shouldn't be respected this leads to bullying, sexism and perpetuates the idea of victim blaming which is a huge problem because it enables and defends rapist and perverts. Finally I would like you to explain to me how not wearing a shirt is even comparable to spaghetti straps or tight clothes?	Nothing, Sexism	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/167	1.198
I have never met a modest woman who has low self worth, people are modest because they have self worth, they don't need to flaunt their bodies and get attention from other people to feel self worth and feel like their body is important. When you are taught modesty in the light it's meant to be taught in you realize that you body is worth so much that not everyone gets to see it, you realize that only people with worth get to see it	Woman	Gender - General	1/85	1.176
theheartyaerie lets get one thing straight, humans are not money. Money worth works nothing like self worth. Contrary to your beliefs, if people are confident in how they look and want to flaunt it, them strutting their stuff does not automatically lower their self worth. It might lower your opinion of them, which is really stupid because why does it matter in the first place? Do you really feel so self absorbed that everyone needs to be like you or follow your rules so they can be accepted by your standards? Well I'm sorry Hun , but that is not how the world works. No matter what you think of a certain person, chances are, they do not give one single fuck about your standards. So if you want to keep yourself covered up to 'keep your self worth high' then go right ahead, but all it is going to get you is a very covered up body. Which is fine, for you at least. No matter what you say, you probably won't be able to convince them that your standards are worth the time of day.	Hun, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Nationality - German	2/186	1.075

theheartyaerie You are wrong about self worth for a very simple reason. Its SELF worth. What people see of you does not determine what you feel about yourself. You may think a nude woman has no worth, but she does not share your ignorance.	Woman	Gender - General	1/44	2.273
Because it's 'provocative' and we are just sex objects to guys apparently.....this has to stop, I mean we've gone far enough to hVe jobs of our own, vote, now that's all we have left to do.humanrights	Sex	Gender - General	1/37	2.703
This video made me so happy because I'm so fed up with the sexism in school dress codes at my school. In every classroom, there's this little poster with pictures of clothing items that shouldn't be worn under the dress code. The problem? EVERY SINGLE PICTURE IS OF A GIRL. None of the things guys often do that are against the dress code (hats, hoods, etc) are shown. And honestly, while some of the clothing shown could be considered inappropriate, a decent amount of it is something that should under no circumstance be sexual or unprofessional looking or whatever. In fact, some of it is nicer looking than what we CAN wear to school. It's ridiculous and needs to be addressed.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	2/121	1.653
Again I am surprised by the way things are in America. Do they really not accept it if a girls shoulder is showing in class? I am from the Netherlands and there is absolutely no problem if a girls shoulder is showing. And, believe it or not, I have been to many countries where the girls show a lot more than just their shoulder and it's completely normal for them. I now really want to go to the US just to find out if this culture is really as crazy as it seems.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/93	1.075
Ah, makes me think of an article I once read by a woman who grew up in a society where she would at a certain age be expected to wear a burka and that to not wear a burka, would be too distracting to men. At a turning point in her life, she attended a western university, where she was exposed to women wearing less clothing and made a realization, it didn't matter how little or how much clothing someone wears, people are going to be distracted regardless and that it was better to wear clothing that makes you feel comfortable, rather than to wear clothes to meet the expectations of others. Words to live by.	Age, Woman	Age - General, Gender - General	2/116	1.724

I'm a 15 year old freshman girl in high school and dress code as I see it is a problem in my school. There are boys who get to wear shirts with the sleeves cut out and down exposing their entire side and nipples in PE who never get in trouble for it. My friends and I have had multiple conversations about how if they get to do it why can't we? The bigger girls and the black girls are the only ones (usually) who get in trouble for breaking dress code. My mother and I talked about it one night and her and I came to a decision that I would break dress code everyday for the rest of that week and see if I get in trouble, since I've got an okay body and am white this would expose (at least prove to me) about the injustices of the dress code and its enforcement. Of course, I didn't get in any sort of trouble while exposing my sides, back, midriff, cleavage, and leg, but at least one girl, that I know of, did because her lose fitting shirt that she only wore for comfort only showed too much cleavage and, of course, she was a bigger girl. They made her change into a shirt with a higher neck to cover but it was tighter and showed her curves and body more.	Black, Old	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - Black	2/233	0.858
Andrea Mclauchlan I'd change schools if I were you, and not just for the sexism .	Sexism	Gender - General	1/15	6.667
And for the record, we won. :) After that day, we were all allowed to represent our religions and beliefs freely, so long as we did not specifically insult any other religions. Even if one of the teachers at our school was dumb , we had some pretty awesome administrators, I gotta say, because they listened to us and allowed everyone a voice!	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/62	1.613
Andrea Mclauchlan I want you all to think about this very carefully, think about all her points, then think about what the only logical conclusion of them can be. Her points are: 1. "Telling women to dress less sexual is sexism against women." 2. "Pressuring women into looking more sexual via men just not finding them attractive, that's sexism against women too." The only logical conclusion to draw is that male sexuality is toxic, that just finding the female form attractive on their own terms why and whenever they do (as opposed to when and how women want to be seen as sexually attractive) is sexism against women, regardless of the fact that if one held women to that standard of what, when and how they can find people sexually attractive, the feminists would turn around and charge calling that "Slut Shamming", " Sexism Against Women" and "Oppression of Female Sexuality". [LINK] <- This is all a can hear.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	6/158	3.797

Meagan Co Then what is the logical conclusion?The rules/logic:1. Telling women how to dress = sexism against women.2. Pressuring women into being more sexual via national selection because men, just like women have standards of what they're attracted to = Sexism against women.The only logical conclusion to draw from that is male sexuality is inherently wrong, that men having their own standards harms women. The only "solution" to that is to "fix" male sexuality, by forcing them not to have standards but rather to only find each women attractive when and if each women says or thinks so, even if they are Jabba the Slut. And you can't change a humans sexuality, you can't force them to think exactly how you want them to think and be attracted to exactly what you want them to be attracted to; therefore male sexuality cannot be "fixed", therefore the only logical end conclusion following this logic is that male sexuality is inherently toxic to women.Again, if anyone held women to that standard of what, when and how they can find people sexually attractive, the feminists just like Laci Green would turn around and charge calling that "Slut Shaming", " Sexism Against Women" and "Oppression of Female Sexuality".	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	4/208	1.923
Well male sexuality has nothing to do with dress code, and your first premise is wrong. Telling women how to dress isn't sexist; dress codes are necessary. It's when dress codes single out a certain sex , either men or women, that they become sexist.	Nothing, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/44	4.545
Meagan Co I'm not arguing dress codes, I'm arguing the sexist cunt laci greens advocacy that male sexuality is "broken" and needs to be "fixed".If this was just about letting people (women and men) wear whatever they want, then fine, not really thought through in detail, but whatever, nothing that objectionable... however, that was not just what this was about.She advocates that not only women should be able to wear whatever they want, but that no matter what they wear or what they are like women should be able to decide and control what, when and how men find them sexually attractive, even if they don't!If anyone argued that for women (what, when and how women are allowed to find people sexually attractive), you know exactly how the feminists would respond.You say "male sexuality has nothing to do with dress code"... would I be right in assuming that you follow the same logic as laci green that male sexual (and other) objectification isn't a thing?If I was you point you to a 20 minute video of a women explaining in great detail the differences and similarities of male and female sexual (and other) objectification, would you watch it?	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	4/203	1.97

Meagan Co It's on laci greens video, that makes it the right place. I posted this comment on multiple threads under this video."i never heard laci say "——-I never said she did directly say it, I'm saying that is what she is advocating via arguing a very specific number of things which when all taken into consideration that is what their end logical conclusion is.If you don't agree, then you tell me what it is. What is the logical conclusion of saying women being pressured into being more sexual via natural selection of men having standards to what they're attracted to is wrong? The only logical conclusion is that men having standards just like women do is wrong."who said male objectification isn't a thing!?"———Have you not watched her video on sexual objectification? "women are objects, men are subjects"... male objectification of any type is completely invisible to her, even in a theoretical sense, and I'm guessing it's just as invisible to you too.Now, I asked you two questions;You say "male sexuality has nothing to do with dress code"... would I be right in assuming that you follow the same logic as laci green that male sexual (and other) objectification isn't a thing?If I was you point you to a 20 minute video of a women explaining in great detail the differences and similarities of male and female sexual (and other) objectification, would you watch it?	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	5/245	2.041
I can't tell you because I don't know what videos you're referencing to and I have not watched all of them, but there's nothing wrong with a man having standards the same way women have standards. You seem to have a good memory, but I would have to re-watch all the videos to fully understand where you're coming from, and I'm not going to do that.And no it is not invisible to me; I can clearly see how a male can be objectified. 20 minutes is a bit long but sure.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/92	1.087

Meagan Co	She's done more then a few videos that, once you've fact checked (larger of what she claims in these videos of hers is always bullshit) and added it all up, it's perfectly easy to see how sexist she is... she denies women any agency, and she denies men any humanity (with the exception of her anti-MGM video, though I personally think the only reason she cares is because 1. it's a good way to fight against religion, and 2. she probably saw it first hand).Since neither you or I have the time to go though all of them, will just go though her Sexual Objectification video: " SEX OBJECT BS "... now, do you understand what I mean when I say "to laci green male sexual objectification is almost completely invisible to her"? Or do you agree with her, that men only make up about 4 of sexual objectification?20 minuets is a bit long, that's about the time of 4 laci green videos, but that video has about 16 times the content with no easily refuted bullshit in it.In order for you to understand what I mean by many of laci greens videos being full to the brim of dogma and propaganda (easily refuted bullshit) that would require you to invest a good bit of time and watch a few good quality response videos to hers...but, since it's unlikely you're going to do that all I can really ask you to do is to watch this 20 minute video of a women explaining in great detail the differences and similarities of male and female sexual (and other) objectification, because you wont find a video on this subject any better anywhere else.	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	5/286	1.748
Meagan Co	"I'm a sexy woman , so stop objectifying me!" By Karen Straughan (YouTube Channel).	Woman	Gender - General	1/15	6.667
i only fear phobophobia	At least laci says things like "mostly", but karen just makes sweeping generalizations that aren't even all true."women care about how they look to attract men" - not always."women can't find a nude male body sexy b/c clothes show status blahblahblah" -dafuq? false.Also, she thinks that objectification is synonymous with sexual attraction, which is not the case. Laci defines objectification as dehumanizing	Sexual	Gender - General	1/69	1.449

Meagan Co 1. I didn't say she was unbiased, she even said at the beginning of that video "this is my opinion", while laci never says that, it's always "fact". "At least laci says things like "mostly", but karen just makes sweeping generalizations that aren't even all true."women care about how they look to attract men" - not always." ———You do understand what a generalization is, right? Where there's no such thing as a generalization that is always, otherwise then it wouldn't be a generalization, it would be a universalization." "women can't find a nude male body sexy b/c clothes show status blahblahblah" -dafuq? false."———Again, generalize, not universalize. Plus, that wasn't what she said, she never said women don't find naked men attractive, she said women find men wearing clothes showing status, strength and wealth (etc.) the MOST attractive (go back to 7:57). Do you deny that is how women mostly objectify men?2. "blahblahblah"——Hum... quick question, how much of it did you even watch? If you watched all of it, did the relevant parts sink in? You know, the parts about male and female sexual objectification, and how women have agency?3. Now, with all that in mind (now that you've watched both videos), you can now answer my question;What is the logical conclusion of saying women being pressured into being more sexual via natural selection of men having standards to what they're attracted to is wrong? The only logical conclusion is that men having standards just like women do is wrong, that male sexuality is wrong/broken.If you don't agree, then you tell me what the logical conclusion of that is.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/280	0.714
I actually had to watch it twice for it to sink in. I think women objectify men's bodies the same way women objectify women's bodies. I hear girls talking about guys' butts, and vice versa. I hear women say a man should pay for the date, and I hear men say a women should "at least offer to pay". "women being pressured into being more sexual via natural selection of men having standards to what they're attracted to" This is unclear. Please re-phrase.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/83	1.205

Meagan Co "I think women objectify men's bodies the same way women objectify women's bodies"———That erotic picture laci showed in "SEX OBJECT BS", the one of that half-naked women on the table, and the parody one of the half-naked man on the table... that one of the man did look ridicules, did it not? Do you think men find women attractive in pictures who are playing football (like that of David Beckham) , who are wearing a proper business suit (like that of Richard Branson), or are wearing overalls doing the whole "Yes We Can Do It!" feminist poster thing (like that of, well, you get the idea)? "women being pressured into being more sexual via natural selection of men having standards to what they're attracted to" This is unclear. Please re-phrase." ——3:55 this very video "DRESS CODE SEXISM" 1. "we need to teach girls AND boys to deal with their feelings so they can function and have a strong foundations at work and relationships as adults." — I want you to take everything else she's said into consideration and really think about that sentence and what she really means by it. 2. "PRESSURE TO BE SEXY. Some have raised concerns about the pressure on girls to showing skin in the first place. While many of the violations I've reviewed are hardly risqué, it's true that we are bombarded with hypersexualized images of women and we do feel those pressures. But, it is not combated by with dress codes that reinforce our status as sex objects. Hypersexualization can only be combated by "empowering" girls to feel good in their own skin addressing those pressures and creating "safe spaces to "talk"" about them, and by encouraging them to wear whatever feels comfortable, to dress for themselves."——Now, firstly "bombarded with hypersexualized images of women and we do feel those pressures"... id like to point out that she is a "sex-positive" feminist, and pretty much the poster child of what one is.Secondly, Laic is not the type that believes in female agency, or the belief in "sticks and stones"... if womens feminists feelz are hurting then "taking it like a man" is not the policy to deal with it, the policy is that of censorship and "reform", not just ignoring it... somewhat like how "sex-positive" feminists attack Page 3.Those "pressures" she is talking about are advisements that work, because men buy their shit if they put some vagina on the billboard (capitalism in action). Those pressures are men having standards to what they find attractive in women. Saying "sticks &amp; stones" and just ignoring it wont make that pressure that both men and women face go away, the only way to get rid of that pressure on women and to make all women feel comfortable in their own skin, is to control men's minds. So, is that any clearer? What is the logical conclusion of saying women being pressured into being more sexual (via natural selection of men having standards to what they're attracted to) is wrong?	Sex, Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	5/511	0.978
---	---------------------	------------------	-------	-------

Meagan Co Then why don't we see pictures like that in women's magazines? Those aren't my words, they're her words.My words are both men and women have sexual evolutionary pressure... this pressure forces us (if we care about staying in the gene pool, via sex and procreation) to mould ourselves into being what those we're interested in mating with want, so they select us and we get it on.And yes, men are attracted to naturally selected traits in women, just like women are attracted to naturally selected traits in men... our bodies and instincts still think we're 40,000 years ago, because our biological evolution hasn't evolved at nearly the speed that our civilisation has. The only thing that's changed is the environment we were brought up in and live in, that's it.The difference is the naturally selected traits men and women choose in each other is different.	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	2/150	1.333
i only fear phobophobia picture of what?lol you don't need to explain evolution, I understand.Laci said that sexual attraction or finding someone to be sexy is not objectification.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/30	3.333
Meagan Co That erotic picture laci showed in " SEX OBJECT BS", the one of that half-naked women on the table, I'm talking about the parody one of the half-naked man on the table. Why do we not see half-naked men like that in women's magazines if you think women objectify men's bodies the same way men objectify women's bodies? The only pictures of half-naked men you'll see in women's magazines are those with strong bodies and are in positions of dominance or power... you won't find any with weak bodies in coyly and/or submissive positions like you will find with women in men's magazines, because if they did that women's magazine would go bust, because that goes against what we instinctively find attractive as men and women.-Ever heard of Playgirl? Well take a look at their female (not gay male) readership. Look up the 3:55 minute video "What gender scholars get wrong about the Sports Illustrated swimsuit issue" By Christina Hoff Sommers (self-identified feminist, but hated and labelled as an anti-feminist by the feminist majority) at the American Enterprise Institute YouTube Channel.In regards to men what she means by that is "men being sexually attracted or finding a women to be sexy is not objectification, if that women wants him to be attracted to her." Again, she considers a billboard with tits on it to sell products (to men) the greatest sin that is objectification of women... what is the reason for said tits on said product? Why do products sell if they've got attractive women on them?	Gay, Gender, Sex	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	4/261	1.533
i only fear phobophobia because he looks like he's preparing for anal sex . LOL.but yeah obviously it's different, but I meant both men and women have their bodies objectified. what's your point?	Sex	Gender - General	1/33	3.03

Meagan Co My point is following Laci Greens logic, following this videos logic, male sexuality is innately wrong and bad for women and can't be "fixed", hence male sexuality is innately toxic. Both men and women have their bodies objectified, but she and the rest of the feminists just cannot recognise male objectification, nor do they even honestly care. You put this info right in front of them that yes, men face bullshit evolutionary sexual objectification standards that few can fulfil too, but they just laugh it off as "male privilege".The best way I've ever heard the difference between male a female objectification described is that "Women are human-beings, men are human-doings, where women are objectified as precious ornaments, men are objectified as disposable utilities." When she talks about the sexual pressures women face, she is talking about female objectification (directly caused by male sexuality) in media and social relationships ( sexual selection).The "solution" to that is not Sticks & Stones, because that doesn't mean jack shit when talking about sexual selection/evolution. The not "solution" (but more effective than Sticks & Stones) to that is censorship, regulation and control of female sexual objectification in the hands of women feminists, hence censorship, regulation and control of male sexuality in the hands of women feminists. But that isn't a solution, because you can't regulate human instincts and feelings, you can only oppress, enslave and domesticate them.That is my point, that the logical conclusion of what is being argued here is sexist oppression of male sexuality... if anyone held women to those standards of what they're allowed to feel, and when, how and what they're allowed to be attracted to or desire, the feminists would go fucking ape-shit.	Sexual	Gender - General	5/287	1.742
i only fear phobophobia but she never said sexual attraction is wrong or even sexist... and people do recognize and care about male objectification. You're right, Laci kind of ignored that in her video, but she's not a bad person and is trying to help people.maybe you should get behind a camera and make your own youtube videos instead of posting the same comment 10 times lol.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/68	1.471

Meagan Co She didn't need to say it, because it was already covered by what she did say, that women being pressured into being more sexual is sexual objectification... whether it's in TV ads or a nightclub, both forms of female sexual objectification come straight from the same source; male sexual attraction/desire.No they don't. If that was the case whenever society talks about human objectification they'd talk about objectification of both men and women equally... But they never do, by default human objectification is female objectification in societies eyes, that's it. With the exception of her highly sexist and gynocentric views, she is not a bad person, in fact I'm sure she has no idea of the gravity of what she's doing, completely obvious to the damage she's doing to male female relations, as well as societal views of facts and truths in society.That's what believing in dogmatic, ideological rhetoric does to you, it blinds you to reality.One day in a year or two I will, once I've got a good enough computer, am stable in my personal life and learned how to video edit... and I assure you, Laci Green will be one of the main people/bombs I will disarm, and you have my word on that.	Sexual	Gender - General	4/211	1.896
"women being pressured into being more sexual is sexual objectification... whether it's in TV ads or a nightclub, both forms of female sexual objectification come straight from the same source; male sexual attraction/desire."I still think this is a flawed view, which is why I don't agree with your "logical conclusion". I'm not an expert and I don't study this, but women being pressured into being more sexual is wrong because it implies that that is a woman's main purpose or the best thing a woman has to offer, which is objectification. Men are pressured to look a certain way as well, which is also objectification. However, just because the reason people want to be sexy stems from sexual attraction, doesn't mean that objectification stems from sexual attraction. There's nothing wrong with being sexy or wanting to be sexy to attract a mate. But to say being sexy is a person's only worth is wrong and objectifying. For example, when I was little I saw a cup or something that was just breasts, v, and butt, and it said "the perfect woman" or something like that. I was little, but it made me angry and uncomfortable. That is objectification, and it has nothing to do with the fact that men are attracted to breasts and butts and want to have sex with women, but to ignore every other aspect of the woman is dehumanizing, and to just see her as an object to have sex with (and nothing else) is wrong. It is possible for men to be sexually attracted to a woman, want to have sex with her, and not objectify her in doing so, therefore sexual objectification is not a result of sexual attraction. They are related, but there's more to it than just sexual attraction. It's about perspective and beliefs	Nothing, Sex, Sexual, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	20/303	6.601

Meagan Co Ah ha, finally some ideological honesty. It took about 10 comments, but finally your true view surfaces.”women being pressured into being more sexual is wrong”—And how do we fix that? Only for women though, not for men. What is the solution?”Men are pressured to look a certain way as well, which is also objectification.”———Men aren’t objectified as much for how they look (even though they are) but rather what they can provide.Women are objectified rather for their genetics, health and the cosmetic appearance of them (dress and makeup to exacerbate their good parts and to hide their bad ones), etc.).Don’t you get it, women are mostly objectified for what they innately are, while men are somewhat objectified for what they innately are, but mostly for what they can give women.Men are objectified just as much as women are.”just because the reason people want to be sexy stems from sexual attraction, doesn’t mean that objectification stems from sexual attraction. ”———Well I’m sorry, but they do. Sexual Objectification (going by Laics standard of what it is) is the inevitable side effect of sexual attraction standards (what you find attractive and what your don’t find attractive).The only way there wouldn’t be Sexual Objectification is if everyone found everyone equally as attractive as everyone else.”to say being sexy is a person’s only worth is wrong and objectifying.”———I never said it’s their only worth... I’m talking about instinctive sexual attraction here.”when I was little I saw a cup or something that was just breasts, v, and butt, and it said ”the perfect woman” or something like that. I was little, but it made me angry and uncomfortable. That is objectification, and it has nothing to do with the fact that men are attracted to breasts”———-So these people don’t put an attractive female form/feature on their products to make a profit because that won’t attract more men (that won’t make any difference to their sales), the only reason the do it is because they’re members of the patriarchy, and being so means they care more about oppressing women (via showing them male sexual desires) then they do of making a profit, right? Look up the 2:21 minute video ”Do You Even Patriarchy?” By Evan Delshaw.”There’s nothing wrong with being sexy or wanting to be sexy to attract a mate.”———What you mean by that is ”there’s nothing wrong with being sexy to attract those you are interested in”, and that ”there’s nothing wrong with people finding you attractive if you want those people specifically to find you attractive”. What’s the difference between a women being sexy objectifying herself in order to attract men vs. a business objectifying consenting or fictitious women in order to attract men?”to ignore every other aspect of the woman is dehumanizing, and to just see her as an object to have sex with (and nothing else) is wrong.”——— 1. Again, I’m talking about instinctive sexual attraction here. 2. Then that must mean you’re a sex positive negative feminist then, because by your own rational all porn is bad... masturbating over the image of a person women just because of how they she looks and sounds is objectification... you’re not allowed to do that ”unless you know them her on a deep personal level, and the only thing you’re masturbating over is their her	Nothing, Patriarchy, Sex, Sexual, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	20/620	3.226
--	--	---	---------------	--------------

i only fear phobophobia How do you fix that? stop pressuring them. duh. and same for men. show a variety of people instead of the same thing all the time. if everyone found everyone equally as attractive as everyone else, there could still be objectification, because objectification is not an inevitable side effect of sexual attraction.it doesn't matter what they do it for (profits), it still just is objectification. I wouldn't sell some slavery joke merchandise to a KKK hick town just because I know it'll make profits, because it would still be messed up.a woman that wants to be sexy isn't objectifying herself.no, I don't think all porn is bad, because there's a difference between seeing someone as your human equal and seeing someone as an inferior object to use. You're too black and white. Life isn't black and white.I think we might be annoying people with all these notifications that have nothing to do with the original comment, and it feels like we're just going back and forth and getting no where so bye and good luck with your life.	Black, Hick, Nothing, Sexual, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - White, Gender - General	6/186	3.226
Meagan Co "stop pressuring them. duh."————How? ("I need to present myself like X, otherwise those I'm interested in won't notice or be interested in me.")... <- that is sexual pressure (via evolution)... how do you stop it?"A woman that wants to be sexy isn't objectifying herself."———— 1. And how do women present themselves as being sexy? Is sexy showing off your gender studies degree? Is sexy showing men how independent you are? Is sexy showing off your feminists beauty marks (hairy arm pits)?Or is sexy for women using a cosmetic appearances (dress and makeup) to exacerbate their good, health and desired (by men) innate body parts and to hide their bad, unhealthy and undesired (by men) ones?Sexy is just another way of saying "the flag of sexual attraction". 2. And again, what is the difference between a women "being sexy" in order to attract men vs. a business using consenting or fictitious sexy women in order to attract men?"it doesn't matter what they do it for (profits), it still just is objectification."————Which women par-take in equally (male objectification), just not in the exact same way.What you are advocating here is gendered censorship, thought police, and copy-right of a demographic which nobody has any right to.	Gender, Nobody, Sexual, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	5/215	2.326

i only fear phobophobia evolution already made most people sexy; evolution is not pressuring people to be sexy.I already told you how in the last comment. People won't feel pressure to be like X, if they know that it's just as fine to be Y, Z, A, B, or C, and if they're confident in who they are it doesn't matter what other people think because there will always be people who agree or disagree, people that like you and people that don't.sexy can be shown in multiple ways (personality, intelligence, appearance).and what if someone just wakes up sexy? are they objectifying themselves just for BEING sexy? Do you think any woman that is sexy is objectifying herself, which gives you the right to objectify her since she's doing it to herself? That's a dangerous mindset.the difference is, a woman being sexy is portraying more than just "HAVE SEX WITH ME" or "WIN ME, I'M A TROPHY", but it's a part of a whole complex person. I haven't said anything about censorship	Sex, Woman	Gender - General	3/176	1.705
---	------------	------------------	-------	-------

Meagan Co No, evolution makes/pressures people to be sexy, because if they don't play along, they don't find a partner, they don't procreate and then they get left in the evolutionary trash heap. The few that do get outnumbered after a few generations real quickly.For 40,000 years the overwhelming majority of people to breed and pass on their genes successfully are those that;1. Have a good hand to begin with.2. Those that make the most of their hand.You could have the best most desirable hand on earth, but if you don't know how to sell it then you are just not go and successfully make it in evolution."People won't feel pressure to be like X, if they know that it's just as fine to be Y, Z, A, B, or C"—————Yeah, and there's a word for those people: "evolutionary trash". Don't take that as a personal attack (if you're one of them), because I'm pretty sure I am one of them.-You know what, forget it, forget all this long term evolution crap, lets just look at the now. The reason why the sexual pressures of sexual selection (evolution) exist for both men and women is because both men and women have standards to what they find attractive and desirable (what they want) in their desired potential mate...why would people as a whole give up their standards for what they look for in a mate? Especially considering many of those standards are hard-wired human instincts. "sexy can be shown in multiple ways (personality, intelligence, appearance)." ————But not in ways that are neutral or counter to what the people they're trying to attract want.If you are sexy, by definition you must be desirable to the people you want to attract."what if someone just wakes up sexy? are they objectifying themselves just for BEING sexy?"—————Sexy is in the eye of those you are trying to attract. If you're not trying to attract people by accentuating your qualities, then that's hardly self-objectification if you're not doing anything."Do you think any woman that is sexy is objectifying herself, which gives you the right to objectify her since she's doing it to herself?"—————Yes, on the bases that everyone should have the right to objectify EVERYONE. It's called freedom of expression... how people think, how they feel, how they express themselves is not up for negotiation here if the only thing you are arguing about is someone else's feelings being more important.Because I've got news for you, everyone already objectifies everyone, including you. What are your standards to what you desire in a partner? Does he need to earn a minimum number of zeros a year?"the difference is, a woman being sexy is portraying more than just "HAVE SEX WITH ME" or "WIN ME, I'M A TROPHY"———When a women (or anyone) is trying to be sexy via accentuating their best most desirable qualities and hide their least, what she is saying is: "Look at me, I'm what you desire, so notice me, desire me and get to know me".When a business puts sexy women on their product they're saying 1 of 2 things; 1. (products to sell to a male consumer base) "Look at this product, this is an image of something you instinctively desire, so notice our product, have it in your mind with something you already like... then like our product and start buying it" 2. (products to sell to a female consumer base) "Just look at you, are you even trying? You look like shit. The only way you'll look perfect and sort yourself out is if you buy	Sex, Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	5/695	0.719
--	--------------------	------------------	-------	-------

i only fear phobophobia well that explains it..and just because you can do something doesn't mean you should.no I don't have a minimum salary standard lol, I care that he does something he is passionate about more than how much he makes, which is the same standard I have for myself. Of course it would be nice, but it's not a deal breaker.a woman portrays herself as a sexy PERSON, while tv ads portray women, as Laci defines it, as "de-personalized object of desire"	Woman	Gender - General	1/87	1.149
Meagan Co What is a deal breaker for you?No they don't, that shit comes later after they've already got their mans attention. In order to get themselves noticed in the first place and to get said attention they broadcast their tits and ass on display like a sex object radio signal... "in a completely non-objectifying way".Again, the reason why the sexual pressures of sexual selection (evolution) exist for both men and women is because both men and women have standards to what they find attractive and desirable (what they want) in their desired potential mate...considering many of those standards are hard-wired human instincts, why would people as a whole give up their standards for what they look for in a mate?	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	3/124	2.419
i only fear phobophobia deal breakers: lack of respect, mental health issues, stupidity, fat , smokers, and lack of compassion.When did I ever say/imply people should have to give up their standards? I specifically said there is nothing wrong with having standards.	Fat, Mental, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/42	7.143

Meagan Co That's because you are holding two incompatible views, that sexual pressure is wrong, but sexual standards are not.I've explained a shit load of times that leaving people alone because they don't fit your standards actually INCREASES that pressure.The only way one could get rid of that pressure (can't be done) is to get rid of peoples standards (also can't be done).Is it far to say lack of respect, mental health issues, stupidity, fat , smokers, and lack of compassion is a deal breaker for most women?Don't you see this standard women have puts an unfair sexual pressure on men who are anyone of these things to change who they are if they want a partner?	Fat, Mental, Sexual	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Physical Identity - Physical Features	5/120	4.167
I'm so glad she made this video. When I was in the 6th grade they always had the two finger rule. And I had a tank top on when we went to tour the middle school. My tank top was two fingers but it was racer back so you could see my bra straps. My male teacher comes up behind me and snaps my bra strap and says"you're going to the office to change when we get back to campus" I WAS A TWELVE YEAR OLD GIRL. And in high school it's really aggravating. Guys never have to deal with that. Rarely at my school has a male ever been sent to the office even when they were wearing T-shirts with naked women on them. So what because it's a tshirt its okay that this women is plastered on it full frontal with bold words that say "play with me"? Yet I get dress coded because I live in Arizona and I'm wearing shorts and a tank top?! Come on admin. Get it together.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/174	0.575
lol lessen the dress code? do people not realize kids have sex at school? if anything we need to put them in straight jackets.	Sex	Gender - General	1/24	4.167
Awe come on bro!!! People have sex at schools where they have uniforms their clothing has nothing to do with it.	Nothing, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/21	9.524
Because most in the real world do not have to wear uniforms...at least not at high paying jobs lol...it also makes it so that when they get out of high school and go to the real world they then have to deal with all the stuff that they would've just had to deal with in high school and learn was wrong like judging people for what they're wearing and making fun of people who don't wear namebrand or Who wear namebrand etc. etc. etc. by stifling that natural process that kids go through there just going to go through it I didn't later age when it's even more important for them to not do that.	Age	Age - General	1/115	0.87

kittykatxox845 Can you legitimately not read? People who think that students who wear uniforms can't dress themselves are on the same intelligence level as people who think that the high school parties they see in movie are what actual high school parties are like. I will repeat: I WORE A UNIFORM FOR 12 YEARS AND AT NO POINT WAS I CONFUSED ON HOW TO DRESS MYSELF. As you clearly did NOT wear a uniform, you cannot speak on this subject in the way you are (making outrageous assumptions about things you know nothing about) and you COMPLETELY missed the point I made about the plaid skirts. I will repeat:You believe that since I wore uniforms that I cannot possibly pick out proper business attire. You pull this assumption out of nowhere.Now, since you've never worn a uniform, I'm going to assume that you legitimately do not know how to wear a plaid skirt, that it'd end up backwards or on your head or something.Do you see how ridiculous this is? I graduated high school knowing exactly what business attire was, as did all of my peers. You're just making outlandish assumptions that equates people's intelligence to that of a chicken who can't perform the most basic of tasks.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/211	0.474
At my middle school, we were doing an assignment about Martin Luther King (not Junior) where we replicated how he posted new rules on the church door by posting new rules on the principals door. One of them was "we want to be able to wear dresses" (we were only allowed to wear expensive and ugly polo dresses, and it was starting to get hot outside) our principal told us "You can wear polo dresses to school, you just can't wear all those other SKANKY dresses to school" WE WERE IN SIXTH GRADE Meanwhile, the same year, when a group of girls went to the administration saying that guys in our class were making sex jokes about OTHER GIRLS in our class, we were told "boys will be boys" fuck the patriarchy .	Patriarchy, Sex	Gender - General	2/132	1.515
VidaDeLocura No no no. I mean sexual predators. Not your average lustful preteen kids. The day that event happened is the day I realized that people do sexual even the most mundane daily interactions. Right? Aren't we tempting fate by NOT creating a dress code that could prevent harassment and crimes of a sexual nature? It's a somewhat avoidable risk. Like a helmet on a bike is it not? Please understand that I'm genuinely interested in the female perspective on this aspect of dress code. Maybe you guys know something about this I dont. More than likely you do. Im not that bright lol	Sexual	Gender - General	3/104	2.885

P3Series when I use the bank analogy I didn't mean for you to take it so literally so just kind of take it in the basis of how I put it not so much look into the inner workings of the bank lol...it's the general idea I'm getting at. Statistically study show that the way people dress does not influence rape culture...A woman in a tight dress is just as likely to get raped as a woman and a T-shirt and jeans if put in a situation where they're leaving themselves vulnerable...can you take precautions so that you will be less likely to be harmed? absolutely! You can travel in groups you can always Park near other people you can remain in areas that are highly populated...changing the way you dress is completely unnecessary and just promotes the fact that the person wearing the clothes is the problem when in reality it's the evil person....if we change our ways to keep evil people from doing evil things you're not gonna be able to weed out the evil people and bring them to justice they will just remain among us...if we continue to live the way that we live and promote positive thinking and positive body image we're going to weed out the perverts real quick.	Woman	Gender - General	2/215	0.93
Of course! Nothing but respect!	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/5	20.0
I'm a man, but i can still tell you that what you are saying is wrong in many ways."If someone touches my sister in an inappropriate way... Our family never gets that back." This kind of thinking is wrong. Your Sister is the one that would get hurt.Banks found ways of preventing robberies without preventing people from using the banks.By enforcing a strict dress code, you are not protecting the kids, you are harming them. Creeps, rapists and pedophiles don't care what there victims are wearing. In the situation you described, YOU are the one saying to those girls that they are sexual objects, not the perv. He was looking and that was wrong of him, but your reaction taught all those girls that they were responsible for him looking.A perv looked at them, so they were punished.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/142	0.704

Interesting. I don't agree. I thinks its irresponsible to ignore ANY behavior that could directly increase the risk to someone's well being. I'd love to agree with you on the whole "It's doesn't matter what you wear" theory. However! That perv chose to stand outside of a gymnastics club. Not a women's church group. Not a girl scout cookie sale. He went to where he could easily see the most skin. Young women in Leotards. Now maybe I'm wrong but as I modern media and commerce employ the power of the "Sex Sells" motto on a minute to minute basis... I'd say im spot on. I'd take things bit further and saying that anyone that says that less clothes has zero effect on Males OR Females is in complete denial.I also think it's strange that you think the victim is the only person effected each time a sexual assault occurs. I would guess that something like that would effect friends and family. I'm also "guessing" from experience. My instinct tells me that we're having this conversation because of that experience.	Sex, Sexual, Zero	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/181	1.657
Cameron Cairns of corse its obvious people dress for not only personal taste and style but also for attention...they dress in ways that make them confident...now what you find attention grabbing is not necessarily going to be the same as what someone else finds...for example...some guys like big boobs and some guys like big butts...some like legs and feet and armpits...people find diff parts attractive sexually. So a girl in yoga pants may visually attract one but not the other ect....you can't expect people to dress to please everyone! NOW that aside realistically, What men or woman do you know that see something they may find sexually attractive and immediately loose there shit? Like all self control goes out the window and they are overcome with so much lust they just can't even function like a normal human being anymore...anyone come to mind that's a normal functioning rational person? The only people like that are sexual addicts or people who need to be monitored or medicated. The majority of us can control ourselves , We don't there strait Gawking at someone like a psyco making them uncomfortable. There's nothing wrong with seeing someone and finding them attractive, absolutely nothing wrong with that. But you just keep in mind they are more then there looks..they are a fellow human being. most people are uncomfortable with random Pervy interactions...so just treat them like a person and don't weird them out lol its just common curtesy to respect that.	Common, Nothing, Sexual, Weird, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Social Class - Working class	6/247	2.429

P3Series Just my opinion, but to me your stance would convey to your young girls, "You are the reason he is being sexually deviant. Your body denotes your sexual worth. Any attack on anybody is to some degree also their fault." I don't believe that your stance is healthy. If EVERYONE took the stance of non-victim blaming then we would stop giving perpetrators permission to attack another person. I would also argue that he most likely has access to the internet, and therefore, pornography. If you argument blames your girls leotards for skin, (as opposed to him peeping on a church service, or cookie sale) how does that fit in this context? If he wanted to see skin, he most likely can without peeping. Therefore, his decision to peep isn't about skin, and more likely about him thinking it's okay to do so.I commend your desire to want to keep them safe. Are there other ways you can do this that promote a healthy view on sexuality and body image?	Sexual	Gender - General	1/170	0.588
P3Series It's saying that because their bodies are "tempting" THEY must be the ones to change, instead of the ones doing the wrong action. It's like saying to someone who got mugged, next time do not own expensive things, or next time change the way you speak to not stand out. Or saying next time do not drive a nice car if you don't want it stolen or to not own a nice house if you don't want it broken in to. Sexual crimes are they ONLY ONES where people can argue that they were just too tempted to be able to control themselves. What would you say if a student stole a school laptop and their justification was that "it was just too cool, I had to have it and I couldn't buy a laptop this nice by myself". You wouldn't have any sympathy for him because he was wrong to steal no matter how much he wanted a laptop. Or what if one kid started beating up on another kid and when asked why she did it she said "he just makes me so mad! he always acts so arrogant and full of himself he's just begging to be put in his place" you would say she was wrong and that no matter how he acted that she should not just attack him. So why when a girl is the victim of sexual assault is it ok to justify it with "she just flaunts it all the time and she's so sexy she's just begging for it" or that they just couldn't control themselves and had to look? Or that they had to take it because no girl would willingly go out with them/have sex with them. That line of thinking doesn't hold up in other situations so why is it acceptable for these ones? It's not.	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	3/309	0.971

Sexual predators will not be deterred by young girls simply covering their bodies. The mind set of someone who preys on girls and women is that women are inherently sexual - They exist to be playthings for men. We need to be combating that idea, rather than telling girls to cover themselves up so that "it won't be them" (firstly because modest clothing won't protect you from sexual assault - if it did, then toddlers and children wouldn't be targeted, and neither would boys or men - and secondly because it implies that you're better and smarter than the girl that predator WILL go after, which will be because of opportunity, not because she was in a mini skirt and you weren't.)	Sexual	Gender - General	3/122	2.459
Heavy metal Jess! Yes ma'am you are totally correct. I actually approached it very similar to how you've described. You know how it is... Gymnast have to wear minimal clothing in the gym and that's fine. In the gym I can protect them. It's leaving the gym in tight short shorts or a leotard that worried me. I mean these are 4'8, 78 pound, 17 year old girls walking into the darkness and each night... I worried about who could be out there near their cars. You know? I worried about who could be waiting outside the car once they arrived home even. It was just too much for me to handle.The day I announced the dress code about what I wanted the girls to wear into the gym AND on the way out... Was an emotional speech. I could tell the young girls knew something was bothering me. The older girls and parents instinctively knew what I was trying to accomplish. But still... It's always made me feel a little guilty for taking that choice away. It felt a tad selfish. Hence this video striking a cord. There has to be a principal who loves his kids enough to make the same decision as myself. even if he was unsure of if he were making the right decision.My question here is... Would that principal be wrong for making the same decision I did? what do you think?	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/240	0.417

P3Series I know that must have been a hard conversation, but I think you did the right thing. If I was coaching cheerleading now (at age 30), I would have a dress code for leaving practice, too. Women should be free to wear what we want, but we're not there yet. Our society views bodies as sexual regardless of gender and I do agree it's better to be safe than sorry. One day, maybe women can go around shirtless in Western society, but we are a long way from that day. I think a principal enforcing your dress code is important for a lot of reasons.As with most things, there is definitely a line where things go from safety concern to unnecessary restrictions. Is it a good idea to prevent girls under 18 in public school from walking around in just a sports bra? Yes. Is it a good idea to prevent boys under 18 in public school from walking around shirtless? Yes. The only time I had issues with our strict dress code in high school were when rules had no obvious link to safety or discouraging discrimination. As a cheerleader, I could wear my uniform to school but other girls are sent home for short skirts and dresses? Unfair. I can wear eyeliner but a boy can't? Unfair. Students can dye their hair blonde but not purple? Unfair. No one can wear hats or bandannas because they are sometimes linked to gangs? Regionally necessary at most. I think these are the places people should be focusing their complaints. I know when people are young everything seems like dire importance, but honestly, knowing when to fight your battles matters more than getting your way 100. tl;dr Rules for safety and to discourage discrimination=good. Rules with no link to these things=unfair.	Age, Gender, Sexual	Age - General, Gender - General	3/302	0.993
--	---------------------	---------------------------------------	-------	-------

P3Series "I mean these are 4'8, 78 pound, 17 year old girls walking into the darkness and each night... I worried about who could be out there near their cars."Your genuine concern for these young women is apparent. However, your strategy seems faulty to me. If they are walking into darkness, will potential predators even be able to tell what they are wearing? Have you ever heard of a rapist you carefully examined the attire of a potential victim and then said, "Wow, your clothes are ugly. I think I will go rape someone else"? What if we compare to consensual sex? Suppose some really beautiful woman came up offered to have sex with you with no strings attached. However, also suppose that this woman was wearing the ugliest sweater you had ever seen. It was just hideous. Would you turn her down due to the sweater? I'm guessing you wouldn't, because you would assume that she was going to take her clothes (including the sweater) off prior to sex, so it wouldn't matter any way.I'm not objecting to trying to do something to protect these girls, I'm just saying that just wearing more clothes doesn't sound very effective. Having someone (yourself or another trusted adult, maybe one of girls' parents) escort the girls through the parking lot would be one way to make them safer. It bears mentioning that these girls are much more likely to be sexually assaulted by someone they know than by a stranger lurking in a parking lot. That's no excuse to ignore the threat of stranger rape, but we don't want anyone to be complacent around someone she knows either. Any way, I just wanted to suggest that further measures may be needed if there really are sex offenders hanging around the gymnasium.	Old, Sex, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	7/301	2.326
I can totally relate with your protective feeling (I'm a scout troop leader and when I saw some creepy dude at work watching my Facebook photos of my girls rock climbing in tights and arness, I filed a sexual harassment complaint against him) but your girls' bodies were not the problem, they were dressed in order to move freely in their gym class: the problem was that perv.There are many out there and I know that you keep wishing you had caught him and deliver him to the police.The thing is: sexual prohibition and frustration arethe deep root of people like that man. The dress code imposed, although well-intended, created a new boundary: more unexposed skin, more to lust for.The problem with most western societies is that we are ashamed of our body and our sexuality, when it should be as natural as our breathing. That's why Lacy was talking about sexualizing these girls: they were free until some perv blew it.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/165	1.212

Gifted with? Special? What's special about where I piss and shit and have my period from like every other woman ? We're all the same nothing "special" diff on shapes and sizes but my body is not some majestic unicorn people looking at me is no diff then looking at the girl beside me...except ones maybe prettier. Lol but that's obviously subjective. the generations before us had a large religious backbone to the way they perceived woman ...thankfully were getting away from that close minded thinking. The grecians thought the human body in itself male and female was beautiful equally...that's why so much of there art is nude. They didn't find shame in the human form. Thankfully were slowly going back to that way of thinking instead of the negative one your conveying.	Nothing, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/131	2.29
I feel like feminists are now trying to fight basic biological impulses now. If girls dress in clothes that others find sexy, well, they will get ogled. Teenagers can't quite control their feelings, so someone dressing in revealing clothes will attract looks, and this distract learning. That is why these regulations are in place, to stop teenagers from getting distracted. I agree that girls shouldn't be targeted as being more sexual than guys, but that is a society problem.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/79	1.266
Finding somebody attractive for a fleeting second is different then them claiming that a girl wearing that all day is going to distract someone for the entire day and make them not able to focus on anything that they're doing except the fact that they want to have sex with that young girl...that is ridiculous if you have that sort of an attention span and lack of self control you need to be on medication. There are tons of schools that do not have strict dress code were girls wear practically whatever they want and they have higher test scores than us here in America so this whole "distraction" thing is completely and out early based on nothing .	Nothing, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/118	1.695

look like it or not guys and girls are different with different parts. while some are absurd the legging and toga pants are valid because they can be. you complain about guy always checking girls out and looking at them and yet you are against this. private schools here are stopping girls with certain dresses for being to revealing. there is a certain point, believe it or not, that clothes become to revealing and can become a distraction. and girls being targeted? no. guys can be too. shirts to revealing like muscle shirts and certain tank tops, and shorts either to short or to loose. there are more for clothes because of all the different clothes they wear. this is high school and middle school were kids are going through puberty. guys looking and girls and girls not fully understanding what is wrong and right. school can take rights away like freedom of speech and others. sorry you can't believe this so it is wrong. even the students don't call it sexism it's just what they do. you are just being ridiculous	Sexism	Gender - General	1/182	0.549
At my high school if two different girls wore the exact same thing except one was really skinny and really pretty she could get away with it while the other girl would get in big trouble	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/36	2.778
No one at my school cares. Even the teachers or administrators. Although, we're a magnet school on a normal school campus, so a lot of our girls get stopped for have "too short" skirts or shorts. In my opinion, too revealing would be, like, wearing your underwear to school. Ain't nobody wanna see that.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/54	1.852
You are my hero. Never stop doing what you're doing. As a woman in my 30's, I wish I'd had people like you on the internet when I was younger and coming into my sexuality. YOU GO LACI I LOVE YOU. Don't let the trolls, haters, and MRA's stop you, evar.	Woman	Gender - General	1/51	1.961

THIS. so much this! Thank you Laci.I can get behind some of the ideas behind school dress codes-no hate speech on shirts for instance.not wearing heavily branded things.. yeah, okay, maybe...and I think most people would agree that students shouldn't dress in overtly sexual ways. The problem is that practically everything girls wear is considered "sexy" somehow.. like seriously, you can see a bra strap? Or you saw a girl adjusting her bra strap? that's not overtly sexual , that's just an everyday thing.If a female student was wearing a corset with her boobs spilling out, sure, I'd think that was a bit much. But wearing a bra is not "presenting" your boobs it's, just a standard article of clothing. Wearing "shorts" that are so short your butt is visible.. okay.. but shorts in general, in summer? That's to keep cool, you dolts. grrrrr.But much bigger than all this- if this is how teachers and schools are creating and enforcing these rules.. that says so much about their deeply ingrained sexism . What else are they teaching both male and female students? That men need to be bread winners and women housewives? That men shouldn't be nurses, and women shouldn't be engineers ? I shudder to think.	Engineers, Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General, Nationality - General	4/210	1.905
When I went to summer school they allowed many girls to wear booty shorts but when I wore an off the shoulder top the teacher freaked and told me that I had to change.Because obviously seeing my shoulder is way more sexual and 'distracting' than my entire leg and part of my butt.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/54	1.852
Yeah my 12 year old daughter says, " it's not fair ! " ( ... because she can wear whatever she wants, but her brother (10 year old ) on the other hand, can't wear a dress, a short skirt, high heels, lipstick... etc... list is extensive when you think about it ). I'd have to agree with her ... smart kid ;-).	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/63	3.175
girls bodies are more sexual than boys, girls bodies are meant to attract the male and then the girl decides whether to mate with him or not (in mesolithic times)	Sexual	Gender - General	1/30	3.333
There was a guy at my school who wore a shirt with a half naked women and on her boob area there was a red book and you could read "prime time" inside of it. I got so pissed off that he didn't get stopped by the dress code ladies so I went to the direction to denounce that and I found a girl who had to change because she was wearing leggings. I waited to speak to an adult but eventually I was going to be late to my class so I had to leave. Still to today that guy wears the shirt and we ladies can't wear leggings. It drives me nuts.	Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American	2/114	1.754
When your school is mentioned in this video. LOL. Love that legacy of sexism	Sexism	Gender - General	1/14	7.143

Here we go with subject-object dichotomy rant, & sprinkle in "sexist" & you've won. Are you saying scientifically that women as subject could wear skin tight clothes or next to nothing & psychologically not distract boys in any way? That these administrator have minefield of issues that they have to face? You say there should be spaces for women, I would love for you to provide real answers, I would love to see you be a teacher in a public school or find solutions to this in real life, you'll find your empty ideology falls apart.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/96	1.042
Also, why not ask the kids about their values. Let them set the agenda. I bet you a million dollars it is far more conservative than the parents these days. Rather than bombard children with unsubstantiated ideology being backed up the most ludicrous evidence "because it's healthy"(no actual research just claims of body shaming , sexism and picking ultra conservative schools). Let's really be healthy and set a student based discussion.	Body Shaming, Sexism	Gender - General, Physical Identity - General	2/70	2.857
If boys are so distracted by the opposite sex that they cannot concentrate on school they have bigger problems...But alas there are tons of schools not in America that do not have dress codes where the girls walk around and short shorts and crop tops and all of that jazz and they have a really really good test scores higher than America's...so what does that say about your theory? By promoting a dress code that is less distracting you are promoting that peoples bodies are something to be ashamed of and gawked at....there's nothing wrong with promoting a dress code that is professional in nature but the second you take a step over the line and say that it's for anti-distraction purposes you've gone too far.	Nothing, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/127	1.575
im a muslim and i agree with you ;) you will say that how and your religion say that a woman should cover up na na just for the info men must not show much too if you see just the head is the difference	Woman	Gender - General	1/45	2.222
The other side of this is that as much as telling girls how to dress is sexist towards them (and it REALLY is), there is also something wrong about the generalization that the Guys at the school can't think and act like a proper human because they are so "distracted" by the girls shoulder's. It's demeaning to all the young men at the schools to act as if they can't control themselves enough that they would need all the woman in the school to pander to them. The adults running the school need more respect for the students.	Woman	Gender - General	1/98	1.02

before i could even reach highschool i was in a situation like this. i was in in 8TH GRADE, only 13 years old! i was stopped by a staff member who sent me to the office because i was wearing a pencil skirt. i made the point i wouldnt wear it again but i will not change. I was then told to LEAVE school with our school police officer to drive to my house & pick me up jeans.. they didnt even contact my parent to okay this request! never have i beenmore embarrassed then being seen leaving school in a police car..	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/103	0.971
I was really happy to hear one of my (male) college friends say that, when he entered college, he was overwhelmed by girls' asses everywhere, but he got over it in a couple of days. What I understand in this is that pressuring girls to hide definitely make them seen more as a sexual object than enforcing no dresscode at all. I'm not against the concept of a dresscode, because some things are really inappropriate for any environment ever, but some of them are definitely overwhelmingly shaming towards females. I was actually one of those girls who always wore 3/4 pants or bermudas, but now that I've found the pleasure of wearing skirts and short pants in the summer, I'm never going back.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/123	0.813
I'm happy that I live in Finland where we use thick winter coats throughout the year so nobody can distract nobody /sarcasm.But let's get real, I can't believe all the stuff that's going on there in the USA. Police kill civilians, education is expensive as hell, getting sick can get you bankruptcy and girls can't wear whatever they want. We have literally no dress code control here and everybody can wear anything they want (as long as they're wearing something) without getting into trouble. And best of all, we have little to no problems with that. My brain can't even process that kind of fuckery so to my sisters in America (and everywhere else), please be strong! Do whatever you can to end this kind of discrimination. You are better than that and you deserve the same respect that I have gotten growing up here!	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	2/146	1.37
I went to school in the UK and we have uniforms, black ones I might add. In the summer, the boys would take off their shirts and use them as goal posts, I had a strappy top underneath my shirt so I thought hey they can do it, so can I get rid of a layer. Within minutes, a teacher had come over to tell me I wasn't allowed to do that and I had to put my shirt back on in front of her and I wasn't even permitted to leave the buttons undone. It really sucks. :/	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/99	1.01
"A teenage girls clothes? That must somehow be about ME!" Said the patriarchy .	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/13	7.692

The very idea that men can't control their desires when distracted is complete bullshit. Men do not cum in their pants if they can see a girls shoulders, which is a normal body part that most people have. There's nothing sexual about a shoulder or part of a thigh or something, it's completely ridiculous. I mean, I'm not a guy, so I guess I can't say for certain, but speaking as a lesbian, I have never in my life been distracted by seeing a girl who wears a shorts. That's just not a thing that's ever been a problem. I've never seen a girls shoulder and gone "damn, can't think about these quadratic equations, because I'm hypnotized by that fucking shoulder."The fact that schools think they have a right to tell people as young as kindergarteners how to dress is the problem. When you're sexualizing anyone between the ages of 5 year old kindergarteners to people at 18 or beyond, then the problem is you, not the other person. How fucking rich is it that adult and commonly male staff are telling fourteen year old girls that they're too sexy for school? I don't know if it's just me but that seems somewhat EXTREMELY DISTURBING.	Lesbian, Nothing, Old, Sexual	Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	5/206	2.427
I can understand the point trying to be made about under-aged children ... both boys and girls, but this isn't just an issue that has to be made to place blame on men. We all realize that children are going thru puberty and while boys are developing "sexual ugers" .. I think it should be brought to everyones attention .. parents included. Also men are very visual .. young girls will start to notice boys in a way very different than young boys notice young girls .. While girls will notice how "cute" or "attractive or how "tall" he might be .. young boys are looking at the body .. period! It can also be mentioned that today's media .. movies , music , music videos and fashion can also share some of the blame. I realize again we are referring to teens and pre-teens but social media is also out of control ... if you don't believe me I have just one word for you ... Instagram. You are famous because of Youtube ... I'm sure you've seen the sheer number of "twerk videos" on here.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/187	0.535
Huh she didnt bring up the local news story at my high school where half of my senior class was taken out of class because of how inappropriate there clothing was. Oh sorry i forgot it was the boys that got taken out of class because of baggy pants. Weird its almost like the dress code that is applied to guys is being ignored and only the part that supports this one sided opinion is brought up.	Senior, Weird	Age - Over 65s, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/77	2.597

But it isn't always just the "girls" as you put it. Actually in both the jr high and middle school(it's long story why I went to both) guys got in trouble more for not following dress code. In my grade school and high school was 50/50 sadly in my grade school their where some naughty of both gender and we had weird rule in grade school that shorts,skirts and dresses didn't matter who wore what all had to reach below finger tips. I never failed dress code but i had to think about sun safety. Not allergic to sun but am sensitive to it. Also in my hs guys tried to get away with sleeveless shirts they never did just like gals didn't get away with short shorts. But at least guys who tried to do sleeveless shirts were smart and had hoodie or t-shirt with them depending on weather if they got caught but school wasn't super strict. But yeah i shouldn't matter in kindergarten at all.	Gender, Weird	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/168	1.19
I just did my senior paper on dress code!	Senior	Age - Over 65s	1/9	11.111
I once was wearing this sweater with an open shoulder. I even wore a tank top under it so nothing was even revealing, all you could see was this small segment of my shoulder. My vice principal came INTO my classroom specifically to tell me that what I was wearing was inappropriate and against dress code because she could see my shoulder, then proceeded to tell me to put on a jacket.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/72	1.389
LilVlogs next time stand up for yourself.i live in Britain where we are forced to wear uniforms (whichisfuckingbullshit) but occasionally we have non uniform days to simply appease the students and it makes me feel like a sheep but i digress... it was on one of these days which i had my hood up indoors which we aren't usually allowed but... it was non uniform day so when my teacher asked me to take it off i simply refused and there was nothing she could do.do not be afraid of your teachers they cant do shit to you.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/100	1.0
I once was wearing an off the shoulder shirt, that was elbow length, with a wide strapped - tank top.. NOTHING was showing. And this girl I met on a trip.. Her mother proceeded to tell me how wearing an off the shoulder was inappropriate and I was gonna get struck down for wearing risky clothing. For frig sake, nothing was questionable about my top. I called her out pretty good and then she swallowed her words so fast	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	2/79	2.532
this also happens to Boys/teens/man. They told me not to wear sleeveless shirts when started to putting dress codes into my old school. so happy to finish High school. I already knew this was going on because they said the same for female students.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/44	2.273
Good thing it is not happening in europe (atleast in czech republic, i dont know about any other countries). Teachers once said that girls should do that, but nobody seems to care.I dont get that female bodies have always been sexual , but male bodies havent.	Nobody, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/46	4.348

Some schools are even worse than what you described here. At my old high school, there was a similar dress code that most schools have; no spaghetti straps, shorts have to be a certain length, etc., but these rules were not applied to the "attractive" people.  They would come to school that obviously broke dress code, and could be more accurately described as lingerie (not slut shaming, just painting a picture) while the "unattractive" or "overweight" people were forced to change if there hands went just an inch past their shorts.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/91	1.099
My school had rules for males like: Pants must be tightly fitted around the waist, shoe tounge must be under pants, no earrings allowed, no muscle shirts, etc, etc. Your isolating an entire gender to make your point and ignoring the fact that males do have regulations. Your not teaching these young women anything.	Gender	Gender - General	1/54	1.852
I'm 5'6 and 145 pounds and have curves. Right now in Highschool, I had been sexually harassed many times and left me feeling self consious and led me to anorexia. I wanted to be thin with no curves so that I won't be bothered. But now I love the way I look and will always stand up for myself when a boy says nice thighs. I wish boys would get introuble like suspension for harassment	Thin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/75	1.333
We can't wear shorts above the knee, leggings, skinny jeans, lounge wear ( sweat pants ) , expose shoulders, and many other things. all of these apply to females only	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/30	3.333
Listen If a girl wears yoga pants or tights I'm going to look not because she Is an object, but Because she looks Sexy, she Looks attractive. Now I mySelf am not gay so I am certainly attracted to woman In my she range which is 16-18 I'm 17. I can certainly say that If I see a attractive woman I will look I should say that young woman should be proud to have these bodies and these curvs just damn girls your bodies are amazing and your're amazing. Don't let society do you wrong Have to stand up and speak up. I respect all you or atleast the ones who put up with this bull.	Gay, Woman	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	5/116	4.31
I went to a uniform school in elementary and middle school. We couldn't even have "non naturally" colored nails (only like nude or pink) my high school was much looser which was nice but I got annoyed at the inconsistencies of enforcement. I'd get told to put on a jacket because of my bra strap yet I almost never saw girls with boobs, butt and belly hanging out. While I understand that things should be covered in a professional environment I think the rules need to be reasonable and equally enforced	Colored	Ethnicity - Black	1/91	1.099

This school year my school got a new assistant principal. The dress code was fine before him, as in nothing too extreme. But the second he stepped into power the dress code went down the drain. Within a week of him as assistant principal over 25 girls had been suspended for inappropriate clothes, which had been completely alright before. These poor girls didn't even have a chance to stand up for themselves. The whole school became self conscious. Girls were told that they were a distraction and that they should be ashamed of their own body. Why do girls have to be punished for this?! Why can't men learn to have more respect? "Boys will be boys" is a bunch of bull shit. Why is it okay for them to do that? Males are just as distracting to girls too! Every heard of a crush or a fangirl? School administrators need to learn a thing or two from this video.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/160	0.625
When I was in 1st year at highschool (UK), girls had to wear t-shirts over their swimming costumes at PE .. despite the fact this made taking part in swimming 10x harder, and left us carrying round a soggy heavy top for the rest of the school day. The guys on the other hand? Trunks, obviously. I wish i could go back in time and get 13 year old me to kick up shit.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/74	1.351
Calling this "distracting" to boys is missing the obvious point, and I believe Xander Harris said it best, "I'm 17. Looking at linoleum makes me wanna have sex ."Boys (especially boys that age ) think about sex . They dont need any help, so it can hardly be blamed on girls. You might as well say that girls existing is distracting.	Age, Sex	Age - General, Gender - General	3/59	5.085
At my school girls can get in trouble if their sports bras are showing but yet several guys where tshirts that have photos of girls in bikinis or are in general just presented in a sexual way....yeah tell me that's not fucked up.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/43	2.326
The sex ed teachers in my school in Ireland think that boys can't be raped and when I argued against it to my teacher they just stuttered and changed the topic, it makes me so angry	Sex	Gender - General	1/36	2.778
I totally agree and with all respect. But boys (most) don't wear things to like super tight shorts and spaghetti straps so that's why it seems to do more toward woman and not men. It's just a thought. Have a nice day	Woman	Gender - General	1/42	2.381

When I was in 6th grade, a dress code was attempted to be put in place during the last week of the school year. The principal didn't even notify anyone, she just decided to go on the announcements and say "girls can't wear shorts." The parents had no idea. I mean, I doubt the entire school even heard the announcement because it was during the beginning of the day (so the building was loud). It was averaging 85-90 degrees a day, so us girls continued to wear shorts. I mean, let's get real. How many decent-looking shorts are sold for preteen/teen girls that aren't super short? The principal made us stand up during an awards assembly and called us out. She told us we should wear "sweatpants of shame" and called me promiscuous . Haha yea, 11 ear olds are super slutty. A lot of the girls were 9, and a 4th grader who was wearing male athletic shorts was called out too. This all makes no sense to me it's ridiculous.	Promiscuous	Gender - Female sexuality	1/171	0.585
America seems especially bad for this kind of conservatism. Not to imply that the general attitude toward women and the way they dress isn't prevalent in my country, but a (public) school would never dare try to enforce those kinds of standards on their students - nor would they do crazy things like stop girls from wearing shorts above the knee.	Crazy	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/61	1.639
I fucking hate all this, Laci wouldn't need to make there videos if the world was just NOT SEXIST AND FAIR TO EVERYONE, WHO CARES IF YOUR GAY , TRANS, BORN WITHOUT A PENIS, FEMALE, STRAIGHT, MALE, FAT , THIN , UGLY, PRETTY, BLACK , WHITE, RELIGIOUS, NOT RELIGIOUS, INDIAN , AMERICAN, ENGLISH, JAPANESE, WHO CARES, YOU DONT NEED TO KNOW IF SOMEONE WAS BORN A MAN IF THEY DONT WANT TO TELL YOU THEY WHERE BORN A MAN, VISA VERSA. STOP WITH IT. ALL OF IT!	Black, Fat, Gay, Indian, Thin	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - Native-American, Physical Identity - Physical Features, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	6/82	7.317

I'm not understanding the problem here. Boys also can't wear short shorts or show cleavage. A school here suspended a boy for wear pants so tight his cock and balls where... well left they nothing to the imagination. It's a sxhool dress code. Get over it. I think women and men should dress as they want and im sure 95 of the schools do too, it's that last 5 that complains and ruins it for the rest of them because we have to protect minority speech because god forbid we hurt someones feelings or question someones morals.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/97	1.031
I hate when people freak out because they can see a girl's bra strap. Umm, would you rather I DIDN'T wear a bra?	Freak	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/23	4.348
Thank you so much for making this video, but id like to add one more thing. Ive seen countless numbers of white girls getting away with breaking the dress code. I came to school with rips in my jeans one day and the rip was only about 3 inches. Anyway, my teacher sent me to the front office to change. Then when i came back i seen a white girl with holes in her jeans and nobody sent her to the front office. One main reason of why this is, is because of the hyper sexualization of black females bodies. White girls can wear shorts but sometimes black girls can't because of out "butts". But even skinny black girls get in trouble for dress code. This is why intersectional feminism is so important.	Black, Nobody, Skinny	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black, Physical Identity - Physical Features	5/133	3.759
I literally can't wrap my head around the fact that girls are actually being sent home or receiving detention because of their clothes in the US. It just seems so ridiculous. I'm from Germany, and in the 12 years I've been in school I've never heard of one girl getting in trouble for her clothes (at least in my school). Like, that's never even been an issue that's been talked about. Everyone just wore what they wanted, and if that meant tank tops and shorts that barely covered their butt, then that was completely fine. It's freaking hot in summer, and there's no air conditioning in school. Some girls even ran around barefoot. NOBODY cared. Literally NOBODY .	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	2/117	1.709
I guess we're just trying to prepare people for the workplace, but even that is inconsistent. If you want to work in a creative industry, then you can wear anything you want, but most professions have a dress code. Any sexism in dress code will be turned around at many workplaces, where men could not wear a tank top, but women typically can. Many workplaces are diverse and have a liberal dress code, but if you have customers or clients, you have to dress for their approval as well.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/89	1.124

CheesyChaplin	How about everyone use common sense and dress how we want, but not go overboard. If we can't solve a simple problem like this then how are we supposed to get anywhere in life. Seriously is that too much to ask?	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/42	2.381
Thade	Of course there would be exceptions for religious symbols like the burkha. And if any racist bastards have any objections then... well we'll deal with them .	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/28	3.571
	That's the way it is in the UK. Almost every school has a uniform, however girls will get told off if their trousers are too tight or skirts are too short, it has it's pros though, it means everyone is wearing the same thing, eliminating the pressure of worrying what to wear/not having clothes that are deemed fashionable (reducing bullying rates related to this). There's a lot more reasons but only really girls get told off for uniform being deemed sexual so it's still kind of sexist.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/87	1.149
ExplosiveRainbows	And that just further supports the argument that the problem is sexism on the part of administrators.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/18	5.556

I live in the UK and we have uniforms. They don't really solve any problems. Teachers were constantly having to tell people to fix their ties, take off their gloves, unroll their skirt and do their top button, which wastes their time. In my school, you could be sent home for not wearing correct uniform. This means, if a student had grown out of or lost or ripped a part of their uniform, they would either have to miss school until it was replaced or have to explain themselves to every teacher who spotted that their uniform was not correct. (My sister was allowed to wear gloves because of a problem with her blood circulation. She was stopped several times daily and told to take them off by teachers.)Also, uniforms are not always great for other reasons. The obsession with it in my school meant that we were only allowed to wear black or navy coats, and only up to the school gate, at which point we had to take them off even if it was raining or snowing. We were not allowed to carry them with us to wear to get between buildings in the school, we were not allowed to wear reflectors or anything to make ourselves visible to cars, we had to keep either our blazer or jumper on during summer (if it was too warm in any other season, we still had to wear both), there was no opportunity for any colour within the rules. Students would still find ways to bully based on how long your skirt was, how you did your tie, what your hair looked like, what shoes you wore, how much fake tan you could put on. The only way to fit in was by breaking the rules. It made the kids who were scared to break the rules stand out and be picked on. There were still sexist double standards too. Boys could wear trousers all year round, but girls were only allowed them in Winter. I had to wear the short school skirt and the school socks, so my legs were visible even though that made me uncomfortable and people teased the way they looked to the point where I can still barely look at them five years on without hating the way they look. I couldn't wear the trousers, even in winter, because the material gave me a rash between my legs, so I had to show them every day, even in the snow. After four and a half years in that uniform, I felt so ugly. I was told I looked like a man, and in my frumpy jumper and drab colours, showing my ugly legs, I believed it. The only way a uniform can help is if it is reasonable, with reasonable exceptions and consideration for those wearing it. If the people picking the uniform are the same people trying to cover up girls and shame their bodies, they will design a uniform that does that.	Black, Tan	Ethnicity - Black, Nationality - British	2/500	0.4
---	------------	---	-------	-----

MiniNymph I was also in a uniformed school but we had fewer restrictions, and the rules were carried across the sexes. For shirts we had the dress shirt (long or short sleeved, the golf shirt, the blazer, or the vest. If you opted for the blazer or vest you had to have a golf or dress shirt under it, no rolling sleeves, shirt must remained buttoned up the collar button may be left undone but only the collar button.Pants the shortest you could have them was one inch above the ankle, must be fully button up and sitting on the waist. Boys most common break in the rule was leaving them unbuttoned and letting them sag. Shorts, Skirts, and Jumpers were held to the same standard, No more then three inches above the knee. If the clearance was more then that they had the choice of wearing a spare uniform piece the school provides till the end of the school day or go home with a warning. The jumper also had the extra rule of needing to be worn with a dress shirt like the blazers and vests.Skirts also had to be worn with Nylons, Tights, or Knee socks, which brings in the most common rule breaking for the girls, skirt too short or none of the above. The Ladies were also encouraged, but not enforced, to wear bicycle shorts under their skirts to avoid embarrassment on windy days, embarrassment walking up stairs.Shoes also had to be black , no leather boots, no high heels.Free dress days were held to the same standard somewhat. No tank tops, nothing with profanity, no holes in your pants.	Black, Common, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black, Social Class - Working class	4/278	1.439
Communist! No, but seriously though, having everyone wear the same thing requires both money and companies willing to make these costumes.	Communist	Ideological and Political Identity - General	1/21	4.762
CheesyChaplin Except that boys wear pants and trousers (which for the most part the feel fine in) and girls can wear weird skirts or odd trousers? If we were to make it truly equal anyone could wear whatever bottom as long as it covered their genitals. But it just is not like that for public school.When I was in public school my guy friends got to wear muscle tees and thin gym shorts... but in the winter girls couldn't wear slightly torn denim jeans (my friend work "holey jeans" that has a hole in the knee and it was deemed as sexual ) or skirts paired with leggings? Which they liked. So what exactly are we to wear... yet it isn't a huge controversy over men's clothing?	Sexual, Thin, Weird	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/127	2.362

In theory yes, but in England we wear uniform and we still have dress code sexism. Girls are constantly told things like their skirts look like belts (I was one of them) when they weren't even that short. I once even saw a teacher pull down a girls skirt for her to make it an "appropriate" length. Those girls were harassed by other students, being called sluts and having their asses grabbed daily (whether or not they were wearing a short skirt). Then, even in sixth form when girls were allowed to wear their own cloths, their was a sexist dress code in place. And besides, uniform won't change the mind sets of people, having uniforms makes no difference to the way people think of women. Putting a uniform in place to try and solve the problem would be just adding to the problem.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/144	0.694
Vanja yes and in most of those schools girls are only allowed to wear the uniform skirt instead of being able to wear the same trousers as boys. I've being there, we complained to the administration and it solved nothing. Is still sexism, and the worst kind of it.	Nothing, Sexism	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/49	4.082
Or just stop trying to control what people wear. What they choose to express is part of who they are. Don't limit that. P.S. My old school had uniform - not an improvement.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/33	3.03
Lilith Skye I see where you're coming from. But I think young girls are much more frequently told off about their appearance and clothing choices than boys are - EVEN WHEN there ARE things to reprimand boys for. You mentioned the ties and trainers, at my uniform comprehensive school guys wore their trousers so low their boxers/pants were visible, they unbuttoned their shirts and wore their own clothes underneath, a couple of lads even wore different blazers to the assigned one. The easiest two to compare are seeing a girl's bra through her shirt and a guy's underwear showing - girls were told off, but the boys weren't. Both garments cover body parts that are commonly seen as sexual, yet the girls are sexualised to a higher extent in schools.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/130	0.769
CheesyChaplin Go away fascist commie.	Commie	Ideological and Political Identity - General	1/5	20.0

I am currently in high school and we also have a dress code, and guess what, it applies to everyone equally! NOBODY is allowed to wear tank tops or any other type of shirt in which your shoulders are showing, tight trousers, shorts, and although some rules affect girls more than boys (cos girls wear certain items of clothing more frequently), they are still enforced equally (boots over trousers, etc.). It is distracting when ANYBODY wears clothes that emphasize their sexual features (yes "curves" count as they are secondary sexual features, so do muscles and "bulges"). Just because there are types of clothes that that are only for women, that are made to emphasize sexual features and the school bans them separately doesn't mean they are sexist (They would just sound like complete cretins if they were to ban mini skirts for boys, don't you think?) So if you want you can argue about the clothing industry, where, in my opinion, there is a better case to be made.	Nobody, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	4/169	2.367
The dress code isn't enforced at my school (because I go to the alt (alternative)) though there is one, and everything just runs smoothly, I have seen girls wear see through shirts over bras in the middle of winter in Michigan with no problem. I think the problem itself IS the dress code, because when girls (or anyone for that matter) are told not to wear something and they do it is a lot more distracting than when they just wear whatever they want. Like, when I went to the normal high school there were entire classes where the teacher just dropped everything to yell at a guy to take his hat off and we just learned nothing that day, whereas in the alt no one even notices if you can literally almost see someone's nipples xD. No wonder the Alt has a higher GPA than the HS...	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/148	0.676
I hear you. But we are not equal. All the respect in the world wont change the fact that males respond to testosterone. Testosterone is not a mental illness or an excuse it is part of being a man. When you take it away a man isnt a man anymore. Respect testosterone and its affects on society. Its an integral part of our happiness.	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/64	1.562
This is so important. It's very similar to victim blaming. Here in the UK, approximately 1 in 3 girls experience unwanted sexual touching in high school. I've seen it happen myself and it disgusts me - a girl will be blamed for a boy's actions, and it's just laughed off, with little punishment other than the authority recommending the girl "covers up" or dresses "appropriately." Everyone should be allowed to wear whatever they want, whether it shows skin or not. A lot of people argue that girls have more freedom of expression because "girls can wear pants boys can't wear skirts," but HELLO, if You want to wear a skirt, wear a skirt. Nobody's stopping you, only the patriarchy is trying to!	Patriarchy, Sexual	Gender - General	2/122	1.639

It seems like the media deals with any instance of sex shaming of girls extremely badly because if this was a problem for America wouldn't newspapers or some sort of news try to actually fix this problem. I know this is a problem for all of America but girls voice aren't going to get if this sexism is happening then American men won't care, this is big but your voice is going to get sounded out like it never happened. Anyway I never heard of this until now, it's a travesty.	Sex, Sexism	Gender - General	2/91	2.198
I live in England where almost every school has a strict uniform policy. Girls (from the schools that i went to and my friends went to) were told that certain skirts and trouser fittings were not aloud because they were "distracting". girls who wore makeup were outright told by the teacher that they were "trashy" (and similar words.) and make to take off all their makeup, sometimes in front of the whole class. on a non-sexual related note, certain hair colours were deemed "distracting". not even vibrant blue colours, but certain shades of dark red were banned. what? Lastly, i want to point out that, although they had to be a certain length, girls are aloud to wear skirts but nobody , not even the boys, are allowed to wear shorts. boys in our school were told off for rolling up their trouser legs when it got too hot, but had no alternative to full length, black , polyester trousers. i'd like to point out that these are current policies, though they may seem extremely outdated. great video laci x	Black, Nobody, Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - Native-American	4/178	2.247
Riotschminke I want you all to think about this very carefully, think about all her points, then think about what the only logical conclusion of them can be. Her points are: 1. "Telling women to dress less sexual is sexism against women." 2. "Pressuring women into looking more sexual via men just not finding them attractive, that's sexism against women too." The only logical conclusion to draw is that male sexuality is toxic, that just finding the female form attractive on their own terms why and whenever they do (as opposed to when and how women want to be seen as sexually attractive) is sexism against women, regardless of the fact that if one held women to that standard of what, when and how they can find people sexually attractive, the feminists would turn around and charge calling that "Slut Shaming", " Sexism Against Women" and "Oppression of Female Sexuality". [LINK] <- This is all a can hear.	Sexism, Sexual	Gender - General	6/157	3.822
That's exactly what I was thinking. I live in a muslim country, and we have a gender neutral dress code, some girls wear hijab, some wear skirts, there is a line of modesty that is drawn but boys have it just as hard, and it's perfectly fine seriously.	Gender	Gender - General	1/48	2.083

Emikero girls can wear shorts, just as boys can. But girls can't wear shorts two inches below their crotch. They can wear shorts as long as boys shorts are. That is a fact.The problem is girls already have a different dress standard than boys do and cry sexism when they can't violate that standard whenever they want. The rules are not sexist, when you get called out on breaking the rules it is not sexist so stop playing the "sexist" card all the time.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/85	1.176
I'm going to put something to rest right now. Distracting a sexual thoughts are caused by..Drum roll HAVING A PENIS! No matter what women are wearing we'll find something to look at	Sexual	Gender - General	1/32	3.125
Saying what women should wear from such a young age really can cause serious damage to the way women are seen in society and it's such a shame people don't realise this. It's not just affecting the way boys from a young age view girls but how girls view their own body. As something that should meet the standards of society and not truly their own. It's really messed up how they get away with such strict dress codes only aimed at girls and being treated as if it's their fault.	Age	Age - General	2/91	2.198
This mentality is incredibly damaging to men too, and I'm glad you brought that up. I had witnessed body shaming from school from administrators, but rarely faced it myself, likely because I was always so afraid to show off any skin due to body image issues (which is a different story). I did end up experiencing it years later in the workplace. On a hot day, I wore a tank top that was work appropriate (my boss even complimented my outfit) but I'm guessing since I had a belt under my waist, my boobs looked a lot bigger and one of my coworkers considered it too provocative. Sorry, boobs happen.	Body Shaming	Physical Identity - General	1/110	0.909
Are our bodies sexual ? Yes, always. It is a very important part of our survival as a species.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/18	5.556

==READ THIS==No, this is completely wrong. I am for a dress code, because girls being allowed to wear things like yoga pants, only encourages perversion. This movement to create a dress code is in a rightful condition, and definitely does not promote sexism. First, this idea of a dress code only acknowledges the notion that men are already perverted, and treat female bodies as if they were objects to be gazed upon. Second, if guys tried to wear clothing that blatantly showed and outlined crotch bulge, or a sleeveless tight shirt, it would definitely be prohibited, however guys don't do it. The reasons that schools mark wearing these articles of clothing as distracting, is because they don't want to tell the female that she is wearing extremely tight clothing, that is clearly showing her but-cheeks darkly outlined. There is no excuse to wearing leggings during a school day, if women are not active in yoga, or sports. Wearing yoga pants and excusing it as "it's cold" is only mildly acceptable, usually if it is only a mildly cold temperature. However, leggings don't provide as much warmth as many other articles of lower clothing. Not only that, but in the school I go to, these girls wear really tight leggings. Not only that, but they make sure you can see their curves, by repeatedly pulling up their leggings and putting their shirt over their waste. A dress code would not only prevent excessive perversion, to a level where female bodies are exposed as if they were skin bare, colored in with a different fabric color, but actually stop their parts from being a main focal point. This implementation only assumes that there is already sexism, and is trying to stop females from being observed as objects in the first place, it is not saying that it is alright that boys are looking at them. Laci is saying that this idea is unethical and sexist, because it lets males go unpunished for staring at female bodies as pleasing objects. This is completely wrong. First, males cannot be held responsible for what they look at, so there is no way to actually enforce the protection of females in this situation. Second, unlike Laci denotes, it is in fact completely in decision of the females to wear revealing clothing. Thus, the only way to end the problem altogether, is targeting the females who ponder wearing excessively revealing clothing. This is why I negate the idea presented by Laci's video.	Colored, Sexism	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	3/416	0.721
Ok i has to where a uniform at my school, but i like the rule to girls and boys... im in middle school and every body talks likes adults, like i will be walking down the hallway and one of my friends will look at a girls ass and say, damn that ass fat as shit	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/56	1.786
Lol in my university nobody's allowed to wear shorts, no matter what gender they are	Gender	Gender - General	1/15	6.667

Marta Dalla Vecchia Ho finito le superiori l'anno scorso ( ho frequentato sia uno scientifico che un itis) e devo dire, per quello che ho potuto vedere, che ultimamente le ragazze non hanno più nessun limite nel vestirsi, mentre per i ragazzi i limiti rimangono e sono piuttosto rigidi e se sgarri paghi prima dai tuoi compagni e poi dai professori. xD	Ho	Gender - Female sexuality	3/61	4.918
[VERSIONE BREVE]Per dirla in termini insiemistici:l'insieme di ciò che è permesso indossare dall'uomo è un insieme proprio (è un sottoinsieme strettamente incluso) di ciò che può indossare una donna. :)[VERSIONE LUNGA E NOIOSA (oltre che ahimè grammaticalmente scorretta xD)]Forse ho posto male la frase che hai appena citato, non è intesa in maniera maliziosa, ma è una mia osservazione.Quello che voglio dire è che fino a non troppi anni fa il dress code per ambo i sessi era rigido in maniera pressapoco eguale, per dirla in maniera semplice e breve le signorine con la sottana ed i signorini con i pantaloni.Poi con la rivoluzione sessuale è diventato socialmente accettabile e per certi versi socialmente anche ammirevole per le signore poter assumere atteggiamenti, coprire ruoli ed indossare indumenti anche maschili; cosa che assolutamente non è successa per gli uomini e che rimane un forte e ben radicato stigma sociale.Per senza limiti intendo anche che le signore hanno una varietà praticamente illimitata di possibilità di scelta di vestirsi (oltre che i colori); mentre i signori hanno una varietà estremamente ristretta e monotona, alla stregua delle uniformi militari.Per di più il peggio che può succedere ad una ragazza è essere giudicata come una poco di buono, mentre per un ragazzo se solo sgarra di poco, in maniera completamente automatica la sua sessualità viene messa in discussione e rischia istantaneamente l'isolamento sociale (con conseguente bullismo e derisione), alla peggio rischia di essere pestato a sangue e se non sta attento a dove cammina anche di essere ucciso.Metti anche l'esempio dei luoghi di lavoro o gli eventi formali, l'uomo è bloccato solo su una sola uniforme uguale per tutti (l'esempio tipico è giacca e cravatta), mentre per le donne anche qui spesso (se non si tratta di una compagnia aerea) è concessa molta libertà di scelta.Personalmente anche se in un certo senso potrei intuire i motivi di queste regole, non le condivido affatto, specialmente per quelle che sono sbilanciate da una parte o dall'altra.Spero di essere stato sufficientemente chiaro nel mio povero italiano. :)	Ho	Gender - Female sexuality	1/350	0.286
So many dress codes are highly sexist towards women and that shit needs to stop. All the points that Laci makes pretty much nail all of the issue on the head. There's like double sexism too because the dress code agenda seems to be sexist towards males as well, women have it worse... so much worse, but the assumption that a boy somehow cannot work or control himself around some exposed shoulders or some tight clothing is just offensive in my opinion.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/82	1.22

It's the opposite in my school in the UK, girls can wear whatever they like- so long as they don't turn up in like a bikini or something and its ok. Boys on other hand must wear a shirt and jeans(generallt black )	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/42	2.381
Thank you so much for making this video! Luckily at my elementary school we were allowed to wear tank tops... but the straps had to be at least two fingers wide... which is really dumb . What's the difference between that and a spaghetti strap tank?	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/45	2.222
Also like you said, everyone has sexual desires during puberty, there is a reason guys in the 1800's love a bit of the ol' ankle. When you're a teenager you find everything sexual , it doesn't make it rape culture, just because you find something hot doesn't mean you want to rape it just to get those desires out. Hell no!	Sexual	Gender - General	2/60	3.333
How is a girl's shoulders sexual ? If your eyes are on her shoulders she must really be doing some dumbell raises lolI understand schools telling girls to wear certain clothes however degrading them cause they want to wear comfortable clothing that is somewhat revealing is messed up. Kids and teachers need guidance on fashion design that works for both parties. It's hot let girls wear loose clothing but not so much it's clear as day what you're doing. Another thing is parental responsibility. Why are they letting their kids go out without looking to see what they're wearing? If you're a dad I'm sure you "should" care about what your daughter is wearing. But hey, once school's over you can wear whatever you want.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/125	0.8
Ankles use to be sexual at one point in history	Sexual	Gender - General	1/10	10.0
supercatgirl sexual ponytails .	Sexual	Gender - General	1/4	25.0
yeah at that age kids should still be considered innocent. which means treated as innocents. which means school needs to back off, hands off. They're applying adult logic to innocence, this happens more and more often, doesn't work. Hands off, schools! wtf!	Age	Age - General	1/42	2.381
Topkek Exactly. Why the fuck is hugging considered "sexually inappropriate" at any age ?	Age	Age - General	1/13	7.692
Topkek there's been a few similar to that. as if little kids are some how even emotionally responsible for knowing what's going on half the time. If they do something severe it needs to be addressed, otherwise adults keep piling on their own situations to kids not old enough to understand what's going on.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/54	1.852

She usually doesn't place any blame on guys though. Most of her videos are either sex ed videos, or she's pointing out flaws in our society as a whole. I can't recall her ever saying anything along the lines of "this is a bad behaviour that (only) men do constantly."	Sex	Gender - General	1/50	2.0
everist mister must have 8yr old girl strippers on his mind..he must be a mormon..	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/15	6.667
your the one with 8 yr old strippers on your mind..	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/11	9.091
Everist Mister Wow, you're capable of eloquence. Perhaps you're not so trollish. Albeit your initial post, what with its lack of eloquence and half a paragraph in nothing but upper-case implies otherwise.If you want to be taken seriously in a conversation; act like it.I heard a girl say this "if a male teacher says you are dressing inappropriately, he is a pedophile, because if he noticed me dressing "inappropriately", that means he was looking at me to begin with"Again, what kind of "inappropriate clothing" are we talking about? Tank-tops? Shorts? Again if that's provocative on a woman but not on a man, then they're viewing the woman incorrectly, they're objectifying her. Paedophile might be going a bit overboard, but it really isn't far off.I guess this is why a lot of countries have school uniforms.	Nothing, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/139	2.158
8yr old girls is the age where mormon bishops spend time with them alone talking about sex ..are you a mormon bishop? are you joseph smith??	Age, Old, Sex	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	3/25	12.0

Everist Mister You certainly make a few decent points, however I disagree with what you're saying about biological drives. Sure, to most men women are beautiful. However, women think about men's bodies just as much as men do theirs. Both men and women have sexual drives, and if a hot guy were to walk into school wearing a revealing muscle shirt, he would turn just as many heads as a woman wearing something "revealing." However, this isn't to say that men or women are to blame. Both sexes are going to look at the opposite one regardless of how "revealing" their clothes are. They're in high school/middle school, which is a time where sexuality is at a very high level. And I doubt that anyone here is saying that schools shouldn't have dress codes. That would be stupid. However, school administrations saying that girls are the problem, objectifying women, ignoring the fact that women have sexual feelings too, saying that guys are so simple minded that a fucking shoulder will distract us, and letting men get away with clothes that women can't wear does need to stop. All this is doing is objectifying women and saying that men are idiots, and there's absolutely no reason for it. So yes, there should be a school dress code, but it should be fair to both sexes and actually make sense.TL;DR: Women are sexual too, school dress codes should exist but be fair, men and women aren't the problem here; the school administrations are.	Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	4/252	1.587
Everist Mister You have a very narrow minded idea of what can be considered sexy. Why do you think women look at muscular men wearing tank tops and work out shorts (or maybe only the swim shorts) on the beach or at the pool? It's certainly not to check out their dick. Well defined pectoral muscles, biceps, and glutes can be just as alluring on a man as large breasts on a woman depending on a person's interests.If schools don't want to see girls' shoulders and upper arms (as would be seen in tank tops) or don't want them wearing shorts except during PE and after-school sports, then the simplest solution would be to make the clothing rules the same for the boys as well. Is it so difficult for everyone to wear a shirt with sleeves and khaki pants or jeans year around instead of isolating the girls?	Woman	Gender - General	1/150	0.667
Everist Mister Nobody is saying girls should walk around with their breasts or butt hanging out. THIGHS though are not sexual. Nobody is saying there should be no dress code. Just one that is sexualizing non-sexual body parts. 'Kay?	Nobody, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/39	7.692
Everist Mister They might be "sexy" to you, but that is due to the sexual objectification of women by the media. They're not a sexual body part. Why is that so hard to comprehend?	Sexual	Gender - General	2/34	5.882

Ikr, part of the reason Im a feminist is because boys arent wild animals that cant control their sexual urges. And in the rare occasion that they cant, its not the victims fault.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/33	3.03
Vokes Have you even seen men's running shorts? I guarantee they do not meet the "finger tip" rules girls are expected to follow, yet guys wear them for gym class or sports practice and even are expected to wear them as uniforms for track or cross country sports. If you want examples for "main stream" clothing instead of just working out gear, look no further than men's skinny jeans. They may not be "shorts up to his balls" but they still leave as little to the imagination.	Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/87	1.149
I remember when i was younger i wore a pink shirt and a skirt, the skirt was at my knees. A teacher saw me in the morning and pulled me aside to change into sweat pants and a oversized t. I was "distracting" and shouldn't wear skirts in school at all. If anything it was more distracting afterwards! Instead of everybody being indifferent a lot of the kids in my class teased me for changing and even going so far as to say "i looked like i had a big butt". It was a casual poof skirt of course it was gonna look like that at some point! I was so upset and with all the shame i got i still hesitate on wearing anything short... Thanks middle school for most of my insecurities!	Poof	Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	1/134	0.746
There is sexism against guys for my dress code too.. like no muscle tanks or showing off the top portion of their bodies, most guys at my school never wear short shorts so there isnt a rule against that but, guys face sexism against what they wear not just girls too, at least at my school	Sexism	Gender - General	2/56	3.571
I agree with some points up until rape culture. No matter what you do, in society, there will always be dick heads, psychos and sickos who will rape, murder, maim and do all sorts, nothing will change that other than making sure when we catch the fuckers we make sure they never see the world from outside a prison cell. By saying this promotes rape culture is you indirectly being sexist yourself, you're saying "if we carry on like this the stupid boys wont be able to tell right from wrong and start raping everyone, its not their fault, it's societies, but still they can't think for themselves and just rape everything that moves". What you're doing their is objectifying MEN! If you want equality, doing a 180 degree flip isn't the way to do, you need to find a middle ground.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/142	0.704

I think what she is trying to say is that this kind of mentality that the 'fault lies with the woman' is a bad influence on boys as well as girls, But a clothing code should be in forced against boys too. Rates of rape although still unacceptably high are lower than 80 years ago. why? not because less 'sickos' are in the world but because of education. I understand that there is a percentage of humans who are inherently evil, who will do awful things no matter there education. But there is also a high number of sex offenders who could have been stopped if education was different.	Sex	Gender - General	1/109	0.917
Guys guys, i have a radical idea, how about we let kids be kids and dress like kids and we let teens be teens and rebel like teens and we let women be women and dress however the hell they want and instead we put all the creeps, the rapists, the pedophiles and the gutter minded conservatives in jail together so they they discuss own sexual a 5 or 7 yo is.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/73	1.37
Kat 's OsakaHilarious misrepresentation of information.You might have noticed the remarkable lack Muslim run countries in the rape statistics. That is because they don't report them. I would suggest this is because they don't view most types of rape as rape (spousal rape springs to mind). You might also note that they are reporting total crime, not per a capita.This is not to say Muslim countries have it all wrong. Most have a pretty low murder rate, but they do nothing for women. They either treat women as princesses in the tower, or they treat them like live stock. I have lived and worked in enough countries with Muslim governments to have seen this trend.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/118	0.847
KamikazeChrista Okey you HAVE to be kidding me, i'm spanish and that's not at all true. There are more than 2000 girls and women being raped each year and those are only the ones who reported it so who knows the real numbers. And yes we have nudes beaches so what? in Spain you can get harrassed in the street as easily as in almost any other country, and catcalling is not even disscused or considered as something harmfull or offensive. Plus here in private schools you have to wear an uniform, and girls can only wear skirts and nothing else, not even in winter. And there are almost non protests at all against it.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/115	0.87
vortexkdPartly.The purpose of a Hijab is to hide women from public scrutiny. Out of sight out of mind. It artificially makes it a male dominated patriarchy , where the only women who influence your life or are notable are those in your family. This is marginalisation at its grandest.	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/50	2.0

EstrusWanton	Not to say that I think like that anymore, because I am a Christian and sexual thoughts about people to whom you are not married is a sin. But so is tempting someone to have sexual thoughts like you do when you wear your skin tights pants and bikinis at the beach, and the boys with their shirts off to impress the girls.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/64	3.125
Johnny Rocket	I would rather get attention because I deserve attention. If I have a great body, and wish to show it off for good effect, then yes, people should notice me because of it. This does not some how remove my ability to be respected for any other attribute I may have.When a great sportsman makes a political statement, is it less valid because he is good at sports? If a woman is covered up, how does this increase the value of what she says and does?Your argument that sexual thoughts are bad because God said so is childish. "Daddy said it was bad!!"So what? "Why is it bad?" should be your question, not "who said it was?"	Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	2/122	1.639

EstrusWanton Filthy blasphemer, I don't know what line you are talking about. I typed a lot of lines. But I will probably stand by it. I don't know what you mean by doing something in public that I think is innocent. I think I need you to provide an example. If I was wearing skin tight bike shorts and a bulge was showing, but I don't want to arouse or attract anyone, I would have to look at myself and say, "okay, females are programmed to desire a penis, so maybe if I don't want to draw female attention for that reason I should cover mine up. But that doesn't work because I don't think male biker shorts are innocent. It would be great if you didn't have to worry, but that is not the world we live in. You need to come to terms with that. If you wear a miniskirt and tube top to a frat party, get drunk and pass out you better have someone you trust watching you. It shouldn't be this way. This is the result of people sinning. As Jesus said, "For it is from within, out of a person's heart, that evil thoughts come—sexual immorality, theft, murder, adultery, greed, malice, deceit, LEWDNESS, envy, slander, arrogance and folly. All these evils come from inside and defile a person." Mark 7:21-23 As for your freedom, you have God given free will but like the bible warns us, "I have the right to do anything," you say—but not everything is beneficial." 1 Corinthians 6:12In regard to lessons, didn't someone say, to do the same thing over and over expecting different result is the definition of insanity. If that's your mind set I fear we will get nowhere with the rest of this conversation.Due to my personal experience as a male I am in the camp that dressing with your breasts exposed or in skin tight clothes will surely ignite someone's sexual desires. You can play the odds of how many people you arouse by your clothing choices. For example a woman in a bikini is likely to arouse more males than a woman in a pant suit. Do you disagree? I also don't know whether you are male or female, but I am not asking. I also know from personal experience in my past that if a girl is dressing with everything exposed and you can tell she is trying to be sexy and attract a hot guy, which is 9 times out of 10 not me, it is frustrating and at times infuriating. Agreed, I needed to control myself. The bible says we must learn and exhibit self control. But the bible is also not ignorant like some people in these comments are acting as though they are. God knows people's motives. He knows why you chose to wear that bikini or those short shorts or that tank top with your push up bra. He also knows what guys are thinking by taking off their shirts around girls, and He will judge the motives of the heart. Matthew 18:7 "Woe to the world because of the things that cause people to stumble! Such things must come, but woe to the person through whom they come!" I encourage people to dress modestly but you have free will to take your chances with God.I 100 agree with you about a lot of people having impulse control and probably mental issues of one form or another. But I will not say God's creation is f'ed up. I say sinners like you and the sinner I used to be, and the other sinful people we are talking about have acted "f'ed up" toward each other.It is much easier to rape someone in a bikini or short skirt than a pant suit. Anyone with half a brain and planning to rape someone would pick the easiest target	Mental, Sexual, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	4/721	0.555
--	------------------------------	--	--------------	--------------

Johnny Rocket My hell would be being a woman in an Islamic country.	Woman	Gender - General	1/13	7.692
thorin dyer yeah, because it's really the strict dress code that explains why Japanese kids out perform American ones. Nothing to do with the strict parent-child relationship.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/27	3.704
Nobody is arguing against dress codes in general (at least not here anyway) the point is that these dress codes are unreasonable and the justification for it is problematic.These girls are just wearing normal clothes. Sure if a girl rocked up wearing nothing more than three pieces of duck tape then sure I would understand. But shorts and a tank top c'mon man, that's perfectly normal attire.	Nobody, Nothing	Age - Youngsters	2/68	2.941
Kyle Butler There was nothing in this vlog that said students should do anything but wear whatever makes them feel "comfotable." Green drew no line, and is apparently not in favor of any sort of restraint in this area. Or so she represents herself here.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/45	2.222
Remember, it's sexism to require the same things of your female students that you do of your male ones. Unless you think a male student wouldn't be reported for the same issues.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/32	3.125
Taylor ZagorskiSurely if one sex is allowed to wear earrings and the other sex isn't that is unfair right?	Sex	Gender - General	2/20	10.0
The Amazing Apple It's not always girls that have the more restrictive dress codes, it's just more common . While earrings have been more traditionally worn by women through history, you're still right, it's not fair. Genders shouldn't be treated differently to each other in a dress code.	Apple, Common	Ethnicity - Native-American, Social Class - Working class	2/47	4.255
The Amazing Apple I highly doubt earrings are as fundamental as being able to wear shorts in the fucking summer.	Apple	Ethnicity - Native-American	1/20	5.0
Any dress code that specifically targets one sex and not another should be illegal, regardless of what it entails. It's discriminatory, and in some of these cases harassment. Regardless of how fundamental you find the article in question.	Sex	Gender - General	1/38	2.632
It is not fair. It's also unfair for boys to not be allowed to grow their hair out, even if girls aren't allowed to have short hair. If a private school wants to stick to old traditions, fine. But a federally funded public school should not have such sexist restrictions. Hell, if a boy wants to wear a skirt, he should be allowed.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/63	1.587
The Amazing Apple SO you're agreeing that the policy is sexist, but you're sexist so you're ok with it. That's different. No one here is debating if a sexist person would agree with the policy. Or you're a creepy troll	Apple	Ethnicity - Native-American	1/40	2.5

Tiff Any Preference isn't sexism . If they think boys shouldn't wear earrings that's their opinion. Cry more child	Sexism	Gender - General	1/18	5.556
The Amazing Apple Ooooooh... someone's feeling a bit sexist today. Double standards, babe. Double standards.	Apple	Ethnicity - Native-American	1/15	6.667
Tiff AnySo what, your favorite hair color on the opposite sex is sexist too? I think you're confused what sexism means.	Sex, Sexism	Gender - General	2/22	9.091
A preference can also be sexist, racists, etc, when you're preference results in your thinking of or treating a group or individual a certain way based on only their sex or race , etc. It can even be a positive OR negative idea, but if the treatment is different based on that one attribute (and that attribute in no way lends credence to the idea) than it is bigoted.	Race, Sex	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	2/68	2.941
The Apple It's unfair that boys can't wear earrings but girls can.	Apple	Ethnicity - Native-American	1/12	8.333
toadmfan2013 ear rings on boys don't make them gay . As long as the ear rings are blinged out	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/18	11.111
at my first high school (wich was verry catholic) we were not allowed to wear skirts that came above our knees and not allowed to wear thin panties under skirts, no shorts and no tops because it would be too distracting for the guys. Now I go to an art school and everyone can wear what they want as long as it aproprate to the season and ofc for school (and it means you can practicaly can wear everything you want aslong as your ass sheeks aren't showing xD or your nipples) and it's a much nicer places where boys and girls of every culture or sexual orientation respect ne another and I think we need to teach that. PS: sorry for my english I am still learning it :p	Sexual, Thin	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/130	1.538
My principal said he's modest and that's why we can't wear yoga pants. A male teacher at my school said "Girls shouldn't wear low cut shirts at school." And a student said "Then don't look" and he said "it's hard not to". And seriously, we are 14-18 years old and we should not be sexualized by our 50+ year old teachers/administrators.	Old	Age - Over 65s	2/61	3.279

We have uniforms here so it doesn't affect us in northern Ireland but a dress code that forbids yoga pants hardly seems like it would encourage me to rape or any other person I know who hasn't got some other sort of mental problem. If someone rapes a girl because his school forbade yoga pants (I don't see the connection either) then he was probably gonna do it anyway.	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/69	1.449
Why is there dress code at one gender schools then? I consider myself a feminist but when it comes to dress code it seems pretty iffy, I mean, most dress code is enforced for professional look, sorry lady's and gentlemen, you can't go into a job interview with a tank top and yoga pants, it's not about sexism, because I am pretty sure boys can't wear shoulder revealing shirts or yoga pants, i mean if men wore skirts I am pretty sure there would be a dress code enforced.	Gender, Sexism	Gender - General	2/89	2.247
The problem is that over millions of years of evolution males in any species have "hunted" the females per say, competing over one another for them. Humans are animals and our instinct is to see females as sexual objects because by nature we are only alive to reproduce. All that said I think it's incredibly unfair. Evolution is a bitch. We have to try to change but it's going to be really challenging.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/73	1.37
Please do not try to explain your attitude with science, recognize it for what it is: internalized misogyny that you've been with brainwashed by a society largely founded on economic domination of women by men.	Misogyny	Gender - General	1/35	2.857
Donnie D. Okay, I see where you're coming from but it has also been scientifically disproven that we can carry on an ancestral memory. While what you said about our past is true, it should also be stated that we are not hardwired to think that way anymore, because we don't have a thread binding us back to the generations in our past. Epigenetics does not have anything at all to do with genetic memories. Evolutionarily you have a point, but the idea that we should follow the guidelines that our ancestors made (you know, the guys who lived in caves) is ridiculous. It's just a weak excuse to carry on with misogyny.	Misogyny	Gender - General	1/113	0.885

Donnie D. Okay, I was unclear, I'm sorry. I didn't mean to insult you, I saw that you're approach was coming from a place of heart, I just want to repeat that there is no basic instinct. That's a social construct.I absolutely agree that we all do it. I'm a girl, I'm gay , I'd be lying if I said that I don't check girls out, because I do, obviously I do, because I like girls. I just don't rape them, and I'm not at all suggesting that that's what you were saying, I'm just saying that that can be a result of this looking that many of us engage in, and that itself is not at all something that we have carried on from our ancestors genetically. A person who rapes cannot claim ancestry as a reason, and saying things like "alpha males" or 'evolutionary instinct" is scientifically unsupported.It's okay to think girls are pretty, or to think boys are cute. That is okay. As long as you don't sexualize and blame them for you finding them attractive.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/180	1.111
Oh so "Boys will be boys!" basically is what you are saying. That's utter bullshit. If we were raised seeing women like people instead of sexual objects we wouldn't think of them as sexual objects. Teach boys to have self control not to "hunt" women. Evolution... heh...I did not evolve from a fucking fish into some ape then human that's fucking stupid.	Ape, Sexual	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	3/62	4.839
Alex I'Anson They help against it more than if you didn't have it trust me. Beaten down uniform is not so bad when compared to beaten down normal clothes. I remember kids would be bullied on mufty days for the types of shoes they wore etc girls would be gossip about each others clothes well regardless but when it was a normal day of school people had to actually find a problem with you to bully you (at least in my school) so it was harder. I feel that allowing people to choose what they were adds another layer to teenage coming of age problems.We shouldn't hold everyone's hand but if I may say so america does seem to have more issues revolving around d style and fashion sense in conjunction with peer pressure and bullying at a level marginally higher than the uk.I had such an easy school life and my jumpers were like dressing gowns (didn't know you shouldn't iron them)	Age	Age - General	1/165	0.606
Diana Peña Like I said it helps prevent not completely stop. Its easy to make fun of someone for looking different but if you all look the same you have to get to know the person even if its just surface level. This prevents/deters some bullying or rather social distancing as most people tend to be nice enough to appreciate that which is different once they understand it. This isn't just applied to bullying but even racism and prejudice (which can be part of bullying). Surely you agree that anything that lessens bullying is positive?	Racism	Ethnicity - General	1/95	1.053 have to agree with Nathan Balfourth here, you can't stop bullies and even teachers are powerless to do so. Bullies pick on people who they fell are better off than them in some way choosing to take their problems out on someone else because it makes them feel good its why most victims become bullies at some point. Uniforms give kids grounding they allow people to all be the same giving you one less thing to worry about. Sure their not perfect but it a start, I got told of constantly because I was wearing the old school tie, it was literally exactly the same as the new ones just the new version was clip on see my dad did not believe that kids shouldn't learn how to tie there own tie and just clip in on he even when to the school and told them that he was refusing to by me one so all the staff new yet they told me off anyway. moral of the story I think its the teachers/media and society that are the problem the minuets we stop seeing genders as equals it causes problems. The media should portray gender equality, staff and school agencies should reinforce this with equal dress codes for both male and females and society should demand change.	Gender, Old	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/218	0.917

Alex T'Anson Hmn, I can empathize with you, about the growth spurt thing at any rate! I only agreed with Nathan Buforth in that if everyone kind of looks the "same" perhaps the incidence of bullying related to clothing might be ameliorated just a little. I don't agree with his initial comment where he stated that if you had a dress code as strict as an actual uniform, sexual disparity will magically disappear. Nor do I live in some parallel universe where I believe that uniforms are a shield against bullying - in fact as I outlined in my initial comment, I was arbitrarily slut-shamed in public by a teacher whilst wearing a uniform.It was only when I attended a school much like many Senior Colleges in the UK where students in their final year were exempt from wearing a uniform, but were only expected to wear "smart casual" clothes in the school colours of navy blue, black & cream that I felt comfortable. On reflection, it's difficult to say whether the greater autonomy over what we wore or the fact that at that school the focus was on education rather than appearance created the comfortable environment :)	Black, Senior, Sexual	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	3/199	1.508
there is 100 still double standards in uniforms. it is also unformfortable for trans or gender queer kids- they arent allowed to wear clothes of their choice because of their sex ? also (in my school at least) us girls are yelled at constantly for how short our skirts are iver our stocking covered legs while the boys have their underwear hanging out and no one says a thing.	Gender, Queer, Sex	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	4/68	5.882

PokeWeeklyIt's not almost. The purpose of any uniform is to erase the person wearing it and replace him/her by whatever the uniform signifies.It's no longer a human, it's a function.A cop, a soldier, a nurse, a waitress, anything other then a person.Cops wear uniforms, detectives wear clothing.Nurses wear uniforms, doctors wear clothing.See a theme there?	doctors	Nationality - General	1/61	1.639
PatrickT22Also, uniforms for boys are never the same as uniforms for girls. You always see the obvious sexism of the establishment.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/22	4.545
Nathan Balfourth I can see how uniforms could be a good thing, but there are problems with uniforms as well, including being expensive as you not only have your school uniform, but often extras as I had to have a rugby kit in secondary school and if you grow out of your uniform, which is likely, then it can cost a lot for a new one. Also when someone wears a uniform, people can sometime see them, only for the uniform they are wearing and don't look past that and see the person wearing the uniform.The secondary school I went to, we had itchy wool blazers (except for sixth form which had normal black blazer) and you had to wear it during school hours outside, even if it was hot! That was uncomfortable, myself and a friend of mine were even allergic to the wool of the blazer and had to have material sown into the inside of the blazer to stop the wool touching our skin as there was no other material for the blazer, except for the sixth form blazer which wasn't made of wool.I even remember once that after school, a teacher was driving past some students who had their top shirt button undone, tie slightly loose and had their blazer over their shoulder, and he shouted to them to wear their uniforms properly as they were "ruining the schools image" looking untidy in their uniformsGirls had to wear skirts, socks or black opaque tights and couldn't wear trousers and many girls campaigned to be able to wear trousers like boys, but it didn't happen until the year after I left. One girl even wore black opaque tights nearly every day (not the same pair all the time) and was told in the end by the principal (who was a woman ) not to wear them and wear socks instead, as if wearing them too much was bad, even though they were on the dress code.	Black, Woman	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	4/331	1.208

Nathan Balfourth It depends why the guidelines are put in place, every school rule has an adult driven reason behind it.I wouldn't have minded school uniform so much if: girls were allowed to wear trousers, we had to freeze in skirts, but they boys didnt have to wear shorts. When they decided to let girls wear trousers, first they had to be from school uniform but boys were allowed to buy them from anywhere; then as they literally didn't fit most of the girls they had to be grey & not 'too tight' or 'too baggy' but the boys got away with extremely tight or baggy trousers and wearing black ones & teachers didnt complain at all. I also got told off for wearing jumpers that were too baggy- i dont even know the logic behind that complaint, i was covering up TOO MUCH? Boys got away with wearing trainers but girls got caught (you were supposed to only wear shoes). We weren't allowed to bring in hoodys or coats or anything non-uniform to wear, even outside in winter. We had to have our blazer with us at all times, so in summer we would have to haul our jumper, blazer & school bag with us. So if there was actual gender equality uniform rules & non based soles on sexual lust/inappropriate sexualisation or generally body/syle shaming then i think uniform isn't that bad.	Black, Gender, Sexual	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	3/235	1.277
Nathan Balfourth I am from the US and had a school uniform for 13 years from K-12 and it was just as strict as the non-uniform dress codes. As a female, I had to wear shorts or a skirt that extended all the way to and touched my knees, shirts that covered my collarbones and my shoulders, along with most of my neck, and that were tucked in so they covered my midriff. Given, the guys had to have their shoulders covered because there were unisex shirts, but their shorts didn't have to reach their knees etc. It still had the implication that anything above the knee or below the shoulder on an underage female was inherently sexual and I have experienced many of the problems that lacy mentioned: being shamed by teachers, being told my body is a sexual object, seeing the sexuality of my body instead of myself in the mirror, and feeling uncomfortable in normal summertime dress required where I live (all summer long the high temperatures are above 40 celsius). This is a problem even in schools with uniforms. They mention the uniform rules once in the beginning of school for 5 mins for the guys, but give repeated lectures about "appropriate" uniform wear for women, often about 20 min in duration because there are that many rules.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/222	0.901

Reading the comments was interesting, I seem to have gone to a relaxed school. I must say though more girls got in trouble with teachers but from my perspective.1)We had "fancy" stairs that spiraled with gaps in them (how this got through health and safety I don't know) so clearly girls needed longer skirts when walking upstairs to stop pervs (year 7s) from having a field day. Trust me I can't imagine some 12 year old boy shouting "hers are green" is fun for anyone.2)Girls skirts were too small I think the exercise of checking girls skirts was great from a teaching perspective it showed how aesthetic and practicality don't always work (like stairs with a gap every step) Girls would quickly realise they were giving everyone a panty shot if there skirt wasn't by their knees at least, it was also interesting to see the girls that worked out the perfect length to still have a skirt above your knee but no pants in sight. That's dedication.I know it seems like I'm joking but I think most of the girls will be conscious of flashing their boss work especially when they are wearing thongs and whatnot, like I said school is a teaching environment that is meant to replicate the real workplace. It's better to be told by your teacher for 6 years "keep the skirt down" than by your boss.Finally I have seen and know multiple guys that had received a detention or in some cases suspension for unsightly uniform but I never saw, knew or heard that the same happened to girls.As for girls being unable to wear trousers that's really warped in my school it was encouraged.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/289	0.346
Nathan Balfourth In this particular case I can understand why the school staff might snap at female students for having too short of a skirt (even if it is a little unfair), but a lot of schools are just having a go for things like shoulders or arms. I mean, come on, what's so distracting about a fucking shoulder?In fact, I recall my old school, they had uniforms, and girls actually had more options than boys did, including multiple types of tops of different shapes and sizes. Boys weren't allowed to wear the girls uniforms, but girls could wear the boys uniforms, but that's a topic for another discussion	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/110	0.909
on point. i wish we didnt have a dress code so i can enjoy sexualizing woman in my head, as any young healthy person would do.	Woman	Gender - General	1/26	3.846
you have absolutely no idea what it is like to be a guy surrounded by these temptations!! dont be like 'girls have these distractions too' bull*$. it is so much worse for guys. it rules my thoughts, i cant stop thinking about sex ,	Sex	Gender - General	1/43	2.326

I thought that almost immediately after seeing what these faculty members said. Im in highschool and when I see a girl in a short skirt or any clothing made for spring and summer, im in fucking Texas its 100 degrees on a good day im not gonna expect anyone to wear long sleeves and jeans. Its sexist and stupid to imply that men have no control over themselves and that women are nothing more than things to be hidden away. TBH if it wasnt for standards id walk around in a shirt and swimming trunks to stave of the heat.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/100	1.0
I'm guessing that's probably for the best, as well as being something you are fortunate enough to be cognizant of (esp. the implications of) from an early age :-)	Age	Age - General	1/29	3.448
I just realized, you're not murican , so you might want to give some thoughts about what uniforms say about the school system.	Murican	Nationality - American	1/22	4.545
qwervqwe vqwevqwev the problem with the dress code isn't that there shouldn't be one, its how the staff is enforcing the dress code. Schools have held assemblies only for females and told them to cover up BECAUSE OF "the boys". Instead of telling them to dress appropriately for a learning environment, they're telling them it's so it doesn't "distract" guys and make them pop a boner in class. Schools think too much about a male's sex drive than what a dress code should be about	Sex	Gender - General	1/85	1.176
qwervqwe vqwevqwev dress codes are pretty cool shit but I just don't like how schools are making them out to be, y'know? Like the reasons behind them seems practically strictly sexual and its just - -Ya feel me?	Sexual	Gender - General	1/38	2.632
Andrea Rews I feel you. The people being subject to those dress codes are all under the age of 18 years old - they're minors being forced to conform to a dress code put in place for sexual reasons on behalf of their teachers.It's fucked up.	Age, Old, Sexual	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	3/47	6.383

Seriously laci i started watching you because you were actual sex ed useful advice on how to be safe but now you post is some feminist first will problems that don't even exist but of course you only talk about the things that hurt women because I've never heard of feminist say things like did you know that men are five times more likely to commit suicide I also only see from this pushing for allowing women to get more comfortable white-collar jobs but I'm never saying that we need more women Coal miners we need more women sewage workers we need more women working dangerous jobs they only want the jobs that are nice high paying comfortable white-collar jobs but if they face any sort of inconvenience it's automatic sexism The problems with modern feminism is there are legitimate sexist problems around the world but modern femmes only focus on minor first world problems that sometimes aren't even problems or happen to both sexes but only act as if it happens to women feminism is not about equality its about misandry and if I was the first or second generation femminst I would be ashamed to be even remotely grouped up with modern-day feminists why did you have to ruin a good EDUCATIONAL youtube chanel with this social justice BS	Misandry, Sex, Sexism	Gender - General	3/221	1.357
STORY TIME!The school my friend goes to had a character day where the students could dress up as their favorite movie, tv show, book, etc. character. She decided to be Ariel, and she wore a long (covering shoulders) red wig, green leggings with scales, and a (sleeveless) purple dress. She got pulled out of class because the dress was sleeveless (forget the fact that the wig covered her shoulders!) and they gave her a baggy, grey shirt to wear instead. This resulted in her having an anxiety attack, and a family friend had to take her home. So in reality, pulling her from class was even more disruptive than her actually wearing the outfit. These extreme dress codes are pointless and unnecessary, and they only result in damage towards young women and power towards our patriarchal society.	Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American	2/138	1.449
Seriously though, man am I glad I went to school in a country where nobody gave a shit about stuff like this.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/22	4.545
I don't know where are you from but i feel sorry for you and the kids that went to that school, nop i didn't had neither a sexist or a feminazi environment as a kid.	Feminazi	Gender - Female intelligence	1/35	2.857
To my knowledge sexist is gender neutral as is feminist.	Gender	Gender - General	1/10	10.0

hulahoolahoo A little girl or boy can be standing completely naked in front of me and I would perhaps wonder why she was naked...but I would never be uncomfortable with it! As I don't find anything sexual about a child. If you are uncomfortable with the human body you are living in the wrong country. Rule of thumb As long as your genitalia is not showing or able to touch anything or anyone (as that is unsanitary) you are good.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/80	1.25
"Horny teenage boys" are no more sexual than "horny teenage girls", nor are they more numerous, nor less capable of controlling themselves. I was always grappling with episodes of charged inner sexuality as a teenager, but I never EVER ONCE believed I could get away with displaying it in the open manner associated with adolescent boys. Boys have "only so much [getting] through" to their heads because they can get away with it, because we're permissive. Because failure to suppress promiscuous leanings is never pathologized, and the label "slut" has no impact. Boys are not unteachable, but sometimes it feels like the adults who need to grasp this reality are.	Promiscuous, Sexual	Gender - Female sexuality, Gender - General	2/110	1.818
Just because you fall to the easy excuse of "boys are going through puberty and are horny" does NOT give you ANY justification to treat girls any less than human. WOMEN ARE NOT SEXUAL OBJECTS. It is none of your business what we put on our bodies bc last time I checked oh right ITS NOT YOUR BODY	Sexual	Gender - General	1/58	1.724
the old "boys will be boys so there's no point in punishing their bad behavior" argument huh?	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/17	5.882
"boys will be boys"no, boys will be held accountable for their actions like everyone elseresponsibility and respect should be taught from the early age	Age	Age - General	1/26	3.846
I've been told by friends that sending a girl to an All Girls' Catholic school is like sending a fat kid to a candy store. >.>	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/26	3.846
You know I've always struggled to figure out whether dress codes can exist without being sexist, because I do think there is a time nd a place for dress codes. What I've figured out is that it's not the dress code itself that's the problem, it's reason behind it. Like a dress code that says "girls, don't wear shorts or the boys will get distracted" is wrong. But if a dress code exists purely for the sake of professionalism and without targeting one gender or the other, it's much better. For example a schoo, could say "no shorts higherthan the knees and everyone has to wear long-sleeved button up shirts because it is professional" and then it would maintain professionalism without offending anybody.	Gender	Gender - General	1/123	0.813

It's so disgusting that in my school that you see some of the male faculty looking at the other female highschool students. I REMEBER in 9th grade I would always walk with my brothers girlfriend who was a senior and my brother graduated the year b4 and my history teacher would look at her and once directly said to me damn that ass. It's disgusting!	Senior	Age - Over 65s	1/65	1.538
My English teacher once said that wearing certain clothes makes girls look slutty and that they must be a slut if they wear those clothes. This is a fifty year old teacher who has the responsibility of shaping the minds of teenagers. God help us all.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/46	2.174
Elite Salad Dude, everyone gets distracted. I, a woman , will find my gaze lingering on butts, shoulders, or legs for a few extra seconds. This is okay as long as you keep the thoughts internal. The thing is this has little to do with clothes. I'm reading a book right now set in Iran in the 80's. Girls had to wear loose, full body coverings; only their hands and faces showing. And you know what, guys and girls were still checking each other out.	Woman	Gender - General	1/84	1.19
Elite Salad You have a valid point, sure, and I think you're mostly right. I think Laci was dead right, but it's true, because the thing is that, everyone CAN get distracted, and that doesn't usually have much to do with dress code. I mean, I stare at pretty girls sometimes wistfully, but it's no more a distraction then when I watch a bird out of the window. As a girl myself, I understand that we can be over sexualized to the extremes but that doesn't change my sexuality, because I still like girls. I'm just not expressing it rudely by gawking at a shoulder or an ass or something, because I have self-control.Within reason, I think we should be allowed to wear whatever we want, whatever our gender . I think also, the staff who decide what clothes to regulate should really be forced to look in a mirror and ask themselves "am I viewing a teenage girl as a sex object?" because that's a really huge and disturbing trend these days. It's almost always middle aged men who decide if a teenager is too attractive or not.	Gender, Sex	Gender - General	2/189	1.058
Surprisingly BlankHahaha that "women are horny too" argument is so utterly misguided. You should experience one day as an adolescent guy and see what that's like. The hormonal sex drive and bombardment of imagery sexualizing women just doesn't exist in that degree for women.I've had 15 girlfriends and only one of them had a libido that even came close to mine, and only like 10 days a month no more than 3 times a day.My anecdotal evidence aside; there has been so much research on this, there's just no denying it. Here's an example: [LINK]	Sex	Gender - General	1/98	1.02

Arctor kovich "Bombardment of imagery sexualing women."So you admit that there is a strong socially constructed reason for why you personally oversexualize and objectify women at the drop of a bra strap, but believe the "women are horny too" argument is baseless? You think ignoring our biological similarities in favor of gender stereotypes should influence our dress codes?	Gender	Gender - General	1/59	1.695
sprittes I didn't realize everyone's mind worked in the same way. You're right I should just flip the switch to turn it off. You know what you should give advice to people with anxiety too just tell them that you find it easy to talk to people and their anxiety will just disappear. Even better you should talk to people with even more serious mental health issues and just say, "hey this isn't how my mind works so just stop making yours work that way it's not hard" and they will be cured!!Side note before people say it. I'm not comparing my very minor thing to serious mental issue i'm just using it as a more extreme example of this guys ignorance.	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/123	1.626
Brando CalrissianNo. You seem to think ignoring biological differences in service of equality is a good idea. Let's start with sports then shall we? I'd be surprised if even one woman would be able to compete in men's sports.And no, men don't just think about sex a lot just because of our highly sexualized society, it's also biology. Marketing people have figured out we lose control over sexual images and so they use them to draw our attention. It's a self-reinforcing feedback loop.	Sex, Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	3/85	3.529
Surprisingly BlankDon't be so condescending please. Of course I can control my actions, there's just a lot you can't control, like getting a boner when you're 16.Modern psychology has taught us that the subconscious rules our inner world, our rational mind makes sense of it after the fact. Hence compulsive thought patterns and NLP exist.If you didn't know this you might want to brush up. You'll learn fun things like wearing a red dress attracts men like flies because it signals your availability (it does make all the other women treat you like a bitch so be cautious).If you truly want to change the world I suggest trying to understand it first. You won't get there with high-minded rhetoric and moralistic idealism alone.	Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American	2/127	1.575
Arctor kovich Good call. The existence of gender stereotypes proves biological gender mental differences you personally believe to be true.	Gender, Mental	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/20	15.0

Brando CalrissianYeah no. I studied biology and chemical engineering. There's nothing mental about gender differences. You can determine gender in 100 of cases by analyzing DNA. Limited exceptions in certain areas aside there are huge differences between genders anatomically and biologically that help classification. If you truly believe men and women are the same biologically you are delusional.Your invented social " gender is a scale" conventions don't change scientific fact no matter how much you want to believe they do.	Gender, Mental, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	5/81	6.173
Arctor kovich And your continued disregard for the ability of humans of either biological gender to defy what you personally believe to be hardwired anatomical differences between the biological sexes is part of what holds true equality back. Enjoy your stereotypes backed by evidence that the stereotypes are societally imposed by your own admission. But also enjoy being ignored when it comes time to make rational policies and social rules.	Gender	Gender - General	1/70	1.429
Brando CalrissianYou don't want (and in fact shouldn't want) true equality and equal opportunity. It's what led to the male dominated society 20th century feminist have struggled to undo in the first place.Women should be celebrated for their differences and actively included in society. You can't just go " gender differences don't exist, here's equality, have fun!" and go hands off.In tribal pre-history true equality existed and women failed to establish their gender as equal because of biological differences. Instilling true equality is chasing your tail because you get the bad with the good and the bad is way worse than the good is good.What you want and what women deserve is selective equality. Affirmative action, closing the gender wage gap, those sort of things. You wouldn't want sports for example to be mixed gender .A good example of that would be the transwoman K1 fighter Fallon Fox losing her license to compete in female fighting. She had such a clear advantage no other women could compete and in fact feared injury and she became world champion over night. Obviously this was not a good situation and the choice had to be made for the stereotype-transcenders to go shove it.	Gender	Gender - General	4/203	1.97

Surprisingly BlankI'm not sure what gave you that impression? I have three sister that are all independent and I'm proud of them. My older sister is a top researcher in molecular biology, she gives talks all over the world and I'm immensely proud of her. She's achieved more and is more productive than I'll ever be.I just know that different groups of people need different forms of protection. Minorities need protection from hategroups and bigots to keep them from getting deported to the death camps. Women need some protection from the physical strength of men. Men need some protection as well in area's where they aren't strong.It's quite the opposite of social Darwinism.Full equality and denying genders even exist would be social Darwinism, every person would be equal in terms of social convention and law so then every person has the responsibility to fend for themselves.You want affirmative action to get more women in certain professions and positions of power, extended maternity leave, those sorts of things.You don't want merged public bathrooms, showers and dressing rooms. Mixed gender sports. Certain social convention.If you just try to reduce the problem to simplistic terms like " gender doesn't exist" and "we need true equality" then you will find out what the saying 'careful what you wish for' truly means.	Gender	Gender - General	2/223	0.897
Arctor kovich None of us here are denying gender exists and that different people have different needs. The people in this thread are just questioning where these boundries lie. There is a difference between defined gender roles and disenfranchisement.Where I got the social Darwinism impression is you talking about "true equality". Almost every single culture in the world has been heavily influenced by European social values. All the conquering had a major impact on the direction cultures developed. What you wrote made in sound like all the inequalities that exist in the world are the natural progression of things.	Gender	Gender - General	2/100	2.0

Surprisingly BlankNo someone was definitely trying to convince me men and women were biologically the same. I called him or her delusional, sure you won't mind."Almost every single culture in the world has been heavily influenced by European social values."That's not a real argument against a male dominated society emerging naturally. This type of society has emerged across the globe even before this was the case. When Alexander the Great ventured all the way to India this is what he found. There weren't even trade routes back then.In every society that's one step up from tribal women get pushed into strict gender roles and stripped of power and influence. It's only recently (20th century) we've become liberated enough by technology to change this. This change is artificial though and it relies on selective equality rather than total equality."What you wrote made in sound like all the inequalities that exist in the world are the natural progression of things."Depends on your definition of natural. In hunter/gatherer tribes you might find women taking non-conventional (by our old fashioned standard) roles. You'd be hard-pressed to find an example of a culture more advanced where women have positions of power and leadership for example.Natural in a sense that "this is what happens when you don't actively include and protect minorities and physically weaker groups in society"? Then yes.Genocide, slavery and oppression occur naturally in that sense and has little to do with European values or influence. The Inca's butchered half of South America's other tribes before a single European even set foot on that continent. If anything it's control mechanisms like religion that lead to these things, and religion happens everywhere unfortunately.	Gender, Old	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/286	0.699
Unisex bathrooms should actually exist.And no one on this particular comment thread was trying to convince you that men and women were biologically identical in all aspects, so it's fairly pointless to bring it up here. In any event, I'm not sure what your point is. If you believe there should be gender discriminatory dress codes, you're wrong. Perhaps you don't think that, but just like being contrary and indulging tangents about genocide while completely losing sight of any real position on anything.	Gender	Gender - General	1/84	1.19

”It is also important to know that any strength and endurance advantages a transgender woman arguably may have as a result of her prior testosterone levels dissipate after about one year of estrogen or testosterone-suppression therapy. According to medical experts on this issue, the assumption that a transgender woman competing on a women’s team would have a competitive advantage outside the range of performance and competitive advantage or disadvantage that already exists among female athletes is not supported by evidence.”Source: [LINK] The world is not as black and white as you think it is. One hundred years ago your sister would have had the brains and the talent to pursue a degree. The main difference between now and then is encouragement.The Cold War and encouragement of their respective governments increased the number of people studying sciences. People were being told you can do this. We are going to help and support you in this.The decades of feminists before me have created a similar encouraging environment. Thanks to that I am studying biochemistry and thinking of going into veterinary pharmacology. I am the sort of person who likes to please others and I know without the support of those around me I would not have taken the path I have. Thinking about that makes me a little sad.That sort of belief does not need technology to exist. The main difference was a greater middle class (from increases in technology) had the time and resources to protest these ideas.	Black, Transgender, Woman	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Transexuality	5/251	1.992
Brando CalrissianThis was brought up in a regional subreddit of my country and none of the women agreed they would feel comfortable sharing bathrooms with men. They all would feel awkward about it for various reasons. Some had to do with peeing or pooping in the presence of men, others with menstruation or they regarded going to the bathroom with other women as something intimate.The men didn’t seem to mind the idea though.Same would be true for dressing rooms and showers for me. 14 year old me would’ve given his left nut to see every girl in his year in school naked on a regular basis. So much material for the spank-bank, searching for porn wouldn’t even have occurred to me. I’m fairly sure none of the girls would feel the same way ;)No I don’t think there should be discriminatory dress codes, I just feel that if men perform better in school with a stricter dress code that should be taken into account. It’s been proven boys do better in boys-only schools so it’s certainly something that should be taken into consideration.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/187	0.535

Brando CalrissianAnd that was you btw. You called it:"biological gender mental differences you personally believe to be true."	Gender, Mental	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/20	10.0
Nothing contained in that quote says there are no differences between the sexes. It says you believe there are particular differences that don't actually exist.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/25	4.0
Arctor kovich Specifically, you believe mental differences between the sexes are proven and relevant enough to influence policies. That underlying unproven assumption that you simply believe because stereotypes exist is where the argument ends, because your assumptions are faulty. So either construct a new argument that doesn't rely on those assumptions or provide compelling evidence for your assumptions. You've done neither. None of this is new ground. None of this is ad hominem. I'm only terse with you because your assumptions prevent further discussion.	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/84	1.19
Brando CalrissianI thought by " mental differences" you meant "differences only existing in your mind". It seems you are trying to use it in a psychological sense?You are making the assumption that I'm making assumptions based on stereotypes. This isn't the case. Differences between genders both biologically and psychologically have been thoroughly researched and documented. [LINK] [LINK] [LINK] Please note that I've also provided a source in previous comments to cement this argument, which you've chosen to ignore for your own convenience.	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/83	1.205
Brando CalrissianOh and I still wouldn't consider your reply specific or concrete."Specifically, you believe mental differences between the sexes are proven and relevant enough to influence policies."Vague shit like " mental differences" isn't specific at all saying the word 'specifically' doesn't change that.Which mental differences specifically do you object to on my part and consider unfounded assumptions? Please be specific. You can quote me, that might help.	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/70	4.286
I think I'm going to send this video to my old school principle	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/13	7.692
When we had swimming in 8th grade, they separated boys and girls. First the girls had the pool and then the buss came, dropping the boys of, and the girls tok that buss back while the boys had swimming. I think the only reason they did this was because the whole class couldn't bee in the pool all at once though. Were I live there's no dress code so u can basically walk around naked, but of course nobody does that	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/81	1.235

Back in high school my gym teacher specifically held back all of the girls in the class (making us late for the next period!) to tell us that every single one of us was disgusting for dressing in a provocative manner. Almost every single girl was wearing plain white t-shirts and navy or black full length jogging trousers as per the dress code - even though shorts were allowed.	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/69	1.449
During my gym class we are not allowed to wear spandex or short shorts its really dumb .	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/17	5.882
Emma Sol Let's hope it was because of the small pool, or out of sympathy for awkward adolescents who would be like "NO WAY am I swimming on front of the opposite sex with only THIS on" instead of assuming all these nasty sexual things like they are now.	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	2/49	4.082
Joseph Pestorius So you see how unbalanced this is. A girl can go into practically any clothing store anywhere and get a outfit that is considered sexually revealing. A guy has to go to the female clothing section of a store or wear clothes a size too small to be sexually revealing. There are companies that benefit by encouraging women to buy revealing clothes but there is not the same thing for guys. Girls are told, use your body to attract guys. Self-objectification -> Companies make money off it. It's easy for either gender to be a slob, it's much harder for men to be dressed in a way that is considered sexually unprofessional. Ex. I googled "sexy teacher" and found a picture of a woman wearing a white button-up, a black jacket, and a mid-thigh black skirt in the Captain Morgan pose. If the skirt were one or three inches longer, perfect work outfit. The other outfits had a higher skirt or lower cut top. I could get similar outfits at most clothes stores. Then I googled "sexy male teacher". Most unprofessional outfits involved the guy being shirtless. One guy was in a muscle shirt. An inch of fabric can make the difference between something considered work appropriate vs too revealing for a women. A guy has to be half out of his clothes to get the same effect. This creates a hyper vigilance about what women wear. See "Rosea Lake Skirt Lengths" for an illustration of this. People also can't make up their minds about what is the limits of workplace appropriate. See "Poll: How short is too short for a skirt?" This is what this video is partially about and why some women are protesting.	Black, Gender, Woman	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	4/287	1.394

mythousandfaces in most student handbooks, anything sexist, racist , homophobic , or deemed inappropriate can be banned from school. this includes shirts with sexist phrases. It's not taking anyone's free speech from them.	Homophobic, Racist	Ethnicity - General, Sexual Identity - General	2/31	6.452
mythousandfaces There are some things that you just aren't allowed to wear in certain settings, like school or work. I am not gonna explain that to you, it's common sense.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/30	3.333
mythousandfaces Okay, but in this culture, wearing a sexist shirt to school gets you sent home. You're attempting to be overly deep and thoughtful and it's making you look ridiculous. Having a girl sent home for wearing a tank top in a sweltering hot school without air conditioning (which is absolute murder considering my school is the same way) yet allowing a boy to walk around wearing a shirt that demeans and belittle's a woman's worth to nothing more than a kitchen servant is unacceptable, Period. There is literally no other way to look at it.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/96	1.042
mythousandfaces It doesn't matter. That's like walking into a school with a swashtica on your shirt. Walk up to a Jewish person with that on and see how they react. Sure, you can say it violates free speech, but the constitution puts limits on the free speech. And minors do not get full rights. I personally see it as wrong, but it's fair. How would you feel about a 7 year old with a pistol? Yeah, can see where not full rights come from, can't you?	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/86	1.163
Kabobawsome The constitution puts exactly 3 limits on free speech (at least as interpreted by the supreme court).1: Inciting panic (no yelling fire in a crowded theater)2: Inciting violence (threats, calls to violence against people)3: Dishonest commercial speech.There's no right to be protected from offensive speech. Whoever taught you civics did a poor job.And your statement on the swastika? What if a Hindu came in wearing a swastika or manji on their neck? Should they be barred from wearing their millenia old religious symbol because some idiotic Germans did something horrible under that symbol?	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/99	1.01

When I was in 7th grade, there was a trend for boys to wear "wife beaters" (somewhat see-thru white tank tops) and have their baggy jeans sag a bit to show the top two inches or so of their boxers. I was wearing baggy pants and a comfortable dark blue tank top which did not reveal any cleavage, nor were my pants revealing any underwear. The supervisor of the cafeteria made a beeline for my table and told me I had to go change into my gym clothes because my attire was "inappropriate". I asked her why. She said because my bra straps were showing. I responded, "What if I take off my bra? Then the straps won't be showing." Her face visibly reddened and she muttered, "It shows too much skin." I pointed to one of the above mentioned boys, standing in the center of the room, red boxers and shoulders for everyone to see. "Are you going to yell at him, too?" I asked. She responded, "That's it, young lady! To the principal's office!" She dragged me by the arm to the office. Now, I was a well-behaved nerdy student. The vice principal seemed a bit surprised to see me there. "What seems to be the problem?" he asked. The lady informed him that I was inappropriately dressed and refusing to change. I shrugged and said, "It's really hot and we don't have AC on the third floor, where my homeroom is located. The guys wear tank tops, too, so I didn't realize it was against the rules." He looked at the lady then looked at me and said, "I don't see a problem with what you're wearing. Go back and finish your lunch. Class is starting soon." The supervisor glared at me in the cafeteria every day but never spoke to me after that. I kind of wonder what the vice principal said to her after I left.	Red	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Native-American	2/321	0.623
just so you know most people who make sexist, racist ,xenophobic etc jokes don't actually mean what they say they just like edgy humor.	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/24	4.167
mythousandfaces Also known as sexual assault, yes. Btw, if girls showing their shoulders is "unprofessional" or "inappropriate", then deliberately offensive and sexist "comedy" most certainly is.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/26	3.846
Martha Gerdes You're comparing two very different situations.One is an 'offensive' shirt worn by a maleThe other is a violation of explicit dress code by a femaleWere the genders reversed, nothing would change in this situation. Hence, it is fair.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/43	2.326
mythousandfaces I'm sorry, so a shirt that says "cool story babe, now make me a sandwich" is actually condemning the misogyny that statement demonstrates? Wow. Just wow. You are stupider than I thought.	Make me a sandwich, Misogyny	Gender - Female intelligence, Gender - General	2/33	6.061

Martha Gerdes Nothing is offensive. You find it offensive, that's all. I know someone who finds bananas offensive, does that means bananas themselves are offensive?No. Just grow a thicker skin and learn to deal with a world that's not going to prance around your feels.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/46	2.174
mythousandfaces Okay then. Girl will deal with misogynist T-shirts when school administrators deal with their bare shoulders and yoga pants. There will be no rules. Nothing will be banned, because whenever a teacher tries to enforce a rule, the student can come back with "well, you just find that wrong." Is this what you're advocating?	Misogynist, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/55	3.636
mythousandfaces I'm sorry, how exactly am I being "dishonest"? You're saying that misogynist T-shirts can't be banned because " nothing is offensive." By the same reasoning, girls can't be asked to cover their shoulders or not wear yoga pants, because " nothing is offensive" and their bodies are not offensive.	Misogynist, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/48	6.25
Martha Gerdes You're being dishonest because nobody has claimed that a girl's body is offensive.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/15	6.667
mythousandfaces It should. I don't have a problem with the existence of a dress code. It just needs to apply equally to both genders. Notice the title of Laci's video: "Dress Code Sexism ." Not "Dress Codes Are Inherently Sexist." The point of her video is that dress codes need to be reformed to be truly egalitarian.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/56	1.786
Martha Gerdes Which hasn't been demonstrated. It's just Laci whining about a fantasy narrative she's constructed. The same narrative that says a woman is more likely to be raped on a college campus than in a wartorn area of Africa where rape is weaponized.Or the same narrative that falsely claims women are paid less for the same work.	Woman	Gender - General	1/59	1.695
mythousandfaces Um, I think it has. Did you even watch the video? Also, no reasonable person claims that a woman is more likely to raped on a college campus than in a war zone. That's bullcrap. Women are actually often paid less for the same work, though.	Woman	Gender - General	1/47	2.128
Martha Gerdes You know I was talking about the general reality. It's illegal to pay people differently based on gender in the western world.	Gender	Gender - General	1/24	4.167
Martha Gerdes So your evidence is that you believe women are being discriminated against?There's a really easy way to explain the earnings gap. Women:Work less hoursEnter fields with lower payTake benefits over monetary compensation more oftenTake more time off from work for familyIf you take the numbers by age group, the 18-30 group has women outearning men. I don't see any complaints about that.	Age	Age - General	1/70	1.429

mythousandfaces Yeah, well I don't take you at your word either. Lawl.Both dress code sexism and unequal pay for women are examples of discrimination against women. So I'm not "jumping around." The two problem are connected in a significant way."Dishonest" - if I'm such a liar, why are you even talking to me? XD	Sexism	Gender - General	1/56	1.786
mythousandfaces Shut up. WOMEN IS ARPRESSED BY MEHN PIGS ! The hermaphrodite Martha Gerdes Won't give you evidence, because there is none.	PIGS	Nationality - Southern European	1/21	4.762
Martha Gerdes There's nothing wrong with that, I just remember her from back then and she didn't handle disagreement in the best way.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/23	4.348
I'd get mad at being called a tramp and report him to the school board for making sexist comments to me over a tank top. just because I'm an aggressive person when it comes down to sexism and racism . equality supporter. should of told the guy in that shirt that its cool that hes proud of being a virgin forever.	Racism, Sexism, Tramp	Ethnicity - General, Gender - Female sexuality, Gender - General	3/60	5.0
omg nothing like dramatizing .....	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/5	20.0
Hi laci my school has roles that say we're NOT alowed to we're tank tops and the high school were my mom wants me to go to say that on dress down days u can only wear sweat paints and shirts I also don't like my body and people think I look fat but the person who hates it the most is me I call myself fat ugly tubalard and mean things like that but I do it beacuse it shows people that I don't care what they think Right ??	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/91	2.198
Please don't be ashamed of your body, Carolyn, if you have a bit of fat , so what? If you want to be thinner, you can work on it, but please, please, do not starve or harm yourself, you are only human, and I think every healthy body type is beautiful, everyone has at least some beauty. If people say you look fat , ignore them, I know it is hard to ignore the ones who will hate, but it will wear down, as long as you stay strong.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	2/87	2.299
Carolyn Wolf No problem, hun x	Hun	Nationality - German	1/6	16.667
Who decides I feal like it's the old ppl judging the new generation	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/13	7.692

So you don't need to worry about it. Remarkably, most women and girls don't show up at funerals naked. Amazing! Because they seem to understand extreme inappropriateness in dress. Esp. with the constant body shaming that ppl who stare at the crotches always do.. But no matter what we dress in, there will ALWAYS be someone who disapproves or thinks we are too revealing. Would a sack make you happy? It is what some folks want us to wear... So how about you just keep your comments, and your eyes, on your own paper. We have enough problems without your fashion sense as our Guide in the World...	Body Shaming	Physical Identity - General	1/108	0.926
Men aren't called sluts and do not suffer the same social stigma for their garb or sexual habits, misogynist ahole. Did you even watch the video through? Did you SEE what clothes women and girls are being told are inappropriate? The men do not have the same corresponding rules at all.And what exactly do women have to do to make sure you don't think they are sluts? And why should we care? You know those 'rules' change depending on who is going out of their way to share their viewpoint about our bodies, lives, clothes, and morality with us, right? YOU, personally, are the reason she made this video. Stop judging women their clothes, their bodies, and their assumed sexuality. Keep your morality to yourself. Dickweed.	Misogynist, Sexual	Gender - General	2/127	1.575
Trey Capnerhurst guys have really nothing in appropriate to where other that muscle shirts... so its a non insure for instance guys get to pick shorts or pants then long sleeve t shirt then hoodie no hoodie thats really all a high school kids options.but then again you work for the green party so your opinion is invalid. you stupid hippie. school is preparation for the real world and i can tell you if any of my secretaries came to work looking like those girls they would be fired before they got i the door simple as that.clothes are the first thing people get judged bye. trust me you show up to an interview whirring dirty clothes id laugh at you and kick your ass out the door . people can tell what they need to know about you buy how you dress for instance i see a girl dressed in a professional mater people think wow she's professional. you see somebody with half there ass hanging out people think "wow i wonder how many dudes that dirty hoe has fucked"	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/183	0.546
Yeah, it's a total co-incidence that men don't have (hypersexulaized) clothing, but that women somehow have so much that you, personally, can judge them for. Hmmm... I wonder how that worked out. Oh, wait. Sexism . Kinda the point of the piece, really...	Sexism	Gender - General	1/42	2.381
Well yeah that's just common sense	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/6	16.667

halfmonochromy That's a good chunk of mra and mgtow really. Guys who base all of women kind on the exs that broke their hearts, or the divorced men who lost it all in the divorce. My ex fucked her cousin behind my back. Not my cousin, hers. And you don't see me calling all women incestuous whores because I am not a brat blaming everyone on my poor decision.	Brat	Age - Youngsters	1/69	1.449
Oh how i have missed your empowering videos about sexism !	Sexism	Gender - General	1/10	10.0
shrugs go on and twist my words, you've clearly never been oggled by a teacher before so you have no room to tell me that my experience and that other females experiences are incorrect. Keep your world view if you'd like but there is nothing wrong with having an open mind and understanding that maybe some men are staring at the under age girls and some girls especially ones in say kindergarten, should not have to worry that their skort is too short because they are children and they are not objects to be sexualized because someone thinks their shorts or skirt is too short as an adult. Also what is too short is extremely objective, some very religious people think showing any skin at all is wrong but you don't have to live by that standard in your own life so why are we forcing young girls to see their bodies as sexual objects that need to be covered up when it might be 100 degrees outside and they just want to wear a pair of shorts.	Age, Nothing, Sexual	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/178	1.685
julia mahoney Stop, before you fully go off the reservation. This is one of the problems I have with feminist, their belief that girls are naive and innocent. You telling me a 15 year old girl wearing short shorts and high-heels isn't fully aware that she's sexualizing herself? You think girls need faculty input in order for them to see their bodies as sex objects?That's like suggesting boys don't know that showing off muscles attracts girls until teachers tell us not to wear sleeveless shirts.	Old, Sex	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	2/86	2.326
Bianca Aguirre How dare a person have both a penis and a responsibility to enforce dress codes!You know what the most common dress code violation issue was in my day? Baggy pants/shorts. A female assistant principle was the one primarily responsible for handling and reporting the matters. I gave zero fucks.	Common, Zero	Age - Youngsters, Social Class - Working class	2/52	3.846

EisforEvil Okay, first of all, you're wrong. Now let me explain why:1) I've never read a story about boys being told not to wear sleeveless shirts. Seriously? I'm not saying it's never happened, but it's not exactly commonly reported. I've seen boys wearing shirts that were completely inappropriate, shirts with swears, shirts with graphic pictures, shirts with slurs, but they never get in trouble, and yet a girl wearing a short sleeve shirt does, because what? She has a shoulder? Most girls have shoulders, get over it.2) Feminism is not about the belief that women are innocent. Girls can be whatever the hell they fucking want to be, but still reserve the right to consider themselves human. That's what feminism is, it's the belief that all genders should be treated equally.3) You're saying a body, which is something everyone on this planet is born with, is sexual, purely because it's a females. When it's ninety degrees outside, I want to wear shorts, end of story. I don't want to wear long jeans that are going to make me too warm and feel really ill and shitty all day. I want to dress appropriately for the weather that I'm facing. Just because I'm wearing shorts does not mean I want men to look at me. Maybe I just think they're cute and they make me confident. Maybe I do want boys to look at me, whatever the reason I'm wearing shorts, it doesn't matter. I should be able to wear my shorts without having to worry that some man thirty years older than me is going to tell me to change because I look like a slut. When a man that much older than me says that, I should be going to the fucking police to report a fucking crime, but no, it's something that's "normal" that I should just accept. Fuck that. 4) Girls largely do not find muscle shirts attractive. I can guarantee you that many people I know would never ever be distracted by that because of many reasons, myself included, because I am gay, but being a person who is attracted to girls, I've never found myself ogling another girls shoulders in the middle of class because I'm not a fucking moron. 5) Regulations on girls clothing are much stricter, and there's many more, but why? Breasts are not sexual organs, so why are we always told to cover them up? Breasts are for feeding babies, not for men to be cumming in their pants during fourth period math class. My thighs are not sexual organs. My thighs are my thighs. That is all that they are. Why do you think they're sexual? They're thighs. Shoulders are fucking shoulders. If you find yourself getting a boner by looking at my shoulder, then you should be seeing a doctor, not telling me to change when it's YOUR PROBLEM. Men have almost no regulation on their clothing, though, and why is that? Girls can be just as sexual as any boy, or less, and that doesn't matter, but the point is that we're not failing our Spanish exams because we got distracted by a dudes shoulder.6) Girls don't sexualize men to the same extent, because we're demonized if we ever express any sexual interest before we're married. I'm not going to go on, or reply to you if you disagree with me, because unfortunately, after reading what you wrote, I have lost all my faith in humanity and I need to scream into a pillow for a few hours.	Gay, Sexual	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	8/594	1.347
---	-------------	---	-------	-------

Stumplovur most sexual assaults are on girls who are revealing a lot of skin that's why their suppose to cover up.You don't see men raping women who are covers head to toe like nuns do you??? Men go after the attractive women who are revealing not the other women who are covered. It just prevents any sexual harassment in the future	Sexual	Gender - General	2/61	3.279
Stumplovur "The advocacy of women's rights on the ground of the equality of the sexes."-Oxford English dictionaryWe can toss dictionary definitions around, but I don't see most feminists advocating for rights for men. In fact, many seem to feel like the only thing they need to fight for men is to allow them to express traditionally feminine traits.A lot of modern feminism fights against anything traditionally masculine, like competitiveness....unless it's expressed by a woman .	Woman	Gender - General	1/77	1.299
mythousandfaces Thanks, there's no way I was going to respond to that straw filled nonsense."Breast are not sexual organs" Don't tell me that, go tell the thousands of women who make a living off of their boobs that they should put them away and save them until they have babies lol. This goes back to what I was saying regarding feminist acting like women are naive when it comes to their bodies.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/73	1.37
feminism is pure sexism	Sexism	Gender - General	1/4	25.0
TheTorresFame Actually most assaults on girls is by a person they know, no matter what they're wearing. So stop being so offended by someone calling out sexism .	Sexism	Gender - General	1/27	3.704
Linzepop Are you this uninformed on English etymology?"Man" was a word that simply meant "person" and only received gender connotations recently.Just like "girl" used to mean "any child" and had no gender , while "boy" meant "servant".Learn to history before making stupid points.	Gender	Gender - General	2/45	4.444

Stumplovur 1. Just because you haven't seen a story about about a boy not wearing a sleeveless shirt and sent home doesn't mean that it doesn't happen every day. In fact, many schools would require a dress code and a story like this would not make the news because it happens all the time and is not in the feminist political realm to emerge as news. Believe me, it does happen all around the world and if he did that at many schools in Asia-Pacific region he would be sent home or even physically punished. 2. Feminism is not about being treated equally. Ideally yes. But life is not fair. Men die early and women earn slightly less. Be honest, feminist issues get women mad about an issue, ignore the biological differences between men, women, or trans, and say there are double standards for the sake of it e.g. this video. That's what it is like today: ideology vs practice. Feminist ideology just gets you mad, creates no solutions and has poor lesbian girls like you screaming into pillows. 3. In 90 degrees please wear shorts. But boys and men will be looking at you if you are in a public sphere. This is human nature. We are born to scope out potential sexual mates. But, by creating an imaginary slut shaming patriarchal boogey man doesn't help you. If on the other hand you are being harassed then please report it. This is not a feminist issue, but a crime and should be reported.4. We are glad to hear you are gay, good for you to be out and proud, but the issue isn't if lesbian girls or heterosexual or asexual girls find sleeveless shirts attractive. The issue is whether wearing skin tight shorts is the same as sleeveless shirts? Again this shows a strange comparison. The feminist agenda creates these painfully unequal corollaries leaving you feeling unfairly treated. If you only let go and just wear comfortable clothes the problem goes away.5. Men do have regulation. In a way most guys regulate themselves e.g. clubs, sports, culture, conservative fashion for men. We are not as free to wear leggings, tight short-shorts, low plunging shirts, and high heels. Actually, these used to be men's fashion, but then women took it and sexualised them to the point (there are pornography surrounding these clothes) so men could never wear them again. 6. You should lose your faith in humanity. Men do sexualise women more because of evolution and a biological imperative. Even at our worst nature is more cruel: barbed penises etc. In nature many mammals have bizarre sexual practices for the sake of mating. Even as a lesbian you are still a woman, bound by the sexuality of your body and the bizarre cruelty of nature. I say watch a nature documentary or travel the world to see how truly cruel the world can be to females of animal species and sadly to women around the world who have it far worse. Hope you feel better fellow Fallout Boy fan :D	Gay, Lesbian, Sexual, Woman	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	8/512	1.562
--	-----------------------------	---	-------	-------

TheTorresFame    Actually want to know what a rapist looks for when choosing a victim. This was interviewed from actual rapists by the way.1. Long hair preferably in a pony tail so they can grab onto it and easily wrestle the victim to the ground.2. clothing that allows easy access to the skin, this can be a skirt, it can even be pants so long as the fly is uncomplicated or if its an elastic waistband.3. No conceivable weapon. which can be an umbrella, a cane, or even a rolled up and folded magazine. The rapist is looking for as little of a fight as possible. Stiletto heels could also do quite a bit of damage should the victim get their feet between them and their rapist. Running shoes and sneakers are less likely to cause damage, easier to run in but the rapist is relying on an ambush tactic getting in close to their victim before attacking. A purse can also be a deterrent cause they don't know what you might have in there.4. a place to corner their victim where they won't be heard. This can be a stairwell, a parking garage. ect.5. Lack of outside contact. If the victim makes prolonged eye contact with their rapist before the act the rapist may be less likely to attack due to the fact that you could pick them out of a line up. They are however more likely to attack if you are wearing headphones.Bottom line a rapist does have certain things they look for but its more about how easily they can get access to what they want and how little they might be hurt in the process. A rape victim can just as easily be a woman in a mini skirt, as a woman out on a morning jog, or a skinny young man in basketball shorts. A rapist isn't look for one particular state of dress they are looking for the one who will give them the least amount of trouble.	Skinny, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/340	0.882
EisforEvil    You do realize that men can get sexual pleasure from nipples too right? Like, if my boobs are sexualized when their sole purpose is for feeding the young, then yours should be sexualized too. In fact, men have MORE nerve endings in the nipple than women do, so if that's an indicator as to what should be covered up than I think we've found our answer. The reason there's such a deviance in men who enjoy nipple play and men who don't is because of how many nerve endings the nipples have. Similar to the clitoris, there's a lot of nerve endings all centered on that one point which creates sensitivity that some biological males like, and some don't.If my breasts are sexual organs for receiving sexual arousal, then yours are too! So, I guess you're right, my nipples are sexual organs, but unfortunately, so are yours, even more so, biologically speaking.	Sexual	Gender - General	4/154	2.597
uh...    gender roles much? women can be pedophiles too	Gender	Gender - General	1/9	11.111

these dumb bitches need a good dickin down, scientifically proven when women are acting bitchy they need semen in their belly.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/21	4.762
SVCKMY DICK No what's even worse is victim-blaming. And who are you to talk about arguments when your only argument is that we are "dykes" well I'm not gay , and I'm also very feminine so that stereotype would not fit me but you know what? That word does not offend me one bit, it's fucking beautiful.	Gay	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/56	3.571

Linzepop	Ok, one last response to your dumb .”Dude you and the other ignorant people here are only proving why feminism is needed.”This old cliché?”When a guy gets offended because of a word has FEM in it you really need to stop and think how sexism affects women and men.”I saw no offense, merely a troll being a troll and you falling for the bait and then you overreacting to my highlighting of your ignorance.”It affects women to the point where they are too afraid to go out at night,”Even though men are more likely to be victims of violence.”they are told boys education is more important than their own (the dress code situation where girls get thrown out of school because of shorts),”Yet boys are subject to the majority of academic discipline, have a higher dropout rate, and females outnumber males in every level of education in the western world.You’d have some sort of point if women weren’t making up larger and larger majorities of graduates at every educational level.”are afraid to go to parties, bars.”This fear has little to do with sexism but more to do with perceived levels of threat. If a woman goes to a bar and I go to that same bar, I run a far higher risk of something horrible happening.” In some countries women cannot drive, go out on their own, work, vote.”We’re not talking about those countries. But keep exploiting the suffering of those people to complain about dress codes.”And in too many cases a woman get less salary for THE SAME JOB.”This is an outright lie in the west. It’s illegal to pay people less money for the same job. Were this actually the case, businesses would hire women left and right because they’d save so much money.”And some random guy DARE to complain about a word?”I can appeal to emotions too.Every days thousands of boys in the west have their genitals mutilated. Some of them get severe infections, some even are cursed with a lifetime of sterility or erectile dysfunction.Boys outnumber girls in suicides, men outnumber women even more.Men work themselves to early graves, die working dangerous jobs, and die fighting wars.More and more boys are dropping out of school before graduating because of a growing attitude against natural male instincts. College campuses are becoming more and more female and even more hostile towards men through witch hunts whenever a single accusation of sexual assault comes forward.And you’re complaining about a girl being sent home for a tshirt?	Dumb, Old, Sexism, Sexual, Witch, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - Female age and physical appearance, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	8/439	1.822
----------	--	---	--	-------	-------

Thindorama So unless I'm turned on by boobs I can't comment on the sexualization of boobs... fair enough. "unless you're turned on by boobs you dont know what it means to be turned on by boobs" you make a good point, however, did you read the part where I said I was a lesbian or did you just conveniently skip over that? I'm a lesbian . I'm gay . I like GIRLS. Girls. That's who I like. I'M A GIRL WHO WANTS TO FUCK OTHER GIRLS AND I THINK TITS ARE HOT BECAUSE I'M FUCKING GAY YOU FUCKING DUMBASS. I understand that boobs are nice, I love boobs, boobs are great, I've jerked off to boobs too man, high five for liking boobs, there's nothing wrong with that.But to say that my boobs, which, as I've stated previously in my argument, have fewer nerve endings than the male nipple, I don't see why it is that my nipples are sexualized but yours aren't? I get it, boobs are sexy, but the classification as a sexual organ or not does not make them a valid excuse for over-regulating my body and not doing the same to male body.Jesus fucking Christ, it's not that hard a concept to grasp. I don't view boobs as sexual organs, while I also accept that others do, and I accept that people, including myself, can be turned on by a boob, but to say that my boobs warrant being shielded and hidden, essentially treated like they're big secrets, is not okay.	Gay, Lesbian, Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	9/255	3.529
mythousandfaces I'm not saying those problems don't exist for boys but if you seriously deny that sexism is a SERIOUS problem for women (and men but not to the same extent) than you are seriously ignorant. But this video is about dress-codes WHICH ARE VERY SEXIST, and obviously not needed. I live in Sweden, the 5th most equal country in the world and I get "targeted" for sexism EVERYDAY. And my brother, male-friends and relatives do not see sexism everyday.And also, yes men experience more violence BY MEN. So men do need to change as a group and not women. It's a men's issue.Look up Ted Talks by Jason Katz "Violence against women, it's a men's issue" PLEASE, GET EDUCATED ABOUT THE SUBJECT.	Sexism	Gender - General	3/125	2.4
mythousandfaces As a woman and feminist, those people who argued with you are total fucking morons. Of course men can be raped, Jesus H Christ.	Woman	Gender - General	1/25	4.0
Linzepop About nipples, you're totally right dude. And you know what's more. MEN HAVE MORE NERVE ENDINGS IN THEIR NIPPLES!!!! Like they sexualize our nipples but they receive MORE pleasure from them than we do and then they call ours sexual ? What a double standard.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/45	2.222

Thindorama Breasts are for the purpose of feeding babies, not the purpose of men to jerk off to. Not sure how you equate exposing a body part to performing a sexual act, but then apparently men are just animals who can't control themselves so what do I know.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/48	2.083
Linzepop ...so you're ignoring me showing you how wrong you are?Are you aware that all studies have shown that women have a higher tendency to see an action as offensive than a man? This could be why you're more likely to perceive sexism . Confirmation bias is a hell of a drug.Are you aware that intimate partner violence is split 50/50 in terms of perpetrators? Women are equally likely to perpetuate it and there's a serious problem of domestic violence in lesbian relationships.And that Tedx talk is a piece of shit. Seriously.	Lesbian, Sexism	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	2/94	2.128
Linzepop Ok. 1 in 4 women are in the emergency room for domestic violence? Prove it.Women weren't oppressed for centuries, they had different roles. Men's lot in life wasn't exactly peachy during that period. Sure, they had greater freedom but they also had far harsher lives. I'm not saying women didn't have a rough time, I'm saying everyone had a rough time.Men experience sexism every day too, we just don't note it or talk about it as much. Why? Probably because of neurological factors.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/86	1.163
Thindorama So are racist jokes, but that doesn't make them okay. Having the right to an opinion does not make your opinion any less sexist. But Jesus fucking Christ man, stop using the internet and go chop some fucking wood!	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/40	2.5
Thindorama Yeah America have the greatest laws. Sexist, racist , homophobic jokes are not "fine" here in Sweden, which is a country based on human rights, equality and well-fare. And the U,S is based on guns and class-differences. So I think we all know those jokes are not okay.I honestly didn't know you were THAT stupid that you can't put things between two slices of bread. Are you actually an animal? Like a sheep with a small brain or maybe even a jelly-fish cause they have no brains at all.And why would you compare North Korea to Norway?	Homophobic, Racist	Ethnicity - General, Sexual Identity - General	2/99	2.02
Thindorama I'm sorry, but I still fail to see how it would be okay for a man to jerk off in public just because a woman has breasts exposed. She isn't doing anything sexual with them, they're just there.Sure, if she was touching them sexually in public and that was somehow acceptable in society, then a man should also have the right to touch himself sexually in public. But her having them exposed is not inherently sexual . That you only see breasts as sexual objects that justify sex acts if exposed in any context is quite depressing.	Sex, Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	5/98	5.102

English3Muffin exposing them is sexual and i would know better than you as a man who likes women i guess, in fact id argue jerking off is less sexual in the same respect owing to the fact that they're not as universally a turn on as boobs are	Sexual	Gender - General	2/48	4.167
Thindorama As a man, you would know better than a woman exposing herself, that her intent is sexual ? You would automatically know that she is intending to be sexual , just because you happen to get off on sacs of fat meant to give babies sustenance?Men are allowed to be shirtless in public when it's hot. There is nothing sexual about it. If a woman was able to have that right, it would automatically be sexual just because she has breasts? What about women who want to breastfeed their babies in public? Are they being sexual feeding their child?There is a stark difference in exposing a body part and touching a sexual organ to orgasm. One can be sexual , the other one absolutely without a doubt is sexual . And if you honestly see an exposed breast without any context as more sexual than someone performing a sexual act, then you seriously need to readjust your beliefs because you are entirely wrong.	Fat, Nothing, Sexual, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	14/162	8.642
EisforEvil of course they are sexualized and women can make money showing them off because men have sexualized them. Some women do what they have to get by. And they don't see anything wrong with it because it is so ingrained in western culture and because they don't see anything shameful in doing so. And men don't ever have anything to say about it being wrong unless they are super religious or trying to defend why men see them as objects or can't help themselves from raping them because if they didn't see the bare flesh they wouldn't get raped. Because men sexualized them because women are sexual objects or just plain objects and have been for millennia.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/118	0.847
Right, because noticing that someone's cleavage, stomach, or butt is showing means that you're a pedophile. Seems like men are being punished for having functioning eye balls.Also, that's a pretty clear case of heteronormativity there. Whats to say that a female teacher who notices those things isn't a homosexual pedophile interested in young girls? Strange, it was my understanding that the feminist community was typically against heteronormativity.	Homosexual	Sexual Identity - General	1/68	1.471
English3Muffin"That you only see breasts as sexual objects that justify sex acts if exposed in any context is quite depressing."Indicative of a very deep problem.	Sex, Sexual	Gender - General	2/27	7.407
English3MuffinYou can stop feeding the troll now.He has the mindset that a woman is a sexual object, so any parts showing is sexual .What the woman thinks has absolutely no bearing on what he thinks.	Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	4/37	10.811

That's just dumb . If a girl walks in nude then he could look all he wanted and just tell people he never looked. If anything, it sounds like it was set up for perverts.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/34	2.941
Hecatedevotee2009 just because someone gets turned on by someone doesn't mean they're objectifying them.and no men didn't sexualize breasts, evolution did.There's nothing wrong with someone using their body for money; everyone does that in one way or another, no someone won't get raped because they turn oh somebody, you make it sound like all men are rapists	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/57	1.754
badlydrawnkid6 and what's wrong with looking at objects of sexual desire exactly?	Sexual	Gender - General	1/12	8.333
Not as fucked up as the parents buying that clothing for that eight of twelve year old	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/17	5.882
TheTorresFame Statistically rape has nothing to do with sexuality or attracting. People don't rape people because they're showing skin rape is about power. And only fucked up people rape. When someone is raped it's on the rapist for being a bad person not on the victim for how they were dressed or any other reason.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/55	1.818
Everist Mister Alright, I did some research.I fell for another feminist myth, like women get paid less. The idea that rape is about power was started by a feminists, and historians, psychologists, etc Say it's about sex .	Sex	Gender - General	1/37	2.703
Everist Mister And this is your general rule to apply what one girl likes to every girl in the world. Also that kiss thing you say makes women think your a ball-less loser, tried it and I get quite a high success rate but that could also be chalked up to the fact that I have a rather good friendship with these women.Also you do realize you are talking to a woman by the way, and of the times people have kissed me without warning or just gave warning and kissed me without the green light my reaction has ALWAYS been EXTREMELY NEGATIVE.Sometimes my reaction is even neutral after giving permission because I have an aversion to being touched. My point here is People are different and its important to respect them as individuals until they tell you not to, Maybe that gets them all hot under the collar. Clearly worked for her.	Woman	Gender - General	1/155	0.645

Everist Mister I don't believe respect is earned off the bat I believe it is given until there is reason for it to be retracted and that has been my experience throughout life.Also considering I don't even let people hug me on a regular bases unless there is a strong trust its all up for debate especially since the one time i did enjoy it I was highly intoxicated, a state i have come to thoroughly despise, and I have yet to enjoy anyone being in my personal space since then. And its not because I'm asexual I experience sexual attraction to people across the board.What I am saying is not everyone enjoys the same thing. Why do you think we have so many brands of food, clothing, fashion, genres of games and movies? Its cause one thing does not apply to the interests of everyone. People are different our likes and interests are not scattered across the board its widely varied and tailored to what the individual enjoys, and this is just as true for physical interactions with other people.A statistic you may find surprising is just as many men enjoy the submissive role as women, its actually more so enjoyed across genders then the dominant role. A heterosexual couple can be just as happy with an Alpha female and a beta male , as one of the reverse, or one that has equal partnership.I bet that anyone, not just women, likes it when the person they want to kiss them does so without asking, it shows the person understands them enough to read their body language accurately.Also what is it with you and the constant reference to fucking?	Beta male, Sexual	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	2/284	0.704
Lol... Weird	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/2	50.0
julia mahoney so a man can't look at a female student without getting sexual urges? Not really, get over yourself.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/20	5.0
Consequence Don't know what this arguement is about I'm not getting involved I'm just saying. Nothing is solid anything can be proved wrong later down the line.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/27	3.704
degen83 Right okay I'm going to say it again. We literally know NOTHING for certain that's including evolution, string theory, gravity even things like pi. We don't know any of it for certain. Every scientific theory could be false we could know NOTHING about our entire universe. We could have got the laws of physics wrong. So yeah not except anything you could be wrong your scientist or whatever could be wrong that's all I was saying stop trying to start arguments with everyone and fuck off, thanks.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	2/88	2.273

Adam Jeffry You are trying to dispute scientific findings with "theory?"Not only that but "Epistemological Skepticism" is a "theory" that challenges the notion that knowledge can exist. Seriously? Pro tip: it doesnt work that way.You didnt say anything can be disproven? Here are your words written above for all to see: " Nothing is solid anything can be proved wrong later down the line"Please backpedal faster	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/67	1.493
Adam JeffryWe know many things. We know for a fact that some women lie about being raped. We know this because we can prove that the men she accuses of rape were not at that place at that time, their DNA was not found on or in her, and there were no signs of rape because she waited weeks to report it, long after any physical evidence is long gone.Using evidence and facts we can develop a pretty accurate picture of what happened in various incidents. When a woman accuses a man of rape, the prosecution must be able to prove that the rape happens and that the accused were the ones who raped her. When a woman says on this day at this time these people raped her, well we can look into the facts in history and if we can prove that at that time at that place those people were not there, and in fact if we can prove that they were at some other place in that exact same time, well then they absolutely did not commit that rape. We know more than you think we do. For example, did you know that when we call something a "theory" in science that means there is a ton of evidence supporting it? That its not something we just pull out of thin air and say "what if this is true"? We actually have evidence supporting the possibility that this is true, and if there is evidence disproving it we adopt the theory to account for that new evidence.Feminists put forth theories, but unlike science when they are confronted with facts proving their theories are wrong, they ignore the facts instead of adopting theories that account for the facts.	Thin, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	3/294	1.02
Everist Misterjust chill nigga , Adam Jeffrey is a troll.	Nigga	Ethnicity - Black	1/10	10.0
Nyx Tyrianthinus because americans raise their kids with the idea that sex is the highest priority	Sex	Gender - General	1/16	6.25
You say that and add "lol?" LOL? Is it funny when people get raped or sexually harassed? Feminism is for girls to be put on an equal level to guys, not to make girls better than guys. Some people are just dumb .	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/42	2.381
Andrea Rews No, actually, it's more like: " Sex ?" hiss	Sex	Gender - General	1/9	11.111

of hemmings Though have you notice who's doing the shaming its not just men but a lot of sex negative feminists as well that reject any notion of a female expressing themselves also I was wearing my regular clothes and my teacher did say it was distracting to the class	Sex	Gender - General	1/50	2.0
firedemon43 "sex negative feminists" aren't feminists. That's the opposite of a feminist. Its men making harassing comments, and yes, some women body shaming . But mostly men harassing women. And maybe they were distracting the class because everyone was wearing their uniform and you were sticking out. Not because of your body.	Body Shaming, Sex	Gender - General, Physical Identity - General	2/51	3.922 theMoporter 1)Why didn't that school have a special assembly for both boys and girls? They could have addressed both those topics. Instead, they singled out the girls.2) Girls get told off for bra straps. That is underwear. When boys get told off for showing underwear it generally comes from classism rather than sexualization. Both are gross, but this channel covers sex .3) Statistics show that hundreds if not thousands of kids are having their education interrupted because of this. Instead of bickering about petty things, let's figure out how to stop this.	Classism, Sex	Gender - General, Social Class - General	2/93	2.151
I saw a chick wear a My Chemical Romance shirt in biology class.Distracting. Ban all of them. Plz Principal.	Chick	Gender - General	1/20	5.0
Why dont you do videos on sexism against guys?	Sexism	Gender - General	1/9	11.111
Oh, she has - but she buys into the idea that sexism against boys is really sexism against girls.	Sexism	Gender - General	2/19	10.526
Maybe because it's much less common ?	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/6	16.667
She has :) She acknowledges that sexism affects both genders (also transfolk), however, it's prevalent towards women.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/17	5.882
She did, and men bitched at her for it. Look up her videos about sexism hurting men and look at all the guys who cried at her for trying to address the issues.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/33	3.03

aaaaaaaaaaaaand another self centered guy that fails to see the whole point of the video. I'm not saying that sexism against guys doesn't occur or is not important. Why can I never watch a video like this without someone commenting about "what about the guys????". Not everything is about you? Hello? Wake up. Seriously how often do you see schools having a dress code that specifically aims towards boys about how to dress 'appropriately' because it's distracting girls? Never. Oh I'm sorry I cant have a low cut neck shirt because YOU can't control yourself. Honestly this fucking nation was about men from the start and whenever women get the spotlight for 5 seconds all the fucking self centered ignorant men cry about, 'US GUYS TOO'.	Nation, Sexism	Gender - General, Nationality - General	2/126	1.587
revoo22 They are not being self centered. If we want fairness among the genders and sexes, then we have to make sure we evaluate both sides. Just because one may have more of something than the other doesn't mean that the side that gets less of it should be ignored. There is nothing wrong with that. I am half and half with Laci Green. I think more needs to be put into these videos. The shouldn't be 5 minutes or so long. Their is so much more that could be talked about. For example: How we define and understand professionalism among the sexes and why certain codes are placed in certain areas either public schools or workplaces. Those are questions we should be asking.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/124	0.806
this is about sexism against guys as well as girls because it's saying that guys have no control over their actions	Sexism	Gender - General	1/21	4.762
revoo22 lol females are even worse, men keep our insecurities to ourselves, but all you hear these days from females are (and not limited to); "why am I so fat ?", "is he cheating on me?", "does this make my butt look big?" You females need to understand to keep your mouth shut just as much as the men do.	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/59	1.695
DudetaketheBus Women. We're women. We refer to animals as males and females. We refer to people as men and women. You can't disrespect us as people and expect us to take you seriously as one.Also, we don't need to keep our mouths shut. There are a great many things that are harming men and women alike, and the only way to achieve any kind of improvement is to speak up about it. Keeping your mouth shut does nothing to create a better place and only serves to bottle up your frustration until it leads to anger, depression, and even physical harm. There's a reason there's such a high rate of suicide in men. It's largely because they're taught that they can't speak up and ask for help or demand change. They're taught to man up and deal with it. So they suffer in silence until they can't take it anymore. What we need to do is cry out over and over and over again until we're able to finally change the world for the better.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/176	0.568

ThatGuy ! Ummmm not true? She has deliberately stated that the problem is society's view of men. Has talked about how women show misogyny towards themselves and each other. She even has a video on how men are affected by sexism . So you're wrong.	Misogyny, Sexism	Gender - General	2/44	4.545
IkShe basically blamed men for sexism towards men	Sexism	Gender - General	1/9	11.111
Sarah Pattison " Patriarchy " implies that every man controls dominance over women, or "a system of society or government in which men hold the power and women are largely excluded from it." However, in a society where men have just as many inequalities as women, how could there be a patriarchy ? If men simply ruled over women, wouldn't men have all the rights women do and have little to no inequalities? That's not how it works. Women aren't getting the short end of the stick- everyone is.	Patriarchy	Gender - General	2/86	2.326
sasracer1 but laci want equality but she never shows sexism against men, so i asked a question and you think you are right going off against someone	Sexism	Gender - General	1/27	3.704
sasracer1 since you are such a diehard fan, link all of the videos talking about sexism against guys then compare that to all the videos on sexism against girls.	Sexism	Gender - General	2/29	6.897
Hawaiianmonkeyz Just because biology made females with uteri and mammary glands doesn't mean that they automatically are solely responsible for nurturing of children. Males, at least from what I've come across in my life, are actually just as great at parenting as females. I think the ones that are sub-par more rely on society's excuse that it's not their job. Maybe what should be pushed is open communication between partners in who will be the primary caregiver. This could be obtained through proper health classes that teach what healthy relationships are and how to communicate with a partner about starting a family. This would put both people on equal ground (no matter gender ) rather than relying on archaic gender roles. :)	Gender	Gender - General	2/121	1.653
Sarah Pattison for the paid less, that was a problem in the past but we are working out of that. if you look at any source, you can see that the gap between men and womens pay is decreasing. yes women are shamed for being promiscuous (which they shouldnt) but men are shamed for hitting back a girl if she strikes him first(i said this to show that both men and women are shamed but for different things) and on abortion, it may be your body, but there is a separate life inside of you and you cant make its decision, its a moral issue	Promiscuous	Gender - Female sexuality	1/104	0.962
Riley Freeman If you think " patriarchy " = "teh evil menz" you need to maybe crack open a book or two. LOL	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/21	4.762

boomerthoreauMaybe it is you who need's to crack open book or two. Men don't "rule" developed countries. Women have as much of an opprotunity to do it as men do, they just choose not to go into such areas. If there was really a " Patriarchy " in said countries, wouldn't men have absolutely no inequalities, i don't know, like the majority of workplace deaths, inmates, homeless, and suicides being of men? What about genital, parental, and legal rights that they don't have that women do? You can't possibly tell me that men would run society over women and simply allow that to happen, because it wouldn't. Strong women don't look for a scapegoat to blame their problems on hun .	Hun, Patriarchy	Gender - General, Nationality - German	2/119	1.681
Zombiestew "If there was really a " Patriarchy " in said countries, wouldn't men have absolutely no inequalities, i don't know, like the majority of workplace deaths, inmates, homeless, and suicides being of men?"You don't know what it means, clearly. No, men do have inequalities as a result of patriarchy . As I stated, stop frothing at the mouth and try some research.	Patriarchy	Gender - General	2/61	3.279
boomerthoreau Maybe I don't recognize your interpretation and victimization because it doesn't exist. Developed countries aren't overruled by men. If a woman wanted to be in the same position she would have all the opprotunities to.	Woman	Gender - General	1/36	2.778
Zombiestew Once again, it's like you're too busy frothing to demonstrate any semblance of reading comprehension. At what point did I say that a woman can't have the same position of a man? That's not what patriarchy theory is- not even remotely.So are you going to keep arguing with a figment of your imagination you want to be me or are you going to actually argue with me? Your straw mans suggest you're not open to any real new information anyway, you're going to hate feminism regardless of what I say. What's the point? Go froth somewhere else if you want to be a willful ignorant, there's no real productivity here.	Patriarchy, Woman	Gender - General	2/112	1.786
boomerthoreau I've been trying to have an argument this whole time, you're the one with the obsession for trying to dismiss other people's points. Every one of your comments here have been on the basis of "I'm right you're wrong" that an 8 year old would use, and you haven't even bothered to explained why. Who's, the one with the strawman complex?	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/62	1.613

Zombiestew What are you even talking about? Dismiss other people’s points? You don’t understand what patriarchy means, and your points are all things I didn’t say that you claim I did. Do you want me to pretend your straw men are real so you can be right? Your logic is baffling.”You’re wrong!””I disagree””WELL YOU’RE WRONG AND YOUR A BAD PERSON”Can you explain to me where anything even remotely like this happened? You defined patriarchy incorrectly, I told you this, you proceeded to straw man me by suggesting I said women are denied opportunity, and I informed you of this straw man. What exactly did you ”disagree” with? When did I say you were a bad person? ”All I see is childish ad hominem in an attempt to (what looks like) cover up the fact you don’t actually have a point.”No, I don’t have a point. I wasn’t even talking to you. You were the one who was trying to prove a point to me, and I rebutted it. Your point was patriarchy doesn’t exist because ”Women have as much of an opprotunity to do it as men do, they just choose not to go into such areas.” which isn’t even what patriarchy theory suggests in the first place.What about this can you not understand? If you can’t handle a debate without making up things to complain about as though I said them, don’t debate.	Patriarchy	Gender - General	4/240	1.667
Actually, I believe it is you who doesn’t know what a patriarchy is; you’re clearly making up your own interpretation as to what a ”patriarchy” means. You guys like definitions right? Patriarchy is defined as: ”a system of society or government in which men hold the power and women are largely excluded from it.”Women aren’t excluded. Men don’t hold the power. Women actually compromise the majority of voter turn out in western culture.I believe the only straw man fallacy going on here is from you, as you’re refferencing to a ”patriarchy theory” that isn’t even evident, and you’re not even talking about the same thing the others are here.You say ”Go froth somewhere else if you want to be a willful ignorant” but fail to rebut any sign of communication. You show that you can’t even conduct yourself like an adult just because someone doesn’t see common grounds with you.The irony is that you boldy whine about ”frothing” and tell people to crack open a book when you’re referencing an imaginary idea that no one else was even talking about; and when the onus of your dispute turned on you all you did was point fingers. How mature.	Common, Patriarchy	Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	5/202	2.475

Zombiestew This affirms that you have done no research into the subject, and instead Googled the definition of patriarchy for a broad answer that suits your agenda.The feminist patriarchy theory, which is what we’re talking about, is outlined here: [LINK] Patriarchy is no longer just ”women aren’t allowed in politics”. It’s simply a social construct of male dominance and superiority in general. For example, a little girl playing with toy cars is fine because male traits are good, but a boy playing with barbies is scolded because female traits are unfavorable.”...you boldly whine about ”frothing” and tell people to crack open a book when you’re referencing an imaginary idea that no one else was even talking about...”Revisit the definition of ”whine”. Also, I was replying to someone who did mention the patriarchy. Again, reading comprehension escapes you. Scroll up, read what was said over again, and let it sink in before you reply erroneously.”...when other people are referring to a word, they generally mean the definition, not your fabrications and beliefs.”Just a heads up, when people are referring to a word within a specific context, for example feminist patriarchy theory versus dictionary dot com’s one line definition, the context actually matters. Revisit the definition of ”fabrication” after you read the source linked to you.Once again, go froth somewhere else if you’re going to straw man me and refuse to betray your ignorance. I have no time for willful ignorance.	Dot, Patriarchy	Ethnicity - Asian (South-India, Pakistan, Bangladesh), Gender - General	6/245	2.449
Sarah Pattison Fuck right off SJW trash. Ask anyone on the streets how they use the word ”racism” and 999999 times out of 1000000 they won’t say shit about ”power”.	Racism	Ethnicity - General	1/30	3.333
Hawaiianmonkeyz Laci doesn’t do videos on sexism against guys because that would mean she has to admit feminism is wrong.Now I don’t mean videos about how boys are discriminated against for wearing skirts and dresses and makeup, I mean real discrimination like how the push to have more females in school has worked so more females go to college and graduate than males do, how the gender discrimination pay gap myth is a lie and has been debunked using modern facts and studies, about how males lives are ruined when females falsely accuse them of rape, about how male abuse victims have no support once they turn 18 but female victims have consintious support and ALL the resources designated to help abuse victims.How about the fact the majority of homeless are male because there is a push to ensure no female is homeless but we could care fuck all about the males.Laci would never do a video like that because it would mean treading in territory proving feminism is not about equality, and Laci loves to tell us that feminism is about equality.	Gender, Sexism	Gender - General	2/186	1.075

Samantha Lee Laci’s videos on ”how sexism affect men” are solely based around men getting discriminated if they want to wear dresses, or cry, or love getting anally penetrated. They do not mention the fact that females are more likely to get a college degree beause the programs we put in place in the 80’s to tell girls they can go to college have worked and now its boys who need to be taught the same thing. They don’t address the wage gap myth that she says is true, despite studies showing that women 22-30 make 8 more than men in the same professions. They don’t address real issues showing that feminism just doesn’t care about males at all. Feminism only cares about males who want to look and act like females. As if acting female is the only acceptable way and that acting male is dirty and bad.Laci has never done a good video showcasing the sexism against men that exists because all of that sexism against men is from people proclaiming to be feminists. Instead of acknowledging the bad in feminism, she glosses over it and refuses to talk in depth about it because she’s a feminist and part of being a feminis is to overlook the nasty behavior of other feminists. Somehow feminists want us all to treat them a s individuals but they want to treat all men as if they did things the worst man did. tl;dr Laci wont’ do it because it would mean exposing feminism hypocrisy	Sexism	Gender - General	3/254	1.181
Sarah Pattison the patriarchy DOES NOT EXIST anymore.	Patriarchy	Gender - General	1/8	12.5
Sarah Pattison Black people can be racist against white people. Females can be sexist against males. The moment you try to rewrite a definition of a word to only apply to certain people, you have exposed yourself as that thing (a racist , a sexist, etc).	Black, Racist	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	3/45	6.667

Sarah Pattison White man drives through a black neighborhood in Detroit. Black car in front of him stops, 3 blacks get out, pull the white guy out of the car and beat him. Put in him the hospital. Another incident, 2 months prior, a white man drives through a black neighborhood in Detroit, accidetnally hits a black kid. He immediately stops and gets out to help. A black crowd forms and BEATS him into a coma. A black woman comes out of her home with a gun and drives off the blacks, saving that mans life.In both incidents the blacks were shouting anti white racial slurs. You would classify both these inidents as "not racist".I do a little test to see if something is racist or not. I take an incident and move the races around. If a white crowd beating a black men, putting him into a coma and shouting anti black racial slurs is racist, then a black crowd beating a white man into a coma and shouting racial slurs is racist.True racism doesn't require "prejudice + power". That is a definition used by SJW's and keyboard warriors to try to explain how whites are racist and how blacks and lations can never possily be racist. Looking at actual crime statistics blacks dominate whites in interracial crime. Looking at actual facts, and according to the victim report (in which victims of assaults and violent crimes were contacted and they identified their assailant by race) blacks come out on top. Even after Eric Holder (a racist black man in the Department of Justice) decided to artificially increase the white crime statistics by classifying ALL LATINOS who commit crimes as WHITES (so all Latinos who commit crimes are considered whites for statistic purposes) blacks still dominate the criminal statistics and whites are still overwhelmingly the victims to violent crime by blacks.People who try to say that racism is bigotry + power have never encountered racism before. Even using that definition, if you have the power to beat someone into a coma while shouting racial slurs at them, that is more than enough power to be racist.That definition is only used one sided too. In black dominated areas with black police chiefs, black mayors, blacks in charge, somehow even in these areas that definition of racism is use to show how blacks can't be racist. How? With a black president, black federal government leaders, black state leaders, black city leaders, how in the hell aren't blacks in enough power to be racist?Bottom line, by defining racism as something only whites can do means you are a racist. By classifying sexism as something only males can do and only females can be victims of, that makes you a sexist.	Black, Race, Racism, Racist, Sexism, Woman	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	36/463	7.775
--	--	--	--------	-------

Sarah PattisonThe patriarchy is, by definition, male dominated. Why then are females working? Why can females hit males but males not allowed to hit females?If we live in a patriarchy, focusing only on males, why do more men commit suicide than females? Why are the vast majority of homeless people male? Why are our social programs only aimed at helping females and children? Why is it that there is such an opposition to male focused assistance for male abuse victims?If we live in such a patriarchy, why is it that females have separate physical requirements for jobs (females have to do 1 pull up for the Marines, males have to do 10, for example), why is it that some places have ceased having physical requirements because most women who applied could not succeed in these physical requirements?If we live in a patriarchy, why are females 30 more likely to graduate college than males are? Why are more females going to college than males? How can a patriarchy have females in the 22-30 age group make 8 more money than males in the 22-30 age group (when comparing full time workers)?You can say we live in a patriarchy, but I just am not seeing it. Can you explain how we are living in a patriarchy when all these things I mentioned are true?	Age, Patriarchy	Age - General, Gender - General	9/227	3.965
Sarah PattisonThere are no different valid definitions of these terms. The only time people use different definitions of racism, of sexism, of patriarchy, is to rewrite that definition to suite their agenda.The people who claim racism = bigotry + power use that definition because they can play word games to say only whites can be racist and blacks can never be racist, for example.We need to have 1 definition of racism, 1 definition of patriarchy, in order to have a discussion. I rebuke certain definitions of sexism racism and patriarchy because they are designed to paint one side as eternal victims and one side as inherently guilty. They need to be broadly defined so that not all males or all whites automatically apply to those definitions.	Patriarchy, Racism, Racist, Sexism	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	11/129	8.527
Sarah PattisonMy definition is correct because it doesn't assume an inherint guilt based on gender. it lists behaviors and beliefs that if acted upon prove individuals are pushing a patriarchy agenda. I have reserach feminists claims about patriarchy and I just do not see the modern world in 2015 being patriarchy led or at all oppressive to women, at least here in the west which is where ALL the feminist criticism is levelled at. Why is that? because most feminists are also Social Justice Warriors who think that criticizing brown people means you are racist.My definitions look at facts, at individuals behavior and looking at actual actions and policies currently in place. Were females discriminated against in the past? Absolutely. Did feminism help women overcome? Absolutely. But what do females need to overcome in 2015? In what way is this patriarchy of yours affecting you? Affecting other women?	Gender, Patriarchy, Racist	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	6/150	4.0

Sarah Pattisonhe does have a point. I disagree with modern feminism, and every modern feminist I have spoken with has brought up outdated or false information to back up their claims and refuses to acknowledge the more recent information which proves certain points they try to make false.Internet feminists are the worse. Of all internet feminists I have spoken to, there have only been 2 who haven't degenerated into a screaming fit by this point, you and some other feminist I talked to a while back. Every other feminist has been rude, man hating, accusing anyone who disagrees with them a woman hater (even other women who disagreed), and generally came across as vile angry people who base their lives around being angry at men and using men as scapegoats for everthing wrong in their lives.Most of the other feminists who don't do those things just ignore you. Very rare do we find a feminist online who is both willing to debate and discuss this topic with us but who is also mature enough to not resort to name calling or trying to play the victim. So congrats for being reasonable so far.I would love a response to my earlier questions though.	Woman	Gender - General	1/206	0.485
Sarah Pattison because feminists don't contribute ANYTHING besides sexism, feminism IS SEXISM. If you are a feminist, you are sexist. You are supporting a hate movement.	Sexism	Gender - General	2/26	7.692

Sarah Pattison The problem with your examples here is that they can be equally applied to males. There is a huge double standard benefitting only females. If a man hits a woman on the street bystanders will jump in to help the woman. If a woman hits a man, its funny, even if she draws blood, and if the man then retaliates by hitting her, the aforementioned bystanders will jump in to help the female.Every day sexism exists against men. Every time a woman asks a man "hey can you set up my tv" or "can you move this box" or "can you help me carry these into the house", that is sexist, as sexist as a man saying "hey can you watch the phones" to a woman. A man is expected to let a woman go first, to hold the door open. Men are taught that holding the door open is an act of kindness, but feminists absolutely will bite your head off if you try that. I've been told coldly to "go through the door" like I just kicked her in the ovaries. I've been called a sexist pig by a woman who refused to go through the door. I have numerous personal experiences with vile feminists who think that calling men names is perfectly acceptable but a man calling female names is crossing the line.You would have a point if only women experienced sexism every day. Men experience sexism every day too. Have you noticed that in all the commercials its the dumb white male who needs to be corrected? That the dumb white male is either dumb or corny? Have you noticed how when a woman hits a man it gets a laugh in a sitcom and is considered family friendly entertainment, but a man hitting a woman is considered a huge grievance and unacceptable to even imply on family friendly television?That is why patriarchy doesn't exist. If patriarchy existed women wouldn't dare to get in mens faces, yell at them, scream at them, and hit them WITHOUT fear of retaliation. In a patriarchy if a woman did those things she should expect equal retaliation. In an equal society a woman who did those things should expect an equal retaliation. But since women have no fear of retaliation when they do these things, I cannot conclude that patriarchy is affecting women any more than matriarchy is affecting men.Since men and women experience either equally (or men experience it more) then I just cannot support only focusing on womens problems while at the same time either punishing men or simply refusing to acknowledge and look at mens very similar problems. By focusing entirely on females problems, all the resources to fix problems go to females. That is why over 90 of all homeless are male. That is why there are absolutely 0 male only shelters for male domestic abuse victims. Because all of the resources for homeless and domestic abuse victims go instead to gender neutral programs (for boys and girls under 18) or solely for women.That is why I just cannot support the concept that patriarchy exists and oppresses women anymore. If patriarchy existed I cannot get around the thought that we would instead be solely focused on mens issues, but in fact the opposite is happening and we only focus on womens issues.	Dumb, Gender, Patriarchy, Sexism, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	24/563	4.263
--	--	--	---------------	--------------

Sarah Pattison Wage gap?Lets talk about the wage gap.You are talking about the "women make 77 cents to every dollar men make", or "women make 33 less than men", right?That figure takes the sum of all full time working males, and the sum of all full time working females, adds them together based on gender lines and then compares them. This compares total wages, but has no comparison to wages between men and women in the same jobs. Feminists use this to claim there is a pay gap because of sexism against women.Let me break it down for you. More females than men work part time. That study does not account for females wages who work part time. That study does not compare wages between men and women who are comparable to each other, as in same education and same job. So this assumes that a woman who works as a teacher and makes 60,000 a year is discriminated against because a man who worked 30 days on and 30 days off on an off shore oil rig makes 100,000 a year.That 33 study does not prove there is a bias in the pay between men and women. It only contains part of the story. It proves men make more than women on average, and that men make more per hour than women on average, but it doesn't say why. Feminists say the reason why is sexism and bias against women. That is not the case.First, college education. More females attend and graduate college today than males do. However, most women who go to college get social degrees, like womens studies, rather than engineering or science degrees. More women in 2013 got social degrees than the entirety of women who got degrees in the science and engineering fields combined.With women going for social degrees at a higher rate than males, that does affect some of the jobs that are avaiable to them upon graduation. You may be thinking "but Degen, science and engineering are dominated by men". You are correct, but that is not because of discimination but rather because of PERSONAL CHOICE of the females. Females are accepted into these fields at a greater rate than men are, the only reason why men have a bias is very few women are interested enough in these fields to even apply. Stem cell research for example accepts female applicants at a 2 to 1 bias towards women. That means for every 1 male that is accepted, 2 females who have applied will be accepted. That field is still over 90 male, so even with a bias to accepting more women it is still overwhelmingly male. This proves that women are not kept out because of discrimination, but rather that women just do not want to enter into those fields at the same rate that men do.What is a solution to this? Unless you want to force women to enter these fields who dont want to, there is nothing to fix. This is personal choice in action.We just talked about college and the personal choices people make in determining what degree to go for. Since we have determined the bias in engineering and science is highly geared towards accepting women and yet vastly more men apply, the only conclusion we can make is these women made the personal choice not to enter fields they don't want to enter into. Now lets talk about the second element to this equation, job choice after college.When comparing the jobs men enter into versus the jobs women enter into, we see vast pay differences. This doesn't mean that women	Age, Gender, Lump, Nothing, Sexism, Woman	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical Features	8/1196	0.669
--	--	---	---------------	--------------

Sarah Pattison Patriarchy does not exist. Feminists frame everything they think is a problem in the box that is ”patriarchy”.The fact that women can hit men and its a joke and men hitting women is a serious problem, that is not patriarchy, that is matriarchy. Men hitting women was a problem that the original feminists in the 1890’s and early 1900’s adressed and have sucessfully changed western culture to hate. But the other side of things is women hitting men, and the feminism movement as it stands now thinks that is perfectly acceptable. That is feminists who refuse to see that as a problem, it is not patriarchy. Why would patriarchy (by definition by men for men) allow women to hit men but not allow men to hit women? That doesn’t make sense.It is perfectly acceptable for women to ask men to do things that are traditionally male dominated. Like moving heavy things, helping women out, settign up electronics. Nobody sees a problem with that. But feminists take exception to people asking women to do things traditionally that were womens tasks, cleaning cooking taking notes and answering phones. In an office setting nobody bats an eye if a woman walks up to a man and asks ”can you move these boxes for me” and touches the man on the chest or shoulder or arms and fliks her hair, nobody cares. But if a man were to ask a woman to heat up some food, or take out the garbage, or answer phones and take notes, feminists would cry sexism. There have been lawsuits on this very subject by females seeing sexism in these tasks, but having no problems doing the equivilent sexist things to men.Feminists are hyper sensitive about these things, while at the same time telling men that men have no problems, ignoring it when females do these exact same things to men. That is my point.Patriarchy doesn’t exist. If it did, women would not be 30 more likely to go to college and graduate with a degree than males are in 2015. If patriarchy existed women would not be making 8 more than males do in the same professions and being equally qualified. The wage gap exists, but it is not because of sexism or bias based on gender, and further proof that it doesn’t exist is women who work full time and have the same qualifications as males do earn 8 more than males do.Patriarchy just doesn’t exist or these double standards that promote women over men would not exist, and instead there would be double standards promoting men over women. That just does not reflect the modern world we live in.Explain to me specific examples of the patriarchy in 2015 and examples of how it is negatively affecting you, and other women. Then I will respond showing you equal examples of the matriarchy existing and how it negatively affects me and other men. Most of the issues feminists bring up are just life. Everyone has problems, feminists try to frame all their problems because of patriarchy opressing women, which just isn’t true.	Gender, Nobody, Patriarchy, Sexism, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	19/522	3.64
---	--	---	---------------	-------------

Sarah Pattison "Cleaning, cooking, taking notes and answering phones are not things that women in general are predisposed to do because of a physical or mental attribute all women have. Because of that it IS sexist to constantly ask women to do those things" - oh shut the fuck up! I swear, over-sensitive people like you are ruining society.	Mental	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/59	1.695
Sarah Pattison It is sexist to ask men to move boxes and things for a woman , and women know this. Women touch mens shoulders, arms, chest, flick their hair, all these things to get men to do work for them.That is sexist. And this is something feminists conveniently overlook or say that men deserve it. How is that promoting equality?Lets talk about men hitting women. Why is women hitting men a joke, and men hitting women, even after the woman hits the man, such an outrage? True equality means if a woman hits a man he can treat her as an equal and hit her back.Feminists don't see this at all, they think that women can hit men and men cannot hit women ever for any reason or else " patriarchy " or sexism .I am not over generalizing, I am using very real statements that many feminists have said. Just because you disagree with what some feminists say doesn't mean that they are not feminists and do not promote the feminist cause.	Patriarchy, Sexism, Woman	Gender - General	5/174	2.874

Sarah Pattison I agree that violence is bad. I agree that burgling is bad. I agree that robbery is bad. I agree that theft and rape and racism and sexism is bad.But we live in a world where these things happen. While men shouldn't hit women and women shouldn't hit men, what do we do when that happens? Feminism will not stop these things because they are too busy blaming all of these things on men and patriarchy.What I am describing is the views of most of the feminists I have interacted with. My aunt and one of my sisters is a feminist and they spout out these false statistics that have been disproven in modern studies. Feminists use these outdated statistics and when we bring up modern statistics they call use liars.Feminists use these emotionally driven arguments and just because they "feel" these things are true that means that regardless of the facts, their feels determine truth, right?It is socially acceptable for women to touch mens chests, shoulders, arms, and flick their hair when asking men to do things. but if men did those things they would be called sexist.Women are not discriminated against more than males are in the western world. That is why I do not need feminism, because feminism pays lip service to SOME problems men have but the actions of feminists are to fight actual change to help mens issues. There are 0 mens only shelters for male abuse victims. There are hundreds of female only shelters. Feminists have protested every single attempt at getting 1 mens shelter for male abuse victims. That is just one example of some feminists saying tthey want equality for all but their actions proving they fight against equality for men.	Patriarchy, Racism, Sexism	Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	3/296	1.014
There schools that have school uniform but if girls have a shorter skirt (only girls get targeted about dress code which I find very weird) they get told that people won't respect us because of it. I think it's disgusting girls get put through this.	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/45	2.222
I was a teacher assistant in high school and I used to help out with paperwork in the ISS (in school suspension) room. I would see girls in there for dresscode violation on a DAILY basis, but I do not recall ever seeing a guy in there because their shoulders were exposed or their shorts were above the knee. On the rare occasion that a guy was in there for dresscode, it was always something dumb like wearing distressed jeans, or refusing to take off a hat. Dresscode double standards may not be a thing in EVERY school, but it definitely is a problem in way too many.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/108	0.926

There's nothing wrong with dress codes that encourage professional dressing. But it's a problem when administrators say "girls can't have bare shoulders or legs or the boys will get distracted". That's saying that a girl in shorts is inherently sexual and is responsible for boys' reactions. Obviously no one thinks its a good idea to wear stripper clothes to school, because that's not professional, but why are girls being punished for wearing everyday tank tops or shorts in hot weather?? I suggest watching Laci's video a few more times.	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/89	2.247
Ana Cortes Many modern feminists do NOT care about both genders, at ALL. They claim to. They want to be victims. They inflate or flat out lie about statistics such as the " gender wage gap". They pretend we live in a "rape culture". Did you know women can't legally rape men in the UK? The PC attitudes of first world feminists are just stupid.	Gender	Gender - General	1/64	1.562

Table 2: Summary of the results per sociolinguistic variable

Sociolinguistic variables (Hiper - Hipo)	KeyWords	Number of occurrences	Frequency	Frequency(%)
Age - Over 65s	Old, Senior	278	278/523062	0.05
Gender - General	Misogyny, Gender, Sexism, Sexual, Woman, Sex, Chick, Patriarchy, Misandry, Misogynist, Chauvinist	2419	2419/523062	0.45999999999999996
Age - Youngsters	Nobody, Nothing, Brat, Zero, Nonentity	526	526/523062	0.1
Age - General	Age, Ageism	144	144/523062	0.03
Sexual Identity - General	Homosexual, Homophobia, Gay, LGBT, Homophobic, Queer	103	103/523062	0.02
Behavioural Addiction - Alcohol	alcohol	10	10/523062	0.0
Ethnicity - Asian (East- China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam)	Yellow, Banana, Zip, Pancake	15	15/523062	0.0
Nationality - Chinese	Yellow, pussy, Slope	21	21/523062	0.0
Nationality - Japanese	Yellow	7	7/523062	0.0
Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	Crazy, Weird, Dumb, Spastic, Weirdo, Freak, Blind, Mental, Dwarf, Lunatic, Psycho, Deaf, Lam e, Disabled, Bonkers	283	283/523062	0.05
Gender - Female sexuality	Harlot, THOT, Ho, Hooker, Promiscuous, Tart, Tramp	40	40/523062	0.01

Ethnicity - Black	Black, coloured, Colored, Monkey, Nigga, Crow, African, Ape	229	229/523062	0.04
Physical Identity - Physical Features	Skinny, Fat, Thin, Fatty, Obese, Chubby, Double chin, Porker, Scrawny, Lump	229	229/523062	0.04
Social Class - Working class	Common, Coarse, Tacky	89	89/523062	0.02
Ethnicity - General	Race, Racism, Racist, Ethnic, Ethnicity	116	116/523062	0.02
Gender - Female intelligence	Feminazi, Becky, Bimbo, Make me a sandwich	33	33/523062	0.01
Ideological and Political Identity - General	Nazi, Snowflake, Red, Communist, Commie	40	40/523062	0.01
Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	Gay, Fruit, Faggot, Sissy, LGBT, Pansy, Queer, Fag, Poof, Beta male	96	96/523062	0.02
Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality	Lesbian, Tomboy	31	31/523062	0.01
Sexual Identity - Transexuality	Tranny, Transgender, Transsexual, LGBT, Transition	21	21/523062	0.0
Ethnicity - Native-American	Apple, Red, Indian	43	43/523062	0.01
Nationality - German	Hun, Fritz	10	10/523062	0.0
Physical Identity - General	Body Shaming	28	28/523062	0.01
Nationality - Southern European	PIGS	16	16/523062	0.0
Social Class - Destitute	Bum	12	12/523062	0.0
Nationality - Italian	Hike	1	1/523062	0.0
Religious Identity - Protestant	Spike	3	3/523062	0.0
Nationality - General	Nation, Engineers, Nationality, doctors	9	9/523062	0.0
Gender - Female age and physical appearance	Witch	6	6/523062	0.0
Religious Identity - Jewish	Oven	1	1/523062	0.0
Social Class - General	Classism	2	2/523062	0.0
Nationality - American	Yank, Murican	2	2/523062	0.0
Ethnicity - Asian (South- India, Pakistan, Bangladesh)	Dot	2	2/523062	0.0
Ethnicity - White	Hick	2	2/523062	0.0
Nationality - British	Tan	2	2/523062	0.0

Result analysis:

- Taking into account the words that were detected, we can reach the conclusion these comments are associated with : : Age - Over 65s;Gender - General;Age - Youngsters;Age - General;Sexual Identity - General;Behavioural Addiction - Alcohol;Ethnicity - Asian (East- China, Japan, Korea, Philippines, Vietnam);Nationality - Chinese;Nationality -

Japanese;Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments;Gender - Female sexuality;Ethnicity - Black;Physical Identity - Physical Features;Social Class - Working class;Ethnicity - General;Gender - Female intelligence; Ideological and Political Identity - General;Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality;Sexual Identity - Female homosexuality;Sexual Identity - Transexuality;Ethnicity - Native-American;Nationality - German;Physical Identity - General;Nationality - Southern European;Social Class - Destitute;Nationality - Italian;Religious Identity - Protestant;Nationality - General;Gender - Female age and physical appearance;Religious Identity - Jewish;Social Class - General;Nationality - American;Ethnicity - Asian (South- India, Pakistan, Bangladesh);Ethnicity - White;Nationality - British;

- The percentage of hate speech related words is 0.9309.
- Considering that the variable Gender - General has the most occurences in the post, we can interpret that this is the predominant hate speech.
- Overall there were 4869/9894 occurences of hate speech related comments.