I do like your critical notes, Thunderf00t, but you do sound a bit like a typical natural scientist. As a former biologist who has gone 'social' in archaeology, I think I understand your position a bit, but social theory will never make cases as hard as physics, reasons being that perception has a far greater role in these studies. Unlike chemistry and physics it's much easier to drive an axe in social theory, but this does not mean class or gender differences do not exist and should not be fought. And fighting it will always lead to new inequalities or off messages, that's really hard to prevent. I like your video's on feminism for opening my eyes on just critique, but in the end I do think you are not the expert here. ;-) Of course, feminist make the same mistakes as men do in their propaganda: they're both human. It really is a shame that blacks can't get jobs in professional sports, or the entertainment business, or Democrat politics, or TV commercials, modeling, or community organizing, etc. Maybe they would have better luck and less 'racial injustice' if they would just move to Uganda or Nigeria. I think your wrong about the editorial team and diversity. You failed to consider all the factors and just cherry picked the ones you wanted to make your video shocking. CLEARLY, 68 of the girls in the pic identify as men when pick are taken, 13 identify as black when pics are taken , and the remainder identify as Asian during photo sessions and only one yeas just one of them is actually identifying as a female during photography. Isn't it obvious. What a load of dumb bitches, isn't the job of editors to catch this shit before it goes out? So they suck at their job as well. This is a product of ignorance in establishing a false sense of self by establishing gender "identity" and cultural "identity". Both are illusions created by the ego. There is only one race in all of this, it is called the human race . While it is made up of two genders for the purpose of procreation the anatomical differences are geared specifically for that. Feminism may have its roots in equality but has become a movement of victimists with a negative competitive ideology. What makes me the saddest is not the fact that a certain gender or group of people want to fix some perceived issue that doesn't exist I'm sad because of how far the intelligence level and the basic common sense of a large portion of the western world has fallen so low that they truly believe these crazy insane statements. The fact that me as a white male is considered more privileged than a race or gender that isn't white or male that has millions of dollars is insane. Here is the blunt truth I am a 37 year old male with a severe back injury that prevents me from working I also have a severe hemorrhoid that is life threatening at a frequent time line. Feminist  fem-i-nist  nounA species of half-demons half-women that has been so spoiled by the comforts and liberties of our MAN-made Western society, that it thinks it is entitled to whatever it wants whenever it wants it. To them, it is their God-given right to be perfectly happy at all times no matter how much it may cost others. As a means of defense, these satanic creatures can produce shill noises with their voice boxes. These shrieking sounds are known to desensitize weak-minded or brainwashed men and turn them into their personal boot-lickers. Another interesting defense mechanism these animals have is the ability to scream the words 'racist,' 'sexist,' 'homophobe,' 'xenophobe,' etc when confronted with logic, science, and other forms of factual evidence that utterly debunk that which they claim to be unfair/oppressive/triggering. Due to our overly politically-correct society and a government with an extreme-leftist agenda, this ability allows feminists to effectively put an end to that which they find non-compliant to their sadistic values. Another defense measure these creatures have is ability to whine, cry, and throw tantrums until the men around them become overwhelmed with their chivalrous tendencies and presents said animal with whatever it wants on a silver platter or until the government forces the stronger, more mentally-stable men to disregard their better judgement and accommodate this demonic animal with money, power, etc. A feminist's prime purpose in society is to destroy it and eradicate the very men that made Western Civilization and gave it the freedom to be a total brat in the first place. How can you identify a feminist? It's simple. Feminists are known for being ugly all the way around due to the fact that the government pampers them with taxpayers' money in the form of welfare. As a result of the government's intervention, these creatures have no incentive to attract a man who will take care of them since they are incapable of taking care of themselves. They do not feel the need to keep up their appearance or strive to be even slightly pleasant in any way which has given rise to this hated species of shrieking, blue-haired balls of fat bouncing around in the inner cities. Needless to say, they are easily identified. Many have short, men-style haircuts which are dyed ridiculous colors as if the faces below them aren't ugly enough. Some other common animals one can compare them to include walruses, elephants, elephant seals, whales and pigs. Besides multiple towers of fat rolls terracing the globular physiques jiggling beneath their blue topknots, feminists have an abundance of facial piercings so to make themselves look as ugly as possible. A feminist call varies due to circumstances but when triggered, most randomly scream 'rape,' 'sexism,' 'racism,' etc when a man, especially a white man, attacks them with sound logic. After all, their motto is 'if ya cain't win with reason, go fir volume.' One may usually find feminists wearing the most outrages forms of clothing and makeup both of which work to accentuate their hideousness. Simply find the ugliest life form on any given city street and you can safely bet it's a feminist. As the years roll on and prove once again that the female race cant survive and will be alone and eventually die off without the MAN. Since the beginning of time, Adam and Eve, the bitch has been dragging man into the sewer and the grave with her sense of selfishness, greed and false superiority because she can never be satisfied no matter what is done for her. Even when she has noting to bitch about, protest or complain about, they just make up something. Because that is what they do. what's sad is even if women were the majority, in control of everything... would that be enough? It's kind of scary to think ideology with the power of the Internet, leads to people think just because they say it... it's true. Regardless if the facts prove otherwise.and where is the equality in the world? why does it have to be men against women, women against men. Why can't see see ourselves as people. Same thing with racism I think. I grew up in an age where I never saw color or sex as a separation of any reason. It's o my been since my 20s+ that I'm taught I'm an asshole for being a white man... even though personally I feel everyone stands on who they are and what they do, then because of where they came from or skin color or gender .The more I watch these videos, the more I feel I just need to disconnect more from society because society has very drastically different views than I do.Sadly this is not how I want my daughter to grow up. That TF (to my understanding) is not about image and pointing out when other people get shallow imagery wrong2. (and again I repeat) That there is nothing wrong with ONE media outlet who isn't prone to X saying the WHOLE industry is dominated by X. The only thing wrong with it is their detractors can point out the shallow, meaningless, apparent hypocrisy for equally shallow and non-thinking listeners to buy into. If TF is just pointing out that HP is themselves guilty of the same type of shallow imagery faux pas that they often point out in others... well that's a pretty lame point, and most certainly not worthy of all the anticipation he builds up. So wait a minute...A picture is posted or tweeted (whatever they do) with a caption "masculinity so fragile". This is feminist one of many little "stick it to the boys/men" they love and have been using since they were little young princess and tomboys. But ever since I can remember these same people have needed constant reinforcement of the "power" of their own gender. Even today I see this. I can't go one day, for example, looking through my facebook page and seeing all the "girl power" posted by nearly every female on my friends list. And the meme's and quotes vary a lot. One will post something to the sort of "Real Men" accept a woman's wide range of emotions and don't demean her for it. Then the very next day post something to the sort how "a true" or "real woman" don't need a mans approval for how she feels or lives her life." When I run through their photo's a great many of them have more of these type of meme's and quotes they have posted there than they do pictures of themselves or family. Dr. Janice Fiamengo hit on this topic in her latest youtube video. She pointed out that woman and young girls strength and greatness today are constantly being reinforced through nearly every platform within our society and it has been that way for some time as she points out. I think of all the ones she listed off about where females get this reinforcement she missed several too, but I understand why she didn't because it would have taken up the entire rest of her video. I mean since the invention of the day time talk show women have been getting this "women are powerful" reinforcement but it's the "masculinity" that's so "fragile"? I had a male professor not long ago go off on a tangent about men and males in our society just bashing on them during a class claiming how "fragile" and "weak" we are because we need "constant" reinforcement of our masculinity, then he said if you were "REAL MEN would you need constant reinforcement of your masculinity or care what others thought about you?" He did this to get the approval of the female in the class and he got it because the did the "WHOOO" thing and applauded. So sorry about how long this is Thunderf00t but would you call what I described here "projection" from female on to male shame for needing to be constantly told how powerful you are? I enjoy your videos as always TF, but it's disappointing that your comment section is becoming increasingly over-run with bigots rather than reasonable individuals who actually care about equality, and hate how extremist feminism actually hurts equality. Just because feminists tend to suck doesn't mean that women suck, and the fact that so many of your subscribers seem to think that women should be put into particular roles or get such high numbers of thumbs up for sexist comments (such as "there's only one thing women are good for: INSERT SEX JOKE ") is disappointing. I'm not sure if this is something that can be fixed however. It's an unfortunate truth that people who care about actual equality get screwed over by the extremists, but this to me feels like the KKK endorsing Donald Trump - when you have people on your side who are insane, it makes you want to distance yourself. Just had this realization about patriarchy . It actually exists! (tl:dr down below)So, here is the reason: the patriarchy should be the overvaluation of men and undervaluation of other genders/sex (especially women). This would manifest itself in the form of oppression against the other genders/sex and/or support of men.Ok, now, oppression doesn't need to actually physically happen to be felt - for example people can feel uncomfortable about their looks without anyone actually paying attention to them, and feel oppressed as a result - it can happen mentally.What this means is, if, for example, someone really believe they are oppressed, then they may very well feel oppressed.What feminism commonly preaches is that women are in a constant risk of oppression because patriarchy , and as a result some people may actually feel the effects of the so said patriarchy without anything actually happening! Therefore, patriarchy doesn't need to exist within our society to have some effect on someone, it could only exist in someone's head and beforehand in someone's speech against it. In conclusion, feminism creates patriarchy . Feminism is patriarchy .(Tl:dr) patriarchy exists because feminists make it so. Lmfao, BS in cultural criticism. I didn't get to go to college, which ultimately I have to take responsibility for, even if there were some pretty unfair circumstances and some sob stories I could invoke as so many do these days, but still it just pains me to see people throw away so much on so little when I would've killed for just a slice of what they have. Now, I wanted to go into computational linguistics which is a niche, douchey, and in the grand scheme of things not that useful discipline so I guess I wouldn't have had the most room to talk anyways, but with that at least I had planned to focus very hard on computer science aspects and to attain fluency in a couple languages. What value is "cultural criticism" to the world in the slightest bit? A degree program to produce people who are professionally adept at criticizing a culture that has produced virtually all of the wonders of the modern age , including the universities where this garbage is taught. I have noticed that there is a social phenomenon with women. The more you put women (only women) in the same room, the more the averageIQ is going down. One can say that it's the same with men but I don't agree - in between men - or mixed men/women - there is always (or often) somebody to stop the degeneration of thoughts like "seriously, guys, let's focus on the facts, here is what I think...". With women, it's only mass hysteria going on, and really capable and intelligent women become suddntly 12 years old small girls. In English "man" represents both the masculine and the neutral as where " woman " explicitly represents the feminine. By using a female term with a male term also forces the masculine context instead of the neutral.For example if I walk into a room of people and say; "hey guys! how is everyone!" I clearly mean the crowd and not the males exclusively. However if I say; "hey guys and gals!" then I am distinctly addressing both genders.There are many examples of this in English. Perhaps the most common is "mankind", which tends to imply humanity as a whole, as opposed to "womankind" which means women exclusively.In this case, though, it is simply a colloquial expression. So no....I meant "oh man."If you prefer I can edit it to "oh boy...."	Common, Woman	Gender - General, Social Class - Working class	2/132	1.515

+Hugo Flomps While not directly related, here's a metastudy that comments are things related to debates over gender and generic opportunities in parts of the world: [LINK] I think that illustrates that there really isn't a "feminist academia" since these sorts of debates have a myriad and a million differing approaches and schools of thought that might operate under a 'feminist' label. Hell, there's stuff in analytic metaphysics and philosophy of language (some of the driest technical academic work you could probably come across) that comes from people like Sally Haslanger and it's clearly not "bullshit" since many of those sorts of papers are well worked out and worth thinking about. It's just a lazy ad hominem to say a study is probably not even worthy of being called a 'study' when you simply disagree with the viewpoint of the authors or people advancing the paper. "0 intellectual diversity", that's actually an amazing criticism to this kind of editorial sororities. Because it points out to major issues regarding having authority towards editorial decisions. First of all, it might be an indicator of overpowered laziness. Who needs to double check sources if we all agree, am I right? The definition of feminism might be equality between the sexes but not a single feminist today follow that definition. It's all about empowering women at the expense of men. It is ok Thunderf00t. This is just another sign of the old system dying out while the new robotic and advanced tech world continues to grow and gain more ground. Image instead of a group of ignorant feminists editing you have two or three robotic design machines and computers that can 100 more work in less time that an entire board of humans can do. The Owners of such companies would gladly jump to it, because the costs alone would drop dramatically. The only thing the Owners would have to do it hire people who can fix these machines when they need repairs. A job that most men would have no problem in doing. Why, because men love to figure how things work. Example: Place One Humanoid robot inside of a work shop filled with tools. Now place One man and One woman in that same room at different times alone with no member of the opposite sex being present. Then record their first reactions and all that follows for a period of time. The man would be thinking "Holy shit! A real robot, let me see how it works and get this baby running." The woman would be thinking. "Holy shit, a dangerous object. Who built this and why?"	Old, Sex, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	8/210	3.81

I can solve this BS university degree problem.Make all successful STEM graduates have 100 free education. Once graduated all debts cancelled. And all the other useless shit degrees that do nothing for society's survival or advancement pay upfront to subsidise it. Hell even if you have to subsidised STEM with government money just make them citizens for 10 years after minimum or the incur the debt. +Katzen4u There's actually a certain logic to it. A movement doesn't have to address all issues, after all. You can be for equality, but decide to focus on womens inequalities and that's why your a feminist. There's nothing wrong with having a 'specialty' so to speak. Men's Rights Activists are also for equality, but focus more on fixing mens inequalities.The fun comes in along with intersectionality. As the "White Feminist" part of the video makes plain, they feel that if you don't actively support something, you must be against it. As such, while feminists could stand behind the "I'm just focusing on these issues, but that doesn't mean I don't consider other issues important", they lose the ability to do that when intersectionality contends you must think about all problems at all times. It doesn't allow for specialists or niche-fillers.So they collapse under their own hypocrisy.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/148	0.676

If Pakistani Muslims in Rotherham rape 1,400 white children in Rotherham, who is to blame? The perpetrators perhaps? The Rotherham police department? Nope, the blame is to be placed on all Arabs, whether Muslim or not, and all liberals, members of a vast, systemic problem of being "regressive" who would have called the police " racist " if they had acted on this crime, even though there's no evidence of anyone obstructing the police from doing their job. And oh yeah, if a white person converts to Islam, that automatically makes them a liberal and a " race traitor" full of white guilt due to white shaming. Well....that’s what happened to the Huffington! I was wondering. Their online stories are always full of typos as if the writer thinks they are texting. In some states, the police are not allowed to interpret car crash events very thoroughly if it involves a female driver who was texting, which impinges on gathering proper data on the subject—all because the statistics appear gender biased which can fall under the category of profiling and subject to lawsuits by well-funded feminist organizations. And on a different topic, women should be subjected American Selective Service (and likely will) for a study on physical child abuse has shown that 80 percent of all child abuse in the U.S. is at the hands of the mother, and this includes the statistics for children who lose their lives from child abuse. I don’t get how someone can sit down at the end of the day, having written an article about how great it is that emojis now have greater representation (a shallow concern within an even more shallow form of medium), and not realize that they’re a black hole of human productivity.Look at some of these degrees you see modern feminists getting, the articles you see them writing, and really ask yourself: ”Could this provide a tangible benefit to the advancement of mankind?”, and the answer is almost always a resounding no. PhD’s on Lady Gaga and Twilight, Master’s degrees written on the tv-watching habits of 10-13 year olds, ”Iceberg research is sexist” articles... it’s basically just throwing money and resources into a pit and burning them.I’m a reproductive endocrinologist working on stress hormones in fish, and I often wonder whether my research is worth a damn or not, but the silver lining is that I can always go ”Well, maybe it’ll be important for boosting yields in aquaculture some day”. I feel like if I were to be sitting on my deathbed looking back on my life, and the highlight of my early career was ”I voiced my opinion to others on a complete non-issue and told harder working more intelligent people to feel bad for how they had it better than me”, I’d be compelled to pull the plug on my life support. This is what happens when people try to segregate themselves. its like self-fulfilling prophecy; theres racism and sexism and and a hundred statistics all with their own agendas. When we can just act like adults and not try and portray ourselves as victims will we rise as a society. When we say the hardships matter of factly, and not emotionally, and rise to said hardships will we rise as individuals. Love your videos man. ”The New Left was particularly influenced by the Frankfurt School. Following Hitler’s rise to power in 1933, the Frankfurt School left Germany for Geneva before moving to New York in 1935, where it became affiliated with the University in Exile of the New School. The New School had founded the University in Exile in 1933, with financial contributions from the Rockefeller Foundation, to be a haven for scholars dismissed from teaching positions by the Italian fascists or Nazi Germany. The New School has followed a tradition of synthesizing leftist American intellectual thought and critical European philosophy, particularly the teachings of Aristotle, Leibniz, Spinoza, Hume, Kant, Hegel, Kierkegaard, Marx, Nietzsche, Husserl, Heidegger, Arendt, Freud, Benjamin, Wittgenstein, Foucault, and Derrida. The Critical Theory of the Frankfurt School holds an especially strong influence on all divisions of the school. As Frankfurt School historian Martin Jay explains, ‘And so the International Institute for Social Research [Frankfurt School], as revolutionary and Marxist as it had appeared in Frankfurt in the twenties, came to settle in the center of the capitalist world, New York City.” Black Terror White Soldiers, p380	Black, Nazi	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Ethnicity - Black	2/184	1.087
