Are these videos addressing age discrimination working? Nope.....	Age	Age - General	1/8	12.5

Why do we as a society hate old people so much?-Cause they're Lame Dead	Lame, Old	Age - Over 65s, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/15	13.333
That shocked look in Mr Dunder's face when Michael calls him " old fart" lol	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/15	6.667
You have one hour, you get nothing .I'm on it.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/10	10.0
The worst part is he showed up thinking 'oh wow this is gonna be a nice walk down memory lane.' Only for Michael to use him to prove a point. Same for the handicapped dude for when he grilled his foot.	Handicapped	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/41	2.439
Adrian Max they straight up tell him in certain episodes and he doesn't care or tries to wiggle out of it with his delusion that he's the funniest man in the office, Dwight could call David but his loyalty to Michael overpowers his self preservation except when they are enemies in a couple of episodes, and he was constantly making his new employees uncomfortable with sex jokes, and putting them in inappropriate situations, if they said nothing or anything contradicting him they could get fired, or worse yet forced to be in the annex with kelly and Ryan and you saw what that did to toby. They weren't ideas they were straight up harassment.	Nothing, Sex	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/114	1.754
masterzombie161 micheal was not gonna fire them and The woman with baby and the black guy who went to jail knew that. Idk why the hell you think they did. Micheal was not gonna send them to annex nor did they ever thought that	Black, Woman	Ethnicity - Black, Gender - General	2/44	4.545
masterzombie161 also sex jokes? I think you mean the woman with the baby	Sex, Woman	Gender - General	2/13	15.385

Things that are illegal according to Michael Scott:1. New Ideas2. Teaching an old dog new tricks	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/18	5.556
Tag someone who would call the founder of his company an old fart	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/13	7.692

That comment Dwight makes about about his 103 year old grandfather still being alive in Argentina, is that a hint towards Dwight having possible Nazi ties? Taking the theory that some nazis immigrated to Argentina after WWII to escape Europe, and also that in the show, Dwight talks about his German heritage a bit. And I know that Dwight has ties to at least 1860s era America (he talks about Shrute farms during the Civil War) but that could be on the other side of the family. Just a thought...	Nazi, Old	Ideological and Political Identity - General, Age - Over 65s	2/90	2.222
The Grey Fedora He admits in one episode that his family has Nazi ties. I think it was in the episode where Michael spreads rumors about everyone	Nazi	Ideological and Political Identity - General	1/27	3.704
Lol, second time they've referenced Dwight's elders as Nazi war criminals	Nazi	Ideological and Political Identity - General	1/11	9.091
