Wisest and most fair woman that ever existed. God Bless Judge Judy	Woman	Gender - General	1/13	7.692
A women who understands old school values. Unfortunately a dying breed	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/11	9.091
This is what feminists do. They tried to ride the coat tails of other people’s success and try to claim that they’re responsible for this person’s reaching their goal. They do not work for their goals, they just want the rewards that come with it. I love how Judge Judy says feminism was not the reason why she’s so successful, but the fact that she herself put in the effort to reach where she’s at today. Be an individual not a feminist. Being a woman does not make you a feminist.	Woman	Gender - General	1/91	1.099
I love how strong she is and how much of a woman she is. She worked to get to where she was she’s not over sensitive and over emotional like many feminist out there she’s logical fair and direct. I really like her and my respect for her has risen to an all time high God bless this woman .	Woman	Gender - General	2/59	3.39
I now just punch woman in the arm and work and say ‘sup bro’	Woman	Gender - General	1/14	7.143

Agreed Judge Judy I'm a woman but I DO NOT agree with "feminism" all I see is angry women coming together to ruin everything .	Woman	Gender - General	1/25	4.0
Feminists hate judge judy for saying this because she's a strong, independent woman who doesn't rely on some stupid organization to help her. Feminists needs weak willed, vulnerable women so they can play with their minds and put them against men. Without those women, feminists would have no purpose, so they have no choice but to bring down and belittle other insecure women so they can use them as pawns for their game.Feminists truly are an infection, and strong, independent, and self-made women are the cure for it.	Woman	Gender - General	1/89	1.124
Being a feminist doesn't mean being a woman who is independent with control and libertyBeing a feminist means being a woman who is narcissistic with misandry and sodomy	Misandry, Woman	Gender - General	3/29	10.345
Hahahahahaha the way judge Judy rolled her eyes when she said a woman in control hahahahahaha	Woman	Gender - General	1/16	6.25
Grim Reefer isn't that what the feminist movement wants? For men to pull out of society and give women total control? Maybe I'm old fashioned but my grandfather killed nazis so I'm used to seeing men fight for what they believe in, not run away.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/45	2.222
Most feminists are probably jealous of her anyway, she's totally her own woman , no-one else's.	Woman	Gender - General	1/15	6.667

'Feminist' these days favor woman more than men. not feminism. Wish it could go back to meaning for equality.	Woman	Gender - General	1/20	5.0
When you see women protesting against the podium and grid girls, they're always shall we say not attractive in comparison to the grid girls, so it seems being beautiful is a crime in the feminist mindset, perhaps these women feel oppressed by other women whose beauty they don't have, so not only are the feminists attacking men with the old toxic masculinity ruse, they are attacking women too for not wallowing in the victimhood barrel. You can see the smiles disappear off the faces of the audience there and Kelly was too stupid to change tack quickly.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/97	1.031
Feminazism is just the revenge of the ugly fat lonely man hating can't get a date whales	Fat	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/17	5.882
I really appreciate this Judge Judy. I'm... an ex feminist? I'm trying to find my way and figure out why I would want to take on a man child when men and children are work (maybe worth it, but work) and I can pay my own bills. But I appreciate what you said about being an individualist- I was a scientist for a decade- and I hate it when people say there's a glass ceiling in science- I wasn't "a woman scientist"- I was a scientist- because I was capable and interested in it. So that's an important perspective to me.	Woman	Gender - General	1/101	0.99
Love JJ - just wondering how her gender didn't negatively affect her since she practiced law in the 60s when women couldn't even get their own home loans or credit cards etc. Amongst other restrictions...And enough with the feminist-hating. Everyone is entitled to their opinion	Gender	Gender - General	1/47	2.128
I'm not a Feminist. I'm a REAL woman .	Woman	Gender - General	1/8	12.5
Feminism doesn't care about women's rights at all, because in feminism, women are always the ones who are oppressed (unless you stop thinking of yourself as a woman). So feminism is essentially a bunch of self-deceivers, or double standards.	Woman	Gender - General	1/39	2.564
Exactly a man complimenting a woman is NATURAL!! Not sexual harassment!!	Sexual, Woman	Gender - General	2/11	18.182

Me too, I'm not a feminist and I strongly dislike it. I love my self, I feel beautiful, I'm grateful of what I got in my life and I obtain everything I want if I really want something. I celebrate myself and my femininity every time, I take care of myself in every single way and I constantly try to find things to learn day by day. I don't need to whine at boys, my self esteem is high,. The males have nothing to do with my problems, and also with 80 of Western's women problems. Stop whining lil gals. Honestly it's not about gender if you wanna be respected then you gotta earn it if you can't you need to work for it not cry over it to the public cuz that just makes you weaker, it's like when you praise a child on a drawing or something but it's not really good you know but it's a child you can't just say it's terrible or something cuz they will get upset and it will effect them a lot. The same thing is happening here.	Gender	Gender - General	1/86	1.163
The first article of Maculism.. Men aren't equal to men, Nobody is equal to anyone else, Freedom provides the opportunity to excel or fail based on ones own choices. Asking for equality is proof you aren't equal!! So you want special treatment to appear equal? Take what ever you have and work hard and make something of yourself, male or female. As far as the me-too movement goes it's cancer just like feminism Mike Pence rule for everyday life avoid women at all cost they are a liability not just in the workplace but in the marriage and The Dating Game and marriage women say taking care of these kids the 24-hour job I wonder how they see their husbands I guess there a 24-hour job 2 do you look at the dating game all you got to do and say sorry ma'am you're just not my type next thing you know getting hauled off by the police because her ego was hurt or other things or worse I see when a man goes to prison for a false claim is a death sentence even Judge Judy knows it you're going to get shanked and bent over by Bubba and a lot of women don't give a s A lot of them want to play the victim role you know get that sympathy point good people to do what she wants them to do narcissistic behavior among many other things and that's basically the majority of women marriage was destroyed so wish every men are just waiting for the artificial womb to be developed life will find a way I do believe a man said that Jeff Bloomberg in Jurassic Park men have always turn to science life will find a way the artificial womb is in development maybe women don't have what you call Selective Service after all like it donating their eggs and then can go shopping they refused to change the laws of marriage since the 1800s for men you know those laws that protect women but women change the laws to manipulate marriage among other things and the government allowed it so maybe women will have a new job selling their eggs for $100 a piece men had no problems back in the 18 hundreds of raising their kids up to be proper how to treat each other as men and women and avoid the Wicked Man and the wicked women see the problem with it is as women Sat by and prospered from Wicked women and didn't do nothing to put the dose wicked women in their place when you see it all the time and it's going to get worse and worse until the artificial womb comes out then women can focus on not dating we're having children they can go to the local sperm bank and go shopping for themselves just don't be nailing the donors for child support or they won't be jerking off and cups in that sperm bank any longer all that's right they stop doing that a while ago only the ones with low IQ and no intelligent keep doing that women are freezing their eggs at number rates like I said a hundred bucks a egg I guess I have been your official one comes out men know how to raise their children and teach them right from wrong and they don't smother the children and allow them to get the cookie when they break the lamp cuz they were running through the house are they smart off they go to the room without their little toys but they're really bad he'll go to the room without supper and learn some gratitude some respect I don't believe in sparing the rod and spoiling the child women however do that's why we have a problem with Society with a bunch of people being wind babies and having their hands out that's why the fathers were very important to stay within the family what did women do they drove away and off the plantation forever and because of me too you made it ten times actually a thousand times worse good job girl power as a man I didn't like Judge Judy because she was a woman in power she was intelligent high IQ and she wasn't bias towards men or women she upheld the law she was actually pretty fair and decent and every episode that I seen I didn't look like she was reading from a script like most of the women nowadays and thank God she's not a feminist cuz I would have stopped watching that show a long time ago again like I said it wasn't because she was a woman it's because she's a wonderful human being	Woman	Gender - General	2/98	2.041

Well the me to movement is inportant but it's being abused. And a woman doesnt need any type of organization to make something of herself just get out and do it. Perfect	Woman	Gender - General	1/32	3.125
I deeply respect woman but feminist are just like little brats that think only of themselves as the only victims.. I agree that in a long time women are treated differently but now that we are in the new generation I think men and women are already equals... But feminist only see the bad things done to woman and dont see men being mistreated.	Woman	Gender - General	2/64	3.125

WriterGamerGal12 No. And most people don't want to be associated with modern feminism. It used to mean what you said "belief that men and women are equal" but nowadays feminists want to be portrayed as innocent victims of a so called patriarchy while men suffer much more in the world than women. More men, die every year, more men are homeless, more are into drug addiction or mental problems and you don't see men parading and embarrassing themselves with period blood on their faces. Women have more privileges than men nowadays specially in the western world. I would call myself someone who wants equality of opportunity but calling myself a feminist would be degrading my intellectualism to people who can't even think individually.	Mental, Patriarchy	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/123	1.626
The extreme radicalism and single minded unification of women as a whole under the banner of feminism, is just another way for woman with no self worth, and low self esteem to marshal behind a larger voice to say what they as an individual cannot, to do as an individual what they cannot, and champion behind a cause where the end result is a bunch of women screaming to the heavens and anyone who will hear them "I'm a woman and I deserve to be treated like an equal as long as I'm not required to do any of the things that men have to do"!Feminism isn't about equality its about female supremacy, the hatred of men, the control of men's behavior and the ultimate oppression of men through the terrorist acts and use surgical character assassination through language like; " He made me feel uncomfortable" and "he touched me inappropriately when he walked by me in the elevator! As every woman now has access to the "I'm a victim card" no man is safe within a 1000 yards of any female, either in the work place or in public!So the next time a World War breaks out by all means put women on the battle field and men in the factories – I'm sure the enemy won't know what hit them when the feminist brigade enters the battle space and threatens them with sexual battery, sexual assault and law suits! In order for men to get out in front of this... men globally should legislate for segregation laws in and out of the work place and furthermore, women should partition for greater distances from men of any age , occupation or socio-economic status! And sexual assault, if a man is found to be guilty of should be treated as a criminal offense and not a paycheck – no exceptions! No monetary gain period!!! Are women superior to men? Absolutely! Can a woman do everything a man can do? Absolutely! Its time for men to move out of the way and give women the road! And its about time! I would happily vote this woman into presidency. Judge Judy is very intelligent.	Woman	Gender - General	1/13	7.692

"Nice legs", she replies "Thank you". That's how a woman who is proud being a woman responds.Feminists today, or freaks (more fitting word) want to divide men and women. Making any contact men make with women sexual harassment, while the feminists are too scared and with too much self hatred to approach men. So we get a dystopia where everyone dies out, because men and women are separated. That is the feminazi dream...So men, women all over the world, take Judy's approach. We are all human. We need interaction, we need to be close to each other.	Feminazi, Sexual, Woman	Gender - Female intelligence, Gender - General	4/99	4.04

It's great to have the strength to believe in yourself so thoroughly. But she is Such a harda*s. I love her! But if some women need awakening, there is nothing wrong with "sisters" helping each other. Also, Judge Scheindlin (sp?) may have had some luck: I know she worked like heck, but others may have obstacles that are even harder to overcome. The only problem with some feminism is when things are made Too easy via quotas or separate standards: then it's no longer Equal Opportunity but rather being treated like a cripple . I get what she is saying but i don't agree with it completely. I am a feminist and i love supporting other women. Not unreasonably, but when i see any sort of discrimination, i like standing up for them. Saying that that means my success belongs to Feminism, is the same as attributing one's success to one's Religion, Country, Race , etc. If this is the reason to denounce Feminism, then one should denounce all these other things too. No race , no country, no religion, etc. Only then can success be truly one's own? Another issue i have with these sort of conversations is that there is always so much concern for what the men might feel, and how "afraid" they are. Why does a debate, which is about women, always turn into assuaging the fears and hesitations of men? This is where feminism comes in for me. When certain topics are discussed, it should remain about the people concerned. Not about others. This "But-What-About-Men-And-There-Feelings" attitude is what i dislike. First, the problem needs to be addressed and only then you go to take care of the side affects. One does not reject Chemotherapy because there will be puking and hair loss and headache and so on. One gets certain medication for the unfortunate side effects. And lastly a bit of caution being injected in the work place is hardly an evil, if the consequences of that are a reduction in sexual harassment, discrimination or even a toxic atmosphere. When as a child, i was told to be careful when out playing with my friends, i did not feel like my fun got cramped. I just knew, that if i follow certain rules, i would be safe. Nobody stopped me from playing outside. The same applies here. Men and women can be anything they want with each other, but it does not mean that a bit of caution on both sides will ruin everyone's joy. Because if caution were an evil, then we as a race would not have survived.	Nobody, Race, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - General, Gender - General	5/339	1.475
"If this is the reason to denounce Feminism, then one should denounce all these other things too. No race , no country, no religion, etc. Only then can success be truly one's own?" you're pretending like she doesn't believe this... She does." so much concern for what the men might feel, and how "afraid" they are.".... And this folks is EXACTLY you know feminists are completely lying when they claim to be about equality and also care about men. As the moment moment any conversation turns to be about men, all of a sudden it's disgust and rejection from feminists."First, the problem needs to be addressed and only then you go to take care of the side affects." Proving that feminists are a supremacist group... They're more than happy to see men suffer for the cause.	Race	Ethnicity - General	1/137	0.73

It's vital to listen to what women have to say, let them make their own decisions and treat them well. When a society does not do that, it will not advance and have a low standard of living. For instance, a woman in the west would not marry a relative. To western women such behavior, is not only out of the question, but completely unthinkable. Western women realize the risk, as well as the consequences. There are countries where women from the day of their birth are treated as second class citizens, whereby the father or husband has the say so, of what will be done, and the woman herself has to abide or else. There are countries where intermarriage is generally practiced, with little next to no input or regard on the part of women. The outcome of intermarraige is catastrophic. In societies where women have rights, this is not done.	Woman	Gender - General	2/152	1.316

Several non-feminist speeches discuss feminism as if it is sexism and don't acknowledge the good things feminism has accomplished for women. I understand that many people, especially women who claim to be feminists are sexist against men and give feminism a bad reputation. Just because of these sjw "feminists"/feminazis/female men haters, I'm not going to flip to the other side and go against my own rights(aka feminism).If anyone actually knew the meaning of feminism and stopped acknowledging these people as feminists maybe we would have women who are actually educated about this stuff discussing being against "feminism." Her view on the Me Too movement is pretty much how I view it. It's needed to go after people like Harvey Weinstein And Larry Nassar but it has created it's own backlash and it's own unintended consequences such making the "boys' clubs" into bigger Boys' clubs since employers know hiring men will mean there is likely be little to no sexual harassment in the work place. It may also thicken the glass ceiling for women because where men might be inclined to hire more women in leadership roles, they know that can spell trouble because all it takes is one accusation, be it true or false and a man's career is done. It's interesting how successful women are not identifying as Feminists because they know the label doesn't serve as a good label. It has nothing to do with being for gender equality but know the movement itself has evolved and become corrupted and taken over by radicals. Judge Judy is exactly right. Everyone is an individual who just needs to do their best instead of being bitter and overreactive like modern day feminists. A woman who is gracious and secure will not seek attention like they do and fight all day for their "rights" and act hysterical if they don't get it. A valuable woman is one that produces solid work with their work ethic instead of demanding the world cater to their every demand. She is incredibly intelligent. I have lots of respect for her. But I disagree with her 'Individualist' stance. Unfortunately, none of us exist as individuals independent of society, culture, and the beliefs that are embedded in that society and culture. To an extent we have 'free will'. I can choose to wear a red shirt or blue shirt. Or eat chips or cake. But as far as big life decisions that impact our lives and essentially create our lives - they are hindered or helped by things like race, sexuality, class, gender, etc. Individuals do not exist in a vacuum. They never have and never will. Just because black people are not lynched in the streets and women are not viewed as property does not mean we are all on a level playing field and it's really unfortunate. Imagine a black child born in a bad part of town, both parents are drug addicts, they have no money or time to create a good life for their child. That kid is going to have a different idea of 'normal' and 'acceptable' than a rich white kid raised in the suburbs by a loving family. Life has been done a thousand times. Lived a thousand times. Women in power roles are either failed attempt eroded or not discussed since it doesn't chive with the core values of the community leaders representative elects. We all look up to someone. During her time period she had the gift of knowing Eleanor Roosevelt. A well known and highly regarded feminist. She received a stunning standing ovation in a legal forum amongst other countries (stricter anti women policies) for the rights of women and children. Surely anyone would be inspired and moved by the works of Maya Angelou. If you have no one to look up to, you have nothing to spark that desire. Judge Judy is 75, she comes from a different time. When she says she's not a feminist, she's talking about being a consciously involved activist like Elizabeth Stanton and Susan B. Anthony and Eleanor Roosevelt. Don't get it twisted that the work these women did and pain they suffered allowed women to be as free and independent as they are today. An opposite example is Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg, 85, who was one of only 9 women in her Harvard Law class with 500 men .. she did fight for women's equality, graduated at the top of her class, started the first law journal in the US focused on women's rights, co-founded the women's rights division at the ACLU, and argued and won 5 Supreme Court cases against gender discrimination. She is a feminist and proud to call herself one. So don't go on with your little ignorant comments disrespecting real feminism. You wouldn't be here.	Gender	Gender - General	1/156	0.641

Fortunately, we live in a period of time where nobody is responsible – Unfortunately, the lack of responsibility is creating a bunch of anger. I hate big corporations and think that this law should be passed to penalize them – but then I get angry when by 401k doesn't perform to my standards after that law is passed?? I hate war, but the moment I don't have access to the goods and oil I have become accustom to then I pressure my leaders to do whatever they need to, to ensure I regain access to those goods?? Judge Judy demonstrates that she's not very smart. Not aware about what women have to go through and not knowledgeable about the processes of becoming successful as a woman . Women do not have a problem because they do not take care of themselves or because they do not value themselves or because they're not pushing forward enough like she and many other women believe. There are systemic problems for women just like there are for black people and minorities whether or not you or she believes in it. You can have all those criteria and still not be successful because you are a woman . And people are fighting back to regulate and equalize everyone. Feminism will grant us equality someday in the future. Why work against it because you're I'll defining it? It's definition has not changed. Like all movements, it has radical counterparts. If you really think that is a egalitarian world, and feminism has nothing to fight for anymore go look online and see how men are defending women and how men are talking about women. Hello why don't you go and actually pay attention to how men are treating women in their daily lives, how female service workers are being treated by men. How about you go walk down the street in New York and see how you'll be treated equally. Male privilege is so real, you are actively defending men but men don't defend women when they are being stereotyped and degraded, so that in itself demonstrates how they are privileged. Feminism is egalitarianism and you're against that. Shame on you	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/189	0.529

”Lord God made a woman from rib (allegory), he had taken out of the man, and he brought her to the man...that is why a man leaves his father and mother and is united to his wife, and they become one flesh” (Genesis 2:4-3:24). ”If either of them falls down, one can help the other up” (Ecclesiastes 4:10). As archaic as the old testament is, women are perceived to be a gift of God. And man must accept such wondrous gift from God and accept no less. The old saying, ”respect the gift of God”. Women are revered in scripture to be from God. And if you believe do not believe there is no God, woman are a gift of evolution as well. Women should be revered in such similar case, otherwise our species would be very alone in our universe to have no women. Women should not be taken for granted. They should be protected and loved for by men, and revered as such. And, All men and women would agree, regardless. Too bad some women hate the very men that want to protect and revere them because of one bad isolated example.	Old, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	4/193	2.073

Collegiate You need some serious educational and intellectual enlightenment. You are exactly what is the cause of today's so called "feminism" (sexist, nazi word used to treat men inferiorly). Everyone has the right to compliment anyone. It's up to you on how you will take that complement and whether you will feel comfortable or uncomfortable by it.Just because you "might" feel "uncomfortable" doesn't mean that that now everyone should change themselves because of your way of life and thinking. You are actively expecting people to treat you like a special person because you think and perceive things differently.As a feminist, you should have known by now that women make twice as much of those comments about men than men themselves.Everybody comments each other, regardless of gender . It's in our nature. The only problem here is that you are intellectually incapable of understanding this.You are not special. Your views and opinions are not special. Their worth is the same of any other person's opinions and thoughts.Oh, and one more thing. The great majority of people in this world are treating each other and giving complements about each other normally. Without any provocative, Nazi attempts of womansplaining. How does it feel to know that the GREAT majority of women don't agree with you and your ignorant Feminazi points of view? Yeah. Must feel bitter. The best part of your whole argumentative failure is when you evidently stated that : "Women don't make comments like nice biceps". Probably one of the funniest, but at the same time one of the biggest proofs of your whole gibberish comments that you are a sexist. A privileged one. P.S This is just the clear evidence of how far the Feminazis have come by now. Making victims out of themselves because they are so weak and fragile to accept their sad little lives. Pathetic. Some people want you to believe that.	Weird	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/66	1.515
collegiate (actually I have gotten that bicep compliment a few times before)women do not normally make such comments because women do not seek men out they filter out men, men seek women out.its literally biology and we are fighting it. The metoo movement is good but must be careful not to demonize men for acting reasonably natural.I dont condone inappropriate comments/actions obviously but we need to understand our basic natures. Nature has made it so that men compete for women and must win their approval in order to be accepted as a mate. Compliments are a form of trying to gain approval and since completion is fierce (only 40 of men have kids while 80 of women have kids consistently throughout all of history) they take any chance they can get. I find it funny that women in the west still dont understand that they would have 200 control of everything if they changed how they chose their mates. Skinny jeans exist because men think it will make them more attractive to women, they crush their balls just for the small chance of finding a mate. If you can get guys to do that you can get them to do just about anything.Unfortunately nature has made it so that the bad boys are attractive(there are biological reasons) and that makes other men follow their lead with more bad behavior. The women fall for the badboys and that only creates more badboys. In Asia the styles have become ultra effeminate because women decided to select mates based on that effeminate style and the men followed suite. Dont misunderstand there is no blame here on women I am just saying that we can only reach our full potential as human beings when we understand and accept our natures. Minimize the weakness propagate the strengths and both men and women will prosper equally.	Effeminate, Skinny	Physical Identity - Physical Features, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality	3/315	0.952

Michael Merritt You don't have to be a feminist to see sexism honey. If by rights you mean laws, that's kind of true, even if the Constitution does not guarantee gender equality, and even when there are still things like laws that make it illegal for women to go topless but not men. But if by rights you mean freedom and equal treatment as human beings, we're quite far from that.	Gender, Sexism	Gender - General	2/71	2.817

Feminists back then were powerful women who didn't need no one to takecare of their jobs, family and future but created a movement cause they are not some suckers who are gonna lie down on the floor without a fight to get what they are owed. Feminists today are weak women who feel powerful because of what other weak yet slightly more powerful women told them, women who can only takecare of their jobs,family and future because they are receving what the old generations women fought for. Todays feminist wouldnt last a day in the old world. In America, women have the same rights as men. How anyone can even attempt to dispute this is laughable. Women have all the same opportunities as men, and they absolutely RULE the dating scene. Most of our consumerism is marketed entirely around women. The legal system bends over backwards in favor of women. If a woman commits the same crime as a man, the man will go to jail for significantly longer than her. However, even with all the equality and privilege of being a woman in America....women still CHOOSE to not be equal. They choose lower paying jobs, in favor of being a happy little housewife/stay-at-home mom. And that's where the whole gender pay gap myth comes from. And, of course, the media will make sure to never talk about any of this.	Gender, Woman	Gender - General	3/134	2.239

This is precisely the point that we on the Right make repeatedly about Feminism black , lives matter, LGBTQ+ community, etc. All of these identity groups do not make the individual stronger. it makes the individual reliant on others, and that does not build a stronger person. The Right is all about individual freedom, and we are smeared and lied about and called racist , because the all powerful Left wing media does not want you to know that individualism is key to a successful and fulfilling life. Judge Judy isn't a feminist because she's an educated and highly regarded individual. She was able to deduce that the suffragettes pushed for equality in voting and the 1960s-1970s, second wave of feminism was seeking equality in sexual awakening, better treatment in the workforce and the dynamic role women play in the family unit. Anyone with even the slightest application of critical thought knows that the feminism of today isn't actually about equality - which makes it not true feminism.	Sexual	Gender - General	1/80	1.25

Men are NOT scared of the metoo movement. It gives them an excellent excuse to discard women in workplace, not hiring women as businessmen, leave a female accident victims to die on road and so on. All these men can do silently. I will add a few more things. A housewife having trouble with plumbing or electricals at home will not get a repairman till a male member of the household is present. An elderly woman will not be offered a seat in a bus or tube. Mind you, these women are in no way linked to the metoo movement. Yet they are indirect victims of the movement. Toxic feminism damages women more than it harms men. Men do not need women in any way other than procreation and entertainment, really. Men are inventors. Okay, then the age to serve in the military should be 21, the age of maturity should be 21, the age to vote should be 21. The problem is, you can't just arbitrarily assign a number and say...at this age you are an adult and can be trusted. It's naive to even entertain that thought. The problem isn't the age the problem is the lack of proper upbringing. The lack of critical thinking not being taught to young adults. The taking away of responsibility for their actions. Everything has been moved up what seems to be 10 years than it was 30-40 years ago. We are coddling the children and not teaching them the proper things to deal with the real world. We are giving them safe places to hide from the cruelties of the world instead of teaching them to face them and deal with them head on. Womanhood is moulded for gentler and better things.« (H. L. Borut Trošt - Yes it is OK. Why not? There was never a question if makeup was OK. Just be honest about what makeup is. That was the whole thing with Jordan Peterson. Nobody was condemning makeup.	Nobody	Age - Youngsters	1/37	2.703

Jeremiah .A I don't understand how sexual signalling in a professional environment can be considered ok. Work and someone's professional competence should be at the center of attention here, and triggering people's sexual instincts with your appearance distracts from that. I think this accentuating of the female body and sexuality (with makeup, clothes, high-heeled shoes, jewelry) stems from a time when women could not get ahead in society by getting a good education and a good job (because they were considered too stupid to become, say, judges). All they could do was use their bodies to attract a wealthy husband. Then, as a result of feminist battles, things started to change (although Judge Judy is convinced she did it all on her own). So now, in the workplace, women who want to be valued for their professional capabilities should stop acting like they are desperate to catch a man. And I don't agree with Peterson when he says that men's suits are purely functional and there is nothing sexual about them (they are sexual!), but women generally take their appearance so much further.	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	5/183	2.732
Borut Trošt - I think you need to look very deeply into how huge role sexual selection plays in humanity, our history and our "progress as civilisation" (That's in quotes cause our progress is neither necessarily healthy or will end well). This is engraved extremely deeply in us, how we act, think and what we strive for. Freud was the first to point out that all of what we do- politics, economics, growth- boils down to sexuality and sexual selection. (And for many years I didn't understand it or see it)... It is not something that you can change in people. Based on your views or personal ethics or political correctness or "modern gender views". You can only suppress it in people. And suppression will always result in pathology. The whole progressive political narrative is anti-human.	Gender, Sexual	Gender - General	3/136	2.206
Borut Trošt - That's the impression I got from your response. From your reasoning as to why women sexually signal ('because it stems from a different time when women... etc.). And to how you viewed women and these issues. Anyway. I have no desire to discuss this. Human endeavours are driven by sexual selection. It's hardwired in us biologically. And no amount of feminism or new social constructs or dogma can change that. It can be only suppressed and warped. And we will end up with even uglier humanity if this ever succeeds... Anyhow. If you think that makeup isn't OK at workplace, your only reasoning for this could be that it's sexual (which it clearly is). But the feminists and "progressives" will attack you for this. After all according to them "women do it for themselves" (LOL. But not LOL). Have a wonderful evening.	Sexual	Gender - General	2/146	1.37

Look at all the feminists getting mad. It doesn't matter if someone refuses to call themselves a feminist. It doesn't mean they're not supporting equal rights. So what if they disagree with how feminists represent themselves? I thought feminism was about equality, rights, and freedom but you're not giving us the rights and freedom to call us whatever we want. Her speech is more empowering than those who keep victimizing my gender. Just because we have problems it doesn't mean that it's all because of our gender. The way I see it, they like to make everything about women and suddenly everything is society's fault. The first time I heard about feminists/m I was one of them but as I learned more about them I changed my mind. I was amazed by old days' feminism bc without it I wouldn't be where I am today. We even have a national feminist hero in our country. But I don't feel empowered by 3rd wave feminism, doesn't mean I hate the movement completely. I agree with them sometimes. Besides, why would I hate a movement that supports women when I am one?? I am aware sexism still happens. It happens to me sometimes and I'm pretty sure it happens to other people as well. I support you everyway but the original "first wave" feminism was originally born out of necessity to be above the black community. Borut Trošt lmao the feminists haven't accomplished anything...I realize I'm on an nbc YouTube channel so I'm probably gonna get roasted but it's true, everything woman have the right to do now is not bec of feminist it is bec our country as a whole agreed on women being able to have the rights that they have today. Jayce Jayce, I am a woman . You really think I don't understand this? You think people aren't taught about women's suffrage from the beginning of our education? Everyone and I mean EVERYONE understands this in America. To compare modern feminists to those in the past is a complete disgrace to their legacy. What you see today is MISANDRY and blatant WHINING. To cry about manspreading and equate that to going to prison on hunger strikes just to vote for your president is spitting on the real heroes of our history!	Misandry, Woman	Gender - General	2/90	2.222

I wish everyone did understand this. It's not just suffrage. For example, till the 70s women couldn't get credit cards without their husband's permission, serve on a jury, or go to Ivy League schools. Feminism changed that. Which modern feminists? What misandry ? Right now you're the one whining about feminism, or the version of it in your head. No one is equating manspreading with going to prison or hunger strikes, don't be ridiculous. Among other things, modern feminists are fighting against transgender discrimination, violence against women, sexual harassment, attacks on reproductive rights, lack of paid maternity leave. All you're doing is spitting on the heroes of tomorrow.	Misandry, Sexual, Transgender	Gender - General, Sexual Identity - Transexuality	3/107	2.804

Ken Hollis They happen disproportionately to women. Egalitarianism can apply to lots of things (anti-racism, socialism, anti-speciesism, etc.), feminism specifically applies to gender .	Gender	Gender - General	1/23	4.348
Grey Alien It's telling that you think sexual harassment is flirting... What human rights do you have in mind? Alien, Sexual	Gender - General, Nationality - General	2/59	3.39
It's telling of what? The very definition of flirting is communicating sexual interest. You don't get to decide if bad or unwarranted flirting constitutes sexual harassment. If so, how will you do that and why is your judgement superior to others? Flirting clearly fits into exercising free speech. You can talk to anyone in a public space. It only becomes harassment if you keep persisting. You just said yourself, government policy is involved. Past that, go take it up with your employer. Nothing to do with getting people onboard with your movement.	Nothing, Sexual	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	3/92	3.261

Grey Alien And the definition of harassment is aggressive pressuring and intimidation. I didn't say I get to decide, or that my judgment is superior, that's up to the victim. Calling someone out on their harassment is also free speech. I said government policy was involved with paid maternity leave not harassment, nice try. These things change through movements, so it has everything to do with getting people onboard.	Alien	Nationality - General	1/69	1.449
The victim doesn't get to decide though. That's an obstruction of justice. You rather have a clear set of rules that govern a crime for everyone or you don't have any. You can't cherry-pick based on the subjective view of whether a flirtation was well received or warranted. Explain to me how that would be applied in a court room. Whistling isn't aggressive, pressuring or intimidating to most people. If you can't even clearly lay out what sexual harassment constitutes in a way that doesn't contradict yourself, how it is immoral in a way that that be differentiated from flirtation, and how tackling it has any real impact then you're in no position to make a case. You just agreed that we both have the free speech to both flirt and oppose it so I'll keep hitting on girls and you keep complaining on social media about it. Jayce Johnson name me one right that men have that women do not have, here in Western first world countries, or America to be more specific. Also, according to the World Health Organization's report on global and regional estimates of violence against women, (more specifically non-partner sexual violence) the highest prevalence was reported in sub-Saharan Africa. The report states that when it comes to intimate partner violence, "the highest prevalence is found in sub-Saharan Africa with the prevalence of 65.6 of partnered women have experienced intimate partner violence (now THAT'S what I would call widespread). The lowest prevalence is in east Asia with 16.3 of ever-partnered women reporting violence... The only other regions below the global average are higher income western Europe (19.3), North America (21.3), Central Asia (22.9) and southern Latin America (23.7)." Women in developing countries need feminism. It has lived out its usefulness in the West. When it comes to LGBT issues, Amnesty International lists some of the most discriminatory countries for LGBT people as: Nigeria, Cameroon, Uganda, Russia, Honduras, Mexico, and Saudi Arabia. The best as reported by Gallup are Netherlands, Spain, Canada, Belgium, Norway, Luxembourg, Uruguay, Sweden, Ireland, UK and Denmark. Do you notice a trend here? The poll found that the least hospitable countries are Senegal, Azerbaijan, Pakistan, Burundi, Côte d'Ivoire, Indonesia, Ethiopia, Liberia, Malawi, Mali, Togo and Zimbabwe. However, it should be noticed that they didn't take polls in several countries such as China, Saudi Arabia, Iran, Egypt, Malaysia and other middle eastern and central Asian countries. Jayce Johnson Modern feminism = Women taking and demanding alimony, but when it comes to them the judge usually sides with them and they dont have to pay for it. Modern feminism = Women complaining about income inequality when they work less hours in the office, less likely to work in STEM field, less likely to work in a dangerous occupation where the pay is higher, etc. Yet they demand equal pay. That is not equality, that is entitlement.Modern Feminism = Are too ridiculous that flirting can be considered as sexual harassment. Do you seriously believe that women will receive psychological trauma when men flirt with women? But hey, they are pushing for this law in many countries now.Feminist back then was really fighting a meaningful fight. Feminist today are fighting for entitlement. Women dont want to work as long as men, dont want to work in STEM, dont want to do dirty disgusting and dangerous jobs, yet they want equal pay. Women believe that when they divorce men should pay for alimony but when the tables are turned against them they dont like it. Women can cat call, touch or flirt with any guys they want but they dont like it when guys do that to them. Where is the equality among the modern feminist? Its not equality, its entitlement. I can give you plenty more example of just how dumb modern feminists are.	Dumb, Sexual	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	2/237	0.844 fix I'm not going to bother addressing your overgeneralizations about modern feminism, it's clear you've made up a specific idea of it in your mind that no amount of rationality can counter, because you're driven by hate not logic. Every wave of feminism has been met with the same old story: that women want entitlements, not equality. Everything you mentioned is addressed by one branch of feminists or another. I'm sorry you only pay attention to the ones that confirm your biases.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/82	1.22

fix Oh very well. As you know, alimony is when the higher-earning spouse gives financial support to the lower-earning one, which is disproportionately women. However, more women are paying alimony now than before because they're making more money (thanks modern feminism). Most parents agree between themselves that custody will go to the mother, but fathers who actively seek custody obtain either primary or joint physical custody over 70 of the time. One of the reasons for income inequality is that women hold jobs while disproportionately doing housework and childcare duties. Because of this double burden, they earn money on top of having to do most unpaid domestic work. The STEM field is particularly hostile towards women, you can find a lot of research on that, it's not a good example, and no the highest paying jobs are not the most dangerous ones. Women should demand equal pay, or at least the social institutions that would allow for this, because they should not have to do more work than men only to be paid less. That's not entitlement, that's just fair. If you can't tell the difference between sexual harassment and flirting, you are not safe for women to be around. 1 in 3 women report to have been sexually harassed at work, and 65 have reported being harassed on the street. When you are a woman who is constantly treated this way, yes it has an effect on your mental health. What law are you talking about? A law that forbids flirting? Lol that's a no. Feminists are fighting a meaningful fight now, all you've shows is your ignorance and lack of concern for problems women are facing. No, women cannot cat-call, touch, or flirt with any guys they want, and if a woman thinks she can she should be treated the same way a man is. Some people might think this isn't as serious because it's mostly men who sexually harass women. You'll have to give more examples, but you haven't shown how dumb modern feminists are (and btw, I am a modern feminist), you've only shown how dumb you are.	Dumb, Mental, Sexual, Woman	Gender - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	6/352	1.705

Jayce Johnson Alimony = Yes. But my point is, even women of higher income than their spouse/ex refused to give it to their ex. And they even had the support of media and feminists group. Want me to give an example?Income = Sure women does household chores much more than men. But that is a problem between u and ur husband. It has nothing today with ur boss being oppressive towards u. Ur boss does not care about personal problems. They just want deadlines. So stop pushing companies to pay u higher when u work less hours than men. Negotiate with ur husband, hire a nanny, whatever. Find a solution to get ahead in ur career. Dont forced ur boss to pay u as much as other people when u work less hours. Your boss doesnt care about who do the most chores or who takes care of ur babies more. Lol. Get real. And btw, a lot of moms want to work less hours anyway. That is why a lot more women take part time jobs compared to men. Because they want to spend timw with their kids much more than dads want to. There is a bond between mom and kids that are in most cases much stronger than dad with kids. Which is nothing wrong with that but again dont blame ur boss. STEM = Women are not being discriminated in STEM fields. They themselves choose not to go into STEM fields in general. In college the rate of application of STEM field is overwhelmingly bigger among the male students as opposed to females and women tends to choose something to do with business, social science, nursing, etc. Which of course pays significantly less. I dont see there is nothing wrong with that. If women choose to do something which is less lucrative but they have a passion over it. Why should it be a problem? [LINK] Flirting/Harassmrnt = In case you dont know. Feminists are pushing for the definition of harassment to include flirting. Its been debated for quite a while in London. So im not making this up. Its the feminists who insists that flirting = harassment. Modern feminists had done nothing but playing the victim mentality. Lol. They want ENTITLEMENT.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	4/377	1.061

Celisar1 You've just watched an example of what a truly strong woman is like. You're talking about institutionalized discrimination of which there is absolutely no evidence that it even exists. In fact there is solid data that it doesn't. Not saying that discrimination doesn't happen, but widescale discrimination is always an economic cost to the discriminator not necessarily the discriminated, it is therefore not tenable. Feminism is a real world manifestation of how women compete. Men compete on the basis of aggressiveness and assertiveness. They duke it out and then it's over. Women generally lack those qualities so they resort to other tactics, commonly "innuendo, gossip and reputation destruction" (quoting). Historically women competed with other women, men were favored as resources. Now women have brought these qualities into the competitive world of men and seeking to change the way the game is played in their favor. It's a self-serving, manipulative, toxic and ultimately destructive form of behavior. This is why feminism is so aptly equated to cancer.Modern feminism is nothing like the civil rights movement. Western women are the most privileged human beings that ever walked the earth, accounting for over 80 of all domestic spending in the economy, in addition to the fact that most male spending is on women. Stafford Stafford, no, white men did not start with the same as everyone else. They had more privilege and advantages in society. You either forget or you never learned what life used to be like for women in America. It used to be women weren't allowed to vote. They were discouraged from getting a real education and from working at all. And when they did work, they could usually only find jobs as teachers, nurses, and secretaries (though there was a time that teaching was mostly a male profession anyway). And if a woman was married, companies often wouldn't hire her because they thought she'd get pregnant and they'd have to find a replacement. And if women got pregnant, their bosses would often fire them just for that. There was no maternity leave. Women weren't allowed to apply for loans or buy real estate without their husband's or father's signature and permission. But during many of the wars we've had, women had to enter the workforce to replace the men who had been drafted to fight. But when the wars were over, they were often fired and replaced by the returning men, even though many of those women lost their fathers and husbands in the war, so they HAD to go to work to support themselves or their now fatherless children, but many couldn't find work because most employers preferred men. Or if they found work, it paid much less to women than it did for men, so they did not make enough to support their kids. That's all feminism is about, it's about fairness. And it goes both ways. It used to be that men weren't considered for nursing positions, or child care, or even teaching, cooking, or baking because employers just assumed men weren't good at those things. But men who have a talent for those things should not be denied the chance to do them just because they are men.	Woman	Gender - General	1/323	0.31

"frightened men" What makes you think that someone being against feminism means they must be a man? Have you never seen a woman who's against feminism?	Woman	Gender - General	1/26	3.846
Feminist seem to think that all men had all the power since time began. The truth is you were either Royalty, Clergy or powerless peasant, man OR woman . The fight was led by men for hundreds of years to chip away at the power of the church and state. Do you think they gave up this power voluntarily? A lot of people died (mostly men) fighting for the right to be free of servitude and to get the vote - look at the USA's own revolutionary war to break away from the British state, there's a high male body count. Up until 1884 only landowners could vote in Britain (about 30 of the men). In 1918 finally all men could vote and women over 30. Then in 1928 Britain made voting rights equal. The general male population has only about 30 years advantage over the average woman with a very high body count to achieve it. The "struggle" for equality is really a class struggle, not a gender struggle. Only the very rich elite (mostly men) had money, education and power for the last 1000 years, the 99 of Men AND Women had servitude.	Gender, Woman	Gender - General	3/194	1.546

This is a very good point, but it should also be pointed out that men, at the very least, had some degree of power in their own homes. Power over the woman , who was expected to obey him(and still is, according to the bible). When men were servants, women were the servants of servants.	Woman	Gender - General	1/54	1.852
Candice Honeycutt. Truth n reality kinda hurt dont they? Yeah I know, I live in reality and no one said we don't need women or that women aren't valuable. Obviously without women being the other side of the ying yang, men and children would NOT be able to survive. Women play a very important part but it's not the part you've been brainwashed to think it is. Women CANNOT rule, they are NOT going to defend anything. And you probably think once women rule a country or nation , that everything is going to be rainbows and unicorns. Well im here to tell you, that you are WRONG. Notice, NOTICE I never once on this thread said that we don't need women or that women are useless.	Nation	Nationality - General	1/126	0.794
I think to concede that the past was oppressive on a patriarchal level is to also acknowledge that the natural order is that men are more dominant of the 2 sexes. The key thing everyone seems to be missing out is the fact that most households in the past lived in poverty and terrible conditions, many of the jobs were physical labour, and there was no contraception so women had less career opportunity anyway. The family unit may not have been equal in power between men and women but it was what worked to cope best in those conditions. Male traits are just biologically advantageous in getting ahead so there will always be gender inequality based around a fair system	Gender	Gender - General	1/120	0.833
Of course you can't. Otherwise, you would have to use arguments against my points and you can't do that because you know I'm right. "there was no contraception so women had less career opportunity anyway". Why? Because of men. I can use examples of all the arguments used here to say men are "naturally" the dominant gender to prove that men intentionally hold women back but say it's just "nature". Actually, someone said here in the comments that men go to combat because if a huge number of men die it's ok, but if too many women die, the civilization will die out. Yes, exactly. Men are disposable, women are not. But somehow men think that makes them superior. MaleLogicSomeone also said that men "protect" women. lol Men are the biggest threat to women. Men are not women's protectors.	Gender	Gender - General	1/141	0.709

Ste B I don't think that, and I don't appreciate the assumption that I'm some brainwashed feminist. There are and have been some largely matriarchal societies that got along just fine. Ruling anything is hard, man or woman . You're also just assuming that women won't throw their lives down if things get ugly, but you can't speak for every single woman based on your own logic. You say it's fact that women will bail once the bullets fly, so what's your source? a personal opinion? an anecdote? Just because you're willing to die doesn't mean you should have more authority, what kind of logic is that anyway? Those two things don't even really correlate.	Woman	Gender - General	2/114	1.754
DishingOut Ls Personally, no. Mostly because I really don't like the idea of war. I'll happily sit in jail as a draft dodger . DishingOut Ls Only men should go to war because only men are disposable. Men create wars, men die in wars. It's simple as that. Women should be allowed to fight if they want too because women can do whatever they want and males HAVE NO RIGHT to determine what women can or can't do. But women who choose to go to war are DUMB . Men fight for power or because they are ordered to by other men, not for their families. Cut the BS.	Dumb	Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	1/84	1.19

Candice Honeycutt. history is my source. Show me a division, battalion or even a platoon of nothing but women who have willingly given up their lives in high numbers for their country, their village, their people etc..... Yeah you have the occasional few but as far as history tells, men have died in massive amounts killed by other men. I'll say it again, high groups of women CANNOT and should NOT be involved in combat or else that society will parrish. Are you not understanding what I'm saying here? I gotta laugh at the people here saying that women have always been powerless against men, that they've only ever been helpless servants and playthings to men, until women's lib. NO, women do have a measure of power over men and always have. It comes down to the old saying about how "A man is the head but the woman is the neck, and she can turn the head any way she wants". What women lack in the ability to dominate or otherwise physically stand their ground, they more than make up for it in their ability to influence and persuade, for good or ill. Women's ability to influence and persuade others has made them very able politicians and power brokers in their own right over the the centuries and millennia, if pursuit of political power and independence was the path any of them chose (or if, through circumstance, the path was chosen for them). Women do have resourcefulness, inner strength and an inner greatness that are very admirable and should, rightfully, be revered. Really, a man cannot dominate or otherwise lead a woman without her agreeing to it: It's just like in Eleanor Roosevelt's immortal words "No one can make you feel inferior without your consent". Every woman has power, she just has to "nut-up" and use it!	Old, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Gender - General	4/219	1.826

Madeline Cruz, you are so off the mark here that I question if you even watched the same video as the rest of us. Judge Judy's philosophy falls more in line with Original Feminism, which in fact was/is all about actual Equality; Equal rights...as well as equal responsibility and equal accountability.Modern-Day Progressive Liberal Feminism is more about Special Treatment rather than equal rights. Why are all the feminists mad? Judge Judy has always said she rejects feminism. She doesn't consider herself a woman judge. She's a judge who just happens to be a woman . She competed against men without asking for or receiving special treatment and she came out on top because she was the best at what she does. That's an actual strong woman and is the exact opposite of 3rd wave feminists who pretend to want equality but really just want special treatment. Maybe you should listen to a wise woman rather than turn your nose up at her because she didn't need to be a part of your cult to be successful.	Woman	Gender - General	4/112	3.571

Well, then she was the only strong woman back then...the rest were just waiting for special treatment. Do you maybe think that there are less women in government and top management positions because women in general are not as strong as men? It kind of relates to your point. It always amazes me how people automatically think that there are less women on top (or in male-dominated careers) because there probably are not as many qualified women as men, or that it is the case because women choose family over career, or that they simply are not interested in that area of work, and that is not true. Not mad, but saddened.	Woman	Gender - General	1/112	0.893
natzki spionen There are less women in top positions or in male-dominated careers because those jobs and positions typically require people with male characteristics. Obviously there are going to be more men in them, the same way you'll find way less men in careers that typically require female characteristics like nursing or social work. It's not an accident that the most authoritative women at work are the complete opposite at home. If she had the same "masculine" behaviour at home, the relationship wouldn't work. All of this is science yet feminists want to call you sexist when you state it. I'm far from sexist and anyone willing to do the research can do it at any point rather than pushing the narrative that men are just sexist. Women are more than half of the population and could vote all women in most government positions if they wanted to. The reason they don't is largely because women don't run for those positions as they prefer other work. If you still think it's sexism then you'll have to make the same argument as to why nursing (for example) is dominated by women.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/190	0.526

The individualistic culture in the U.S. is a real problem, I think. No one truly gets to where they are without direct and indirect help—help from people you know in your circle of family/friends and even people you’ve never met who have built institutions and laws that have made society function better. We also all have had help from innovation and technology that people from the past have worked hard to create so that life could be better for everyone. So to say you got somewhere all under your own power is a bit delusional and comes from shallow thinking, I think. I wish today’s feminists would realize that we can’t change things by bashing men over the head to try to make them treat us better. In reality, there is only a small percent of men who are truly sexist in a way that is damaging. Most of the damage actually is systemic—not from any one individual. The sexism is directly caused from the socioeconomic system we continue to adhere to, a system that was born out of intense inequality and strife. Things like sexism, racism, and inequality are built into the system’s mode of operation so there will always be a trend towards those things, we’ll always be fighting that inclination in some way. We need a new system altogether, one that is designed to create equality, good human health, and environmental sustainability. Government knows that dividing a country into smaller countries and injecting their own puppet leaders to run it is the best way to overthrow it and get it to do what they want it to do. It’s not that different for families. Where there is a unit there can be division. Feminism works for them, if men were more prone to the idea it would be called masculinism. Feminism means different things these days and has mistakenly included other ideas that social justice warriors get too far ahead of themselves with. The whole idea behind feminism is simply equality. Before it was about rights, and now it seems more about what comes with those rights. We have the right to work, but equal pay is still an issue and there is workplace sexism. We have the right to go to school, but many women are discouraged from STEM careers due to harassment, gender bias, or because of the sacrifices required. When I was studying pre-med, I was given a book where the entire book described what women should consider before becoming a doctor and it basically said if you want to be pregnant before 30, don't become a doctor. Also how our culture and the media portrays women is really important. Sexual violence against women is almost never taken as seriously as when it happens to a man - why? There are even some states where laws make it harder to accuse a husband of sexual assault. And keep in mind, outside of western countries, many women have it far worse. s0fa" STEM is marketed towards men, women aren't interested because it's not marketed to be relatable."Nope. All graduate fields, ESPECAILLY STEM, are marketed towards women. The modern society heavily encourages women in STEM in order to equalize the "representation", have women only scholarships etc (wonder why the same doesn't happen to men for fields dominated by women, or for blue collar/high risk jobs. Hmm)Actually women dominate in the "M" of the STEM.More women graduate from colleges than men, but for some reason this isn't treated as an issue. It's an issue only for women to be less represented in STE fields?"I've been in engineering long enough to understand the mental hurdles. The more I talk to girls about my engineering career, the more they are curious about it."It's true that women interested in typically male interested fields such as engineering find some mental hurdles (or an invisible wall, say) to pursue this path. But this has got much more to do with peer pressure and gender tribalism than sexism . Men who're interested in typically female interested jobs face the same mental hurdles. I know this is just an anecdotal experience and possibly mean nothing , but my mother had the same issue, she was incredibly talented in maths and physics and liked those subjects, yet chose to go to biology (inspite of her parents encouraging her to take up engineering!) because most of her friends (who were females) were going to biology, it was pure peer pressure. Akhilesh P what I mean by marketing, it's a mix of corporate/academic and cultural social pressures. Medical doesn't just mean nurses and doctors , but also medical research and technology. Also at least for STE fields, there's a geek culture that often lacks in women representation, even though being a geek is not an indicator of one's STE abilities.	doctors	Nationality - General	1/59	1.695

Akhilesh P the truth is, at least in tech where I work, sexism (whether consciously or unconsciously) is more systemic and destructive than people realize. In tech, code written by women get rejected more if their gender is revealed. I like what judge Judy said, she's successful because she put in the work and just so happens to be a women, but unfortunately not everyone judges high power women with the same respect. That respect is the core of feminism, even if she doesn't consider herself a feminist.	Gender, Sexism	Gender - General	2/88	2.273
Discouraged from STEM? Your kidding right? My home states engineering college has literally had a summer program every year for the last 15 or so years that let girls come out stay the week in the dorms and enjoy all the cool stuff that come with STEM fields. I mean they practically cram that shot down their throats. Guess what. Didn't really change the number of women enrolling in the STEM field. So 15 years of encouraging women and it did nothing . At that point it's not discrimination, it's women's choices. By the way this is coming from a granddaughter of an engineering adjunct professor at said college who was a HUGE proponent of women in engineering. But even he realized it's a losing battle. Carrie Carson Carrie you said it pretty spot on. You guys make it like when it comes to feminism there's only one way to think. Everyone, for better or worse has their own tweaked version of feminism because everyone experiences sexism in different ways and in different capacities. But COLLECTIVELY, the goal is equal rights. Honest question just because I'm curious, if we take on what you say about there being equal rights in America for men and women but not in some other countries, are we allowed to call ourselves feminists if we help women's issues in other, less well off countries? And as for the always asked question 'if it was about equality why don't we call it equalism'... The movement is centred around equal rights, yes, but more specifically it's to lift women UP to be equal with men.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/142	0.704

With all due respect, actually, if there ever wasn't a succesful feminist movement, she would not be on TV. She would probably be at home in a long dress cooking meals for her family, dreaming of being able to get an education and have a career. She would not be able to have a driving license or speak in a company of men. She would be scared to raise an issue and utter her opinion on politics or on the society. She would be obeying her husband's wishes, her father's, her brothers... Her sole purpose in life would be to be good and proper, and to raise children. She would be scared to follow her heart and be afraid of being scorned (maybe even stoned/burned/hanged) if she does. She would be scared to become an outcast, shamed, reprimanded for her opinion that she, that all women in America, should be equal to men... Ironiс, isn't it? Before you so proudly throw feminism in the gutter, think of all the women in this situation TODAY. Can you think of any country, any culture? Have you any ideas on how to change their situation? Would courageous women and men coming together in a movement help? In the western world that movement was named feminism (daring to use a word connected to female/woman, for the first time truly brining women to attention), but it could of course be given other names, if you would prefer that.As to Judge Judy, she is great, nobody takes that away from her, everybody knows she is a hard worker. But her purely individualic perspective expressed in this show is saddening, that's all. Being proud of not being a feminist, just makes me truly hurt in my heart for the good and courageous men and women who got us here, and who still work on modern women issues, and for all the millions of women still struggling badly in other countries. This show's message clearly undermines the feminist movement, and that was also the intention of Megyn who was glad to interview a like-minded person. But why on earth are some people so eager to do that and are so proud to reject this truly fantastic phenomenon? Because somebody told you that somebody had said that some feminist whose name you don't know hate men, and so that's it for you? Jessica Munoz absolutely nothing . That's the best part about feminism doing exactly what you want without limitations. Her point is, J. Judy had other aspirations. She obviously doesn't want to be a stay at home mom, and had it not been for the feminist movement, she wouldn't have had a choice.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/51	1.961
Jessica Munoz all the hard work and determination would have done nothing if women didn't fight for the to have a place in certain parts of our society. Do you think prior to feminism there weren't highly intelligent qualified women who wanted to go to law school? Or once women attained their law degree do you think those women decided that was enough, they'll settle for the degree go back home and have babies. No. Those women and women like them protested, they lobbied, they fought tooth and nail to make sure women like J. Judy could passionately achieve their dreams. That doesn't mean the work ended there. She is an older woman which mean she had to continue that fight to get where she's at. If she doesn't want to label herself a feminist that's her prerogative. She doesn't have to have her name in history to have contributed or benefit from the movement. I'm sure the 4 fathers didn't see themselves as revolutionist. But we do. And in their time revolutionist were characterized similarly as feminists are characterized today. It's all about context. You're in it now so it's hard to see. But your daughters, and daughter's daughters will see today's feminism as revolutionary. That's just how goes.	Nothing, Woman	Age - Youngsters, Gender - General	2/210	0.952
Jessica, when cooking and raising children is your sole purpose in life and wearing dresses is your only choice, both made by the society FOR you, it is not very good, don't you think? These are just a few examples of oppression of women, which feminists (men and women) have fought against. It is not a change brought by individualism, and it certainly did not just happen. We don't just get modern, better and more evolved. There are movements and collective forces that push for labour rights, human rights, equality between men and women, children's rights, and so on. The feminist movement resulted in the woman to have choices, to have a right to choose how she lives. She can now say to her husband to help her out with cooking, while she is taking a jog in her pants around the neighborhood. It is an example of basic human choices and freedoms. In many other countries, women still don't have these freedoms. And there are still issues to be worked on in the western society, for example sexism . So I truly hope that you are a feminist, at least in that regard.	Sexism, Woman	Gender - General	2/193	1.036

millana100 But being a feminist does not mean that you make other women get a free ride, or that a woman who has to fight less hard to get a job she actually is qualified for means that she will feel less self worth. There is yet no feminism that makes this world easy for women. Feminism is a process, with a goal of women some day having the same opportunities as men, and also fostering the belief of being capable in our girls, and not the least teaching our boys to recognize equality and enforce it throughout their lives. I truly dont understand how one can not be a feminist, or why it is such a scorned word or phenomenon to so many. It's not the actual new generations of feminist which gave you the possibility to work, vote and not just raise kids so she's not discussing a link with the ones who got these milestones actually. She's discussing if she would call herself one now.Many people who don't feel really close of current feminist like her would gladly congrats the former feminists who actually did bring this step for progress you discussed.To be frank, 3 times out of 4 when I see a feminist in medias nowadays she's talking about the most absurd things like manspreading etc... Of course you have surveys saying nearly 100 of young UK women are for gender equality but only 40 call themselves feminists after that. If you rarely see anything but posers among the ones claiming to be feminist you're not tented to "join" them.It's why the feminist renew from 2013 went weaker. Same thing already happened in the 90's, feminism was extremely discussed then it became a quite divisive term and even a dirty word for some people because of its excess.What matters is people intentions no? natzki spionen To your point that Individualism is a problem. We see throughout history certain INDIVIDUALS make their mark. These individuals had a huge singular impact throughout the world or at least in their own countries: Technology; Bill Gates, Steven Jobs, Henry Ford, Thomas Edison, Alexander Bell...Science; Albert Einstein, Charles Darwin, Louis Pasteur, Marie Curie, Galileo Galilei, Ernest Rutherford, Francis Crick, Max Born...Social Justice; Mahatma Gandhi, Rosa parks, Martin Luther King, Margaret Sanger...I'm not sure what your specific complaint against individuals is. Some people may take personal issue with some of these examples being that they may not agree with their philosophy or their ideals; However, they did result in a very large impact on society. One could write a novel about all of the individuals throughout history that have impacted the world. It is from these individuals that we now have groups of people supporting and using their concepts, ideas, and philosophy. While it is true that many voices can be heard louder than one, it starts with one first. I personally think that group think mentality can be far more hazardous to a society then just individual thought. Group think, or general consensus in the scientific world has in the past caused the deaths of many individuals. Ignazio Semmelweis discovered germ theory in the 1840's and briefly was able to save many lives but because of group mentality he was persecuted and de- credited and ultimately ended up in a mental institution. We see what group think does in a large scale through fascist, communistic, and dictatorship governments. Our government was set up as a Republic for the people and by the people to protect the rights of the individuals. Not the other way around. As stated b4, we have made amendments to our Constitution and signed into law Civil Rights that act as protections under Law to American citizens. Our nation was founded by individuals for individual rights and has always remained that way. Like every other nation, we have gone through cultural changes. But for all intents and purposes your argument against individualism is an irrational one.	Mental, Nation	Nationality - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	3/352	0.852

natzki spionen You seem to be going around and around trying to make the same irrelevant point. In America, discrimination against women is illegal. PERIOD. Is it legal to discriminate in Sweden? The United States of America has many women's programs, to think otherwise is an insult or ignorance or both. I don't understand your hostility towards the individual human being. What about the concept of one woman, one individual? You did make your point clear that you were vehemently opposed to the idea of the individual person and assisting an individual versus group identity. In the US if a woman is receiving less pay than her male counterpart doing the same job she can file a discrimination lawsuit and Win that is why companies do NOT pay less to women. Because it's illegal. Many jobs have negotiable contracts, so if you are not as good at negotiating your rate of pay/benefits or bring less value/skills/potential...then you may not expect the same pay as your fellow co-workers. We already have EQUAL PAY! It's the LAW! Do you not have equal pay laws in Sweden? The basic concepts that suffragettes and women of the past brought forward have benefited us women of today. But to say that you are still fighting for equality may be true of Sweden but not of the United States. I stated before we already have Federal and State laws and many programs that are already and have been in effect to protect Women from many forms of discrimination. Like anything else in life if you're miss treated and run into a legal issue you bring it to the justice system. It's not the definition of individual that's the problem. It's your philosophy that is the issue. In America men and women are treated equally. Period. It's the right thing to do AND it's the law, anything differently is illegal and can be persecuted in the court of law. What people do in their personal lives is their business. And not yours.	Woman	Gender - General	2/335	0.597

Swedish feminism is destroying your country. But you don't need to worry about it as you are not likely to have feminism for every long when the full process of cultural enrichment happens. The pride of not being a feminist comes from being rational and not identifying yourself based on being a woman . Feminism of today is about female superiority and you cannot deny this. Things are very equal right now if anything woman have more power than men. For example everyone is very aware the 78 percent on the dollar wage gap is not real but even obama and his white house portrayed it as genuine with any real perspective. She doesn't understand feminism: True Feminism IS about being Self-actualized, not part of a group (not sure where she got that from). casey mart : Who in your opinion has the authority to decide if women have or don't have a reason to "complain"? And as to the angry women, if you think of Scandinavia for example, then all men and women must be angry over there, because most of them are feminists who work on many issues regarding equality (in fact on every government level, as well as in the business sector)... My husband is a swede, he is a feminist, his friends are feminists, my friends are feminist, and we are all average people with different political views and backgrounds. Here, people are so proud to work for equality and against sexism . Even my russian, soviet-raised mother has become a feminist while living here. We are all a hopeful and happy bunch. I have not, in all honesty met a person here that says "I'm not a feminist!". People just really care of having things such as paternity leaves (so that women can go back to work sooner if they like), or for striving to have women on management boards and in the government, of raising wages for female-dominated areas of work such as health care, for having equal pay for a woman at the same position as the man, and so on. Missy Honeycutt , Well, they don't always say these things from the start, presenting a deal breaker. But when the surprise happens, they are very sure they were very clear about it from the start. This actually happens in marriages, not only in boyfriend-girlfriend relationships. Where I live, people often get married and live without children for quite a long time. They travel together and do this and that, and then they, despite protection, sometimes get pregnant. Many of the quotes I used are actually from couples like that. One of them belong to myself (seven years together and we are over thirty), although luckily, it only was a pregnancy-scare. And there are also husbands pushing wives to abort a third or forth child because they are "tired", or were "looking forward to buy that new car". I know quite many of those stories, unfortunately. Women are often willing to rethink their family picture, when they realize they are pregnant. And they desperately seek support in their husbands. I know men that threatened to divorce, because "we can barely handle our two". What should a woman do? Suddenly divorce and become a single parent? I would, but not everybody would or could. I know of one man who actually bought that new car and moved to the french riviera, leaving his wife with now three children. The third, that she was brave to keep, was born with a severe handicap and she became completely alone and lost. It is the reality of our "humanity".	Woman	Gender - General	1/254	0.394

Still Liv'in I dont think I have met anybody who dont call themselves a feminist (men included), on both sides. But then I dont live in the USA. Where I live, in Sweden, there is no such club. There is a club of sorts that is called radical feminists, but it is small and I seldom hear about it. My husband, a technician, is a proud feminist and is truly dedicated to make his area of work available and welcoming for women. He fights sexism and that often means taking a risk of correcting for example his boss. He is a feminist also in the way that he gladly will have an equal paternity leave (6 months), so I dont fall behind and dont loose more of my pension. He does the exact same work as me at home. I could go on and on. I just wanted to paint a different picture for you. My guy is almost an avarage guy for Sweden. A truly happy guy, I should point out in case anybody would think otherwise. And trust me I have seen and lived in a world that is the opposite of this and know the astounding difference, I am originally from Russia. The talk in this program reminds me of how women speak in Russia, and that is not a great place for women. And there are not very many happy men there either.	Sexism	Gender - General	1/237	0.422

Well, what does being a feminist mean in your opinion? I think the problem of the 'feminist' movement is it's lack of a clear definition. While many people are in favour of equal right and treatment of woman , a lot of people are scared off by some of the extreme views of self-proclaimed feminists (positive discrimination etc.). Everyone has a different definition of feminism and that leads to disagreement, even though people don't necessarily have to disagree about the place and treatment of women in society. Bas Schoenmaker to me being a feminist means that i am aware that historically women have struggled to be respected.It's means fighting for women rights and men rights equally, because the goal is not to rip men of their rights but to allow women to have the same in general.To me a woman that stops working to take care of her children because she wants to is a feminist. She can do it because our societies of men and women worked in different ways and fought so she can make that choice. And many key feminists who made that possible were men, women could not have done it without them.That being said there are extremism in every mouvementFor the lazy people who like to put everybody in the same category (of any kind) and generalizing because it's to hard to use their brains, well I gave up on them a long time a ago, i'd rather use this energy on those who actually want each one of us to thrive.
