I was 1 out of 3 asians growing up in Jersey. I was never bullied or dealt with racism . It wasn't until I got into my 20s I notice some people would treat me different assuming because they are racist .	Racism, Racist	Ethnicity - General	2/40	5.0
As a black person who studied my Msc in the UK, I had a 3yrs old white girl child walk up to me at a bus station and ask me why I'm black and that she hates blacks...I was "shook"her parents came up to apologise after I had tried re orienting her thinking...there and then I came to believe that these kids are conditioned to hate other races right from birth...quite scary for the next generation	Black, Old	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - Black	3/76	3.947

I understand many of the adolescents had had bad experiences with racism . I'm not dismissing the interviews. Still, they should have used "control" pictures in which both the standing and the fallen boy were the same race . They would find the same pattern - six year olds would view them as friends and adolescents would assume the standing boy was a bully. It's a difference in what kids are like at different stages. No one is hated because of the color of his skin - stop propaganda and lies...We love or hate people - as a reaction to what they have done!If people are with good hearths, have education, have good manners, use normal language, behave normal, smile, don't do crimes, work hard and are good people - all we love them - no matter if they are white, black , pink, blue or ultraviolet... If people do crimes, don't respect laws, live all life on social benefits, don't want to work and educate themselves - we hate them - this is a normal reaction... But if white people - hate black criminals - stupid people call us - racists... That is very strange, and not normal... The truth is the truth!!! We must say it - and fight for it!!! And people who want respect and love - first must deserve it!!!	Black	Ethnicity - Black	2/151	1.325

It's stupid how we can't just get along. I'm a White Christian, and I have plenty of African American friends, and it's saddening to see them being bullied and people making racist jokes that they're gang members or something stupid. They're members of my church... I just wanna say that we're not all that different.. we are pretty much the same, but we have different skin colors. There's no reason to hate each other for what happened in the past, and look into the future. A future where we could get along, and were all happy. Only god can save us now... That's again a white bullshit to play down to heir extrem racism by letting kids tell ye its 2012 friends are everywhere blablabla. They wanna make the White's feel as if they are in a good but hard struggle to show the kids antiracism by putting in black kids who are not racist but talk the sam childish children language of it doesn't matter the skinn etc. It makes the audience believe that they are better then those white parents who teach their children this racist shit but the truth is,that's an indicator to their extremely racist society when even six years old have this mindset.....The reason why they show u SMT like that is not to inform but to confuse with the hell of children especially black children..... The result is clear ye teach n live racism . U breath it ,u read it u like it. It's an advantage for ye	Black, Old, Racism, Racist	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	8/153	5.229

If we are to be honest with each other there's going to be pain and embarassment, there's no way around that, at around15:15 the young black girl said she wouldn't mind so much as long as the white girl didn't act so white, when we what that means she seemed to be imatating a white girl I'm atating a black girl, I may be wrong, but I grew up with black people (I'm a white american) we were always together, a bunch of us from around the age of ten till today, I would cringe when we,d run into some white guy and he try to talk in a black american dialect, I think my buds did too, we were just ourselves who lived in the same neighborhood, schools , in and out of each others homes. Maybe she wouldn't mind her brothers white girlfriend if the girl would just be herself,	Age, Black	Age - General, Ethnicity - Black	5/153	3.268

I would tell these kids that we r all americans, every color religion, creed, ,we can't let them divide us, we have to stick together to keep our rights, these rights r precious but fragile, don't overlook them or take them for granted. There was a time when we'll healed white men did indeed do just that, it would never dawn on them to be retained by the police if they were doing nothing illegal. That's a terrific law to have, and we do, all of us amercans, and more. We have the freedom to practice our religion, or no religion. non religious probably feel religious ppl r laying moral guilt and judgement on them, pointing the finger at them , it there were no religions on earth, ppl would still be laying moral judgments and guilt at each otther, that's something we can work on. The police can't enter ur home without a warrant signed by a judge show a good reason, we have the right to assemble together , to protest, or celebrate. We must teach these kids their rights so they,appreciate the enough to fight for them , we must stick together. We can't let anyone desperatte us. Black Americans have paid their dues and in full , and have the same rights as any american, All americans. We can't let anyone fool our children into believing they don't live in a great country. We denied our problems in the past and we can't deny them now, but there fixable as long as our rights are protected, Fredrick Dougulous , one of America's great men, was sure the declaration of independence was written in away that took away a black Americans rights, he read it (having taught himself to read) and was shocked and delighted that it didnt, we can work on solving problems together and live our version of the American dream.	Black, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - Black	3/316	0.949

There's a lot wrong with this experiment. One it's the area that you live in. I'm white and was bullied because I was white. I lived in a predominantly black neighborhood. The second thing is media propagates the thought of racism . The more that differences are shown the more kids will think 'oh there's something wrong with this race .' I have a little brother that's mixed and he turned 8 and just recently started to notice that people's skin tones are different. He hasn't seen anything racist (and I'm very glad that he hasn't) I'm keeping him away from the media garbage like how cops are terrible and everything. It's mainly the Democratic Party I see do this. Stop with the narrative that there's racism everywhere. It's not nearly what it was ten to twenty years ago, let alone one hundred or more. Can there be changes? Obviously yes, but making it a bigger problem than it actually is is outrageous. By doing this you're making the country more divided. Thanks for coming to my Ted talk. Have Zero Idea Why there is a Line thru my words. This May not have anything to do with the subject,, But I Had to say::: my boys went to a school with about an equal number of races. My youngest was friend's with a Black girl—she taught him how to drive a stick and he helped her with her math.// He came home one day Wide-eyed and pretty shook up. MOM— I went over to so & so's house and rang the doorbell. Her father came to the door, looked down at me with a Big frown and after some time, said::: WELL, what do YOU Want?? I came here to help with her math. The father turned from the door, yelled into the house — „ there's Some WHITE BOY Out Here that wants to talk to You (she told my son, maybe he'd better leave now). Racism is the biggest issue that always gets pushed under the rug!!! Racism is taught 'at the dinner table' so to speak. It's so sad! If the world would conquer racism , all the other prejudices would be less opposed, such as homosexuality, women's rights, equal pay..... this is the real problem everywhere! If you're taking a flight the only question you have is are they qualified. If you're in the hospital if there's a qualified Black doctor do you decide to wait until one of your race shows up? If you're looking for a pair of shoes in your size do you insist the person look like you. This is 2019 people! Racism should be so minimal now that we (Black & White, and any religion) should be able to sit around and talk about how horrible that use to be. God bless us everyone! I was born in 1962, in the Bronx, NY, and went to Catholic school for 8 years with white, Hispanic and black kids. I went to a public high school with thousands of kids from all over NYC, who were Jewish, Muslim, Christian and various ethnic and cultural backgrounds. I wasn't sheltered, and when I was 10 years old , I heard my mom tell a white neighbor she didn't care who my siblings and I dated/married, as long as they treated us right. Racism is learned at home. It is rare that kids who are fed a constant diet of racism , grow up to date and marry outside their race . I'm glad my mom raised me right. I went out with black , white, Hispanic and Asian guys, and even an atheist and Muslim. We are all more alike, than we are different, and I'm grateful for my experiences with people who are ethnically and culturally different. One thing I learned from my many black friends in New England is to not call them African -American! One guy in particular was offended! He said, ” I’m not African at all, I’m just American! Call me black ! So yeah I definitely just say black now and if I sense that the person doesn’t like that I apologize and politely ask what they would prefer. Nothing wrong with talking and asking questions if your sincere about it. I’ll ask a Muslim about religion, a black person about race , etc. The important word here is ASK ! I’m asking so I can learn and understand. I never debate about a persons beliefs. My goal is to gain first-hand knowledge from someone so I don’t become another half-wit bigot like many others. Racism starts at home! I was bought up in a Christian home and taught that racism has no place with God! You can't get into heaven being evil and hating others! Be it skin color or anything if you want to be in with God you have to change from stupid and immature behavior! I've been in interracial relationships and friendships and went through being harmed and threatened by lunatics who just can't live in peace! One of my best friends right now is a caucasian woman and we e-mail each other occasionally! We were friends for four years now and we share jokes! We also meet up at a waterpark and go on the rides together! I even met her daughter and I help her stay out of trouble with peer pressure! If one of her friends or classmates offer her any cigarettes or drugs and alcohol I told the daughter to say no! I know what it's like because I was a teenager and I dealt with the same thing! The mother told me that one time she was failing her grades and I e-mailed her and discussed some things and before I knew it the mother thanked me for helping her!It's about dialog and understanding! Racism is a terrible thing! If I was a black police officer pulling my friend over and harassing her I would correct that police officer and if a white police officer harassed .s she would correct that police officer too! She knows I don't have any criminal record and I was never in trouble with the law! However she's seen how some of the other white people treat black people and it upsets her being that she's trying to be a better person and she doesn't want her daughter to be that way! I am NOT going to respond in any way I've done so in the past. Instead, I present a few questions akin to RACE that ought to be answered TRUTHFULLY . What led that that toxic thing called RACISM ? How was the cause of its beginning? What propels some people to think that they have the right to INVADE, MURDER , STEAL and FLEECE another country of its natural resources? Why is not even a mere apology for the most heinous atrocities (inclusive of genocide) against INNOCENT and FRIENDLY people? Who were those behind the SANCTIONING of SLAVERY and the FINANCING thereof? Where do the African DIAMONDS end? Why is it that TOO MANY of the indigenous people of the AFRICAN Continent are wallowing in POVERTY? How much of the $$$$$$$$/MONIES made from AFRICAN diamonds are given back to help the DESTITUTES/INDIGENTS of that continent? What does ISRAEL, BELGIUM, SWITZERLAND and SWEDEN have to do with those DIAMONDS and dire POVERTY of those Africans? By the same token, why do some countries go to WAR against others to take and control their OIL FIELDS? Unless the EVIL...the unadulterated diabolism of the PAST is objectively approached and a willingness to remedy the SCARS it has left on the mind and soul of those affected or there descendants thereof, the SHOW will just keep going on ... foolishly! Apologies are wondrous venues of sort to begin. FORGIVENESS of the egregiousness of things done to some by their OPPRESORS and those who have done everything to keep them SUBJUGATED in HUMBLE SERVITUDE will be a converging beginning. However, if apologies are the beginning and the end, the sociological scale will NEVER be tipped. RESTITUTION, RECONCILIATION and COMPENSATION must follow. When the children of generations to come learn of this racial and sociological frame, THEY, the children of those who forgave and the children of those had been suppressed will be able to heave a rewarding sigh. As a black woman i never heard any racial slurs about anyone growing up in my home not even from my grandparents..... i became older and witnessed it on my own..... im 32 years old and a mother of one..... and i will never teach my child to dislike anyone due to the color of their skin! he will always know that black is beautiful as for any other person who is a different race than him..... he will also be informed about racism and all the other good and bad in the world..... i wish i could place him in a bubble and keep him safe until the end of days..... sad that he would maybe one day have to witness being treated differently because of the way he looks! really breaks my heart and brings tears to my eyes typing this comment. 'American society made the Negroes color a stigma.'- Martin Luther King. It's deeply rooted in society. My 8 year olds is 'friends' with a white boy on the camp bus. When he tells his 'friend' bye, the boy looks at his dad first then barely responds. However, when he says bye when the mom picks him up, he's a little more receptive. It all starts at home. Could be parents aren't comfortable talking about race and seek out segregated neighborhoods so they don't have to be bothered with such discussions.After decades of violent and brutal resistance, white Southerners largely acquiesced to the desegregation of other public places, of parks, restaurants, city buses and libraries. Contact in those spaces tended to be superficial, and if white people did not want to be around black people, they could simply avoid them. Schools were different. Nearly every American child, then and now, attended a public school. Schools were intimate. For hours each day, students sat next to one another, learned with one another, influenced one another. And also, most frightening, fell in love with one another. In the spring of 1954, as the Supreme Court was deliberating over the Brown case, President Dwight Eisenhower invited Chief Justice Earl Warren to dinner, where he attempted to explain that white Southerners 'are not bad people. All they are concerned about is to see that their sweet little girls are not required to sit in school alongside some big overgrown Negro.' But even more than that, Americans saw schools as the primary drivers of opportunity and success, and white Americans had no desire to share access to the best schools and educational resources for which they'd always held the monopoly.	Black, Negro, Race	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	3/285	1.053

By the way, last thing. You really didn't address anything I said. I really don't even know what you're talking about. It's not even a coherent argument. I was discussing race . That's the topic. I'm right about it, but I may have hit a nerve. The rich in this country use multiculturalism to divide society to create a police state to protect greed. Blacks and Mexicans are actually benefitting from it. That goes for the rich of all races and religions. Scapegoating Jews is a wired, old , nonsensical argument that detracts from the point. It's a bad situation for many whites. Also, not all Jews are rich. It's like saying all Christians are evil because Bill Gates and Warren Buffet are. I'm talking about the rich in general. It's a ridiculous argument.	Old, Race	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - General	2/132	1.515

TheSuperAwesomeBros as a black person, I personally don't support the BLM movement Because it was hijacked by profiteers who saw the systemic racism that exists as an avenue to stir up hatred against a vaguely defined enemy, sometimes police, sometimes white people— as opposed to simply fixing the structures in place that allow for this behaviour to go unchecked. Did you know the 'official' BLM organization has a fucking merchandise shop? They use it to fund 'awareness campaigns' but literally no action is ever carried out. I'd like to ask the leaders to name me just one change BLM has verifiably had on the justice system? It's just plain old Slacktivism in my eyes. Black people do not teach their children to be hatred towards white people. My grandma was a black panther and i know the history of my own people and my heritage and legacy for the building of my self love as a young black girl. Even by empowering our ppl , we still do not teach hate for another kind by lifting ourselves up. I never heard a racial term til i was called a Nigger B in college. Even then it tore me up so emotionally cuz here i am born in 1991 had to relive pains of my ancestors in which they weren't even allowed to show feelings. I cried for a few days. There is so much STUPIDITY in this World from people. Just think about it, if we let children play together without any interference from their racist parents, relatives, and friends(as well as other Racist people that don't like people because of the color of their skin and believe in the Lies that they where told) this world would be a better place for everyone to live in. It is so sad to see that these children lose their innocent all because of a few Racist People and what they teach their children to so to other children all because of the color of their skin and because they look different. I can only guess that if them or someone in their family needed an organ, operation, blood, or any other life saving technique, they would rather let their love ones or themselves die before they let them put another skin color person blood or organs in their bodies. I am so glad that I don't feel that way. My parents raised me up to look at a person's heart and not what they look like or the color of their skin, and that is how we raised our children and our children childrens and it will continue from generation to GENERATIONS. After all, Race is a Run; Color comes in many different shades, and by GOD'S LAWS, We The People That God Created, are All One Race , That Happens to be THE HUMAN RACE ; Plain and Simple. If you have people there don't believe in God Or His Word, then you need to take a real hard look and reread and understand God's Commandments and The Lord's Prayer. This was so confusing for me to watch. Here in Hawai'i, that level of bullying rarely happens. It's not a coincidence that only 22.1 of our population is Caucasian...and before you say that it's about the white people, that wasn't my point. My singular point is that because we have so many different ethnicities here, we ALL get along. You'll rarely see groups of people here that are all the same ethnicity . If you yourself wouldn't accept yourself then why should others accept you. You think you love yourselves but you don't. The black women hate themselves hence skin whitening, long hair of all textures and styles, ridiculous almost clownish makeup, what you making up for, what short coming do you perceive in your self? Who told you that you are not devinely beautiful just the way our good God made us all. The onilest time I want to be like anyone at all is if I see that they are living a good and holy life full of God's righteousness. The black men so full of self hatred that they rid themselves of each other, they reject their wives and children,behaving themselves like dogs that leaves the bitches and pups behind as soon as the bitch is full game over, going after any other nationality so that they don't have to wake up next to she that looks like him he dispises himself in her and her. So if we ,for I am black but I just love myself and my people though at times am so so very disappointed in us our behavior leaves much to be desired at time we hate when others kill us and rightly so but don't hesitate to kill each other and others. I live in the Caribbean and have always been a voice on our behalf but now I truly dislike what we have become whatever the reason that cause it, every vile thing we seem to champion, watch many of our stars especially,especially, the women how very ungodly we are and to these look our young people, male stars cross dressing while some are gay , pushing their wicked agenda. To top it all of and there is much more, we are turning away from God very rapidly turning to other gods who our fore parents knew not gods that came up lately like allah that be no god at all, as we begun to away to allah and reject our true and living God so he also is turning the muslim to him in place of us who turn away for his kingdom shall be full. Desegregation in the US was a massive, well-thought out project that failed spectacularly and we generally don't think about why or how today. The boomers largely acquiesced to the racist demands of Southern states and conservative voters, and by extension doomed our populace to a deepening racial conflict which is ultimately superficial. Economists would call this 'circular cumulative causation' - we ended segregation, which amplified tribal animosity, which further divided sub-populations within the US, which justified (in the minds of the citizenry) the fact of segregation in the first place. Rinse and repeat, it gets worse and worse. And although young people are less racist than ever, they also have less experience with people of other colors than their predecessors. Personally I think we need to re-evaluate the policy of desegregation in schools and more than likely re-instate some version of it, if for no other reason than to open up the opportunities afforded by rich, white-majority schools to poorer people of color. Every 6 year old I know, of any race , has no opinion on race or interracial friendships, especially of them being any different from a same race friendship. Unless the child is being actively taught that there is a difference, which they usually aren't(always exceptions of course) at that age they just see a different skin color; which is exactly what I and everyone else see/should see. Mere pigmentation. Just having a peak of actual developmental markers by school age , is very revealing in this video. I would love it if my son dated a black woman . They are correct that interracial friendships and marriages are the best way to eliminate racism . In 1912, a religious leader of the Baha'i Faith came to America, among other things, to help eliminate racism in America. He taught that interracial marriage was one way to end racism . He saw that a black lawyer Louis Gregory and a white woman were fond of each other. Going back and forth between them, 'Abdu'l-Bahá encourages them to marry, which they eventually decided on their own to do. Louisa was also many years older than Louis. They loved each other very much, and although their interracial marriage was not the first in the US, it was rare enough that it was still illegal in many states. Look how far we've come since then that interracial marriage is as common as it is, and not to mention legal in the entire country. When we look at the present or near past, it doesn't seem like anything is improving. But look how far we've come in just the last 100 years, and imagine how far we'll be in the next 100. It would be wonderful if change happened faster, but at least it's happening. Poor American kids, I'm happy that I don't have kids going to ANY American schools, it's always about race in America no matter what you do, you're ALWAYS going to be defined by raceno amount of counselling for that matter will help...it's an American legacy, race first and the person after,Many European countries have their fare share of racism but not like America....and most people don't think of race in general here...it's the person first...sadly the situation doesn't look like it will get better in America anytime soon no matter if they're more interracial marriages and the like because the main fear of most white people in America is that there will be more non-white than white in the future	Race, Racism	Ethnicity - General	5/121	4.132

MyLatestFix I agree with you to some extent. I've had several white friends move from CA to Hawai'i and live here for a year...then tell me that they're happy they moved here because it gave them a chance to be a minority (only 1 in 5 people here are white) and that it made them:(1) be more open minded to other people and their cultures(2) be more respectful of other people and their cultures they found out it's NOT OKAY to make a stink face when people offer you food that you've never eaten...something white people did to me in Fresno ALL THE TIME. and that they were faaaar more racist than they realized.And these are friends that don't even know each other...yet they told me almost identical experiences. So I firmly believe that Hawai'i is proof positive that diversity does work. Yes, we're only 1 and a half million people here...but that's still a pretty big sample size. For two countries that are neighbors, if you asked kids in Canada the same thing, you would get different results. We have racism up here (especially in a certain province) but not to the same extent as in the US - we don't talk about race as much as the US does. In elections, we never talk about the "white" vote, " black " vote, "Hispanic" vote, etc. - I understand the important and evolution of that but when race is presented in such a way that segregates, you end up getting certain perceptions. I also think "multiculturalism" (Canada) provides a different experience than "melting pot" (US). When I ask my kids about the new kid who started school, they never talk about race and even I ask about their origins, my kids often don't know - they are very racially-blind. In general that is a good thing so there's less potential for discrimination but in the same breath, it's important that my kids understand the struggles, for example, of the first nations in Canada just because it's part of our Canadian history. I was about 5 years old and my mom had bought me a little sailboat. She took me to a water fountain in downtown Pittsburgh. I was an only child and playing by myself and then a little white girl came over and we started playing together and having fun But when her mother realized that she was playing with me, she came over and snatched the little girls hand and stormed off. There was nothing that we had done wrong The mother walked away looking back at me as though I had done something evil to her child and the child looking back at me as though she was sad but she had to obey her mother. Hi! I wrote this On another Post and not everyone would be able to see so I decided to Repost it. I like how people are trying to blame us Black people when actually we are the Victims of Racial Abuse, People have been Killed for being Black and when they are killed White People try to block it out, for example The following people were ever punished for who they are or had to fight for Equal Rights: Rosa Parks, Emmet Till, Stephan Laurence, Martin Luther King Jr, Mark Duggan. All of these people Victims of Racism . Now I'm not blaming White People currently Living because they are not Suspects of what had happened to these people but there are still Racists out there. If you don't like our Skin Colour or our Culture, Fine just don't say anything to offend us, but when you start Abusing us Physically and Verbally it's Classed as a Hate Crime even if it's a Joke it's still going to be Logged and you will therefore gain a Criminal Record, This is how Black Lives get takenBecause people just don't know when to stop! I've never been a racist and never allowed racists in my home. In his 2nd year of college, my son asked me if he could bring some friends to my house to celebrate his birthday. There were about 22 or so kids. I got them all together for a picture. I looked around at the group all close together and smiling from ear to ear. There were white kids, black kids, Muslims, Asians, girls, boys. My son did not see race , religion or gender . He saw friends. That was the day I knew I did a damn good job bringing him up! I remembered distinctly when I moved to a multicultural country at age 5, I had no clue someone of a different color was somehow different in anyway. Jake Delhinski i get u but the reason black people are always saying they are proud to be black is because there's alot of opression that comes with being black ,throughout history even today,so me saying im proud to be black is not me saying im proud to have black skin,it's more about me being proud of having the ability to withstand the negative impacts that come with this identity.It's something most white people cant relate to or understand because they get to live under the prefered skin tone. Black pride is more of a cultural issue rather than a skin tone issue...the problem with most privileged people is that they expect black people to forget the past but it's hard to forget when the negative impacts of that very same past keep following you everywhere you go, black people are who they are because of the horrible things racist white people did in the past,it's hard to forget when u know the history that led to your not so pleasent present...if only u could put yourself in the shoes of most black people then you would understandUs expressing our black pride is simply us reminding ourselves that we are worth it in a world that keeps telling us that we are less just because of how we look.It's healthy to love yourself and to be proud of who you are and if u find anything wrong with some1 expressing self love then maybe you are just insecure about yourself? Yes, they tell us to get over the past (mainly because they themselves don't want to deal with it), while at the same time minimizing and or denying the Trauma that we face everyday from police brutality, the frustration from the undermining of our contributions in the workplace, the little micro-aggressions in stores and other public places, the criminalization of damn near everything we do so they can falsely pontificate about Black crime-inflating those statistics and discarding the truth about how these actually break down. These things are not relics of the past that we should forget about and "move on." These are daily occurrences that we can't get away from and we try not to internalize. crystal laRose just because something is racist does not mean it's not true white men have created my technology than any other race and when it comes to space Asians and blacks etc don't even have a damn chance China still uses Russian technology to get in space and japan has technology given to them by the Americans to get into space call me racist idc I've been called racist even before I was that's part of the reason I am now if you constantly blame white men for everything you're asking for a enemy Black men don't care about women's rights in fact the majority of them are LGBT haters	Black, LGBT, Race, Racist	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General, Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality, Sexual Identity - Transexuality	8/111	7.207

OPL TEAM what does the lgbt have anything to do with this? Yall stay mentioning unnecessary shit	LGBT	Sexual Identity - General, Sexual Identity - Male homosexuality, Sexual Identity - Transexuality	3/17	17.647
SmexiiTutorials he's tryna say that while most people would blame whites for all of the hatred towards minorities and the oppression of the lgbt community, a good amount of that hatred is because white people have been stereotyped as stuck up racists for the last decade to begin with, and also that oppression towards the lgbt community is factually more prevalent in the black community than any other. Most other racial and ethnic groups either turn a blind eye towards it/ignore it or express some form of support, but the black community (particularly males) are the most active in everyday homophobically charged aggression towards gays. It's pretty well documented. It's just a bit of a weird double standard, that's what he's saying. Nicholas Kedge yeah you could be right but thats more because of our old Testament for most african americans because most african americans are Christians and you could add the influence on gays back in the segregation days	African, Old	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - Black	3/38	7.895
Ronn-EL i understand where your coming from but white skin is not preferred and its the same for black and white people about being proud	Black	Ethnicity - Black	1/25	4.0
Jroc2k Beats dude not all of us are like that and just know not all white people are racist im sorry you have to go through that but its the truth	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/31	3.226
