"Women of color" is accepted speech. "Colored women" is not. Any grammar experts here that can tell me what the difference is? I can't quite figure it out.	Colored	Ethnicity - Black	1/28	3.571
Dems insist that our President is racist because he is, as they say, against immigrants. They 'forget' to add the word 'illegal'. I think that even the word ' immigrant ' should not be used in these cases. Immigration is a legal procedure for crossing the border and becoming a member of the country. A country without borders is like a body without skin. Opening the border would be the end of our way of life. I, like so many more Americans, am an immigrant . The moment I crossed the border at the airport, I felt like everybody else, despite my ridiculous English. It was a new and wonderful feeling. Hm Im anti Trump but his comment re the 4 congresswoman was NOT racist at all.He said if they are are so great why dont they help their origing countries rather than attack the US	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/36	2.778
Guys, Donald Trump is supposed to make this state better. Not if you like it or not. It's YES I'll make it better so you feel comfortable not NO only my fellow peers I'd love to have surround me can be accepted. Did Obama said that? No. Why should we make a exception to Donald? He's a double chin orange? It's not like food, toys. It's the fricking country we're talking about guys.	Double chin	Physical Identity - Physical Features	1/74	1.351
I don't like the comment, but "go back to where you came from," is as American as apple pie.	Apple	Ethnicity - Native-American	1/19	5.263

It's absolutely racist and completely habitually AND TRADITIONALLY American! Stop saying it's UNAMERICAN because it most certainly isn't and there are bodies of dead non-whites citizens and immigrants to prove it. Now, saying that it's NO LONGER an acceptable but still somewhat tolerated American attitude, IS MUCH more honest and correct. Yes, America still tolerates it because if they didn't HE WOULDN'T be the POTUS. If Americans were still so horrified by both his actions and words he would have been impeached already. This is ALL Theater...	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/87	1.149

Black man here, not that it matters. I'm no fan of Trump but I don't believe he's a racist . Living in AMERIKKKA, i've encountered MANY RACISTS in my life, but in spite of all that, I still love white people, as I have also crossed paths with many GOOD whites. I don't know if this tweet was racist . He didn't actually say "go back to your country". He said that the four congresswomen should go back to the crime infested places from which they came. That doesn't necessarily refer to foreign countries; it could mean a city, a district, a state or a US territory. But even if it wasn't racist , it is CERTAINLY hypocritical!!! How can Trump think it's OK for him to keep criticizing the conditions of his country, but the same does not go for those congresswomen???!!!!	Racist	Ethnicity - General	2/90	2.222
His supporters are also a racist . Their denial of their bigotry and flat out intolerance of people of other colors and religions is bewildering.	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/24	4.167

Demokkkrats are the real racists. Fought for slavery. Started the kkk. This man complained about his country then ran for president to fix it, he didn't leave. He has enough money t do whatever he wants and chose to have the hardest job in the world. You people didn't like trump from the beginning and don't do any research yourself. He was never called a racist , sexist until the media declares him one and all you yuppies bought it. Larry King once asked him who would be his Vice President if he ran for president and he said Oprah. Oprah is black right. Hillary Clinton said all black people look the same. In 20-30 years it's going to be republicans against independent party.	Black, Racist	Ethnicity - Black, Ethnicity - General	3/123	2.439

I think you all should look up the true definition of hate speech plus historically the republicans were always for ending slavery whist the democrats were always for slavery, they turned it all around thru entertainment and took a typical democrat value based character like the racist Archie Bunker and pretended he was a republican. You should look into the historical records and you'll find the democrats were always the racists and ever since black people got the right to vote they just turned it all around pretending to be the non racist party in order to enslave the black population thru welfare and other measures to keep them bound to their old masters. By the way it's all theatre, freemasonry runs both sides and is trying to have the country to collapse from within in order to become socialist communist under a global new UN like structure after the third WW now that they helped to build up a worthy enemy in the allies between China and Russia against NATO. Ever since they ridiculed Bill Clinton in front of the nation for an affair to bring down the office of president, ever since they forced in W.Bush to show the elections were corrupt, ever since they had Hillary come out with Obama not being an American born citizen to bring down the constitution and now purposely created the total divide and non acceptance of a democratic elected president not my president. They're slowly breaking the US down from within on purpose. Globalism can't handle freedom of speech, gun rights etc. this is a long social engineering scam and fake opposition theatre and your all falling for it Just look into freemasonry presidents police military media music industry film industry banks religions NASA FBI CIA Fortune 500 companies or the fact that D.C. Is a private Freemason owned city state with Freemason border posts, the world council of freemasonry and a complete Freemason preplanned freemason symbolism layout whilst googling the Albert Pike Freemason Luciferian quote from his book reasons and dogma. It's all a divide and conquer theatre and you'll falling for it. These Mindless Minions on late night talk shows are completely out of touch with reality. He was saying how he's a slave here...so I said, "If it's so bad here why don't you go back then?". It's a war torn country, and honestly - I think it's silly that we should be adopting values of a country that has major issues. Why would someone come here to escape the problems of one country, only to bring those values and problems to this country? Even if I, someone born here, was showing favoritism towards the country of my parents, I don't think it's actually racist for someone else to say "Hey, if you like it there so much, why not move back to where you're originally from?" It's a bit of a wake up call - We have SO much freedom here, and WAY more security (Yes even given ALL the shootings and bombings and everything). There are bomb barricades, vehicle inspections.... Why do we need to adopt values that there are Caste Systems, that some people are less because of who they were born to? Those sound like shitty ideals - no thanks. If you think the rate of immigration has NO effect, you are blind. Ask yourself something: Should America accept EVERY application for immigration? What is the rough number of ppl that should be allowed to immigrate? What is this number based on? Why isn't that number higher? Do you think it is possible for someone in government to show Bias towards countries that their parents come from? How? Conflicts of interest are not some new thing. Tim Wilde I've looked in his tweets, watched all of his recent speeches since this whole uproar started. I couldn't find one instance of him referring to race or skin color in regards to those four. I doubt any of the other commenters here have done the same. They just parrot what others say. They're too lazy to research anything for themselves. They think what they're told to think by the main stream media and by what some lame , unfunny, washed up "comedian" like Seth Myers tells them.It's pathetic really. Well he was stating facts ..how come that become a racist thing	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/13	7.692

Tim Wilde first, bear in mind that an impeachment is a trial, the only trial that a sitting elected official can be indicted at. Very little is proven conclusively, but where there is enough evidence of possible wrongdoing, a trial is the only legal way to ascertain the truth. In this case, there is just too much evidence of possible criminality in the Trump Whitehouse to be ignored. First, the Mueller report may have not found evidence of direct collusion between Trump and the Russians, but it did show clear evidence that Trump may have personally obstructed justice in trying to end investigations into the administrations ties to Russia. The Report only stopped short of recommending prosecution because it wouldn't have been possible to do to a sitting president and Mueller felt it was beyond his remit to recommend a prosecution. Even so, over 450 former prosecutors from both sides of the aisle signed an open letter stating that if Trump were a private citizen and the case had been on their desks, they would have indicted him for obstruction based on the evidence in Mueller's report. That alone would be enough to at least impeach the president and have a court with real power over him ascertain the truth in this matter. Then you have the litany of other allegations of corruption. According to Trump's personal lawyer, Stormy Daniels was paid hush money from Trump's personal accounts and paid by that lawyer on orders from Trump himself, during an election campaign. This is an unequivocal violation of US campaign finance law if true. Trump has also refused to completely divest himself of his personal business interests, and in particular has continuously used his own hotels such as Mar A Lago and the Trump International Hotel DC for official state business, thus profiting hugely from all the meetings, hotel stays and use of facilities that foreign officials, lobbyists, etc have used while trying to get access to the President. This is most likely a horrendous conflict of interest in itself, and also leads to a huge amount of other possibilities in the realm of paying for access to an elected official. Then there's his horrendous personal behaviour that utterly brings the office of the Presidency into disrepute. He has made hugely racist, bigoted statements as president, of which the comments against the so-called Squad are only the most recent. He leads rallies that I would skirt the boundaries of Godwin's law to describe. He shuns other leaders of Western Democracy to cosy up to dictators and tyrants like Kim Jong Un, Erdogan, Putin and Crown Prince Salman Al Saud. Oh and there are even allegations that he attended some of Epstein's parties back in the 90s, with one girl in particular saying she was chosen to be raped by Trump at 15 because she was wearing a blond wig and "reminded him of his daughter", which is particularly telling considering all of the seriously creepy stuff Trump has said on record about Ivanka. I have more, but YT comments have a character limit. All of these are allegations. Nothing is proven in court, but that's exactly what a fair impeachment trial would do. Unfortunately, such a trial would be impossible while the Senate Republicans led by Mitch McConnell refuse to act in good faith and instead hold to partisanship at all costs, which is why I suggested that instead, we wait until he leaves office and then indict him as a private citizen.

Only one thing wrong with this episode and everyone that just throws it out there is blind to it, especially these "Progressives". The detention centers would not be inhumane were they not so horribly overwhelmed. Our border control personnel are excellent compassionate people doing the best they can under the circumstances. The illegals brought it upon themselves when they bum-rushed our border. They put themselves into a situation that exists now. Mexico used to do a much better job of stopping them at the southern end of their country until Trump started insulting them and their government, Add his ridiculous wall into the equation and the actual wall that Mexico was providing simply faded from view, I don't blame them at all it is their way of letting Trump know to revise his thinking. Unfortunately, he does not have the intellectual acuity to see it. Even so, we cannot simply allow thousands of undocumented individuals to just aimlessly roam our streets. The quickest fix is to send military transports to take them back to their own countries, at least until we can upscale our facilities. We use to have Ellis Island on the east coast I guess we need something similar in Texas. I guess the "Progressive" types would have us put them all up in a Holiday Inn. All the Grandstanding in the world won't accomplish anything other than self-promotion, which those "Progressive women are all experts at, of course, all politicians are guilty of the same thing or they would never have gotten into office in the first place. Like most bullies, Trump never directly confronts those he wishes to bully. He can safely Tweet alone in his bedroom at the White House, or at his golf clubs, but he doesn't have the courage to say something as racist as this in person. When challenged, his usual tactic is to back away. He can't even fire people directly, deputizing someone else to do it. It's easy to pretend to fire a contestant on his shows, but when it comes to real life, he is afraid to confront one of his targets face to face. Of course, this is the way with most bullies. They pretend to be 'tough', especially to one weaker than himself, but in reality, he is a coward.	Racist	Ethnicity - General	1/122	0.82

Speaking of ethnicity , Donald Trump has the worst. If Donald Trump's father, the original Herr Drumpf, was to apply for US immigration today, he would surely be refused. He did bring in a lot of money but there was no indication how he earned it. Money laundering had not yet been criminalised. I have read that Drumpf family ran brothels, hence his reluctance to state how he earned it. However, he couldn't run brothels here (others were in control of that already) so as fate would have it, he invested his fortune in real estate and made a modest return. When Donald Trump inherited the business he over-invested with debts soaring beyond capacity and relied on secretiveness lest they divulge the near-bankrupt state the business had reached. Hey doofus, for the record, this is President Trump’s precise tweet (broken into 3 concurring tweets due to Twitter words per post restrictions) on July 14. Do not believe the Fake News ‘Racist’ interpretations, read like an adult:President Trump tweet on 7/14 5:27 am:’So interesting to see ‘Progressive’ Democrat Congresswomen, who originally came from countries whose governments are a complete and total catastrophe, the worst, most corrupt and inept anywhere in the world (if they even have a functioning government at all), now loudly.....and viciously telling the people of the United States, the greatest and most powerful Nation on earth, how our government is to be run. Why don’t they go back and help fix the totally broken and crime infested places from which they came. Then come back and show us how.....it is done. These places need your help badly, you can’t leave fast enough. I’m sure that Nancy Pelosi would be very happy to quickly work out free travel arrangements!’	Nation	Nationality - General	1/166	0.602

He has told four women of colour, three of whom were born in the USA, to go back to the countries from which they came. If three of the women were born here, why would he say that? It's because they are not white. He is discriminating against them and making judgements based upon their skin colour (the definition of racism). He is also evoking the racist phrase of 'go back to your own country' and implying that America is a country defined by whiteness. Do you get it now? Do you understand why this is racist ? Are you genuinely this dense? What would it take for you to understand that something is racist , I am genuinely curious. Kiin Ovarb Both Clinton and Trump knows Epstein, but their connection is not of the same nature.Trump banned Epstein for life from his resort Mar-a-Lago when he found out Epstein was trying to sex up a 14 year old . And the investigator who investigated Epstein is on record stating that out of all the elite people who knew Epstein, only Trump aided the investigation, cooperating willingly and fully, giving only good and verifiable information that checked out.Meanwhile, Bill Clinton flew to Epstein's pedo island to party 26 times (to compare with Trump's zero times). Trump has claimed several times that his father - a New York native - was born in Germany, yet seems oblivious to the fact that before the US Civil War there was a concerted attempt to blame the nation's problems not on slavery, but on Irish and German immigrants 'taking our jobs'. Fast forward to WWII and the internment of ethnic Germans, many of whom had been in the US for decades: [LINK] If Fred Trump had been born in Germany and emigrated to the US prior to little Donald joining the family in 1946, I wonder if he'd still be willing to rant about people who don't love 'his' country ? Mark Twain had quite a few things to say about flag wavers, but this is my favorite:Patriotism is usually the refuge of the scoundrel. He is the man who talks the loudest. The final monologue is quite brilliant, however, and still relevant today. For additional contemporary criticism, you should also check out the song "Der Fuehrer's Face" by the band Spike Jones and His City Slickers.It's not that evil has become funny, so much as comedy has always been a way for people to cope with otherwise-depressing and tragic situations ("gallows humor", children's nursery rhymes that let you criticize politically powerful people a la Mother Goose and Dr. Seuss, satirical plays, etc.). We are at an important historical crossroads in America. In July 2019, we are now at the conflict point between the old world anti nonwhite hate filled discriminatory lying cheating rhetoric and the New World's open acceptance of all races as equal. The bad thing is that there is a ton of backlash (and not just from white people) against the notion that nonwhites are not a lesser form of humanity than white people. Hi there, if I may. Unreal. No wall has been built. the ACA has not been replaced with anything "better". A significant number of the "best" people he chose have been terminated, have resigned or are in prison or facing serious charges. The US has been now proven as one of the worst countries in the world in its disregard of the respect of basic human rights, as according to the declaration of Human rights and the ONU. And now a known sex offender has been proven to have been given a plushy plea deal by the now extinct secretary of Labor. And now he goes on to attack 4 Americans citizens, who happen to be women, from the Democratic party, based on the tone of their skin. He is on the attack, meaning on the defensive, using whatever mad scenario he can use to regain control. Because that is the way it seems. His racism was always there, however spinned in controlled sentences. But now , even this early in the game, which seems to me to be a big mistake on his part, he seems desperate enough to try to belittle those 4 women's achievements. Seems to me trump is behaving like a cornered and pathetic candidate for his reelection. I'll try. Racism in the U.S. has been alive and well, but living underground. When Obama was elected twice, it started boiling to the surface. In 2016, people had a choice between Hillary Clinton who is a woman and who was under scrutiny since her husband was president. More so, because of Benghazi. Add into it a race-baiting candidate whose past was whitewashed and not made public on a large enough scale, voter district gerrymandering, a russia-based hacking (the release of the DNC campaign strategy) and social media disinformation campaign (Facebook, etc.), compromising voting machines records that were dismissed in some U.S. states (21 States were hacked into) and the U.S. media. You know what? I'm not proud of Trump; I think he's despicable and I wish he'd fall through a wormhole with actual flesh-eating worms in it. But I am proud to see it in the news worldwide each time we transparently, slowly, carefully stall him, stop him, block his harm, demand our way into places and legal areas he wants secret, call him out in chambers of Congress that are constantly being filmed, expose his idiocy and incompetence and our huge, diverse country's efforts to protect itself from his threat to the world. The process is being tested like it hasn't been in a long while, and in ways the Constitution writers never saw coming. But we're doing more of it in public than much of the world, and that's a testament to, say, an internet policy that's more open than China's. On things we hold in our hands, we can read and judge the work of independent groups like Plain Sight and ProPublica, network news, youtube influencers, and comedy. Nobody knocks on our door for watching Stephen Colbert, or for making a comment like this. Our democracy is a messy huge stumbling beast, but if you know that, if you're allowed to watch and read it and so is the world, it's still a democracy. In reality when anyone thinks their nation is the greatest I guarantee they are wrong. There's always someone with a better education system, there's always someone with lower crime rates, there's always someone with a better healthcare system, there's always someone with a lower tax regime, there's always someone who invests more in their lowest paid, there's always someone who ensures that equality is encouraged, there's always someone who allows woman to have autonomy over their own bodies, there's always someone with healthier lifestyles, there's always someone with longer life expectancy..... I could keep going. This fallacy that one nation is 'greater' than another is exactly why the U.S. isn't and hasn't been the greatest nation , when Americans shouted about being the greatest they ignored all the evidence that showed otherwise. The sooner that Americans realise that being a great nation is enough the sooner they will become it. No nation is greatest, we are either great countries to live in and represent or we are not, no one is top of this pile. There's always something we can improve in our countries, I'd say that gun control and a fair healthcare system have been required in the U.S. for decades. In my own country we need a better education system and investment in our law enforcement system. Stop worrying about 'greatest'.	Nation, Woman	Gender - General, Nationality - General	6/222	2.703

Uh huh. Just...out of curiosity, how do this statement, and so many others that he's made, not come off as " racist " when numerous explicitly racist organizations that go out of their way to be as openly bigoted as possible interpret it as exactly that way? Might be interesting how open, overt bigots keep interpreting him as their champion on the basis of said racism , in spite of how his statements aren't (usually) overtly racist , and when questioned and asked to denounce, Benedict Donald keeps shrugging off, deflecting, or "both-sidesing". Nearly everything he does is interpreted by the bigots as a move that favors their worldview, and he never does anything substantive to disavow them; if anything, disavowment is further treated by 'em as a sign that he's on their side. Bottom line: if he isn't racist ...why are all the people who ARE openly, unambiguously racist agreeing with him on everything?	Racism, Racist	Ethnicity - General	6/149	4.027

W1DO not arguing really. Just trying to make a point in a roundabout way. Ultimately that America is country founded by immigrants. Very, very few of us trace our roots back to this land. But it's through that diversity that we have a strength. We as a country should be able to use our collective knowledge and experience to overcome the obstacles of society and be a force of good in the world. Unfortunately we spend too much time distracted by things like our batshit crazy president to realize our potential. You yourself said it was a "white neighborhood" (and if it is, and assuming you are black , why are you there? (just kidding)). I'm just saying its normal for someone who doesn't seem to "fit" in a certain environment for people to think "something's off". Look, I am white and worked in a " black neighborhood", and guess what I was often asked... "What are you doing here?". Fact is, no matter where on earth someone lives, in the US or other places, if the population of a certain area is not diverse in appearance, people will notice and wonder. Don't feel singled out due to hate or prejudice, just know you look different and being black in a primarily white place, you'll stand out, just as my bright white self did in the "Chocolate City" part of DC (self named, in a light-hearted way, by those living there, by the way). Daniel Dougan Firstly, Obama started separating children & parents, so start blaming him and stop blaming Trump. Secondly, it's current US law that children are to be separated from parents when they commit a crime. So regardless if Obama or Trump started with the separation, it's the right thing to do. You lefties have a fake morality that reeks of the shitholes you come from - I mean it's ok for you to kill 6 million unborn babies per annum in their mothers wombs, but don't do the unpardonable sin of separating a child from an illegal alien , who in most cases is not his child, or whom he has raped repeatedly all the way from Venezuela to sell her into child prostitution. Does Seth Meyers think that he is really that funny? Do you Demos? Just because he gets a few laughs from the few brainwashed people in his audience, does not make him funny. RACIST is not a word to describe Trump. Just because he was curious about the legitimacy of Obama does not mean he's racist . It could have been anyone who is curious about anyone's background. How is that racist ? Trump never said to the 4 punks representing the Demos to go back to their "countries." He said go back to the places where they came, fix it, then come back. Trump is going to be president again just because of America's racism . it's way more ignorant poor people and minorities in the USA than "smart people" trump is being led by evil geniuses . Black people finally woke knowing this government is working against us and for immigrants the data proves it. How so? The racial wealth gap and massincarciration plus many facets of ADOS. I love all people especially white people most of my friends are white in not racist I've even dated only white and black men, but I don't agree with open boarders that don't protect ADOS life . How so? Being ADOS I fill immigrants come and are used extention to oppress US in our own land through redlining, over policing, education, and health . These tactics are used to steal and keep ADOS and poor people down, so not just racist feel that something is wrong with this government . Black ADOS people are saying no black agenda no vote immigrants will say I don't owe reperation, racist whites, so called liberals and the 1 that benefits the most off of the blood sweat and tears of ADOS will oppose reperation too . America owes a debt and hell bent on oppressing US because our black bodies is capital to them . I'm always confused on why Americans are ok with imprisoning US when education and reform of the ghettos it created are cheaper for tax payers? Why would any citizen agree to pay 200k annually to house a kid in prison ? Or a adult 100k annually ? That's insane. But I understand why our bodies are criminalized and capitalized on my God the pris on industrial system the justice system exist because of slavery do this extention needs to be reformed plus reperation so that the people that built the country can live the American dream and truly be human in this country . Part 2: Each state appoints of electors equal to senators and representatives. Part 3: Electors meet and vote and send the ballots to the Senate. Part 4: Congress may choose the time and day for the choosing electors. Part 5: Natural born citizen at least 35 years old . Part 6: In case of death, removal, absence, etc, the VP assumes role. Part 7: Salary. Part 8: The Oath (which you have not followed at all). SECTION 2 Part 1: Commander-in-Chief Army and Navy. Part 2: with advice and consent of Senate, appoint Supreme Court Justices, Department heads, ambassadors, etc. Part 3: recess appointments. SECTION 3: State of The Union. SECTION 4: I'm writing this part word for word from the Constitution...The President, VP, and all civil officers of the US, shall be removed from office on Impeachment for, and conviction of, Treason, Bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors. Trump is too thick and stupid to realise that the most corrupt and crime infested country in the developed world is the USA. The poor districts of most US cities would put 3rd World ghettos to shame. Timothy Monhollen Umm... and exactly which ones of all those do you think isn't true? Maybe the pedophile is the only one I would put in contention. Underage girls and pedophilia are not the same thing. A 15 years old post puberty girl is underage, but strictly speaking she has lost the features of a prepubescent child, which is what pedophiles are attracted to. Aside from that one, and I'm being generous specifying the actual psychology here, because I'm not sure the legal distinction is as generous, all the other ones are factual. Oh wait, maybe the Hitler one, but that's because Hitler was less dumb. Neo-Nazis certainly seem to love Trump so it's not quite far off though. As to why is he still there? A combination of factors, one, you assume Americans don't like those qualities, but that's what the Republicans stand for. So being homophobic, sexist, incompetent, corrupt, adulterer, tax evader, transphobic, anti semitic, racist, etc aren't cons, they're pros. That's what they like. The other factor is heavy gerrymandering and vote suppression (and as we found out straight up vote fraud), allowing a Congress that has received more votes for Democrats but is dominated by Republicans, which since that's what their party stands for, they will enable this. Same reason why he won the presidency but 3 million more Americans voted for the other candidate. Also, the majority of Americans do believe these things, because they know they're true. Over 50, and sometimes well over 50 agree on most of these. The Republican core would excuse anything even in the face of blatant evidence for it because they're fully into a cult now.	Dumb, Homophobic, Old, Racist	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments, Sexual Identity - General	4/277	1.444

Trump is setting a win for 2020 by attacking the Democrats and ordering Nazi Style Raids. The only question is will American Voters allow Trump to be re-elected by not voting in 2020, like they did in 2016.Unfortunately impeaching Trump is a waste of tax dollars and time, because with Mitch McConnell controlling the Senate the impeachment will never happen. Just stick to the policies that effect Education, Jobs, Healthcare, Social Security, Medicare, our Environment and Infrastructure, instead of attacking Trump and fellow Candidates. So, just to recap, Trump is the following things according to his haters: mentally ill, dictator, racist, Russian asset, Russian spy, traitor, rapist, pedophile, compulsive liar, xenophobe, incestuous person with his daughter, violent sexual assailant, religious bigot, unfit, insane, Hitler, con artist, confused, evil genius, failed businessman, homophobic, sexist, senile, incompetent, paranoid, corrupt, adulterer, draft dodger, tax evader, anti-Semitic, trans-phobic, anti-American, fascist, intolerant and a tyrant. If this were all true, this means that Donald J Trump is the worst human being that has ever lived, and quite possibly will EVER live on the planet earth. These allegations are in JEAVY rotation 24/7 by the MSM and Hollywood and in accordance with Saul Alinsky's rules of creating social change, such as 'keep the pressure on, never let up', and 'pick a target, freeze it, and personalize it.' Even more interesting about all of these accusations is they were unknown until 2016, despite being extremely famous for decades...and they wonder why nobody believes them. This is real simple, the Dems are throwing everything against a wall to see what sticks because they hate him and want him out. Trump committed obstruction of justice and should be indicted, says Fox News analyst. [LINK] Napolitano: Trump's Obstruction Of Justice Was Immoral, Criminal, Condemnable Fox's legal analyst also bashed William Barr over his views on obstruction. The Fox News senior legal analyst outlined many of the ways Donald Trump did obstruct justice during Mueller's investigations. Then Napolitano said Trump should have been charged with those crimes. Judge Napolitano clearly stated that Trump obstructed justice by trying to get his people to lie, write phony reports, get Mueller fired, and dangle pardons to silence witnesses. Napolitano said, "Prosecutors prosecute people who interfere with government functions and that's what the president did by obstruction." He continued, "I'm disappointed in the behavior of the president. His job is to preserve protect and defend the Constitution of the United States, to uphold and to enforce federal law - not to violate it." "If he had ordered his aides to violate federal law to save a human life or preserve human freedom, he would at least have a moral defense to his behavior. But ordering them to break federal law to save himself from the consequences of his own behavior, that is immoral, that is criminally unlawful, that is defenseless, and that is condemnable." Technically they weren't racist . Seriously, why is everyone calling these comments racist ? What race are the comments directed at? They were xenophobic which is just as vile, but let's be accurate. Lest we cheapen or dilute the definition of racism . They were attacking the fact that they were foreign (in his mind), they weren't attacking their race . They weren't racist for the same reason they weren't misogynistic. Just because they were women it doesn't make the comments misogynistic. Just like just because they are women of color doesn't make the comments racist . That's why Nancy Pelosi referred to the comments as "xenophobic" not racist . Even if these comments were motivated by Trump's racism it doesn't make the comments themselves racist . Again, they are xenophobic comments. I'm not defending Trump in any way shape or form, but let's be accurate. One good thing to come out of Trumps presidency is the ability to find out what type of people you're friends and family truly are. Like I never really realized how much of a racist my brother was until Trump won. And you telling people to leave the country because why? they dare to criticize Trump? Question Carole Roy: Did you say the same for the Tea Party people that non-stop criticized the country for the 8 years before Trump? Do you say the same for the MAGA people who clearly thought America at some point is not great and need to be MADE great again? Its right there in the slogan...MAKE America great AGAIN. It's funny: for people like Trump and movements like MAGA, their intrinsic position that America is fundamentally broken and must be fixed, is framed as a form of "love"; yet when their ideological "enemies" do the same because they see the freedoms and values of their society going down the drain, it's framed as "hate". So what's the difference? Isn't that hypocrisy?I guess the difference is that when Trump demands that America be great again, it's an Orwellian double-think. Within that single slogan, America is simultaneously broken and complete; it's wrong but also right; it's weakened but unassailable; it must change yet it's already perfect.You see, when they chant "Make America Great Again", they aren't really talking about America as a country. They're using the term as a synonym for the people and the culture as they define them. Thus, the enemy are the people, ideas and stories which they believe do not belong. To the MAGA movement, the problem with "America" is that it is no longer just "them". The nation has followed its logical ideological path and become so much more. Yet in the eyes of MAGA, America is being destroyed by that which does not belong. But most importantly, America is being destroyed by those people who are not them. That's how the double-think is be self-rationalised.Yet from the other point of view – the "enemy" – there is no desire to remove Trump and his supporters from the country or exile them from society. Regardless of their actions today, they are an integral part of a functioning democracy. The other side wants to reason with them and come to a consensus – to collectively agree upon a reality which is acceptable for the whole nation, not just by one angry and spiteful minority and it's megalomaniacal leader.That's love, actually. No pun intended. That's love for one's country and culture, and its people and their stories. Hatred, on the other hand, is to purposely lead a people towards cultural oblivion because the fear and the spite are so blinding that the very things the people profess to love are trampled and destroyed.	Nation	Nationality - General	2/359	0.557

Trump’s racist tweets are calculated distractions from more serious news about himself, e.g. sexual harassment and rape accusations, ties to Epstein, Russia, Saudi Arabia, the Mueller Report findings, the use of ”Acting” appointments to avoid congressional oversight, self-interests in cabinet appointments (eg Barr), and the list goes on. Congress should not dignify a response unless it couples it with a serious sanction/consequence or - at the very least - calls it out as simply a distraction and REDIRECTS the news to serious allegations looming over this mafia president. You see, this is one of those division issues. It gets both bases fired up and keeps them hating each other, so no one is incentivized to fix the root cause of the problem, which is...drum roll please...our totally lax punishment for companies/people hiring illegals. orphan 200, I went to Belgium for work a few years ago. The CEO of the company I went to visit for training had to sign a document stating that he will ensure that I left the country after the week was complete. If I was found to not have left then the CEO would be on the hook for FIVE YEARS in prison. There is nothing even close to this in the USA. I worked with a cleaning company that ended up being caught for knowingly hiring illegals and the lady in charge got a 1,000 fine and lost the business license. She makes thousands per week with the lower wages she was paying those illegals so that fine is inconsequential and was able to open another cleaning business under a different name that same year...legally! MatterIsNotSolid Au contraire, I find my information from far more sources than you can conceive. I read and follow widely, from far right to far left and everywhere in between - in several languages. Moreover, I read the loathsome lump's ghost-written autobiography. This is where my antipathy to who he is originated. My comments in this regard far precede the election and any sniff of a Mueller investigation - his own utterances and those of the geljockey sons pointed clearly to the extent to which they were beholden to Russia. Where is there a single occasion of him criticising the Russians? Where was a single calling out of Russian expansionist aspirations and Neo-Soviet dreams? Is there anyone other than the brainwashed puppets that did not see they puppy dog on a leash that was on display in Finland? NATO, Canada, The UK, Germany et al get a ribbing, but Putin and KJN get passes based on their mere say-so. One thing i will say - he knows his game and he plays his pawns brilliantly. His comment about shooting someone in Fifth Avenue and still hanging onto his supporters is spot-on, for he could rob an old granny, hack a panda to death and ban ice cream, all in plain sight, and the bleating flock of apologists would STILL find a way to talk around it. Because of shows like this people are being lied to as to what racism is. To call this racism is an insult to every man, woman , and child who have been the victims of racism . To somehow put this in the same category as a family having to watch their husband/father hung or, beaten, or set on fire due to the color of his skin is one of the most insulting things I have ever heard. It amazes me that in these instances people who have lived with racism their whole lives let lies like this be told. It is a travesty that four somewhat spoiled young ladies will face a situation like this and somehow feel they have endured racism . It is a travesty that someone is convinced this is racism . It is a travesty that someone will read this tweet and now think they know what racism is. All that does is cause a person who is one day told by another that they have been the victim of racism to not really understand the extent of what they have been through. To believe this is the type of thing racism is is to really think racism isn't all that bad and not understand the true pain it brought. In other words, someone shares they have been the victim of racism and the thought comes to mind, 'Oh, like those four women who were insulted by the president?' The tweet was wrong. It was appalling even, but if these women think that this is racism , they have no clue as to what racism really is and should be educated before they speak. This is just my opinion but I doubt any of these young women have experienced true racism . It is and ugly, ugly thing but it is not having someone tweet something about you that hurts your feelings. It is an insult to the many men, women and children in graves due to the color of their skin. The 'squad' and Seth have just shown us all they know less than nothing about what racism is. If they ever learn I hope it's not through experience like so many other beautiful, innocent people have learned. Please stop insulting them. * Wanderlust* No, I'm not talking about older people... the older people were actually the nice ones. The younger ones were the a-holes. And no, the army wans't my point of reference, most of my time I was there as a civilian. And, no idea what the Army would have to do with it. * Wanderlust* You may disagree, but it's true. The entire society is very controlling.... the DDR 'perfected' it, but West Germany was just as bad, the society was the same. The difference was, at least the people of the former DDR are much more welcoming and nice. Anyway, I can think of so many examples of the fascism.... I will never forget the day they came to my door to demand how many TV's I own, to pay the 'TV tax'... I told them to go away and eat my feces, it's none of their business how many TV's I own. You couldn't even get a model airplane, with accurate markings from WW2, because certain symbols are 'verboden', totally missing the irony that restricting rights of expression is exactly what fascism was. And then their entire manner was rude... For example, I will never forget how, upon waiting for meat at a deli, they would constantly simply walk in and cut in front of me, as if it was to be expected... whenever I dated a woman, she would quickly launch into speeches on how evil the US is and how horrible the American food is—I will never forget, the parents of the woman I was dating did exactly that, just as I was sitting down to eat their dinner! I told them to f themselves, they should have known better than to behave so rudely with me as a guest there. So many examples like that. Very rude, fascistic society, it hasn't changed at all. My father killed many Germans in 1944-1945 and he doesn't regret it.	Woman	Gender - General	2/269	0.743

Tao Tuhao I have no idea what your post is about. But, it's interesting that you're sharing your own college experience, but that's not always the case, for everyone, in EVERY institution. I'll give you an example— in an Aviation class I took, which had nothing to do with politics, in fact it was teaching the basics of Aviation Electronics, preparing future pilots, aircraft electricians and maintainers or aerospace engineers to repair aircraft, as part of a program that awards a Federal FAA certification (in other words, of such import that learning or not learning the material might cost you not only your own life, but the 300 or 400 lives of the passengers on the aircraft), the instructor started every class in 2017 with a lecture on how evil Trump was, and how evil Republicans are, and ho Republicans are insane... and of course I and no one else spoke up, because doing so would antagonize the instructor, which could result in our grades suffering in this all-important and very expensive class. This happened for several weeks, until i finally had enough and called the Feds (the FAA) to report her, because I did not want to identify myself by complaining to the dean, who might agree with her. They took it seriously and she almost lost her FAA certification. That's just one example, from a NON Humanities course— I could go into Humanities courses as well, which were quite similar. So, please don't be naive about this.	Engineers, Ho, Nothing	Age - Youngsters, Gender - Female sexuality, Nationality - General	3/249	1.205

Mack Ami Whether one is 'racist' has nothing to do with one's character. 'Racism' is an opinion or outlook on the world that one has. It isn't reflective of 'character'. 'Character', in my book, has to do with integrity (i.e. does the person tell the truth), courage, trustworthiness, physical courage as well as moral courage, etc. I've known plenty of people who are racists who are very good people, just as I have known egalitarians who are good people. I judge 'character' as the measure of how likely you'd be to allow someone to babysit your child. We need to get away from personal opinions on race as being thought of as indicative of 'character'.	Nothing, Race	Age - Youngsters, Ethnicity - General	2/115	1.739

Joe Johnson What you described is certainly unethical. Especially, in an Aviation Electronics class. However, in my college experience it wasn't the norm and I have 3 degrees and have taken many additional courses for job related training and personal interests. BTW, my degrees, have nothing to do with matters that involve public health and safety and my first degree was 22 years ago, things are different today. (I just googled the legality of teachers sharing political views...paraphrased below) Apparently, many states forbid teachers to espouse their political views, and require teachers to remain politically neutral. In fact, some of these laws have been upheld in places such as San Diego! On a personal note, I have taken several online classes over the past two years and have not recently experienced a single incident where a professor shared their viewpoint. But as you know it still surely happens, and in your case, I would have called the FAA as well, because that teacher was definitely being reckless. You may agree or disagree, but I will throw another topic into the mix, because I think its relative. I am strongly against teachers, expressing their personal viewpoints about religion in class. In my state it is NOT illegal. But I will take the matter to court if I have to, I do not want my children learning anything about religion in school, unless they are taught about all religions matters of faith or the lack thereof such as atheism. In one view is discussed then all views need equal time to be equally discussed, and just the facts, not opinions. I only want my kids to learn about religion at home or in church. Bill Clinton and Obama are both ex presidents and did absolutely nothing to help this country. Trump is creating jobs and lowering unemployment to get America back on its feet and he's the worst lmao might want to look at past presidents again. This is the first that a pres has negotiated with overseas corporations to bring jobs back. Even tho Obama said it couldn't be done and trump must have a magic wand. David Vazquerz and Craig Smith First of all I would like to thank you for coming to a left wing channel, It shows real character to come and see what the other side is saying, rather than staying in your own echo chambers. I would also like to thank you for voicing your opinions on this section and giving us something to debate. Finally I wish to apologies for the rude treatment that you've been subjected to by mrcluein, Susan B, and Stealth Attack. They don't seem to understand that yelling insults at people doesn't help anyone, and rather makes them dig in their heals rather then opening a line of communication so that we can debate those we disagree with, and possibly change minds or at least come to an understanding with.Now that that's out of the way, please allow me to retort a few points you made. Particularly you Craig Smith.I agree that were not now under a dictatorship, however many of us on the left do fear that we're heading towards a more dictatorial form of government becoming the norm. It's our belief, and it's something that I feel as if the Republicans seem to have lost since Trump took office, that it's the duty of the voting citizen to check the power of our leaders, by calling out their pros and cons, discussing those pros and cons, and then voting on whether we as a collective society believe that their pros are better then their challengers, or if their cons are just to much for us to put up with. The Republicans used to call out Obama for his flaws, and in many cases you where right. But Trump is constantly testing our democracy. He's shown himself to be either inept, like the time he destroyed everyone on seal team five's careers, and put them,their families, and their missions in danger by posting a picture of them on twitter. Or he's malicious like how he even after they where proven not guilty, he still called for the continued imprisonment of the central park five. From what I've seen I believe it's a bit of both.Next, you did say that the Republican party freed the slaves and gave woman their rights. This is only half true and in a flimsy way at that. Lincoln did free most of the slaves, and both the left and right celebrate him for that to this day. However It was democrats under Woodrow Wilson who had power when women started to receive their rights. Also I think it's clear that the left and right switched places on many of the civil rights arguments since the civil rights act passed and the Republicans enacted the southern strategy. The old Democrats where responsible for doing horrible things, like the Indian removal act put into place by former Democratic party leader and president of the US, Andrew Jackson. That lead to one of the worse acts of genocide that the western hemisphere had ever seen. (that's the person that Trump decided was worthy of putting his picture up in the oval office to be a source of inspiration. So I don't think the argument that the Democrats of today are anything like the democrats of those times, or that the Republicans of today are anything like the Republicans that started the party holds much water.Sorry for the long post (I kinda love history) but if anyone has anything to say to farther this conversation I would be happy to listen.	Indian, Old, Woman	Age - Over 65s, Ethnicity - Native-American, Gender - General	3/590	0.508

DeepIn Thought I think you're a little mixed up in your history. Andrew Jackson was long, long before the Civil War, and indeed had little to do with the Civil War, or with either party during the Civil War. There were probably Republicans who idolized Andrew Jackson during the Civil War (because Jackson was very much anti-nullification, in fact he HATED John C Calhoun, who was a darling of the South and was the harbinger of the Confederacy, you might say). In other words, Andrew Jackson, Democrat, was a hero of the Republicans of the Civil War— he and Lincoln had a lot in common. Anyway, I don't really see how you can defend the statement that Republicans of the Civil War are 'not anything like' Republicans of today. I do see a lot of the same racialism in today's Democrat party as existed in the Democrats of the 1850s, but that's another topic.	Common	Social Class - Working class	1/154	0.649
The party platforms never switched. They both used different voting strategies but congressional voting is where you find out where the parties stand and they are the same as they were then with a few exceptions. Like racism. Dems use racism to get votes or offer free stuff. Call the other racist and we will get votes even tho I don't think anyone knows what racism is lol because it's used for insulting a smarter person. Conservative don't use that approach . they use facts and promises of higher paying jobs and less taxes. Which I will tell you now that has never changed. Taxes are always higher during a dems pres term than a rep. Like I said the parties never changed. As for the slavery vote and so.ans rights. Not one dem voted yay to either bill. It was all reps yay and all dems nay. I will look at the book again later and tell u the date and the votes counted on both bills. But same as today if it betters the American people and is good for the economy the reps vote yes and the dems vote no. Like the border funding aid bill. You still saying they switched lol. Why would the dems vote no on a bill that helps illegal immigrants ? Because it doesn't benefit them in any way. I know what I've read is accurate the author is the Senate magistrate book keepers Union. So the votes are accurate yet u try to refute. I'm wondering why. You don't like your parties past? Rioanda None of that is relevant, and none of it means anything. I've served as a police officer for a long time, and I can tell you that just because someone says Person X is an "enemy of the people", this does not make him legally liable in any way for what anyone else does, nor does this provide any sort of legitimization, legally, for any criminal action. Joe Johnson And you just keep on disgracing your uniform... Are you really this daft or are you just playing it? I already stated my points about our Code Talkers. No matter how deluded your tirades get, I will not change my mind. The fact that you continue to attack me for being unable to serve is really making you look like a piece of shite. If you cannot pass the physical you do NOT get to enlist for basic. I had childhood asthma and was too underweight thus unfit to enlist. Plain and Simple. Kudos that your YOUNGEST daughter was able to enlist and serve but like I said things have changed the last decade and a half. Again...Wanna ask Trump why he didn't serve? Or are you too triggered, Snowflake? Is that why you keep talking in circles?	Snowflake	Ideological and Political Identity - General	1/140	0.714

Rioanda LOL 'things have changed in the last decade' and LOL 'I had asthma so I couldn't serve' LOL.... sweetheart, I entered the United States Marine Corps many decades ago, with deformed feet and knee problems to the point that I was told I wouldn't be able to walk by the time I was 25 or 30. I said to hell with that and I worked and I worked to build myself up, and I cajoled/shamed/yelled at the doctors until they finally relented and let me in, and I not only attended but I graduated from the Naval Academy. I knew some of my fellow Marines who had asthma or other physical issues that they powered through and got over, and made excellent Marines. Your mindset is EXACTLY why you never served— your will was not strong enough to overcome your limitations. If you don't even have the instincts and drive to serve in the military no matter what, then you certainly don't have the killer instincts to be a Marine. Again, you're a coward who never served, period. And again, no, the CodeTalkers are not 'yours'. 'My granddaddy did x, therefore they're 'mine'"... whatever. My father served in combat in WWII, and eve I don't consider his unit 'my' unit, because I didn't earn the right to say so. If i didnt, you sure as hell didn't, who didn't even serve.As for Trump not serving, I wasn't even born during Vietnam, but if I'd been of age at the time, I sure as hell wouldn't have allowed myself to be drafted— only the morons went to that war, the smart ones went to college or otherwise stayed out of it. Vietnam wasn't my war, and it certainly wasn't yours. So don't try to use it as an excuse for why you yourself were too cowardly to serve. 'Waaah I had asthma'. Cry me a river. I had much worse and I served. And on top of that, after I was badly injured in Iraq (to the point that I needed massive surgery, and an entire year of physical rehabilitation to recover), on top of that, I was accepted to, joined and served in civilian law enforcement in a large city— I built myself back up until I could run and fight just as I could years before. So get out of here with your 'asthma' story. Your inability to serve has nothing to do with anything physical— it's because you're weak mentally.	Age, Nothing, doctors	Age - General, Age - Youngsters, Nationality - General	3/414	0.725

Michael Dautel it's easy to talk about children in cages and humans being treated like garbage but try to be realistic.What is the alternative?If you were driving in a car under the influence of alcohol and you had a child in your car, you would be separated from your child, as a citizen of the country. If you committed any crime (obviously crime dependant) in a country, you would more than likely be separated from your family.Illegally crossing the border is a crime that will lead to separation from family. Thats the law and it's not a law that Trump made. Get that clear. You seem to only care now but not that Obama did it AND he deported many people too! The media only cares now because they are against Trump.Further to this, the "treating humans like garbage". Do you know what the answer would be to sorting this out? More funding.Trump said that there was a Crisis on the border months ago and the Dems laughed about it and didn't want to give funding. NOW it's such a big thing for them when they are to blame in the first place.The only other solution is open borders and no immigration policy... And that would be the worst thing for America...	alcohol	Behavioural Addiction - Alcohol	1/218	0.459

He has plenty of funding just not for his beautiful wall. You know the wall he never even used the money allocated for during his first 12 months in power that wall. He should get off his Golf-cart and do his Job ! The only other solution is open borders and no immigration policy? You do realize Trump and his Party have controlled all 3 branches of the government and their priority was Tax cuts for Billionaires not the things you cry about NOW? The only solution I can see the Republicans are aiming for is the same FINAL Solution the Last Racist white Supremacist party could not quite accomplish. Michael Dautel that argument is ridiculous to think that Trump created the problem.Go back to a few years ago that both Republicans and Democrats alike called the border problem an issue. It literally has gotten worse, not because Trump manufactured a crisis.This is not about who I associate with but how I see hypocrisy in media and democrats!The whole reason that Trump insinuated the building of a wall and people voted for it is not because of racism but simply because a rise in illegal immigrant poses economic challenges on a country. What im saying is that what he said at its face value was not racist. ”If you are to criticize what Im doing first look at where you originated from. Go back there fix their problems and then come back and tell me what you did and how you did it if it was successful” is what he was saying. Was it right to say, probably not. Should the man learn to hold his tongue or in his case thumbs, probably.Then again if you look at where they actually are from and apply what he said to that instead of immediately assuming he meant out of country(even with this President anything is possible): Ocasio-Cortez is from the Bronx. 2017 report states: The factors include high school graduation rates, obesity, smoking, mental health, unemployment, access to healthy foods, the quality of air and water, income inequality and teen births in nearly every county in America. David Vazquez, Clinton was a terribly uninspiring candidate, who basically approached the campaign with a sense of entitlement, thinking she could stand for nothing and coast in on Obama's coattails. But because she was the heir apparent for so long, it left a lot of time for the right wing to build her up as a boogie man based on all sorts of fake narratives, conspiracy theories, innuendo, outright lies, and some legit bad things. She definitely wouldn't have been my first choice, but if she was president now, the economy would still be where it is, as much wall would have been built as under Trump, but Iran would still be in compliance with the nuclear deal, all the industries Trump promised to help wouldn't have spent the last two years suffering under tariffs, people at the border would be treated more humanely, our international alliances wouldn't be frayed, the environment wouldn't be getting intentionally decimated at the behest of large corporate sponsors and the constant embarrassing spectacle would be replaced with a dignified presence. So not my first choice at all, but I'm convinced 'anybody but Trump' was always a better position than 'anybody but Clinton.' She'd have been, eh, okay. Anyway though, that's all the past. Raoul Fleckman that leaves the real racist party out doesn't it lol. From what I've seen from all of these votes in Congress is the Republican party always seem to vote on bettering America and the democrats always vote on bettering themselves and against America. I will give you 3 examples 2 from the past and 1 recent. 1. Every Republican voted to freeing every slave in the United States , every democrat voted against it. 2. Every Republican voted for woman to have the same rights as men, every democrat voted against it. 3. I'm not sure how much the border Patrol needed for the recent rise in detainees at the border for food beds and more building space but the Republicans voted for it and no surprise the democrats voted against it. You seeing a pattern yet? It's been this way since during slavery which people like to say the parties switched when in fact they didn't cause the same is happening now. The only real difference is Republicans still believe in working hard for what you get and the constitution. Democrats don't believe in anything except what they can get handed to them. Kate D I think you should look up the true definition of hate speech plus historically the republicans were always for ending slavery whist the democrats were always for slavery, they turned it all around thru entertainment and took a typical democrat value based character like the racist Archie Bunker and pretended he was a republican ever since that day they propagandized that fraudulent perspective. You should look into the historical records and you'll find the democrats were always the racists and ever since black people got the right to vote they just turned it all around pretending to be the non racist party in order to enslave the black population thru welfare and other measures to keep them bound to their old masters. By the way it's all theatre, freemasonry runs both sides and is trying to have the country to collapse from within in order to become socialist communist under a global new UN like structure after the third WW now that they helped to build up a worthy enemy in the allies between China and Russia against NATO. Ever since they ridiculed Bill Clinton in front of the nation for an affair to bring down the office of president, ever since they forced in W.Bush to show the elections were corrupt, ever since they had Hillary come out with Obama not being an American born citizen to bring down the constitution and now purposely created the total divide and non acceptance of a democratic elected president not my president. They're slowly breaking the US down from within on purpose. Globalism can't handle freedom of speech, gun rights etc. this is a long social engineering scam and fake opposition theatre and your all falling for it Just look into freemasonry presidents police military media music industry film industry banks religions NASA FBI CIA Fortune 500 companies or the fact that D.C. Is a private Freemason owned city state with Freemason border posts, the world council of freemasonry and a complete Freemason preplanned freemason symbolism planned layout whilst googling the Albert Pike Freemason Luciferian quote from his book reasons and dogma. It's all divide and conquer theatre and you'll falling for it. I'm not even from the US or Americas and it's amazing to me you don't see your living in a total cult controlled theatre country p, neither will you ever crack if this is true, more the 50 of all US presidents openly showed they were members of a secret society a.k.a. A society with secrets and all come from the same old European bloodlines even Obama thru his mother, a luciferian cult and you don't see it. Just like you don't see how Mac Donald's, KFC, Wendy's, White Castle, Whataburger, Taco Bell, Walmart, Unilever, Kraft etc. etc. are all founded by freemasons using food as an official qualified weapons systems. Aralorn Wolf you're doing the tired old worn out Right Wing routine where BOTH SIDES are equally guilty so whatever the Right Wing does they are let off the hook because BOTH SIDES do it, which of course is ridiculous. Now you're calling for a third Party and if you got one how long would it before you'd let the Right Wing brainwash you into thinking they're all equally guilty once more? You know you're like the parent who has two kids. One kid is a regular kid who does regular kid things and messes up in regular kid ways and one kid is the infamous Bad Seed. Literally the kid that ends up causing harm to all those around him or her. But you as a parent treat both kids the same and when the bad seed does something horrendous you go into your BOTH SIDES are equally bad routine and whine that you need a third kid who's absolutely perfect because your regular kid messes up too much like regular imperfect kids are apt to do. That's you with the Republicans and the Democrats. No ability to discern. Republicans run a dude that has a lifetime record of scumbaggery and the Dems run a woman—for the first time in our nation's hidtory—who gave her entire life to public service but she wasn't the absolute perfect child so she deserved to be treated even worse than the fking Bad Seed.Bottom line, you're either too lazy of a parent to take the time to see the obvious difference between your two children or your biased toward the Bad Seed and thusly are working overtime to make them BOTH seem the same. They're left with nothing else but to prove my point. Also, do they ever pick up a book? Their lack of knowledge of basic history and current events is jarring. They're so ignorant, that they literally believe there is only one type of Socialism. They will always mention Venezuela and Cuba, because that's what Fox News tells them. In terms of healthcare alone, Fox News won't tell them that the following countries have already figured out how to provide at least some basic type of service: Australia, Austria, Belarus, Canada, Croatia, Czech Republic, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Iceland, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Luxembourg, Malta, Moldova, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Portugal, Romania, Russia, Serbia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, Ukraine, and the United Kingdom.— Notice Russia is ALSO on that list. Guess who wants to keep Americans morbidly obese, unhealthy and behind the times? Ding, ding, ding!! You guessed it! The world is more complex than what they're learning from Fox News. Of course, we can't expect them to understand. For those curious, yes, I authored this post. I make adjustments as I see fit. My first choice is Bernie Sanders. I'll still vote for any of those candidates in place of Trump. If it upsets some ignorant ass right wingers so be it. Don't act like I just pulled those quotes out of my ass. The reason you recognize them is because we've all heard them countless of times when debating them. So, I say to them: I'm finished trying to educate any of you on social and political issues. You are a laughing stock just like Trump when other world leaders literally laugh at him, (not with him). To the good people out there not falling for the right wing BS, much love and respect to you!
