Ready to pay more taxes? GIVE UP YOUR INSURANCE FROM YOUR PLACE OF WORK? Medicare for all is medicare for none. Gonna get rid of fossil fuel? How ya gonna get to work 29 miles away, how are we going to heat our homes keep air conditioners going, keep the lights on in skyscrapers? lol, the billionaires would have to give up 90 percent of their profit, you really think they’ll keep their businesses in the USA? Ya know how little it will provide if billionaires paid for your medicare for all? Free college? Nothing is free. Who’s going to pay teachers keep the buildings heated, improve when they need it? The government? YOU ARE THE GOVERNMENT PEOPLE! within 10 years with your medicare for all the budget will double...ya know how many trillion dollars we’re in debt now? It won’t happen. Ironic that Sanders is schooling MSNBC on ageism , when HE is usually the person who is the victim of ageism . Nobody defends Bernie Sanders when the mainstream media throws shots at Sanders for being old . I doubt Biden would come to Sanders’s defense on anything, but it highlights why Sanders is simply a better human being.	Ageism, Nobody, Old	Age - General, Age - Over 65s, Age - Youngsters	4/56	7.143

I am at the age 71 years where I see things much more clearly and without conditions based on ego than when I was 25 years old . It is no accident young Americans, the so called millennials love Mr. Sanders. They see wisdom in him. In him they see a linear plan for their future. They see his ideas that take the US out of the slums of the political mind created after the Vietnam war. They see a end to the cold war. With him they can see a future. They see an American future with Bernie. They see their future without pandering to the god of war.	Age, Old	Age - General, Age - Over 65s	2/109	1.835
I don't get how it's ageist to say "pass the torch", I do think it was a desperate statement but Swalwell isn't wrong as boomers and older have been in power forever and are aging rapidly, meanwhile you have the younger generation who're going to HAVE to take the torch at some point and are not being given as much opportunity to run things and get more experience. Boomers have clogged the hole and now gen x, millenials and gen z are stuck having to wait for them to retire (which a good portion aren't doing) or die off (as harsh a that sounds).I'm a Bernie supporter and plan on voting for him or Warren in the primary but I have to disagree with him here; there's a difference between someone dismissing a 35 year old for being inexperienced versus 70+ people who aren't going to live to see the consequences of climate change or the debt we'll be saddled with, we need to be able to start running things.This also ignores that Biden has an old -school mentality which needs to go away. No one is told that they must join a gang or will be murdered thats a lie, but useful lie to treasonous conspirators. We daily, almost, see trumpfs gang sign, yet no one has told truth of meaning, representing his secret gang affiliation cuz esoteric. Street gangs are just that, but mimic hierarchy, behaviors of other gangs, cliques, secret societies, mafias, differing in purpose only. A secret society isnt relegated to street, but can operate throughout govt apparatus, banking, whole social structure. One thing in common is not everyone can or is desired to be one of them. They create restrictions. Higher in hierarchy secret society ppl, govt connected, run these gangs. Otherwise gang members wud be cannibalizing themselves. Majority of asylum seekers are NOT ppl being persecuted nor is their acceptance based on persecution. Eric Swalwell is a joke. So smarmy and politician. And his mandatory buyback program for millions of guns is insane. Assault rifles make up a tiny minority of gun deaths, so even if it was successful it would make almost no difference, and Republicans and rural Dems and others will correctly call it a 'compensated gun confiscation program, WELL COME AND TAKE THEM!!' And as far as age , as Marianne Williamson said, it's about the age of your ideas, but it's also about the quality. Swalwell does have at least one new idea, a politically suicidal gun confiscation proposal. Buttigieg has nothing new other than 18 year terms for Supreme Court justices, which he keeps waffling on. He can't figure out how to get more than 6 black cops to join his PD in a city that's 26 black ?! WOW WHAT A GREAT RECORD. Bernie is right on the age issue and Swalwell should have known better. If you're going to talk about your generation, then talk about the new generation of leadership. Period. Swalwell missed a crucial point of JFK's line about the torch being passed, which he was grabbing on to. JFK made the assertion AFTER he had been elected and inaugurated. He didn't say the torch should be passed, but that it had been passed. The 1960 election had made that a fact. Indeed, both Nixon and he were of a younger generation from FDR, Truman and Ike. After Swalwell is president (which won't be 2021, it looks like) he can make a comment like that in a positive way, as Kennedy did. For this campaign, it was a clumsy and heavy-handed attempt to make Biden and Bernie look unfit for the Oval Office just because of their age. What Swalwell could have done is to ask Bernie by what percent middle-class taxes would have to go up to pay for Medicare for All and by what percentage insurance premiums and medical costs would come down after an eight-year Sanders presidency. Has Bernie ever stated those numbers? If taxes go up 3.7 and costs come down 8.2, well, we should just hold the election tomorrow, because Bernie wins in a landslide. On the other hand, how many Americans fear that what will happen is that taxes will go up 3.7 and costs will come down 0.3 or even continue rising for some years, not because the idea of national health insurance is bad, but because the plan to require everyone to convert from private insurance to government insurance is faulty?	Age, Ike	Age - General, Religious Identity - Jewish	3/279	1.075
---	----------	--	-------	-------

You are missing the part about people not having to pay any premiums to health insurance companies. To say that the out of pocket costs would do down by any percentage you quoted makes no sense. Bernie said this in 2016 but not often enough to get the message across. I'm not understanding what your costs coming down 8.2 even means. I know you meant to be hypothetical but it seems to me that the costs out of pocket would come down 100 if co-pays, deductibles and premiums are obliterated. Please explain because I'm not an expert on this issue. The only costs would be an increase in taxes. Bernie needs to spell this out a bit better so people actually get it. I don't think that people understood in 2016 and do not understand now that they wouldn't have any of the current costs they currently have to pay. But the GOP was afraid that people would figure this out. We know this because they attacked the health care systems in other western countries and made bogus claims against them. Most of that was fabricated or were isolated, anecdotal incidents and atypical. People here were asked to ignore their OWN experience with our health care system—clinic wait times (notice how the mini clinics in stores and malls have sprouted up all over?), denial of care by the insurance companies, exponentially increasing premiums, having to change doctors because your employer's insurance changed, etc. etc. Most of us have had at least one of those happen. That message was not broadcast enough but unfortunately, the negative stuff was, most of which was not true. This is one issue that boggles my mind because I knew ,as you stated, that if anyone actually thought about it, it's a no brainer.	doctors	Nationality - General	1/298	0.336

I thought the thinly veiled attack in the passing torch comment was pathetic and immature especially coming from a little known candidate with little to no chance of being nominated. It came across as a desperate attempt to play the age card as though age is any indication of a person's ethical moral or political leanings. Bernie is a prime example of this as despite his age he is the most progressive candidate with everyone else either appropriating his ideas or re packaging a watered down version. Harris while strong played to sentimentality but that is meaningless if not supported by past actions. The only person who stood up on that stage and spoke to everyone on all the issues across the board, who made it not about himself, who had a grand vision and hope for something better, was Bernie Sanders. Dakota Sanders Bernie has been on the same wave, because he has nothing else. Here's my thing about his signature issue, healthcare. Do I believe that healthcare is a human right? ABSOLUTELY! Do I believe that everyone in the U.S. should have access to affordable healthcare? WITHOUT QUESTION. HOWEVER, let that healthcare be what every individual thinks works for them, not one set system that was set up by a guy who has beef, though warranted in many cases, with the private insurance industry. He even said that YES taxes would be raised, but never gave a number/percentage of how what it would be raised to. That should raise some eyebrows. What if that percentage is something that could effect someone paycheck more that they expected? Here's the reality. IF, and that's a strong if, Bernie gets elected, DO NOT THINK that he will walk into the White House, snap his fingers, and make this happen. The negotiations for this would go back and forth well into, if not dominate his entire first term. Ultimately, there will be a lot of compromises, and I can GUARANTEE that many of his most staunch supporters will turn on him? Why? Because he talked a good game when he was senator, but realized that the games changes when you become President.	Nothing	Age - Youngsters	1/218	0.459

Brent Foster Firat: Let's deal with why he says no to private insurance, you know what is a private company's judicial responsibility? Maximizing profit! If a CEO does anything other than for maximizing the profit of a business he can be held liable in court. Meaning that no Private insurance is going to keep your interest at mind, and your interest, need I remind you, is staying alive. So first you don't privatize healthcare like it's an iphone. It's not a luxury provided by a free market, it's a necessity, provided by wait for it , DRUMS..... SOCIALISSMMMMMMMMMMMMMMMMMMMM. Which by definition means people pooling together for the common good of society. You know what else is not private and is socialized? Police, why? cuz regardless of your income you need their help. So if you leave healthcare to private market, here is what happens, they accept all the healthy people by offering very low prices while rejecting and unloading all the sick people into the public system which means profit for them, bankruptcy for our country and our sick people. Bernie says no I won't play this game with Brent's life. That's number 1. BTW healthcare itself is a socialist idea. No other major country treats healthcare as a commodity. 2, Well let's say I'm your avg Joe: My employer wont give me a raise because he is paying crazy money for my insurance already. Likely, I'm underinsured with high deductible and copayments and premiums, so far I'm not winning with your system. But get this, Pharma charges me 2 times of that of a Canadian, or a French, why? They have power, while we paid for the research behind the drug they are selling us btw. , So I'm not really insured because maybe my deductible is $1000 and I'm part of the majority of Americans one 500 dollar bill away from bankruptcy. So how is this working so far? Bernie says hey Imma change the law and negotiate prices, and all of us will pay through a single payer which has more leverage over negotiations with Big Pharma, saving you drug money, while I'm actually giving you a "Cadillac" plan with no deductibles, no waiting, and bureaucracy, No co-payments, no premiums, just a bit more in taxes and your employer can also give you a raise now. Our people have to call their insurance to see if they can go to their doctors, Canadians call their doctors for that. We can have that same situation here. 3, he is the few candidates in over 200 years in this country who know how to get things done. And he never says imma compromise and make a deal with them, he says I need you to get involved if you want change, and we know that he will be the first president who will stand up to any big power with courage, be it Establishment Ds or Rs, be it top 1, be it corporations Be it the pharma, be it the big agriculture, be it insurance companies, be it wall st, be it fossil fuel companies, be it military-industrial complex. Be it media. No president has ever done this and survived a full term alive. That takes guts to say all these out loud and call on these powers to come and fight you. You dont see how crazy that is? Brent Foster No they wont fold up long as people like you are satisfied with your family's health being used for profit of some capitalists. 2 Medicare went on functioning during the shutdown FYI. You cant say healthcare is a right but these people who are causing thousands of Americans to die are in the "pursuit of happiness", no they are criminals profiting off people's sickness and weakness. Close them down. Again you didn't read my comment addressing how he will have the power to negotiate through a single payer. See if I buy a pen it might be 5 bucks but if you and I pool together to buy pens at wholesale we can get it at 2 bucks. The more of us in the same pool the less we each pay individually cuz of our buying power. Single Payer has immense power. BTW we are not nationalizing Healthcare like UK, we are just nationalizing the insurance which is where our money is pooled to help all of our people. Doctors and hospitals and pharma still work as a free market. But our money will not go to profits of CEO it goes to help anyone sick in our streets.	doctors	Nationality - General	1/201	0.498

You are denegrating the appearance and health of Bernie Sanders? Look at our cheeto in chief now! Don't play this age card because we all know Bernie is not only massively in better shape than Trump but has the stamina to actually campaign every weekend all over the country! Underwater Dilley You just see free stuff, I see an old delusional socialist who would never pass one thing if president. We will never be a socialist country, and all these entitlements will never happen, feel free to donate your money to the 1 pretending to be Robin Hood.	Old	Age - Over 65s	1/49	2.041
Ray Herbst It's a stressful job and one that requires a lot of decision making, traveling and multi tasking. For someone to start their first term at nearly 80 is beyond the age where someone can keep up with those responsibilities. And being president doesn't give you the ability to pass bills, only sign them. He just wants the power like any socialist, he could create bills as a senator if he really wanted to get things done but never did until votes depended on it.	Age	Age - General	1/86	1.163

Brent Foster -Medicare-for-All would still have private doctors, hospitals and freedom to choose docs and hospitals, not exactly like VA. Wouldn't we be better off if we don't have to pay $28000/year for our families and pay less than 50 in taxes while vets don't have to pay anything?- US healthcare system has lower quality than 9 other universal healthcare systems, in terms of healthcare outcomes. We pay more than anyone else in the world and get less.-Bernie's plan provides coverage for mental, dental, eyeglasses, hearing aids, long term care and saves trillions of dollars because instead of paying 25 on admin expenses and paper works, Medicare would pay 3 for a simpler system. Medicare is the most popular healthcare system right now with 77 approval rating, and while VA has many issues to be fixed including hiring more doctors, it still is one of the most popular programs with 78 approval ratings.Today, more than 30 million Americans still don't have health insurance and even more are underinsured. Even for those with insurance, costs are so high that medical bills are the number one cause of bankruptcy in the United States. Incredibly, we spend significantly more of our national GDP on this inadequate health care system—far more per person than any other major country. And despite doing so, Americans have worse health outcomes and a higher infant mortality rate than countries that spend much less on health care. Our people deserve better.We should be spending money on doctors, nurses, mental health specialists, dentists, and other professionals who provide services to people and improve their lives. We must invest in the development of new drugs and technologies that cure disease and alleviate pain—not wasting hundreds of billions of dollars a year on profiteering, huge executive compensation packages, and outrageous administrative costs.The giant pharmaceutical and health insurance lobbies have spent billions of dollars over the past decades to ensure that their profits come before the health of the American people. We must defeat them, together. That means: Joining every other major country on Earth and guaranteeing health care to all people as a right, not a privilege, through a Medicare-for-all, single-payer program.And to lower the prices of prescription drugs now, we need to: Allow Medicare to negotiate with the big drug companies to lower prescription drug prices with the Medicare Drug Price Negotiation Act. Allow patients, pharmacists, and wholesalers to buy low-cost prescription drugs from Canada and other industrialized countries with the Affordable and Safe Prescription Drug Importation Act. Cut prescription drug prices in half, with the Prescription Drug Price Relief Act, by pegging prices to the median drug price in five major countries: Canada, the United Kingdom, France, Germany, and Japan.	Mental, doctors	Nationality - General, Physical Identity - Physical (and Mental) Impairments	5/456	1.096

Meaningful Existence Thank you for continuing to post this. As someone who has been on Medicare now for 2 years, I wish people would talk more about the supplemental insurance we almost all have to purchase in addition to the Medicare Part B dollars that come out of our SS check. Plus, the fees and co-pays and deductibles still exist. I understand that it's still cheaper but the health insurance industry has basically co-opted the Medicare system now as well. Slowly but surely over time, Medicare is being privatized and most people haven't noticed! We need to actually call it for what it is! I haven't heard any candidate say this. Prior to this year, we had Cost Plans, Advantage Plans and Medigap Plans. Last year, they eliminated the Cost plans and I don't know why exactly. I haven't been successful in finding out a good explanation for it. The reason provided didn't make sense to me but I suspect the Cost Plans had to be eliminated for the wholesale takeover to happen. The premiums this year for these Advantage systems range from very little (under $50) a month to really expensive, in the hundreds of dollars a month. Of course, the deductibles and co-pays are higher for the cheaper plans but for someone who is reasonably healthy, those are a good option. Add this to the money deducted from SS and the premiums can be quite high for people living on a fixed income. I realize that this is a lot cheaper than many people have to pay in this country. My complaint isn't necessarily about the dollars but rather how the insurance companies have been allowed to syphon off dollars from what is a Fed program by providing "Medicare benefits." I also know why we have to purchase these plans—because Medicare by itself doesn't cover what doctors, hospitals and clinics charge for services. My point is that we are all in the same boat whether one is on Medicare, employer provided insurance or self-purchase. When I received my Medicare book last fall, I counted 29 pages with 11 different products on a page. That's 319 options and I'm not even counting the Medigap plans! It's extremely complicated and took me many hours over several days to figure out which plan to choose. I had to compare provider networks, drug formularies, co-pays, deductibles, drug costs, etc. And I'm a social worker who used to help clients on occasion do this but it's gotten much more complex with each passing year. There is a new industry whose sole purpose is to help people choose the best plan based on their individual circumstances. This is ridiculous and I don't believe anyone should have to go through this. The Feds have basically handed over Medicare to the insurance companies now and we all should be screaming about it. It's a cash cow for them as the baby boomers have retired or will be retiring in the near future. No one talks about it and I haven't heard Bernie mention this either. Note: I believe that this is one reason why people at Trump rallies held signs that said "Keep your hands off my Medicare." Many of us thought that was stupid at the time. Didn't they know that Medicare was a Federal program? I understand better now why those people felt threatened at losing their health insurance because to them, Medicare IS their supplemental or Medigap insurance company. It's still private insurance as far as they are concerned because they pay a premium to the private

It's odd when some of these johnny-come-lately politicians who nobody heard of three or four years ago start saying that Bernie's too old when these very same people are talking about the very same things that Senator Sanders was advocating when the media thought he was crazy . How can you see this as anything but agist and hypocritical?Mainstream media you gotta give us a break. Your constant attacks and dismissal of Sanders is not honest. If Senator Sanders is willing to work as hard as he is for the American working and middle class people, then I, for one, will be there and vote for the man. BD, if sharp means speaking in platitudes or stealing Bernie's ideas and claim them as their own because theyre unoriginal. Then I'll be dull and stay with the old guy. Seriously Bernie has been staying on the same message for 40 years. I like that he's consistent. Kamala Harris is corporate af. What was her stance on marijuana a couple of years ago, or how many African Americans did she lock up. Kind of hypocritical when she is talking down to Biden about the same issue. Dave Schultz do you ask Republicans how they are going to pay for endless wars? For all of the military equipment paid to defense contractors most of which we don't use? All of the additional money paid to the military industrial complex? How about all of the money we pay to countries like Israel who btw has universal health care? Or the Saudis? Do you ever ask that question? I know you are a troll Dave but just stop with this nonsense. It's so old and most people won't fall for it so no sense in even bringing that up.
